Traffic has woman counting trucks, not sheep

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newarker Melora Davis sets her alarm clock for 3 a.m. to get out of bed and count trucks traveling on South College Avenue. Davis, who lives in the 300 block of South College Avenue, tabulates each noisy tractor trailer traveling in front of her house while sitting on her couch and looking out her front windows. She was going to count trucks at the intersection of West Park Place and South College Avenue, but cold weather kept her counting from the warmth, if not quiet, of her living room.

Davis spent the first week in March counting tractor trailers for a total of eight hours. Each day she would alternate her counting time from 3 to 4 a.m. through noon to 1 p.m.

She said she started the counting marathon after an Old Newark Civic Association meeting where Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) official Ray Pusey said citizen involvement was needed to get traffic changes made.

Her study found on an average day 46 tractor trailers and 30 heavy, non-local trucks travel southbound toward Interstate 95. Twenty-seven tractor trailers and 39 heavy trucks drive northbound from I-95 to Main Street.

She calculates a truck passes her house every six minutes. The maximum number of trucks counted passing in an hour was 26, and peak times are in the early morning hours of 4 and 6 a.m.

She said the truck traffic increases in the summer with gravel and cement trucks traveling the road to construction sites.

Davis is especially tuned in to the truck noise in the summer, when her windows are open.

She said sleep is a scarce commodity, with the rigs thundering down South College Avenue the way they do.

Armed with her findings, Davis wants results. She wants to convince Newark City Council to approve a road sign that limits the truck load and local delivery on south-

Recent balmy weather boosts merchants' spirits

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A reprieve from winter has allowed people to shed their parkas, take a walk, fly a kite, go for a drive, and most importantly—spend money.

At least it's important to local merchants. Fred Robinson, the owner of Newark Lumber of Main Street, said the attitude of his customers is better than he has seen it in a long time.

Not only have consumer's attitude's improved, they seem to be spending more money. Last week, Treats Restaurant on Main Street had the busiest week since the restaurant opened almost two years ago, according to Krayl Funch, assistant manager.

In fact, store employees seem just as giddy from the warm days as consumers.

"We can wear just regular dress shirts and ties and walk outside without slipping on the ice," said Gary Hendrixson, new car manager at Newark Jeep and Eagle on Cleveland Avenue. Hendrixson said he has noticed a definite increase of traffic in the store.

The promise of spring also means prom time for local teenagers. Robert Lock, co-owner of Formal Affairs on Main Street, said prom time is like Christmas in his business. Newark High School's prom is April 22, and Lock said he is already seeing an increase in business. He expects it to keep getting better.

"Guys like to wait to the last minute for their Tuxedos," Lock said.

New gun laws? No big deal

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

One Newark gun shop owner says the Brady Law, effective as of Feb. 28, will not change how he conducts business because he feels the state already has strict laws regulating gun sales.

The federal Brady Law requires a five-day waiting period for local law enforcement to do background checks on people wanting to buy handguns.

This waiting period does not apply to Delaware because the law exempts the five-day wait in states under the Instant Check system.

Lou DiLeonardo Sr., owner of Lou's Gun Shop on Kirkwood Highway, said the only thing the law changes for him is that if a person applies to buy two or more guns, he must send a form—already being sent to the Division of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF)—to the state police.

Before each handgun purchase, Delaware law requires gun shop owners to call the state police with a person's name, date of birth and social security number. The information is put into a computer to almost instantly check if a person has a felony or mental record.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation's computer is also checked.

The Delaware system, called Instant Check, has been a state law for about three years.

"People don't realize how much gun shops are already controlled," said DiLeonardo.

He said since opening his gun shop nine months ago, he has been visited by federal officials from ATF four times, state and county police and the FBI.

Lou DiLeonardo Sr. (Right), owner of Lou's Gun Shop on Kirkwood Highway, and his son, Lou DiLeonardo Jr., question the validity of new, federal gun legislation.

He had a gun shop in his garage for the 13 previous years.

DiLeonardo said he likes the background check and would like it to be nation-wide. "It gets them (agencies) off my back," he said. "If I sell a gun used for criminal activity, ATF gives me a hard time."

He said his shop did make some extra sales when people knew the Brady bill was going to be made law, but he said, "they weren't lined up at the door."

"The bottom line is the Brady law is a joke," said DiLeonardo. "It will not affect in any way the gun buyers on the streets."

He said laws to control guns are only

Cheerleaders prepare for competition, seek funds

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Thirty-two girls, most from the Newark area, really have something to cheer about.

The girls, in the Junior Cheerleaders of Delaware, a non-profit, independent group, will be competing in the Colonial Cheer Challenge in Williamsburg, Va. April 8-10.

The cheerleaders, ages 10 to 15, are divided in two units—the blue and gold squads.

Both teams held tryouts in February and chose royal blue and gold colors and the Wildcats as their mascot.

This will be the first team competition for both squads.

The teams will travel to the competition together but will raise funds, practice and compete separately.

An exception will be on March 19 when the squads are holding a cheerleading camp for girls ages 6 to 15 at Wilmington College from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This is one of many fundraisers the girls have been holding to raise money to pay for their uniforms, hotel and transportation costs. The trip costs about $300 per girl.

The blue team has held a bowl-a-thon and asked for donations at grocery stores.

City planners ponder fate of historic Deer Park Farm site

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In spite of negative community input, the owner of the Old Deer Park Farm property on Park Place has applied for rezoning with Newark's Planning Department in order to build five luxury townhomes.

Ed Sobelevski, the owner of the 1.2-acre lot and historic farmhouse, shared his plans with members of the Friends of Old Newark, a local civic association, in February. When members expressed their disapproval to building more than four townhomes, Sobelevski had said his plans were "up in the air."

However, Sobelevski has submitted his application for rezoning to the city's planning department. He was not available for comment at presstime.

Roy Lopota, city planning director, said the land is currently zoned for one house, and Sobelevski must get the city's approval to subdivide the property for five townhomes.

The Planning Commission will review Sobelevski's application on April 5. Lopota said he did not want to discuss details of the application before the commission had a chance to review it. He said members of the community have already contacted him about the proposal, but he didn't want to discuss the nature of the comments yet.

Sobelevski is proposing "empty nester" townhomes that would target families whose children are grown and out of the house. In order to build the townhomes, Sobelevski will need to demolish the farmhouse which is registered as an historic building.

Merchants offer free vacations

If this season's arctic winter has you down and out, and you've been toying with the idea of a vacation, see the back page of this week's Newark Post.

"It's one of the most exciting events we've ever offered by local merchants," said James B. Streit Jr., publisher.

Each of the more than 25 local merchants will be giving away a four-day, three-night vacation at one of four sites throughout the United States and Canada.

Winners will be able to choose from Orlando, Fla., Branson, Mo., Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Toronto, Ontario.

It's easy to participate. Just turn to page 10A of today's Newark Post, clip the coupon and take it to any of the participating merchants. Bon voyage!

Student injured in school bus accident on I-95

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A Kirk Middle School student sustained minor injuries in an accident involving a school bus and car March 15.

The accident occurred on Interstate 95 near Route 141 at about 7 a.m., Delaware State police report.

The student was taken to Christiana Hospital, treated and released.

Police said the car which hit the bus had been stolen and was swerving from lane to lane when the accident occurred. Police said the two teenagers in the car then fled on foot. Police located the two at Deleaste High School and arrested the driver of the car, LaMotte Waddell, 17, of Wilmington, and Karl Myatt, 18, also of Wilmington.

Both were charged with receiving stolen property.

Waddell was also charged with careless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, failure to report an accident, no valid driver's license and having a fictitious registration.

Waddell was turned over to his parents pending a hearing in family court. Myatt was arraigned at court 18 and released on $1,500 unsecured bail.

bound South College Avenue.

"We would ask city council that the Newark police enforce it but the city has to ask DelDOT to put up the sign," said Davis.

Counting trucks may seem a unique hobby, but Davis, who bought her home back in 1968, isn't alone. For those living on West Main Street in Newark it has almost become a pastime.

More than 25 residents, including Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity members in the northwest part of Newark, took part in the 1988 community truck watch.

For 22 hours straight, two or three observers stood at the corner of Cleveland Avenue and West Main Street on Sept. 18-19 counting trucks.

The trucks numbered 310, excluding local delivery.

In 1991, a similar study was conducted by some of the same people. About 364 tractor trailers and large trucks were counted. That number does not include the 100 local delivery trucks counted.

Police beat

N.H.S. student threatens teacher: A 15-year-old Newark High School student threatened to punch his teacher in the mouth after the teacher reprimanded him for lingering too long in the hallway. Police said the teacher is pressing disorderly conduct and menacing charges against the student. The incident occurred March 10.

Silver and Jewelry taken in burglary: Newark police report silver and jewelry was stolen Residents of a house in the 100 block of Sypherd Drive were shocked to enter their home March 14 and find it in disarray with furniture moved and drawers open, Newark police report. Police said silver and jewelry was reportedly stolen from the house. The house was entered through a rear door where the window had been broken.

Attack near Main Street: A 26-year-old Wilmington man was punched in the mouth and head by the driver and passenger of a car that nearly ran him down as he tried to cross Newark's Main Street March 10. According to police reports, the man, who escaped injury by jumping onto the curb, shouted at the driver, who refused to yield at a pedestrian crosswalk. His attack occurred in retaliation several minutes later while he was walking behind Roy Rogers Restaurant on Main Street. Witnesses were able to give police a licence plate number and the incident is under investigation.

Two cars stolen from lot: A black 1990 Ford Mustang and a black 1988 Pontiac Formula were reported stolen March 14 from NuCar Pontiac on Cleveland Avenue.

Three miles for a ticket: A high school student was ticketed March 14 by a Newark police officer for "failure to comply with a lawful order" after the officer tried — unsuccessfully — to have the young driver pull over. The pursuit, which went on for three miles along South College Avenue, ended at Glasgow High School. The officer had initially planned to write a ticket for a taillight violation. The student, a 16-year-old girl, finally stopped in the school parking lot. She tearfully explained to the officer that she couldn't find a place to pull over.

Property taken from two neighbor's vehicles: A fishing reel and two boxes of shotgun shells were reported stolen March 11 from a truck parked in the 900 block of Pheasant Run. The truck was unlocked.

Personal property swiped: Police said a basketball, radar detector and a speaker were reported stolen March 15 from a truck in the 300 block of Chickory Way. Police said the radio was pulled out, damaging the dashboard, but was left behind.

Shop owners dispute more gun control laws affecting citizens obeying the laws.

"A person robbing and shooting people is not affected by another gun law being passed," he said. "What do they care? They don't follow the laws in the first place."

So if the Brady Law isn't the answer in DiLeonardo's eyes, what is?

DiLeonardo believes the justice system needs revamping to stop repeat offenders from getting out of jail. He said mandatory laws of 5 year jail time should be imposed on people caught illegally selling guns.

Kurt Slicer of Slicer Sporting Goods on Old Capitol Trail is not affected by the new law because it only applies to handguns. Slicer sells rifles and shotguns.

But Slicer said he believes the law won't make an impact on crime. "It's only going to hinder the regular citizens and make them wait for a gun," said Slicer. "It's not going to stop crime because criminals don't abide by laws."

Lt. David Deputy of the Delaware State Police said the Brady Law makes Delaware attractive to out-of-state criminals purchasing guns because of the Instant Check system.

He said because the Brady Law requires a waiting period except in states with Instant Check that out-of-staters wanting to quickly purchase guns could come to Delaware.

Deputy said a person has to be a state resident to buy a gun in Delaware, but said a non-resident could use fake identification or have a Delaware residents buy the handguns.

The loopholes in Delaware are that there are no limits to how many handguns can be bought for any period of time. There is no waiting period, so a great number of guns can be bought fast.

Deputy is on the criminal justice council which created gun control legislation to protect the state from this loophole. The suggestions are currently being reviewed by Gov. Thomas Carper.

The proposed laws are:

- Limiting handgun purchases to one every 30 days. The exceptions are if a person's gun is stolen, buying gun collections, estate transfers, licensed private detectives and police.
- The elimination of private handgun sales by requiring the seller and buyer to go to a gun store and have the Instant Check run on the buyer. Deputy said this helps in tracing guns used during crimes.
- Requiring a state or federal picture identification and an electric or telephone bill for a second identification to prove residency.
- Increase the mandatory sentence from two to three years for using a firearm during a felony.

girls to work as a team, do the best they can and be friends."

"I love cheerleading," said Brittany Boyer, 13, of Newark. "I'm nervous about competition but I hope we place."

Newarker Kristen King, 11, is excited about competing. "I think it's going to be neat."

Nikki Widdoes, 12, of Bear said the competition will be fun even if the squad doesn't win.

Carlene DeMaio, 11, of Newark said she participates in the club because she enjoys cheering. A broken collarbone will keep DeMaio from being in the competition, but she is still going to Williamsburg to give team members support.

Gold teams members have an equal amount of spirit and enthusiasm.

Coach Toni Kosturko said they will be performing in Fox Run Shopping Center on April 2 as part of a Christiana Fire Co. promotion.

She said the gold team has raised money for their trip by holding a dance and having a car wash, where they washed about 70 cars in an hour.

"Most important is the girls enjoy themselves at the competition," said Kosturko. "I want them to be happy they got to represent their state."

Each squad's four-minute routine will include cheering, pom poms, stunts, tumbling and dancing.

"And lots of smiles," adds Kosturko.

Newark resident Lelanie Spain, 14, said she is in the club because its different with only competitions, not cheering for a team like in leagues. "I'm scared about the competition because I haven't competed against other states," she said.

Kristin Gray, 13, of Newark said the competition is going to be tough but she said it's fun to cheer.

The teams have gotten some support from local businesses but are looking for other sponsors. M&W Sports World in Bear donated 40 camp shirts for all the girls. Thriftway Grocery in Bear donated $100 and East Coast Athletic Supply donated shorts.

Non-profit contributions to help the Junior Cheerleaders of Delaware pay for their trip to Virginia can be sent to P.O. Box 888, Bear, DE 19701.

DelDOT puts plan on hold for Porter Square berm repairs

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Renovations to a 30-foot berm that residents in Porter Square, near Glasgow, were hoping would be done by the end of the year could be stalled because of funding, according to Delaware Department of Transportation officials.

The berm, not so affectionately referred to as Porter Square Mountain, was constructed by DelDOT along the Del 896 bypass in order to muffle traffic sounds and block the view of the highway for residents of Porter Square.

Ray Harbeson, chief engineer in the Office of Preconstruction at DelDOT, told residents at a meeting Tuesday night that it is "likely the berm won't be done by this summer."

DelDOT's estimated costs for reshaping, elongating, beautifying and installing drainage for the berm are $483,980. However, if DelDOT can use dirt from a wetland excavation project at Lums Pond, the price "should go down by more than half," according to Harbeson.

Harbeson said DelDOT plans to use material from the Lums Pond project for two other berms on Del.

896—one in front of Stones Throw development and another in front of Glasgow High School. The catch is that DelDOT must first buy the land for the additional berms and that probably won't happen in time to start renovations on Porter Square Mountain this year.

If DelDOT can convince the Core of Engineers and the Delaware Department of Transportation, those in charge of the Lums Pond project, to proceed with the wetland excavation in phases, then DelDOT could start renovating the Porter Square berm this year and construct the additional berms when the land is purchased.

"We're not ready to commit to the more expensive option," Harbeson said. "If the Lums Pond phasing plan doesn't work, then we'll have to get together and talk about it."

State Sen. Bob Connor and Rep. Vince Lofink both said they are willing to use bond money to help fund the Porter Square berm renovations. Harbeson estimated DelDOT would need about $80,000 from the representatives if reconstruction were to go forward without dirt from Lums Pond.

"Neither one of us mind putting a slice of money toward the project," Connor said. "But I don't think either of us can afford even half that amount because of the kind of year it's been."

Gerald Allen, a resident at the meeting and former president of the Porter Square Civic Association, told DelDOT officials he didn't want to postpone berm renovations.

"Every year we don't have this fixed, our property values go down," Allen said.

He said a Porter Square resident who recently put his house on the market had to ask for less money than he originally paid for the house five years ago—and the house still hasn't sold.

Harbeson promised residents he would investigate the Lums Pond phasing plan and schedule a meeting in early May if phasing proves to be impossible.

Erskine announces candidacy

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Democrat Barbara Erskine has announced her candidacy for the 27th District seat in the Delaware State House of Representatives.

Erskine is a senior secretary in the Air Quality of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control and the president of the Melody Meadows Civic Association. She is also a part-time student at Delaware Technical & Community College, where she is pursuing a degree in Business Administration.

She ran for the seat in 1992, but lost during the Democratic primary. Incumbent Vince Lofink is the Republican candidate.

She and her husband Al have been married for 27 years and one son, Brian, 25. She is a member of Holy Family Catholic Church, Newark.

Leaf collection underway soon

The City of Newark spring leaf collection begins April 4 and continues through April 15.

Residents should rake and pile leaves in the area between the curb and sidewalk so they can be vacuumed into a city truck.

Caution should be taken to avoid mixing rocks and sticks with the leaves because they could damage the machinery.

Also, residents should park cars in driveways so the machine can pick up leaves uninterrupted.

The leaf collection follows this schedule:

Leaves will be collected Monday from residences on Elkton to Marrows roads and parts of Main Street.

On Tuesday, leaves will be collected north of Main Street and east of West Main Street/ Nottingham Road. This includes Fairfield, Fairfield Crest, Cleveland Avenue, Lumbrook, Timber Creek, Woodmere, Creek Bend, Ridgewood Glen, Paper Mill Farms, Evergreen, Northgate Commons, Valley Stream, Stafford, Parkview, the Hunt at Louviers, Stone Springs and Jenney's Run.

Wednesday's leaf collection includes areas west of Bent Lane and Radcliffe Drive including Nottingham Green, Pheasant Run, Cherry Hill, Elan, Cherry Hill

Manor, Barksdale Estates, Country Hills, Country Place and Abbottsford.

Leaves will be collected Thursday at Oaklands, Nottingham Manor, College Park, Westfield, West Branch and Christianstead.

The southern area of the city will have leaves collected Friday in Devon, Binns, Arbour Park, Silverbrook, Yorkshire, Yorkshire Woods, Cobblefield and Cannon's Gate.

For more information about the Spring Leaf Collection program, call the public works department at 366-7045.

Disregard for life the real issue

The argument over gun control is not a new one, and many of us are aware of its extremes. On the one hand there's the concern that rights guaranteed by the United States Constitution will be violated by virtually any legislation controlling the sale of firearms. On the other hand, some say there's no need for firearms in today's society, and guns should be banned outright.

Gun-control legislation, here in Delaware and across the country, is being written with the best of intentions, but realistically will have little effect on criminal gun abuse. It's probably not going to make a whole lot of difference if law-abiding John Doe, fearful of going out in public after being fed a constant, televised diet of gun-related deaths and injuries every night on the news, buys a gun — after undergoing a background check and a waiting period. Like all the others who play by society's rules, he's not going to be the guy pulling a gun on you or me, demanding our money or car. His lawbreaking counterpart, however, doesn't abide by society's rules. He buys his handguns on the street, so all the background checks or waiting periods in the world aren't going to affect him in the least. And if he can't easily get a gun, he'll use a knife, or an explosive device or a broken bottle. The choice of weapon is secondary to the affliction he and others like him possess: total disregard for human life. It's a deep-rooted problem that has become a fast-growing social malignancy, and until this problem is addressed, all the legislation in the world isn't going to amount to a hill of beans.

UPON MY WORD

Pizza is nice, but give me a dress

By SHIRLEY M. TARRANT
NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Roger may be Jolly, but I am not. Some people have told me that Jolly Roger's (planned to replace the Newark Department Store) is a nice family eatery a la fun 'n games. I do not doubt their word. But I personally do not need another pizza or hamburger or games. What I need is a dress and a coat and some good shoes. Where can I get these items in Newark? Please write a letter-to-the-editor of this newspaper, if you can advise me.

Sure, I could go to Wilmington. I don't want to, nor should I have to drive into the "big city" to shop. Sure, I could go to the mall. I don't like to shop at the malls — too impersonal. Plus, I don't like selecting from at least 50 of the same things in each category on the racks.

Early last December in my quest for a new holiday dress, I made a trip to a ladies dress shop at Mt. Pleasant, just south of the Summit Bridge. It turned out to be quite a productive shopping trip for moi, as I came home with the new holiday dress, a gorgeous sweater and some winter slacks — all on sale! But, to my utter frustration and dismay, the store (The Country Fox) was going out of business. Just my luck! So much for Mt. Pleasant, 15 miles away!

My husband and I have lived in Newark for 31 years. Consequently, I shopped for my clothes at what used to be Peggy Cronin's (Main Street, Newark) and Sue's Town Shop, Town & Country and LeRoy's (Newark Shopping Center). I would buy shoes at Pilnick's (Main Street) or Cobin's (Newark Shopping Center) or the Newark Department Store. All of these stores are gone now. Where can a woman buy a dress or shoes or a coat in Newark?

So, I guess as 1994 approaches its end, I must search afar for a new holiday dress. I could wear last year's dress, of course. Maybe I should just look in the closet for all seasons. It would be a new fashion: call it "Early Newark".

EDUCATIONAL PERSPECTIVES

Cooperative decision making: some good news, bad news

By JACK BARTLEY, PhD
NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

The Christina School District is comprised of many elements, each capable of bringing unique perspectives and talents to bear when decisions are to be made. When all concerned parties are involved in the process of making a decision, the end result should be the best possible course of action to take within a certain set of circumstances. For a school district, that end result should be the best possible opportunity for a good education for the children of our district.

Does this occur in the Christina School District? For the good news, on an increasing basis, the answer is "yes." The bad news is that all too frequently decisions continue to be made in an authoritarian vacuum without input from the professionals affected by the decision and who are in closest contact with the students: the teachers. Let's take a look at some recent examples.

Educational reform in recent years has focused on interdisciplinary education. Subjects formerly taught in isolation from other subjects or practical applications are now being taught in a synergistic blend designed to elevate the level of a student's comprehension. In other words, students learn more when they can see how subjects relate to each other. Teachers, with the enthusiastic support and cooperation of the administration in our district, have introduced several programs designed to keep our district on the cutting edge of educational reform, enhancing the educational opportunities for our students.

Howard Gardner, a cognitive psychologist at Harvard University, has developed an educational theory based on seven levels of intelligence: linguistic, musical, logical-mathematical, spatial, bodily-kinesesthetic, interpersonal, and intrapersonal. Eight teachers from Indianapolis took his theories and developed the Key School, an elementary school in the Indianapolis Public School system. The success of the Key School's integrated approach has led the National Education Association to name it "the best school in the country."

So, what does the Key School have to do with the Christina School District? Last year at a convention in Tampa, the President and Vice President of the Christina Education Association were introduced to the Key School concept. After investigating the school and attending another workshop on the subject, the teachers presented a proposal to the district administration that would have them attend a summer academy to train them in seven intelligence theory, student portfolio development, authentic student assessment, and integrated curriculum development. In turn, they would then serve as trainers to the rest of the teachers and administrators in the district to facilitate the incorporation of Key School concepts into Christina. The cost of training will be shared by the CEA and the district and the incorporation of concepts learned will be through a cooperative effort.

Another successful cooperative venture resulted in the acquisition of the Chesapeake Bay Mesocosm (a large model of the bay ecosystem) from the Smithsonian Institute. Teachers at Glasgow High School, with the help of district administrators and local business and education leaders, submitted a grant to the National Science Foundation for the development of interdisciplinary curricula. Impressed with the effort being mounted by the teachers and the district, Dr. Walter Adey of the Smithsonian offered the mesocosm as a tool to be used as a focal point in interdisciplinary curricular development. Bringing the mesocosm here has required money (from the district and other public and private sources), and a lot of time and effort from dedicated educators. As the building to house the mesocosm nears completion, it serves as a reminder as to what can be accomplished through teacher, administration, and school board cooperation.

And now, the bad news. Surprise! You are not going on vacation! One hour before the close of school on Tuesday, February 15, an announcement was made to all students and teachers that school would be in session for the next three days (formerly scheduled as student holidays) to make up snow days, and that teachers would have to work on the President's Day holiday. Although another district in New Castle County discussed the various options proposed by the state with the representatives of its various employee groups, the decision in Christina was made without the input of teachers, support staff, parents, or members of the school board. Creative ideas to lessen the impact of the difficult circumstances imposed upon students, parents and teachers by the weather were never permitted to surface, let alone be discussed. As a result, vacation plans were disrupted, the educational process floundered for three days due to empty seats in the classrooms, and the growing level of trust between the teachers and the administration suffered a serious setback.

It is hoped that the snow day decision is an anomaly and that cooperative efforts between teachers and the district will continue, especially in light of the fact that teacher contract negotiations begin soon. To that end, the CEA has proposed a "win-win" negotiations process to the district designed to permit both parties to gain a mutual understanding of their problems. This would minimize antagonistic interactions, maximize beneficial outcomes and, hopefully, avoid a situation like the snow day snow job.

Highwaymen Attempt to Hold Up Newark Youth

Gilbert Chambers while on his way to Wilmington after the dance on Saturday night with some young people from that city, was the victim of an attempted hold-up near Richardson Park.

Four desperate looking men presumably white, two armed with flashlights, and two having bandanna handkerchiefs with which they probably intended to gag their victims, made an effort to stop the machine.

Young Chambers put on speed and ran them down, thus making his escape.

Four Airplanes Land at Huber Race Track

Three small airplanes from Aberdeen Proving Grounds and a Curtiss mailplane alighted on the Huber race track near Newark on Saturday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock. This unusual circumstance drew hundreds of people from all directions.

An accident Saturday morning near Washington it is understood, resulted in an injury to the regular carrier and the destruction of his plane.

The substitute aviator took over the route in a machine with which he was not entirely familiar and lost his way in the fog near Aberdeen. He alighted there and on resuming his flight was accompanied by three small planes from the aviation field which intended making the trip to New York.

Hart Mounts Toll Fight For Newark Drivers

Progress in his two-year-old fight to relieve Greater Newark residents of paying tolls on the Delaware Turnpike is being claimed by Chestnut Hill State Senator William F. Hart this week.

Hart said that he is planning to start on a four step program that would change the trust agreement under which the toll road was financed and which, at present, does not allow the removal of the local tolls.

With revenue projections way ahead of schedule, Hart says, the bondholders would not be endangered by the removal of the charge, which he claims discriminates against Newark users of the free-

Allman Says Get Tough With U Of D

A member of Newark's volunteer Bi-Racial Committee is working to force the city council into opposing the University's development of the White Clay Creek Tract by asserting its right to control zoning of all property within the city limits.

William B. Allman said on Monday that in planning to build a dormitory complex and dining room on the land the university is subverting the will of Newark citizens who naturally must control their own community through comprehensive planning and zoning.

To voice his protest Allman sent letters Monday to the mayor and city council as well as to the city planning commission members and university officials.

Christiana Plans School tax Vote

A slight property tax increase is being sought by Christina School District to raise $3.7 million for the construction of classroom space to seat about 600 students.

According to Christina Superintendent Dr. Michael Walls, the tax increase, plus an additional $5.7 million in state bond money, is needed to meet the classroom needs of the fast growing school district.

Afghan family celebrates first year in America

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

One year after arriving in America, the 14-member Azami family is adjusting to their new home and still feeling very thankful for the many helping hands extended to them in Newark.

The Azamis are refugees from Afghanistan whose lives have been fragmented by the guns and mortars of war.

They came to America to make a new life, to escape the fighting that began when Soviets invaded their country to prop-up a failing Marxist government in the 70s. Although the Soviets have now withdrawn from Afghanistan, what seems to be unending turmoil and killing continues among different political factions.

The matriarch of the Azami family is Bibi, who is 65. She lost a daughter and three sons-in-law in the war. Today she looks into the faces of her deceased daughter's three children: Farida, 16, Shaima, 11, and Emal, 9, and wonders what life holds for them.

Roshan and Nafessa are sisters who both lost their husbands in the war. Roshan has four children: Geena, 13, Baktash, 8, Tabish, 6, and Jamshid, 2. Nafessa has three: Toba, 10, Wahida, 8, and Hashmat, 5.

Bibi's son, Mohammad, 32, is leading the family; each day is a learning experience.

The 14 Azamis are not completely without relatives in this country. One of Bibi's daughters, Najiba Nisar and husband Baryali and their children have lived in Newark for three years. And Baryali also has three brothers in Newark: Abdul, Murtaza, and Nazir. They have all helped the newcomers in their transition.

The Azami family came to America Feb. 23, 1993 through the cooperation of the Pennsylvania based Presbyterian Refugee Immigration Ministry Efforts (P.R.I.M.E.) and First Presbyterian Church of Newark.

As part of its mission, P.R.I.M.E. works with government immigration agencies to rescue and relocate refugees from all over the world. On the home front, First Presbyterian Church has committed to supply the new family with support of food, household furnishing, toiletries, apartment rental subsidies, and hands of friendship as they learn to become self sufficient in their new country.

Paul Olchvary is the chairman of First Presbyterian Church's Social Justice Committee and Refugee Resettlement Task Force.

A refugee himself from Hungary, Olchvary felt "very drawn to this project. We were helped very much by the church," he said. "I can still remember the elders painting our apartment and bringing us a turkey at Thanksgiving. Kindness can make such a difference."

It has been a difficult year of transition for the Azamis, but the children are attending public schools and doing well, especially in science and math.

so she spends most of her time in the apartment. Often, in her solitude, her memories return to other times, far away, and the tears come.

Mohammad is cooking in a Mexican Restaurant and occasionally, Roshan assists him.

Nafessa, who was a school teacher in Afghanistan is working in the food service department of the University of Delaware.

In four years, the Azamis will apply for U.S. citizenship. They ask for little... to be able to earn a living and to live in peace.

Nafessa said, "I wish my children to finish school. And after school, they are going to college."

Recently, to mark the Azamis' one year anniversary, members of

First Presbyterian Church presented Bibi and her family with beautiful flowers, accompanied by a letter. In the letter, it was written: "You have been a true blessing to us and an example of determination to succeed regardless of how bad the circumstances may be. Indeed, it has been our honor and privilege ... to be able to call you friends."

YOU ASKED

A feature devoted to discovering the answers to curious questions about people and places in Greater Newark.

BY NANCY TURNER

I've heard of a walking pilgrimage that takes place in Newark during Holy Week. What is it?

On Good Friday, Newark area Christians may bear witness to the historical crucifixion of Jesus by participating in a Way of the Cross" walk through Pike Creek Valley.

The walk has been taking place since 1987. It is sponsored by the Pike Creek Christian Coalition, which is comprised of White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church, Ebenezer United Methodist Church, Skyline United Methodist Church and Parish of the Resurrection Catholic Church.

The walk follows the Catholic tradition of retracing the last events, or stations, of Christ's life on earth, beginning with the condemnation of Jesus and ending with his entombment. There are 14 formal stations.

Christians carrying an eight-foot wooden cross, symbolic of the one used in the crucifixion, will follow the three-mile route from White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church to Skyline United Methodist Church. They will make a total of 14 stops along the way for brief devotional services that coordinate with the stations of the cross.

The Way of the Cross procession through Pike Creek will begin at 12 noon on Good Friday (April 1), rain or shine, at White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church on the corner of Kirkwood Highway and Polly Drummond Hill Road.

Among the scheduled stops are the entrance to Drummond Hill Development off of Polly Drummond Hill Road to commemorate Jesus meeting with his mother at 12:50, prayer and meditation at Resurrection Parish at 1:45 p.m., and closing moments at Skyline United Methodist Church at 2:40 p.m.

The walk takes about three hours. Persons unable to walk the distance may follow in their cars or meet the group for religious worship at one or more of the stops.

Whether you have a question about people or places in Greater Newark or are just plain curious about something, staff writer Nancy Turner might just be able to find an answer for you. Send your question to Nancy, in care of the Newark Post, 153 East Chestnut Hill Road, Newark DE 19713. Be sure to include a daytime telephone number where you can be reached.

Sharing household work starts in childhood

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

Work done in the home is rarely seen as valuable, either by society or by the family members who do it. Is this attitude toward household work learned as a child? Authorities say yes.

When people don't learn to work at home as children, they often find it difficult to perform their fair share of household work as adults.

What can parents do to get children to cooperate in household work? Research has shown that homemakers who consider themselves "efficient" usually don't assign tasks to children. Some parents find it easier to do tasks themselves than to have the children share in the family's work.

A few parents assign all tasks to their offspring; others encourage family members to volunteer their services in the home; still others use creative rotation systems with clearly defined rewards and realities for accomplishing specific tasks. Parents who shift or change jobs around among family members seem to receive the most help. But whatever the method used, parents should encourage family members to perform tasks together and to enjoy the companionship as well as the work.

What influences how much work gets done? Personal attitudes greatly affect who does how much work in the home. Researchers find that the feelings adolescents have about work depend somewhat on where they live. For example, rural non-farm teenagers tend to have more favorable attitudes toward food-related tasks than urban teens do.

Teen attitudes toward work also depend on the teenager's position in the family. Those who have no brothers and sisters usually have more favorable attitudes towards work than do children who have older and younger brothers and sisters. One research study reports that attitudes of female adolescents are generally more favorable toward food tasks and less favorable toward laundry tasks. Attitudes also vary according to job experience. The more experience a young person has doing a job alone, the more favorable that person's attitude toward the job.

What do children expect of their parents? Teenagers quizzed about how they want their parents to supervise their work say they like to know what parents expect, especially if the job is new or is to be done in a new way. They want help if they don't know how to finish a job already started. But in many situations, teens want to use their own ideas or make their own decisions about what to do or how to do it. Young people want parents to check their work when they finish, and let them know if it's done satisfactorily. Everyone likes praise for a job well done.

When parents give children and teenagers opportunities to do tasks, they should ask themselves if the jobs will help develop responsibility. Will the experience engender a spirit of cooperation and participation in the family, or will it be viewed as just another unpleasant job that has to be done? It's up to parents to provide opportunities that will help young people learn to value work as a necessary and important part of living.

Obituaries

Elwin E. Thomes

Newark resident Elwin E. "Al" Thomes died Wednesday, Mar. 2, 1994, in Christiana Hospital of complications from surgery for an aneurysm near his heart.

Mr. Thomes, 79, was a logger-woodsman on the Sebago River in Maine and a long-distance trucker, working from Massachusetts. He retired in 1980.

A native of Hiram, Maine, he lived in Framingham, Mass. for many years. For 10 years he traveled throughout the U.S. in a motor home with his companion, Helen, then settled in Newark in 1992. Mr. Thomes enjoyed fishing and gardening. His wife, Katherine "Kay" Thomes died in 1983.

In addition to his companion, with whom he lived, he is survived by two step-children, David Jenkins and Rachelle Pissano, both of Bellingham, Mass.

A service and burial were private.

Betty M. Cornell

Newark resident Betty May Cornell died Monday, Feb. 28, 1994, of heart failure at home.

Miss Cornell, 63, was a clerk and meat cutter at Acme Market in Newark Shopping Center, retiring in 1972 after 18 years of service.

She is survived by a brother, Charles H. Cornell; and two sisters, Ruth Ann Cleaver and Esther L. Cornell, all of Newark.

A graveside service was held March 7 at Head of Christiana Cemetery, Newark.

Wayne C. Kennedy

Newark resident Wayne C. Kennedy died Thursday, March 10, 1994, of cancer at Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Kennedy, 51, was born in Massena, N.Y. He attended Rochester Institute of Technology before graduating in 1967 from Pottstown State University. Before moving to Lancaster, Pa., in 1970, he taught chemistry and general science in Ogdensburg and Phoenix, N.Y. In Lancaster he worked for Armstrong Cork Company in the research lab.

Mr. Kennedy moved to Wilmington in 1977 and worked for Witco Chemical Company in New Castle before it was sold to IPI in Elkton, Md., where he was a distribution manager.

He enjoyed bowling, playing pool, yard work and sports. He was an avid golfer and was a member of the Chantilly Golf Club in Rising Sun, Md. He played saxophone and enjoyed music from the 30s and 40s, especially the Big Band sound.

He is survived by his wife of 26 years, Doris M. Kennedy; one son, Jeffrey, at home; one daughter, Mari Jo Kennedy of Newark; and six brothers, Donald Kennedy of Ocala, Fla., William Kennedy of Waddington, N.Y., Robert Kennedy of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Philip Kennedy, Neil Kennedy and Douglas Kennedy all of Massena, N.Y.

Services were held March 15 at Beeson Memorial Services of Christiana-Elkton. Burial was in All Saints Cemetery, Kirkwood Highway.

The family suggests contributions to the Newark High School Band Boosters, in care of Beeson Memorial Services (this is not in lieu of flowers).

Joseph Proudlove

Newark resident Joseph Proudlove died Wednesday, March 9, 1994, of a cerebral hemorrhage in Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Proudlove, 67, was a power technician for 15 years at DuPont

Co. Earlier, he was a chief engineer at Sun Oil Co., Marcus Hook, Pa., where he worked for 30 years.

He enjoyed playing softball and pitched for DuPont Co.'s team and several others.

He is survived by his wife, Lois A. Proudlove; three sons, Wayne of Rogersville, Tenn., Tad of Enfield, Maine, and Glenn of Burlington, Maine; three daughters, Sheryl Proudlove of Burlington, Susanne Proudlove of Raleigh, N.C., and Ricki Proudlove Stokes of North Conway, N.H.; five sisters, Margaret Hockenberry of Harrisburg, Pa., Rita Roth of Carson, Calif., Ethel Selzer of Brooklyn, N.Y., Betty Siebert of Avalon, N.J., and Sophie Steffanides of Swoyersville, Pa., seven grandchildren and a great-granddaughter.

Services and burial were private. The family suggests contributions to Delaware Humane Society.

Blanch W. Neal

Christiana resident Blanch Williams Neal died Wednesday, March 9, 1994, of a brain hemorrhage in Christiana Hospital after becoming ill while singing hymns at Graves Chapel, Millington, Md., on March 5.

Mrs. Neal, 61, worked at the DuPont Co.'s Louviers plant. Previously, she was an Avon sales representative and worked at several restaurants.

She was a member of Mount Pisgah UAME Church, Summit, since 1948, and later became a member of Old Fort UAME Church, Christiana. She was a member of several singing groups at the church.

Mrs. Neal enjoyed bowling, cooking, fishing, shopping, walking, gardening, traveling and entertaining.

She is survived by her husband, Herbert T. Neal Sr.; a son, Herbert T. Jr. of Newark; a daughter, Annabelle Lewis of New Castle; a sister, Amanda Dean of Wilmington; and four grandchildren.

A service was held March 14 at St. Paul's UAME Church, Wilmington. Burial was in Gracelawn Memorial Park, Minquidale.

Thomas E. Wright

Dover resident Thomas E. Wright, formerly of Newark, died Thursday, March 10, 1994, of septic shock at Christiana Hospital. He had been ill with Parkinson's disease for about two years, his wife said.

Mr. Wright, 75, was retired from Christina School District and Chrysler Corp.'s assembly plant.

Army veteran of World War II, he was a sergeant in the 12th Engineer Combat Battalion in Europe.

In the 1940s and '50s, he played semi-professional baseball for a Glasgow team. He managed and coached a team for the Newark National Little League in the 1970s.

Mr. Wright is survived by his wife, Doris Wilson Wright; a son, Thomas L. of Wilmington; two daughters, Darlene K. Lloyd of Newark and Nancy I. Wright of Mantua, N.J.; and three grandchildren.

A service was held March 15 at Robert T. Jones & Foad Funeral Home, Newark. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

The family suggests contributions to Parkinson's Foundation, 1501 N.W. Ninth Ave., Miami, Fla.

George J. Muhvich

Newark resident George Joseph Muhvich died Sunday, March 13, 1994, of heart failure in Christiana Hospital.

Mr. Muhvich, 77, was a chemical engineer for Diamond Shamrock, now Maxus Energy Corp. He retired in 1980 after 35 years of service.

The Hibbing, Minnesota, native was an Army veteran of World War II and served in the Chemical Corps. He was a member of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Newark, and the church's Retired Fellowship Group.

He was president in 1964 of Optimists Club of Bel Air, Md., and was past state secretary of the Optimists Clubs of Maryland.

Mr. Muhvich was a member and past treasurer of Arbour Park Civic Association, after moving from Bel Air to the neighborhood in 1964. He was a volunteer at Emmanuel Dining Room, Newark, and helped collect donations for the needy at Christmas.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel Era Hughes Muhvich; a brother, Walter P. of Chester, Pa.; four sisters, Catherine Hiley of Rochester, Minn., Rose Carpenter of Newark and Elizabeth Draskovich of Hibbing; and five grandchildren.

A memorial service was held March 16 at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Newark.

Burial was in St. Thomas Episcopal Cemetery.

The family suggests contributions to Delaware Association for the Blind, 800 West St., Wilmington.

American Legion celebrates 75 years here

This Sunday, March 20, the Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10 American Legion of Newark will conduct ceremonies commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the national American Legion in 1919.

The public is invited to the event, to be held at 2 p.m. at the Newark Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, located behind the Newark Municipal Building off Elkton Road.

Guest speaker will be G. Scott Lawrence, editor of the Newark Post, who will give an account of life in Newark 75 years ago, as reflected in the pages of his newspaper, which was founded in 1910.

Awards will also be presented to 50-year members and Boy Scout achievers, and recognition will be made for volunteer activities of legionnaires at the Veterans Affairs Hospital, Elmsere.

Luncheon reservations ($10, payable at the door) should be made by calling Elmer Saxton at 738-7322 or Joseph Hoar, post commander, at 234-0592.

No Frugal this week

Due to mechanical constraints, the Frugal Gourmet column scheduled for this week will not appear. It will be published in its entirety next week.

Eastern Orthodox collection at UD

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Two magnificent collections, quite different in nature, purpose and design, went on exhibit at the University of Delaware's Old College Gallery last week. Both are from the personal collections of Sarah Jaztak-Burgess and Leslie M. Burgess. One collection features works done in amber and the other is of icons from Eastern Orthodox churches. They will be in the gallery at Main and North College Avenue through April 15.

Giving chronology its due, let's focus on the amber collection first. If you are not familiar with this lovely medium, it is a fossilized tree resin which came from huge trees during the Oligocene Epoch between 50 and 60 million years ago. Through the ages amber was hardened and compressed and became the semi-precious stone we know today.

The Jaztak-Burgess collection is one of the largest in the world. It includes amber used in many ways. Carvings, jewelry and other works in various hues and shades are included in the collection here in Newark. Some of the pieces of amber used in jewelry selection of the collection have insects or plant specimens trapped inside. (Remember the mosquitoes embedded in amber in "Jurassic Park?") Some of the works being shown are opaque some are translucent depending on the extent of oxidation of each piece.

I want to share with you some thoughts on works which caught my eye. The first one is the one pictured with my column today, "The Three Graces." This is a carving from Greek mythology with three full figures dancing with a cherub. The amber is framed with cast and fabricated silver and set on a silver base. The result is exquisite. Even the photos given to me by the U of D's Beth Thomas doesn't do it justice, but may serve to whet your appetite to see it for yourself, along with many other beautiful works.

There is a Baltic carving of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, also set in silver, that shows in intricate detail the tree of life with the serpent winding around the trunk. The carving is quite deep with elaborate details defining branches, leaves and, of course, apples. It is highly polished light amber and is opaque. There are also steel chalices with amber decorations and a cross of 29 pieces of amber and a number of tiny amber snuff bottles.

Also at the gallery is the Eastern Orthodox icon exhibit. Icons are usually paintings on wooden panels. Their subjects are often portraits of Christ, Mary or saints, but there are some with narratives and even depictions of hymns.

When viewing an icon collection

Representative pieces from the two exhibits now on at the University Gallery in Old College are "The Three Graces" of Greek mythology carved in amber and a 19th century Russian icon of St. Nicholas.

for the first time, it is important to remember that they were not created for aesthetic enjoyment but for public worship and private devotion. Beth Thomas explained, "The orthodox icon tradition had its roots in commemorative portraiture — especially funeral portraits on honorary portraits of benefactors — from the Greco-Roman era. When the subject of the portrait was a holy person empowered to aid petitioners, icon worship took on more than a commemorative meaning. The icon became the vehicle of communication between the worshiper and the spiritual realm."

The composition of icons is always conservative and the saints are clearly formulated types. Even though this is true, it is interesting to note that icon painting rarely produces exact duplicates.

I think one of the most interesting icons in the show is the second photo with my column today, one from 19th century Russia. It is a rendition of St. Nicholas. Try to use this one as a point of reference when you visit the University Gallery. It will help you in comparison and in understanding some of the things I have already shared with you.

Obviously, many icons were made for churches, but they were also kept in homes. In Russian homes, I learned, they were placed on a high shelf in a corner which was called "the beautiful corner." In churches, portable icons were carried in processions during the liturgy and at festivals. Others were set up on special stands for veneration during festival seasons. Still others were fixed to posts or walls and to the chancel barrier.

The Russian Orthodox Church inherited the icon tradition from the Byzantine upon the baptism of Grand Prince Vladimir in Kiev in 988. Throughout the Middle Ages and into pre-Soviet times, Greek icons and painters traveled to Russia where they were welcomed.

This double exhibit is worth a visit! You can enjoy the art and learn as well. That is a delightful combination in the arts. The University Gallery is located on the second floor of Old College. It is open 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The University Gallery is free and open to all.

Enjoy!

Survey: fashion-minded here turn to variety of accessories

When it comes to jewelry, smart Newark shoppers are looking for the unusual, hand-crafted, unique items, according to fashion analysts at a national college survey board.

Silver and other metals are replacing the more traditional gold that has set the trend in years past.

And now that pierced ears are pretty much commonplace, those in search of making a new, fresh statement are discovering that local shops carry a wide variety of earrings done with semi-precious stone, beads and configured wire.

For those with multiple-pierced ears — and you would be surprised how popular this practice has become in Newark and elsewhere — the variety of custom-made earrings makes for limitless possibilities.

And it doesn't stop there. Pins, those accessories you grandmother used to wear, are now back in the fashion spotlight, bigger than ever.

But unlike grandmother's pins, some of today's variety also make political statements: pins of animals on the endangered species list, for example.

Watches that look more like bracelets than timepieces are also catching eyes this year, as are hair ornaments like hats, bows and clips — all offered in an array of different materials.

Polyester, take a hike!

Hawks hockey teams win in tourney action

The Delaware Hawks had three of its teams competing in tournaments last weekend.

Squirts host memorial tourney

The Delaware Hawks squirt team hosted the Tim Roman Memorial Tournament at the University of Delaware Gold Arena.

The Hawks won one of three games with the victory coming over Chester County.

John Mancuso scored twice to lead the Hawks to the win while J. P. Dawson scored once and assisted on another. John Brainard and Sean Monaghan also picked up assists.

The Hawks also lost 11-1 to the Cap Boys and 6-4 to the Wilmington Wheels. Mark Stroik got the lone goal against the Cap Boys while Mancuso, Dawson, Billy O'Donnell and Jared Kranz all scored for the Hawks in the game against the Wheels.

Neal battles different weight problem

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

NEW CASTLE — Keeping weight off is one of the most common problems for wrestlers. Christiana High's Lateace Neal, however, has a problem gaining weight.

Neal fell 10-2 to Lenape High's Brad Bauer Monday night in the 10th Annual Delaware-South Jersey Wrestling Classic, won 40-21 by South Jersey. It was South Jersey's eighth win in the series.

Neal and Glasgow's Craig Vettori were the only two local wrestlers to participate in the match. Vettori was pinned in 5:11 by Camden Catholic's Jerry Boland.

The diminutive Neal won the 103-pound state championship as a junior but, despite weighing no more as a senior, decided to wrestle in the 112 pound class his senior season. The lightest weight class on the college level is 118 pounds and Neal knew if he wanted to attract attention, he would have to wrestle the bigger and stronger wrestlers. Despite the disadvantage, he recorded an impressive 26-5 record and finished second in the state.

"I wanted to take on the challenge," said Neal, who lost in the state championship to Sussex Central's Jesse Savage. "The first couple weeks were a struggle and I almost dropped back down. But my coach asked if I was afraid, so I decided to stick it out."

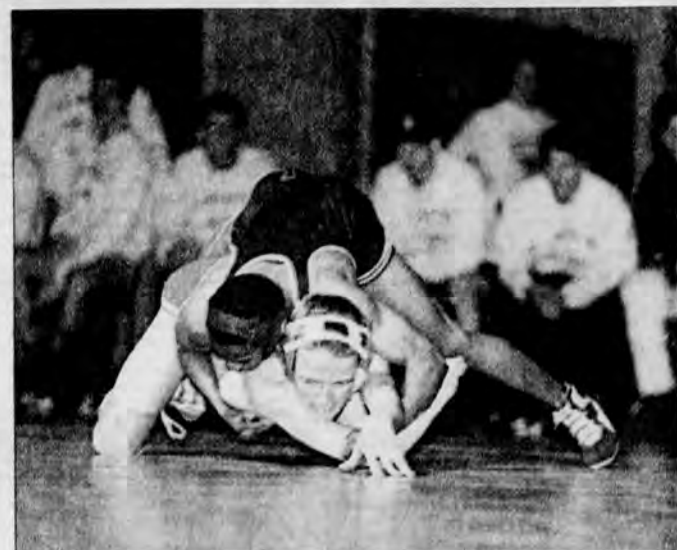

"I've tried a lot of things but I just don't gain weight. I don't think I'll ever make it to 118."

The seven-pound weight allowance in Monday's classic put Neal, whose weight hovers around 105, in the familiar position of being outweighed again.

Bauer, a Region 7 New Jersey champion at 103, appeared stronger and dominated throughout the three periods.

Neal, a three-time place winner in the state championships during his four-year career, will also wrestle at 103 in the National High School Championships in April; but a five-pound weight

Christiana nipped by C.R. in hoop semifinal

Injury hurts Vikings' chances

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

Jerry Moore's twisted ankle turned into a cruel twist of fate last Thursday as the Christiana Vikings dropped a 54-53 semifinal state tournament game to Caesar Rodney at Bob Carpenter Center.

Moore, a backup point guard, injured his ankle two minutes into the game. The injury forced Christiana into a different offensive scheme, which ultimately left leading scorer Anthony Laws ineffective.

The Vikings had a chance to tie following a furious five-point run in the final seconds. After the Riders missed the front end of three straight one-on-one situations, Laws nailed a three-pointer with 17 seconds remaining to make the score 54-51. CR missed another foul shot, Christiana's three-point attempt fell short and Ernest Fobbs hit a short layup as time ran out.

Laws, who had scored a total of 55 points in the Vikings' three previous tournament wins against McKean, Sanford and Mount Pleasant, including 24 over the highly ranked Green Knights, was limited to nine points in the semifinal and four in the first half.

"Moore was a key ingredient to our rotation," said Christiana Coach Ron Hollis, whose team advanced to the semifinals for the first time in school history. "When he goes in Anthony assumes a shooting role and he has to shoot the ball 15 16 times a game for us; he didn't (against Caesar Rodney) and that was the difference."

"The key to the game I think was when (Moore) goes down. That hurt us tremendously in our game plan because when he's in the game and he goes to point guard, Anthony Laws goes to the wing where the other kids were missing the shots that Anthony typically can hit better."

The coach did a quick job for Caesar Rodney recognizing it," Hollis said. "I'd like to compliment Caesar Rodney; they're a very fine club; their coach did a good job preparing them. They kept the pressure on Anthony so he couldn't get in the area for the open shots. That really hurt us; I'm not taking anything away from the effort of Caesar

Rodney; they're a great basketball club but the injury hurt us immensely."

Rodney; they're a great basketball club but the injury hurt us immensely."

The Riders streaked to a 7-0 lead with 5:30 left in the opening period and led 14-10 starting the second quarter. The Vikings turned the ball over 14 times in the first half and trailed 30-20 at the break as Caesar Rodney's Laron Profit netted 14 first-half points.

Prince Williams led Christiana with 14 points. Damon Bagwell had 11, Chris Washington scored nine, Ernest Fobbs seven and Michael Winchester chipped in with three points.

Atlantic - 10 would be a good move

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Here's a yea vote for the University of Delaware moving to the Atlantic 10 Conference.

Obviously, there are a lot of factors that go into making such a decision, but the benefits to the men's basketball program would be enormous. And if one program could bring in more revenue; many other sports may have the opportunity to benefit as well.

Heck, even University of Delaware students might get excited when nationally ranked Temple and UMass come to the Carpenter Center on January nights.

Geographically, the Atlantic 10 is a better fit than the North Atlantic Conference. Massachusetts is the northern most school; making it a far better trip than one to Orono, Maine; Burlington, Vt. or Durham, N.H.

Xavier officially became a member last week. A trip to Cincinnati is certainly no short jaunt, but one long one a year is better than three.

Delaware already has a relationship with UMass and Rhode Island in the Yankee Conference. The Blue Hens routinely played Temple in football and were with Temple and St. Joseph's in the early days of the East Coast Conference.

The Carpenter Center has made, even the thought of such a move, possible. The state-of-the-art facility is comparable, if not better, than most of the A-10 arenas. Only UMass' brand-spanking, new Mullin Center (capacity 9,000) is significantly bigger.

The reason for such speculation stems from the Big East inhaling Rutgers and West Virginia as full-time members after the two schools played in the league on a football-only basis for the past three years.

Temple, however, was not invited on a full-time basis and will remain in the A-10. That, combined with Xavier's admittance, leaves the league with eight teams. If the league expands to 12 teams, Delaware would have a great chance of getting in. If 10 is the number, then LaSalle and Richmond could edge out the Hens. Though, it's debatable if the league would want a third Philadelphia school.

Richmond is the school most coveted by the A-10; it would put the league in another market and with George Washington already in; it seems to be a natural expansion.

Delaware nine opens season hopeful of conference title

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Despite weather to the contrary, the calendar says its baseball season.

The University of Delaware, with the aid of a February weekend trip to Charleston, S.C., has won once in three tries so far this season. The rest of the schedule, however, has been postponed due to snow, rain or a myriad of other winter elements.

Nevertheless, the Blue Hens continue to prepare for Coach Bob Hannah's 30th season at the helm of the baseball program.

Delaware, whose roster features 10 former Delaware high school baseball players, returns 15 letterwinners and five starters from last year's squad which compiled a 28-21 record and finished third in the North Atlantic Conference.

Though few, the losses are significant. Power hitters Bruce Hannah and Matt Schmidt, who combined for 21 home runs, both graduated.

"We don't have the power we have had in the past," said Hannah, who entered this season with a 763-360-8 record. "In the era of the aluminum bat, you either need power or defense and pitching."

Fortunately for the Hens, much of the pitching returns this year.

Junior right-hander Jamie Wilson will lead the way. Wilson posted a 9-1 record last year with a 2.63 earned-run-average. Following Wilson will be seniors Alex Pugliese and Jeremy Benson as well as junior Steve Franzini and sophomore Chris Dillon.

Handling the pitchers behind the plate will be senior Troy O'Neal, who hit .364 while platooning at the position last spring.

The middle of the infield will be solid with the return of All-NAC selections Dan Hammer at shortstop and Deron Brown at second base. Hammer, a sophomore, hit .337 his freshman year while Brown, a senior, hit .344 with 25 RBIs.

Third baseman Cliff Brumbaugh, center fielder Kevin Blackhurst and right fielder Tom Laferty also return and are expected to start.

National power Maine has long been the dominant force in the North Atlantic Conference but Hannah doesn't see that happening this season.

"[Maine] is going to be young," he said. "They still have a strong program, but they are going to have to reload, which will give the con-

Kirkwood Blast wins indoor soccer title

The Kirkwood Blast won their second indoor state championship Sunday with a thrilling 6-5 victory over the M.O.T. Fury in the title game.

A beautiful cross from Nolan Dzielak led to a header goal by Matt DiGiacobbe gave the Blast the championship.

In preliminary play, the Blast defeated the Fury 2-0, Hockessin Tornado 3-1, YMCA Panthers 4-2 and Kirkwood Warriors 5-0.

Top scorers for the Blast were Adam Flannigan with five goals, Dzielak with four, Kenny Reid and Brian O'Connor with three, Adam Stuller, Alex Facciolo and Matt DiGiacobbe with one each. Brian Concklin and Facciolo shared the goaltending.

King earns honors at Wooster College

Debbie King, a graduate of Newark High, has been chosen a scholar-athlete at The College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio.

King, a member of the Lady Scot swim team, achieved the honor by posting a 3.25 or better grade-point-average during the 1993 fall semester.

"To be selected as a scholar-athlete is a significant accomplishment," said Wooster Athletic Director Bill McHenry. "The time commitment that comes with participating in a varsity sport puts added pressure on the student-athlete. Scholar-athletes have met the challenge head-on, and they are to be commended for their efforts."

SPARE THOUGHTS

A bowling column contributed by Blue Hen Lanes

The East Coast Junior Bowlers Tour had a stop at Blue Hen Lanes on Saturday, March 6. Over 100 junior bowlers competed in the event.

With stops on the tour twice a month at various bowling centers in states up and down the east coast, this tournament awards plaques and trophies for individual wins at each site, but more importantly a running total of points is kept for all participants and at the finals, held the first weekend in August, college scholarship money is awarded to the individuals accumulating the most points during the season.

Junior bowlers from Blue Hen fared well. Doug Phillips, 13, won the Handicap Division. The 140-average bowler, the son of Douglas and Barbara Phillips of Elkton, bested the competition in the stepladder finals. Doug is a long-time Blue Hen bowler having started in league competition at age six.

In the Scratch Division, the stepladder finals pitted several Blue Hen bowlers against their own teammates. Jamie Spence finished sixth, Keith Popitti fifth, Chuck Haynes third and Lee Vanderhoeft first.

Vanderhoeft, 14, already holds a league average of 190 and has a high game of 280 and a high series of 711. The son of Cliff and June Vanderhoeft of Rising Sun, he too started bowling in league competition at age six.

Congratulations to all the participants and good luck at the next stop on the tour.

Bantams, midgets finish third

HAWKS, from 1B

Junior Lightning 8-6 for its only win of the tourney.

A big third period, in which the Hawks outscored the Lightning 3-1, turned out to be the difference in the tightly contested game. John Neighbors and Keith Carroll each scored three times to lead the Hawks with Jesse Turner and Owen Carroll adding one each.

Collins also scored all three Hawks' goals in a 6-3 loss to the Raleigh (N.C.) Capitals.

The Hawks also fell 6-4 to the Montgomery County (Md.) Blue Devils 6-4. Eric Schurman, Collins and Neighbors all scored for Delaware.

Midget team also third

The Delaware Hawks midget team also finished third in the Southeastern District II Tier Championships in Fort Bragg, N.C.

Mark Giobbe scored three times to lead the Hawks to a 7-2 win over the Raleigh Capitals in the final game of the tourney. Aaron Beers, Shawn Oberly, Joe Hassell and Matt Einolf also scored for the Hawks while Doug Hemmer and Scott Williams shared the goaltending duties.

Eric Choban scored the Hawks' lone goal in a 4-1 loss to Tampa Bay while Giobbe, Beers and Choban all scored once in a 9-3 loss to the Bowie (Md.) Bruins.

Cheerleaders take stand in hoop final

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

A lot of things can get overlooked when they happen during a state championship basketball game.

That was the case during last William Penn High's 67-62 victory over Caesar Rodney last Saturday at the Carpenter Center.

Midway through the first quarter of the title game an all too familiar phenomenon (upstate anyway) started — fans booing and taunting opposing cheerleaders. Caesar Rodney's group was on the floor when boos started reigning down.

The next time the William Penn cheerleaders took to the floor; retaliatory boos were heard. This went on throughout the game. The ultimate in rudeness took place when a Caesar Rodney cheerleader fell on her way off the floor and the crowd jeered and taunted her.

"We never experienced anything like this before," said Caesar Rodney Cheerleading Coach Nell Coleman. "Our side was doing it too. It was terrible."

This time, however, the two cheerleading squads — with the urging of William Penn Athletic Director Jack Holloway — decided to do something about the problem.

Following a mid-game huddle between leaders of both cheerleading groups, both decided to take the floor at the same time. The crowd reaction was mixed — some still booing, some realizing what was going on and cheering.

Did it work? The last two times each squad took to the floor, there was nothing resembling a boo.

"These kids are out there working hard and people are going to boo them, I don't understand it," Holloway said. "It was both sides and it was terrible. I'm not sure you can really do anything, but we tried."

"It was a gesture," Coleman said. "Hopefully, people will learn."

ball five times and led Christiana in assists with four, but committed nine turnovers as the Vikings shot 23 of 55 (41.8 percent) on the game. Fobbs, Laws and Washington each snared six rebounds for the Vikings.

The Vikings outscored Caesar Rodney 21-9 in the final quarter and rallied from an 11-point deficit, but ran out of time.

"I'm very pleased," said Hollis. "We're very fortunate to be here and we just love being at Bob Carpenter Center. It was a great season by my kids."

"And being able to upset a team like Mount Pleasant was, in my 11 years of coaching, the highlight of my career. I think the key to that game was our kids had enough discipline. They couldn't run up and down the court with kids that were a lot bigger and faster. The fact that we made an effort to pass the ball four or five times before attacking the basket made (Mount Pleasant) play defense; that was very effective."

Chiefs hockey team win in prestigious tourney

The Delaware Chiefs semi pro hockey team won two games last weekend to remain undefeated last weekend in the Lake Placid Cup Tournament.

The Chiefs defeated Heron's Crew, from Willowdale, Ontario, 4-2 Friday and Binghamton, N.Y. 3-2 Saturday.

allowance and a one-time weigh in will probably put Neal at the same disadvantage.

"If he wrestles well out there, he may be able to grab somebody's attention," said Dan Chopko, Neal's coach at Christiana. "He's always been smaller and weaker than his opponents; it's nothing new for him."

If college isn't in the cards for next year, Neal thinks prestigious wrestling power Blair Academy (N.J.) might be an option. A year at a prep school and a redshirt year at college might provide sufficient time to put on the necessary weight.

No matter what the future holds, his past is a well documented one that leaves him as one of the best wrestlers in Christiana High history.

ference more parity."

Hannah also expects Drexel, which beat the Hens five out of six times last season, Hartford and Northeastern to also contend for the title.

"The challenge for us is putting the pieces together," said Hannah. "We've had similar teams before. In the past though, we didn't play four conference games on the weekend (East Coast Conference teams played twice on the weekends). It makes the pitching rotation harder."

Delaware opens its conference season with a four-game home series against Maine March 26-27.

"After we finish the Maine series we should know where we are going to fit in," Hannah said. "We have to get the right bounces but, hopefully, we'll be there with a shot at the title."

Hens to A-10 would work

► POST GAME, from 1B

Just the fact that Delaware is being rumored as a possible league entrant is a testament to the improvement of the basketball program. It wasn't too long ago that several hundred fans would show up in the dingy Field House for a game.

You might have been locked up several years ago if you suggested that Delaware would be playing an ESPN-released game in front of a frenzied, sold-out crowd of 5,000.

Now, it may be closer to reality than you think.

Tips from the Cecil County Sheriff's Office on how to avoid becoming a crime victim.

- Keep your car and house locked, even while you are at home. Keep ground floor windows secured.
- Park in well lit areas and away from cars, vans or other large vehicles that obscure your view of the vehicle.
- If you return home and find that your home has been entered, do not go inside. Go to someplace safe and telephone the Sheriff's Office or police.
- There are some precautions that can be taken to strengthen your home against break ins. They include:
 Install deadbolts on all doors,
 Install a door viewer (peep-hole)
 Trim shrubbery around ground floor windows and doors. Burglars will use this for cover when entering a home.
 Arrange for mail and newspaper pick-up if you are going to be away from home for any length of time. Install a timer for lights if you are going to be away for any length of time. Ask a neighbor or friend to come and check your home, while you are gone.
 When going on vacation or travelling, there are some tips that you can follow to keep you safe and reduce the chance that you will become a crime victim. When staying in a motel, do not discuss dinner or other plans in the lobby. Do not open motel doors if someone knocks and you are not expecting anyone. Do not carry large sums of money or valuables on your person. Check with the motel about security arrangements such as a safe for valuables, etc. When travelling by car, plan your route in advance and leave the itinerary with a family member or friend. Call when you reach your destination. Have your car serviced before travelling to avoid break-down. Do not pick up hitch-hikers. If someone is following you, drive to a shopping center parking lot, service station, police station, fire station or some other well lit, public place. Ask the Sheriff's Office or police to come and do a "Home Security Survey"

How To Save Money On Your Family's Clothing

- Buy color-coordinated clothing which can be mixed and matched.
- Buy all-season styles, fabrics and colors when possible.
- Buy clothes of a design that will stay in style
- Look for quality fabric and good construction in clothing.
- Choose clothes with simple trim that is of good quality and requires the same care as the rest of garment.
- Before buying a garment, check fabric labels and care instructions. Is it wash-and-wear? Can it be dried in the dryer?
- Avoid clothing that requires special care such as dry cleaning.
- Read and follow care instructions to make clothes last longer.
- Dress up or modify an outfit you already own. Accessories can add a new look to last year's wardrobe for a minimal cost.
- Store clothes properly to protect from sun, moths, mildew and stretching.
