State's Firemen Storm New Castle

Annual Convention in River Town Today Draws Hundreds of Visitors; Newark There in Force

Today is "Firemen's Day" in Delaware—particularly in New Castle, where the annual convention of the Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Association is in progress.

Newark firemen with one of their big pumpers left shortly before noon to take part in the big parade which is a feature of the day's events. The familiar red shirts and blue trousers of the local company made their first formal appearance of the current summer. Chief Elmer Ellison was in charge of the group.

2,500 Firemen Expected

While about 2,500 firemen are expected, all of whom will be in line of march, accompanied by approximately twenty-five bands, and one or more pieces of apparatus from each company, the number of visitors is expected to go well over 10,000. Among these will be the wives of the firemen and their families, and thousands of others interested in the volunteers.

Ford Roadster a Prize

Perhaps the most coveted prize of all will be a fully-equipped Ford Roadster for the chief of the winner in the state popularity fire company contest, being conducted by the Good Will Fire Company. While not all the returns are in yet, there is much speculation as to which company will be the fortunate one. Announcement of the winner will be made some time during the evening.

While the judges are making their decision, preparatory to awarding the prizes the principal address of the day will be delivered by Professor Henry E. Snively, superintendent of the New Castle Public Schools. This will be at 4:30 o'clock.

Included in the night festivities, which will commence at 7 o'clock and continue until midnight, will be a band concert, dancing, and vaudeville entertainment furnished through M. B. Cooke, of Wilmington.

The Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Association was organized at Milford, Del., February 24, 1921, with nine companies having representatives. The second Tuesday of July was selected as the date for conventions. Laurel had the first in that year, followed successively by Dover, Middletown, Lewes, Smyrna, and now New Castle, which entered the association a year after it was formed. At the present time there are thirty-one volunteer companies in the organization. Besides Mr. Maull, who is president, the other officers are: Harry P. Jones, of Smyrna, vice-president; J. G. Guyer, Richardson Park, treasurer, and Sam H. Carson, Dover, secretary. Those on the executive committee are Major Jesse A. McKay, New Castle; Harry Collins, Smyrna, and N. M. Conway, Seaford.

Officers of the Host Company

Officers of the Good Will Company of New Castle are John M. Foster, president; William Peden, vice-president; L. F. Reynolds, secretary; Charles J. Dougherty, treasurer. The trustees are John M. Foster, William Lawler, and Francis J. Reynolds. The chief is James V. Campbell; assistant chief, William Peden; second assistant chief, William Stevenson; engineer, John P. Leonard.

Charles J. Dougherty is in charge of the convention committee and is assisted by John P. Leonard, John Murphy, L. F. Reynolds, and John J. McDevitt.

BIG LODGE MEETING

Detailed plans for the reception of national officers of the Knights of the Golden Eagle by the local chapter of that order are progressing, it was reported yesterday. The occasion will be an open meeting on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, standard time, in the Ivy Castle headquarters here. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

The following Newark boys are at Camp Caesar Rodney, the Boy Scout Camp, near North East: James Crooks, Jack Shaw, Herman Mossick, Ellis Rittenhouse and William Donnell.

Newark Purchases New Ambulance; May Be Exhibited At Carnival

Committee Decides On Studebaker At Meeting Last Night; Cash and Pledges Stand At $2600

A Studebaker custom built ambulance, fully equipped, was purchased for Newark last night at a special meeting of the Ambulance Committee, headed by John R. Fulton. The deal was consummated with T. C. McMullen and Son, Studebaker dealers, Perryville, Maryland, the price being $3668.65.

Mr. Fulton this morning stated that delivery would be made as soon as possible, probably in time for the last few nights of the Firemen's carnival here. If it arrives in time, the machine will be a feature of the big parade scheduled for Thursday, August 5th.

Need Over $800

As the situation stands now, the committee has collected in cash and pledges about $2600, which with a donation by the Studebaker company, will bring the deficit around $800. Efforts to raise the balance of the money due will be redoubled.

According to the plans outlined by the committee, the firemen will house and care for the new machine, maintain repairs and fuel and provide drivers, day and night.

Several bids were considered before the committee made their choice last night. Those who met the representatives of the various companies were J. R. Fulton, G. W. Rhodes, Warren A. Singles, D. A. McClintock, Norris N. Wright and H. Warner McNeal.

Current Topics Test Won By Local Girl

Miss Anne Ritz Best Among Summer School Students Who Attended Hadden Lecture

The three hundred or more students and townspeople who gathered in Wolf Hall Thursday evening to hear Briton Hadden, co-editor of "Time", were treated to an unusual surprise.

Instead of a formal talk, Mr. Hadden asked a selected list of questions covering the field of current events, art, literature, the science and history. The audience received answer blanks with which they recorded a test of their own current knowledge.

The result was an interesting evening, enlivened at all times by considerable merriment.

Wins First Prize

Miss Anne Ritz, of Newark, with an average of 53 per cent was awarded the $25 prize following compilation of the answers handed in. Five other students, handing in the best group of answers were given subscriptions to the news-magazine by Dr. Joseph H. Odell, director of the Service Citizens.

Those who were awarded subscriptions were: Harriet Marvel Wilson, Newark, 52 per cent; Marion P. Pixley, Newark, 52 per cent; Ruth A. Haddock, North East, Md., 33 per cent; Annie G. Fredd, 912 Shallcross avenue, Wilmington, 30 per cent; Asa J. Smith, Georgetown, 27 per cent.

Guns Blaze Away On Cecil Roads

One Virginian Dead, Another Dying Following Sudden War Between Friends; Say Woman Is Cause

The hot tempers of Virginia mountaineers overrode personal friendship on a Cecil county road Sunday evening. A woman was slapped. Hot words were spoken and drawn pistols flashed.

As a result, William Dalton, recently come north from Virginia, a forty-year-old farmer, lies dead. His opponent in the duel, Price Wade, 30, also a Virginian, is in the Union Hospital, Elkton, with little chance for recovery.

Witnesses Jailed

Six men who witnessed the shooting have been arrested and are being held in the Elkton jail. They are A. B. Underwood and his brothers, William, Henry and Erma, and Thomas Burnett and Webb Sutherland.

State's Attorney Joshua Clayton and Coroner Howard Green questioned Wade in the hospital and the latter is alleged to have declared he and Dalton were close personal friends but he suspected his wife and Dalton were getting too friendly; that he allowed his temper to get the better of him and slapped his wife in the face.

This statement is said to have corroborated the statements made by the prisoners, who said Dalton was riding in the car of the Underwood brothers which was stopped in front of the road house conducted by Mrs. Guthrie. Mrs. Wade, they declared, came out to speak to Dalton. Wade then appeared and ordered his wife into the house and when she refused he slapped her in the face.

Guns Drawn

Dalton instantly leaped from the automobile with a drawn revolver, it was said, but was met by Wade who also had drawn a pistol and was apparently ready for action. The next moment both men fired, the men stated.

Dalton fell to the ground, but managed to drag himself into the car and was driven down the road, where he expired in a few minutes. The bullet struck him near the heart.

His body was turned over to Undertaker Tyson, who had an autopsy made.

Dalton was 40 years old and came to Cecil county from Virginia about two years ago. He is survived by his wife and three small children.

Wade is 30 years old, and also came from Virginia about the same time that Dalton located on the farm near Oakwood. Mrs. Guthrie, Wade's mother-in-law, is from the same state.

Dairymen Spurn Hauling Charges

New Offer of 23 Cents per 100 Pounds Tickles Fancy Of Farmers In Meeting Here Monday

More than seventy-five farmers of northern New Castle County attended the meeting of the Newark local of the Interstate Milk Producers' Association. The meeting was held Monday night, July 12, in Wolf Hall. The meeting was called and presided over by Mr. H. Wallace Cook of Newark, president of the local association. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possibility of lowering the truck charges for hauling milk from Newark to Wilmington. A committee composed of C. E. Guthrie of Newark, J. Leslie Ford of Cooch's Bridge and Sam Murray of Stanton, was appointed some weeks ago to investigate the matter. The committee had conferred with Mr. W. L. Ricards, manager of the Clover Dairies of Wilmington, and reported back that they had made no progress in lowering the truck charges. Mr. Ricards was present at the meeting and stated that the 28c per 100 pounds charge which they were making was only enough to cover the actual cost of running the trucks. The committee reported that they had secured an option on a truck for hauling the milk at a charge of 23c per hundred. Mr. Ricards stated that as long as the milk came to the Clover Dairy that it would be necessary to transport it in Clover Dairy trucks. President Cook stated that a truck line had been organized to transport milk from the vicinity of Newark to Philadelphia. Mr. Cook stated that it is likely that many farmers of the Newark vicinity will stop shipping milk to the Clover Dairy and ship direct to Supplee-Willis-Jones Co. of Philadelphia through the medium of the new route. This is the only alternative that the farmers have, according to the committee, to evade what they consider is an excessive charge to Wilmington.

Mr. J. R. Fraim, manager of the Fraim Dairies of Wilmington, was present. The Interstate Milk Producers' Association of Philadelphia was represented by Mr. H. D. Allebach and Mr. F. M. Twining. Both Mr. Allebach and Mr. Twining addressed the meeting. A motion was carried that a meeting of the Association would be held the first Monday of each month during the remainder of the year. The next meeting will be held Monday, August 2, in Wolf Hall at Newark.

DIES FROM HEART ATTACK

Hockessin Youth Sticks To Job In Mill Despite Illness

John Taylor Malin, 18 years old, of Hockessin, and employed at the G. F. Helme snuff mills at Yorklyn as a spare hand "feeding" other employees with snuff boxes, was seized Monday with a heart attack and fell into a transveyor belt. The belt was stopped in a few minutes and Malin's body taken off.

Dr. Hugh S. Gifford, of Kennett Square, Pa., was summoned and pronounced death due to heart trouble. Deputy Coroner Hiral took charge of the body. An examination showed that Malin's hand had been injured but this did not have anything to do with death.

Malin, who was a son of Jobe F. Malin, a prosperous farmer of Hockessin, had been a sufferer from heart trouble for some time. He complained repeatedly that he felt ill, but stuck to his task in the packing room.

The funeral will take place from the home of his parents at Hockessin Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

County Agent Discussing Business Survey Through Northern County Farms

The bulletin entitled "Farming for Profit in the Middletown Area" is off the press and was mailed to the farmers of New Castle County. Approximately 1200 copies of the bulletin were distributed. Copies of this bulletin are available upon request.

The tables compiled from the farm business survey of Northern New Castle county are complete. The data are ready for the writing of the bulletin. The tables compiled fall under three major headings, namely, Type of Farming, Volume of Business, Quality of Business and Diversity of Business.

Type of Farming

The analysis of the 92 farm records taken in this area show that those farms that derived the major portion of their total receipts from intensive types of enterprises, on the average, made the larger labor incomes. The intensive types of enterprises referred to are, white potatoes, tomatoes, sugar corn, vegetables and truck crops, fruits, dairy products, and poultry products. An illustration will clarify this point. The average percentage of total farm receipts derived from the intensive types of enterprises for the group of farms having from 50 to 75 acres was 73 per cent. There were 15 farms in this group which derived less than 73 per cent of their total receipts from the intensive types of enterprises. The average labor income of these farms was $518. There were 14 farms in this group which derived more than 73 per cent of their total receipts from the intensive types of enterprises. The average labor income of these farms was $1369.

It is a recognized fact that for economic livestock production it is necessary to grow a large portion of the feed on the farm. It is, therefore, necessary to grow a certain acreage of the extensive types of crops, namely, corn, wheat, oats, and hay, for the purpose of feed for livestock. It is also necessary to grow a certain acreage of these extensive crops for the purpose of the use of land, a crop rotation and to make possible the most efficient use of labor. However, this survey has shown that in Northern New Castle County there is little justification for the producing of such crops as corn, wheat, oats, and hay as a cash crop other than for the three reasons mentioned, namely, use of land, a crop rotation and the most efficient use of labor. Stating this fact in a more clear manner, those farmers in northern New Castle county who produced the larger net financial returns produced as large a volume of the intensive products as the available labor and capital would permit, and then devoted the remainder of the farm to the more extensive crops. Unquestionably, as a cash enterprise, there is a wider margin of profit in the production of the intensive types of enterprises in this area than there is in the extensive crops.

Volume of Business

Those farms that produced the larger labor incomes had a larger volume of business. For example, there were 17 farms having a total farm receipts of less than $2000. These farms returned an average labor income of $285. Conversely, there were 18 farms that had over $5,000 total farm receipts. These farms returned an average labor income of $2,226.

Those farms which made the more efficient use of labor made the better net financial returns. For example, there were 17 farms which had less than $1000 receipts per man. These farms returned an average labor income of $568. Conversely, there were 24 farms which produced over $2000 receipts per man. These farms returned an average labor income of $1990.

White potatoes, dairy products, and poultry products comprised the three major cash enterprises in this area. The average potato receipts per acre were $119; the average dairy receipts per cow were $118, and the average egg receipts per hen were $2.13. Twenty-four farms were below the average of the area in each of these three factors. The average labor income of these farms was $60. Ten farms were above the average of the area in all three of these factors. The average labor income of these farms was $2180.

Diversity of Business

The analyses of these records also showed that the financial returns from the different farms were in proportion to the number of sources of income. Sources of income referred to are, dairy products, poultry products, apples and peaches, truck crops and small fruits, etc. Twelve farms had only one source of income amounting to more than $200. These farms had an average labor income of $28. However, four farms had seven sources of income amounting to more than $200. These farms returned an average labor income of $2774.

One of the pertinent facts which has come out of the farm business surveys in both the Middletown area and in northern New Castle county, is that the poor type of pastures is a major contributing factor towards the high cost of producing milk. This fact has prompted conducting a series of sweet clover pasture demonstrations. The demonstration on the farm of J. D. Reynolds of Middletown should attract the attention of every dairyman in the county. There are 60 acres in the field which Mr. Reynolds has for pasture this year. Last year when seeded Mr. Reynolds used on half of the field the old grass mixture, namely, alsike clover, red clover and timothy. The other half of the field was seeded with the old grass mixture plus sweet clover. At the present time the half of the field which was seeded with the old mixture is practically bare. The half of the field which received the seeding of sweet clover in addition to the old grass mixture has a stand of sweet clover the density of which would be impossible to be estimated by one not familiar with the growing habits of the crop. Mr. Reynolds has about 30 cows on this pasture, which amounts to about one cow per acre. It would indeed be conservative to estimate that this pasture would carry at least three cows to the acre. The cows are receiving only a small amount of concentrates and are producing a splendid flow of milk and are in fine condition. It is a regrettable fact that the road is in such condition that it is impractical to hold a demonstration meeting on Mr. Reynolds' farm this season.

The County Agent wishes to reiterate that it is only a question of a few years until sweet clover will have largely replaced in New Castle county the old rotation pasture of alsike clover, red clover and timothy.

COCHRAN NOW IMPROVING

He is expected to be able to return to his home in a few days. The others in the car sustained slight injuries.

Reasons Why You Should Buy Your Coal Now

1. We have coal in stock.
2. You will get quick delivery.
3. You will get the benefit of low prices.
4. Your coal will come in good order, on dry streets, instead of in the snow and slush of mid-winter.
5. You will be sure to get the size and quality of coal you want, when you want it.
6. You will have no need to envy the man next door, who has already laid in his supply.
7. If everyone waits until mid-winter to order coal, the coal dealer will be weeks behind in his deliveries.
8. The railroads may lack facilities in autumn and winter to ship all the coal needed, unless a large part of the supply is ordered in advance.
9. "Better safe than sorry" applies most aptly to the planned buying of coal in advance of need.
10. A ton of coal in your bin is worth two in the coal yard.

Find Jap Beetles In Delaware City Lawn

Will Not Force Quarantine Yet, Says Director Cranston; New Rulings Announced

W. E. Cranston, state administrator of the Japanese Beetle Quarantine announced the finding of five of the Japanese beetles on the property of Dr. Walter W. Ellis, in Delaware City, Friday, would not cause the placing of a quarantine on Red Lion hundred at this time.

Mr. Cranston said that a thorough search made by the scouts in Delaware City failed to reveal any additional beetles and it would be a hardship to place an embargo on the shipment of farm produce from that hundred because of the finding of a few beetles in one spot.

New Rules

The Department of Agriculture has announced an amendment to the Japanese beetle quarantine which affects New Castle county. The amendment permits the interstate shipment, without inspection or certification, of hay or straw when used for packing of other than fruits and vegetables. The amendment becomes effective immediately.

Under regulations as originally issued by the department, the interstate movement of hay or straw from points in the regulated districts was prohibited during the period, June 15 to October 15, inclusive. This restriction has caused a serious situation in Philadelphia, according to the department. Hay and straw are used to a great extent in packing articles of merchandise. "The Federal Horticultural Board feels that hay and straw used for packing articles other than fruits and vegetables constitutes practically no menace in the spread of the beetle," it was stated.

The order against the shipment of hay and straw for other than packing purposes is still prohibited under the department regulations, it was stated.

Henlopen Light To Stand Again

Word reaches us that old Henlopen Light may stand again; that her white body now half buried in the sand will be pieced together and erected at Lewes.

It is good news to hear. If the project as outlined by the Lewes Chamber of Commerce is completed, the State owes them a debt of gratitude. The old light fell several months ago. The hearts of many people were wrenched by the fall but there is little doubt that others breathed sighs of relief. The fight to preserve the old beacon met many obstacles but it was a glorious fight nevertheless. Tired by the apathy of men, the sea finally claimed her.

We do not presume to dictate to the men of Lewes. It was, after all, their lighthouse and reconstruction is in good hands. But let there be nothing done to lower Henlopen's dignity. Let there be no glaring signs on her walls, no tea house at her base. Let it be a simple, unadorned monument to those who have lived by the sea, to whom the spirit of the old Light is still a living force.

Boys' And Girls' Club Members Plan Big Exhibit At Kent-Sussex Fair

One Group To Camp At Harrington During Week's Stay, Says Leader

The 4-H Club members of New Castle county are expecting to exhibit many articles at the Kent-Sussex Fair at Harrington this year. These articles will be in the form of poultry, corn, potatoes, in the case of the boys' demonstrations, and sewing from the girls of the county. This announcement was made by County Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., of Newark, early this week.

About the same number of prizes and other awards as in former years is again offered the club members who compete at this fair. The projects all come under cooking, canning and basketry work for the girls, and dairy, pig, poultry, corn, potatoes and tomatoes for the boys. This means that approximately $850 in prize money has been established by the Fair Association to be competed for by boys and girls of the State. Of this amount about $140 is for the sewing and canning exhibits of the girls club work in the state, and the remainder is awaiting the lucky boy or girl exhibitor in the livestock and crop classes.

In talking of the approaching fair,

Mr. Willim said, "This is the only fair held in the State and the only opportunity most of the club members will have of putting their things in competition against other members doing the same thing in different parts of the State. I hope that every club member who has anything worth showing will let me know and I will take care of their entry, because I want the rest of the club members in the State to know that New Castle county club members are doing good work also."

Passes for the fair will be given to each club member that exhibits at Harrington. These passes are given by the Kent-Sussex Fair Association to the young exhibitors.

In one case the Club Agent has a club of boys who not only exhibit at the fair but also camp there for the week with their local leader. This is the North Star potato club of near Hockessin, and the local leader is Mr. Paul Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell believes it is a good opportunity for club members to see the exhibits at a fair as well as having a week's camping vacation.

BELIEVE GYPSIES ARE FROM INDIA

New Information Uncovered
Showing Traces of Their Language Origin

The scientific researches made in the German prisoners' camps during the war have led to numerous amazing results. Best known is the "museum of voices," the collection of records of innumerable languages, in which men of all countries gave examples of their native idioms and dialects. One of the most interesting discoveries made refers to the gypsies and throws light on the origin of this mysterious nomad people.

The gypsies, as it hinted in their name, were believed to be of Egyptian origin. Their leaders, when they first came to Europe in the 15th century, called themselves kings and dukes of Little Egypt. Now the linguistic researches have proved that they really originated in India.

Among the Roumanian and Russian prisoners and those from the Balkans there was a sufficient number of gypsies to enable the German scientists to study their language, notwithstanding their efforts to guard their mysterious genesis. So it was possible to draw up a long list of words which were common to gypsies from different countries and which all correspond to Sanscrit words.

Thus the gypsy says "kast" for timber, while the old Indian word is "kastha." The respective words for coal are "angar" and "angara," and the denominations for numerous other things are just as similar.

While thus the origin of the gypsies was scientifically fixed, it was also possible, by a study of their proverbs, poems, and legends, to show why they have become the prototype of the "bohemian."

They have an inborn aversion to sedate home life and repay the contempt of orderly people by despising the "bourgeois." Their vocabulary for representatives of the law is rich and not without irony. For example, the burgomaster is called "fat gentleman" or "fat belly."

Like the "bohemian," the gypsies are artists, and include musicians who play every tune without being able to read a single note. Music is one of the few things in life to which they attach importance, for their mode of living prevents them from taking up any work or profession.

The philosophy of the gypsies is best summed up in the following proverb: "Only three things make life work living: to fiddle, to smoke, and to sleep."—EX.

"Architecture is frozen music."

"Whenever the people are well informed they can be trusted with their own government."

"No man can live happily who regards himself alone, who turns everything to his own advantage."

"Newspapers always excite curiosity. No one ever lays one down without a feeling of disappointment."

"Education has no more serious responsibility than making adequate provision for enjoyment of recreative leisure."

Ducks

(From "Time")

In Euclid Village, O., one Joseph Koman, 71, and one Frank Rupor, 68, shared the chores on a farm. Both had spent their strength in the perpetual lassitude of old age they pottered and dug and weeded. Sometimes one did more than the other, and then little fights ensued in which the old man who had been for that day the most energetic beated his friend for letting him spend the little energy that life had left to him. One day last week Koman went out to feed the ducks. Rupor followed him querulously, complained that he wasted food, showed favoritism to the handsomer ducks. High words—rascal, duck-dodger, miser—followed. Rupor struck with a spade, Koman fell down dead. The policeman who came for Rupor found him asleep.

Who Won the War?

(From "Time")

At Melbourne, Australia, cinema censors grew wrathful at a preliminary showing of The Big Parade.

As unending motor truck lines of U. S. cinema-soldier-actors flickered on the screen, it became self-evident that, should the picture be released, many an Australian movie-goer might forget that less than 1/10th of the soldiers killed during the World War were U. S. citizens.

The Australian censors, long of memory, refused to pass the film, declared it "replete with excessive and offensive U. S. propaganda."

At London, editors upheld the Australian view with Yank-seering diatribes. In Allied countries The Big Parade (a tale of the A. E. F., not a drama of the War entire) was widely flayed by local patriots as one more ill-bred, ill-timed suggestion that: "The U. S. won the War!"

They All Advertise!

(From Williamston, Mich., Enterprise)
A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact. Yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

A rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to show. But none the less most roosters have enough sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beasts, has a persistent way of letting folks know he's around by his persistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz. Bulls bellow and cows moo. The watchdogs bark, the ganders quack, And doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squawks. Pigs squeal and robins sing. And even serpents know enough To hiss before they sting.

But man, the greatest masterpiece That nature could devise, Will often stop and hesitate Before he'll advertise.

—Ellis Hayes.

ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE

NOT LIKE OTHER CHILDREN

I was sitting on a bench on the beach watching the Little One at her play. She was piling the sand high over her brown legs, then delightedly thrusting them forth again. She was making good use of her few seashore days. There were two baths each day in the ocean sunbaths without number; tunnels to dig, forts to build. The world was to her a wonderfully interesting place.

As I watched her keen enjoyment of simple things, a group of three, evidently a grandmother, her daughter, and her grandson approached us.

As they talked, disconnectedly, of the miserable weather, the poor accommodations, and the social stagnation of the place, they let me know also what a serious and delicate undertaking the training of Brandon was. He was not like other children.

He had been most tenderly and constantly cared for. They studied his every mood and anticipated, when possible, his every wish. The mother now carried a cushion, which she soon placed on the shady side of the bench.

Brandon was requested to seat himself upon it. This he scorned to do. The spirit of some ancestral freeman must have bidden him to stand, he did so with such assurance. Mamma groaned her failure. Grandmamma recollected that Brandon was as good as his mother was at his age. Brandon was uplifted, and mother quieted for a few seconds. Mamma then changed her tactics. She would dig a tunnel for Brandon, and he would then sit upon the cushion. She proceeded with her part of the contract; pleading for his interest. He condescended to squat to inspect it. Thereupon, grandmamma begged him to rise, telling him that squatting was much too tiring. The man of six heeded not. Mamma echoed the command, twice, thrice, half a dozen times. Brandon apparently heeded not voice. She threatened, Grandmamma expostulated. "I'm sure he doesn't hear you," she said.

"Is he deaf?" asked the mother, angrily.

"Of course not; but you know that I always speak to your father half a dozen times before he answers me. (I could believe that he thereby saved five answers). You don't always answer me yourself, Ludie!"

Brandon looked appreciatively at his grandmother, then again at the tunnel, and continued to squat. His mother was dissatisfied with the results.

"I like obedience, mamma."

"Yes, so do I; but wait until the child gets some age on him. A child of six doesn't understand what you say to him. You expect him to be a demi-god."

The small young man was becoming restless. He began to cast longing eyes toward the ocean. He demanded to go in bathing. It was not to be thought of, chorused his trainers. He would catch his death of cold; he wasn't strong, like other children. Brandon fretted, and stormed, and raged. It was time to move. "It was a pity," they said, "that he was not strong enough, but had he not sneezed the night before?" No doubt the ocean was more attractive to him than barrels of chocolates and sodas; but they had tested the chocolates and sodas and found them quite safe. So mamma decided upon the board-walk and its charms to divert Brandon's mind.

They were gone. They had killed 15 minutes of time. The Little One turned to me with an old look on her face. "What makes them all so tired, mother?" she asked.

Newark Golfers Lose To DuPont Club Team

Local Contingent Offers Stiff Competition to City Men in Saturday's Play

Thirty-six members of the Newark Country Club formed into a team, lost a close match to the du Pont Country Club Saturday afternoon in a sweltering 18 hole round on the Wilmington links. The score was 55-42.

The two clubs battled it out in a spirited manner for the victory, and at no point did the margin of points between them assure a walkaway. The Nassau system of scoring, one point for the first nine holes, one point for the last nine holes, and one point for the match, was used. The showing made by the Newarkers was very gratifying to the match committee.

Every courtesy was extended the visitors by the Wilmington men during the day. Matches were played off in foursomes. Good sportsmanship and friendly interest characterized the entire play. Newarkers were quick to thank their hosts for the splendid outing.

The competitors were paired off as nearly as possible to their handicaps. Norris N. Wright, Ralph Haney, and "Eddie" Ginther, pro at the local course, were the only members of the home team to sweep their matches.

Several golfers whose points were expected to boost the total for Newark, failed to get on their games and lost their matches. The rank and file of high-handicap men appeared to hold up their end of the fight handsily. The complete scores:

BREAKS ANKLE IN FALL

Benjamin L. Dickey, a member of the County Board of Assessment, is confined to his home at Stanton with a fractured ankle. While attempting to repair the roof of his home about a week ago, Mr. Dickey started to slip and to save himself he jumped and landed on his left ankle, which twisted under him. He has been confined to his home, with the exception of a short time when he was at the Delaware Hospital to have an X-ray photograph taken to determine the extent of his injury.

Just about a year ago Mr. Dickey suffered another injury while swimming in White Clay Creek. Mr. Dickey dived into the creek and severely injured his head. The creek was more shallow at the point of his dive than he believed it to be.

Profits in Low Spots

Farmers who have marshy places on their land that they contemplate draining should first consider the possibilities of these low spots as places for producing muskrats, growing fish, or attracting waterfowl. The Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture has information on this subject and will be glad to advise interested persons about the possibilities of profit in the increase of wild life.

Fight Late Blight Early

When cool, moist weather occurs in July and August, late blight of potatoes often causes great losses, particularly in the Northern States. The disease spreads very rapidly in favorable weather, killing the plants in a few days. Late blight can be controlled by thoroughly spraying the plants with 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture, beginning when the disease is first seen. Repeat the spraying every 10 to 14 days in dry weather and every 7 to 10 days in moist weather.

Hints for Hot Hogs

A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can, but if the shady place he finds is also hot he does not seem to realize it, and will stay there and die from overheating. For this reason it is best to close any buildings that are not cool, forcing the hogs to get shade elsewhere. The natural shade from trees is preferable to any other. If trees are not available, a good artificial shade should be made by setting posts and building a cheap framework about 4 feet from the ground, covering it with brush, hay, or straw. A shade of this kind is better than one made of boards or sheet iron. If dust accumulates the covering should be made wet by watering with a hose or bucket. This will serve the double purpose of cooling the air and settling the dust.

Good Feed—Extra Eggs

While hens will live and even keep in fair health on poor rations, well-balanced, palatable feeds are essential to good egg production, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The additional cost of a good ration compared with a poor one is repaid many times by the extra eggs obtained. As a rule, the simplest feed mixtures composed of home-grown grains and their by-products, supplemented by sweet or sour milk or some animal feed rich in protein, such as meat scrap, will prove most profitable and will produce eggs at the lowest cost. All changes in the feed should be made gradually, as sudden changes may decrease egg production materially.

"Inside" Information

"Carrots will make you beautiful" is indirectly true, because carrots are an excellent source of mineral matter which is used in regulating body processes and building tissues. They are especially rich in calcium and a good source of at least three vitamins.

Have you ever used horseradish in sauce for beets? Try a little next time you serve this vegetable. A bit of ginger also combines well with beets in vinegar.

One of the easiest ways of preparing eggplant is to bake it in lengthwise halves with stripes of bacon laid over the top. Gash the flesh so that the flavor will be well distributed.

There is no basis for the widespread notion that fish is particularly valuable as a brain food.

Chipped places on the edges of tumblers and other glass articles can be made smooth by rubbing down with fine emery paper, or with fine sandpaper if the emery is not available. To avoid breathing the glass dust, one should tie a dampened cloth over the nose and mouth.

BIG SUM PAID BY STATE FARMERS

Interest On Loans in 1921
Amount to $493,000, Says
Economic Bureau

Interest paid by farmers of Delaware on loans in 1921 amounted to $493,000, according to figures given by the National Bureau of Economic Research, New York, in its latest publication, "Income in the Various States, Its Sources and Distribution, 1919, 1920 and 1921."

Farmers of the Middle West depend more on borrowed capital than those of any other section of the country, the bureau has found.

Only one state and the District of Columbia paid less interest in 1921 on farm loans than Delaware. Rhode Island paid $47,000 and the District of Columbia paid $155,000.

New Jersey paid $1,570,000, Maryland paid $1,117,000, and Pennsylvania paid $4,287,000.

The West North Central States alone account for 39 per cent of the total bank loans to farmers; the East North Central Division comes next with about 19 per cent of the total, so that the two divisions together represent about 58 per cent of the total bank loans.

Fire Ruins New Printing Plant

Elkton Concern Loses Machinery, Type and Paper in Sunday Blaze; Short Circuit Believed Cause

Fire Sunday morning practically destroyed the Maryland Tool Company building at High and Bridge streets, Elkton, and with it the machinery and equipment of the Cleaves Printing Company, occupants for the past year. The loss has been placed at between $75,000 and $80,000.

Harry H. Cleaves, general manager of the plant, and a resident of Newark, could give no reason for the blaze other than a short circuit in a motor. It was stated that similar trouble had been encountered during working hours recently, but an electrician is believed to have repaired it. Mr. Cleaves lost in the fire three job presses, a rotary and verticle press, many fonts of type, a paper cutter and his stock of paper and fixtures.

Fireworks Stored

It was reported that a quantity of fireworks had been stored in one end of the building which was only partly occupied by the printing company. During the fire, the fireworks were ignited and added to the excitement.

The Elkton Fire Company responded to the first alarm sent in and made a successful fight to confine the fire to the one building. The close proximity of the American Telegraph and Telephone sub-station, directly across the street, the Elkton Catholic Church, numerous stores and dwellings nearby caused a call for help to be sent to Newark, North East, and Chesapeake City Fire Companies, each responding within 15 minutes and helped considerably in preventing other buildings from being destroyed from the embers and sparks from the burning building.

The home of Zebulon Powell, across the street from the Cleaves plant, was on fire several times, but was soon extinguished by the firemen who kept a constant stream of water on the Powell home.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company's wires which ran very close to the burned building were destroyed which will leave the people in that section of Elkton without telephone service until a new line is re-established.

APPLETON WOMAN'S CLUB

The Appleton Woman's Home Demonstration Club held their June meeting at the home of Mrs. John Moore with quite a large attendance, including several visitors. Members responded to the roll call as to what season of the year they preferred, most saying it was the beautiful spring. It was Juniors' Night and the club was entertained with a fine program.

The next meeting will be held in the Club room over Lofland's store, Wednesday evening, July 21, at 8 o'clock. Subject: "Household Management." As we are going to decide on our picnic, we would like all members to be present.

Hostesses: Mrs. H. Lee, Mrs. W. T. Lofland, Mrs. Robt. Mathias, Mrs. W. McCloskey, Miss Martha Ford.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY HERE TOMORROW

St. Swithin's Day if thou dost rain,
For forty days it will remain;
St. Swithin's Day if thou be fair,
For forty days 'twill rain no more.

SO goes the little rhyme handed down through generations by superstitious persons, and mocked by His Honor, the Weather Man. Tomorrow, July 15th, is the day. As Watson said, "We shall see what we shall see."

The legend of St. Swithin is an ancient one, with foundation in the story that in the year 862 Swithin, Bishop of Winchester, England, died and was buried at his own request in a vile and unworthy place, outside the Winchester Cathedral.

On July 15, 971, after he had been canonized and adopted as the patron saint of Winchester, it was decided to move his bones to a worthier resting place. There came a great torrent of rain, and it rained for forty days. The country people said it was the saint's way of showing his indignation because his dying request had been disobeyed.

biles during my recent bereavement, also all others who assisted me in any way.

Signed
Mrs. Taylor Campbell and Family.
