Mrs. Hilles Visits Newark

Talks on Suffrage at Opera House

Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, noted suffrage worker of Wilmington, visited Newark last Saturday and spoke in the Opera House at two thirty. Mrs. Hilles met the course of her talk met the objection that the ignorant vote is already too large with the statement, "There are 50,000,000 women in the United States. Statistics tell us that only 2,000,000 of these are illiterate. The figures prove that our girls as a whole, are better educated than our boys."

Mrs. Hilles also defined the policy of the "Congressional Union" which seeks to work through the party as a whole, whether it be Democratic or Republican, as contrasted with the method adopted by the "National Suffrage Party," which seeks to convert the individual. When one realizes that the latter policy in the New York State campaign led to the necessity of printing literature in nine different languages, the loss in time and money is evident.

Mrs. Hilles referred to recent suffrage play given in New York, by which $8000 was cleared to carry the campaign through the country. The speaker quoted a dialogue between Mayor Doolless, and Melinda, two of the characters in the play, in which Melinda asks the Mayor if the late Mrs. Doolless was not the equal of his stableboy in intelligence. Doolless storms against her insult to the dead until Melinda silences him by saying it is he who insults his wife's memory by considering her politically inferior to the lowest type of men.

Relief For Belgians Urgently Needed

The urgent need of relief for the Belgians is called to the attention of the people of Delaware in a statement made by former Judge David T. Marvel, chairman of the Delaware Commission for the relief of the Belgians:

"The commission was never so persistently applied to as at present for contributions to help relieve the destitute in Belgium and Northern France.

"Under these conditions the commission feels that they must keep the need of help before the public. While many have conated, the great mass of people have not as yet made their contributions. It is hoped that they will not delay longer, but make their contributions at once, and that those who have given, will, if they feel justified in so doing, make a further contribution.

"Immediate help is almost imperative if the lives of these people are to be saved. Everyone knows his own condition best. Let each give as he conscientiously feels he can and should. All contributions should be sent to S. D. Townsend, treasurer, Wilmington Trust Co."

Mrs. S. H. Shearman and Miss Margaret Shearman of Wilmington will have as their guest on Thursday Miss Hendrika van der Slier, who is the daughter of the Court Chaplain of The Hague. The visitor will speak at four thirty in the afternoon, at the Shearman home, 1600 West Seventh street, at four thirty. Those interested in Red Cross Relief Work for the Belgians are invited to be present.

BETTER TEACHERS FOR DELAWARE

Summer School Plans Announced

The third session of the Summer School at Delaware College will open on Monday, June 26, and continue until Friday, August 4, inclusive. The first day of the session will be devoted to registration. Recitations and lectures in each subject will be held every week-day except Saturday. Each course will consist of twenty-nine recitations or their equivalent. These resources include academic buildings, general library, laboratories, gymnasium, and athletic fields.

The courses offered in the Summer School are designed to meet the needs of teachers. Elementary instruction in the fundamental school subjects, including methods of teaching, will be given to teachers in the lower grades. More advanced work will be given teachers of the higher grades. Each course will be in charge of a trained instructor. Earnest and careful work will be required of every student.

PLAN TO EQUIP PLAYGROUND

Board Of Education Attends Meeting

In spite of the inclement weather on last Thursday afternoon the 7th Grade room, Grammar School, was comfortably filled by parents, teachers and members of the Board of Education. The following musical program was delightfully rendered by High School pupils:

Piano solo—Blanche Derricksen
Piano and violin—Elizabeth McNeal, Edith Wollaston, Rebecca Wollaston

Piano solo—Wm. Bland
Piano duet—Elizabeth McNeal, Anna Ritz

Mrs. Grantham, chairman of the committee on "Schoolyard Improvement" reported that a bake had been held which netted $40.

Miss Esther Ferguson gave a very interesting report of the visit of Mr. Mack and Miss Weaver of Wilmington, experts on the subject of Playgrounds. As a result of their inspection of the Primary School yard, they made the following suggestions:

A fence along Delaware avenue and one between the houses on Academy street and the school yard; ground filled in and leveled so it will drain, screened clinders suggested for filling in.

The school board consented to put up fences and to level. The Parent Teachers Association will furnish equipment; see-saws, swings, horizontal bar, etc. The members of the committee—Mrs. Ritz, Mrs. Daniel Thompson, and Miss Ferguson—will be very glad to accept contributions of shrubbery—hardy species preferred, as golden glow and flags.

The secretary read from the question box: "Is it possible to have music taught in the schools?" Members of the Board of Education present, expressed their interest in the question but saw no possibility, at the present time, of being able to employ an instructor of music.

The second question: "How can an interest be aroused in reading?" was discussed at some length. It was decided that the children are developing a taste for good literature and that the libraries recently obtained are a valuable acquisition to the work in English. The next meeting will be held March 30. Everybody welcome.

Press Correspondent.

A man admitted to us this week that he was one of the leading men of the town. Yet we know he has subtly opposed every movement for progress during the past ten years.

COMPANY E PLAYS HOST

Delightful Affair At The Armory

A delightful social evening was given by men of Company E to their friends last evening in the Armory. About forty members of the Company and thirty-five guests were present. The company cooks acted as caterers, and served oysters in all styles, sandwiches, and coffee. Plenty of "smokes" were handed around, and a delightful evening spent. Captain Jacobs gave an interesting talk about the work of the militia and the men of the company in true campfire fashion related experiences of the various hikes, and camps in which they had participated.

One member of the company, when interviewed this morning about the speeches said, "Practice every one there said something," wherefore the reporter pronounces it a genuine social evening.

OBITUARY

Frank McLaughlin

Frank McLaughlin, aged 66 years, well-known as one of the operators of the McLaughlin Bros. flour mill, a mile west of Newark, died at the Delaware Hospital last Friday. Mr. McLaughlin had been suffering for months with gangrene of the foot. He was taken to the hospital about four weeks ago. The foot was amputated but diabetes developed and the patient's death had been expected daily for a week.

Mr. McLaughlin has lived in this locality since he was six years old. He passed his sixty-sixth birthday on February twenty-fourth, the day previous to his death. His father Constantine McLaughlin, started the mill on the banks of the Christiana previous to the Civil War. Since then it has been operated successfully by succeeding members of the family. A brother, the senior member of the firm, Robert McLaughlin, and two sisters, Misses Ella and Elizabeth G. McLaughlin survive.

Funeral services were held from the family residence on Tuesday. Interment in the Head of Christiana Cemetery.

Rev. William L. S. Murray

Rev. William L. S. Murray, aged 67 years, widely known in M. E. Conference circles died suddenly at his home in Wilmington last Saturday about ten p. m. Dr. Murray, pastor of the Epworth M. E. Church, had been out during the evening doing pastoral duty. After making three calls he returned about nine o'clock. He at once prepared to retire, and as he reached his bed room was seized by a racking coughing spell which continued until he became unconscious. Dr. Spruance arrived a few minutes before Dr. Murray's death which was pronounced due to heart failure.

Dr. Murray had been a minister for 45 years. He was born near Selbyville, Md. For four years he was pastor of the Dover M. E. Church. Later he became pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church, Wilmington, having that charge for eleven years. He was also at one time pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, Wilmington, and during the past three years has been pastor of Epworth M. E. Church. Before coming to that church he was pastor of the M. E. church at Pocomoke City, Md., for four years. He was also at one time presiding elder of the Wilmington district of the Wilmington M. E. Conference.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, directed by district superintendent, Rev. E. L. Hoffecker. In speaking of the deceased Dr. Hoffecker said: "Dr. W. L. S. Murray, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church was a man widely known and sincerely loved by the ministers of the Wilmington Conference. He was at one time superintendent of the Wilmington District and in 1892 was a delegate in the General Conference.

"Dr. Murray was a man of great ability and will be missed for years to come by members of the conference.

"When asked recently where he expected to reside after retiring from active ministry, he replied, 'In Heaven'."

A wife and two children survive.

Putting The "Movies" To Educational Use

School Children Invited to Opera House

Thomas H. Carrow, Safety Inspector of the Pennsylvania railroad, will address the school children of Newark this coming Thursday afternoon at two-thirty. The meeting will be held in the Newark Opera House. The money for the hall is being raised by popular subscription, since Mr. Carrow's talk will be illustrated with motion pictures, and there is no other building in town where there may be shown successfully in daytime.

Following the talk on "Safety First," two reels of moving pictures will be shown, one giving views of New York City, and the second, scenes along the Pennsylvania railroad.

Children of the Newark School, students in the department of education at the Women's College, and members of the local Parent-Teachers' Association are invited to attend the meeting.

Interest In College Affairs

Newark is waiting with considerable interest the results of the meeting of the Board of Trustees to be held on Tuesday next. It is thought that the plans for this year's extension in building will be given out. Day and Klauder, architects, will present the finished plans of the proposed Science Hall. It is understood that work will begin in a short time, the idea being to lay the corner-stone during Commencement Week.

Aside from this, several other changes are rumored in the way of material improvements.

WHO WILL SEE THE FIRST ROBIN

Children Urged To Send In Reports

The "first robin" is to be officially reported. The advance agent of spring time has no set schedule, bird experts say, and his arrival may be expected at different dates according to the climate and geographical location.

For observation purposes, the recognized bird-protecting organization of America, is offering a prize for "first robin" reports. This is also done, Secretary Pearson says, to stimulate general interest in birds, particularly among the children. For this reason, the association, at its headquarters at 1974 Broadway, New York, has offered to send free to every one reporting a real "first robin" a beautiful colored picture of Robin Red Breast. The association will also send Cock Robin in his life history, telling where he travels, what he eats and how he builds his nest.

"No bird holds so prominent a place in the minds of the American people as the robin," Mr. Pearson said in discussing the approaching return of the bird to the north. "It is distinctively a companion of man and wherever his hand has cleared the wilderness the robin has followed. From Mexico to the Yukon, travelers meet it and residents will tell him of its coming and going. It has passed into the literature of the country.

The purpose of having the bird reported is to keep alive the interest in our bird neighbors, which we, in our busy days, are likely to lose. Children of the locality are invited to send reports to this office.

Favors Swiss Army Plan

The Delaware Society of the Order of the Cincinnati held its annual meeting in Wilmington last Tuesday and favored the policy of preparedness, with the Swiss plan of military service. The following officers were chosen: Philip Howell White, president; John O. Platt, vice-president; Leonard E. Wales, secretary; John P. Hyatt, Assistant Secretary; Francis K. Wainwright, treasurer; Theodore M. Hastings, assistant treasurer and Rev. Kensey J. Hammond, chaplain.

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS DISCUSS THE LAWN PROBLEM

A recent publication from the U. S. Department of Agriculture is of special interest to home owners who wish to get the best results from their lawns. Work should begin, it tells us the last of February or early in March. Too many people delay giving any attention to their grass plots until the weather becomes warm and thus lose an opportunity to take advantage of melting snow and the alternate night freezing and thawing of the ground.

If the lawn has not already been fertilized, some form of commercial should be used at once. Manure applied this late will not be effective in most cases. Ground bone is probably the best fertilizer to use, although tankage and fish scraps, some of which, however, have an unpleasant smell, also give good results. Prepared sheep manure is an excellent fertilizer for use at this season. Cottonseed meal where obtainable at a low enough price may be used to advantage. In connection with these fertilizers, however, it is desirable to use some wood ashes or other fertilizers containing potash. As fertilizers with this element are unusually high priced this year the natural inclination will be to use minimum quantities. With soils that have been well fertilized in the past, failure to use a normal amount of potash will probably not affect the lawn badly in one season. There fertilizers should be applied at the earliest possible moment.

Temptation to get on the lawn and clean it up is strong as soon as the snow is gone and the weather begins to settle. Impatience, however, should be curbed until the ground is settled fairly well so that footmarks will not show in the turf. Where a lawn has been trampled down during the winter or played upon when it was soft in winter or early spring the owner should take steps to compact its surface at the earliest possible moment. This compacting, however, should not be done until all trash has been removed. As soon as the ground is sufficiently settled so that a rake does not dig into the turf the owner should rake it gently with a wooden-toothed rake. Frequently, however, all that is necessary is to pick off the litter. If a lawn has been covered with manure in the fall, it will be necessary to break the manure up with a rake in the spring and remove some of the coarser portions. A wooden rake is best for this purpose, as it will leave so much more of the fine material upon the ground.

Do not rake off so much of the manure that the lawn will have a thoroughly clean appearance. All of the fine manure that the summer growth of grass can possibly hide should be left. It is surprising how much litter the grass will obscure in a lawn, as one or two heavy rains will beat down a quantity of such material.

Before freezing weather is entirely over, fresh grass seed should be sown for it must be remembered that only by repeated applications of grass seed can a good lawn be produced. The ordinary seeding of grass on a new lawn is one pound of seed to every 400 square feet—that is, to a piece of 20 feet square. For re-seeding a lawn, one-tenth to one-half of this amount should be used, according to the condition of the lawn at the time. For the northern part of the United States, Kentucky blue grass and redtop are the standard varieties. However, where there are many bare spaces it will be found well to use some white clover. About one-tenth the quantity of clover as of the other grasses mentioned will be required.

Probably as good a time as any to apply grass seed will be some morning when the ground is frozen, so that when the ground thaws during the middle of the day the sown seed will be covered sufficiently to germinate well. The most successful seeding is that done while the ground is freezing a little each night and thawing again in the day-time. Many people have success in sowing grass seed upon a light snow-fall at a time when the snow is likely to melt soon. With either of these methods, however, there is danger that birds will eat some of the seed before it is covered in the soil. In spite of this, however, there is a better chance of getting a good lawn by these methods than when the seed is sown on land that will not quickly cover it.

The last operation in the preliminary spring care of a lawn is to give it a good rolling. This rolling, which should be done with as heavy a roller as can be handled, should not be begun, however, until after the lawn is dry enough so that the roller passes over it without sinking at any point below the general level. If the land is too wet the roller will leave depressions. This rolling should be done just as soon as the land is dry enough to permit it, as rolling compacts the soil about the roots of the plants, brings them into closer contact with the soil, and gives them a better opportunity to make a quick start as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

Grass cutting should begin just as soon as the lawn mower can get a good hold. The very early cutting may be made with the lawn mower set close to the ground. As soon as the growth of grass becomes a little less vigorous the mower should be set just as high as possible. This high cutting should be done as frequently as though the grass were being cut shorter.

For A Separate Supreme Court

The Supreme Court of this State, the highest judicial body in the State, the court of last resort therein, the court which sits in final judgment upon all decisions of any lower court of the State, which may be questioned by an appeal or writ of error therefrom as now composed, consists in any case of the judges of the State, or at least two of them, who did not sit in that case when it was tried in the lower court.

Without criticising, or intending any reflection whatever upon the ability, integrity or judicial acumen of our judges, or in any way questioning the sufficiency or righteousness of their decisions, we feel it incumbent upon us to give expression to the widespread and almost unanimous demand among the members of the bar of this State for a change in our State Constitution that will constitute and establish a Supreme Court in the State that will consist of judges who are not concerned in the cases tried in the courts below. Good reasons for the change may be presented. Such a reorganization of our courts would undoubtedly establish the one-judge system in our Superior Court and Court of General Sessions in each county. This judge, being unhampered by the necessity of sitting in the courts of other counties, could devote all of his time to the consideration of cases within his jurisdiction, thus expediting justice and disposing of criminal business more economically.

The increase of business in New Castle county, owing to the rapid growth of the city of Wilmington, will necessitate the adoption of the one-judge system sooner or later and the simplification of our judicial system in that county. In fact, the increase of business has already necessitated an amendment to our Constitution constituting one judge a quorum in our Superior Court of General Sessions, while completely disposing of any argument, so potent in the past, against the one-judge system. Such a change would dispense with the personal inconvenience now occasioned by the assignment of the judges residing in one county to hold court in other counties and the necessity for the adjustment and many times the delay of the court business of one or all counties to meet the exigencies of the situation. The judge would be relieved of the embarrassment of being called upon to pass upon and sometimes reverse the decisions of a brother judge, with whom he is almost daily sitting in other cases in other courts.

The judges of a Supreme Court, separate and distinct from any other court, would approach the consideration of any case free and unhampered by any feeling of delicacy, hesitancy, or regret, at being compelled to pass in judgment upon and possibly reverse a decision of a brother judge with whom he is constantly and continuously associated in the closest intimacy of judicial brotherhood, an association that necessitates the constant interchange and agreement of judicial opinion, and sometimes acceptance and dependence upon the experience and opinion of one another.

This close association and mutual respect and consideration for one another's opinions enjoyed by our judges makes for the betterment of our courts and strengthening of their decisions. But this mutuality so necessary for the maintenance of the probity and wisdom of our courts is constantly threatened by the incongruous arrangement of our Supreme Court, that gives every opportunity for misunderstanding and friction to be created and arise because of difference of opinion. It is to the credit and honor of our judges that such difference of opinion has made no apparent difference in their association and work in our courts.

Being cognizant of the strong sentiment favoring a separate Supreme Court, and realizing that such a change, so much demanded, can be secured only by an amendment to our Constitution for that purpose, adopted by two sessions of our General Assembly, we believe this an opportune time for the presentation of this suggestion to the public that the same may have that careful and deliberate consideration that such a change in the judicial branch of our State government demands. How About The Physical Condition Of Our Men?

That the military is only one of many features in the great preparedness problem is being developed by various magazines and newspapers throughout the country. The Wilmington Morning News, in the following editorial, sounds a warning note in the campaign for all-round preparedness:

"In all the talk about preparedness little if anything has been said about providing for the health and hygiene of the soldiers and attention is directed to this oversight by one of the leading medical journals which recalls the frightful record of this country during the Spanish-American war.

"Statistics of the war department show that in an army of 200,000 there were 21,000 cases of typhoid fever and 2,192 deaths. The loss through disease was far greater than from any other cause. Disease laid a heavy hand upon our soldiers. The medical journal also says that the relative number of trained medical officers in the army today is not so large as it was during the Spanish war. Then there were seven to the 1,000; now there are five to the 1,000. And it is added that 'the military experience of the entire world during the past twenty-five years has demonstrated clearly that an adequate, well-equipped, well trained medical service is of the most vital importance to the effectiveness of any military plans.'

UP TO THE BOARD OF TRADE

Speaking of The Firemen's Banquet, isn't it possible to have a Community Dinner in Newark, where all our citizens could get together? Not representative of any organization or institution but of all classes that go to make up the citizenship of this delightful old town. Such a get-together would be a wonderful affair—long to be remembered. Just who can take charge of this would be a question if we did not have a Board of Trade. If that organization has a spark of life left, here is an opportunity. Certainly, it would create a fellowship of "Get Together." To meet at the Banquet Board, representatives of all phases of our people would mean much to the town, much to every guest.

If the officers of the Board of Trade will pull off this stunt, we pledge our support for their reelection.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

A Bit of Local History

Mr. Editor:
Having been a subscriber to your paper since practically its first issue, I have been tempted on one or more occasions to accept your invitation to write something of the past for your paper. This is my first attempt and it may prove the last. I have read your first editorial of January 26, 1910, with much interest, and have called it your editorial platform: broad, liberal, and full of good common sense. The only exception I take is where you speak of the sun shining a little brighter on White Clay and Pencader Hundreds, for I claim you should not have forgotten old Mill Creek, with her grand old hills and valleys just across beautiful White Clay Creek, hills and valleys so fertile that when planted printed in brown. On the margin, we have a sunset scene of The Dorm, panelled, blind embossed. A torch of Wisdom in gold sets off the idea so that it makes an attractive card for framing. A frame, say in seal brown, gives you a real bit of art for your den or m' lady's boudoir. This is merely a tryout—so we didn't print many.

The tip is to order early.

Are you sending any Easter Greetings? Have them original—not some stock pick-me-up bargains.

Write some little sentiment and let us fix them up for you. Hand-colored? Sure!

A Philadelphia editor seeing one of our little gems of printing, said, "I did not know it was possible. Really, in originality and execution it equals our Chestnut street engravers." That reminds us of a recent job we lost because as the dear young thing said she didn't see any samples she liked—and then you know the "Chest-

Smith, Miss Rich, of the Women's College, Mrs. Lee Cooch, representing the agricultural department, and Mrs. Frederick Robinson of Wilmington, assisted the hostess receive her guests. The dance given by the Town and Gown Club, to senior members of the College fraternity, in the Armory last Friday evening, has been pronounced by many as the most delightful affair of the season. Twenty-four men, of both the town and the faculty were the hosts of the occasion.

The decorations planned by Mrs. R. Tyson, were especially artistic and beautiful. The rafters were screened from view with garlands of artificial apple blossoms; Japanese lanterns and parasols softened the glare of the lights, and added a subdued brilliancy to the dance hall. A nine piece orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Jacobs of Wilmington, furnished excellent music.

The same scheme of decoration that prevailed in the ballroom extended to the banquet hall. The long tables were covered with beautiful linen, and decorated with pink shaded candles, bouquets of apple blossoms. A committee in charge was composed of Messrs. J. P. Wright, W. S. Sather, W. J. McAvoy, and F. H. Hills.

Sumwalt and Lauritsen furnished music during the reception.

Mrs. Penny directed the guests to the dining room which was tastefully decorated in pink and green, a color scheme which was evident in the serving of refreshments. New Century Club News

Last Monday was observed as Reciprocity Day in the Newark New Century Club. The meeting was made a public one and an invitation extended to the people of Newark to enjoy with the members the program given by ladies from the New Century Club of Wilmington. The meeting was held in the College Oratory. About fifteen Wilmington ladies were present.

Following words of welcome by Mrs. Hayward, president of the local club, and a response from Mrs. Colby, president of the Wilmington club, Mrs. Purdy occupied the presiding officer's chair, and introduced the speakers of the afternoon. Mrs. Walter Butler gave interesting "Glimpses of London in War Times," telling of her experiences during a year spent in England since the beginning of the great war. Mrs. Butler emphasized the work of the women in the warring nations, giving concrete instances which she herself had witnessed, of the woman unhesitatingly stepping into the man's position, as bell boy, chauffeur, street car conductor, business man, or policeman. Mrs. Phillips reviewed Tagore, the Hindu poet, who she declared was to the East what Riley and Stevenson have been to the English speaking world. Mrs. Phillips read a number of the translated poems, in a most charming manner. The last paper prepared by Mrs. Horace Betts and read by Mrs. Mode, reviewed the achievements of clubs and club women. A delightful musical program was given by Mrs. Griffith, chairman of the Federation Music committee. The numbers were piano solos, rendered with great expression: first, Chopin's Impromptu; second, one of MacDowell's descriptive sea compositions, portraying a boy or boat, whistling, to the accompaniment of the waves, the theme of the composition, and third, an Air de Ballet by Chaminade. The Wilmington members extended a cordial invitation to the club women of Newark to attend the meeting of the Federation in May.

Seventeen dollars and eighty-five cents was handed to Mrs. Blake by the calendar collectors. As this represents only a part of the money due for the month of February, all collectors are urged to report by the next meeting.

WOMEN WAGE EARNERS IN THE U. S.

Government Investigates Conditions Of Workers

The bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor has just issued a summary of its report on the condition of woman and child wage earners in the United States which is of unusual interest to everyone interested in welfare work and economic problems.

The establishments included in the bureau's investigations employed more than 335,000 persons of whom over 167,000, or approximately 50 per cent were females. The most striking feature of this great labor force was the extreme youthfulness of those employed.

In three of the industry groups the southern cotton group, the glass industry, and the Pennsylvania silk group, more than two-thirds of the female employees were found to be under 20 years of age. On the other hand, the proportion 25 years of age and over was large enough to suggest the need for vocational training for girls.

The importance of married women among these wage earners is shown by the fact that of 27 industries studied, only three were found in which the proportion of married women among those 20 years of age and over was under 10 per cent, and from this it runs up to two-fifths, and in one industry even to three-fifths.

In the four industries which were the subject of intensive study, it was found that in some 5000 families from 82 to 98 per cent of the families had girls 16 years of age and over at work, and that from 80 to 95 per cent of all the girls of this age group in these families were wage earners.

One of the most significant facts disclosed by the investigation in almost all industries was the large proportion of woman wage earners who were paid low wages, wages in many cases inadequate to supply a reasonable standard of living for women dependent upon their own earnings for support. In the group of women employed in the four great industries, cotton, men's ready-made clothing, glass and silk, from two-fifths to two-thirds of those 16 years of age and over earned less than $6 a week.

In another group of twenty-three industries, an examination of the earnings of over 38,000 women, 18 years of age and over, showed that 41 per cent earned less than $6 a week.

The report shows that the employment of children was both extensive and serious; not only were children found employed in great numbers, but they were found employed below the legal age; employed at work legally prohibited to children of their years; employed for illegally long hours and at illegal times; employed through evasions of the law and under false certificates of age, as well as under many other undesirable conditions.

In spite of all of this, evidence was found of a decrease in the relative number of children employed, and very plain indications that a public sentiment against their exploitation is making itself felt effectively.

Murder Suspect Cap/ured

Richard Alberson of Penns Grove, on Wednesday night saw Rinaldo Ciabattani in the ferry boat bound for Wilmington and on its arrival told a policeman that he recognized the Italian as the man he and others pursued after he had stabbed Charles Long on the street in Wilmington on the night of February 12. Long's assailant is supposed to have fatally stabbed Charles K. Leech, of 221 King Street whom he met later in his flight thinking Leech was about to halt him. A pair of steel knuckles was found on the Italian when he was arrested and he was given six months in the workhouse for carrying them. Long will be called to identify Ciabattani as his assailant.

Forgery Relieves Bondsmen

Swearing that their names had been forged as sureties on the bond of George E. Hearn a tax collector from whom Sussex county claims $5,000, John W. Hearn, the collector's father, and Southey E. Brittingham, both leading farmers of Little Creek hundred, secured a verdict from a jury in Court at Georgetown on Thursday, setting aside the bond and a judgment for the $5,000. Limitations will prevent prosecution for the forgery.

Pulpit Eloquence

(Reprinted at the request of a reader; from a local paper of 1827.)

(The following beautiful lines are from the pen of Mrs. Weldy, better known as "Amelia", suggested on hearing Rev. Thomas H. Stockton preach in Talbot county, Md., in 1827.)

The day was declining—the breeze its glees,
Had left the fair blossoms to sing on the sea;
As the sun, in its gorgeoussness, radiant and still,
Dropped down, like a gem, from the brow of the hill;
One tremulous star, in the glory of June,
Came out with a smile and sat down by the moon,
As she gazed her blue throne with the pride of a queen,
The smiles of her loveliness gladdened the scene.

The scene was enchanting; in distance away
Rolled the foam crested waves of the Chesapeake Bay,
While bathed in the moonlight, the village was seen,
With the church in the distance, that stood on the green;
The soft-sloping meadows lay brightly unrolled,
With their mantles of verdure, and blossoms of gold,
And the earth, in her beauty, forgetting to grieve,
Lay asleep in her bloom on the bosom of eve.

A light-hearted child, I had wandered away
From the spot where my footsteps had gambolled all day,
And as free as a bird's, was the song of my soul,
As I heard the wild waters exultingly roll,
While lightning my heart as I sported along,
With bursts of low laughter and snatches of song,
It struck in a pathway half-worn o'er the sod,
By feet that went up to the worship of God.

As I traced its green windings, a murmur of prayer,
With the hymn of the worshippers rose on the air;
And drawn by the links of its sweetness along,
I stood unobserved in the midst of the throng,
For awhile my young spirit still wandered about,
With the birds and the winds that were singing without,
But birds, waves and zephyrs quickly forgot
In one angel-like being that brightened the spot.

In stature majestic, apart from the throng,
He stood in his beauty, the theme of my song!
His cheek pale with fervor—the blue orbs above
Lit up with the splendors of youth and of love,
Yet the heart glowing rapture that beamed from those eyes
Seemed saddened by sorrows, and chastened by sighs,
As if the young heart in its bloom had grown cold,

With its love unrequited, its sorrows untold.

Such language as his I may never recall,
But his theme was salvation—salvation to all;
And the souls of a thousand in ecstasy hung

On the manna-like sweetness that dropped from his tongue,
Not alone on the ear his wild eloquence stole;
Enforced by each gesture, it sank to the soul,
Till it seemed that an angel had brightened the sod,
And brought to each bosom a message from God.

He spoke of the Saviour—what pictures he drew!
The scene of His sufferings ran clear on my view;
The Cross—the rude cross where He suffered and died,
The gush of bright crimson that flowed from His side,
The cup of his sorrows, the wormwood and gall,
The darkness that mantled the earth as a pall,
The garlands of thorns, and the demon-like cries,
Who knelt as they scoffed Him—"Hail, King of the Jews!"

He spoke and it seemed that his statue-like form
Expanded and glowed as his spirit grew warm;
His tone so impassioned, so melting his air,
As, touched with compassion, he ended in prayer,
His hands clasped above him, his blue orbs upturned,
Still pleading for sins that were never his own;
While that mouth where such sweetness ineffable clung,
Still spoke though expression had died on his tongue:

O, God! what emotions the speaker awoke!
A mortal he seemed—yet a deity spoke;
A mortal he seemed—yet a deity spoke;
On earth—yet so closely connected with heaven!
How oft in my fancy I've pictured him there,
As he stood in that triumph of passion and prayer,
With his eyes closed in rapture—their transient eclipse,
Made bright by the smile that illumined his lips.

There's a charm in delivery, a magical art,
That thrills, like a kiss, from the lips to the heart,
'Tis the glance—the expression—the well chosen word,
By whose magic the depths of the spirit was stirred;
The smile—the mute gesture—the soul starting pause,
The eyes' sweet expression—that melts while it awes,
The lips' soft persuasion—its musical tone—
O, such was the charm of that eloquent one.

The time is long past, yet how clearly defined,
That bay, church and village float up on my mind,
I see amid the moon in her pride,
With the sweet little trembler that sat by her side;
I hear the blue waves as she wanders along,
Leap up in their gladness and sing her a song,
And I tread in the pathway half worn o'er the sod,
By the feet that went up to the worship of God.

The time is long past, yet what visions I see,
The past, the dim past is the present to me,
I am standing once more mid that heart-stricken throng
A vision floats up—'tis the theme of my song,
All glorious and bright as a spirit of air,
The light like a halo encircling his hair,
As I catch the same accents of sweetness and love,
He whispers of Jesus—and points us above.

How sweet to my heart is the picture I've traced
Its chain of bright fancies seemed almost effaced,
Till memory, the fond one, that sits in the soul,
Took up the frail links and connected the whole.
As the dew to the blossom, the bud to the bee,
As the scent to the rose, are these memories to me,
Round the chords of my heart they have tremulously clung,
And the echo it gives is the song I have sung.

The Right To Call

Myself An American

My right to call myself an American does not turn upon what America has done for me, but what I have done for it. If I have made it richer, if I have made its life more wholesome, if I have given to it a boy or girl who loves it, if I have shown that I am loyal to the ideals of freedom and justice which it represents, I have the right to call myself an American. The test of my Americanism is the way I look at things with relation to the present and the future of this country.

WEDDING

Bavington-Reardon

The wedding of Miss Margaret Eves Bavington, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bavington of Thompson Station, and Mr. John Francis Reardon of Kemblesville, announced in last week's issue of The Post, was one of the largest held recently in the St. Johns R. C. Church, Newark. The Reverend Father Dougherty officiated. The church was filled with friends and relatives of both the bride and groom, many of whom hailed from distant cities. The bride wore a white satin gown, made en train, and covered with silver net. The silver tinted bridal veil harmonized beautifully with the gown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations. Miss Margaret Quill, of Hockessin, a cousin of the groom acted as maid of honor. Miss Quill wore a gown of blue satin trimmed with Duchess lace edged with silver lace. Mr. William Reardon, a brother of the bridegroom acted as best man. Miss Mary Lamborn, a cousin of the groom played the wedding march. Miss Lamborn was gowned in an old rose satin, trimmed with silver-edged lace. Joseph Reardon of Kennett Square and Francis Haley of Wilmington, acted as ushers. Many handsome and beautiful gifts of cut glass, silver, linen, and furniture were received from friends. One of the handsomest gifts received was a clock presented to the bride and groom by the Chambers' firm of West Grove, Pa.

Two hundred guests attended the reception at the home of the bride following the ceremony.

Among guests were Miss Helen Quill of Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feeron of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. John J. Chambers of West Grove, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bavington of Philadelphia; Misses Mary, Margaret and Julia Lynch; Messrs. John and Michael Lynch; Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Haley, and children, Francis and Alice, of Wilmington; Rev. Father Dougherty, of Newark; Misses Helen and Lavenia Edwards of Rising Sun, Md.; Mr. Charles Edwards of New London, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Leonda Baldwin, and Mrs. Phoebe Baldwin of Lancaster County, Pa.

After a short wedding trip the bride and groom will go to their newly furnished home on the Kelley farm, near West Grove, Pa.

Nearly Perishes In Marsh

Losing his way on Saturday night while homeward bound

Joseph Shaham, of 804 Comad street, Wilmington was found nearly frozen to death in water up to his armpits in a marsh in South Wilmington where he was held fast by mud and reeds. A colored man heard his cries for help and notified the policemen who made a corduroy road of empty barrels to reach him. They worked over him for an hour before he became able to walk.

Senseless Under Horse's Feet

Joseph Marlon, aged 45 years, was found senseless with his head and face covered with blood, under a horse's foot in a stall in Taylor's Stable at Lard and Spruce Streets, Wilmington on Sunday. It is thought that he went to sleep in the hay loft and fell into the stall, where he was kicked or trampled by the horse. He was removed to Delaware Hospital for treatment.

Trying To Secure Rights-of-Way

The duPont Boulevard Corporation which is building the Sussex County portion of T. C. duPont's projected great State highway, was stated is about to start suits to acquire needed sections of right of way on the 16 mile stretch between Georgetown and Milford. Much of the needed right of way has been obtained by gift or purchase but a number of land owners have declined to sell on terms offered. If the legal proceedings result favorably for the corporation, the land secured thereunder will permit of the completion of the Sussex County section of the highway which is more than one third of its entire length as projected. The 20 mile section from Selbyville to Georgetown is nearly completed. The land sought with the Courts' aid lies mostly near Milford on the Kent-Sussex boundary. Thus far no construction work has been started in Kent or New Castle County though surveys have been made and tentative routes outlined.

KEEP POSTED IN WORLD EVENTS

Philadelphia Record Covers Every Field

There never was a time in this country's history when a broad outlook upon the progress of events of national and international importance was so essential to everybody who wants to keep posted as the present. The European war is not only remaking the maps of at least three continents, but its influence is shaping political, commercial and economic conditions in the United States. It is not the function of the best of local newspapers to trace in detail the progress of these changes. That is the task of the big city daily, with its unlimited facilities for news-gathering in every corner of the world—and there is no newspaper better fitted for it than "The Philadelphia Record." "The Philadelphia Record," daily and Sunday, ought to be in every home. It is clean, comprehensive, fair and fearless. It prints all the news without sensationalism; rides no hobbies and grinds nobody's axes; its columns cover every field of human interest and present all the facts worth knowing about current events in concise, readable and attractive form. Its daily cartoon by De Mar is appreciated—and copied—all over the country. Its sporting page is authoritative. Farmers swear by its market reports. "The Record" was the first newspapers in Philadelphia to establish a department for women readers—and that department has led in its field ever since.

The Sunday issue of "The Philadelphia Record," with its big fiction magazine bound in a separate colored cover, its colored comic section, its domestic science and fashion page, its prize contests and its special feature departments, successfully aims to add to the superlative merits of the daily wholesome and informative reading and entertainment for every member of the family, including the juveniles.

Daily and Sunday, "The Philadelphia Record" follows the war, no the battlefields abroad and in the provinces of diplomacy, legislation, and industry at home, with expert understanding and tireless energy. Its services in the news field alone make it as indispensable in the home as it is on the exchange desk of its contemporaries.—Adv.

M. E. CONFERENCE CONVENES IN MARCH

Plans For Entertainment Of Guests

Arrangements for the M. E. Conference to convene in Wilmington, March 29, are the subject of considerable interest throughout the Conference.

The committee on conference entertainment, of which district superintendent, Rev. E. L. Hoffecker, is chairman, and the Rev. W. F. Corkran, the Rev. H. F. Randolph, the Rev. G. T. Alderson, the Rev. T. R. Van Dyke, the Rev. J. W. Easley, the Rev. F. F. Carpenter, the Rev. W. A. Wise and the Rev. G. W. Dawson are committee members, are busily engaged in finding homes for the members of the conference supplying pastors for the pulpits, examining candidates for admission on trial into the conference and delegates to the lay electoral conference, which in number, will equal the pastoral charges within the bounds of the conference.

In all 438 homes will be needed to entertain the visiting delegates. All official visitors will be entertained as well as the ministers and delegates. The lay members of the conference board of stewards and the lay members of the trustees of the Conference Academy will also be included in the list for which homes will be required.

At The Nation's Foundation

Gibbon has said: Agriculture is the foundation of commerce. He might well have added that a permanent agriculture would be necessary to the modern commerce of the present day. Commerce has grown to enormous proportions. Those who take part must be fed. The fast increasing population demands that our lands become more productive. The man at the nation's foundation is the farmer, and his responsibility includes the production of the world's supply of food and the maintaining of soil fertility. And so if Gibbon had lived today he would amend his statement to read: Permanent Agriculture is the foundation of commerce. Maintenance of soil fertility, through proper rotation, liming when necessary and the right use of fertilizers and barn manures, is the basis of permanent agriculture. —George B. Crane, Extension Service, Ohio State University.

STUDENTS' LOAN FUND PROGRESSES

Sewer Extension In Hands Of Committee

Many contributions have already been received for the Students' Loan Fund for Delaware College and the Women's College, which was recently started. The total of contributions is now about $1600. Josiah Marvel of Wilmington is taking an active interest in the plan and recently prepared the papers to govern the fund. He has also raised a considerable sum for the fund, which, with a large contribution from himself, totals about $1000. Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, president of Delaware College; Thomas Davis, president of the Alumni Association; Dean Winifred J. Robinson of the Women's College; Dean Harry Hayward of the agricultural department of the college and Dean E. Laurence Smith of the college have been named a special committee to administer the fund. The purpose of the fund is to assist worthy students.

Sewer Extension

Hamilton M. Barksdale, chairman of the committee of the trustees of Delaware College that has charge of the proposition of extending the town sewer down Depot Road to the Chambers' property so that college property can be connected with the sewer, was in Newark last week. Mr. Barksdale held a conference with Mayor Joseph H. Hossinger and Engineer Kastenhuber, on the sewer project. The extension would greatly improve sanitary conditions.

Looking At Gary Schools

Professor George S. Counts who was elcted some time ago professor of education at Delaware College and who will be dean of the Summer School next summer, is making the survey of the Gary, Indiana, schools under the direction of the General Education Board. This work is attracting international attention among educators and the fact that a member of the Delaware College faculty had charge of the survey will no doubt prove beneficial to education work in this State.

Women's Day at Mt. Zion Church

At Mount Zion A. U. M. E. church, Reverend W. H. Forward, pastor, last Sunday was observed as Woman's Day. The interesting services were entirely in charge of the women members of the congregation. At the morning service Sister Stephenson of Chester delivered the sermon, taking as her text, "Lo, I am with you alway." A glorious class meeting followed, led by Sisters Caroline Lambert and Elizabeth Williams of St. John's A. U. M. P. Church, Newark. At three P. M. Sister Packwell of Chester preached from Matthew 5, 16. All who were present were helped spiritually by the inspiring sermon.

At eight p. m. Sister Stevenson again filled the pulpit, taking her text from Matthew 23, 13. She gave good plain truth, and the church was filled with the Holy Spirit. A collection of $36.53 was taken. Too much credit cannot be given Mrs. Joseph Lewis, president of the Board of Stewards, who worked so earnestly to make the day a splendid success.

KEMBLESVILLE

Mrs. Wm. Willard of Kemblesville, has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Russell Reynolds, Avondale, Pa.

The public sale of real estate and personal property, of the late Sadie E. Howett, on Thursday last was well attended, and good prices were realized. The real estate was withdrawn at the time, but was afterwards sold to Dr. F. B. West, for $1800.

Mrs. Lida Kelley entertained a number of friends, at a supper, given at the Hotel on Monday evening, February 21st.

Orval Cloud spent the week end with her grandfather, Mr. Jackson Scott, Lewisville, Pa.

Little Joseph West who has been very sick, is somewhat better at this writing, but owing to his illness, the Literary meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Richards, instead of at the West homestead, as stated last week.

All welcome. The March meeting of Parent Teacher association of Kemblesville School, was held on Wednesday afternoon, at the school house. Mrs. Sarah Fell is visiting her son Walker L. Fell.

Robert Tweed has moved his family to Newark, Del., and has rented his property here, to Geo. Woods.

Owing to the blustery weather on Sunday evening the Epworth League Service was held at the home of the first vice-president, F. B. Pratt.

Appleton Social Club

The Appleton Social Hour Club held its meeting in Appleton Hall on Friday evening, February 25. Owing to the inclement weather the meeting was poorly attended. The program included the singing of old songs and recitations by Emily Koellig, Emma Willis, Levis Scott, readings by Mrs. Kimble and Mr. Lofland and a solo by John Hutton.
