Indict Youth For Murder Of Taxi Driver

Alvin Downham Held For First Degree Murder By Cecil County Grand Jury Monday; Henry A. Warburton Selected As Defense Counsel; Trial Soon

The State of Maryland will try Alvin, alias "Sam" Downham, Elk Mills youth, within the month for the murder of Edward Yeamons, 21-year-old North East taxicab driver, it was learned in Elkton Monday.

An indictment charging first degree murder was returned against Downham Monday by the Grand Jury of Cecil county, in session at Elkton court house.

The exact date of the trial will likely be set today or tomorrow.

May Change Scene

Downham has been under arrest since January 19, the day following the alleged murder and most of the time has been in jail at Baltimore. The grand jury heard a number of witnesses before returning the true bill.

Henry A. Warburton, of Elkton, has been assigned by the Court to represent Downham and will probably visit the accused man in the Baltimore jail this week. Downham some weeks ago notified State's Attorney Joshua Clayton that he tried for the murder of Yeamons he would request a change of venue. Mr. Warburton will probably definitely decide after his conference with the prisoner whether or not he will make such application.

The murder of Yeamons was one of the most brutal in the history of Cecil county. Yeamons disappeared on the afternoon of Monday, January 18, and his body was found in a pool of water in a woods near the Feeder road, about a half-mile from Elk Mills, on the morning of Saturday, January 23.

The murdered man's car, containing a blood spattered jack, was found on North College avenue here the day following Yeamons' death, and furnished the first clue in the network of evidence against Downham.

ONE BOMB—ALL BREATHE EASIER

One big explosive bomb dropped from an airplane from the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Friday, gave Port Deposit, Md., residents no end of comfort, says reports from the river town.

The well-placed charge broke up the last barrier in the ice gorge on the Susquehanna, with the result that four hours later, a small boat crossed open water for the first time this winter.

No ice is coming over the upper river dams, it is reported, and all danger of a flood is presumably passed.

Accordingly, Port Deposit is back to normalcy.

Champion

MISS FRANCES HULIHEN

To Miss Hulihan goes the title of Junior Girls' National Champion for basketball foul throwing, it was announced yesterday by officials in charge of the nation wide competition. The new titleholder, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hulihan of this town, tossed 35 baskets out of 45 tries from the fifteen foot mark. She represented Wilmington Friends School where she is a student.

This is a remarkable mark to be set by a girl, and the Newark youngster is being heartily congratulated by her many friends, here and in Wilmington. She takes an active interest in sports, and is a star forward on the Friends' School basketball team this season.

Gets First Ton

H. Warner McNeal, coal and lumber dealer here, had the honor of receiving the first tone of anthracite coal to arrive at Newark since the disastrous strike ended. Three carloads were shunted into the McNeal yards late last week.

In Sussex School

Miss Anna Frazer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frazer, of West Main street, is now located near Frankford, Delaware. Miss Frazer recently accepted a teaching position in Lord Baltimore School.

Delaware Waiters Refuse "High Hat" Demands Of Soup-Loving Patrons; Situation Is Grave

Hardworking Garcons In College Commons Go On Strike; Insist Soup Should Be Poured Like Postum

Because collegiate patrons want their soup served from a napkin, the corps of student waiters in the University Commons here, are reported to have gone on a strike or something. In filing their brief in the matter, the honorable corps insist that for the past 63 years, soup has been poured at Delaware and that no lantern-jawed furrow vaulter from Sussex county is going to break the noble tradition. Says the "Review," student weekly:

"One day last week in the 'Commons' (so-called after having dined at the Newark High School cafeteria) the worthy boys who sling the hash went on a strike because soup had to be served individually to the students. Alton Hobbs, member of the Waiters' Union Number Three Hundred and Six called his men together and they struck for a no-soup serving schedule and for longer slices of tomato pie. Mons. Hobbs was angered when approached by a representative of The Review and when questioned he would say nothing but whispered that we might secure some information from Richard Torbert, the 'Oscar' of the Waldorf at Delaware. Torbert, with his sardonic snicker and his heavy

The date for the ceremonies will be announced in a day or two. Award will be made in the auditorium of the High School.

Prominent on the list of guests who will be invited to attend are Governor Robert P. Robinson, President Stout of the State Bankers Association and Dr. Harry Holloway, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Efforts are being made to make it one of the important events of the school year.

An interesting program is being arranged by Superintendent Owens and H. A. Nunn, the agricultural instructor. Further details will be announced soon.

M. Channing Wagner Obtained As Principal Speaker In "Character Training" Series

The following announcement has been made by Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, president of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association:

"On Tuesday evening, March 9th, at 7:45 o'clock in the High School building, there will be a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. These meetings have been growing in interest and attendance. This coming meeting will be of great help to parents as well as to teachers.

"Prof. M. Channing Wagner, Principal of the Wilmington High School, will be the speaker. His subject will be 'Character Training as a Phase of Education.' Prof. Wagner is well qualified by training and experience to deal with this subject. Such a recognized authority is he that he was called to Teachers' College, Columbia University, last summer to give courses in this field.

"Parents, certainly, and all others who are interested in the development of a fine citizenry for tomorrow, will want to hear Prof. Wagner."

SEE 900 ACRES CORN, TOMATOES

United Packing Company Already Has Contracted For 700 Acres

Contracts for corn and tomato production totalling over 700 acres have been received to date by H. R. Cole, manager of the United Packing Company here, according to a statement today.

It is confidently expressed that the acreage will reach 900 before the books are closed. Many regular growers have been unable, due to business affairs, to come to the cannery here and sign up, said Mr. Cole. The ready response to the call for next year points to another successful season, all things being considered.

Territory Jumps

A feature of the contracts has been the fact that they reach a more extensive territory than ever before. Growers will haul here from Chesapeake City, Childs, Md.; as far north as New London and Hockessin, and from points beyond Stanton and Glasgow. The plant will draw from an average radius of 8 miles from Newark. No branch stations will be established, it is understood.

State Bankers Meet On Friday In Wilmington

W. L. Barnhart, Surety Expert Of New York, To Address Delaware Six Per Centers On "Criminal Psychology" At Semi-Annual Conference; Hear Committee Reports

What promises to be one of the best attended and interesting gatherings of the Delaware Bankers' Association is the semi-annual meeting of that body to be held on Friday at the Club Room of the Hotel DuPont. More than 100 representatives from various banks and trust companies throughout the state are expected to attend and the committee in charge of the meeting, consisting of Henry P. Scott, Warren K. Ayres, and Malden G. Stout, President of the Association, has left nothing undone to make the affair a grand success.

W. L. Barnhart, vice president of the National Surety Company of New York, will be the chief speaker at the morning session following the business session, dealing largely with reports of committees appointed at the last meeting of the Association held in Dover. Mr. Barnhart's address will be "Criminal Psychology" dealing as to topics subject with an analysis of the mentality of the criminal most familiar in banking circles, the forger.

Following the morning session, members of the Delaware Bankers' Association will be the guests of the Wilmington Clearing House Association at a luncheon to be given in the grill room of the Hotel DuPont. At the afternoon session George A. O'Riley, vice-president of the Irving Bank-Columbus Trust Company of New York, will address the meeting on "The Bank in step of business."

Though only one postcard announcing the meeting was sent to each bank and trust company in the state, the committee in charge of arrangements desires it clearly understood that the various banks and trust companies are expected to be represented by at least 2 members, as has been their custom in the past. In order to make adequate reservations for those who will attend, it is desirable for the committee to have in hand all the return postcards at the earliest date.

Gets State Post

Sylvester D. Townsend, Jr., prominent Wilmington banker, has been appointed Secretary of State for Delaware by Governor Robinson, succeeding Miss Fannie S. Herrington, resigned. Mr. Townsend will take over his new duties as soon as he can arrange his personal and business affairs in the city.

The new appointee is a cousin of George L. Townsend, Jr., of this town.

May Solve Gas Question Here In Forthcoming Meeting With Officials

Conference Called By Norris N. Wright To Have Been Held Last Night, Postponed; Alfred Again Appears Before Town Council

Post Office Site Tangle Continues

With four unsuccessful journeys to official Washington under their belt, not to mention hours of discussion in frequent local meetings, members of Council and University officials are still in the dark with regard to a possible exchange of the Government's lot at Delaware avenue and South College avenue for one further east on Delaware avenue.

Council, it was learned this week, wants to widen South College avenue from Main street to Delaware avenue, but cannot remove the necessary ten feet from Federal property. The University doesn't want a post office on that corner, anyhow. Neither do a great many townspeople.

But that is presumably as far as the matter has reached to date.

WELL KNOWN COUNTIAN DEAD

Gibson C. Severson, Townsend, Was Prominent In Local Politics

Gibson C. Severson, aged 48 years, one of the well known Democrats of Blackbird hundred, died Friday morning at 5 o'clock at his home near Taylor's Bridge. He had been ill about two months, suffering from what his physicians diagnosed as some kind of a growth about the heart. While his condition was recognized as critical his death was unexpected.

Mrs. Severson, who is a daughter of James H. Staats, and three children, survive him.

Mr. Severson took an active interest in the affairs of his party. In the election of 1921 he was a candidate for the State Senate and was defeated by Dr. H. B. McDowell by only four votes. He was a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M. and of Friendship M. E. Church.

At Palm Beach

Word received early this week states that Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Curtis of Newark are now stopping at the Royal Ponciana Hotel, Palm Beach, Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis have been spending most of the winter in the Garden State.

Lenten Speaker

At St. Thomas Episcopal Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock, the first of a series of Lenten services will be held. The speaker will be the Rt. Rev. George W. Davenport, bishop of the Diocese of Easton, Maryland.

What appears to be a definite solution of the problem of obtaining gas for Newark and environs is expected at a forthcoming meeting of interested parties called by Norris N. Wright, vice-president of the Continental Fibre Company here. Due to Mr. Wright's illness, the meeting, scheduled for last evening, has been postponed. No future date has as yet been set.

Conferees will, it is understood, include representatives from Council, the Chamber of Commerce, various other organizations here, and officials of the Wilmington Gas Company. Continued agitation and a variety of conflicting rumors which has characterized the situation for several weeks, together with Mr. Wright's desire to gain the facts, is said to have prompted the calling of the conference.

In some quarters it is confidently expressed that the Wilmington firm is contemplating the early extension of its lines to Newark. In the minds of others, little credence is given this belief.

Council Considering

Councilmen again tackled the gas problem at their regular monthly meeting Monday night. John S. Alfred, of Wilmington, said to be an independent promoter, appeared and reaffirmed his desire to obtain a franchise from Council on basis of his plans as outlined at the February meeting of the councilmen.

Considerable discussion followed Mr. Alfred's statements but again no definite action was ordered. Instead, Charles B. Evans, attorney for Council, will be instructed to draw up in legal form a brief, containing provisions which must be met before a franchise can be granted. In particular, Council, through Mayor Frazer as spokesman, holds the main points at issue to be the extent of damages to improved streets which may result from excavation work for mains. Mr. Alfred, on the other hand, is of the opinion that his method of excavation would preclude any permanent damages.

While averse to revealing the firm or firms which he represents, promoter Alfred assured Council that the immediate inauguration of plans for a new gas plant here would be the outcome of a franchise grant.

BUS SERVICE DOWN HIGHWAY

New Line to Operate Between Wilmington and Dover on Regular Schedule

Plans have been completed for the inauguration of a new bus service between Dover and Wilmington by the Blue Hen State Bus Company, now operating a line of buses between Middletown and Wilmington.

The company established the new service Saturday, February 27, and placed several new de-lux buses, costing approximately $12,000 each, in service. Fast, comfortable and economical service is the announced program of the company.

A tentative schedule announced calls for two round trips daily, at present, with increases as traffic warrants. Buses will leave Dover at 8 a. m. and 2:30 p. m., and returning leave Wilmington at 12:15 and 5:15 p. m. About one hour and fifty minutes will be the running time.

Officers of the company are H. M. Fetterolf, president; F. A. Lawson, secretary and treasurer, and S. Worcester Sargent, chairman of the executive committee.

Seriously Ill

Miss Eleanor Duffy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy of Cooch's Bridge, has suffered a nervous breakdown and is very ill at her home, according to reports received yesterday.

Miss Duffy, who is an active figure in social and club affairs of the town, was suffering from a severe cold, when her condition gradually grew serious.

The Delaware Farm Egg-Laying Contest began November 1, 1925, and will continue for one year. It is being conducted by H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman at the University of Delaware, in co-operation with the County Agricultural Agents, and the farmers in the state who are interested in more economic egg production.

Each farmer who joined the contest was provided with an illustrated calendar which has a page for each month in the year. On each page of the calendar is a form for keeping the egg record, and as much timely information on poultry management as space would allow.

Each month Mr. Palmer summarizes the results of the contest as given above and sends this, together with a monthly letter to each farmer who is keeping the records. His letter for this month is as follows:

The Outlook For Egg Prices During Spring and Early Summer

"It is quite likely that egg prices for the spring and early summer of this year will be somewhat under what they were for 1925. Several factors are making for this. One of the most important is the cold storage situation. Last year the cold storage men suffered heavy losses. They put eggs in storage during the summer at prices so high that they were unable to sell them during the winter at a profit. We need not expect that they will make this mistake again this coming year. Figures given out by the United States Department of Agriculture show that cold storage holdings of eggs which last year had been reduced on February 1st to 81,000 cases now stand at 574,000 cases.

Another factor which is important to Delaware producers is the competition which they are compelled to meet in the New York market from the Pacific Coast eggs. At the present time these eggs are coming through in excellent shape, showing practically no air cells and having almost uniform light yolks. Consequently, they top the market and come in direct competition with the best eggs produced by Delaware poultrymen.

These factors are not given to make the poultry producers pessimistic about the future but only to show the imperative need for two things: (1) economic egg production; (2) production of only the highest quality eggs."

The above article was prepared by Dr. Claude L. Benner, Head of the Economics Department, University of Delaware, who is making a close study of marketing Delaware eggs.

Selecting Hatching Eggs

The size, shape, color and shell texture of a pullet's eggs are factors that are inherited from her parents. It has been proved that small eggs make small, weak pullets, that in turn, lay small eggs. So, in order to get pullets that will lay the kind of eggs that our market demands we must select that kind of eggs for hatching.

Eggs that are selected for hatching should meet the following requirements:

Size—24 to 28 ounces to the dozen, with no egg weighing less than 2 ounces or more than 2 1/4 ounces.

Shape—Perfect oval or egg shape in which the small end can be distinguished from the large end. Neither too long nor too round. Such eggs look best, and less likely to be broken in shipment.

Shell Texture—Free from wrinkles, ridges or rough places, with no thin spots and cracks.

Condition—Free from dirt, or stains and not washed. Better leave eggs slightly dirty than to wash them.

Color—If white, the eggs should all be pure chalk white, free from tint. If brown, the color may be any shade, but all should be uniformly the same shade.

Care of the Hatching Eggs

1. Gather at least twice a day.
2. Store in cool dry place—50° to 60° F.
3. Hold not longer than 10 days before setting.

Delaware Orators Gain Decision On Points In Wolf Hall Friday Evening

With this formidable subject awaiting dissection, five young men appeared on the platform at Wolf Hall Friday evening and gravely took seats. Referee, the Rev. W. A. Vrooman, Wilmington, took his place. Passed an hour of argumentation. Rev. Vrooman arose. He said:

Oldest Railroad Held Birthday On The 28th

Under the original charter granted by the State of Maryland. February 28, 1827, and still bearing the name given it at that time, The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, organized to construct a railroad from the City of Baltimore to the Ohio River, has gone far beyond the fondest expectations of its founders, chief among whom was Charles Carroll of Carrollton, bosom friend and counselor of George Washington. Today its rails stretch not only from the Atlantic seaboard to the Ohio River, as planned, but to the Mississippi River in the Southwest and the Great Lakes in the Northwest, with numerous other lines serving intervening territory.

On the fifty-second anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1828, two years after the death of his contemporaries—Thomas Jefferson and John Adams—Charles Carroll of Carrollton, then the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, assisted the Masonic Grand Lodge of Maryland under the direction of the President and Directors of the Railroad Company, in laying the "First Stone" which marked the beginning of construction of the Baltimore and Ohio. It was on this occasion that this great patriot, who was then in his ninety-second year uttered those memorable words: "I consider this among the most important acts of my life, second only to my signing the Declaration of Independence, if even it be second to that."

"Although the arguments of the Delaware team were not entirely convincing to a disinterested listener and although there were several flaws in the logic which they presented, yet I feel that their work has been in a measure such as to outweigh the arguments of the negative team. My candid opinion is such that I award the decision to the affirmative side."

The debate was the first in the history of varsity debating at the University of Delaware. A freshman debating society has been in existence for several years and this year the members of last year's freshman team organized to form what was known as the University of Delaware Debating Council, under the direction of Professors Matthews and Van Keuren.

All debates held are dual debates, that is, one team represents Delaware at home arguing one side of the question while another team travels to the opposing school there to meet a second team.

The University of Delaware team consisted of Phillip Cohen, Isaac Quillan and William Lank. Harold Simmerman and Harry C. Kait were the speakers for Temple. Russell W. Heiser accompanied the Temple team as manager.

Professor Van Keuren, chairman of the evening, announced that the negative team of the University of Delaware was debating with the affirmative squad of the Temple school.

AUTO EXHIBIT GREAT SUCCESS

Elkton Armory Crowded During Three-Day Affair Last Week;

Over $900 Taken In

The second annual automobile show in Elkton closed Saturday night with hundreds of people from Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania in attendance. It was pronounced one of the best small shows in this part of the country.

Manager H. Frank Hurn, who successfully piloted last year's show as well as the one just closed, estimated, according to reports, that about $900 had been taken in by the American Legion Post, sponsors of the show. Just what part of this sum will be cleared for the Ambulance Fund isn't as yet known.

Beautiful Cars

Cecil county folk who saw the exhibit were given a treat by the motor car dealers. Beautiful new 1926 models in open and closed cars, were arranged on the drill hall floor. Tasteful decorations further added to the beauty of the scene. Members of the Legion Post had active parts to play in attending to the many details of the show.

Fire Scare

Visions of a disaster created great excitement at the Armory Friday afternoon, when visitors noticed smoke pouring through the floor and out of cellar windows.

The Slinger firemen responded to a hurry call, but were not called into action, as hand extinguishers smothered the flames.

According to reports of the affair, oiled rags had been left too near a hot flue in the boiler room of the building. Catching there, the fire spread to wire insulation and parts of the rafters. Dense smoke poured from the building for a few minutes. Dealers, intent on saving their cars, drove many of them out into the open. Quick work on the part of show officials probably saved a serious blaze.

NEWPORT

The new fire engine of the Minquas Fire Company will be formally housed on Saturday afternoon, March 20, with appropriate exercises. It is now planned to have a parade, in which nearby fire companies will participate.

An epidemic of colds and grip among the children of the Newport public schools last week reduced the attendance in some of the grades by 50 per cent. While a great many of the children who have been ill have recovered and returned to school, each day finds a few new ones ill. The school was closed Friday at noon, and it was a clear day, with a good breeze going, the buildings were thrown open for an airing.

Quality Folks

Editorial from The Newark Post, April 13, 1910

The old Southern darkies recognized those who were above them by the name—quality folks. To us, quality folks are those who do better work, who render better service than the ordinary run of folks. Heinz qualifies for that with his 57 varieties; the Studebaker Wagon Company, the Oliver Plow Company, John Wanamaker—all these and others in their class are quality folks. But one doesn't have to be of national importance to be reckoned in this class. One can be "quality folks" in a small community. All you have to do is to do a certain kind of work a little better than the best. That is the open sesame of that society.

Jones out in Wisconsin, is making better sausage than any one else, while Mary Elizabeth makes those who like good candy bend the knee to Syracuse. Out there in Pittsfield, Mass., is the Caxton society. These lovers of good printing are publishing a series of brochures which are fitted with the best in literature. Thomas Mosher, of Portland, makes the best books in the country. One can caress a Mosher book, and always be sure that within the covers one can find something high grade. The Roycrofters came into existence because Elbert Hubbard stumbled into William Morris and caught the germ. Out in Los Angeles James Griffin has set up the Golden Press among the orange trees and roses. He sends out his beautiful little magazine "Everyman" to try to bring folks to see that the Golden Rule is really greater than the majority think, and that a laugh is worth ten frowns in every market.

An ideal we have is that some day there will be a little shop in Newark that will do good things in printing. It is a dream—not of a country job office, but of a little art shop. A dream perhaps—but that the Newark Post some day will be considered and loved as a little weekly paper at Newark, Delaware, that is good, that is doing good, that is different and that we may be classed among the QUALITY FOLKS—because we are doing good work, a little better than the other fellow can.

E. C. Johnson and Books

Ethel Wilson in "Every Evening"

Books were personalities to Everett C. Johnson. They were the authors as it were in spirit form, still breathing out ideas and ideals. To enter a library was to come into the presence of the great men of every land and clime; to come into their presence in the attitude of the disciple, ready to be led, eager to follow.

Before the open fireplace at his home, as the logs burned to the glow of Christmas Eve, he told of the dawn of his reverence for books. When a freshman at the University of Delaware, he was one day in the library cataloguing books. He sat among the books with his hat tipped back on his head. Forgetful of everything he worked and was unconscious that anyone had entered the room. He heard his name with a start. "Everett, I like your assurance, your self-importance, to sit here with your hat on in the presence of all these great men." "I have never felt so humiliated in my life," he confessed. "I pulled off my hat sheepishly and stood to acknowledge Professor V's reproof and now I do not enter a library but I think of this incident."

Lincoln to him, in the biographies which he read, was a man of flesh and blood and spirit as truly as in the days when he lived. As the authors breathed life into him, he accepted Lincoln and translated his motives, his purposes, his actions in terms of aims and ideals for practice in his own daily life. He did not undertake a thing without seeing it through. If it were for education, he pleaded its cause. He looked forward, had a vision of Delaware with the advantages of other states, then put his eloquence and support behind it to make that vision a reality.

He was not a man to wait for others to originate plans for improvement. Holding office meant more than doing the work of a day and being satisfied. He anticipated the morrow, was not afraid of it, went out to meet it, gloried in overcoming the obstacles of progress.

When elected to office, he took up the work where he found it and then with almost the power of an Atlas, he shouldered duties and situations with the stride of a Colossus, he seemed to step forth into space with his face toward the rising sun, while other men have minced their steps and had no ambition to outstep tradition. To him tradition was a heritage, not a millstone hung about the neck.

I can see him in the days of the World War, standing on the stage of The Playhouse. Long ago that was and looking back he seems now like a portrait come to life and I hear his voice ringing with sincerity and earnestness through the awe inspiring stillness of a theatre crowded to the doors. His words came again through the stillness of death. "Let us here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth." All that great audience cheered him to the echo. Whether those who cheered have kept their resolve, they know. He kept his.

I can see him on the day the Delaware University Library was dedicated. It was he who unveiled the "Book of Heroic Deeds" which the soldiers of Delaware wrote with their own life blood. The book was his idea and he designed and superintended the making of this tribute to those men and women who made the supreme sacrifice. I can see him give it to a service man to carry into the rotunda of the library, there to take its place as a living book. At that moment the brave men and women whose names are recorded in it, came to life, forever to inspire patriotism and give courage to all who turn its pages.

Everett C. Johnson has finished the last chapter in his Book of Service to Delaware. Put it in the library of your memory. Often take it from the shelf and know that like him, with a resolve and an ideal, these dead will not have died in vain.

—OUR MOTTO

EVERETT C. JOHNSON

Written by his Teacher and Friend, EDWARD N. VALLANDIGHAM

Will you let me say a few words of my friend Everett Johnson who left us so suddenly? The news came to me with a peculiar shock because, only a few hours before Mr. Shultz telephoned me from his home at Boston to say that our friend was no more, I had received a cheerful note from him, regretting that he had not time at the moment to say many things that he would like to have said. Time was not left him for further words with living men.

Everett Johnson I knew from his eager student days at Delaware College to the end of his career. In spite of ill health he had a personal energy that enabled him to live an industrious and useful life. He became one of the most effective and entertaining public speakers in Delaware. He created in The Post an unusual type of village newspaper, and made it an instrument for good in local affairs, an organ through which he said many fine things as to larger concerns.

His most interesting and perhaps most valuable work was the projection and administration of Kells, in which undertaking he had expert aid which he always cheerfully acknowledged. The output of Kells would have been notable had it published nothing but the widely circulated volume containing The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. To have foreseen that such a volume could be made a "best seller" implied something higher than the thing that has been called "an instinct as publisher."

For years past, as I saw from time to time his slender figure and prematurely lined face, I had expected at any moment to hear that he was no more. But as I watched his varied activities, and unsparing industry, as I talked with him from time to time, and felt his unbounded courage and astonishing energy, I came to hope that he might gain physical strength to carry him into old age. In that hope I was disappointed; but none of his friends can have been disappointed in the work that he accomplished, a work cut short, but worryingly done to the very end.

—E. N. Vallandigham.

Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

Francis Hopkinson

Helping a pretty girl to escape to England so that she may marry the man of her choice is a scheme not usually associated with such dignified worthies as the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of which will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition in Philadelphia this year.

Yet Francis Hopkinson, of New Jersey, was one of three romantic youths who assisted the lovely Elizabeth She-well to escape from the custody of her brother so that she might flee to England to wed Benjamin West, who later was to become famous as a portrait painter. His colleagues in the escapade were none other than Benjamin Franklin and William White, the latter destined to become the first Episcopal bishop in America. Thus Robert Shackleton in "The Book of Philadelphia."

Hopkinson was the first student enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania and was graduated with the first class. He read law with Benjamin Chew and was admitted to the bar. He was a member of Congress in 1776, and became distinguished during the Revolution through his political and satirical writings.

In January, 1778, while the channel of the Delaware was nearly free of ice, a number of Whigs at Bordentown, N. J., sent torpedoes floating down the steam in the form of kegs filled with powder, and arranged a mechanical device causing them to explode when brought in contact with any other object afloat, as an offensive against British craft. One of them, touching a piece of ice in front of the city, exploded and created intense alarm. For twenty-four hours afterward not a thing was seen floating on the river without being fired at by musket or cannon. The event greatly amused the Americans and Hopkinson subsequently wrote his famous satirical poem, "The Battle of the Kegs."

Hopkinson lived in Bordentown, a place made gay in early times by the festivities of Joseph Bonaparte, who had been King of Spain and of Naples, and of a long succession of titled men, generals and statesmen.

A social note appear in the "Pennsylvania Chronicle and Universal Advertiser" of September 5, 1768, reads as follows: "On Thursday last, Francis Hopkinson, Esq., was joined in the Velvet Bonds of Hymen to Miss Nancy Borden, of this place, a lady amiable both for her internal as well as external accomplishments."

In 20 states matrons have been appointed to supervise the work and increasing interest among the boys and girls is everywhere reported. There are upwards of 450 Juvenile Granges in the United States, the number having more than doubled in the past three years.

A record Grange event of the year has just been held in the State of Washington, when 15 subordinate Granges in Lewis county united in a joint installation of officers, the ceremony being performed by State Master A. S. Goss. A crowd of more than 700 Grange members attended and fully 200 Grange officers were formally inducted into office.

Early American Imprints—Delaware

By L. Nelson Nichols in "The American Printer"

The three lower Counties on the Delaware insisted upon their separate identity in American State government, though Pennsylvania was more than doubtful as to the wisdom of it. The issue is also debatable also when we think of Delaware printing as a whole. Only three towns had printing before the era of the cheap newspaper in the decade before the Civil War. As late as 1820, only Wilmington, New Castle and Dover had been the possessors of printing in the State. As late as 1852, when the first American newspaper directory was issued, there were but three newspapers outside of the three towns: the "Milford Beacon," the "Smyrna Telegraph" and the "Delaware Herald," also printed in Smyrna.

But if Delaware seemed so small in some senses, it showed itself great in others. Quality has been the trait that has saved many a minority. Delaware knew that, and the standard has been kept high. The first printer in 1761. He was James Adams. No other printers followed him into Delaware until Jacob A. Killen and Company set up a press in 1785. The high quality of James Adams' work is shown from the title page "A Little Looking-Glass" in 1764. In the late 1870s the sons of James: Samuel, John and James Jr., came into various partnerships with the father. But they were all out of the business in Wilmington, except the younger James Adams, before 1790; but he continued years longer.

Three other printers set up various partnerships with each other for a few years beginning with 1790. They were Samuel Andrews, Peter Brynberg and Frederick Craig. They were the first real rivals of the Adamses. The title page of Coram's Political Inquiries, 1791, is a good sample of their work.

When Samuel and John Adams went to New Castle to start a press with a printing press to New Castle is not known, but there is a product of that press in 1796, in one of the various printings of Washington's Farewell Address. The first newspaper at New Castle was not started until 1804. This was the "Argus and Delaware Advertiser," printed by John Baker.

Dover also seems to have had a press a few years before its first newspaper. The "Mite of Praise," also a Washington item, was clearly printed by W. Black in 1800. This was a poetic laudation dated, Maryland State, Christmas Morn, 1799. The first newspaper of Dover of which anything is known was begun by Wootton and Allee in 1804, and called the "Constitutionalist; or the Defender of the People's Rights."

New Century Club

At the New Century Club meeting on Monday afternoon Mrs. Cobb gave a very interesting review of "Christina Albertas' Father," by H. G. Wells. She also gave a brief summary of Anne Parrish's prize novel, "The Perennial Bachelor." Her characterization was especially good.

The president called attention to the following changes in some of the coming programs: On March 29 Mrs. Walter Stuart Brown, president of the Wilmington New Century Club, will address the club instead of Dr. Patterson. Reciprocity Day will be changed to Current Events, which will be given by Mrs. Dutton, Mrs. Houghton and Mrs. Matthews. The club luncheon on April 22 will be omitted.

Mrs. Neale announced that any club member who wishes to make nominations for the various elective club offices should send the names either to Mrs. Cann, Mrs. Dutton or herself.

Mrs. Dutton, chairman of the Library Committee, announced that beginning with Monday, March 9, the Town Library will be open four days a week, as in former days.

There will be no business meeting of the club on March 15. On the evening of that date the members of the Chamber of Commerce and their wives, together with the husbands and friends of club members, will be the guests of the club.

FIND STATUE IN COURT CELLAR

Wooden Figure of Washington Had Varied Career, Says Wilmington Paper

(From The Sunday Star.)

For forty-one years occupying the position of honor in Bowling Green, New York city; then resting amid cobwebs in a collector's antique shop, thence brought out again to the place of honor on the Triumphant Arch in Washington Square, New York, back again into the discard as a cigar-store effigy on Broadway, then brought to Wilmington and stored in the basement of the City Hall for ten years, and finally dug out and set up in the place of honor in the City Hall last Monday, such have been the curious vicissitudes of a heroic statue of George Washington, the first statue carved to the Father of his Country.

Few of those who viewed the huge statue of wood at the City end of the Public Buildings last Monday, Washington's Birthday, were aware of the queer history of the statue. That it is the first and oldest statue of Washington gives it an unique historical significance. More shame still that it should have stood for years in front of a cigar store as an advertisement until rescued by Senator Coleman du Pont from its ignominious fate.

9 Feet, 8 Inches High

The statue was carved in wood because facilities for casting in metal were limited in the 18th century. It stands nine feet, eight inches high, and weighs more than 800 pounds.

The figure is dressed in Continental uniform of buff and blue, with riding boots and breeches, all done in colors. The numerous buttons common to the uniform of the period were originally gilded. The left arm holds a cocked hat.

It was after the troubles over the stamp act in 1765 that the New York legislature proposed a monument to William Pitt, to commemorate his efforts to make the woes of the colonists understood in the British parliament. But it was deemed improper to erect a statue to Pitt without one to the king. So statues of both were ordered from an English sculptor, and both reached New York in due course and were set up simultaneously; the one to the king at Bowling Green and that of Pitt at Wall and Williams streets. In 1776, after the signing of the declaration of independence, the one to the king was pulled down by American sympathizers and the one of Pitt met a similar fate at the hands of British royalists, in reprisal. The statue of the king was melted into bullets. Several fragments of it, however, along with pieces of the Pitt statue were preserved.

Caesar Rodney Falls To Boys' Team,
But Girls Lose, In Friday Night's
Tussles; Locals Win On Field Goals Alone; Both Teams Out Of Title Play

By taking the Caesar Rodney five into camp on their own floor Friday night, Newark High added another victory to their good record this season. The score was 18-16.

An unusual feature of the game was the fact that Newark did not score a point from the foul line. Chalmers, Morris and M. Armstrong were the heavy attackers, their work putting the 6 Caesar Rodney foul points to no avail. Fifer was high scorer for the Wyoming team.

Girls Lose

Playing desperately all the way, Newark girls could not get up within striking distance of the flashy Caesar Rodney sextette in the preliminary game, losing out 17-8.

Misses Roe and Coverdale, for the down-state team, were hard to stop, and swept their team into an early lead which could not be overcome.

Newark's two teams are definitely out of the running for the D. I. A. A. championship. The games Friday night could not have altered the standing, as Dover has clinched the title.

minstrel, vaudeville, and general jamboree. The show opens for two nights in the New Theatre, is under the direction of David Belasco Sticheberry, and will positively not show Eliza crossing the ice.

M. Sticheberry, a postman with high ideals of the "spoken drummer," essays the show (the name of which we cannot recall), for the special benefit of the degree team of National Lodge No. 37, I. O. O. F., Elkton. He has engaged, at great expense, the services of such Thespian worthies as Mr. Ed Phillips, Mr. Charlie Weldon, and Mr. Frank Blanton, all of whom need no introduction to Elktonians—in fact there will be no introductions at all. The affair is strictly informal.

Music, dancing, and jokes that do not date to the Ark will be tossed to the audience. Mr. Sticheberry denies the rumor that music will be furnished by bell ringers.

The lineup and batting order will be given to each cash customer as he enters the theatre.

CHURCHES

Ebenezer Church
Gilbert T. Gehman, Minister

10 a. m. Church school; 11 a. m. Sermon; 12:10 p. m. Manual class.

Sixty dollars were raised in the Sunday School last Sunday for the work under Dr. A. L. Grey, Baluchistan, India. Miss Elizabeth Cook, treasurer, has forwarded the same to the office in Chicago. The pastor is glad to report that the benevolent apportionments for this charge have been raised in full. The World Service demands have not been fully met, but it is hoped they will be by the time Conference convenes in Dover three weeks hence.

The following are the trustees for the ensuing year: Messrs. John Kirk, George Knotts, Arthur Atwell, Elwood Sheldon, Harley Mousley, Winfield Whiteman, James Little, Herman Cook and Harvey J. Davis.

The Mite Society will hold a St. Patrick's supper in the basement of the church, Thursday evening, March 11. The regular monthly meeting of the Mite Society was held at the home of Mrs. Sarah Worrall last Thursday evening.

The Methodist Episcopal Church
The Central Church—Rev. Frank Herson, Minister

11 a. m. Morning worship and sermon. Subject, "The Divided Allegiance."

6:45 p. m. Devotional meeting of the Epworth League. Topic, "Verbs of Christian Living—To Know."

7:30 p. m. Evening worship and sermon. Subject, "Christ's Kingdom."

Church Notes

The ushers appointed for the month of March are as follows: Morning service—J. Newton Sheaffer, George M. Phipps, Francis A. Cooch, Dr. Thomas F. Mann; Evening service—Oliver W. Leverage, Enos Walls, George Krapp, and William B. Sweeney.

The Ladies Aid Society will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at 2:30, in the lecture room.

Mid-week Lenten service on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the lecture hall.

Faculty Club

At the meeting of the Faculty Club of University of Delaware held Monday night, presided over by A. G. Wilkinson, President of the Club, an illustrated lecture was delivered by Mr. P. B. Myers of the Chemistry Department of the Agriculture Experiment Station. The lecture was on "Jelly Formation." This research work at Delaware on Jelly is attracting considerable attention from all parts of the country due to the practicability of the work being undertaken.

The following resolution was adopted by the Club on the death of Everett C. Johnson who was one of its members:

"In the death of Everett C. Johnson, the members of the Faculty Club of the University of Delaware have suffered an irreparable loss. He was an idealist with the saving grace of common sense enough to keep both feet solidly on the ground. He was loyal to his ideals and to his fellow-men. He was sympathetic toward others, and was always willing, even eager, to help those who needed his aid. He was unselfish to a marked degree, and gave liberally of his time and means to what he considered worthy causes. He was constructive and never destructive.

"The members of this Club wish to express to the members of his family their deepest sympathy and heart-felt sorrow."

Flood Damages

Rumors that the Sunset Lake fishing dam had again given way during last Thursday's flood were denied yesterday by Ott. Widdoes, president of the Anglers Association. Mr. Widdoes stated that a portion of the dirt embankment adjacent to the structure had broken, allowing an abnormal overflow, but that the dambreast is intact.

Lodge Notes

The Red Men of New Castle County will hold a union meeting in Wilmington on March 27, at the New Century Club. The degree team of Minnehaha has been invited and has accepted. They will stage "The Adoption Degree." All members are requested to meet at the Hall on Sunday afternoon, March 7, at 1 o'clock for rehearsal.

This country is so poor we ate only about $300,000,000 worth of ice cream last year.—Columbia Record.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE NOTES

(Written For The Post)

At College Hour last Wednesday, Dr. Louis Anspacher addressed the students on the subject "The Mob and the Movies."

Women's College was represented at the National Educational Association Meeting in Washington last week by Dean Robinson, Miss Parker, Miss Allen, and Miss Van de Voort.

Dean Robinson was chairman of section of University deans, which was quite an honor for Miss Robinson and for Women's College.

Dr. Ryden, who is an honorary member of the Senior class, entertained the class at tea at the home of Mrs. Ernest Frazer last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Hullihen poured, and Miss McKinney, Miss Long, Miss Spencer, and Miss Gillespie served. Dr. Matthews sang and Mr. Reed recited.

Dr. Ryden has always taken a fine interest in the Class of '26 and the teas which he has given have been delightfully informal affairs. Moreover, Dr. Ryden has taken a serious interest in each girl's plans for work after college, advising and helping her in every way possible.

The Press Club, which has not been active this year, due to so many other college activities, has recently taken on new life. Miss Keely talked to the girls at the meeting on last Friday. Her idea is to have a series of talks on journalism and to secure journalists who will address the club at different meetings.

Freshman Dance

The social event of the week at W. C. D. was the formal dance given by the Freshman Class in the Hilarium. Music was furnished by Potter's Plaza Players. The decorations, planned by Helen Elliott and her committee, had transformed the Hilarium, the Warner Room, and the Browning Room into a lovely latticed garden, where beautiful roses bloomed.

Rosalie Steel, president of the Freshman Class, was at the head of the receiving line. The patronesses were Dean Robinson, Miss Drake, Miss Parker, Miss McKinney, Miss Keely, Miss Gillespie, Miss Long, and

New York when first offered three years ago at the Greenwich Village Theatre.

All over the country "White Cargo" broke a number of records. It played a year in Chicago, has been in London two years and is still running; played an entire season in Boston, and even distant Australia is clamoring for the piece.

At any rate the silver dollar stimulates business; we try to get rid of it as soon as possible.—Columbus Dispatch.

OLD LIGHT IS STILL STANDING

Gales Sweep More Earth From Henlopen's Base; End Is Near, Says Report

Says a dispatch from Lewes: Although there have been a number of heavy storms causing swift and strong shore currents during February, old Cape Henlopen lighthouse is still standing. It seems like hoping against fate to suggest that in spite of all the prophecies of its ultimate destruction by action of tide and wind, nature might take a hand if human agencies fall short and still preserve the old lighthouse to posterity. However, the appearances are against its endurance unless something is done to divert the shore currents at that point as the tides have cut the sand bank at the foot of the light until it is practically perpendicular with the side of the lighthouse.

Your Income Tax

John W. Hering, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, today stated that the income tax for the year 1925 is less, in proportion to the taxpayer's income, than was the tax for 1924. A rate reduction, however, is not the only benefit afforded by the revenue act of 1926. Increase in the exemptions and other changes in revenue legislation are of immediate interest to every taxpayer.

The revenue act of 1926 provides exemptions for single persons of $1500 and for married persons of $3500, as well as a credit for dependents in the amount of $400 for each dependent. In order to claim this credit, it is necessary that the taxpayer be the chief support of a dependent either under eighteen years of age or incapacitated because of mental or physical defect on the last day of the year for which the return is filed. Husband and wife, living together may include the income of each in a single joint return, or each may file a separate return reporting thereon the income received by each.

The period for filing returns ends March 15, 1926. The return, accompanied by at least one-fourth of the amount of tax due, must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or has his principal place of business.

Playhouse

Rich in prestige as a dramatic gem and prosperous to a high degree all over the world, "White Cargo," with the original New York cast and productions and a record of the longest run in the history of the dramatic stage, will be presented by Earl Carroll at the Playhouse, Wilmington, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 4, 5 and 6, with matinee Saturday.

This play comes direct from the engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia. "White Cargo" now enjoys the distinction of having established the record for the longest run of any drama in the history of the stage in New York or in any other city of the world.

Six of the ten players in this company have been with the piece since the beginning—Conway Wingfield, Frederick Roland, J. Malcolm Dunn, Curtis Karpe, Tracy Barrow and Richard Stevenson. Carl Brickert, Miss Betty Pierce, Alan Davis and W. Wana Singha have played consecutively, succeeding players in their roles very early in the long run of the tropical love story that electrified

Mrs. W. H. Steel. Edith Nunn, vice-president of the class, led the grand march.

Nellie Lawton was chairman of the committee on refreshments; Elizabeth Hayden of music, and Mildred Phillips of the programs.

The presidents of the other classes were guests of the Freshman class.

The program for the Vesper service on Sunday evening was arranged by those girls living on the third floor of Residence Hall. The features of the services were singing by Dr. Ryden and a reading by Dean Robinson. The paper which Miss Robinson read was an address by Edgar A. Hill, the retiring president of the Council of Christian Education.
