Riding the bus is an experience everyone must have. For some it is the only means of transportation available. Nonetheless it isn't rare to meet a friend or see a friendly face on the bus.

Waiting for the bus gives friends a chance to talk or to thumb through the REVIEW in hopes of some exciting news.

Strolling through the campus is inevitably a part of your everyday life. Of course it is always more enjoyable if you have someone special to stroll with!

Student Life

The steps of Smith and Purnell Halls are likely gathering places for students to stop and chat while basking in the sunshine.

HEY, HELLO, HI, WHAT'S UP? are the phrases most commonly heard on campus before and after classes as students migrate to popular meeting areas to talk, exchange notes, maybe study and of course to SCOPE!

hey

Smile! Enjoying the sun, two friendly students are caught in the act waving a friendly hello to the mind behind the camera.

Some people show a little bit more excitement than others . . . I wonder if Tailgating has anything to do with it?

TAILGATING

Nothing can stop Delaware fans from going all out at football games. Tailgating, barbecues and All mean one thing at Delaware, partying! The partying is great, waiting on line for a port-a-john has got to go!

There are many faces in a crowd at a football game. You remember parents weekend when you scrounged to find sought after tickets to a football game for your parents. They look like they are enjoying it!

T H E

The Delaware Blue Hen takes time out from entertaining the fans to recruit a new friend.

Surprisingly enough, the police are often a common sight at our football games as they seek to control unruly crowds of boisterous student tailgaters.

The fighting BLUE HENS squander to keep control of the ball with minutes left in the game.

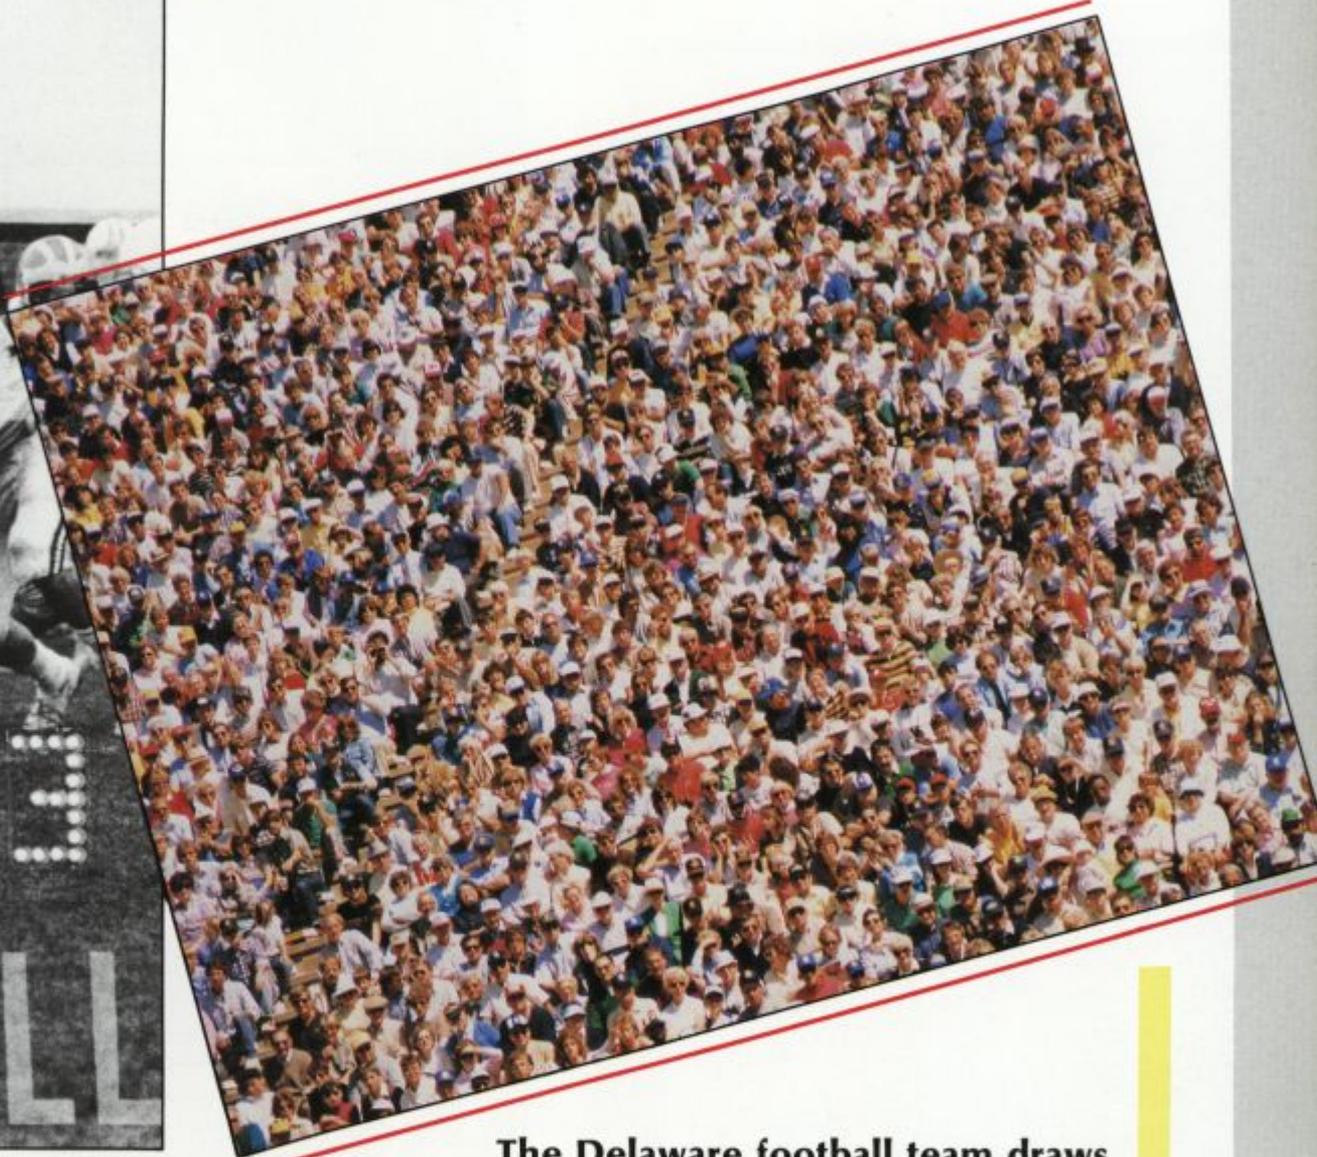

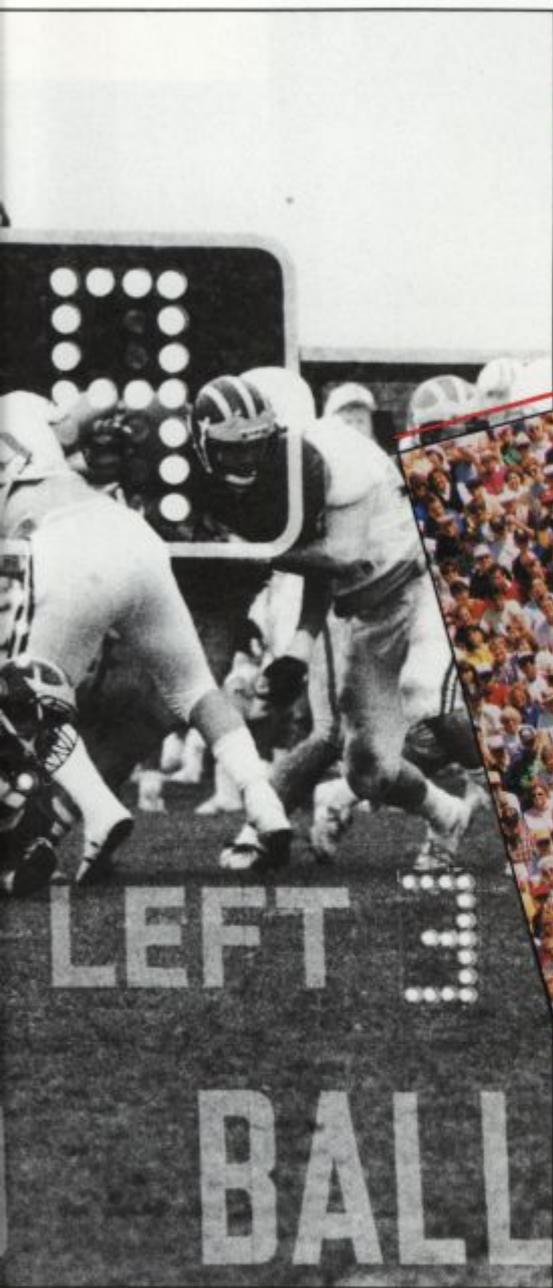

Carefree and suntanned Stacy and Loren are enjoying an afternoon of tailgating festivities.

pleasers

The Delaware football team draws thousands of families, friends and relatives every football season. Prepared for rain or shine weather Delaware fans sport visors, hats, seat cushions and are always ready to tailgate; a long standing Delaware tradition. A tradition that is sure to be upheld by Delaware students!

The Newark Amtrak station provides little or no comfort for its passengers. The station is usually crowded with students and friends travelling for a long weekend or a quick trip home.

Stopping only once a day in the booming metropolis of Newark, Amtrak seems to very rarely be on schedule. Students waiting can only hope and pray that the train is on its way.

Is this where I get off?

Students and visitors on their way to Newark question if this is really their destination as they approach the desolate and abandoned train station. Their fears are confirmed as the conductor announces the stop and quickly shuffles students into one car for an easy and quick drop-off in this forgotten train station.

With knapsacks, bags and suitcases, students crowd the entrance to one of the few modes of transportation in and out of Newark. Riding Amtrak is always a pleasurable experience!

ID

Delaware students received new identification this year. Tattered and torn ID cards were replaced.

However this did not solve many students' identification problems. Local bars do not admit students with merely a student ID. And the scramble to find legitimate ID continues!

Plastic money allow students the freedom to access our money anytime of day or night, and the MAC and CASHSTREAM conversion made it even more convenient.

An endless sea of cars may leave you wondering just where it was you parked, and if there is a ticket waiting for you.

Is there hope for the parking nightmare at the University? The parking committee seems to think so.

"Time is money," is a familiar phrase and no money for the meter means a ticket. We all know how freely tickets are given out in Newark! If, that is, you can find a place to park!

The Dilemma of Where to Park the Car!

Parking on campus is a horror for many students, who, at the onset of each semester, scramble to obtain sought after parking stickers in the over crowded parking lots. Though the University is attempting to tackle the problem, their small steps towards a remedy leave students frustrated, at a loss for small change for meters and usually late to class trying to find a parking place. Meters seem to conveniently run out before your class is over. One alternative, (see below), is a popular one on campus but only in nice weather.

A BREAK

Whether it was off to the beach or off to the slopes, Delaware students take full advantage of their long awaited Spring Break.

Cancun or Florida were places to catch some rays, while others preferred the windburn look on the slopes of Aspen, Colorado.

Either one afforded us the opportunity to enjoy a week of relaxation and non-stop partying.

LEADERS

of the PACK

The 5K Run for Bruce has been sponsored over the years by the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. This annual event has become one of Delaware's largest road races. The course is set in the heart of Newark and attracts runners of all levels and ages. The community event has grown into quite a success.

A solitary runner headed for home.

People who start in back have a good view of the hundreds of participants.

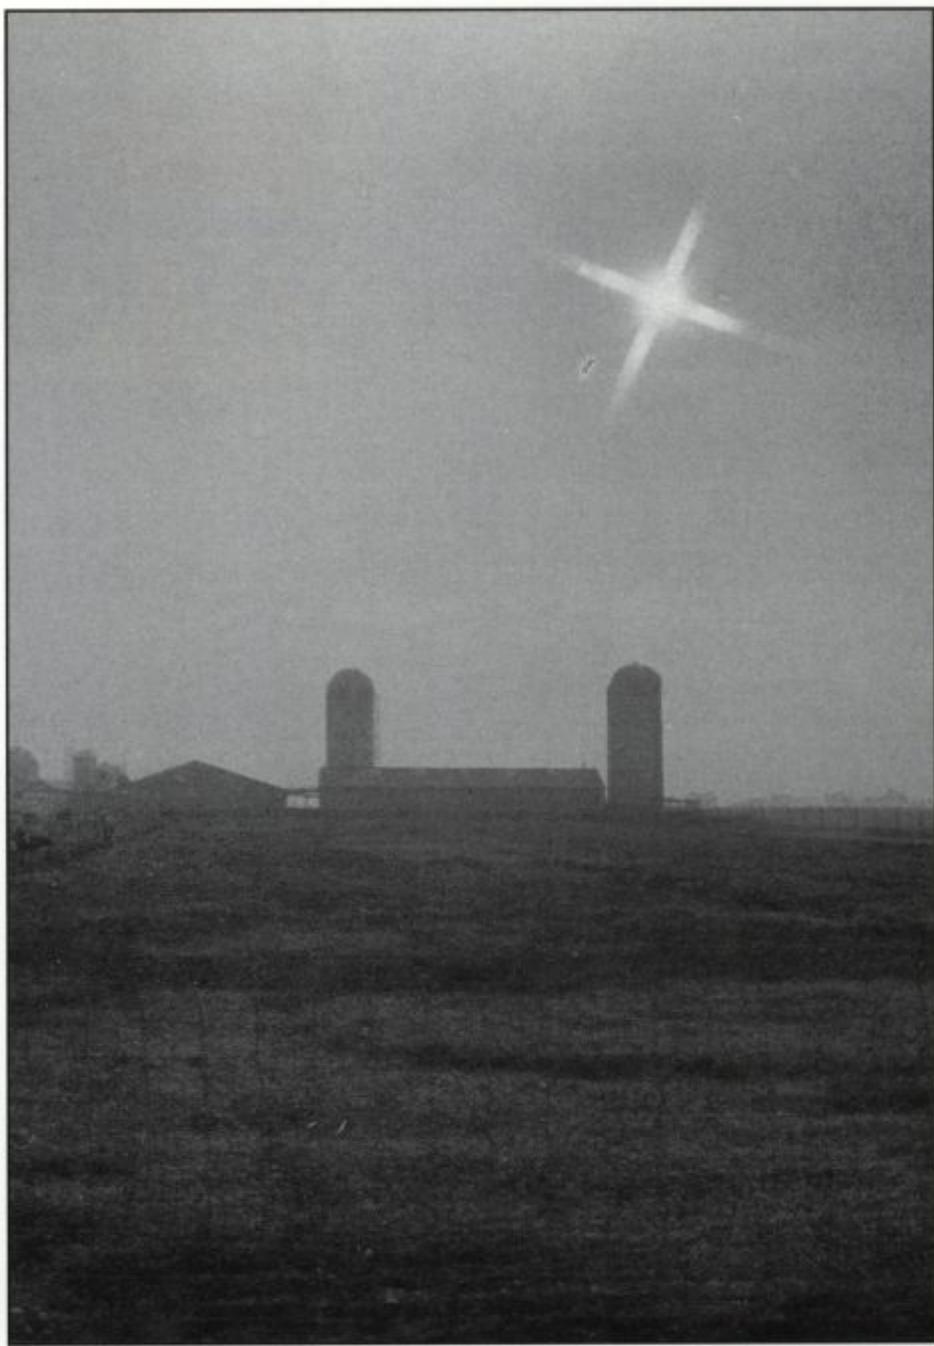

Two runners heading the pack at the start.

Coming in first is not important for these people who just want to have fun.

Keeping to the outside these people manage to find a little space in the crowd.

BAH!

Ag Day is sponsored by the Agriculture department of the University. It draws crowds of students, community members, and of course, children of all ages, who enjoy their petting zoo. The event gives onlookers a chance to become familiar with an agricultural environment and to see eye to eye with the animals!

MOO!

The computers in Smith are available to students who find working with computers easier than an old fashioned typewriter.

Students pick and choose in the dining hall what they think is a healthy lunch. Food poisoning shouldn't have to be a concern to them!

Even the Library's catalog system is now computerized. It is simple to learn and fortunately not affected by the virus.

BUG OUT

The virus seemed to be common on campus this year. Our computer system was plagued by a virus which went undetected for quite some time and caused many students, faculty and users to lose information which had been previously stored on disk. As if that wasn't bad enough, outbreaks of food poisoning were linked possibly to our dining halls. It's been tough trying to stay healthy!

Dining Delights

College students are very creative when finding ways to appease their hunger. While the dining hall, far right, offers an almost endless supply of food and drink, many come merely to socialize and scope, below. If extra money is on hand, some will try the food truck usually located outside Smith, below, far right, while others may be down to their last few pennies and settle for a piece of Bazooka!, right. I guess eating is all a part of the "college experience."

TOMMY CONWELL

Tommy Conwell dazzled Delaware students when he performed at the Stone Balloon in Newark. With his band, the Young Rumlbers, he performed at many area bars and schools in the last year, which further contributed to his success in the national music world.

This Spring, The Alarm packed the Delaware fieldhouse as they performed live as part of Delaware's Spring Fling festivities.

Beginning in July the U.S. Government allowed the Kuwaiti tankers to fly under the American flag in order to protect them from Iran and to keep the Persian Gulf open for navigation. On September 21, U.S. helicopters spotted an Iranian ship laying mines. Five Iranians were killed when the helicopters opened fire. During October the situation continued to heat up when the Sea Isle City, a Kuwaiti oil tanker, was damaged by an Iranian missile.

In August the Senate Investigations into the Iran-Contra affair finally came to an end. Of the 29 witnesses interviewed the most prominent by far was Lt. Col. Oliver North, "Ollie" to some. He became a popular folk hero to many people for his actions in trying to finance anti-communist rebels in Nicaragua. The money was to be raised by selling American made weapons to Iran.

His actions were declared heroic by many people including President Reagan. Everything from buttons to T-shirts pronounced "Ollie for President!" and "Oliver North: an American Hero." The Senate investigation committee examined the apparent conspiracy which misled Congress and deliberately violated foreign policies that forbade any negotiations with Iran. Oliver North a hero or a villain?

In the months before October, the Dow Jones industrials had been quickly rising and on August 25th, they reached an all time high of 2722 points. But it could not continue for long. On October 19th, the industrials dropped 508 points stripping $500 billion from the market value of U.S. securities.

President and Nancy Reagan wave to well-wishers from the South Portico of the White House. Reagan escorted his wife back to the White House from Bethesda Naval Hospital where she underwent successful breast cancer surgery.

In October the heart of the nation was captured by a little girl who was only 18 months old. Jessica McClure, known to most people as Baby Jessica, had been playing in her back yard when she fell down an old abandoned well. All of West Midland, Texas pulled together in an around the clock rescue effort. The shaft she had fallen into was too narrow to allow any rescuers or equipment down so another shaft had to be built nearby. Rescuers then had to dig a tunnel across to Jessica. After 58 hours of hard work and anxious waiting Jessica McClure was brought out of the well and rushed to the hospital. Her foot had suffered from lack of circulation but after a week the doctors announced that her foot was recovering and they would not have to amputate.

Katerina Witt from East Germany won the Gold medal in the Woman's figure skating event of the '88 Olympics. Debbie Thomas, skating for the U.S., came away with the Bronze. She made one of the few contributions to the U.S. collection of medals this year. Winning only two other medals, the U.S. had a bad year. Brian Boitano of California came away with the only Gold on the American team. With only one flaw in his routine he managed to be one of the few skaters who did not fall to the ice.

The presidential campaign has been full of twists and turns this year with Gary Hart leading the pack. Accusations of adultery last spring forced him to drop out of the race. But by December his supporters had talked him into taking up the campaign trail again. Questions concerning the legality of his financial sources and his poor showings in the first few primaries forced him to drop out once again.

During February Gen. Noriega, head of the Panamanian armed forces, was indicted on charges of drug smuggling. Pres. Delvalle went into hiding after he was deposed from the government for trying to dismiss Noriega. In March an attempted coup failed and Noriega remains in office.

Joe Clark of Eastside High in Paterson, NJ had always been tough on his students but when he tossed out 66 students that he considered thugs, hoodlums, and drug pushers the school board came down hard. He was charged with insubordination and threatened with dismissal.

In May the two superpower leaders met for what may be the last time in Reagan's administration. The summit was held in Moscow where it had been 14 years since a president last visited. President Reagan, who was once a passionate anti-communist, now considers Gorbachev to be a friend. These two men have created a framework for a continuing relationship between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. The precedent of frequent visits and open talks can only be continued by future presidents. The historical agreement of December, the INF treaty, which banned all intermediate range nuclear missiles, has helped to solidify the working rapport which our two nations have developed.

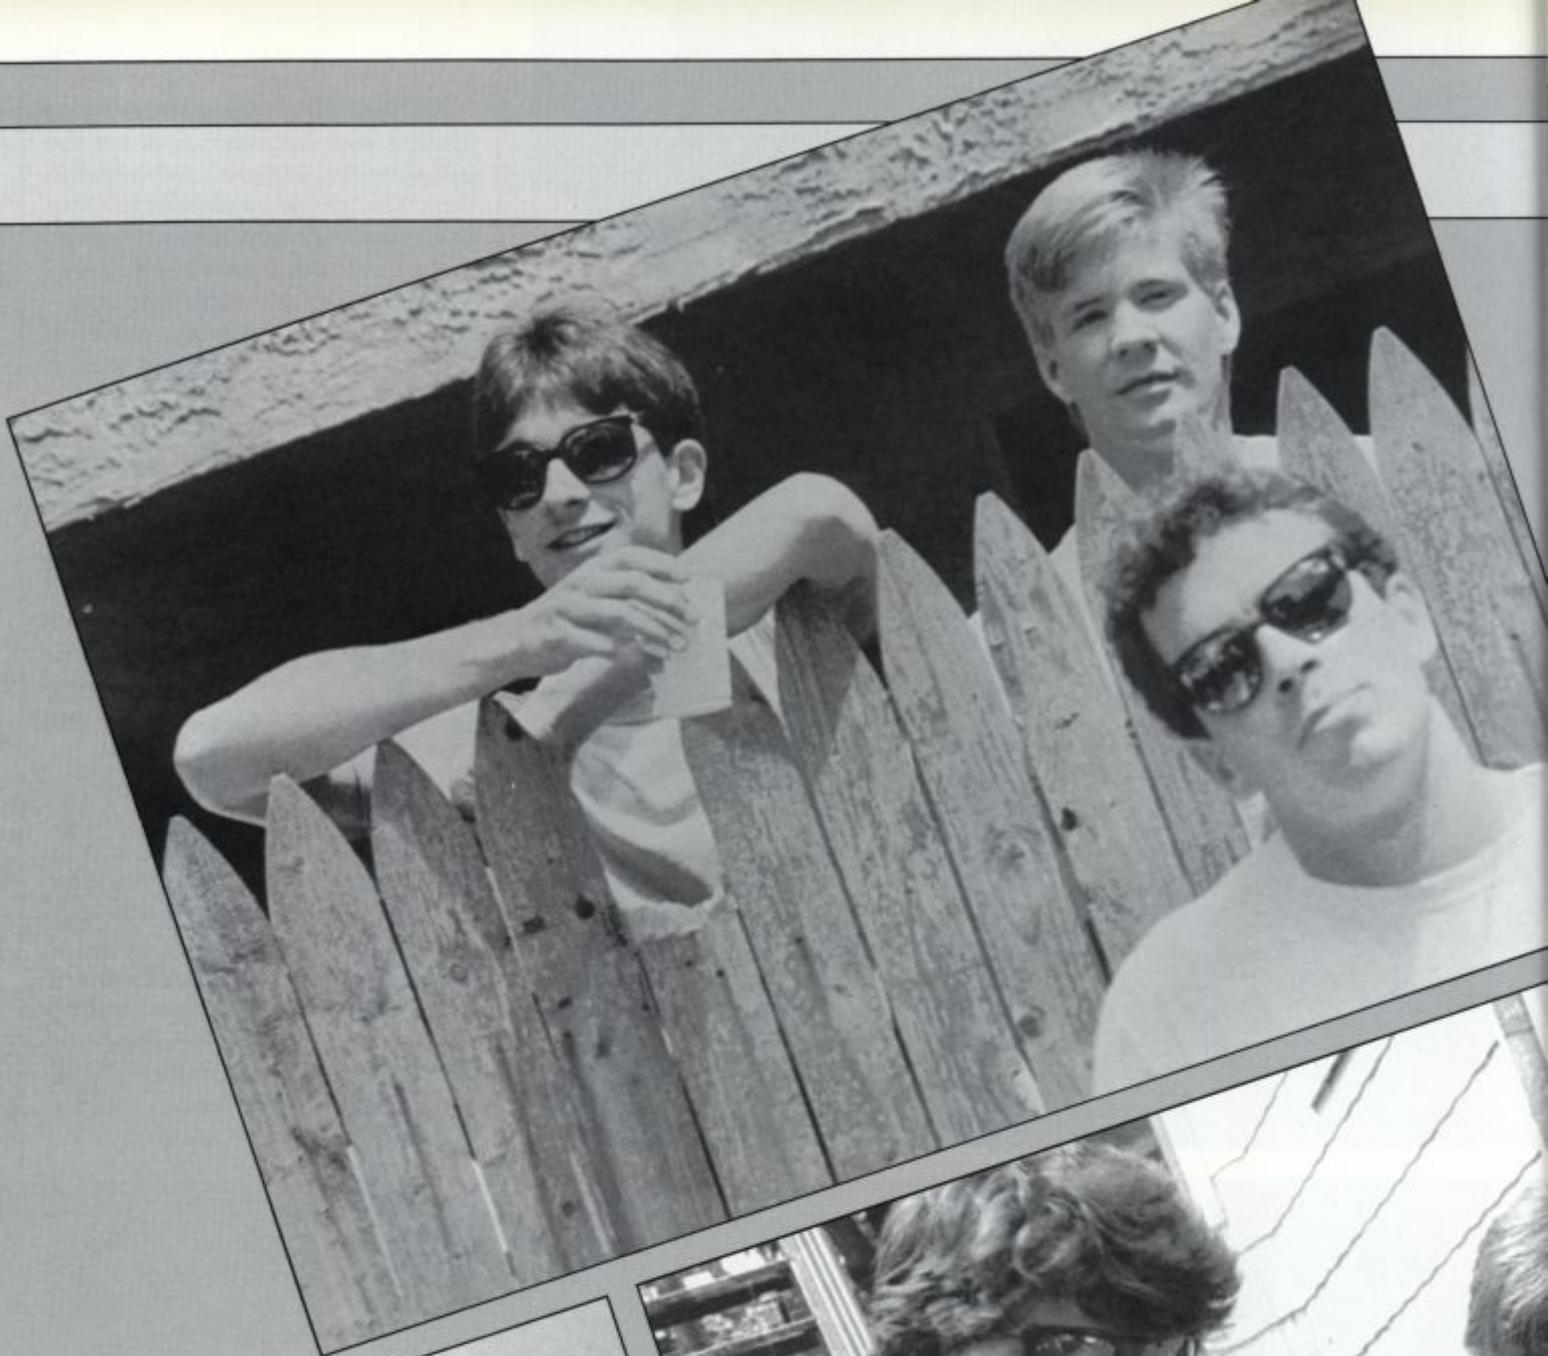

For the last eight years the Soviets have occupied Afghanistan fighting a constant battle with the Afghan rebels who controlled 80% of the countryside. But during May the Soviets began their pullout and nearly five million refugees will return to find their homes and villages have been devastated.
