Alice: My darling:- I think you are the best and dearest little woman in the world "to bear with me when that such humor which my mother" nor no one else "gave me, makes me forgetful."

Dear, I want to marry soon as much as you do, far more and I am straining every nerve to accomplish it.

I enclose the letter from Mrs. Ruffin which this morning's mail brought me. I refused to go to Boston just Saturday. What shall I do about this matter? Write me at once. Because on what you say depends my action.

I have just had a letter from Bachelor's Synodicate saying that my "Trial Sermons" was well liked all over the country, that Peterson's magazine published it & the edition spoke in flattering terms about it. This praise is followed by the practical request for another.

about you be afraid about my getting into trouble with illa. There is a thorough misunderstanding between us,

When we "disappear on any" thing
we simply "spout" about it.
Mister is back and asked very kindly about you. This was right -

You would like meet you.
I don't know about that now, perhaps later on you heard that Patsy
she has the most beautiful garden in the neighborhood, I think I must stop now and go to work and have to be this week.

With love and affection -
Your own friend,
P.S. I must give better business, as I can write Mrs. P. my address in the 13th St. that moved to the day a good place to read in New York a Saturday - See. Given 9 months get off.
