Board of Health Still Active

Three Members Fail to Comply With Council's Request

Although Town Council requested all members of the Board of Health to resign more than a week ago, Dr. H. G. M. Kollock, Herbert J. Watson, and Sergeant Krazier, three of the members, have not resigned. Dr. Raymond C. Reed and Louis L. Curtis, of their resignations to Council a few days ago. The reason for the resignation of the entire body has not been given.

It is understood that replies have been sent by the three members who have failed to comply with the request of Council, but copies of the letters could not be secured. The matter is receiving wide attention, some considering the episode a joke while others consider it of a most serious nature. Several prominent citizens, interested in the town's welfare, express themselves in favor of publicity, giving reasons pro and con.

A prominent citizen in talking with a representative of The Post said:

"The town is too small, the issue of too grave importance to permit of personal bickerings. If the Board of Health is falling in its duty, then the town will surely ask the Council in its request. If, however, it is personalities, the men constituting the Board are too big to be so summarily dismissed."

CLUB WOMEN PLAN WORK

Receive Invitation From Middletown

A special meeting of the New Century Club of Newark was held at the home of the president, Miss Frances Hurd, last Monday, when plans were discussed for the work of the year.

A most cordial invitation has been received from the New Century Club at Middletown, to the members of the Newark Club, to attend the formal opening of the new clubhouse at Middletown on Tuesday, October 24th, at three o'clock.

Plans are complete for the Parcel Post and Sweet Sale to be held in the Opera House store room, corner Main and Academy streets, for the benefit of the Building Fund on Friday, October 27th. Packages sent by friends will be sold sight unseen and much fun is anticipated.

Furlough To Meet Bride

A special from Deming, N. M., states that Lieutenant Robert W. Tomlinson, of the Delaware Infantry, has been granted a twenty days furlough from Camp Deming and left for El Paso, Texas, where on Saturday he was to marry Mrs. Mildred Hutton Bishop of Detroit, Mich. The groom is a physician and a son of Dr. Peter W. Tomlinson of Wilmington, and the bride is a daughter of the late Dr. Hutton, an army surgeon of note in the Civil and Spanish-American wars. His widow lives with her son, a leading business man of Detroit. After the return of the Delaware troops from the border, the couple will reside in Wilmington.

Bake For Benefit Of Music Fund

The ladies of the Parent-Teachers Association will hold a bake in the High School this coming Saturday from two to six. The best cookery the community affords will be on sale to help swell the fund pledged by the ladies of the town, to make up the amount needed for the introduction of music in the schools. The sale is for the benefit of no one organization, but for the entire community, and as such should be largely patronized. Orders may be phoned to Mrs. Firman Thompson, chairman of the committee.

Recruiting Station Discontinued

The recruiting work for men to serve on the Mexican border has been discontinued, Captain Joseph C. Lawson, in charge of the work, receiving orders on Monday to discontinue. The recruiting tent was at once removed from the Court House lawn in Wilmington. The men who have been working with Captain Lawson have been ordered to report at Fort du Pont at once and as soon as another detail of recruits is ready to move West these men will join the Delaware troops at Deming. Captain Lawson will be mustered out of the government service at once.

Major William Marshall, who was the recruiting officer down the state, with headquarters in Dover, closed his office about two weeks ago. His men were sent to Deming, and he followed a few days later and is now on duty with the soldiers as camp surgeon in place of Lieutenant Tomlinson, who has been granted a leave of absence.

Whether the discontinuance of the campaign is an indication of the speedy return of the Delaware troops is not known, neither is it known whether this step has anything to do with return of the troops. The soldiers in their camp at Deming are torn between conflicting rumors about their return and their remaining there all winter. They have been measured for winter overcoats and orders have been placed for winter clothing of all kinds. Stoves are to be installed in their tents, and from this they believe they are going to be kept on the border all winter. On the other hand they understand new troops are to be sent to Deming, in which event they are hoping they will be relieved.

Musical Entertainment By School Children

At a meeting of the Ladies' Committee working for the establishment of music as a part of the curriculum in the Newark schools, held at the home of Mrs. C. O. Houghton, last Thursday, it was decided to give a musical entertainment in the Opera House on February sixteenth. The entertainment will be under the direction of Miss Shepherdson, teacher of music in the Newark Schools, and Miss Rich, of the department of education, Women's College of Delaware. The program promises to be of especial interest, and will give the townspeople an opportunity to see the progress made in music during the first term by the pupils.

Governor Miller Names Representatives

Governor Miller on Monday named delegates to act in conjunction with similar appointments by the governors of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Maryland, looking toward a satisfactory settlement of the milk situation as it exists in all four states. The delegates named are George H. Hall, Secretary of State, representing the State's interests; Professor Harry Hayward, of Delaware College Experiment Station, representing the dairy interests; Samuel Maxwell Harrington, Dover, representing the shipping interests, and Frederick Brady of Middletown, representing the distributing interests.

$11,400,000 To Uncle Sam

Officials of the du Pont Powder Company it is stated, figure that it will have to draw on net profit account to the extent of $9,500,000 to pay its tax under the new revenue act of Congress and about $1,200,000 to meet its share of the income tax on corporations, which total will affect the amount of the dividends due just before Christmas. There are 588,542 shares of the company's common stock among 2213 holders of whom only 228 hold more than 100 shares. Those holding less than 100 shares, number 1925, less than 50 shares, 1735 and less than 10 shares 1130. The tax payment will take a slice of about $16 per share from the dividend. Many of the small holders are employees of the company who have secured the stock through the bonus system.

BOYS AND GIRLS CAPTURE PRIZES

Return With Honors From Springfield

Prizes amounting to seventy-five dollars were captured by the twelve boys and girls, ranging in age from twelve to eighteen years, who represented the Delaware Boys and Girls Clubs at the Middle State Exposition held at Springfield last week. The teams, coached by Mr. Carroll, of the Experiment Station, the three county agents, and Miss Jefferson, made a showing which was extremely gratifying to those in charge of the work. In competition with children from states where the movement has been well-organized for years, they not only held their own, but in one instance, in a class of 97, won tenth place. Ten states were represented at the conference. The honors earned by individuals follow:

Prize of a pure bred Jersey calf, valued from $150 to $200 won by Newman Rose, Newark. (In this class there were 97 entrants, only three of whom were from Delaware. Massachusetts had 35 entrants.)

Judging Market Produce prize of $5 to each of the three members of the Market Garden team, John Clancy, of New Castle county; Ed Todd of Kent county; and Naomi

No cash prizes were given for excellence in demonstrating.

The boys and girls will continue this work, however, during the winter, visiting the various schools and demonstrating "the way it is done in Springfield."

The trip has been pronounced by every one acquainted with the affair a splendid success. Mr. Carroll, who was present during the exposition, was personally congratulated by a member of the Board of Trade, upon the creditable team from Delaware and the general behavior of the boys and girls constituting it.

LOCAL MAN ASKS FOR STATE AID

Wilmington Paper Comments on Conditions in Newark

What promises to be the beginning of the long threatened campaign against health conditions in Newark appeared in today's Morning News in the form of a letter which follows:

Editor Wilmington Morning News: Sir—Large numbers of the people of Newark, Del., in terror lest they fall victims to typhoid fever, have had no means of safeguarding their health save by letting themselves endure the discomfort, and oftentimes illness, resulting from inoculation. A few property owners who care more for their pocketbooks than for the health of their neighbors and of themselves, have thus terrorized the town by opposing the effort of the Board of Health to have the cause of the recent typhoid epidemic removed.

Will something be done before next summer, or will affairs be allowed to drift on until, with the return of hot weather, more preventable deaths shall have occurred?

The criminal negligence or criminal selfishness of somebody in Newark is imperiling the lives of some of the people of the town.

The Newark Board of Health ought to have the backing of the state militia. Won't Wilmington urge legislation at Dover to help protect the lives of the nearly 100 young men and young women from Wilmington who are every fall exposed to the infection that has been discovered by the Newark Board of Health? Won't the rest of the state do something to help us in Newark who are forced to live in daily fear of disease?

Wake up, Delaware!
Frederick J. Pohl,
Instructor in English in Delaware College.

Founders' Day At Women's College

Founders' Day will be observed with appropriate exercises at the Women's College of Delaware, on Saturday, October 28th. The freshmen will plant a tree on the campus—the third class tree for the college and shrubbery will be set out. The plan of the college is to plant trees and shrubbery along the lawn adjacent to Welsh Lane. The outdoor exercises will take place at 2:30 o'clock and at 3 o'clock there will be exercises in the assembly room, with Dean Winifred J. Robinson presiding. The State D. A. R. will present the handsome State flag which they have had ready for the Women's College since last June.

No special invitations are being issued; everyone is invited to be present.

DOCTORS FIND SEAT OF INFECTION

Experiment As To Method Of Transmission

Having established the infectious character of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, the pathological department of Johns Hopkins Hospital is trying to ascertain how the germ is transmitted. It has been definitely ascertained that the seat of infection is in the larger intestine, and that the germ is taken into the system by the mouth, this discovery being credited to Dr. H. T. Burrows.

Transmission of the disease is to be attempted through monkeys. Rabbits have been used in the last two months, and the inoculations have been found to develop paralysis symptoms almost identical with those in the human being.

Dr. Hampel has a theory that candy, ice cream, fruit, and other uncooked foods that children eat, are primarily responsible for bringing the germ into the system. That theory will be fully tested when the physicians have completed their transmission experiments.

CROWDED CONDITIONS AT COLORED SCHOOL

Addition To Building Needed Badly

Crowded conditions are reported at the colored school, which opened about two weeks ago. Ninety-six pupils are enrolled, under the direction of two teachers, Miss A. R. Davis, and Miss C. L. Waddleton. The teachers report that they are greatly handicapped in their work by the failure of the district to accept the offer of $125 from the county commissioners, on the condition that they would raise a like sum, and thus provide the much-needed addition to the school building. The Newark school has been pronounced repeatedly during the last year, by Superintendent Cross, the best colored school under his jurisdiction. A desire to live up to this reputation should stir the colored population to a strenuous campaign to relieve conditions.

Miss Alice Harris, a graduate of Washington Normal School, has been substituting since October fourth, for Miss Davis, who has been ill at her home in Washington. Miss Davis will resume her duties on Monday.

Rifle Team From Deming

Delaware's team in the National rifle matches at Jacksonville has left the camp at Deming, N. M., for the scene of the contests and is constituted as follows: Captain J. Austin Ellison, team captain; First Lieutenant William Berl, Jr., team spotter; First Lieutenant David M. Baxter, team coach; Captain James A. Mackey, First Lieutenants Chas. R. Jefferis, Herbert M. Jones, and Harry B. Smith; First Sergeant F. L. Mannion, Company; Sergeants M. C. Rose, Company D; Joseph Jenkins, Company D; George H. Ferguson, Harvey C. Bounds, Company E; Walter C. Newton, Company G; R. H. Harrington, Company H; Corporals Vaughn Johnson, Company C; and F. C. Davidson, Company H; Musician W. M. Baxter, Company G, and Private John B. Maxwell, Company F.

Community Singing At High School

Delightful Evening Planned for the Public

Good speaking and community singing is the promising program announced by the Parent-Teachers' Association for the open meeting to be held in the High School building on Thursday, October 26th, at eight o'clock. Dr. Counts, head of the new department of education at Delaware College, will discuss "Recent Tendencies in Education," and Miss Shepherdson, the new musical director at the public schools, will lead the community singing. A delightful and profitable evening is anticipated and everyone is cordially invited to be present.

OBITUARY

Daniel D. Newman, Jr.

Daniel D. Newman, Jr., the fifteen-month-old son of Daniel and Alice Newman of Strickerville, Pa., died September 30th of infantile paralysis at the Chester County Hospital, West Chester, Pa. Interment at Chestnut Grove, West Chester.

Samuel Hooper Giles

Samuel Hooper Giles, member of the Sophomore class, Delaware College, died at his home at Elkton, on Saturday, October 14, from typhoid fever. Giles was enrolled in the Arts and Science department and was one of the most popular students of the college. Funeral services were held from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Giles, this afternoon. Interment in Presbyterian Cemetery.

Frederick H. Robinson

Professor Frederic H. Robinson, aged 66 years, who for more than a quarter of a century was head of the civil engineering department of Delaware College, died at his home, No. 911 Jefferson street, Wilmington, on Tuesday, October 17th. Death was due to uraemia from which the deceased had suffered for several years. He only became critically ill, however, several days ago, and his death came as a shock to his many friends. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from his late home and interment will be made in Wilmington and Brandywine cemetery.

Although of a retiring disposition Professor Robinson was well known throughout the State, owing to his long service at Delaware College. When he went to Delaware College as professor of civil engineering in 1890, the only building at the institution was the old dormitory, which is now being remodeled at an expense of $100,000. Professor Robinson resigned as a member of the Delaware College faculty last spring, his resignation taking effect at the close of the college year in June. At the time of his resignation he was the oldest member of the faculty in point of service with the exception of Dr. George A. Harter, for many years president of the institution. For twenty years previous to his resignation he was secretary of the faculty.

The board of trustees of the college, at their meeting in June, elected the deceased professor emeritus. At the same meeting the board accepted a gift of $25,000 from a friend of the college as a pension fund for retired members of the faculty. Professor Robinson was the first member to receive the benefits from this fund.

At chapel exercises at the college on Tuesday Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, president of Delaware College, spoke of Professor Robinson's death and paid tribute to the deceased instructor. The faculty held a special meeting at noon today, when resolutions on his death were adopted and arrangements made for attending the funeral on Thursday in a body. The college flag was placed at half-mast on Tuesday.

Engineers who received their instructions under Professor Robinson and graduated at Delaware College are located in all parts of (continued on page 5)

ANTI-SUFFRAGIST ARGUMENTS PRESENTED

Plea to Continue Unhampered By the Ballot

Miss Lucy Price, anti-suffrage worker of Ohio, was the principal speaker of the evening at the anti-suffrage meeting held in the High School on October 10th. "Miss Price," Mrs. Thompson said by way of introduction, "is a newspaper woman of wide experience and thoroughly acquainted with conditions in her home state. The speaker treated her subject in argumentative fashion. She said in part:

"Early suffrage in this country dates back sixty-five years. The early workers or first group of suffragists, were known as 'Women's Rights Advocates.' What they asked for was the repeal of laws which discriminated against women, rights which all of us believe we should have, and rights which they said could only be gotten by the ballot. They referred to the law which in some states prohibited women from holding their inheritance, laws dealing with the custody of the child, etc.—all of those things which have come—which we have gotten without the ballot.

The second group of workers asks for the vote because they claim, we are better than men, we are wiser, more intellectual, more capable of becoming far-seeing statesmen. This group claims that in twenty, ten, or five years, we should have better government. They claim the granting of the vote to women will advance the temperance movement, give protection to the woman in industry, advance labor for the protection of children and the general moral uplift of mankind.

"Taking up these claims one by one: First, All kinds of temperance regulations have come, and there is absolutely no connection with their coming and suffrage. Eleven states in the Union had adopted temperance legislation before one had adopted woman suffrage; Ohio and Nebraska have stronger temperance laws than any suffrage state, Montana and Nevada, suffrage states, have been pronounced the wettest in the Union.

Second: As to the protection of women. I have heard speakers repeatedly misstate facts. They go among working girls and tell them of the better conditions under which they would work if they had the ballot. My landlady firmly believed that she would get more money for washing my clothes if she had the ballot. In such instances people lie, and lie wickedly. The best laws for women in industry exist where women do not vote. Mr. Thomas, secretary of the Labor Union, once stated to me 'We cannot get an eight hour law for men without first getting it for the women.' In Ohio the fifty-four hour law was made by factory girls without one vote, opposed by the combined vote of the labor unions.

"Third: About our children. Ohio, an anti-suffrage state, maintains that if a child is absent from school or delinquent the parent is responsible, and he is therefore held accountable for the child's conduct. In Colorado, a suffrage state, the child is branded as a delinquent. I once heard Owen Lovejoy say that Ohio (an anti-suffrage state) had the best laws for the protection of children to be found anywhere. Harriett Stanton Blatch the great suffrage leader, herself declares, 'We are foolish to ask for the vote on the ground of changing the laws.' Dr. Shaw asks for it on the ground of individual right—inmate right, declaring even if it affects for the worse, I am still for suffrage. It seems to me a dangerous and unpatriotic thing to say when you ask for it you don't care what it does to your country.

All of our greatest jurists have decided there is no inherent right to vote. I say we have no right to accept the vote unless it will work out for the good of the government. Our loyalty means a willingness to surrender individual right for the good of the state. I believe in equality, but I do not define equality as identity.

"We don't want any discrimination; we want identity under the law.' That is the logical suffrage stand. But all society is one vast partnership of men and women. First, their interests are identical and must be recognized as such; Second, the different parts of the firm have each a work to do. Man's part is that which he can contribute through the ballot; woman's that which she can do without the ballot. Every person who votes does one of two things—he either studies his subject and votes intelligently or pays little attention to the issues of the campaign, and votes thoughtlessly. I campaigned through Ohio last year with a suffragist who assured her audiences over and over again that voting would require only fifteen minutes. Are we going to increase the number of fifteen minute voters or are we going to assume the responsibility of the ballot? To ask us to undertake this much extra work is unfair to us.

"The suffragists are fond of quoting that phrase of the constitution which they declare, classes them with paupers and idiots. There is another group, however, from whom the ballot is withheld, and with whom I am glad to class myself. In fourteen or seventeen states of the nation the members of the army and navy are disfranchised—not because they are incapable of voting, but because the country believes they are doing another work that is just as important as any a voter can do. They can work more unfettered, less pampered, than if entangled with a vote.

"The anti-suffragists ask that we continue in society the same division of labor that has made us a success in industry and commerce. We believe woman is thus freer, less pampered. When we multiply woman's duties we become wasteful and inefficient—we fail to conserve that physical strength which is the only material we have on earth to work with. It seems to us a wicked extravagance. We ask that we be allowed to continue to do the world's work where we can most efficiently, and we ask that Delaware does not pamper us with the ballot."

In special orders issued at Camp Deming on Thursday Captain Robert M. Carswell of the Delaware Infantry, was authorized to report at Camp Furlong, N. M. for examination for appointment as second lieutenant in the regular army.

The river road between New Castle and Delaware City closed for some time while undergoing repairs under supervision of Levy Court member, Martin E. Smith, has been opened to traffic.

Harry M. Pierce has been appointed to succeed the late Major W. G. Ramsey as Chief Engineer of the du Pont Powder Company. Mr. Pierce has been in the du Pont service since 1893 and had been assistant chief engineer since 1905.

Members of New Castle Baptist congregation made Sunday a rally day with special services closing with the burning of the mortgage on the church in the evening.

Wild ducks are reported arriving on the river below Seaford and weather sharps predict the fall's early close.

Fourteen boys of the downtown and Hedgeville sections of Wilmington have been rounded up by Reading Railway policemen and Chief Probation Officer E. Ross Farra, charged with robberies from cars in the West Yards during a few weeks past. One boy has been committed to the Ferris School by Juvenile Court Judge Prickett and hearings for the remaining thirteen were set for today.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Kemp Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Jones, of Dover, and Mr. Thomas J. Mowbray, of Wilmington, younger son of Rev. E. R. Mowbray and wife of Dover, is set for October 30, at 7:30 o'clock in the Dover Presbyterian Church.

Frederick E. Ash and wife of Glynrich, near Richardson Park, were sorely afflicted on Thursday by the loss of their eight-year-old son and their five-year-old daughter, from double pneumonia, the former dying at 5 a. m., and the latter at 11 p. m.

Sent on an errand to a grocery store, a square distant from her home on Wednesday Eleanor, the four-year-old daughter of W. A. Henkel, of 305 West Thirteenth street, Wilmington, was pushed off the pavement by another girl and fell under the wheels of a heavy bakery wagon which crushed the calves of her legs.

Three-year-old F. Beth Lankford was badly injured at her home near Seaford, one day last week. While seated at the table she toppled from her high chair. Her father who was passing with a bucket of hot water, spilled it on her as he grabbed at her to stay her fall. Hopes are felt for the child's recovery.

George F. Marsh, Agricultural Agent for Cecil county for two years past, resigned last week and left for Toronto, Canada, where he will make his home.

The Town Commissioners of North East, have invited bids for a concrete road bed through Main street in that town.

With the view to having the State road through Elkton improved by the State Roads Commission the Town Council had a count made on October 7 and 8 of motor vehicles passing at Main and Bridge streets where a total of 1,054 was noted, of which 90 per cent were foreign cars.

Dr. Vernon H. McKnight of North East, and Miss Helen S. Burkle of Elkton, were married in Trinity Church, Elkton, on Tuesday evening of last week by Rev. William Schouler.

Mr. Joseph C. Pennock and Miss Elsie D. Hargan, both of Elk Mills, were married at the home of the latter's parents on Saturday evening, October 7.

B. B. Kilmon, a P. B. & W. R. R. special office has been assigned to duty at Elkton station to prevent annoyance of wedding couples by jitney drivers and their runners.

S. Hooper Giles, elder son of Postmaster O. C. Giles, died early on Sunday morning at Union Hospital, after two weeks illness with typhoid fever, to the regret of his own and his parents' many friends.

Fix November Milk Price
The wholesale price of milk, to take effect in November, was fixed at 5 cents at the farm and 5 1-2 cents on the platform by resolution of the Delaware Milk Producers' Association at a meeting held in Wilmington on Saturday. A proposal to fix the price for the next six months was rejected as impracticable, owing to the rising cost of feed. George D. Medill, J. A. Weldin and J. F. O'Neil were appointed a committee to explain the situation to Governor Miller and another was also named to request the Attorney General to stop the sale of milk by dry measure. Producers of Delaware and from nearby sections of Pennsylvania will attend a general conference called for October 28. A resolution was adopted at Saturday's meeting approving of ten cents a quart as the retail price for milk.

Destructive Fires Near Seaford

Fire caused, it is thought, by a faulty flue, destroyed the dwelling and outbuildings on the farm of Horace Short, about four miles from Seaford last Tuesday morning with all the household effects and most of the family's clothing. A high wind carried the flames to the stables which were soon destroyed. Some of the farm implements stored in the outbuildings were saved with the aid of neighbors. The loss is put at $3000 with partial insurance. Fire of unknown origin on Friday night destroyed the store and stock of C. M. Kinnaman at Bucktown, near Seaford. Nothing was saved from the flames.

A Wonderful Feed

NO MIXING NO BOTHER
Will positively produce more milk than any other ration either home mixed or purchased, and do it without giving your cows constipation or other trouble. Ready to use right out of the sack without any mixing or bother.

Larrod Feed

Absolutely free from adulterants and fillers. Just like the feed you would mix for yourself, in a special combination of choice cottonseed meal, dried beet pulp, gluten feed, corn distillers grains, wheat bran, wheat middlings and a little salt, that's all, each ingredient weighed by automatic scales and all thoroughly mixed in huge power-driven mixers, so that it is always absolutely uniform, and always good. An extra quart or two of milk daily from each cow may turn a loss into a profit. Try LARROD FEED for more profit. Send us a card of "Larrod Feed" if you are not satisfied.

Social Note

Last Thursday evening a party of college girls were the guests of Miss Margaret Cook at a supper at White Clay Creek church. Mr. Cook took the girls to the supper in his automobile truck which was filled with straw for the occasion. A jolly time was the verdict of everyone.

The Bonfire given last Saturday night by the Junior Class of the Women's College in honor of the Freshman Class was a most delightful affair. The entire Freshman class of Delaware was invited and more than a hundred in individual invitations sent out. Many were accepted and there was a large crowd present to enjoy the pleasures of the evening.

The large bonfire was started at the early part of the evening as spent around the warm and cheering blaze. "Doggies" and marshmallows were present in great abundance and much "roasting" was engaged in. Hot coffee was also served.

Later in the evening every one went to Residence Hall and enjoyed dancing until the "curfew" rang.

All present declared the evening a great success.

Temporary Superintendent Appointed

Mr. Hannas, Rutgers, 1916, has been appointed temporary superintendent of the North American Egg-Laying Contest, and is already endeavoring to familiarize himself with the duties which begin on November 1. Mr. Hannas will have charge of the competition until the return of Mr. H. V. Corey, instructor in charge of the poultry department, who is now convalescing from a severe case of typhoid fever.

A number of records are being broken this year in the North American Egg-Laying Competition. The best record for a pen of hens last year was 1211 eggs. The mark has already been passed in the forty-ninth week of the competition, and the record will probably approach 1300 eggs in a year. It is being made by a pen of White Wyandots, owned by the famous breeder, Tom Barron, of Maryland.

Ebenzer People Announce Supper Date

The ladies of Ebenezer Church hold a Poultry Supper in the basement of the Church on Thursday evening, November 16th. Supper from five until nine.

Card Of Thanks

Mr. William J. Moore and family wish to extend their thanks to the many friends for kindness shown them during their recent bereavement.

Dancing Class To Begin

The first meeting of the Thursday evening dancing class under the direction of Miss Catharine Maull, of Lewes, will be held in The Armory on Thursday evening, October 19th. The class for juniors will be held from seven to eight o'clock; the adult class from eight to eleven. A series of five lessons will be given, the members being free to take single lessons if desired.

THE TRIP TO SPRINGFIELD

Sight-seeing And Judging Fills The Days

John Clancy, Newark's representative of the School-Garden class, who made the market judging team, sent by the government to represent Delaware at the Springfield Exposition, gives a glowing account of the trip. The party of twelve Delaware boys and girls, under the chaperonage of Mr. Stanley, government representative and Miss Jefferson, extension worker, left Newark last Wednesday morning, as guests of the government. The party stopped over several hours in Philadelphia, in making a change of cars, visiting during their stay in the city Independence Hall, Wanamaker's Store, the Betsey Ross House, Franklin's grave, and old Christ Church. They left Philadelphia at 1.20, stopping for an hour in New York, and arriving at Springfield about eight o'clock.

The twelve young people from Delaware and nine from Pennsylvania were entertained at a private home in Springfield. Thursday morning was spent in seeing the sights of the city—the State House, the place where the famous Springfield rifles are made, etc. Thursday afternoon and all day Friday was spent at the Exposition grounds, where the showing as reported in another column, testified that Delaware had sent a team worthy of the commonwealth.

NEW MAGAZINE APPEARS

"The Art World" An Instant Success

The endowed art movement in New York, which publishes the "Art World" has met with an instant success with its first issue, that for October. It is a beautiful magazine, beautifully printed and illustrated. It answers the need of a standard by which to judge all art; Ruckstuhl, the famous sculptor, writing at length and giving a simple method. A few "horrible examples," reproductions of art work as it should not be, adds to the clearness of the definitions.

The frontispiece is a wood-cut by Timothy Cole, large enough for framing and there are pictures of Bartlett's sculptures for the House wing of the National capitol; of the portrait statue of Emerson, of Coles' series; "The Voyage of Life", and of plans for making water towers and gas tanks objects of beauty at little cost. August Thomas shows what makes a play good or bad and how it is made so. Kenyon Cox writes of painting in a masterly way, treating the subject historically and with analysis of success in the art. The article as to the private life of Emerson, another, a study of art impulses in the insane, and the beginning of a serial as to the aesthetical ideal, translated from the French, are all effective and interesting. A bit of local interest is given to the number by the publication of a sonnet by Owen R. Washburn of Elkton, which we are reprinting.

The Comforter

(Owen R. Washburn in the "Art World")
Beauty is best for solace. The torn mind
Heals not at words of fellow-sufferers near,
Nor joys in arguments which leave naught clear
Save that the truth no man as yet can find.
Dawning regal splendor and the morning wind,
True woman's smile, deep peace
as stars appear,
Sweet-breathing flowers, girl-
grace, the awakening year,
Marble that lives; in these is Beauty kind.

As grief points downward to the new-made graves
Art leads to heights whence Heaven itself is seen,
And Nature, picturing all the soul
most craves,
Makes our complaining seem but weak and mean.
Then though my cup be filled from Sodom's sea
Beauty revealed shall cheer and comfort me.

the world. In his work as an instructor Professor Robinson stood for thoroughness above everything else. He insisted that the students in his classes should have a knowledge of what ground they covered and consequently the student who graduated in civil engineering at "Old Delaware" was well prepared. The number who made good and now holds responsible positions in all parts of the world is a tribute to the work of the deceased professor as an educator.

Professor Robinson was born in Wilmington, August 28, 1850. He was the son of Emma and Joseph Robinson. His wife, who survives him, was Miss Sara Mendinall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mendinall. Julian B. Robinson, of Wilmington, and Howard R. Robinson, of New York, are brothers of the deceased.

Professor Robinson attended the Wilmington public schools and graduated from Polytechnic College of Pennsylvania located in Philadelphia, which has been out of existence for some years. He graduated with the degree of B. C. C., and in 1883 the degree of Master Civil Engineer was conferred on him by his Alma.

After graduating the deceased went with the Pennsylvania railroad and became assistant engineer of the Pittsburgh division. He later returned to Polytechnic College as professor of mathematics. Years ago he was connected with the Edge Moor Iron Works and was also at one time chief engineer of the Department of Engineering and Surveying of Wilmington. For a time he was in the engineering business in Wilmington under the firm name of Canby and Robinson and later became assistant engineer of the Maryland division of the P. B. & W. railroad. From there he went to Delaware College as professor of civil engineering in 1890.

The deceased wrote a portion of a text book on surveying and also a number of literary and scientific essays. He was a member of the Young Men's Republican Club, an honorary alumnus of Wilmington Friends School and a member of the Society for the promotion of Engineering Education. He was a Friend.

FOOD PRICES STILL SOARING

Predictions Of Manager Of Flour Company

Flour, now selling at $9.20 a barrel, a figure which has caused bakers in all parts of the country to raise their prices for bread, will probably reach $12 a barrel according to Tully C. Estee, eastern manager of the Washburn-Crosby Company, one of the great flour milling concerns in the country.

The advance will be due, he says, to the great increase in the price of wheat, which has fallen short in both quality and quantity during the spring and summer and also of course to the great amount exported to Europe.

"Dictated by wheat values," said Mr. Estee, "it is very possible and appears to be well indicated that flour values will reach $12 a barrel."

The great milling companies will not profit by the high prices, but will probably lose money on account of them, it was pointed out yesterday by flour milling men, as the companies are compelled to buy their wheat at the prevailing price, and the men to whom they sell their flour drive a much harder bargain than when flour is $4 or $5 a barrel, as it was in 1907.

Calls For Embargo On Exports
The amount of flour exported to Europe is about the same as last year, but the price has gone up from $6 last year to $9.20 and $9.30 a barrel now, and bids fair to reach $12 before the rise is over.

Only a Federal embargo, the end of the war, or the opening of the Dardanelles to permit the passage of Russian wheat will greatly relieve the situation. Statistics show that next year there will probably not be enough wheat in the country to satisfy the demands of Europe and those of this country.

The outlook in the sugar field is slightly more encouraging. Charles M. Warner, president of the Warner Sugar Refining Company, predicted a slight decrease in price from present figures during November. Refined sugar now sells for about 7 cents a pound wholesale.

Should Feed America First
Predicting further skyrocketing of food prices, Joseph Hartigan, commissioner of weights and measures, has declared himself in favor of a federal embargo on foodstuffs.

"Prices will continue to rise," says Mr. Hartigan, who is secretary of the mayor's food committee. "By Jan. 1, 1917, they will be 60 to 70 per cent higher than they were at the beginning of the European war, and 15 to 20 per cent higher than they are now."

"The only relief, as I see it, is in federal restriction on edibles sent to Europe. We certainly should feed America first and at American prices."

"Labor unions, women's clubs and many special organizations will demand an embargo. I will do all I can to further it. Why, food prices are higher than they have ever been in this country, except in time of war."

How the cost of living has soared was told statistically in figures received at the commissioner's office yesterday from the Department of Agriculture. Prices in general are about 21.9 per cent higher than a year ago, 14.3 per cent higher than two years ago, and 18.6 per cent higher than the average for the last eight years.

Meat 19 per cent Higher
Meat animals are about 19.4 per cent higher than a year ago, 5.4 per cent higher than two years ago and 8.7 per cent higher than the average for the last six years. Here are the department's figures and the change in prices of foodstuffs in the last year, the first figures showing the cost per bushel in 1915 and the second in 1916:

Wheat, $0.95, $1.312; corn, $0.773, $0.836; oats, $0.885, $0.431; barley, $0.519, $0.729; rye, $0.855, $0.997; buckwheat, $0.814, $0.864; white potatoes, $0.505, $1.093; sweet potatoes, $0.846, $0.899; apples (per barrel), $1.77, $2.31; peaches, $0.854, $1.149.

UNCLE SAM'S OFFER TO HOMESTEADERS

Over 250 Million Acres On Hand

Uncle Sam still has considerable land to give to the enterprising citizen, man or woman, who wishes to establish a home. Secretary Lane recently announced that more than a quarter of a billion acres of land remain in the public domain, according to official figures compiled by the General

Land Office. This land is located in 25 different states. All but 2, 290,000 acres of it are in the far West, with Nevada containing the highest acreage. An even dozen of the extreme Western States alone hold more than 250,000,000 acres. The exact amount of land that is unreserved and unappropriated, according to the official figures, is $254,945,589 acres. Of this amount, approximately 92,000,000 acres are unsurveyed.

The total area of unappropriated in the 25 public-land States is reported as follows:

State	Acres
Alabama	42,680

A HUSTLING TOWN IN THE WEST

As Seen By A Local Soldier Boy

The "city" of Deming, New Mexico, is situated on a level plateau about ninety miles west of El Paso. It is surrounded on all sides by a range of mountains that at some points of the compass can just be distinguished looming above the horizon. The nearest mountains are the Floridas, which lie to the southeast about fifteen miles, half the distance between Deming and Columbus. The plain on which the city is located is 4500 feet elevation. The air is light and dry, the section is noted for its healthful climate for tubercular patients. The land lying between Deming and the mountains is prairie grazing land. The vegetation consists of cactus, yucca, tumbleweed, and sage brush. At this season of the year everything is green, due to the recent rainy season. It reminds one of spring in the East. This vegetation forms the food for the cattle that graze at random over the vast stretch of land.

There are three railroads that pass through Columbus, namely The Southern Pacific, The Santa Fe, and the Columbus road. Both the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe run to El Paso. There is some difference though in the length of the roads between Deming and El Paso. It is ninety miles by the Southern Pacific to El Paso, and 138 by the Santa Fe to the same city. Naturally the Southern Pacific is the more popular.

The people of Deming are an easy-going, good-natured sort, but when once crossed, look out! They are sincere in all they say and do, so one may imagine the sort of enemy they would be. The attitude of the country seems to be reflected in the height of the men for the majority of them are six feet or more tall.

The Sheriff is a man of about 6 feet 2 or 3, weighing about 200 pounds! The residents tell great stories of his bravery and strength. They say nothing fazes him. Just yesterday he shot a Mexican because the Greaser wouldn't halt when he was commanded to. He quietly walked up to the wounded man, looked him over and called for someone to bring a stretcher. So you see he is to be obeyed. One of the fellows says if he were told by any of these westerners that the moon is made of green cheese, he would waste no time in contradiction. We have concluded "While in Rome" etc.

Most of the inhabitants of Deming are either merchants or retired ranchers. The coming of the soldiers has been quite a boom for the town. The stores are up to date. They seem equally as good as any in Wilmington. One can buy anything from a mountain burro to an automobile. Everybody in this section buying a Ford immediately removes the top, leaving the body exposed. These cars are known as "September Morns" throughout the neighborhood.

Deming is called a city. It seems that a place in the West containing even a couple of thousand is called a city. The permanent population is 4500. The streets are extremely wide and the houses on each side low. The majority of them are one story. The business section is mainly on three streets. All of the streets running east and west are named after trees while those lying north and south are named after metals. The city is so laid out that it covers three square miles.

As one comes in from camp, by way of the station and passes up Silver Avenue, he can see at the far end of the street the Luna County Court House. Looming beyond the Court House is Capitol Dome, a peak in the Floridas, so named because of its resemblance to the dome of the U. S. capitol. A little north of the Court House is the county jail. Here seven Mexicans were hanged, convicted because of their share in the Columbus raid. There is a little, one-legged Mexican boy, who is frequently seen hobbling about the street on his crutches. He held Villa's horse for the bandit during the raid. The lad was hit by an American bullet, which necessitated the amputation of his leg.

Many of the poorer class of people, and some of the wealthy class as well, build their homes of adobe, a kind of fine dirt that when mixed with a certain proportion of water forms a clay. When dried it is very hard. Of course it would not last in a moist climate, but here, where it only rains about one month out of the year, adobe forms cheap and serviceable building material.

The native "animals" of Luna County are rattlesnakes, horned toads, centipedes, lizards, vinegaroons, and tarantulas. Several of these are poisonous, but we haven't become interested enough to find out which are and which are not. Several of the fellows are making collections, curing the specimens in alcohol. We have some fine diamond back rattle snake skins preserved.

As the name of the county indicates, it would be hard to find a place where the moon shines brighter than here. Moonlight nights are about as light as day. The starlight, too, seems unusually bright, so that the nights are never very dark. The air is so clear the heavens do not seem far above us.

There is but one disagreeable thing about the country—the sand. When a gale of wind gets under the sand it makes things uncomfortable for a while. It is impossible at such times to distinguish objects over one hundred miles away. Clothing, newspaper, etc., are carried on. Eyes, ears, nose, and mouth are filled with the stuff. It is then that one thinks of home.

Trees are a luxury here. There are a few in Deming, but out across the prairie there is nothing but sand and cactus. Occasionally one sees a tree at a ranch house, but as these are ten or fifteen miles apart, they are not of much solace to a traveler.

Kalish Hears Criticism

A common criticism of motion picture acting is that the actor does not feel the inspiration of an audience, the handclapping and silent applause of many eyes. Pantomime actors, however, usually feel a greater force behind their work by merely making a mental note that they are "speaking" to more persons in making one picture that they would perhaps in a whole lifetime in spoken parts on the stage.

But Mme. Bertha Kalich, now appearing in moving pictures under the presentation of William Fox has found still another proof of the broader scope in motion pictures. During the filming of her latest work, "Slander," it was necessary to take some out-of-door scenes in a small New Jersey town. After the work was finished—a wonderful bit of emotional acting by the great artist—Mme. Kalich remarked that for the first time in her dramatic career she had actually heard remarks about her acting while she was acting.

The audience of villagers on the "side lines" could not refrain from expressing their opinions of the great star's work while she was acting. These remarks were heard clearly by the actress.

Is the dry-mash system the best, and how does skim milk compare with meat scraps for protein? Ah, Lady Eglantine, what hearts you broke because all lady leghorns were not like you on the nest!

The departed is known to be survived by nine sons and three daughters. Of these the sons are most cherished, for by Mendel's law the virtues of the mother are transmitted through the sons. Perhaps the nine are great fellows, but it is unlikely that they will ever have rooms at hotels, or staterooms in Pullmans, or a monopoly of blue ribbons, as Lady Eglantine had. She was a great bird and the shows will miss her.

Sureness Spells Speed!

When you set out to make a call in person, you always assure yourself that you have the right address.

In telephone-calling, equal sureness as to the proper telephone number saves not only time but positive annoyances both to you and to the person who may be called in error.

The sure way is first to consult the directory carefully—not trusting to memory—and then listen carefully while the operator repeats the number back to you, correcting her if she has misunderstood.

Then, too, at times, when a number is called in error, it is well to remember that the person called to the telephone by mistake is never at fault and deserves the utmost courtesy.

ALBANIA IN STARVING CONDITION

An Appeal For American Assistance

The following appeal comes from The Balkan Relief Fund, with request for its publication:

While the people of the United States have been sending thirty million dollars' worth of relief to Europe and Turkey, two hundred thousand women and children in Albania have died of starvation.

While each woman and child in Belgium has had plenty to eat, women and children in Albania have gnawed at the carcasses of dead horses in the streets.

William Willard Howard, of New York, who has returned from his third trip to this hunger zone of Europe, predicts that the entire population of Albania will die of famine and pestilence unless helped. He says that in Albania corn is fifty dollars a bushel, flour eighty dollars a sack, and macaroni five dollars a pound.

"The tragedy of Albania," says Mr. Howard, "is that a nation is dying of hunger, while the people of the United States, laden with gifts for the rest of Europe and for Turkey, pass by on the other side."

"Thirty millions of dollars have been given by the people of the United States for relief work of various kinds in Belgium, Poland, Armenia, Syria and the warring countries of Europe, while two hundred thousand women and children in Southeastern Europe have starved to death unheeded and uncared for. Not one woman or child has died of hunger in Belgium; two hundred thousand in Albania."

"Is it fair—is it human—that the innocent women and children of Albania, who never did anyone wrong, should be perishing, at a time when all others are fed?"

"Is this American fair play?" "I have appealed for help in high places. I have begged crumb of bread of those who have given millions to Belgium, Poland, Syria and Armenia. I have begged in vain."

"The Albanians are as much entitled to sympathy and help as others. They have not taken part in the war. They fed and sheltered the refugees from Serbia, even with the last measure of corn that the famine-stricken villages possessed. They have not done any wrong; yet armies have swept over their country, taking what could be found to take, leaving to the starving women and children only the carcasses of dead horses in the streets.

"I ask only American fair play for the famished children of Albania. I ask of all fair-minded men and women in the United States: Why should the Albanians—three hundred thousand of whom are Christians—be left to starve, while we press forward, in generous rivalry, to feed the others? The Albanians are more numerous than the Armenians; yet we feed the Armenians and let the Albanians starve."

"Having appealed to deaf ears in high places I now appeal to the plain people—to fair-minded men and women who would not let even a dog starve to death, no matter what his breed. I want to go back to Albania with a shipload of food. I have arranged for a ship—a new American ship, just launched and fitted for sea. The ship is ready and waiting."

"A number of distinguished gentlemen in New York—mostly clergymen and editors of newspapers—will co-operate in an appeal for a relief cargo for the ship. The treasurer selected to receive contributions is the Rev. Frederick Lynch, D. D., editor of The Christian Work and secretary of the Carnegie Church Peace Union. Contributions in any amount—from the price of a loaf of bread upward—may be sent to the Balkan Relief Fund, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City."

Tears For Lady Eglantine

All rural real-estate men, professional abandoners of farms, and owners of moving-vans will shed at least one tear at the new of the dead host a titled female who was their true friend. Lady Eglantine was as great a help to the back-to-the-land movement as Liberty H. Bailey or the author of "Three Acres and Indolence"; or isn't that quite the name of the book?

This white-leghorn hen, which has just passed away in the fullness of years and honors at her Maryland home, was the standard of calculation for all cliff-dwellers who planned to accept an easy living from the soft brown hands of the earth. In her pullet-year she laid 315 eggs. Why she lolled unproductive for 50 days was not explained; anyway, 3155 eggs was good enough. Therefore 1,000 hens, each laying 315 eggs, would produce 26,250 dozen a year, and as eggs are bringing 50 cents a dozen or more, there you have a

Suppose she is. Do our antis mean to say the Bible teaches that woman derives her power and dignity and rights, not from God but from man? The Scriptures do not say so. The text deals with "glory." Paul writes it. He wrote in a time when there was no voting; just after Jesus of Nazareth had been put to death for advocating that all are brethren and no one is superior to another. He did not even teach that man was superior to woman, or over her. Paul was laying down a lot of rules of good manners in church. A woman must not pray to God unveiled. If a man did not cut his hair short he was dishonored. Woman should have long hair. A woman must have short hair unless she be veiled. He justified his position by saying that the man is the head of the wife. His opinions ought to be observed as divine commands or they ought not. If Paul is to be obeyed no woman shall get up in prayer meeting without her veil on, or speak in meeting with both short hair and a veil. If we break the divine command of Paul as to these, we are as guilty as we would be if we allowed women to vote.

Yet Paul indicates a truly Christian doctrine when he says in that same chapter: "Nevertheless neither is the woman without the man, nor the man without the woman, in the Lord." The antis read that chapter, overlook the verse quoted above, expect us to think of woman as good enough to go, "in the Lord" and to the Lord, with man but not to go to the voting booth with man. Presumably, from this logic, the voting booth is more holy to the man than is the Lord, for he can take the "inferior" woman to the Lord but he can't take her to Kelley's grocery store where the sacred man is voting.

The whole matter comes back to the question whether women are people. The Mohammedans and the anti-suffragists say they are not; the Turk keeps his women for pleasure of men, the antis in Newark quote the Bible to prove that the woman is the glory of man and secondary to the man and "man's glory"; a doctrine which is partly practiced in anti-suffrage states and fully practiced where the Chinese, Hindus, Turks and other "heathen" keep a dozen or fifteen wives in a house and never let them know they have any right to a share in the conducts of human affairs.

There is an explanation of the queer phenomena presented by the spectacle of anti-suffragist women running around, pleading with men to refrain from giving them liberty. The anti sentiment has in men a basis in the fear that the whiskey business and the vice-resort business will suffer, a fear on the part of certain clergy that the freeing of women as to politics will result in the emancipation of women from the domination of the clergy over women in secular matters, and a belief that woman is naturally a mere bundle of flesh made to serve and give sensual pleasure to man, just as the anti who quoted from Corinthians implies. The final basis is stupidity. Suffrage is strongest where schools are best, anti-suffrage is strongest where ignorance is strongest.

The woman anti is a product of an inherited desire to be dominated. In millions of years of cave and tree-dwelling life it must have been the ardent desire of the normal woman to be caught, clubbed and dragged off to a cave or hut to be the woman of some strong man. That fervent expectation and hope of matrimony, held through ages, persists unreasonable in civilization. True descendant, spiritually and in instinct, of the age of squaws, the anti woman pleads that man may have dominion over her now. Even the married ones still preserve the ape-man instinct. The rest of the woman anti's attitude is wholly stupid. Stupidity is the main reason why any sane person objects to being given freedom to do a thing or not to do it. It is the attitude of the slave, the child and the imbecile. I once knew a very fine man who asked his friends to keep a padlock on his coat to prevent him taking it off; if the lock was forgotten he had more freedom than he wanted. However, he was crazy. The anti, quoting scripture or not, is a survival of the age of flint when women were protected with a club and stayed at home because if they did not they would be beaten.

Whereabouts Of Recent Delaware Graduates

J. H. Salevan, '16, of Milford, Del., has been tendered the position of an instructor in agriculture in the Chestertown (Maryland) High School; but having undertaken the management of his father's farm, he has declined the offer.

Harry Grieves, '15, is one of the supervisors for the Barret Company, in making and repairing of improved roads in Delaware.

L. G. Mulholland, '16, is now pursuing graduate study in the University of Wisconsin, and writes his former instructors at Delaware very enthusiastically of his work.

Delaware Y. M. C. A. Holds First Meeting

The first of a series of round table discussions of religious topics by members of the faculty of Delaware College was held in Purnell House Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Dean Laurence Smith was the speaker, and his short talk on "What is Christianity?" was very interesting to the fifty students who were present. After Dean Smith had concluded his remarks, the meeting was thrown open, and an active discussion took place. Similar meetings, under the leadership of various members of the faculty, are to be held every Sunday evening, and the success of the first gives promise that they will become a popular and influential factor in the college life.

Delaware Loses First Home Football Game

In a listless and one-sided game, Delaware suffered her first defeat of the season Saturday at the hands of Western Maryland by the score of 16-0. At no time during the game did the Delaware eleven show the aggressiveness which so evidently characterized their play at Chester the preceding Saturday. It was largely due to this fact, and to the spirit of overconfidence that prevailed among the team, that the "Blue and Gold" did not put up a better game. From the moment that Western Maryland tallied by the field goal route there was no doubt as to the final victor. These three points took away whatever fight the Delaware boys did have left and it was not a difficult matter for the Maryland team to score after their first tally.

And so this is Kells

Where Master Craftsmen study and work at the Art of Printing

Here, out in the open country with light, air and sunshine, boys and girls, work and study. They have the snarling details and drudgery but it is reduced to a minimum. With the best machinery that money can buy, with an interest in their work, with their mind at their task,—they have lots of fun and succeed in turning out pieces of printing that attract the attention of an increasing trade. More and more, people want their printing done well. More and more are we able to satisfy that desire.

Head, Heart and Hand, moulded into our Imprint, is being stamped into our lives and our work
