EXPECT TO OPEN NEW POST OFFICE THIS SATURDAY

Plan To Move Business Tomorrow Night and Start
Service In New Quarters
Saturday Morning; New Building Model Of Modern Efficiency

COST NEARLY $70,000

If nothing happens to disrupt the plans, Newark will receive its postal service from the new Federal Post Office Building, beginning Saturday morning. Finishing touches on the building are being rushed and the equipment is being placed and prepared to go into service. It is expected that the business will be moved from the old quarters tomorrow night, after closing time.

Four hundred days were allowed for the construction of the building, the first survey work of which was done on February 18 of this year. The construction was started on February 26. The structure, which is 59 by 64 feet, and stands on the corner of Main and Center streets, cost between $60,000 and $70,000. It stands on government owned lot, 94 by 180 feet.

The new building has the most modern features in every detail of design, construction and equipment.

PLAN CHARTER NIGHT

At the Tuesday dinner meeting of the newly organized Newark Lions Club, plans were made for the charter night program, which will be held on November 19. The affair will probably be held in Old College, and, besides the presentation of a charter to the new club, will include a dinner and dance. Over 250 are expected to attend, which will include local Lions and guests and Lions from Washington, Baltimore, Wilmington, and other nearby towns.

D. A. McClintock is general chairman for the occasion; A. D. Cobb will plan the entertainment; Wayne Brewer is publicity man; and W. C. Waples is program committee man.

FAMILY BRAWL

Magistrate Thompson's court experienced one of the most complicated cases of its history, Monday night, when the domestic difficulties of two branches of the Moore family were aired. The trouble started Sunday in a fight between John and James Moore, brothers and next door neighbors. Before it was over male members of both families had participated, and the wife of James Moore had been pummeled by her 17-year-old nephew, John Moore, Jr.

Officer Cunningham was called by a neighbor and jailed five of the men and youths. He later released three of them, but John Sr. and Jr. were held on warrants of assault and battery. When John and James faced each other, Monday night in court, both looked much the worse for wear, and the testimony about divided the fault. They were not fined, and divided the costs.

John, Jr., was found guilty of punching his aunt, and was fined $10. Under the impression that he would get a 5-day sentence, he was defiant, and elected to serve the time. However, when he discovered that he would not go to the Workhouse, but to the Ferris Industrial School until he had reached the age of 21, the novelty and romance of the idea of a jail sentence dissolved, and he pleaded to reconsider. His fine was paid.

After the domestic troubles were disposed of, James Moore was arraigned on a warrant charging larceny of a dog. Alfred Caulk, colored, of near Townsend, brought the charge and said the dog had been taken Sunday morning. James argued that the dog really belonged to him, but denied taking it. His son, Harvey, also testified that his father had not taken the dog. However, Harry Moore, a nephew, who is now living with James, was called to the stand, and reluctantly admitted that the dog had been taken. James then admitted the theft. Caulk agreed to withdraw the charge if he got his dog back and was paid his expenses. These were promised and James was released. Squire Thompson gave both James and his boy a severe lecture on their commission of perjury, telling them that he could hold them both on the charge.

PICKS UP RUNAWAY

On Tuesday night Martin Romm, 15, who had run away from his home in Philadelphia, was picked up by Officer Cunningham. His father, Frank Romm, came for him Wednesday morning.

Crowded Fire Truck

On Tuesday evening Officer Cunningham arrested Herman J. Biddle, of Kirkwood, for driving in back of a fire engine. Biddle was following the Aetna truck on its way to the fire in Tweed's woods, and at times drove within two or three feet of the back of the engine. The law states that no one shall follow within 500 feet of a fire engine. Biddle was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Thompson, and lectured on his foolhardy and dangerous driving. This is the first arrest made here on the offense, which has become dangerously common.

NEWARK PUPILS WORK ON SAFETY

Making Home Surveys On Safety; Other School Activities

The pupils of the Newark School, in cooperation with the Delaware Safety Council and the Newark Fire Company, are making a survey of their homes from the viewpoint of safety in fire prevention. The purpose of the plan is to enlist the thoughtful cooperation on the part of everyone in order to help keep up the low fire loss which Newark is fortunate in having. The survey deals with knowing where to call in case of fire; storing of inflammable supplies; care of matches; carefulness with the use of gas; poisons; fire arms; elimination of accident hazards around the home which thoughtfulness will help to prevent. The pupils are also seeking the cooperation of parents in appraising the work. Last year the inspection blanks were returned by about 90 per cent of the pupils. This year the goal has been set for 100 per cent.

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. S. Gallaher, vice-president of the Board of Education, literature relative to the Teaching of Safety, together with posters, has been presented to the Newark School for instructional use. The literature deals not only with safety on the highways, but also safety in the home and on the playground—the title of the safety pamphlets is An Appeal to Young America.

Last Friday and Saturday evenings the parties of the Junior and the Senior High Schools were held in the school auditorium. Both parties showed the real Halloween spirit of fun, games, dancing and beautiful, comic and original costumes. The Continental Band, under the direction of Mr. David Chalmers, furnished the music for Friday evening and the American Legion Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Orville Little, furnished the music Saturday evening. Several reels of motion pictures were shown, one The New Castle County Field Meet and Our Gang in the Haunted House.

The judges, Mr. Hauber, Mrs. Strahorn and Mrs. T. D. Smith awarded the following prizes:

Costumes—Prettiest, Dorothy Godwin, first prize, pierrette; Dorothy Barrow, second, as a pirate. Most Comical, Myra Smith, as Jiggs.

Stunts—First prize: First Year Junior High; Mr. Buehler's section presented an old-fashioned entertainment of songs and stories and dances. Ethel Hauber presented a very pretty toe dance.

One of the very pretty features of the party was the grand march, planned for by Miss McKinney. The parties were arranged for by student-teacher committees.

The annual meeting of the Delaware State Educational Association is being held in Milford, November 14 and 15. Plans are being made for all Newark teachers to attend the meeting.

As in former years, the Newark School is again endeavoring to raise funds for its activities through the annual magazine campaign. This is being done in cooperation with Crowell Publishing Company. The magazines are: The American, Mentor, Woman's Home Companion, Colliers and Farm and Fireside.

Newark schools have joined the Junior American Red Cross. There are no stated dues, the child can give any contribution it wishes.

PLANE STOPS ON GOOD WILL TRIP

rant Plane Here On Most Extensive Tour Ever Undertaken

C. E. Rittenhouse, head of the Rittenhouse Motor Company, of Newark, was one of the reception committee to welcome the Durant Good Will Airplane, which arrived at Bellanca Field, Tuesday. The stop at the local airport was one of 200 the plane is making in a 16,000 mile journey, the most extensive air jaunt yet attempted. Among the reception committee was Mayor George Forrest, of Wilmington, who attached his signature to an illuminated scroll, which will commemorate the tour.

The plane, a big red and black Curtiss Robin monoplane, which Durant Motors is using for the tour, carries R. G. McAllister and R. F. Whelan, special representatives for the Durant Motor Company, and is piloted by Lieutenant M. F. Tindall from the Curtiss Flying Service, of Michigan. The ship is an exact duplicate of the St. Louis Robin, which holds the world's endurance flying record of 420 hours.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Rittenhouse was taken up in the plane for a ride, and Lieutenant Tindall circled over Newark, giving "Cy" a birdseye view of his home town.

The nation-wide tour was planned by A. I. Phillips, chairman of the board of Durant Motors, in order to establish intimate personal contact with the scores of new dealers throughout the United States within a period of 60 days.

Agricultural Students For

On Saturday, November 9, there will be a Vocational Agricultural Field Day held at the University of Delaware under the sponsorship of the "Ag" Club of the University of Delaware. In planning this occasion the club has the co-operation of Professor R. W. Heim, State Director of Vocational Education; Professor George L. Shuster, head of the Agronomy Department; Dean C. A. McCue, of the Agricultural College; and other members of the faculty.

All of the students taking vocational agriculture in Delaware high schools, their teachers, and the superintendents of these schools have been invited. Dr. Walter Hulihan, president of the University; Dr. H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Governor C. D. Buck have also been asked to be present. Approximately two hundred and fifty guests are expected.

The program for the day is divided into three parts. The first part will be carried on at the experimental farm where the students will be divided into three groups. These groups will have three different demonstrations to observe respectively. Professor G. L. Schuster is to present an exhibition on corn judging; Professor T. A. There will be several prominent men present and Dean McCue will be the introducing speaker on the program. The third part of the program will be held on Frazer Field, where the group, as guests of the "Ag" Club and through the courtesy of the Athletic Council of the University, will see the Drexel-Delaware football game.

PIERRE DUPONT RED CROSS HEAD

Reelected President Of Delaware Chapter At Annual Luncheon; All Other Officers To Serve Another Term

At the annual luncheon of the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross, held Tuesday at the Du Pont-Biltmore, Pierre S. du Pont was unanimously re-elected president of the chapter. The following were elected vice-presidents: S. D. Townsend, Henry Ridgley, Dr. G. Layton Grier, Miss Emily P. Bissell was re-elected secretary and George Winchester was re-elected treasurer.

In brief remarks to the 200 or more prominent citizens of Delaware who attended the luncheon, Mr. du Pont pointed out that the American Red Cross is a kind of community insurance against calamity that might happen anywhere at anytime.

"A man who gives liberally to the Red Cross," he said, "gives, in a way, selfishly because he is contributing to the organization that at any time might be called upon to give aid to him and his family should a disaster fall upon his community."

He spoke of the great peace time program of the Red Cross, which he said was doing a work that could not be done in any other way.

Doctors, nurses, educators, officials of State and city government, representatives of the various branches of the Red Cross throughout the State and principals of the various schools in the State and social workers, attended the meeting.

The principal speaker was James T. Nicholson, assistant manager of the Eastern Area of the American Red Cross. He spoke of the contribution of the American Red Cross to the community.

Henry P. Scott, chairman of the executive committee of Delaware Chapter, pointed out that more members were needed in the Delaware organization. Last year, he said, every cent collected was spent and an additional $1,000 that had to be contributed.

EXPAND STATE P-T. A. PROGRAM

Local Associations Will Be Aided By Specialists Furnished By Citizens' Associations

Due to the expanded program of the Delaware Citizens Association, new workers are ready to co-operate with the local Parent-Teacher Associations. At the last of the series of October conferences held in Wilmington on Saturday, the following were introduced by Howard T. Ennis, President of the Delaware Parent-Teacher Association: Dr. Allan Hulsizer, Director of the Demonstration School, to be developed jointly by the State Board of Education and the Delaware Citizens Association; Miss Amy Gardner, who will work among adults in Art; Miss Pearl MacDonald, nutrition specialist from the University of Delaware Extension Department, and Mr. John MacFadden, who will direct the musical activities.

The plans as outlined by the State Program Committee offer opportunities to study Delaware History through the Art and Music of the peoples who colonized Delaware—e. g. (1) English handicrafts such as crewelwork and needlepoint embroidery; (2) the works of early Dutch painters and the handicrafts: cross-stitch and Delft pottery and (3) Swedish woodcarving, weaving and embroidery. The music of the three peoples may be studied through their Folk Songs, their musical instruments or their Folk Dances. It is also suggested that book clubs be formed to read about the English, Dutch and Swedes.

The study of Child Development is planned for groups interested in (1) Child Psychology, and (2) Nutrition. This varied and rich program is entirely in accord with the modern theory that "we must act if we are to know" and that the individual is best developed when he is able to select his own activity. Since the P-T. A. meetings can offer only glimpses of the possibilities in such activity programs, classes for intensive study along various lines will be organized by Miss Marguerite H. Burnett, Director of the Bureau of Adult Education, who spoke at both the white and colored conferences on Saturday.

TRAFFIC CASES

Tuesday Mary Poore was arrested by Officer Cunningham for operating a car without an operator's license. She was fined $10 by Magistrate Thompson.

ENGINEER DEAD AFTER WRECK AT IRON HILL

Buckling Freight Car Struck
By Express Causes Bad
Traffic Tie-Up; Express Derailed And Cars Damaged,
But Not Wrecked; No Passengers Seriously Hurt

THREE TRACKS TORN UP

One man was killed and thirteen other persons were injured in a wreck which occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad, at the Iron Hill station, last Thursday afternoon. It was caused by a south-bound express striking a buckling car on a north-bound freight, and resulted in one of the worst tie-ups which ever occurred on this section of the road.

The man killed was George Rollins, of Washington, D. C., the engineer of the locomotive drawing the express. A splinter of wood from one of the wrecked freight cars penetrated his chest, near the heart, causing death before he could be lifted from his cab. None of the other injured, including twelve passengers and a cook on the diner, were seriously injured.

An investigation showed that the wreck was caused by a car buckling in the middle of the freight train, derailing another car and throwing it directly on the track in front of the express. Seven passenger cars, all Pullmans, were damaged, and 5 freight cars were demolished. The express train was derailed at the impact, and stopped, but the freight kept on moving. The wooden freight cars involved in the wreck were shattered and splintered, and one steel gondola was cut in half. Several hundred feet of rail on three of the four lines of track were torn up. It took nearly 24 hours to clear away the wreckage. Trains were run through on the one clear track.

The steel Pullmans were badly damaged, but none were wrecked or turned over, and the passengers suffered nothing more than bruises and shock. Doctors and nurses from Elkton, were on the scene shortly after the wreck and attended the injured. The passengers were then put on a train that had been made up and sent down for the purpose, and taken to Wilmington.

The railroad company investigation showed that the wreck was an unavoidable accident, and the responsibility rested on no one.

It is the envy of all passing school children, who stop and gaze at it with eyes longing for possession.

THE NEW POST OFFICE

NEW POST OFFICE
THIS SATURDAY

Every piece of equipment is brand new. None of the equipment of the old post office will be used in the new building. The architecture is in the simple, stately Colonial style, and the walls of the building are of speical brick with stucco trim in front. The public entrance is on Main street, while there is a covered delivery and loading platform in the rear with a drive entering from Center street.

The main lobby of the building has a tile floor, with a marble trim. There are six windows in the front for each department of the office. An extra clerk will be added to serve the windows. The money order department is enclosed in a steel cage and has a large fire proof safe installed in it. On the west side of the lobby are the rest boxes. There are 504 boxes and drawers of varying sizes. The rent varies from 60 cents to $1.50. The boxes are equipped with key locks, and three keys will be furnished with each box. In the inside of the box is a stoplock which can be locked if a key is lost, and the box can then be opened only by one of the postal clerks.

The lobby is heated with radiators, and there is even a radiator in the vestibule. On one side of the front door is a directory, and the other side a bulletin board. Both have plate glass over them.

The main workroom of the post office is very large, and arranged to produce the most efficient working conditions. Leading from it on the left is a large office for the postmaster. There is another entrance to this office from the lobby. In the postmaster's office is a complete lavatory, and a vault with a large safe in it. Both vault and safe are of the latest burglar proof varieties.

In the basement, directly under the postmaster's office, is the swing room, or recreation room for carriers. Adjacent to it is a room equipped with wash basins and shower baths.

In the front off the basement is a string of offices. One for the assistant postmaster; another for government inspectors; one for use for general clerical work; and one for use of government officials. Each has a wash basin.

The rest of the basement is given over to store rooms and boiler room. There are numerous lavatories and toilets placed in convenient parts of the building.

Many delays and disappointments mark the history of the new building, from 1913, when the government purchased a lot, until the completion of the building. After the contract was awarded to the Richard Gove Company, of Philadelphia, and construction under way, a serious delay threatened when the Gove Company failed and had to repudiate the contract. However, J. L. Oberwager, the government engineer in charge of the construction of the building, jumped into the breach and refused to allow construction to stop. The bonding company was on the grounds with cash in 24 hours, and the force was kept at work until a new contractor could be retained by the bonding company to finish the building. Philip Lange, of Audobon, N. J., was selected to complete the building, and the work has progressed rapidly since then.

The cornerstone of the building was laid on August 31, Postmaster William H. Evans putting the stone in place. United States Representative Robert G. Houston was the guest speaker, and was introduced by Mr. Evans as the one who had been largely responsible for bringing the fine Federal building to Newark. Mr. Houston, then sketched something of the history of the affair, telling some facts which were not generally known.

He told how the site purchased in 1913, at the corner of Delaware and South College avenues, encroached on the University property, and how another site was offered in exchange by the University, which was not acceptable to the government. He said that things were at a standstill when Samuel J. Wright came to the rescue and provided the present site, which was the most logical one that could be secured. He said that in doing this, Mr. Wright had stood considerable personal loss, or, to put it differently, that he had contributed a large sum of money out of his own pocket so that Newark could be provided with a suitable post office site. He stated that the original site had been purchased by the government for $4000.

Mr. Houston then told how the money was appropriated to build this building, and why there was such a delay in having it started. He also explained the marking on the cornerstone, which is inscribed as follows: "A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; James A. Wetmore, Acting Supervising Architect, 1929." Mr. Houston said that the Treasury Department controls all Federal buildings and appropriates the money for their construction, and that they are designed and planned in the Architect's Bureau.

was a year of delay because the first two sets of bids submitted on the building were over the appropriation. After some changes in the plans another set of bids were opened and the Gove Company awarded the contract. At the time the cornerstone was laid, Mr. Oberwager told of the construction of the building and the materials which went into it. He said that the government always planned in anticipation of future needs and that the foundations and general plans of this building allowed for additions to the building as they became necessary. He also said that none but the very finest materials were allowed in the specifications so that the structure would be everlasting. Among other materials specified was bronze weatherstripping for the windows, and brass pipe containing 92 per cent copper for all plumbing.

The new building and its equipment is expected to immediately increase the efficiency of the local postal service, as the business of the local office had long outgrown its former quarters.

NEWARK FEDERAL POST OFFICE BUILDING

The New Post Office

On Saturday, Newark will begin to use a fine new public building, the gift of the United States Treasury Department. Everything is arranged to move the postal business into the new Federal Post Office Building, Friday night, and open service there Saturday morning.

This fine building makes an imposing addition to our main street and assures the community of a greatly increased efficiency in postal service. It is ideally situated in sight of the historic old Academy Building, and its architecture is of the same graceful and stately Colonial type. Its equipment and construction is the most modern that can be had, and as with all permanent government buildings, nothing but the best materials have gone into its building. Every comfort and convenience has been provided, both for the public and the post office staff. Its erection has lifted Newark another considerable notch in civic leadership in rural Delaware.

At the time the cornerstone of the building was laid, Congressman Robert G. Houston told something of the work and disappointments in acquiring a Federal post office building for Newark. Mr. Houston spoke particularly of the late Samuel J. Wright and his generosity in providing a suitable site for the building. Mr. Houston, himself, deserves no small share of the credit in obtaining the appropriation for the erection of the building. He worked hard and long to bring it about.

When construction was started the town of Newark was again fortunate in having an engineer of the calibre and ability of J. L. Oberwager as supervisor of construction. Four hundred days were allowed for the completion of the contract. Mr. Oberwager pushed the job to its finish in less than half that time. When the original contractor failed, and it seemed that construction would be indefinitely delayed, Mr. Oberwager stepped into the breach, held things together, and not a day was lost. He has watched every bit of material, jealously, as it was put into the structure, and he rejected, ruthlessly, anything that was not up to the highest standard in every way.

The Market Debacle

Isaac Newton's Law of Action-Reaction asserted itself again last week and punctured the bubble of overinflation. The bubble burst with the biggest bang in the history of the stock market, and caused one of its quickest and most complete deflations. Had this happened fifteen years ago, the aftermath undoubtedly would have been a general panic, at least a protracted period of business depression. Today, the economic structure of the country, with the Federal Reserve system as a foundation, has too great a fundamental strength to be seriously shaken by a stock market slump, no matter how precipitous, and general business conditions will suffer no extended setback.

Public participation in the past market period has been greater and more wide spread than in any other like period, and personal losses have been large in a like proportion. However, much of this loss is paper loss, as the prosperity was paper prosperity. Of course many marginal accounts were completely wiped out, and many unfortunate persons lost practically everything that they had. Nevertheless, these losses represent an unimportant percentage of the purchasing power of the country, and they will produce no actual effect on general business trends. For the time being there will be a check in business due to the psychology of the situation, but this pessimistic reaction will soon dissipate.

The selling deluge of stocks was an inevitable and sound economic process which was needed to stabilize an unnatural and topheavy condition. It had been predicted by wise heads, who advised a gradual and sane liquidation of overvalued securities. It teaches a great economic lesson, which has been sharply taught many times. It is never taken to heart, however, long enough to be put into use, and the next "Bull" market will find the speculating public flying blindly at the ceiling until it strikes it and tumbles dizzily back to earth again. Right now the public realizes that this is the golden opportunity to buy the best and soundest of stocks at bargain prices, but unfortunately most of it didn't take its profits while they were safe and sure, so it lacks the money to go into the market at the right moment.

Attack On The D. A. R.

A Boston clergyman recently said he considered the Daughters of the American Revolution a menace to the Country. He severely criticized the Country. He severely criticized the efforts which this organization is many years to promote the spirit of patriotism and because it has taken the leadership of many societies which have been endeavoring to counteract the insidious attacks which are being made on American institutions by adherents of communism and radicalism.

As every one knows the Daughters of the American Revolution is an organization composed of the direct descendants of the patriots who were associated with George Washington and his contemporaries in accomplishing the independence of the American colonies. Its membership is representative of many of the oldest and most distinguished families in the United States. It has used its influence, which is not inconsiderable, to promote among Americans love for our flag, respect for our institutions and loyalty to our Government.

In accomplishing its mission it has repeatedly pointed out the fallacy of the propaganda which has been used by alien interests to promote internationalism; to weaken our means of national defense and to incite the American people to aid in the destruction of all that the intelligent citizens of our Country hold dear.

The D. A. R. has incurred the with the D. A. R. and kindred organizations if the question were to be put up to them to vote upon. But the Daughters of the American Revolution suffers attacks, similar to the one recently made by a Boston clergyman, because it has all along been most energetic and active in its patriotic efforts.

It was the claim of the Boston clergyman that the D. A. R. is a distinct menace to the Country because it has not swallowed hook, line and sinker the doctrines of the extreme pacifists who are preaching the elimination of the army and navy. Such an attack is a distinct compliment to the D. A. R. Its members should be proud of the fact that it has been singled out for such abuse and misrepresentation. It goes to prove how necessary it is that the work of the D. A. R. and other patriotic societies have undertaken should be energetically carried on. It also shows how essential such efforts as the D. A. R. has been making are and how important it is that more citizens of the Republic should align themselves with those who are now endeavoring to counteract the influence which the pacifist organizations have attained during the last few years; if they desire to protect our Government and our institutions from alien attacks.—Portland Press Herald, October 16, 1929.

GIVES SCHOOL UNIQUE RELIC

Block Of Wood From Old
White House Truss Presented To Newark
School Library

Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of the Newark Schools, has just obtained from the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Washington, D. C., an interesting souvenir of historical interest in the form of a block of wood made from the timbers of the wood trusses which were removed from the roof of the White House at the time it was remodeled, two years ago. The block will be preserved and kept as a permanent display at the school.

Mr. Brinser gives us the following story of the history of these timbers, and an interesting description of events at the time they were installed in the Executive Mansion:

In a storehouse of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks in Washington, is an ancient wooden roof truss—just old timber until you know its history.

But as soon as Lt. Col. Grant, III, chief of the office, can find a suitable place to house the truss it will come forth proudly from the old lumber pile and be exhibited as one of the nation's historic relics.

The truss is one of those removed from the roof of the White House in the renovation of the mansion now nearing completion. After literally holding the roof over the heads of the presidents of the United States for the last 112 years, these trusses are in excellent condition as far as the wood is concerned, and a half section of one will be preserved, not only for its historical association, but as an example of the remarkable durability of wood. Twenty-six presidents have lived in the White House since the trusses were put in place.

In 1814, after the Battle of Bladensburg, the British soldiers with their flaming torches, came thronging up Pennsylvania avenue and burned the White House, the fire destroying the interior and seriously damaging some of the masonry. President Madison and his famous wife, Dolly, made a dramatic departure from the Executive Mansion, fleeing up Pennsylvania avenue just ahead of the British.

Reconstruction was begun shortly after the fire, the new roof being held in place by sturdy wood trusses. Today these trusses, with their timbers in almost as good condition as when they were cut, 112 years ago, are interesting as examples of early workmanship. The timbers, all-hand sawn, are held together, not only by mortising, but with dowels and heavy wrought iron straps pounded out by hand.

When the old roof was removed it was found that there was practically no deterioration of material in any vital place in the massive main roof timber trusses and only the ends of the timbers forming the trusses over the north portico were damaged by powder post beetles. Builders of a century ago were not familiar with the use of preservatives to lengthen the life of the exposed wood and did not treat the material as would the builders of today.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

THE LOBBY SITUATION

Fort DuPont, Del., October 21, 1929. Mr. Charles B. Jacobs, Jr., Editor, The Newark Post.

Dear Mr. Jacobs:

It seems necessary, at this time, to state briefly the situation being brought about by the so-called Senate investigation of lobbying which is at present being carried on with the customary fire-works of the radical element. Hearst's yellow journal, The Chicago Herald and Examiner, has stated editorially that:

"... Under the Chairmanship of Senator Norris of Nebraska and with the assistance of such progressives as Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Walsh of Montana, the Judiciary Committee is distinguished today for its courage, sincerity and unwavering devotion to the public welfare."

On the other hand, The Chicago Tribune of October 2nd, in a special report from Washington, states:

"... The inquiry (referring to Senate investigation authorized by the Judiciary Committee or any sub-committee thereof instead of by a select committee as originally provided) ... With the investigation in the hands of the radicals the prospect is that the inquiry will bear down hard on the lobbying operations of business groups and lightly on those of the pacifists and radicals."

The prediction has been made by those well informed on political alliances and affiliations which control numerous activities in Washington, that radical-pacifist-religious influences appear to be powerful enough to direct investigation away from anti-American organizations. It is contemplated that a diversion will be created by directing the investigation at business and industrial interests. It would not be unlikely that inquiry will be restricted to such interests, leaving the powerful anti-American forces, their dupes and tools, free to continue with the undermining of our government.

It was predicted, before the investigation started, that the so-called "radical" members of the committee would naturally see to it that the alleged activities of business groups would be investigated first, for political capital which might be made out of matters disclosed. As has happened before, it would be possible to lose sight entirely of the real purpose of the investigation.

It should be kept in mind constantly that powerfully financed organizations are leaving nothing undone to turn public sentiment favorably towards one form or another of public ownership. The trend toward investigation of this and that interest, points to development of greater control over private enterprise; the logical expansion of this control is the goal sought by the radical members of Congress. The ultimate result is Socialism, General business depression in this country, already forecast, is all that is needed to prepare the mass of our people to follow the demagogic leaders who even now are promoting various forms of socialistic operation of private enterprises.

It will be remembered that the investigation was to be placed in the hands of a "select committee," but, at almost the last moment, was turned over to the judiciary committee. Why? From "Avif," Chicago, comes the answer. The radical and pacifist influence is so powerful that nothing will be left to chance. If a select committee handled the investigation it might perchance fall into the hands of exponents of America. As it is, in the hands of Norris, ably seconded by Borah and Walsh, the interests of Moscow will no doubt be safe and American interests will be subjected to condemnation and censure.

Together with American business, the organizations named by the American Legion for investigation should come under the Senatorial frown, namely, The National Council for the Prevention of War; The Federal Council of Churches; The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom; The American Civil Liberties Union; The League of Industrial Democracy; The National Students' Forum; The War Resisters' League; The Young Workers' League; The Young Pioneers; and the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism. In addition, The Fellowship of Reconciliation; The Fellowship of Youth and Peace; The Women's Peace Society, and a number of others whose activities are similar, should be investigated.

Every civic, trade and patriotic group should leave nothing undone to insist upon a thorough, complete, impartial and wholly fair investigation of lobbying and propaganda. If sufficient influence is not exerted to this end, it is inevitable that American business interests will suffer.

Very sincerely yours,
Victor E. Deyereaux,
2nd Lieut., Eng. Reg.,
Secretary-Treasurer.

MASQUERADE PARTY

The members of Mrs. J. Leonard Lewis' Sunday School class of the M. E. Church held its annual Halloween party at the home of Miss Mary Ottey, on Saturday evening, October 26. Mrs. Harry Beers' Sunday School class of the Head of Christiana, joining with them, made quite a frolicsome crowd.

The house was decorated with crepe paper, corn fodder, autumn leaves, and pumpkins in unexpected places. A silent hobgoblin did sentry duty at the foot of the stairs opposite the grandfathers clock. The house was dimly lighted until the guests had arrived and unmasked.

"Babe" Beers from Japan brought a kindergarten child. Spinnards, gypsies, clowns, and farmers mingled together.

The prize for the prettiest costume was awarded to Miss Iona Simon, and the homeliest and the one whose identity could not be guessed, was Wilmer Milburn, who posed as a bum.

The evening was spent in playing games and prizes were awarded according to the stunts.

Refreshments were served on a fourteen foot extension table which was brought into the living room, breaking up the games. The table was decorated with Halloween crepe paper table cloths, napkins, and favors, and lighted with candles. At a very late hour all left for home assuring the hostess of having had a good time.

The guests were as follows: Misses Gertrude Brown, Gladys Brown, Erma Durnall, Sarah Durnall and Margaret Smith, of Newark; Misses Gladys Mischler and Iona Simon of Wilmington; Miss Martha Newman of Malvern, Pa.; Miss Ida Brickenbach of Cherry Hill, Md.; and Mary Ottey; Messrs. 6-0 Victory Over Dover Puts Newark In Command Of Northern Division

By beating Dover, 6 to 0, last Thursday afternoon, the Newark High School football team established itself in the lead for the northern championship of the D. I. A. A. The game was played in Dover, and was hard-fought throughout.

The only score was made in the first quarter, when "Rip" Smith went over with the ball after a hard drive down the field. The try for extra point failed. In the last quarter Dover seriously threatened Newark's victory by advancing the ball 35 yards to Newark's 3-yard line. At this point the Newark line held solid and recovered the ball on downs.

While Newark outclassed Dover in individual playing, the teamwork of the local eleven was still faulty, and this factor prevented a higher score.

Newark will play Middletown, tomorrow, at Middletown.

Mount St. Mary's Plays Un- beatable Football To Run Heavy Score In Middle Periods

Hitting an unbeatable stride in the second and third periods, Mount St. Mary's football team overwhelmed the University of Delaware, on Saturday, 39 to 0. The game was played at Emmitsburg, Maryland. The Marylanders scored 3 touchdowns in each of the first and second periods. There was no scoring in the first and last quarters.

Every type of offensive football was used on Delaware to run up the score, with Captain Eddie Ryscavage and Wolf doing most of the execution, and the Blue and Gold could do little to stem the advances of the opponents' fast backs. The Mt. St. Mary's team worked at a high point of efficiency with sudden changes of pace which had Delaware bewildered.

This week Delaware will play one of the most important games on its schedule, with Swarthmore, here on Frazer Field.

HOW ZIEGLER STOPPED CORNELL SINGLE HANDED
Writing in Colliers Weekly for November 2, under the title "Hero Stuff," John W. Heisman, famed old time football coach, gives a major portion of his article to an exploit of "Gus" Ziegler, when Ziegler was an All-American guard on the University of Pennsylvania eleven. Ziegler is at present mentor of the Delaware eleven.

Mr. Heisman's article is a series of greatest feats of football and his anecdote on "Gus" Ziegler is characterized by the most work in the line that he had ever witnessed. The story is as follows:
"Neither have I ever witnessed mightier work in the line than Gus Ziegler, of Penn., produced against Cornell on Thanksgiving Day, 1906. Gus gave that day—everything he had. Gus stopped Cornell. Penn couldn't score but Gus saw to it that the Big Red Team didn't.

It was one of Cornell's greatest teams and Ziegler's opponent was the giant Thompson, justly celebrated as Big Thompson, an All-American guard. Gus was big enough, but Thompson topped him by fifty pounds.

For more than fifty minutes of battle Cornell had punished Penn, mauling her, smothering her, reduced her. But there had been no score. And now Cornell had the ball on Penn's five-yard line and Penn was crumbling. Exhausted.

The entire Cornell backfield hurled itself into where Thompson should have made a great hole—bang! It piled up on Thompson's back. He hadn't moved an inch. Again Thompson led the assault on Gus. This time it gained a few feet. A third time the avalanche fell on Gus. When the pile was unscrambled, Gus, the last to arise because he was on the bottom, owned a bleeding nose and a cut scalp. The ball was a foot from Penn's goal.

"You boys are doing fine," roared Gus to Cornell. "Come to me again."

Cornell did. Gus and Thompson struck each other so hard that they fought standing, chest to chest. The rest of the two teams were heaped around them. Gus and Thompson couldn't fall. They were waist-deep in football players. But the ball was still a foot away from the line. Cornell had lost it on downs.

The stands were still roaring Gus' name when Bill Hollenbeck punted into the face of a sixty-mile gale. The ball flew high—too high. The wind took it and hurled it back. It went out of bounds on Penn's five-yard line. And then Ziegler and Thompson again.

Twice Thompson with the ball at his back charged Gus. Now both men were showing the gore of battle. Huge Thompson looked puzzled—possibly he was a little dazed. It was hard to believe that his opponent could stand this. Yet Gus was still there, grinning and calling upon Cornell to come to him. Cornell had made two yards.

On the third smash at Ziegler, Penn's center had interfered with Cornell's and Penn was penalized half the distance to the goal. The ball is put on Penn's eighteen-inch line and Cornell is given a first down. And then I beheld what I like to think was the finest defensive play that football could produce.

Three times Ziegler and Thompson clashed and three times Cornell was piled up at her great guard's back. Each time Gus held. Cornell hadn't gained an inch.

"You've got another chance, Cornell," roared Gus. "Give us everything you've got, Cornell. C-o-m-e-o-n, Penn-syl-vaniaaaaaa!"

Every Pennsylvania player rushed at Gus. And every one of them grabbed his hand. Big Bill Hollenbeck hugged him.

"Can you do it again, Gus?" yelled Bill. "Just once more?"

"Till Christmas," replied Gus. Walders, the Cornell fullback, took the ball. Thompson summoned every ounce of his great strength, lowered his head and charged. And Gus met him half-way. There Thompson stopped and fell. And Walders, smashing against the back of the giant, seemed to rise perpendicularly. Up he went. Down he came. And there he stopped.

The timekeeper's gun sounded. The game was over. The ball was just a foot from Penn's goal.

Thompson was the first to grab Gus. And there on the twilight field, with 50,000 men and women gone wild in the stands, Gus Ziegler and Big Thompson stood in a bear hug—patting each other on the back.

The Delaware line-up included: Ryan, Hall, Powell, Jackson, Collins, Weldon, Snowberger, Caulk, Smith, Lee, Ford, Lynam, Murray, Krawach.

The increase in business has necessitated the purchase of a new three-ton Brockway truck, which replaces one of the smaller trucks. This vehicle has already been placed in service, and has attracted a great deal of attention by its attractive color scheme of orange and black. With this truck, the company will now be able to take in additional territory, because its added capacity will enable a larger stock to be carried.

Ogletown

A large number of guests were present at a Halloween party, held at Ogletown School last Thursday evening. Most of the people were dressed in costume, and a jolly good time is reported by all who attended. After the singing, refreshments were served.

The annual Halloween party of the Ogletown Civic Club was held on Saturday evening in the school. Prizes were awarded for the best costume and the winners of games during the evening.

The Mill Creek Fire Company will give a Halloween celebration in the hall tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 p.m.

W. S. Hawthorne had all arrangements made for the opening of a new dance-hall last Saturday evening, and a number of people had gathered for the event. But owing to a serious automobile accident, in which several members of the orchestra were injured, the affair was called off. Hawthorne, however, plans to have a dance in his new hall each Friday night during the winter, to avoid further accidents.

Mrs. and Mrs. Wilmer Hawthorne are guests, on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eastburn and son, Warrenton, Christiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison, Jr., of Sunday dinner-guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, Sr.

Elk Mills

Wesley M. E. Chapel was a scene of activity last Sunday. It was the first day this chapel has seen in 7 years. Services were held morning and afternoon, beginning at 9:30 with an old-time love feast. At 11:00 a baptismal service was held, which time ten children were baptized. The Reverend John H. Boulden, of Elkton, Md., and Rev. George Russell, of Newark, Delaware, assisted in the service. At 11:00 the pastor, Chas. Louhoff, preached a sermon on the 90th Psalm. At 2 p. m., Rev. Louhoff led an old-fashioned class meeting. At 3:00, the Rev. Wm. C. of Chesapeake City, Md., read from Isaiah 6:16, "The Old

The ladies of Christiana M. E. Church, were remarkably successful with their supper last Wednesday evening—the weather was fine, the crowd was large, the food was delicious, as usual, and at the final reckoning it was found that at least two hundred and forty dollars had been cleared, after all expenses had been paid. The various committees for the supper were as follows: Poultry, Mrs. Gregg Lynam and Mrs. William Howell; cashiers, Mrs. R. Earle Dickey; fancy table, Mrs. George W. Davis and Miss Helen King; cake and candy, Mrs. Frank Hawthorne; fish-pond, Mrs. Henry Eastburn; ice cream, Messrs. John Perkins and William Elliott; in charge of supper tables, Mrs. John Perkins, Mrs. William Appleby, Mrs. William Elliott, Mrs. John Rickey and Mrs. Harry Stafford; helpers, Mrs. Howard De Groot, Mrs. Preston W. Spence, Jr., Mrs. H. Vernon Lynam, Mrs. LeRoy Hawthorne, Mrs. Horace Eastburn, Mrs. George Frost, Mrs. John Hanna, and Misses Laura and Grace Perkins.

Mrs. Ethel M. Hill and Mrs. Margaret Thornton, public school teachers, gave an enjoyable and successful masquerade party at the school last Thursday evening. Music for the occasion was furnished by the local school orchestra and the Continental Band of Newark. The Jarmen sisters, of Newark, dressed as George and Martha Washington, danced a graceful old-time minuet, and there was solo dancing by Elsie Perkins, Mildred Hanna and Margaret Lee, as well as comedy skits by Newark talent and by some of the Christiana pupils. After the entertainment refreshments of cake and cider were served, and to round out a happy evening, the Continental band furnished music for dancing. After all bills had been paid, it was found that twelve dollars or more had been cleared, to be used for supplies for the school.

At the Hallowe'en party, given Saturday evening in the Firehouse by the Ladies' Auxiliary, prizes were given for the best costumes—five prizes for grown-ups and five for children. The adults whose costumes drew rewards were the following: Mrs. John Burris, Mrs. Dewey Clayville, Miss McDowell, Mrs. George Butler and Mr. John Burris. The lucky little folks were: Marvin Butler, Junior David, Clarence Elliott, Betty David and Burton Elliott.

On Saturday afternoon, Eleanor Howell, Lois and Rachel Phelps attended a Hallowe'en party for Girl Reserves of this district, at the home of Miss Florence Megginson, near New Castle. The girls, under the chaperonage of Miss Martha Good, of Middletown, and Miss Ruth Kemp, of Dover, Y. W. C. A. officials, met at the old Court House in New Castle, and from there hiked to the Megginson farm on the Wilmington road.

A serious automobile accident occurred Saturday evening on the Stanton road, just outside of Christiana. A car driven by C. Allison Gloyd, of Wilmington, collided with a car driven by Charles Norris, of Stanton. Gloyd's car, which was carrying members of Bob Cummins' orchestra to Ogleton to play for a dance, turned over several times from the force of the collision and finally fell against a concrete headwall by the side of the road. Clark Moore, 20 years old, of Wilmington, who was drummer for the orchestra, had his right hand cut off about six inches above the wrist. He was hurried to the Wilmington General Hospital, where, at the latest account, he was resting comfortably, but was very weak from loss of blood. Willis Guyer, pianist in the orchestra, received cuts about the hips, which may cripple him, but the other members of the orchestra escaped with only slight bruises and lacerations. Mrs. Norris, who was riding with her husband, was also taken to the hospital and treated for minor injuries. The crash caused by the two cars coming together was heard for a long distance, and a large crowd gathered immediately.

A less serious accident occurred here in the village, Wednesday morning, when a car driven at a high rate of speed by Isador Sarapulski, 412 S. Franklin street, Wilmington, struck the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Mildred E. Fisher, of Stanton, just as she was turning into the gate at Ayars Bros. store. Both cars were more or less damaged, but the man was quite evidently at fault. He was arrested by County Road Officer Wilbur Bush, Jr., and taken before a magistrate at New Castle, where he was fined fifteen dollars and costs for reckless driving.

The Christiana Improvement Association will have its annual Hallowe'en party in the schoolhouse this Saturday evening, November 2. Prizes will be given for the best costumes, refreshments will be served and quite an elaborate program is being prepared by the committee, which has the arrangements in charge.

The ladies of Salem M. E. Church will serve a poultry and oyster supper in the church next Wednesday evening, November 6.

Rev. and Mrs. Samuel L. Irvine moved, on Tuesday, from the White Clay Creek Manse to the Vernon Apartments, 1006 Jefferson street, Wilmington. On Thursday of this week they will hold a sale of various household goods at the Manse. The Rev. Mr. Irvine will continue as pastor of the Christiana Presbyterian Church, and will preach at the White Clay Creek Church until they find another pastor.

Mr. John Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moore, of this place, and Miss Dorothy Price, of Hillcrest, were married Tuesday evening of this week. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Hanson, pastor of the New Castle Baptist Church, and the bridal couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bush, Jr., cousins of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are for the present staying with the Moore family, here in Christiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Leasure and family, of Glasgow, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olan J. Cleaver.

Miss Nellie Appleby was the weekend guest of her sister, Mrs. George W. Davis, at her home on "the Hill." Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Phelps spent last Friday afternoon in Philadelphia on a business trip.

Mrs. James Appleby had as guests, on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Henderer and Mrs. Smith Rettew, all of Wilmington. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Appleby also entertained Rev. and Mrs. Clarence M. Prouse and daughters, Eunice and Doris, of Chalfont, Pa.

Miss Lois Phelps attended a Hallowe'en party, last Friday evening, at the home of one of her classmates, Clifton Sommermeyer, near Glasgow.

Miss Frances Louth and Mr. Robert Sapp attended a party given Mr. Jas. Campbell, of Stanton, at his home, last Saturday evening, in honor of his twenty-first birthday. Miss Louth and Mr. Sapp also spent Sunday afternoon as guests of Miss Elizabeth Campbell, of Stanton.

Mr. John W. Moore has been confined to his home by illness the past few days.

Master Ellwood Moody, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moody, is ill at the home of his parents.

The condition of Mr. Charles Burge, who has been ill for a long time, has taken a turn for the worse, and he is once more confined to his bed, unable to sit up at all.
