Friendly Town Greet City Kids

Seven Homes Have Little Visitors For Two Weeks' Outing; Come Here From New York Streets

Their faces reflecting a mixture of pleasure and shyness, eleven youngsters from the sidewalks of New York, came to "Friendly Town" yesterday afternoon for a two weeks' outing.

Trying the experiment, already an annual affair in thousands of towns and villages, Newark undertook the happy job of tanning those pale cheeks and giving the wide blue and brown eyes a glimpse of the glorious "country" they have heard about but never seen. And it was a happy job. Members of the "Friendly Town" Committee, Messrs. George Griffin, George W. Rhodes, Louis Handloff and Warren A. Singles, met the train with their autos, bundled the be-tagged and be-bundled kids aboard and grunted like schoolboys as they delivered their charges to their respective "homes."

Seven Hostesses

Eleven children from six to twelve years, seven girls and four boys, are being entertained in and near Newark. The following ladies have made the first venture for Newark a success:

Mrs. John Doyle, 2 girls.
Mrs. J. Edwin Steel, 2 girls.
Mrs. Mark P. Malcom, 2 boys.
Mrs. F. A. Wheelless, 2 boys.
Mrs. Thomas Bryson, 1 girl.
Mrs. Louis Handloff, 1 girl.
Mrs. Huey Morris, 1 girl.

All the children were safely en-sconced with their new friends before nightfall and set out to make the most of their new life in the country.

To boys and girls raised here, it seems almost unbelievable that the little New Yorkers in this bunch have never really been in the country, that many have never seen a field of corn, or a chicken, and that none have been in an old fashioned "swimmin' hole."

Cars Collide; Damages Settled Without Trial

Contractor's Truck Turns Sharply In Road Without Warning; Com-plainant Asserts; Swears Out Warrant

On complaint of Daniel Argo, Glas-gow, Edward Moore, son of George Moore, contractor in charge of the sidewalk operation on lower Depot road, was arrested yesterday by local police and released for a hearing last night.

According to Argo, he was proceed-ing south on Depot road behind the dump truck driven by young Moore, when the latter suddenly and ap-parently without warning, turned his car around, blocking the roadway. Argo said he was unable to stop his machine in time to avoid a crash. The truck escaped with little damages but the Argo car was badly used up.

Immediately after the incident, Argo went to Magistrate Thompson's office and had a warrant sworn out for Moore's arrest. The hearing was set for early last evening, but never occurred. Moore's father met rela-tives of Argo outside the hearing room and within a few minutes the damages were adjusted amicably and the case dismissed.

OPENING NEW SHOP

Clements and Outten, Inc., a Dover tailoring, cleaning and pressing firm, have leased the store property on central Main street, adjacent to the college dorms, recently purchased by Louis Handloff, and will shortly move their equipment from their present location on Elkton avenue.

The Newark branch of the Dover firm is under the management of James Maloney, a Junior at the Uni-versity, and has been very successful in the local field.

CORRECTION

Open hours at the University Li-brary were given in last week's Post from 1 until 2 on week-day after-noon. This is an error. The Library will be open from 1 until 5, standard time.

Youth Award Winner Here For a Visit

Rankin Armstrong Curtis, twin son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Curtis, of Phoenix, Arizona, has been visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mary D. Arm-strong, at Childs, Maryland.

Young Curtis, whose mother will be remembered before her marriage as Edna Armstrong, was the winner of an American Youth award trip to the Sesqui from his home town. After a visit with other relatives in the East, he will return to Phoenix in time for the opening of school.

His twin brother, Charles Henry Curtis, has been awarded a scholar-ship at Harvard, and will enter that institution in September.

Loot Auto, Abandon It Near Scene Of Theft

William Bland Finds Roadster Stripped of Valuable Parts On West Main Street Monday

Residents of West Main street were awakened after midnight Monday morning by clatter and hammering presumed to be an autoist changing a tire along the curbing. Peering into the night, they could see two men working about a Ford roadster, parked directly under an arc light. Since the incident was of no unusual import, the sleepers returned to their beds.

Monday afternoon, however, Wil-liam Bland, well known Newark young man, arrived on the scene, claimed his car, reported the theft of a tire, headlight glass, parking light, tire cover, and other equipment—all removed under the eyes of awakened residents with no semblance of stealth.

Young Bland, it is reported, was visiting relatives Sunday night in Newark and upon his departure, found the roadster gone. The stripped car stood patiently by the curbstone all day Monday waiting for its owner.

Two men are said to have been seen working about the car, one of whom wore a straw hat. A detailed description, however, could not be furnished.

It is said to have been the boldest theft committed here in many years.

REMOVE OLD CHIMNEY

Dismantling of Original College Powerhouse About Completed

The brick stack, 125 feet high, at the old heating plant of Delaware College, University of Delaware, is being taken down. This stack was built about eleven years ago when the heating plant was enlarged. The boilers at this plant and the old plant at the Women's College are also being dismantled.

The new heating plant, to which a unit was added this year, will take care of heating both colleges in the future and consequently the two plants which are being dismantled would not be needed.

The building of the Delaware Col-lege plant is not to be razed as the site will probably be utilized for some other purpose at a later date. On the site of the old plant at the Women's College a laundry is to be built for that college.

COMING BACK HOME

Rees Jarmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Jarmon of this town, who has been associated with the Merridley Grocery Company, wholesale grocers, at Palatka, Florida, for three and a half years, has accepted a position with the Layton Company, wholesale grocers of Georgetown and Dover, Delaware. Mr. Jarmon will come north September first, and will be located at Dover.

DEFIES MOTOR AGE

William T. Dantz, editor of the Vineland, N. J., Republican, spent last night and yesterday in Newark. Mr. Dantz drove over from Jersey in a light runabout behind his favorite driving mare, and is enroute to Chester County, Pa., where he will spend a vacation period with relatives and friends.

ENTERS GOLF TEST

Edward Ginther, Newark Country Club pro, has entered the profes-sional golf championship field. He played in the sectional qualifying test at Torresdale Country Club on Mon-day.

Registration Picks Up Here

Nearly 400 Enroll For Vote at Pri-maries Saturday, But Total Is Less Than Last Voting Year

Men and women voters of Newark swept to the registration centers Sat-urday in gratifying numbers follow-ing a week's aggressive urging by political leaders of the community. Nearly 400 were registered at the two polling places, the Deer Park and Washington House hotels.

In the first district 204 voters qualified on Saturday, compared with 120 that had previously registered, making a total of 324 for the three days. In the first district 185 regis-tered on Saturday, which with 104 previously registered, makes a total of 289 qualified in that district to vote at the primaries.

As the total registration in each of these districts two years ago was more than 700, it is very evident that the registration so far this year is light. It is generally believed that it will be impossible to get out a full registration because of the apparent lack of interest among many voters in the coming off-year campaign.

County Poll Light

Other districts of rural New Castle county, at the last of pre-primary registration days on Saturday, had a light registration, returns from the rural districts indicate.

Workers for both the Republican and Democratic parties exerted every effort in the rural districts of New Castle county on Saturday to bring all unregistered voters to the polls, but their efforts, according to the figures available, did not meet with unusual success.

Estimates are that not more than 3,500 registered in the rural districts, as compared with about 5,000 four years ago.

Allowing the same ratio for the next two registration days remaining before the general election, on No-vember 2, estimates from figures ob-tained from the various districts in rural New Castle county show that the registration was not more than 60 to 70 per cent of that on the third day in 1922. In this year approxi-mately 18,000 were registered for the entire five days. The disproportion between the registration of voters in the rural districts on the third day and that in Wilmington is partly accounted for because of the changing about registration officers to different locations in order to make it con-venient for the rural voter to register when the officers sit in a most con-venient point.

WORK PROGRESSING

Foundations for the new sidewalk along lower Depot road have been about completed, and concrete will be laid within a few days. The excava-tion work is being done by George Moore, local contractor.

DELAWARE CROP REPORT

The following report issued by G. L. Morgan, Agricultural Statistician, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, shows the condition of crops in Dela-ware and forecast production, with comparative figures for previous years.

Rye

The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of this season's crop is 15 bushels and the production 60,000 bushels as compared with 75,000 bushels last year and 65,000 bushels, the average production for the past ten years. The quality of this year's crop is about 91 per cent of a normal as compared with 94 per cent of last years and 91 per cent of the average quality for the past ten years.

Winter Wheat

The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of this season's crop was 19.5 bushels, and the pro-duction 2,028,000 bushels as compared with 1,906,000 bushels, last year's es-timate, and 1,780,000 bushels, the average production for the past ten years. The quality of this year's crop is about 86 per cent of a normal as compared with a 91 per cent last year, and 87 per cent the average quality for the past ten years.

The Next War A Polite One, Sure

TABLE MANNERS are in for improvement if the country takes to heart certain lessons in table etiquette which Army drill sergeants will teach seventeen hundred youngsters at the Citizens' Military Training Camps.

For one thing, universal adoption of the Army rules for table deport-ment would sound the death knell of long-distance arms that reach across neighbors' plates. By reach-ing with arm farthest from the desired dish, all danger of such in-vasion is obviated, the sergeants teach.

Other hints included in the les-sons range from the proper way to enter the mess hall to the most efficient combinations of the sev-eral savory viands which are served at once. Every courtesy as a means of getting the best service from the K. P.'s finds a place in the instruction.

Democrat Aspirants Named in Christiana

Candidates for the offices of State Senator, Representative and Levy Court Commissioner from Christiana hundred were named Monday night at a meeting of Democrats of that district at the home of Josiah Marvel at Greenwood.

The meeting was presided over by Raymond Frederick.

Michael Maloney, of Henry Clay, a retired powder maker, was named as candidate for State Senator from the Fourth Senatorial district; John M. Ulmer, of Richardson Park, a retired builder, was named as candidate for Representative, and Harvey Gregg, of Newport, a retired business man, was named as the candidate for Levy Court Commissioner from the Fourth district.

The delegates elected to represent the district at the State convention of the Democratic party were as fol-lows: Josiah Marvel, Thomas Kane, John Frederick, John M. Ulmer and William Hollett.

MILK TRUCK OVERTURNS

Highway Strewn With Broken Bottles Early Today

While approaching Newark early this morning with a cargo of bottled milk for local patrons, a Clover Dairy milk truck overturned on the White Clay Creek bridge at Roseville, a few hundred yards east of the town limits.

The truck had apparently struck the bridge abutment. A greater part of the load spilled out into the road-way. Glass from broken bottles was swept up by the driver of the truck. No one was injured in the crash, ac-cording to reports, and a relief truck was said to have been sent down to continue the delivery.

Schoolboy Star Gets Scholarship

George V. Chalmers, a graduate of the 1926 class and one of the best athletes ever developed at High School here, has made arrangements to enter Tome School at Port Deposit, this fall. He registered at the school a few days ago and will report in September.

Young Chalmers is the beneficiary of a scholarship offered by Tome for a year's study there. It is understood he is expecting to go on to college later. In athletic circles, Chalmers' entrance at the school will greatly boost their strength in three major sports, baseball, football and basket-ball, in all three of which the Newark boy is a star.

During the summer "Shorty" has been employed by the Supervisor's office of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is hardened by outside work and feels fit for a successful season on the football field.

Killed In Dash From Hen House

Harry Shivery, Young Elktonian, Run Down By Car; Companions Arrested On Suspicion By Police

What is believed to have begun in a petty theft of chickens ended in stark tragedy Sunday evening when Harry Shivery, 23 year old Elkton workman, died from injuries received when he was run down by a passing auto along the Elkton-Singler road near the county seat.

The accident occurred early in the evening and is supposed to have followed an attempt to rob the henry of Isaac Solomon, Negro, who lives nearby.

Enoch Ferguson, Jr., and Lyle Shaeffer, both young men, were ar-rested shortly after the accident to Shivery and charged with breaking into the chicken house. All three young men are well known.

The car that struck young Shivery was driven by John Hill, of Berkley, Harford county, Md., an employee of the C. and P. Telephone Company who was on his way to Kaighn's Point, N. J., to visit his father. He is said to have been driving at a moderate rate of speed and no blame is placed on Hill in connection with the accident.

When Solomon, who had been away for the day, returned to his home about 8 o'clock Sunday night, he sur-prised three men in his chicken house and later found they had wrung the necks of several hens ready to take them away.

Solomon on seeing the men in the chicken house ran to his house after a gun. Meanwhile, the marauders fled across the road. Shivery is said to have dashed directly in front of Hill's car. Ferguson and Shaeffer were found by police in an adjacent field.

ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES

Joseph Jefferson, Local Negro, Never Regained Consciousness

Joseph Jefferson, aged about 35 years, died in the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, yesterday morning fol-lowing injuries received a week ago when his car crashed into a tree along East Main street and was wrecked.

Jefferson was rushed to the hospital in the Newark ambulance, but never regained consciousness. For a few days hope was held out for him, but he steadily grew weaker. It was never learned what caused the acci-dent.

Jefferson was a well-respected resi-dent of the New London avenue com-munity, and had worked several years for Edward L. Richards, and his suc-cessor, the Newark Lumber Company.

MOVIE ACTOR VISITS

Mr. and Mrs. Hampton Ruth, of Hollywood, California, paid Newark a flying visit this week, spending their time with Mr. Ruth's aunt and cousins, Mrs. George Edmanson, and Raymond and Ralph Edmanson. Mr. Ruth, a movie actor, is the son of Alfred Ruth, who has made his home for several years with his sister, Mrs. Foote, near Stanton. The senior Mr. Ruth will return to Hollywood with his son and make his home there.

Plane Crashes; None Are Hurt

E. L. Miller and Passengers Have Remarkable Escape Sunday When Machine Dives Into Muddy Field Near Here

A Curtiss airplane, owned and piloted by Edward L. Miller, of West Chester, with two passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blackwell, of Wilming-ton, crashed to earth Sunday after-noon along the State highway near Hare's Corner. All three occupants escaped with minor bruises and shock.

The plane's fall occurred during the course of a flight from Hare's Corner, and was witnessed by hundreds of spectators from the ground and in passing motorcars.

Flew Here Recently

Miller, whose wife is the daughter of Robert A. Potts, of Newark, has been here with his plane for two weeks, combining his visit to relatives with passenger flights for those who care to enjoy the thrill. Moving over to Hare's Corner Sunday, he attract-ed a large crowd and some customers.

Struck Air Pocket

According to a statement made by the pilot following the crash, his ma-chine struck an air pocket about forty feet up and lack of altitude made it next to impossible to effect a proper landing.

Spectators aver that the plane bar-ely cleared the wires along the high-way before collapsing. Miller tried every emergency method to right his plane, but it turned into a nose dive and came down in a nearby field. Witnesses rushed to the scene expect-ing to find the occupants dead or badly hurt. Miller climbed out un-scarred and assisted his badly fright-ened passengers to alight. Mrs. Black-well was suffering from a bruise on the forehead and was badly shocked by the fall. Her husband was unhurt.

Damages to the plane included a smashed fuselage and propeller and other damages to wings. The esti-mated cost of rebuilding the machine was placed at close to $2,000, it was reported.

State police arrived on the scene shortly after the crash and kept souvenir hunters away from the wrecked plane. Traffic jams on the highway near at hand were untangled with difficulty. Over 1500 people gathered at or near the wreckage. Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell were taken immediately to their homes.

Failed At Fence Jump

Several days ago while landing in a field near Lenk's Garage here, Miller's plane darted off its course and headed for a fence. The pilot was able to "lift" his machine partially, but a fence post tore the tip of his pro-peller and damaged the lower wing.

Upon his arrival in Newark, Miller was in the air several times daily and took a number of passengers aloft.

1800 Employees On Huge Picnic Sept. 11th

National Vulcanized Fibre Company Plans Combined Forces; Await River Ride and Trip to Beach

One of the largest picnic outings ever organized by a Delaware indus-trial concern will be held September 11th, when 1800 employees, their wives and friends will be the guests of the National Vulcanized Fibre Company on the first annual combined outing of that firm.

Three special trains will bring the holiday makers from Newark, York-lyn and Kennett Square to Wilming-ton on the morning of the 11th, where they will be joined by the force of the Wilmington plant. At Wilming-ton, they will board the Wilson liner "State of Delaware," flagship of the fleet, for a cruise up the river as far as the new Camden-Philadelphia bridge. A brief stop at the Sesqui-Centennial grounds is also contem-plated. Returning, the big party will disembark at Riverview Beach for three hours, where a ball game, other sports and amusements will be enjoy-ed. Arriving at Wilmington about seven in the evening, the employees of the out-of-town plants will again (Continued on Page 8.)

Delaware's Annual Poultry Report

The value of the poultry on farms in 1925 in this state was only exceeded by the value of all the breeds of cattle. According to the census of agriculture of 1925 for the State of Delaware, published by the U. S. Department of Commerce, the value of the chickens on farms in that year was $1,733,591. The value of the eggs sold in 1924 was $2,360,929. This was several thousand dollars in excess of the value of dairy products sold in the same year, while the value of chickens sold in 1924 was $1,582,186. We would then say that the total value of chickens and eggs alone in 1924 was $4,943,115. This was greater than the value of the corn products in this state in the same year by nearly a million dollars. These values are almost double those of five years ago, and judging from the amount of poultry equipment in the form of incubators, poultry houses, etc., that are being constructed throughout the state, we can assume that this will nearly be doubled again within the next five years. It is not difficult, therefore, to understand the necessity of properly safeguarding an industry of such great value.

Disease Hits Value

It might well be asked, then, what is the great hindrance to this industry? And the answer would be: disease. There is no form of animal life that suffers more from the ravages of disease than fowls. Losses from the general maladies are heavy, and those from the infectious ones are sometimes appalling. Entire flocks are frequently decimated by the ravages of disease. A great deal of attention was focused on the poultry industry the past year by the quarantine existing in some of the eastern markets upon poultry coming from the West, because of the presence of the disease known as fowl pest. Fowl pest was reported within the state, the past year, for the first time. Prompt destruction of the flock was ordered, thereby averting a quarantine on poultry and poultry products coming from the state, which would have wrought untold hardships upon the poultrymen. The rapidity with which infectious diseases travel through flocks closely housed causes their control to be exceedingly difficult.

All improvements in husbandry must be based upon the health and vigor of the foundation stock. Disease resulting in either death or disability mean loss. There are some diseases that are more devastating than others. One of these diseases is known as bacillary white diarrhea. It is probably the greatest menace to the poultry industry. It attacks particularly baby chicks, and therefore strikes at the root of the industry. This disease has become such a serious menace, to the purchasers of baby chicks, and to the hatcherymen, that steps have been taken in various states to eradicate or limit as far as possible the spread and dissemination of this disease.

In testing flocks for white diarrhea we tend to not only eliminate this dangerous disease but to strengthen the confidence of the buying public in baby chicks purchased in the State of Delaware. During the past hatching season there were probably 300,000 baby chicks hatched and sold from certified hatcheries alone in this State. These chicks, if sold at an average price of ten cents a piece, would bring $30,000. Indications for the coming year promise that this number will be increased one-half or thereabouts. There were probably 750,000 more chicks sold from non-certified hatcheries. It is one of the steps in the standardization of market products which is in accordance with the present national plan. A great many states are rapidly taking up this work, and in order to keep pace with their neighbors, to cause Delaware products to be equally as popular in the open market, this plan was instituted in this state. We have in that connection tested 36,466 birds contained in 124 flocks, distributed well over the state, but for the most part being in Sussex county. Flocks meeting the requirements of the State Board of Agriculture were accredited, and hatcheries meeting the requirements were certified. This tended to put a premium on their products. The work was new, the standards set for flock owners were not as rigid as they will be in the course of five or six years. However, people were enlightened as to the object of the work, and they have responded most unusually. We have at the present requests to test between 80,000 and 90,000 birds

William Whipple, Signer

A lover of the sea, in command of a vessel before he was twenty-one years of age, was the beginning of the career of William Whipple, New Hampshire signer of the Declaration of Independence. The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the document is being celebrated by the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia.

He was engaged in European, West Indian and African trade, and brought many slaves to America. During the Revolution he liberated all those which belonged to him.

The young sailor abandoned the sea in 1759 to enter business with his brother in Portsmouth, continuing in this until two years before the Revolution. He was elected a delegate from New Hampshire to the Continental Congress in 1775, taking his seat in May. For a number of years he was a member of the Provincial Congress of his state and was chosen by that body as one of the Committee of Safety.

Whipple received the commission of Brigadier-General in 1777, and commanded a brigade of New Hampshire troops at Saratoga and Stillwater. He was active in the campaign against Burgoyne, and after the latter's surrender he signed the articles of capitulation with Colonel James Wilkinson on behalf of General Horatio Gates.

General Whipple was afterwards selected as the officer under whose charge the British troops were conducted to their encampment on Winter Hill near Boston.

Robert Morris appointed him financial agent in New Hampshire in 1782, but he resigned soon after the appointment. He was president of the board created to settle a land dispute between Pennsylvania and Connecticut concerning the Wyoming domain. Subsequently he was named State Superintendent of Finance, Judge of the Superior Court and held many other offices until his death in November, 1785.

annually in this state. It can readily be seen that unless our capacity is increased, there will be a large per cent of flock owners that cannot receive the benefits of this work. A charge of five cents each was made to cover the cost of collecting the blood samples. We have taken in, then, $1,823.30. Our original appropriation was $5,000 a year, making a total of $6,823.30. It has cost us eighteen cents to test each sample. The amount of work done on the appropriation available compares very favorably with previous work here and in neighboring states. We have in addition to this work made 145 visits to farms in various parts of the state for the purpose of assisting in disease control. The services of this laboratory have been at the command of not only poultrymen but other livestock men and veterinarians as well. Four hundred and four specimens, comprising 381 chickens, 6 horses, 3 dogs, 2 cows, 9 turkeys, and 3 hogs have been examined in the laboratory the past year. We have attended and participated in the programs at four meetings out of the state, and nine within the state. Over 35,000 cc. of rump vaccine has been prepared and distributed to flock owners within the state. This vaccine in the open market would cost ten cents a dose, making a total value of $3,500. The work has been new and there were many obstacles to overcome, but the poultrymen throughout the state were very responsive and enthusiasm is greater now than it has been at any time during the year.

Big Elk

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ouram and little son, of Wildwood, N. J., have been spending several days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Burke.

Miss Mary and Beulah Burke, of Wildwood, N. J., were guests at the home of their parents over the weekend.

"Big Elk" Sunday School held its picnic on Thursday in Burton's Grove, with dinner and supper for all. Regardless of the extreme heat, all seemed to have a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Preston and son, of Lock Haven, have been spending sometime at the home of her father, Mr. George T. Peterson, also at the Preston homestead, Wilmington, Del.

Miss Lillian Peterson, of Woodbine, N. J., and Mr. Howard Moll, of Philadelphia, were guests at the home of Miss Peterson's father for several days.

Cecil's Legal Records Date Back To Founding

Register of Wills McCauley Completes Work of Collecting Priceless Documents; Ask for Funds to Preserve Them

Cecil county at last has completely had all the records of the Register of Wills' office and it is now possible to trace the history of Cecil families from the inception of the county in 1674 until today.

Since the drawing of some of the papers, years ago, they have lain in piles about the courthouse. One year ago the Register of Wills, Robert McCauley, obtained permission from William Gordy, State Comptroller, to use certain moneys to reclaim the papers of the office.

The work has just been completed, even the finding of administrators' bonds. The first paper filed in the office in 1674 was a bond, with three signers, naming the amount for which they assumed responsibility to be $10,000 pounds of tobacco in casques.

Early papers of the clerk of the court are still piled in the grand jury witness room. Efforts are being made to obtain permission from the authorities to divert money to taking care of these papers. Among them is the record of the life of Rumsey, the inventor of the steamboat, in Cecil county, and the records of William Penn's aggressive acts in the Nottingham section.

When this task has been completed no county in the country of a respectable age will have as complete set of records as Cecil and no more interesting reading of colonial history will be obtainable anywhere, it is claimed.

Mr. McCauley's office is one of the most efficient in Maryland and his filing system one of the best, visitors declare.

Evangelist Cooke Announces His Reward For Evidence "As Will Convict In Delaware; Assails Flouting Of Laws

An interesting address was delivered by the Rev. George A. Cooke, in Seaford recently, to a large and enthusiastic audience on "Shall Delaware Go Dry?"

"Delaware is legally dry," he said. "The death knell of the liquor traffic was proclaimed by the lawmakers of the State before the Eighteenth Amendment went into effect in 1920. In sentiment, Delaware is one of the soundest on the issue of prohibition. The problem now is to make our little Diamond State really dry. The bootlegger is abroad in this State and is pushing his unlawful business with boldness. Bootlegging has spread rapidly throughout the State from Wilmington to Selbyville. The situation is alarming. I propose to sound the alarm, point out the danger, and call the loyal citizenship of Delaware to a warfare that will make Delaware really dry. The bootleg business must be destroyed and the liquor issue must be eliminated from Delaware politics."

"Which side are you on? If you are on the side of law and order, now is the time to show your colors, as the fight is on to the finish. The whole state is being terrorized by bootleggers and booze-drinking men and women who patronize the bootlegger. We must fight, or surrender our homes, our churches, and our State. We will not surrender without a fight."

Mr. Cooke made the following offer of a reward:

"The undersigned, a Minister of the Gospel, being convinced of the soundness of the 'prohibition laws,' and anxious to drive the criminal bootleg business out of our State, does hereby agree to pay the sum of ten dollars to any person of lawful age who will furnish legal evidence of the manufacture, sale, transportation or possession of intoxicating liquor. The evidence must be such as will convict within the State of Delaware."

The hatchery center of the Peninsula is Georgetown, Delaware, where 450,000 chicks are hatched every three weeks during the season.

"When we build, let us think we build forever. Let it not

What Is News?

Have you ever considered just what news is? Have you ever pondered on the significance of the columns of print that make-up a newspaper? If you have, you will realize not merely the difficulty of defining news, but the impossibility of it. A born reporter recognizes news when it comes within his ken, but he would find it beyond the bounds of language to concoct a definition of news which would be adequate and contain all of the characteristics of the hazy term. News, like beauty, can be discerned much more easily than it can be defined.

We are, of course, speaking of news from the newspaper point-of-view, and not just of contemporary local gossip, rumor, general information, and such. When we speak here of news, we mean NEWS.

However, despite the fact that news is undefinable (according to us, at least), there are those who fear not to attempt the impossible. Such a one is an editorial writer on the staff of the Dearborn Independent, who wrote the following thought-provoking article:

"What's the news? The paper is full of print, and the headlines call alluringly. Beneath each item on the local page is deep personal significance—of gladness, shame, or anxiety.

"Who can know the ceaseless life of the city; the continuous change of psychic states which make up the life of the multitude—who is fit to know it? And because no one is fit we have the endless patter of events, the accidents and crimes of life, the view which hospital record and police register give.

"Then what is the news? What's happened? Nothing has happened save what is happening, and what is happening no one sees; the great happenings are without observation. By the time it breaks in events, it is all over—like a blown blossom.

"The news is that tendencies are developing which in time shall become driving forces, that minorities are forming which in time shall rule the world, that thoughts are a-borning which in a few years shall be the commonplace of the streets, that old stabilities are coming back because the people have discovered the deception of instabilities, that things are out of control of the captains and mighty men but Nature still functions and will fulfill her end.
That is the news. In the personal life everything that ever was new becomes new once more, and is often several times renewed in the course of a single life's experience.

"In the social life more things are new, but the seed of society and the sap of society are very old, and determine the nature of the tree.

"There is great news, but it is not printed."

There is one view in connection with the above quoted editorial which its author apparently neglected: he does not appear to realize that if his conception of news could be reconciled to practicability that the newspapers would be always ahead of the times, that the newspapers would be a sort of political-social economic almanac, predicting what was to take place in the future
—a sort of historical forecasting like the weather prophecies a year ahead in Doctor B—'s Almanac. In other words the Present would be deserted for the Future.

Another editorial writer has a different point-of-view, but he also fails to define news. However, try this:

"Every day, in every city, reporters go to such unlikely places as police-stations, jails, morgues, chambers of commerce"—there is no mention of town councils—"courtrooms, city halls, and so on. They see and hear—and come back each with a small morsel of truth.

"Individually, these morsels are small, not to say contemptible. The truth about whether John Smith was drunk when he drove his car into the fire-truck, or whether Mayor Hoople will reinstate the city employes fired by his predecessor, doesn't amount to much itself. But, taken all together, these tiny bits of truth form a composite whole of great importance—a truthful picture in which all men may see just what kind of a civilization they are making for themselves."

That last sentence, about news forming "a truthful picture in which all men may see just what kind of a civilization they are making for themselves", is a good shot but it, too, misses the target. It tells not what news is, but what news should do, its purpose.

And so we are back again from our starting point: What is news? Who knows? We don't. We only know that we gather as much of the news, or truth—one second! can that be it; is news merely truth?—well, no matter as we were saying we gather as much of the news, or truth, concerning the people of Newark and vicinity as we are able and present it regularly that all interested may see just what kind of a community they are building for themselves.
—C. T.

secret of his success he declared:

"I attribute my ability to retire

thirty years in the country sawmill
business to close application to duty,
the most rigorous rules of economy,

ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE

The Pilgrim

The Shriners from all over the United States were having a parade in Philadelphia that morning. The crowd was so dense on Broad street that it had taken more than two hours to negotiate three squares. And it was hot. Finally, around noon, I ducked into a little resaurant, more to escape the mob of sight-seers than to satisfy
any cravings of hunger.

The place was packed. I found one vacant seat at a table for two. A traveling salesman from Georgia was my dining companion, I discovered. But he was in a hurry and soon rushed off, paying his check at the door,
and striding down the street
vigorously wielding a toothpick.

Shortly after his disappearance, a woman entered. The chair recently vacated by the Georgia salesman was the only vacant one in the restaurant.
She took it.

Clothed in what appeared, to my inexperienced eye, to be some sort of cheap black material, her broad unlovely countenance looked old—the sort of old which does not signify years of living but hours of just existing. She paid no attention whatever to me, but pulled from her pocket a letter, already opened and with the appearance of having been much handled. While waiting for a waitress to take her order, she read (or was it merely one of many re-readings?) her letter.

As she read her mouth formed each word and not always with ease. A tender smile softly crept over her face. She seemed to be talking to the author of the letter. It was evident that she had forgotten her actual surroundings and was living in another scene. The smile had made her look younger, almost attractive. She turned another page of the letter.

Just then a waitress, hot,
tired and impatient, appeared.
The woman glanced up from her letter in a startled manner and nervously ordered toast and tea.
The waitress curtly announced that they had not time to bother with such an order, but that they could serve a platter dinner
at one dollar.

The smile gone, the woman slowly got up, as if it was a physical effort, and walked toward the door. She was halted there by the cashier to whom she explained the situation; he permitted her to make her exit
with no more than a disdainful glance.

As she stepped out again into the street, I noticed that her stockings were of cotton and that her shoes were cracked and
"run-down" at the heels.—S. W.

On Capital Punishment

(Editorial in Baltimore Sun.)

This State has maintained
capital punishment in its code
because belief prevails here,
that it is the greatest single deterrent to the wanton taking of human life; that it is the penalty most dreaded by criminals. And this belief is emphasized by the strenuous efforts always put forth to avoid it. Men who accept sentences to the Penitentiary of any term of years with seeming indifference
quail before the hangman.

It is not thirst for a victim nor desire for vengeance which prompts demand for summary action when murder is done. It is society's answer to those who break its laws and willfully slay.
It is a solemn warning that organized society means to protect against those of criminal bent
the lives of its members. Peaceful members of the community
shall not be exposed to murderous outlaws and compelled either to face danger unguarded or commission themselves as vigilantes in the manner of frontier settlements.

In the Whittemore case,
which aroused widespread interest owing to the record of crime which marked his career, the test put up to the State was whether it was ready to do away with capital punishment for capital offenses; whether it was ready to notify desperadoes that they could commit murder in Maryland without fear of the penalty which they most dread.
If less than death had been meted out in this instance, there would have been no crime for which a jury, following such a precedent, could not reasonably have refused to inflict the extreme penalty of the law.

In Baltimore there is an average of a murder a week. It is a shocking record and one which the city should seek by every means within its power to reduce. The day may come when education, better home influences, religious training and more wisely directed social effort will point the way to the moral regeneration of anti-social forces. But meanwhile innocent people are done to death, shot down in cold blood, brutally slain by some bandit bent upon robbery.

Until the State determines by a change in its laws that there is some better method to assure the citizen's safety than by demanding capital punishment,
the business of those charged with law enforcement is to direct all their energies to speeding up its procedure, so that the death penalty shall follow faster upon the heels of crimes which deserve it.

Friendly Town

For example, bear witness to an incident yesterday afternoon: As the little travellers were having a belated lunch as guests of their hosts here, a chicken, a lone chicken, strode aimlessly along the street near the restaurant. The boys in the party darted out, rescued the fowl and with amazed faces returned it to safety, believing sincerely that it must be saved at all costs.

And so it goes in a tiny flat on a blistering street. There is only the clatter and bang of traffic, the forbidding form of the policeman, whose creed is "You can't." The air is close and smelly. There is precious little sunlight.

Today, eleven pale little cliff dwellers are having their first breath
of air from the trees and fields.
Crowded into two short weeks will be a Life unknown since birth. A georgious new country has been discovered, the capital of which is called
"Friendly Town."

No wonder the staid committee grinned. They have together with the above named ladies, felt a new joy.

U. S. Leads In Autos

The United States has more improved roads than all other nations of the world combined as well as 81 per cent of all motor vehicles in the world, according to a statement by the American Roadbuilders' Association. The United States spent 1,000-200,000 last year for highways, and registered 19,954,347 automobiles.

The comparative prosperity of the United States as shown by the progress in road building is very great,
according to the report. Out of 3,- 002,956 miles of highways in the United States on June 1, approximately 500,000 miles had been surfaced by Federal, state and local agencies. Of this mileage 35,000 was completed last year.

The United States registered one automobile to every 5.7 persons as compared with one car for each 12
persons in Canada, the nearest competitor. In Afghanistan but one automobile was registered for every 63,- 305 population and but one person in 40,000 in Abyssinia has a car. In Germany, but one person in every 1,935
owns an automobile.

The figures, although interesting for their curious one-sidedness, also show conclusively that the United States needs improved highways to a far greater extent than at the present time and much in excess of other nations. The Convention of the American Roadbuilders' Association to be held during Good Roads Week, January 10 to 15, 1927, at Chicago, will be partly given over to the discussion of just what highways are needed to handle the 20,000,000 automobiles of the country. The immediate construction of paved roads over all important lanes have been urged, however, by the association.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

We quote from Maurice Francis Egan in "Confessions of a Book-Lover": "There were no
'movies' in those days, and the theatre was only occasionally permitted; but on long afternoons, after you had learned to read, you might lose yourself in
'The Scottish Chiefs' to your heart's content. It seems to me that the beauty of this fashion of leisurely reading was that you had time to visualize everything, and you felt the dramatic moments so keenly, that a sense of unreality never obtruded itself at the wrong time. . . .
Unhappily, much leisure does not seem to be left for the modern child. The unhappy creature is even told that there will be 'something in Heaven for children to do!' As to distractions, the modern child is surrounded by them; and it appears to be one of the main intentions of the present system of instruction not to leave to a child any moments of leisure for the indulgence of the imagination."

Elk Mills dropped her first game of the second half in the League Saturday, when Rising Sun administered a shut-out defeat without much difficulty. Kolseth was too much for the Weavers, and their winning streak of five straight games was shattered. They still lead the parade, however, by one game.

Elkton easily defeated the Perryville team by the score of 25 to 9. Every man on the Elkton team accounted for one or more hits and crossed the plate at least once. Robinson and Lyons were high hitters with five hits each. Wilson hit best for Perryville.

Football Plans Talked In College; May Train Here

It is expected that in a short time final plans will be made for early practice for the University of Delaware football squad. It is possible that the early practice this year will be held on Frazer Field instead of taking the squad to Delaware Beach as has been the custom for several years. Coach Forstburg is expected to arrive in Newark early next month to make plans for starting practice.

The schedule this year gives but three games at home and five away. After the opening game with Drexel on October 2, the team will be away for five straight weeks and will play the last two games of the season at home. The completed schedule follows:

- October 2—Drexel, on Frazer Field.
- October 9—Ursinus, at Collegeville, Pa.
- October 16—Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, at Springfield, Mass.
- October 23—St. John's, at Annapolis, Md.
- October 30—Rutgers, at New Brunswick, N. J.
- November 6—Swarthmore, at Swarthmore, Pa.
- November 13—Gallaudet, at Frazer Field.

The above schedule, which does not include the annual Haverford game wind-up, has occasioned no little critical comment from friends of the College. Only three games are played at home, two of which are with third-rate athletic teams.

Littleton, Cashier, Accomac Banking Company, Bloxom, Va., offers the following as authentic information in re. naming Irish cobbler potatoes: "The first potatoes known to the Old World were taken to England from Roanoke Island, fifty miles from Elizabeth City, N. C., by Raleigh's colonists. Later the crop was grown successfully in Ireland from which place it derived its name, 'Irish Cobbler'."

Farm Prices Decline Steadily, Says Bulletin

Proponents of Farm Relief Legislation Redouble Fight When Low Level Hits Producers

A bulletin just issued by the Department of Agriculture confirms the contentions of advocates of farm relief legislation that the price of farm products is declining and with this decline the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar is going down. The bulletin predicts even worse condition, saying that if prices of agricultural products remain at present levels their purchasing power will fall to the lowest point since 1924.

"The general level of farm prices," says the statement, "dropped from 139 to 135 per cent of the pre-war level from June 15 to July 15, according to the monthly price index of the Department of Agriculture. At 139 the general level of farm prices is fourteen points below July a year ago.

Declines High As 21 Points

"The price level of grains as a group declined five points during the month, cotton six points, meat animals two points, and fruit and vegetables twenty-one points, while dairy and poultry products and unclassified commodities remained about constant.

"From June 15 to July 15 the farm prices of cotton, cottonseed, oats, wheat and potatoes declined, while corn, barley, rye and flaxseed increased slightly. Farm prices of all live-stock and live-stock products declined somewhat with the exception of milk cows and wool, which remained about the same as a month ago.

Below Pre-War Level

"As the season advances the changes in prospective production of this year's crop cause changes in the prices of farm crops, while the 'carry over' of the old crop is also an important price-determining factor.

"The department's index of purchasing power of farm products is placed at eighty-seven for June, the same as in May, the 1909-14 five year period being used as a base of one hundred. Thus, the general average of purchasing power of farm products in June was thirteen per cent below that in the five-year pre-war period. With a four-point drop in the farm price index for July, if non-agricultural prices remain at the June level, the July purchasing power of farm products may be as low as eighty-five, the lowest point since December, 1924."

WILMINGTON AUTO RACES SATURDAY

Twenty-four Speed Kings, Including World's Champion, Will Compete

Twenty-four of the world's leading dirt track automobile drivers will compete in the meet at the Delaware State Fair track at Elsmere, two miles west of Wilmington. It will be the first meet staged in Wilmington in two years and is sanctioned by the National Motor Racing Association.

There will be three events, two five-mile and one ten-mile feature and the customary qualifying tests of a half-mile. The time trials will start promptly at 2:30, advanced time.

Included in the list of drivers will be Fred Winnai, winner of the Langhorne fifty-mile race and who established a new world's record for one mile in 38.4-5 seconds. He will pilot Pete De Paolo's famous Dusenbergs in which he set the new mark. Three Miller Straight "8" special racing cars, used on the larger speedways, will be driven by Russell Snowberger, Jimmy Gleason and Ray Keck.

Bill Sauerhoff, twice winner of the Delaware State Championship, Coley Johnson, Slim Everett, Tom Reed, Al Aspen and Jackie Desmond are a few of the renowned pilots that will strive for the big money awards.

FIRE DESTROYS BIG COOPER BARN

A fire of undetermined origin, entailing a loss of approximately $20,000, destroyed a large barn on the farm of the late Ezekiel Cooper, near Hare's Corner, tenanted by George Jones, Sunday. The fire also destroyed many farming implements, including an automobile and tractor, harness, etc., belonging to Mr. Jones.

TELEPHONE NEWS

AUGUST, 1926

No. 5

OPERATOR GIVES ALARM FOR FIRE

When the W. L. Peck barn fire recently, the Fire Department and the neighbors in the vicinity were notified by Miss Anna Collins, telephone operator of Hockessin, who was on duty at the boards at the time.

Tribute to the young women operators of the Diamond State Telephone Company, instrumental in giving out alarms of this nature, has been extended several times during the last year. Prompt notification of the proper authorities by telephone operators in cases of fire and accident has resulted in the saving of life and property.

Out-of-town telephone calls are on the increase. Why? They are efficient business getters.

DIAMOND STATE CO.
NOW EMPLOYS 449

Group Needed to Carry On Telephone Business
in the State

The Diamond State Telephone Company now has 449 employees on its payrolls to carry on the telephone business in Delaware. This is a growth of about 40 employees since the end of last year.

With their families this group would form a town as large as Newark or Milford. Of the total number of employees 312 are women and 137 are men. About 265 young women are required to operate the switchboards in the State. These operators are part of the Traffic Department. The total number of employees in the department is 294. Eighteen commercial employees are needed to take care of the applications for new telephone lines, bills for telephone service and the thousand and one other business transactions between the public and the Company.

Telephone plant and equipment is constantly under supervision to see that it is operating satisfactorily. Sometimes storms or fires cause damage to the plant, which means repairs. New construction is constantly under way. Approximately 136 people in the "Plant" Department are required for these duties.

ARDEN GETS MORE TELEPHONE LINES

Diamond State Company
Spending About $10,000
to Expand Plant

Groome Marcus, construction work that was started about a month ago by the Diamond State Telephone Company, involving the placing of a million feet of new wire for expanding the telephone plant in the Holly Oak, is scheduled to be completed this month, according to R. L. Dodge, District Superintendent of Plant for the Telephone Company.

Approximately $10,000 is being spent to supply additional lines for the new telephones in this growing section. About 900,000 feet of the new wire will be in underground cables, the remainder is to be placed in overhead cables.

This is in keeping with the Bell System policy of placing telephone wires in cables wherever practicable. It reduces the chances of a temporary suspension of telephone service from storm causes, for lead-covered cables are practically storm-proof.

When completely installed and in service, the new wire will give Arden and the immediate surrounding sections a telephone system that is as complete as any in the State. Groome Marcus, Construction Foreman for the Telephone Company, is in charge. He has a construction gang of telephone workers on the job. The cable splicing is to be done by two cable crews, headed by William Fisher.

From the central office at Holly Oak, on the Philadelphia-Holly Oak Pike, the new wire will be pulled through present underground ducts along the pike as far as Harvey Road. They will then follow Harvey Road to Arden.

The placing of seventy new poles for the wire is also involved in the work.

For a few cents you can travel quite a distance by telephone. Visit your friends via out-of-town telephone service.

LARGER SWITCHBOARD AT LEWES, DELAWARE

An addition to the switchboard in Lewes, Delaware, was recently made by the Diamond State Telephone Company. This addition provided larger facilities for handling toll calls. The need for additional toll facilities was due in part to the increase in such calls from Rehoboth, which are handled through Lewes central office, and partly to growth in Lewes, according to Manager C. B. Sypher of Dover.

Mrs. Lee Pepper, operator at Rehoboth, reports about 125 toll calls a day from this popular Delaware watering place.

WILMINGTON GETS BIGGER DIRECTORY

Telephone Manager Points to Features of New Book

E. P. BARDE

The new Wilmington telephone directory is the largest that has ever been issued here and is a complete buyers' guide and business directory as well as a telephone book, according to E. P. Barde, Telephone Manager for the Diamond State Telephone Company.

"About 21,000 books were distributed in all," said Mr. Barde. "Sixteen more pages were needed to accommodate the increased number of listings. Eight additional pages were required for the increased number of business listings and a similar number of pages were added to the alphabetical section. The pages in the business section can furnish information in regard to practically any article desired," said the Telephone Manager. "As a handy reference book and a broad and comprehensive guide for buyers, the new directory is hard to beat."

Two days and a half were required for the complete distribution that was made through the mails. Two new colored inserts on heavy paper are features of the new book.

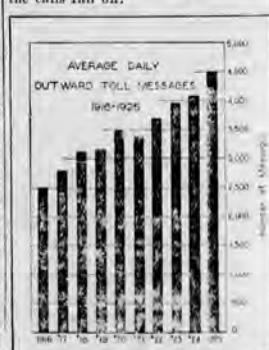

J. Walter Taylor of the Wilmington office was in charge of space in the classified section. Mr. Taylor reports a substantial increase in the number of business people taking advantage of this section for advertising purposes.

The new directory lists telephones around the city as well as those operating in Wilmington itself and includes in general all telephones operating in the northern portion of the State.

TOLL CALLS ARE CROP INDICATORS

Show Interesting Data on Various Foodstuffs
in the State

An interesting cross-section of the agricultural activity in Delaware is obtained from the toll charts of the Diamond State Telephone Company. These charts showing the number of toll calls handled in each part of the State are indicative of the crop that is being harvested at the time and to some extent they show the size of the crop. When toll calls around Seelyville and Bridgeville increase, it means that the strawberry season is on. The toll calls are heavier due to the growers making out-of-town arrangements for shipping. For market prices and sales. As the harvest season progresses, these calls increase in volume. When it wanes the calls fall off.

IN TOLL CALLS SINCE 1916

From their knowledge of what each section of the State grows, telephone people can tell from observing the charts what particular foodstuff is being harvested, and, from the volume of calls, they obtain some idea of the size of the crop. When the southern part of the State begins to show an increasing number of calls and the Seelyville and Bridgeville sections show less, it means that the strawberry season is on. This condition is true throughout the whole harvest season. Western Delaware does a large toll business when the cantaloupes are being shipped. Wheat causes Smyrna and Middletown to increase the toll traffic, and when sweet potatoes are marketed in the Fall, toll calls jump in Laurel, Delaware and Seaford.

Give Safe Milk

Milk from cows infected with a communicable disease such as tuberculosis, or separated milk from a creamery, should always be pasteurized (held at a temperature of 145 degrees F. for 30 minutes) before it is fed to calves.

American Chickens

Chickens of the American breeds are best suited for the general farm flock. These include the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red, and Jersey Black Giant. They mature earlier than the meat breeds, but not so quickly as the egg breeds. They are also sitters and make good mothers. The American breeds are good producers of brown-shelled eggs and possess desirable table qualities, the yellow flesh being popular on American markets.

Farm Hen Still Ahead

Specialized poultry farms, on which the production of market eggs is the chief activity, are much less numerous than farms with a general farm flock. Specialized egg farms are located in greatest number along the Atlantic coast, in close proximity to the great consuming centers, and along the Pacific coast, where climatic conditions are especially favorable.

U. S. Oats

A study of the production of oats in the United States shows that for 30 years or more preceding the World War the trend of production has been steadily upward, reaching its peak in 1917, with a production of 1,503,000,000 bushels. Since 1917 the production has declined slightly, the 1925 figures being 1,502,000,000 bushels.

Strengthen Alfalfa

In the East a top dressing of well-rotted stable manure applied in the late fall or winter to alfalfa not only furnishes some protection, but in most cases also will increase the yield the following season. If stable manure is not available, an application of 300 to 500 pounds of acid phosphate per acre in the spring is of considerable assistance in maintaining the vigor of the stand.

Making Wood Last Longer

By treating them with coal-tar creosote such short-lived woods as soft maple, beech, birch, sweet gum, black gum, young or sap pine, and red oak are made durable for use in the ground as fence posts for 10 to 20 years longer, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Round sticks are more satisfactory for treatment than split timber since they have a uniform absorbing surface of sapwood. Practically all of the soft woods or sap woods may be treated and profitably used as posts.

Before treating, it is important that the timber be peeled and thoroughly seasoned. Small flakes of inner bark left on the wood prevent proper absorption of the preservative at those places. Peeling is done most easily during the spring months, but may be carried on at other seasons of the year. The posts to be treated should be peeled from 3 to 4 months, depending upon the weather, before treatment, and open-piled in a dry place to effect proper seasoning.

Application of creosote by brushing over the whole post is only slightly effective in preventing decay. Open-tank treatment with a hot bath, followed by a cold bath is recommended for fence posts. The sapwood surrounding the heartwood takes treatment readily and is thereby protected against the entrance of decay.

Husband Faces Terrific Problem; Wife, Child Drowning, Who To Save?

(From Philadelphia Record)

Nels Johnson was faced with one of those ordeals that all men fear; the necessity of saving one of two persons he greatly loved.

He made his decision in a moment of desperation, of despair, and today he was alone with a loved one, he had saved. The other, whom he had loved equally well, lay in the morgue at Union county, N. J.

Yesterday Johnson, his wife, and son, Charles, and three friends started late in the afternoon for a row on Silver Lake, in Park Summit, Union county. About 9 o'clock at night Johnson was pulling for the shore when about 200 yards from the landing something happened.

Just what, Johnson does not know. Maybe one of the men stood up in the boat inadvertently. It tipped over. The six occupants were thrown into the water. The boat drifted away and those who attempted to grasp it failed.

In the intensity of the darkness no one seemed able to help another. The three men groped in vain to help Nels save his relatives. He found himself splashing in the darkness, near him his wife and child crying frantically for help. From the distance Nels could hear some one call: "We can't get to you. Save one of the two—your wife or your son—and we'll try to get the other."

But the others were very far away and Nels realized, as he told police afterwards, that he had to make a decision and make it quickly. Neither his wife nor his child could swim. The woman was crying frantically and the boy, too, was shouting in the darkness.

In the blackness of this little world Nels made his decision. He felt his wife reaching toward him. He saw through the darkness his son go down once and then come up. He heard their cries. He grabbed one of them. Swiftly he moved to the shore. He heard the splashes of his companions reaching toward the loved one he had left behind. After what seemed a decade he reached the shore and then turned back to get his other loved one. He was too late.

It was his son he saved. His wife sank to the bottom of the lake and her body later was recovered.

Hundreds Present At Harvest Home

Hundreds of visitors from all parts of New Castle county as well as from adjoining counties of Maryland and Pennsylvania attended the annual Harvest Home at Whiteman's Grove, near Milford Cross Roads, Mill Creek hundred, last Thursday.

Women of Ebenezer Church made most of the plans for the affair and the program included the usual chicken dinner, baseball games and speaking. Many politicians and candidates for various offices were among the visitors. Music was provided by the Ferris School band. Richard R. Wood, of Philadelphia, gave a talk on "Military Training." Other speakers were the Rev. B. E. Ewing of Baltimore, Howard Marshall, of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Frank Herson, of Newark.

New Record

Wheat Yield

The 1925 wheat yield on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula has created a new record, with an average production ranging from thirty-five to forty-five bushels per acre and in several instances exceeding this unusual figure and reaching a top notch of sixty bushels per acre.

This record not only surpasses any previous season on the Eastern Shore in wheat production but it is believed will equal if not exceed production in any section of the United States this season.

Thirty bushels of wheat per acre is considered exceptionally good in a normal season and from reports in all of the wheat growing counties on the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore yields in excess of this figure are found, meaning that the 1926 wheat crop on the Peninsula averages from thirty to 100 per cent above normal.

Unusually favorable climatic conditions are said by the growers to have been responsible for this yield.

FORTY-EIGHT PER CENT

Are you one of the 48 per cent of people who buy their anthracite supply during the summer?

Or are you one of those short-sighted persons who leaves your coal bin empty until the first cold snap arrives?

Are you one of the 52 per cent who take chances, or do you plan ahead for your winter's supply?

The only possible reason for not buying your coal now for next winter is that you are planning to shut up your house and go to Florida or Europe.

Are you?

If not, join the sensible 48 per cent who are thinking and planning ahead. Buy your coal now while it is readily obtainable, while it is easier to put into your cellar.

Don't wait until snow and slush frighten you into action. Don't let weather conditions be your master. Turn the tables this year and master the weather.

Place your order now and defy time and tide. The odds are all on your side. You have nothing to lose, and all the comfort and peace of mind in the world to gain. Act now!

Order Before September!

Wholesalers have already raised the price of hard coal. Retailers must follow shortly. Wise buyers will get their supply NOW. The price is bound to go up later!
