Almost 15,000 enrolled at UD

Fewer freshman accepted this year

It seems like only yesterday we watched them leave...but their replacements have already arrived.

Incoming freshman poured into Newark last week, and upper classes were right behind them. Local residents laid low and avoided the University of Delaware area as thousands of students accompanied by anxious parents transported themselves and their belongings to residences throughout Newark.

The 3,188 freshmen come to Newark this year from both near and distant lands and they range in age from 16 to 63. The most popular names among them are Jennifer and Michael. Twenty-six of the freshmen are twins.

The university was high in demand this year, receiving applications from 18,166 prospective freshmen, which marked an increase of 4,059 applications from last year.

"We have been more selective, admitting 49 percent of the applicants, a sizable decrease from other years," said Frederic Seigel, director of enrollment services at UD. "Our goal has been to avoid the overcrowding of the past two years when more students chose UD than we anticipated, and we are right on target."

The 14,500 students comprising this year's undergraduate classes began classes on Tuesday, Aug. 29, following Convocation on Monday.

Overall, students in the class of 2004 have higher SAT scores, higher class standings and higher grade point averages than students chosen in previous years, university officials said. There are 297 incoming students with a 4.00 high school grade point average and 425 enrolled in the Honors Program. The class also includes 31 valedictorians and 27 salutatorians.

Of the 677 freshmen who are from the state of Delaware, almost 600 are from New Castle County schools.

Diner reopening on Main Street in classic style

Art Deco building staying downtown with all the traditional diner fixtures

Newark's oldest diner is undergoing a makeover and will be serving up steaks and sodas again soon, after a brief break in business.

The landmark diner has sat on the corner of Main and Haines streets since it was first opened back in the mid-1950's. Vacant for about a year and a half, it will be open again for business within the next couple of weeks, according to Rudy Kocakus, who recently bought the diner.

Kocakus, who has operated the Eagle Diner on Elkton Road for five years, said Cozy Corner Family Diner will seat approximately 70 people.

Along with the new owner and the new name, the diner will take on a new look and some new jukeboxes. But for the most part, he said, the food will remain the same as it's always been.

"Diner food - we're still going to serve regular diner food," he said. "But we're going to have good food: desserts - homemade desserts - cakes, pies, burgers, sandwiches and all that stuff."

Robert Thomas, president of the Newark Historical Society, said food was a major player in the diner's popularity during the 1960s, when it was named "Jimmy's Diner" after its owner, Jimmy Capolis.

"It's hard for people who didn't go there when it was Jimmy's Diner to understand how impressive it was," Thomas said. "Jimmy would come in every morning at five a.m. in a suit and tie and start cooking. That diner had excellent food - stuffed flounder and crab meat, fried clams, strip steak - I'm talking full dinners here."

Thomas said Kocakus' Eagle Diner has been successful since it opened, in part because it also features appetizing menu items.

"The menu in [Eagle Diner] is similar to Jimmy's," said Thomas. "You can go in there and they'll serve you up some meat loaf and some mashed potatoes with gravy, and I think that's one reason it's become so popular."

The Cozy Corner will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, Kocakus said. In keeping with the original design, there will be a jukebox at each booth and another four located in front of the counter seats.

The diner will keep its metallic, old-fashioned-looking exterior, Kocakus said, but the inside will look a bit different. "It's going to be cleaner this time, and even better than it was before," he said.

The Newark Diner originally opened in 1953 and was later called the Hollywood Diner, Jimmy's Diner, and Jude's Diner. Former manager Jude McDonald was honored by the New Castle County Historic Review Board for her maintenance of the diner's period look in 1996.

Two businessmen from New Jersey were the latest tenants to operate the business, opening it again as the Newark Diner in 1997.

Earlier this year, the city denied permission for a redevelopment at the site which would have retained the Art Deco exterior with a modernized interior and two new stories for apartments.

Residents and councilmembers objected to the loss of the classic diner fixtures inside, as well as the need for a parking waiver to accommodate the added tenants.

Property owner Gus Tsionas also previously sought unsuccessfully to move the diner to an out-of-state location where he believed it would have a better chance of success.

Iron removal plant on its way

Process will eliminate rust-colored water and stains

Pending the results of a study commissioned last week by the city council, Newark could see the beginning of an iron removal plant by this time next year.

Whitman, Requa & Associates LLP were hired to decide whether an iron removal plant would be advantageous to the quality of Newark's water supply.

The proposed plant is part of Newark's Water Supply Plan approved in 1998, said city manager Carl Luft. City officials said the plant will help remove sediments that, in some cases, have caused muddied waters around town.

"We estimate that if all goes according to plan and there are no problems with the study or the plant's design, then the city will bid out the project to a company and construction will begin next summer," Luft said.

Joseph Dombrowski, the city's water director, spoke to the city council members about recent water concerns. He said two residential communities encountered iron in their water service a few days earlier as a by-product of the city flushing the water system.

The No. 11 and No. 15 wells, which supply water to the Yorkshire Woods and Silverbrook areas, were flushed in a routine procedure intended to remove sediment from water mains. The maneuver is conducted after midnight, when people are not likely to be taking showers or washing their clothes, Dombrowski said.

But some people were, in fact, doing just that, and some of them had stained clothes and dirtied drinking water as the result of the flushing.

Dombrowski said the problem was quickly cleared up, although Mayor Hal Godwin said he received a few complaints from citizens.

Carol Houck, assistant administrator for the city, said the approved treatment plant, which is currently estimated at $5 million, will help reduce the amount of corrosive deposits that build

Insurance co. will remain on Tyre Avenue

City, business owners reach compromise

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Mayor Harold Godwin said the city of Newark made a mistake in allowing two businessmen to locate their insurance company in a residential area. City council agreed to let the business remain where it is, but only under certain conditions.

When Charles Barba and Martin Reynolds bought a house on 32 Tyre Ave. with the intent to turn it into an insurance business, a glitch in the city's computer system failed to recognize a zoning law that restricts business owners from developing their companies in a residential area.

After the two men began setting up shop amidst the neighboring residents of Tyre Avenue, complaints to the city prompted officials to realize the error.

"We met with Reynolds and Barba and explained to them the dilemma that we had put ourselves in," Godwin said. "They understood the problem and we told them that we had been authorized to purchase the house from them."

Godwin said he told Barba and Reynolds that the city would offer them enough money to cover the cost of the house and any related expenses that they had lost in buying the business.

"We told them to establish a price that they felt would help them relieve the problem," he said. "I explained to them very clearly that this council had authorized only for us to reimburse them for their documented costs - essentially no fluff, no profit - just costs that they can document from their settlement sheet."

But, Godwin said, the two

Fall at West Knoll Apartments under review

City of Newark Building Director Junie Mayle said he instructed the owner of the West Knoll Apartments not to allow anyone to use the balconies following an accident last Saturday.

"I went out in the middle of the night after a railing gave way and a man fell," said Mayle on Wednesday. "I could not really see much."

Newark Police and Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Company responded to a report of a man falling at the West Knoll Apartments on Elkton Road around 12:30 a.m. on Sept. 2.

Police found David Sunday, 22, of Newark had fallen approximately 10 feet from a second floor balcony in building "I" when a railing gave way. Sunday was taken to Christiana Medical Center where he was listed in critical condition. Hospital officials would not release any information about his condition on Wednesday.

Witnesses told police there were three to five persons on the balcony at the time of the incident, but no one else was injured.

Mayle said he spoke to property owner Richard Dudak who agreed to not allow tenants on any balconies in the complex until they could determine what the problem was. "Mr. Dudak is bringing in engineers to inspect all the balconies," said Mayle. "Then we will decide what to do."

According to Mayle, the apartment complex is about 20 years old.

Auto Insurance Discounts

Many people wonder how their auto insurance rates are established or what they can do to influence the costs. Auto insurers use extensive statistical evidence enabling them to predict, on average, which drivers represent lower risks and which represent higher risk.

The elderly lady who drives only to church on Sunday would pay less for auto insurance than people who drive more miles in more hazardous traffic conditions. Check with your insurer about reduced premiums for driving less than a specified number of miles annually. If your family has more than one car, ask your insurer if you could save premiums by changing how they are used. Driving an older car to work, for instance, may reduce mileage on the newer car enough to make it worthwhile.

The area in which you live affects both the likelihood of you having an accident, and the cost of repairs. Figures support common logic that more accidents occur in high-density traffic areas and drivers may pay relatively more for auto coverage.

Also check to see if your insurer's policy includes a forgiveness provision for your first at-fault accident, and maintain your safe-driver rates if you have been accident free for a period of years. Finally, take advantage of the one rating factor over which you have the most control - be a safe, defensive driver.

Community Day returns to the UD Mall on Sunday, Sept. 17

Community Day returns to the University of Delaware Mall next weekend after last year's event held in a parking lot.

Organizers and those attending in 1999 were disappointed when activities had to be held near Pearson Hall off Academy Street as a result of drought damage to the Mall.

City of Newark recreation supervisor Sharon Bruin said she expects the event will return to its usual robust 20,000 plus visitors on Sunday, Sept. 17.

Starting at 10 a.m., the popular event continues all day with food, music, artisans, children's activities, attic treasures, political candidates and information about Newark and surrounding communities.

A demonstration area will host many local groups and organizations while two stages provide venues for local musicians and other entertainers.

The Children's area will be back with Scarecrow Making and more. As usual the Flea Market and Bazaar will be filled with attic treasures and other surprises.

The Newark Post will provide a comprehensive outline of events and locations in the issue of Sept. 15. For information about the event, call the Newark parks and Recreation Department at 366-7060.

Newark resident among 36 of America's newest citizens

Graduated from ROTC program at University of Delaware

A local resident was one of 35 new American citizens sworn in at a ceremony held by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) in Philadelphia, Pa., on Aug. 16.

Tom M. Quek, a management consultant from Newark, is a former citizen of Singapore.

Quek came to Delaware in 1994 to pursue higher education and a career. Having been a former conscript in the Singapore Army, Quek soon realized his niche was in the military.

While he was free to enlist in the armed service, he wanted to be an officer, so he signed up for the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program at the University of Delaware.

Quek was welcomed by the ROTC staff, but numerous obstacles had to be overcome.

Not being a U.S. citizen at the time, Cadet Quek was informed that he could not be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant; furthermore, permission from higher authority was required.

Undaunted by the uncertainty of his future, as an officer in the U.S. military, Quek charged ahead with his ROTC training, receiving no stipend from the program which other cadets were entitled to.

He participated in every training and exercise that regular cadets were required which included a harsh five-week summer camp in Fort Lewes, Wash.

After four years in ROTC, and having made numerous requests to stay in the program, Quek graduated from college with a business management degree.

Still not a citizen, he had to watch from the sideline as his peers were commissioned into the U.S. Army. Quek had to settle for an ROTC Completion Certificate until he received U.S. citizenship.

Now, two years after completing ROTC, Quek can re-open his case with the program and pursue his quest of becoming an officer into the U.S. Army.

up on the piping in the South Wellfield and cause problems during flushing.

"The iron removal plant will get rid of the iron and manganese, so that the plant will require minimal flushing," Houck said.

The city will be flushing the water mains again on Oct. 25, and residents of surrounding communities will be notified about the procedure ahead of time, Dombrowski said.

Luft said the initial study done by Whitman, Requa & Associates will cost the city approximately $26,000, and will consist of three main parts: the firm will evaluate the operation, making sure that the existing treatment system can accommodate the iron removal factory.

During the second phase, they will evaluate which iron removal process is most effective for the procedure. Finally, they will design the piping structure in which to connect the wells to the plant and the plant to the existing storage tanks, he said.

What's the point of being careful?

We realize it seems like only last week we wrote our "School's Out" so watch for children running in the streets editorial, but nevertheless, it's time for the "School's In" reminder.

Sometimes we consider skipping these perennial advisories because we fear most people don't pay attention, anyway.

That's just the point, isn't it?

Twice in the past month we have written about changed Stop Signs at the intersection of Barksdale and Apple roads. But many drivers are still missing the point — and the stop.

A miss is as good as a mile but only if they miss you. As daylight dwindles in winter's approach, intersections and crossings throughout the region become more and more hazardous — even where drivers think they are being careful.

Children walking, running and daydreaming to school are among the most vulnerable along roads and highways. But, impatient drivers compound the dangers of massively increased traffic from returning vacationers.

This week, along Route 72/Library Avenue, traffic was bumper to bumper from Route 4/Chestnut Hill Road to Cleveland Avenue both morning and evening. Anxious drivers have already begun creeping over onto the shoulders and passing lanes to maneuver past the lines and gain a minute's lead on the pack — a very poor decision which only leads to more congestion when others are blocked from making a lane change or surprised by a vehicle appearing in front of them as they try to cross the street.

The traffic is not going away. Give yourself — and everyone else — as much time as you possibly can to observe the rules of the road.

Stay alert — really alert! As with the Stop Signs at Apple Road, things may have changed since June, or last week, or even last night.

Keep your eyes on the road — and use the ones in the back of your head if you got 'em.

Just because you've been driving, or walking, this way for years doesn't add to your chances of safe negotiation of today's trip.

Oh, and good luck, out there.

Schools reach new high mark in enrollment

All records for first day attendance on opening day of Newark schools were broken yesterday when a total of 894 pupils were registered in the various departments.

In connection with the opening of the new term, rural pupils whose transportation to and from school is paid by the State have increased, due to the lengthening of the bus routes in the outlying sections. Stiltz buses now bring children to Newark daily from two routes.

Drought gets serious

As the result of the long drought in this section, many wells on farms have gone dry and there promises to be a serious loss to crops if rain does not come soon.

There was a light, rainfall Sunday night, but not enough to do any good and this was the first for more than a month. In the upper part of New Castle county and also sections of Cecil county, Md., many wells have gone dry, and farmers are compelled to haul water for stock.

Mall fire wasn't set, say probers

An adequate fire wall might have spared the Apollo Shopping Center from the extensive damage it suffered after a roaring blaze ripped through a major portion of the building, Monday, says the chief of the Mill Creek Fire Company.

Firemen believe the blaze started in a storage room above Gatsby's restaurant and rapidly spread throughout the building. Six offices on the second floor were totally gutted, while six of the stores on the first floor suffered smoke and water damage.

Residents protest builder's plan

Plans to build a shopping center at Elkton and Casho Mill Roads has spawned protests from nearby residents who say basement flooding and traffic congestion will follow its construction.

Residents of the Binns and Devon plan to protest the annexation of 13 acres of land, where builders propose to erect the shopping center, along with about 50 townhouses and a restaurant.

Roving ad stirs up controversy

Late in August, Follett College Bookstores on Main Street hired Moving Advertising Promotion Inc. to drive a truck around Newark with a billboard on it promoting their back to school sale.

According to the building director Junie Mayle, the truck advertisement constituted a "temporary sign" not permitted under the code. Mayle said the sign was a "huge thing" and that the Newark Police had talked to him about it but were waiting to see if any problems arose.

Raindrops not falling on heads

The sun shines down day after day as, one by one, local water companies limit water use and threaten cutoffs.

On Monday, Governor Thomas Carper declared a state of emergency due to drought for all of northern New Castle County. Customers of all water companies except Delaware City had joined the list of those under some form of mandatory water restrictions.

GUEST OPINION

Make White Clay Creek a wild and scenic river

By MIHAEL CASTLE

GUEST COLUMNIST

I support legislation to officially designate White Clay Creek and its tributaries as part of the National Park Service's National Wild and Scenic Rivers System. This bill is the culmination of over 30 years of grassroots efforts to bring attention to the unique qualities of White Clay Creek and to build consensus to protecting its beauty from the adverse consequences of urban sprawl. White Clay Creek is located in the densely populated area between Philadelphia, Pa., and Newark. Eight million people live within two hours of the watershed.

White Clay Creek is well worth protecting. There are 38 properties in the watershed that have been listed on the National Register of Historic Places. In addition, the watershed is home to three endangered plant species and 100 more plant species of "special concern" to the state of Delaware. With regards to wildlife, the endangered bog turtle is found in the watershed along with 38 "rare" animal species on Delaware's list of "special concern." Because the watershed is located in the middle of the Atlantic Flyway, it is the northern boundary for many southern species of birds and the southern boundary for many northern species of birds. In total, there are about 200 bird species in the watershed, including the American Bald Eagle. White Clay Creek serves as a vital source of drinking water for New Castle County and Chester County, Pa. Finally, White Clay Creek watershed is a popular location for fishing (particularly trout fishing), hiking, jogging, swimming, bird-watching, horseback riding, skating, sledding, cross-country skiing, photography, and limited deer hunting.

In September 1999, the National Parks Service released its final report, as ordered by Congress in 1991, recommending the size and scope of the Wild and Scenic designation for White Clay Creek. The study confirmed the beliefs of the citizens living in the watershed that there was popular support for protecting the watershed's natural, historic, and recreational resources. At the same time a majority believed that there must be room for planned residential, commercial, and industrial growth.

Therefore, a White Clay Creek Task

Force of private landowners, river-related organizations, and all levels of government developed the White Clay Creek Management Plan to designate a total of 191 miles, 24 miles as scenic and 167 miles are recreational, of White Clay Creek as suitable for the National Wild and Scenic River System. All fifteen of the local governments in the watershed, including the city of Newark and New Castle County, passed resolutions supporting the management plan. The designated scenic areas flow through the White Clay Creek Preserve, the White Clay Creek State Park, and the Middle Run Natural Area.

I would like to describe exactly what it means and what it does not mean for White Clay Creek to be designated wild and scenic. This bill means that the river receives permanent protection from federally-licensed or assisted water resource projects (dams, diversions, channelization, etc.) that would have a direct and adverse effect on its free-flowing condition or outstanding remarkable resources. It does not mean that existing wastewater treatment plants or potential reservoir sites cannot be expanded to accommodate carefully planned residential, commercial, and industrial growth. New Castle County is actively seeking solutions to water shortage problems, and this bill does not limit options that are in the best interests of the citizens of Delaware. The legislation does not open private lands to public access, nor does it usually affect existing uses of private property. This legislation does not replace the authority of state, county, and municipal governments to regulate land use in the watershed. In fact, there are no federal lands within the watershed and this bill does not authorize federal funds to be used to purchase land. It simply prohibits federal funds from being used to interfere with the free-flowing nature of the river or its unique resources. In doing so, it elevates the status of the river in competing for federal preservation grants. Finally, it mobilizes the local governments and communities in the watershed to work together to preserve this unique, free flowing river.

I believe the combination of White Clay Creek watershed's unique features and the strong local support for protecting the watershed justify its designation as a wild and scenic river. The Senate passed companion legislation by unanimous consent on April 13. I look forward to working with you to improve the legislation in any manner that is necessary so that the House can pass this bill with strong support.

Castle is the U.S. Representative to Congress from Delaware.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Start the school year off right

It's hard to believe that summer is finally over and kids are back in school. It just seems strange to see kids walking and riding their bikes down Casho Mill Rd. to Downes Elementary and know that it was still August.

The kids, by the way, were all smiles. I think that deep down, they were happy to be back with their friends and looking forward to new challenges.

I know the school year snuck up on our household. The night before school started my wife was out with the two boys doing clothes shopping.

School is a lot about routines, and so is family life. One thing we can do as parents is to help our children get into a routine early in the school year. Children actually like routines. It helps them understand what is expected of them. As a result, a lot of hassles are eliminated.

Arguments about homework, bedtime, television time and such can be eliminated if routines are established early on in the school year and adhered to.

There is no one schedule that fits every family, but finding and sticking to the schedule that works for your family is important. Every family has certain pressure points during the day.

For many families, getting the kids out the front door and off to school is one of them. Having the kids get their baths and showers the night before and laying out their clothes for the next day is a big help and can save 20-30 minutes in the morning. By doing this you'll eliminate the need to search for that missing shoe or sock as the school bus comes down the street.

Having a healthy breakfast is also important in the morning. Not all kids like to eat when they get up, but it's really important that they eat something in the morning. The brain is part of the machine we call the human body. Without fuel, it just won't work right.

Oatmeal, some cereals, milkshakes and even leftover pizza are quick ways to start the day off right. If you can add milk, fruit or juice then the kids should be able to make it until lunch.

Another important part of the routine is to take time at the end of the day to ask your child about their school day. This is an easy way to learn quickly if your child is having a problem with something. A remedy to any problem is easier at this stage than waiting until the end of a marking period.

As a parent, you're an equal partner with your child in his or her education. Getting them off to a good start is a great way to give them that little extra advantage as well as a little extra confidence that they may need.

People of all ages can't resist dancing to the music wherever Jerry and the Juveniles are playing that "old time rock and roll" from the '50s and '60s.

University of Delaware English department chairman Jerry Beasley and five of his local friends spent the summer holidays "workin' like a dog."

Beasley and his buddies — Steve Branigan, George Christie, Vic England, Gary Heller and John Manley — have been reciting rhymes with loveable lyrics all summer long. But these are not Shakespearean sonnets or Byronic ballads; Beasley has temporarily traded those in for something he loves almost as much: Rock and Roll.

Known as Jerry and the Juveniles, the group includes Beasley on lead vocals, Branigan, a training manager for Printpack Inc., on electric and acoustic guitar, Christie, a computer systems analyst, on lead guitar, England, a real estate appraiser, on keyboard, Heller, a superintendent of buildings and grounds on drums and Manley, an HVAC technician, on electric bass.

So named because they are "middle-aged but ageless," the six friends prefer to play mostly '50s and '60s music. Traveling around Delaware and to neighboring states, from Wilmington to Rehoboth Beach, from Chesapeake City to Ocean City, Md., they perform at outdoor concerts, ballrooms, private parties and dances, where they play that old time rock and roll to hundreds, sometimes even thousands of fans.

Beasley said that when Jerry and the Juveniles take the stage, some people are taken back to their wild days of youth.

"We find that sometimes when we play, people my age, women especially, like to get into costume," Beasley said. "They'll come in their poodle skirts, their velvet Kremlon petticoats and their bobby socks, saddle oxfords, you name it."

"Maybe I'm just being an old fuddy duddy," he said, "but I think ['50s] music was defining in a way that has not quite been defining for later generations. Prior to World War II, most people didn't finish high school. They went straight to work. They didn't have that adolescent period between childhood and adulthood where people define themselves. In the '50s, music helped teenagers do that. And nowadays, music is just not the same."

On a Sunday evening at Chesapeake City, Md., about 250 people came to hear them play on the C and D Canal. Fans sat on the grass eating ice cream, which made them shiver a bit in the end-of-summer nighttime chill. Others drink sodas from coolers that they have brought packed with a picnic for the occasion.

Jerry and the Juveniles doo-wop and dance on the stage, occasionally asking the audience to help them out by clapping their hands or singing along. Some adults sway in their seats while "I Saw Her Standing There," "Brown-Eyed Girl," then "Crocodile Rock" roll through the speakers. Although some of the music is almost a half century old, children sing along and dance in the grass when they feel it is appropriate.

As they play the music that defines the generation they grew up in, Jerry and the Juveniles hardly ever stop smiling.

"After some exposure and some hustling, we've actually become pretty popular," Beasley said. "We play about 60 gigs a year now. We make a little money. And all of our equipment is finally paid for — which is the definition of a successful band." Beasley attributes this success to the fact that while performing, Jerry and the Juveniles opt to stay true to their generation. "There's a big market for geriatric music out there," he said with a smile.

Grandest exhibition ever assembled coming to Riverfront

Faberge's "Heart Surprise Frame" is one of about 1,100 magnificent pieces of jewelry designed for Royal houses which will be on display at the Riverfront Arts Center in Wilmington beginning Sept. 9. It is the largest exhibition of its kind ever assembled in the world.

In only a week and a day the largest, grandest art exhibition of its kind ever assembled in the entire world will open at the Riverfront Arts Center, 800 South Madison Street in Wilmington. In conversations over the last few months with fellow arts writers, I was delighted to find out how many of them are heading here to cover the event. They will have to endure airline travel for many hours and you only have about a half hour drive from the Newark area.

The exhibition is called simply "Faberge." While in the minds of many, that name says it "all" in the world of art created for royalty, there is even more at the Riverfront for us to see. Faberge is brought to us by Broughton International who brought us Nicholas and Alexandra a few years ago. If you saw that show, you know the ends to which Jim Broughton will go to mount a glorious production.

But, as I mentioned above, there is even more. In order to make Faberge even more interesting, Jim Broughton has included works by Cartier, Boucheron, Lalique and Tiffany. These works will provide us with a better understanding of the evolution of these treasured creations which have significantly impacted the world of jewelry design and fashion.

Even though Peter Carl Faberge is best known for his royal eggs made for the Czar of all the Russias, he and his work masters did much more than that. As an example, the beautiful Heart Surprise Frame shown with my column today. It was made in 1897. It is a strawberry-red enameled heart set in rose cut diamonds upon a hexagonal tapering shaft. It unfolds into the form of a shamrock to reveal portraits of Czar Nicholas II.

Czarina Alexandra and their daughter, Grand Duchess Olga. It is exquisite yet under four inches in height.

With typical Jim Broughton thoroughness, at the exhibition you will learn that Faberge was not some lone craftsman hidden away in his tiny shop. His success was due in no small way to his business acumen. As his fame grew from his pleasing the Romanov dynasty, he carefully parlayed that fame into a company with over 500 craftsmen and operated establishments in St. Petersburg, Moscow and London. Broughton told me at lunch the other day, "The legend of Faberge from his meager beginnings to the building of his business empire to his narrow escape to Switzerland after Czarist Russia came to a tragic ending is a story worth telling."

It is very easy to get to the Riverfront Center from the Newark area. Just take I-95 to the Maryland Avenue exit. Turn right at the traffic signal on Maryland Avenue and follow the signs. It's a quick trip to a world beyond the dreams of most of us in this age of duplication.

As with the previous two Broughton exhibitions at the Riverfront Center, you may reserve not only the day, but also the exact time you wish to enter. When you reserve your family's tickets, be sure to have the time you will arrive clearly in mind. It will save you a lot of problems on the phone. This day and hour method of sales insures you that you won't be overcrowded in the pre-tour introduction or in the hall itself. Included with your ticket is use of a recorder with a self-guided tour. It lasts about 45 minutes, but you may stop anywhere along the way to spend time with what interests you the most. I suggest you should reserve at least two hours for Faberge.

The box office is now open for both tour groups and individual sales. The number is 777-1600, or you may stop by the Riverfront Arts Center Tuesday through Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets are $14.50, adult; $13, seniors; youth K-12, $5; college student, $9 with a special family admission at $35. Schools have a special offer which includes free classroom materials and lesson plans. The educational material is very well done and adaptable to various grade levels.

An excellent job has also been done with the beautiful gift shop which will be open during exhibit hours every day. There is a very broad range of prices and some unique items among the offerings.

Faberge will be open from next Saturday, Sept. 9, through Feb. 18, 2001. You may want to make more than one visit. And, if you won't accuse me of rushing the season, tickets to Faberge would make excellent Christmas gifts.

Enjoy!

POST GAME

St. Mark's to play first home game

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Saturday will be a big day for anybody that has ever been involved with St. Mark's High football.

The Spartans will play their first-ever on-campus game Saturday afternoon at 1:30 against Christiana. The game will be played on the infield of the St. Mark's track. Portable bleachers will be brought in for the occasion.

You can bet that the Spartans will be fired up for this game. Their task, however, is a tough one.

Christiana brings one of its best teams in years to this game. The Spartans have also had the Vikings' number over recent years.

No matter what happens in the game, though, it is the event that will be remembered by most non-Christiana fans.

St. Mark's has always played its home football games at Baynard Stadium. It's certainly not a bad option, but it's not home.

There is also a significant portion of the St. Mark's student body that comes from the Newark area, probably more in recent years than in the past. The trip to Baynard Stadium is one that is often easy not to make for various reasons.

Playing on the school grounds should give the Spartans a true home-field advantage.

Sure, there are logistical obstacles to overcome. One of them will be parking.

The school has decided to charge admission to the game by the car load. Every vehicle will be charged $10 to get on the school grounds. Given the school's location, there really isn't any other parking options for people who don't want to pay that. The only real solution is to put several people in the car and split the cost. Heck, if you have two people, it's just like paying $5 per ticket.

St. Mark's should be commended for taking this step. It certainly isn't the easiest thing to pull off, but it's hard to argue against it being the best thing for the students.

Soccer success

It should be an interesting high school soccer season.

Everybody knows about St. Mark's quest for a fifth straight state championship, but the Spartans won't be the only good team or interesting story locally.

Newark High, which went to the quarterfinals of last season's tournament, has a host of good players back and is looking to compete with St. Mark's and Salesianum for the state's top spot.

"We have a chance to be very, very good," said Newark coach Hugh Mitchell. "If we can stay healthy and play up to our capabilities in the big games, we have a chance to do well."

Glasgow, Christiana and William Penn all should field strong teams as well.

There are more good high school soccer teams in our area than anywhere else in the state. It should make for another great season.

Newark soccer team eyes big season

Returning talent and experience should help Jackets

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A good mix of talent and experience has Newark High soccer coach Hugh Mitchell excited about his team's chance for success this season.

The Yellowjackets, who finished 13-5 last season after a quarterfinal loss to Salesianum in the state tournament, return six starters and a lot of additional experience from the 1999 team.

"We have a chance to be very, very good," said Mitchell, who is beginning his 12th season at the helm of the Jackets' soccer program. "Last year we got beat by Sallies in the quarterfinals and still ended up ranked third in the state. I think that speaks well of how well we were playing and how tough of a schedule we played."

Leading the way this season for Newark will be seniors Lornny Antwi and Bruno Farias. Antwi is a returning first team all-conference and all-state performer.

"I really believe Lornny is one of the top two or three players in the entire state — if not the top," Mitchell said. "He means a lot to us."

Farias, on the other hand, is a newcomer. His family moved to Newark from Brazil in January.

"He has a lot of skill," Mitchell said of Farias. "He is for real."

Mitchell believes having two top notch players will not only help the two of them, but the rest of the team as well.

"They won't be able to just key on one player," Mitchell said of his opponents. "And, with two players so good, the other players should be able to benefit as well."

It's a good situation for us." In addition, Newark returns senior Mike Angeloni, a second team all-conference player from last year. Junior Mark Lloyd, senior Dale Jones, sophomore Mike Ferrera, senior Jarrett Morris, junior Kyle Lytwynec, junior Don Lynch and junior Greg Slater will be the other starters. Senior Dan Frick will be the goalkeeper.

"Even Frick, who didn't play much last year, was an all-conference goalkeeper as a sophomore," Mitchell said. "We have some good experience there."

One thing that Mitchell hopes his team is able to stay away from is injuries. Last year the team had a rash of injuries in the middle of the season. While that certainly hurt last year's team, it should benefit this year's.

"We had to play a lot of players last season," Mitchell said. "We took our bumps and bruises last year, but now those players all have good experience. It should be a help to us this season."

Nevertheless, Mitchell said he is counting on his whole team to contribute.

"We play a very tough schedule again probably the toughest in-state schedule of anybody," he said. "We're going to get banged up and we're going to need

Fall Sports Season to Open

The high school fall sports season will get underway this weekend with a host of area football games. Glasgow, seen here practicing last week, will travel to Dover for its opening game. Check out page 7 for our takes on the local games.

The 'drive for five'

St. Mark's soccer team goes after fifth straight title

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The 'drive for five' is underway at St. Mark's High as the Spartans soccer team prepares for a run at a fifth consecutive state championship.

Last year's championship season ended with a thrilling victory over arch-rival Salesianum on a brisk November afternoon.

Veteran coach Tom DeMatteis said while the team graduated some key members, a number of players are ready to step into leadership roles on the team. DeMatteis says this team has a lot of excellent skills.

"Each player is very strong on the ball and we're showing glimpses of becoming an exceptional passing team," DeMatteis said.

At a recent practice, the team spent a lot of time running, but also drilled on passing and possession of the ball. The coach said while the physical nature of the team is constantly worked in practice, the key to the season will be mental toughness and being prepared to play.

"We can't rest on our laurels, everyone has to remember the hard work that got this team the last four state championships," DeMatteis said. "Hopefully the guys are now ready to step and be leaders and show maturity on and off the field."

The Spartans have a core group of returning players that look like they are ready to challenge for another crown. Some offensive players to look for include Nolan Diezslak, who scored the winning goal in the championship game last year. He'll get plenty of help from Adam Stullar, who scored over 25 goals last season, and Adam Flannagan, who chipped in with a school-record 23 assists.

Defensively, the Spartans will be stingy again. Some players who will likely get plenty of minutes are Jeffrey Mangat, Jared

Christiana thinks this could be big football year

Vikings set sights on championship

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Any coach drawing up a formula for a successful high school football season would probably like to be coming off a good (but not great) season, have a large number of starters returning and a host of seniors for leadership. Christiana coach Marvin Spence hopes that formula is one that leads to success because those are the exact ingredients he has this fall.

The Vikings won six of 10 games last season and felt they should have won more. Most of those same players will get their chance to prove they are better than that.

"We expect to do well this year," said Spence as preseason came to a close. "Things have been going well. We have some hard working kids that really have dedicated themselves. If we can stay away from injuries, we have the opportunity to have a special season."

As has been the case with successful Vikings teams in the past, defense will be a big part of this year's squad.

Leading the way will be senior inside linebacker Kevin Ransome

(5-11, 215). Ransome, besides being an outstanding player, is a team and class leader. He is also a preseason all-state selection (as chosen by www.firststatesports.com)

"He has the respect of just about everybody in the school," Spence said. "He is hard nosed and he is also very bright. He's a super kid."

Joining Ransome at linebacker will be senior Nashid Shareef (5-10, 210), senior Pete Bradshaw (6-2, 215) and junior Mike Murray (6-0, 230).

Up front the senior K.C. Cooper (6-2, 300) will clog up the inside with junior Mike Johnson (5-11, 205). Junior Isaiah Robinson (6-2, 235) will play a defensive end.

The secondary will be a talented one with All-Conference running back Danny Foster (sr., 5-10, 180) manning one of the corners. Junior Rob Reaves (6-0, 180) will be at the other corner while senior Jeff Tatnall (6-1, 175) will play safety. Senior Willie Milem (6-0, 200) will play the Vikings' rover position.

Tatnall will be the quarterback and lead the offense. He will be aided by preseason all-state selection Foster at halfback. Both are third-year starters and both have been highly touted entering the season.

Milem will join Foster at the other halfback spot while Ransome will play fullback.

Senior Quinn Martin (6-2, 190) will be the split end and Bradshaw will line up at tight end.

The offensive line will be comprised of senior Mike Bingnear (6-3, 235) at center, K.C. Cooper at one guard, Murray at a guard, sophomore Chris Cooper (6-3, 330) at one tackle and senior Kenny Gomez (6-0, 310) at the other tackle.

One big obstacle the Vikings have in their drive for a state title is their always rugged Flight A schedule. Three-time defending state champion Newark should be good again as will perennial power William Penn.

Hens win first, prep for The Citadel

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The University of Delaware football team took a big step toward generating enthusiasm for Saturday night's home opener.

The Blue Hens ripped Rhode Island 29-7 last Saturday in Kingston, R.I. and will christen the new permanent lights at Delaware Stadium with a 7 p.m. Saturday kickoff against The Citadel. The Citadel is coming off a 38-0 loss at 17th-ranked Clemson Saturday.

"We're excited about opening the season at home," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond, who notched his 285th career victory last week. "We're anticipating a near sell-out crowd. I think the lights have added to the majesty of our stadium."

Unfortunately for the Hen coaching staff, The Citadel's game against Clemson doesn't give them a good feel for what to expect.

"The Clemson tapes are worthless to us," Raymond said. "They're a great Division I-A team. They're ranked No. 17 and they look more than justified in having that ranking."

"We believe The Citadel is a fine Division I-AA football team. They return 19 starters from last year's team. We expect this to be a very good football game."

The Delaware defense posted a strong against Rhode Island, giving up just 92 total yards. It was the defense's best effort since allowing just 81 yards to Western Kentucky in 1981. The Citadel, with its "flex-bone" offense should provide more of a challenge to the Hens this week.

"This is a similar offense to what we saw [against Rhode Island]," Raymond said. "It's a similar wishbone scheme that they run at Georgia Southern, Navy, Army and Air Force. Some of our offense is in there as well. We think they'll try to run what they did last year."

Delaware knocked off The Citadel 26-16 last year in Charleston.

"I think we're a better team than last year," said Bulldogs' coach Don Powers. "We have a lot more experience and this team has worked hard."

"It's hard to tell how good we are after playing Clemson. Clemson is a good, good football team. Their style was very hard for us to prepare for."

Delaware's style often gives teams trouble in preparation, but The Citadel faces teams that run similar offenses.

"It's different preparation," Powers said of the Wing-T. "But, fortunately for us there are teams in our conference that run some similar things."

"What concerns us more is the quality of players that Delaware has executing its offense." One of those is Butter Pressey.

Pressey carried 10 times for 36 yards in the opener. However, he also ran a kickoff back 90 yards for a touchdown and caught a 12-yard touchdown pass from Matt Nagy. Pressey's efforts earned him the coaching staff's Most Valuable Offensive Player of the Week honors.

Nagy, too, had a good day, 14-of-24 passes for 170 yards and a touchdown.

"I thought Nagy showed he was much more mature than he was last year," Raymond said of his quarterback. "I told him that there will be missed blocks and dropped passes and that's part of the game. He handled it very well."

The staff awarded linebacker Brian McKenna with the Most Valuable Defensive Player honors. McKenna had five tackles including a sack.

Kicker Scott Collins was perfect on all three of his extra points and boomed all five of his kickoffs into the end zone. His effort earned him the coaches' Most Valuable Special Teams Player award.

Heugart and Tyler Bastianelli, who last season was the first freshman to make varsity in a number of years. Other starters include Nick Gupta, Josh Michner, Matt Dellacave and Mark Romanczuk. DeMatteis said Alex Facciola will be the top net minder this year, replacing Pete Ferrante, a three-time All-Stater and a member of four straight state title squads.

Other players looking to step into starting roles are halfback Mark Prada, forwards Adam Smith and Ryan Edwards, and back-up goalkeepers Chris DiNuso and Brian Driscoll.

DeMatteis said the team will have to replace Ferrante, as well as Steven Mangat, who was also an outstanding high school player. Mangat is now playing varsity soccer at the University of Delaware as a freshman.

Other players with several state championships were Joe Lazorick, who's playing for Goldey Beacom, Nicola Ceeko, led the entire state in scoring and is playing for the University of New Hampshire, and Wil Hohman, who's playing for Gettysburg College.

The Spartans past success leaves them as the team to beat this season as well. Coach DeMatteis said the team will face five new opponents this season, including four new teams from out of state.

"We'll play another tough schedule this year, like we do every year," DeMatteis said. "And we may even have a few losses along the way."

St. Mark's will play the top teams in the state including Newark and Salesianum, some teams in the Blue Hen and Henlopen conferences and a team from New York. The game against the New York team will be played at the University of Delaware.

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

NEWARK VS. SALESIANUM — Friday night at Hoffman Stadium, 7. Newark begins its quest for an unprecedented fourth straight Division I state championship Friday night. The Yellowjackets should once again be very competitive. Salesianum, too, should have a good squad. The Sals, more often than not, have a quality team that is also a threat to win a state title. This year should be no exception. Newark has had success against Sallies in recent years and we see that trend continuing. Newark's passing offense will severely test the Sals' secondary. Newark 21, Salesianum 6.

GLASGOW AT DOVER — Friday night at Dover, 7:30. This is a big game for both teams. Both have been down in recent years and both have aspirations of turning that around this season. It all starts with that all-important first win. Both teams will be trying to prove they are better than in past years and that should make for a fine contest. Right now, we have more faith in coach Mark DelPercio and the Glasgow turnaround. We'll take Glasgow 14, Dover 8.

CHRISTIANA AT ST. MARK'S — Saturday afternoon, 1:30. This is St. Mark's first-ever game on its campus. There should be a huge crowd and emotions will be high.

Christiana has had some tough luck against the Spartans over the years and this situation is right up there with the others. The Vikings, however, should have the better football team this year. St. Mark's lost a ton of players from last year's state final team. The Spartans will be good, but Christiana should be better. Christiana 26, St. Mark's 13.

HODGSON AT POLYTECH — Friday night at Polytech, 7:30. The Silver Eagles get a great chance to get their season off on the right foot. Hodgson has had a good team the last several years and they should be good again. Polytech has had a rough go of it in recent seasons and could again this one. Hodgson 21, Polytech 8.

coach Butch Simpson] and William Penn coach Bruce Reynolds]. Spence said. "Those guys play hard every game and they get everybody's best every game. That's the kind of thing we want to do."

Christiana will also play three tough non-conference games. Sussex Central, who many consider a favorite to win the Henlopen North title this season, is on the slate as is St. Mark's (a state finalist from last season) and Dover.

"I think our approach has been a little different this season," Spence said. "I believe we are seriously trying to get better every time we go on the field. These guys have goals for themselves. They don't want to have happen what has happened in the past when we lost some games to some teams they thought we should've beaten."

"They've been very business like and have done a good job of stressing the team concept."

everybody on the team to be able to contribute."

That tough schedule includes big non-conference games with St. Mark's, Salesianum, Dover, Caesar Rodney and Middletown. Throw in the normally tough Flight A matches against Glasgow, Christiana, William Penn and Brandywine and it's easy to see why Mitchell is concerned.

"I believe in playing a tough schedule," he said. "I think that really it will help us down the road. I think when you play a big night game against St. Mark's or Sallies, it's like playing in a state semifinal. That experience can only help us in the tournament."

Patrons may tailgate until the scheduled kickoff time and one hour after the game ends. Patrons are not permitted to tailgate at halftime. Tailgaters who do not enter Delaware Stadium at or before game time will be required to leave UD property.

TRUE BLUE

Blue Hen fans are reminded that the University of Delaware's long-standing policy on tailgating will be strictly enforced during the 2000 football season, to help ensure fan safety and protection of property.

Thank you for your support of Blue Hen Athletics.

Chesapeake Publishing Corp.'s respected community newspapers-The Newark Post and The Route 40 Flier-has the following immediate full-time opening:

ASSISTANT EDITOR

Founded in 1994, The Route 40 Flier has become an important "house organ" to residents of the fast-growing, suburban Delaware communities of Bear and Glasgow. This is a beginning editor's position, where a qualified candidate can cut their editorial teeth in a safe, supportive newsroom environment. When Lou Gehrig's widow chose an organization to lead the fight against amyotrophic lateral sclerosis — the muscle-wasting disease that killed her husband — she selected the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Since the time she served as MDA national campaign chairman, the Association has consistently led the battle against ALS. MDA maintains the world's largest nongovernmental ALS research and patient services program.

Join our rally for a cure. Together, we can enrich the lives of Americans fighting the ravages of ALS today, and save countless lives tomorrow.
