HEAT WAVE
INCREASES
ATTENDANCE
AT POOLPlayground And Pool To Close
On Friday
And Saturday

Attendance at the Newark Playground and Recreation Center took a sharp drop this week as the hot weather sent most of the youngsters scurrying to the University of Delaware swimming pool where some relief could be found.

Despite the hot weather, however, the daily attendance figure hovered close to the one hundred mark and William K. Gillespie, director of the project, and Miss Ann O'Daniel, his assistant, designed stunts and games in keeping with the summer temperature.

A movie program, both educational and entertaining, will be presented this afternoon at three o'clock instead of tomorrow, in the high school auditorium. All parents and friends are invited to attend.

"Drinking Health" and "Bicycling for Safety," educational films, will be followed by two cartoon comedies.

The dramatic program, conducted last season by Miss Jane Jernee, which brought many youngsters before the footlights for the first time, will again be presented this year under the supervision of Miss O'Daniel. This part of the program proved very popular last season.

Efforts are still being made to organize a fourth team for the Playground Baseball League which is slated to get underway on July 7. The team will be made up of boys living on Main Street and anyone between the ages of 10 and 15 who desires to play, is requested to contact Mr. Gillespie at the playground. Three teams have been organized and are ready to answer the umpire's cry of "Play Ball!"

With many children driven away from the playground by the heat, Ralph A. (Irish) O'Connell, pool supervisor, reported an unusually high attendance for the week.

An average of 40 boys have been taking advantage of the opportunity to cool off in the morning while 35 girls have followed them in the morning session. The afternoon attendance, a mixed group, has increased to more than 50.

Due to the fact that most of the children are expected to go away over the holiday week-end, both the playground and the pool will be closed on Friday and Saturday. The projects will re-open again on Monday.

PERMANENT
TAGS WENT ON SALENew System
Of Permanent
Registration

The new permanent registration plates issued on Tuesday by the State Motor Vehicle Department are dominated by a black and white color scheme. Considerably heavier than the present tags, the new plates have raised numerals of white. The name of the state appears at the top of the plates.

Car owners whose machines were registered prior to Tuesday will not be affected by the new system until the expiration of their present license in March, 1942. However, if a car carrying 1941-42 plates is sold before the expiration of the life of the present plates, the new system will then be applied to the auto. A person buying a new car will have to secure the new plates.

Two types of license plates will be seen in Delaware until March 31, 1942, when the present tags will have expired. The present tags are blue and gold, the state colors.

The new tags are colorful. In addition to the black and white insets placed in either side of the plate will be of various hues. In the upper right hand side is a small slot in which will be an inset one and one-half by one and a quarter inches which will specify the year. This will bear the state colors, an official of the department said.

On the left side, a larger inset, two and one-half by one and a quarter inches, will be another slot. This will bear the expiration date and will be of a color to represent one of the seasons of the year. One color will designate winter, another spring, a third summer, and another fall. The plates will be reinforced with rubber studs to prevent rattling. Numerals on the new plates can be read in daylight at a distance of at least 100 feet.

Under the new system, a registration number remains with a car throughout its existence. A motor vehicle may now be registered for a full year or six months and the effective date of registration is the first day of the calendar quarter in which the vehicle is registered and the fee paid.

The number and plates remain the property of the State of Delaware. If through loss or defacement additional plates are required, a fee of $1 will be charged for each one. The department will pay 50 cents for each one returned to the state agency.

SHORTAGE OF NURSES PROMPTS APPEAL

Civilian Safety
Threatened By Lack Of Young
Girls In Training

Warning that the shortage of nurses "beginning to be felt in our towns and cities" threatens "the safety of our civilian population" the Surgeons General of the Army, Navy and Public Health Service today appealed to young women to enter nurses' training schools.

In a joint statement the three top-ranking medical officials of the Government, termed the Red Cross Nurses' Training Camp at Bryn Mawr College, an "important initial step towards the preparation of more qualified nurses." The statement was signed by: Major General James C. Magee, Surgeon General, U. S. Army; Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, Surgeon General, U. S. Navy; and Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service.

The joint statement follows: "We believe that the shortage of nurses beginning to be felt in our towns and cities as a result of the national preparedness program is a serious threat to the safety of our civilian population. Although current requirements are being met, it is essential to prepare immediately for potentially greater demands for nurses. The situation can be met only by a large increase in the number of women entering the nation's accredited nursing schools.

"We, therefore, urge young women of this country to join the ranks of that great profession and prepare for rendering a vital service in the defense of our national health boundaries.

"An important initial step toward the preparation of more qualified nurses is about to be made, organized by the nursing profession and using the facilities of Bryn Mawr College and the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, and with the support and cooperation of the American Red Cross. A three months' course in nursing for college graduates between twenty and thirty years of age will open at the end of June, from which the students will transfer in the autumn to approved schools of nursing where they will complete their preparation in less than the usual three years.

"This is a great opportunity to enter an essential public service as well as to train one's self for a vital career in civil or military work. It is our earnest hope that many will consider enrolling and will write or wire to the Red Cross Nurses' Training Camp, Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, for further information."

ANNOUNCEMENT

At the request of the Treasury Department we announce a new feature of interest and service to many readers who are buying or will buy Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps. This will be called the Defense Bond Quiz, and will start in next week's issue.

The questions will be chosen from among those asked by most Bond and Stamp buyers. The answers will tell what the new Defense Savings Program means to the individual and to the Nation.

The Days Ahead

TELEPHONE SERVICE is playing a vital part in speeding the production of defense materials in these critical times.

And in the days ahead—should events make it necessary—the telephone communications network will play an even greater part in the defense of the state and nation.

The Delaware Bell organization is 650 people operating an up-to-the-minute telephone plant—a plant conceived in the famed Bell Telephone Laboratories and born in the great Western Electric factories.

It was engineered to carry the normal communications needs of our state, with extra "margins" to care for peace-time emergencies and to provide for normal growth. But now the telephone service faces a mighty challenge—the challenge of the communications needs of the all-out drive to build up the defenses of the nation—to rearm America.

To meet that challenge—

By the end of this year, more than three and one-half millions of dollars of new Bell telephone plant will have been constructed in Delaware in 24 months. And next year and the year after, the program of new central office equipment, new switching mechanisms, new local telephone cables, new inter-city telephone lines, will go on at an ever-increasing tempo.

THE communications requirements of the army, the navy and the government agencies, the vital defense industries and of other essential activities—these growing telephone needs must be met.

If it becomes necessary in order to fulfill these requirements—so important to all of us—we will not hesitate to ask that non-defense requests for new telephone service be held up temporarily. At peak hours it may not always be possible on all routes to give the customary extremely high speed "no hang up" inter-city service.

But the people of Delaware can rest assured that the organization which created the best telephone service in the world will spare neither time nor men nor money nor materials to continue that service quality—and at the same time to build for the emergency. That we guarantee.

The telephone is a product of a free America. Those of us who have had a share in its development have a pride in this example of democracy in action. The Bell System is a typically American institution. It is owned by two-thirds of a million Americans. It is operated by a third of a million American telephone workers. It serves, either directly or through connecting telephone companies, the entire American nation.

LET FREEDOM RING

1941

The people of Newark, the people of Podunk and all the peoples of these United States will rejoice tomorrow in the celebration of our most glorious national holiday—July Fourth.

Break out your flags, display them proudly at your business and at your homes—let the world know you are proud to be an American—a free man, and sing from the housetops that you're glad you live in the greatest country in the world.

On July Fourth, 1776, our forefathers gathered together and signed the Declaration of Independence that we and our forbears might enjoy liberty, independence and pursuit of happiness. For one hundred and sixty-five years we have enjoyed the privileges they accorded us and today we stand on top of the heap.

Today the United States is respected throughout the entire world as a nation of independent people who cherish their heritage and who will permit nothing to interfere with the defense of their Democracy.

Today we can still rejoice that we are not actually engaged in conflict although the rest of the world is torn and shattered from the ravages of imperial European warlords. Today we give thanks that we have been spared thus far from participation in World War No. 2.

Freedom still reigns in this country of ours and although that venerable Liberty Bell has been silenced these many years, there still rings the echoing and re-echoing of its symbol.

Enjoy the Fourth—Celebrate the Fourth—but, do it the American way. If you take a motor trip, exercise utmost caution, for all highways will be crowded with traffic. Take no chances that may endanger the loss of life or property.

We urge the display of Our Flag on July Fourth. Every resident of Newark should have Old Glory waving from his house-top and we sincerely hope each of us will fly the signal that indicates the Liberty fostered in the United States.

PHILOSOPHY OF ADVERTISING

What sounds like an intelligent and timely philosophy of advertising was offered recently in a talk, "Advertising—An Integral Part of Our American Formula," delivered before the Advertising Federation of America by Paul Garrett, Vice President and Director of Public Relations, General Motors Corporation.

Mr. Garrett's answers to several pertinent questions frequently raised for discussion warrant further dissemination. Here they are:

"Advertising even in case the demand for goods exceeds the supply is not heedless but needful effort in the same way that designing, engineering, production and merchandising are needful."

"Advertising at a time like the present is patriotic in the same sense that production, except as it interferes with defense, and merchandising, except as it disrupts the defense flow, are patriotic. It is patriotic unless it is put to an unpatriotic use."

"Except in those clear cases where defense would suffer loss of a particular material or service, consumer demand helps defense by strengthening the economy to meet the burdens of defense. No consumer should be stimulated to demand something needed for defense. But production for defense, which comes first always, needs to be backed by a strong people."

"The greatest obligation of all is to strive for ever better understanding through advertising."

It is not popularly understood who benefits most from the American formula. It is the worker who with a machine can make a dollar an hour as against a previous dollar a day without a machine. It is the customer who could not even hope otherwise to own the things this mass economy brings to his doorstep.

But, as Mr. Garrett says, "mass production is not self-perpetuating. It is through individual enterprise and initiative that we produce wares. It is through individual enterprise and initiative that we distribute them. It is the customer that makes the choice."

Some years ago Robert Quillen, the noted paragrapher, in a whimsical mood erected a monument to Eve. Now his fellow South Carolinian, J. Forter Carter of Chester, has placed a stone inscribed "Adam, the First Man," in his front yard.

A true fish story from Louisiana: C. E. Whitney pulled five catfish from Cross Lake at one time with a single hook. The five fish were on a line lost by somebody, and one of them, not profiting by experience, had gone after Whitney's bait.

Pearl Haines, a Negro woman of Philadelphia, complained that a "headache machine" for which she had paid $5 was no good. A detective opened the contraption and found inside an alarm clock, a thermometer, and an egg beater operated by a small electric motor.

Sisters Wed

A very unusual and pretty wedding took place this morning at nine o'clock when Miss Mary Elizabeth Doyle and Mr. Ralph Kendall Egnor and Miss Kathryn Helen Doyle and Mr. John Patrick Daly were united in marriage by Father Dougherty of St. John's Catholic Church.

A color scheme of yellow and white was carried out both at home and church. The decorations consisted of yellow and white daisies, roses, and ferns. The brides were attired in white lace with silver trimmings over white satin and veils caught with lilies of the valley. Each carried bouquets of brides roses. Miss Margaret and Miss Rose Doyle, sisters of the brides, acted as maids of honor. They were dressed in white net dresses trimmed in yellow taffeta, white hats and bouquets of yellow roses. Charles Daly of Baltimore, brother of one of the bridegrooms, and William Tierney, of Wilmington, were best men. James Doyle, brother of the brides, and Charles Conway of Wilmington acted as ushers.

The wedding party went from the home to the church in autos. Arriving there, the procession was led by the mother of the brides, followed by the bridegrooms and best men. Then came the brides attended by their brother, James Doyle and the maids of honor, Father Dougherty performed the ceremonies, and pronounced the nuptial blessing. After the wedding, about one hundred guests were served at a wedding breakfast. The happy couples left this afternoon for Atlantic City where they will spend their honeymoon, returning about next Sunday. The bride's traveling suits are a combination of dark blue serge and taffeta with white hats. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Egnor will reside with Mrs. Egnor's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Daly have made no announcement.

About one hundred invitations were issued, several out-of-town guests attending. Many beautiful presents were received.

VALUABLE FACTS IN BULLETIN

Late Garden Planners Will Benefit

Many Delaware farm families who maintain home gardens are planning now for a late garden that will keep right on producing health-giving vegetables after the first vegetables are harvested.

Information about getting gardens off to the season's second start is contained in the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service bulletin entitled "Home Vegetable Gardening."

For instance, here's what the bulletin says about late potatoes—"the late crop is started in July. The late crop should be planted about three inches farther apart in the row than the early crop. For harvesting the late crop, it is desirable to wait until frost nips the leaves and stems of the plants."

In the center of the illustrated gardening bulletin is a two-page planting table listing dates for late garden planting. The planting table gives March 20 as the date for seeding early beets and July 20 as the time to seed the garden's second beet planting. And Extension Bulletin No. 34 lists early and late planting dates for all other vegetables commonly grown in Delaware home gardens.

Copies of Extension Service Bulletin No. 34, "Home Vegetable Gardening," are available from any New Castle County Extension agent—George Worrlow, Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty or Miss Laura B. Rutherford.

DEMAND FOR HATCHING EGGS SEEN

To Delaware poultrymen, H. L. Richardson, poultry specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, reports that while there is a good demand for market eggs, there is likely to be just as much or more demand for hatching eggs. Some local hatcheries have already been forced to cut operations because of an egg shortage, a shortage that comes in the face of probable continued demand for chicks from the Delaware broiler industry. So Richardson claims that every effort should be made to maintain summer production of both market and hatching eggs.

A new circular, "More Profits From Fall Eggs," has been prepared by Richardson. Mimeo Circular No. 10 contains his suggestions for maintaining egg production during the summer and early fall months.

Included in Richardson's suggestions are facts about hot weather poultry care, poultry house ventilation, summer laying shelters, control of lice and mites, culling, use of lights and increasing feed intake. Richardson says that poultry feed consumption must be maintained as high as possible for good egg production. He recommends that poultrymen start wet mash and pellet feeding in July.

George Worrlow, county agricultural agent, has copies of Extension Mimeo Circular No. 10 for poultrymen who get in touch with him at his office in Recitation Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

A NEW CHAMPION, ROLAND (Hotz) Wollaston, ascended the local gold throne on Sunday but only after he'd seen his opponent, B. F. (Sank) Richards, stage an almost unbelievable comeback to turn a rout into a tight contest.

Those who witnessed the match will see a lot better golf in the future, but it is doubtful that they will be given another opportunity to see the likes of "Sank's" rip-roaring finish which came within inches of retrieving a victory from almost certain defeat.

Guilty of numerous bad shots, "Sank" soon found that his opponent was giving away little and although he turned in par figures for the second nine, he trailed two down at the end of the first eighteen.

At this point, "Hotz" really went to work and at the end of 27 holes, the new champion had marked up a six-hole advantage—it looked like curtains for Richards.

PERHAPS A FORECAST OF JUST what was going to happen occurred on the nineteenth hole when "Sank," after a screeching tee shot that carried 260 yards into the wind, dubbed his second shot. And when we say dubbed, we mean just that. The Wilmington veteran actually looked up on the shot and the ball merely trickled a few feet.

"Hotz," who had skied his tee shot only 150 yards, proceeded to clear the ditch by 40 yards with his second and after being trapped with his third, he blasted out and dropped a seven-footer for a par. "Sank's" third shot went to the right of the green but a beautiful pitch rolled to within two feet of the green, giving him a chance to halve the hole. His putter, erratic all afternoon, failed him again, however, and Wollaston went three up.

It was like that most of the afternoon—while the veteran performer was missing simple shots, Wollaston refused to ease the pressure and "Sank" dropped farther and farther behind.

On the 320-yard twenty-first, "Hotz" blasted out a 225-yard drive, then pitched to within five feet of the cup and holed out for a birdie four. Richards was short of the green with his second shot, but his third stopped four feet from the pin. He missed the putt—one of a dozen shots which he had throughout the match which might have, in the final analysis, meant the difference between victory and defeat. "Sank" dropped a 10-footer on the par-three twenty-third for a bird, but lost the hole back on the twenty-fourth when he muffed a five-footer.

DEADLY ON HIS APPROACHES, "Hotz" after a 300-yard drive on the twenty-fifth increased his margin to six holes when his second shot stopped three feet short of the pin and he dropped the putt for a bird. And so it was throughout the entire third round—"Sank" always behind, frequently missing shots that would have pulled him up to within striking distance; "Hotz" always in front, always applying the pressure.

"Sank" finally assembled his game for the final round and shot one of the finest rounds of golf under pressure that has ever been played at the local club. True, he was aided by the fact that "Hotz" started miffing a few, but Richards was really hot when he had to be—his eagle on the thirty-first for instance.

STARTING WITH THE TWENTY-NINTH, he copped four straight holes as Wollaston went over par on every one except the thirty-first when his bird wasn't good enough for "Sank's" eagle.

Richards picked up another hole, reducing the margin to one, on the thirty-fourth when he registered a bird on the par-four hole as Wollaston muffed a four-footer.

With his lead reduced from six to one up, "Hotz" pulled one of the best shots of the match from the final tee. The psychological advantage now in his favor, Richards drove to the ditch, and Wollaston, who had lost a ball in the first round at this spot, ruffed a 300-yard drive straight down the fairway that cleared the ditch in the air.

Both reached the green with their second shots with "Sank" 12 feet from the pin, about 8 feet closer than Wollaston. Wollaston's first putt stopped four feet from the pin, "Sank's" at least a foot closer, and with the opportunity to clinch the match resting on his putter, "Hotz" missed the shot.

Faced with a putt that was less than three feet from the cup, Richards was given the opportunity to send the match into extra holes and few in the gallery believed that Wollaston's morale would survive such a heart-breaking incident. The pressure would have all been on the ultimate winner, but "Sank" muffed the shot to end the match.

The United States Supreme Court has upheld the conviction of Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist party, under sentence to serve four years and pay a fine of $2,000 for using passports obtained by fraud. Browder received 48,789 votes for President last November.

ROLAND WOLLASTON HANDS "SANK" RICHARDS 1 UP SETBACK IN LINKS TEST

Runner-Up Stages Gallant Comeback After Trailing Six-Down At End Of 27 Holes; Rout Turned Into Battle When Richards Cards Final-Round 34

Hopelessly beaten at the end of 27 holes, B. F. (Sank) Richards, Wilmington veteran, roared through the final nine in a gallant comeback which finally faltered on the final green as Roland (Hotz) Wollaston walked off with a 1-up decision in the Newark Country Club golf championship tournament.

Decided on 36th
With a six up advantage safely tucked away, Wollaston appeared to be an easy victor, but Richards, after an indifferent and sometimes careless performance, suddenly came to life to back the ultimate winner's margin down to one hole at the thirty-fifth. His opponent handed him the opportunity to deadlock the match on the final hole when he three-putted, but the Wilmingtonian, who played from behind throughout the entire match, rolled an all-important two-footer past the cup. Only a small gallery saw the morning round in which Wollaston carded a 38-34 for a 72, one over par, to move into a two-hole lead at the end of the first eighteen. Richards, unable to make his putter behave, chalked up a 36-39 for a 75.

The third nine saw the new champion boost his advantage to such a height that everyone but Richards would have conceded him the match at that point.

Gunning out the round in regulation figures, Wollaston took advantage of Richards' numerous misplays to sport a six-hole margin at the final turn.

Opens With Bird
Opening the match in a determined fashion, Wollaston carded a bird to take the first hole as Richards holed out in par, then moved into a two-hole lead when he parred the 123-yard second as Richards marked up a five. Both tee shots were trapped, but Wollaston blasted out two feet from the pin, while Richards' ball rimmed the green and required three putts.

Richards reduced the margin on the 163-yard fifth when Wollaston's tee shot carried to the rough at the left of the green. He regained his margin with a bird on the par-five, 487-yard sixth. With his second shot about ten feet short of the green, "Hotz" chipped and then holed out a four-foot putt to go down one stroke below regulation figures. "Sank" came back with a bird on the seventh, however, and then carded a big five on the ninth that proved good enough to deadlock the match when his opponent, after losing a ball in the rough, was charged with a six.

Wollaston carded his best round of the afternoon on the second nine, a two-under-par 34, which netted him a two-up advantage. He fired his second straight bird at the tenth hole, dropped the eleventh when his tee shot was short and Richards dropped in par, but regained the lead again with a bird on the par-five, 487-yard thirteenth. A par four on the 445-yard fifteenth lifted the margin to two holes as "Sank" was forced to play out of a trap for a five. A bird gave Richards the decision on the par-four, 240-yard seventeenth, but Wollaston held his two-hole lead when his par was good enough on the eighteenth.

Close After All
An increased gallery witnessed the afternoon rounds which saw the title quest turned from a humiliating rout into a slam-bang, hotly-contested decision that wasn't decided until the final green.

Wollaston skied his tee shot 150 yards down the fairway and after pounding out a beautiful 260-yard drive into the wind, Richards dubbed his second shot. He connected with his brassie shot to the right of the green, then pitched dead for the pin, but missed a two-foot putt to take a six. Wollaston ruffed his second shot about 40 yards past the ditch, landed in a trap on his third, but blasted out and dropped a seven-footer for a par to take the hole.

Both holed out in par on the twelfth, but Wollaston's regulation figure on the next green was good enough to lift his margin to four holes. "Sank" dropped a ten-foot putt on the par-three, 163-yard twenty-third to shave Wollaston's lead, but the new champion gunned out two straight birds on the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth and then boosted his edge to six up when his par was good enough on the twenty-seventh.

It was at this point that Richards finally came to life to mark up a two-under-par 34 that almost turned certain defeat into victory. They halved the twenty-eighth with par five's, but regulation figures on the next two holes, an eagle on the par-five, 487-yard thirty-first, and another par gave "Sank" four straight holes before Wollaston, still holding a two-up edge, finally broke the streak by halving the thirty-second.

Moving back to the attack, however,

Richards carded another bird on the par-five thirty-third to trail by the slim margin of one and two to play.

The Heat Was on
Both men fired tee shots on the thirty-fourth that rimmed the green and two-putted for pars.

Richards fired a 240-yard tee shot from the thirty-sixth green that carried to the ditch, but Wollaston, who found most of the pressure exerted his way for the moment, ruffed one of the best drives of the afternoon, a shot that carried a good 300 yards right down the middle. Both second shots reached the green, and Wollaston, after putting to within four feet of the pin, missed to mark up a five. Richards' first putt stopped about three feet from the cup and the all-important shot which would have given him a par and deadlocked the match, rolled past the hole for a bogie.

WILDLIFE REFUGES OPENED TO SPORTSMEN

Tourists And Anglers Urged To Visit Areas By H. L. Ickes

Many of the 271 national wildlife refuges throughout the United States have been opened to sports fishermen and tourists, the Fish and Wildlife Service reported to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today.

"When fishing, photography, hiking, or other tourist activities do not interfere with the primary purpose for which a refuge was established—the building up of wildlife populations—then sportsmen and others are encouraged to visit the area," said A. C. Elmer, assistant chief of the Service's Division of Wildlife Refuges.

On many of the refuges, fishing is one of the principal tourist attractions in summer. An estimated 2,500 fishermen, for example, cast their lines in the six lakes of the Wichita Mountains National Wildlife Refuge in Cache, Okla., on opening day.

Some refuges are so popular among sportsmen that commercial camps have been established near the refuge boundaries to accommodate transient Isak Waltonians.

Before planning to visit a refuge, however, it is well to make local inquiries if one wishes to do any fishing, Service officials said.

Examples of good fishing areas are the following:

Upper Mississippi River Wildlife and Fish Refuge, a 286-mile-long area from Wabasha, Minn., to Rock Island, Ill.; Chautauqua National Wildlife Refuge, in Mason County, Ill., a 4,000-acre lake on the Illinois River bottoms; Mattamuskeet National Wildlife Refuge, in New Holland, N. C., which has a 50,000-acre lake.

Okefenokee National Wildlife Refuge, near Waycross, Ga., Fort Peck Game Range, which is in five Montana Counties, the Havasu Lake National Wildlife Refuge, on the Colorado River in Arizona and California; White River National Wildlife Refuge, near St. Charles, Ark.; and the Big Lake National Wildlife Refuge, near Manila, Ark.

Federal licenses or permits are usually not necessary to fish on the refuges opened to sportsmen. Fishermen must have State licenses, however, and are bound by State fishing regulations.

TWO STAKES TO FEATURE CLOSING RACE DAYS

Christiana And New Castle 'Caps To Wind Up Big Stanton Season

Delaware Park's 30-day race meeting will come to a close on Saturday when the $10,000-added one mile and a sixteenth New Castle Handicap for fillies and mares, three years old and up, will provide the climaxing feature.

Another stake remains to be decided and the big attraction on Friday will be the $5,000-added 5 1/2 furlongs Christiana Stakes for two-year-old colts and geldings.

Ten entries appear almost certain for the Christiana Stakes, the same number named overnight for last Saturday's Polly Drummond Stakes, Delaware Park's richest stake for two-year-old fillies which fell to the rank outsider, Pony Ballet, a 40 to 1 shot.

Mrs. R. D. Patterson's Ben Shaba, winner of the Dover Stakes, is expected to play a return engagement in the Christiana. Ben Shaba's only engagement in the near future is in the July 4 special. Recently over the Belmont Park main track, the son of Islam and Shades of Night rattled five furlongs in a morning trial in .59, flirting with the Belmont record.

Other probable starters for the Christiana are G. B. Bell's Sir Counsellor, E. K. Bryson's Joe Ray, A. C. Ernst's Alobort, Hal Price Headley's Air Raider, Air Current, and Dinsen, Walter M. Jeffords' Grey Wing, John Paul Jones' Pomway, Greentree Stable's Trade Last, and George D. Widener's Equalize.

Greentree Stable's Tangled, winner of the Top Flight Handicap, Delaware Oaks, and Gazelle Stakes, heads the list of New Castle probables. When Tangled won the Delaware Oaks so easily, she set a new mile and a furlong track record.

Topweight for the event is the 126 pounds assigned the Foxcatcher Farm's Fairy Chant, and although the scale claims that a mare should give a three-year-old filly such as Tangled 10 pounds the best of it, Tangled has been assigned 121 pounds, thus receiving only five pounds from Fairy Chant.

Weights given other probable starters are: True Call, 121 pounds; Monida, 117; Busy Morn, 115; Level Best, 114; Strange Device, 113; Cis Marion, 112; War Beauty, 110; Jeanne D'Arc, 108; Swynstan, 105; Bright View, 104.

BEETLE CAMPAIGN UNDERWAY

Large Number Of Pests Is Expected

The annual campaign to keep Japanese beetles off valuable fruit and ornamental trees, shrubbery and garden plants is underway. Present reports indicate that there will likely be large numbers of the beetles in Delaware this season.

Dr. L. A. Stearns, entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, advises that fruit trees and other valuable plants on which the beetles feed can be protected by maintaining a coating of spray residue on all parts of the plants that are attacked by this annual pest. He says it's important to make sure the plants are covered with spray residue before the beetles start feeding in large numbers. A second application of the spray is made from seven to 10 days after the first spraying. And still another dose of the spray material is put on the plants at the height of the beetle season.

Spray materials now recommended for keeping beetles off of plants are repellents. Protection is obtained by turning the shiny, green beetles away from plants rather than by actually poisoning them.

One of the cheapest spray materials is made by dissolving 20 pounds of hydrated lime and three pounds of aluminum sulphate in 100 gallons of water. The residue left by this mixture must be washed from fruit before it is marketed.

Another beetle-repelling spray is made by mixing six pounds of lead arsenate, six pounds of hydrated lime and four pounds of wheat flour with 100 gallons of water. This mixture is recommended for grapes, shade trees and shrubs. The regular cover spray for late apples can usually be depended upon to keep beetles away from apple trees.

PICKED SOFTBALL TEAM FROM PLAYGROUND LEAGUE TO STAGE EXHIBITION

Fort duPont To Furnish Opposition; Tilt To Be Played Tomorrow Morning At 10 O'clock; Loop's Leading Hurlers To Twirl

George Harnischfeger, presiding officer of the Playground Softball League, has arranged an exhibition softball match to be played tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. A picked team from the local loop will meet a representative outfit from Fort duPont.

The contest should prove of special interest to local fans since the playground circuit's leading twirlers each work two and a half frames in the seven-inning tussle.

Hurlers selected for duty are Norman Aiken, Continental; Jack Hammon, Southside, and William (The Kid) Gillespie, of the Playground team.

Limited to a single run for the six innings by William (The Kid) Gillespie, Southside, defending champion in the Playground Softball League, dropped their second straight decision, a 7-4 setback at the hands of the Fort duPont team.

Gillespie kept his opposing batter well throttled until the seventh, when they rallied to push across three runs but the scoring spurge fell short. On the other hand, Jack Hammon, Southside hurler, was touched frequently in the Playground outfit pushed across two runs in the first, another in the fourth, and two each in the sixth and seventh frames.

Farmers in the Philadelphia milk shed must receive an additional 46 cents per hundred pounds on all their milk if they are to meet their bare cost of production, according to testimony placed upon the record of a public hearing of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission, by F. P. Willits, Jr., statistician for the Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative. The hearing, which opened on June 19, continuing through the 20th, then recessing until June 24, was called upon the request of the Inter-State Cooperative in order to consider the need for increased prices to farmers, in order that they may meet their rapidly rising costs of production.

In supporting this demand, the commission was informed by Inter-State of the results of a recent survey showing that the labor situation is becoming more and more acute on dairy farms. Wages are going up, help is scarce, hard to get and lacking in experience or ability, and reports from all parts of the Philadelphia milk shed show that the supply of farm help is being drained constantly by higher paying industries.

Another factor brought out by Mr. Willits in his testimony, was that the hot, dry spring had resulted in a drastically reduced hay crop, which was further damaged in its harvesting by the excessive June rains.

Costs of supplies are increasing and it was asserted that unless milk producers get more for their product there is serious damage of a shortage of milk for the Philadelphia market.

A price increase is imperative, it was asserted, if Pennsylvania dairymen are to be enabled, financially, to do their share in fulfilling the request of the Federal Government that production of dairy products be increased to meet the needs of the national emergency.

In addition, O. H. Hoffman, Jr., general manager of Inter-State requested of the Commission that producers be granted a price which will return them not only their cost of production but also a profit commensurate with that allowed milk distributors.

Further testimony was placed upon the record by W. L. Barr, farm management expert of Pennsylvania State College, who reported that the cost of milk production as based on surveys and studies made under his supervision by the State College.

Numerous other producer witnesses informed the Commission that their experience and records as to the cost of milk production were within a cent or two per hundred pounds of milk of the cost figures placed upon the records by the Inter-State representative.

It was urged by all producers and their representatives at the hearing that the Commission make every effort to speed the preparation and issuance of a new price order so that producers will be granted, as soon as possible, a return commensurate with their cost of production.

The United States News estimates that while Germany and England are each devoting about three-fifths of all their labor hours to production for military purposes, the United States will be giving only one-eighth of its working time to the defense program when it gets into full swing next summer.

BAD EGG HEADACHE TO FARMER

Proper Handling Recommended To Decrease Loss

Most folks casually think of a bad egg as just a good egg gone wrong. But poultry farmers annually lose about 175 million dozen eggs because the eggs go bad. And that's something to really think about.

The way to prevent this tremendous egg loss is to follow good production methods on the farm and to make sure that the eggs are being handled right after they are produced, says a new bulletin just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The bulletin is No. 1378 and may be obtained by writing the Division of Publications, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

"Marketing Eggs" is the bulletin's title. In it are several suggestions to help cut down on losses from bad eggs—keep strong, healthy, vigorous hens and care for them properly, produce infertile eggs after the hatching season is over, gather eggs at least twice a day in cool weather and not less than three times a day in hot weather, keep eggs clean and in a cool, fairly moist place, and market eggs frequently.

When it comes to getting eggs ready for market, U. S. Department of Agriculture Bulletin 1378 recommends that all cracked, dirty, and undersized and oversized eggs be sorted out. Eggs should not be washed, says the bulletin, and they should be packed when cool, with the large end up.

PARACHUTE EMBLEM IS SELECTED

Silver Badge Of Courage Awarded After Rigid Tests

A silver emblem depicting a winged parachute, opened for descent, which will be worn over the left breast just as Air Corps pilots wear their "Wings," has been approved by the War Department for wear by qualified members of the U. S. Parachute Troops, it was announced today by Capt. C. F. Schell, public relations officer, Delaware Recruiting District.

The new emblem, designed by Captain William P. Yarbrough, a well-known pioneer parachutist of the 501st Parachute Battalion, is unofficially termed "The Silver Badge of Courage" by Army men because it is worn only after the parachutist has proven himself capable of undertaking the daring and adventurous duties assigned to him.

Embryo parachutists volunteer from other branches of the Army and are carefully selected for their strength and athletic prowess, their intelligence and their proven ability to handle different types of special weapons, he explained. Then they must undergo months of special drills designed to familiarize them further with their weapons and attend study periods in which they learn related subjects which will be important to them.

Many weeks are spent, too, in packing and re-packing their parachutes so that eventually they may trust their lives to them without hesitation. During all this time they undergo a rigorous routine of calisthenics, tumbling, boxing and competitive exercises designed to put them into top physical condition.

In order to qualify for the rating "Parachutist" and the additional pay authorized, they must finally complete six jumps from an Army transport plane, one from 1,500 feet, one from 1,000 feet, two from 750 feet and two mass jumps from 750 feet.

Only after this strenuous, but far from tedious training has been completed, and the qualification jumps accomplished, may the young parachutists wear "The Silver Badge of Courage."

4-H CLUB MEMBERS AT PARLEY

More Than 250 Attend Session

With 250 other club members and their leaders from all parts of the country attending the fifteenth annual National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, the Delaware delegation—Alberta Fordham, Middletown; Sue Webb, Greenwood; William Phillips, Middletown; Lister Hall, Frederica; Miss Anne B. Moore, Sussex County 4-H club agent, and C. E. McCauley, State 4-H club supervisor—heard Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard read a letter written by President Roosevelt and addressed to the 4-Hers attending the 1941 national get-together.

President Roosevelt's letter reflects his interest in the 4-H clubs of the country. In the letter he wrote—"I shall be grateful if you will express to the delegates and through them to every member of the 4-H organization my deep interest in the important, worthwhile work being done by them, particularly in National Defense during the present world crisis. The 4-H Clubs as a great educational and character-building movement are contributing to better living, and a stronger Nation. With the training given their members in work, thrift, self-reliance, and in the practice of democracy, they constitute a great stabilizing influence in America."

After a colorful citizenship ceremony, Mayor LaGuardia of New York City, who is also director of the Office of Civilian Defense, told the 4-H members and leaders that "the country is embarking on a vast program of national defense because we wish to give this land to future generations with all its beauty untouched and with every sacred American institution preserved."

Mayor LaGuardia closed his talk before the camp delegates who represented more than a million-and-a-half rural boys and girls with a forceful appeal for them to "keep your Heads clear, your Hands Busy, your Hearts pure and your Health perfect."

EGG HIGH IN FOOD VALUE

A real egg booster is Miss Pearl MacDonald, nutritionist for the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, who advocates the use of eggs in the diet of every person every week in the year. She says that every person should eat at least four to six eggs a week. And besides eating eggs in any of the tasty ways that they can be prepared, this nutritionist suggests including eggs as often as possible in all cooked dishes.

Eggs, says Miss MacDonald, belong to the protective group of foods, including milk and dairy products, vegetables and fruits. These foods are protective because they contain high quality proteins and an abundance of vitamins and minerals.

Water glass solution is Miss MacDonald's first choice as a way to preserve eggs for winter use. Here are her directions for preserving eggs by the use of water glass, which may be purchased at local drug stores.

A stone crock is probably the best container for the water glass. A five-gallon crock will hold 15 dozen eggs. Infertile eggs are best. Select only clean, one-day-old eggs. Do not wash eggs.

Clean crock thoroughly, scald and let dry. Boil a quantity of water and let it cool. Measure out nine quarts of the water into the crock. Add one quart of water glass. Mix well, and the solution is ready to receive the eggs. Put those surplus summer eggs into the solution from day to day. But be careful to keep from cracking the eggs.

Keep two inches of water glass solution above top layer of eggs. Keep crock in a cool, dry place and well covered. If the solution evaporates, more can be added. Eggs preserved the water glass way can be taken out of the crock at any time and used the same as fresh eggs.
