Y. M. C. A. TO OPEN WITH APPROPRIATE CEREMONY TOMORROW NIGHT

PREPARATORY WORK UNDER WAY FOR A MONTH

NEWARK THE FIRST TOWN IN THE STATE TO ORGANIZE A BRANCH HAS EXTENSIVE PLANS FOR SERVICE

UNION MEETING AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TONIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. which was organized here last spring are opening their quarters in the Armory this week. The formal opening will take place on Thursday evening.

Following the meeting at noon today at the American Vulcanized Fibre Company and the talk to the High School students by Harry G. White, the Y. M. C. A. and the Presbyterians are joining in a Union service this evening in the Presbyterian Church. Secretary Behout will preside at this meeting and Mr. Harry C. White will deliver the address of the evening.

At the noon meeting tomorrow, at the Continental Fibre Co., Mr. Norris Wright will be in charge of the music. Mr. White will give the men a message full of pep, the kind that satisfies the men.

All the grammar school students will be given a treat in the afternoon, as Mr. White has promised to give them a lunch and Judy show. Mr. White is a favorite with the children and a great treat is in store for them. Besides this there will be community singing and other features. Miss Elizabeth McNeal will be the accompanist.

In the evening the formal opening of the building will take place. The board of directors of the Association will be in charge of the evening. Mr. White will be the chairman of the reception committee.

Miss Elizabeth Wright will be in charge of the sale who will serve the refreshments. The assistants will be:

Miss Agnes Medill, Cornelia Pillmer, Edith Spencer, Elizabeth Wright, Jane Wright, Bessie Whittingham, Fathema Steel, Helen Steel, Ethel Campbell, Anna Rita, Anna Gallagher, Marion Gallagher, Kathryn Heister, Albert Heister, Olive Heister, Doris Law, Marion Brown, Florence Colbert and Mrs. Frank Dean.

Thomas A. Coon, President of the Association, will preside. Harry G. White will give a forceful message to the people on his experience overseas and he will also give them an entertainment of the same as he gave the men in the trenches and dugouts over in France.

After his talk refreshments will be served. Other features of interest are being planned by Mr. Behout.

The evening is open to both men and women and all the people of Newark are urged to attend.

Chief Magister who was a regimental band leader overseas, will lead the Community Singing; George Madson will play for him.

Mr. White has a great message for men and it is liberally sprinkled with humor and wit. His descriptions of the sinking of his ship by a German submarine and also of an air raid on London will long be remembered. He then will take his audience into the trenches and tell how he entertained the boys there. He gives some of the entertainment as given in France. His imitations of birds, phonographs, cross-cut saw, and the like are wonderful. Then he has a few of which the most fastidious lady would be proud. He can make this hot up into fifty-seven varieties of jokes. Next he takes his audience through a gas attack, followed by a little. Then tells how he got "his."

Last Sunday night Mr. White spoke to a congregation of 250 persons in the M. E. Church at Tilghman, Monday morning at the St. Michaels High School, Tuesday afternoon at Oxford High School, Tuesday night in the Oxford M. P. Church. On Wednesday afternoon Mr. White entertained the students of the Trappe High School, and that night gave another talk in the St. Michaels P. E. Church, where there were about 300 present. Thursday night the meeting was held in the Ebenezer M. E. Church in Easton, Md. and the Sunday school room was filled.

W. Paul Behout, the general secretary of the association, has been in Newark nearly all of this month planning for the opening. He is an experienced "Y" worker and the new association is fortunate in securing such an efficient secretary to put the branch on successful basis. He was formerly at Trenton, N. J., where he served as assistant secretary of this large association in that city. In addition to his duties as assistant secretary, Mr. Behout also had charge of the army service work in connection with the association during the war and as many thousand soldiers were stationed at Camp Dix, only a few miles away, that alone was a man's job.

Mr. Behout also served in Y. M. C. A. work in Atlantic City and Johnstown, Pa. His home is in Pittsburgh, where his family is now located, but they are to come to Newark as soon as he can get possession of a house "that he has rented."

What is the purpose of the Y. M. C. A. in Newark? What is the relation of this Association to the other bodies of the "Y"? These and other questions have been asked of Mr. Behout and in reply he gave the following statement of its purpose and objectives. The Newark branch of the Y. M. C. A. is a distinctive organization for Newark men and boys; organized by the business men of this community and is not controlled or operated by any outside agency. All the money paid into the Association is spent for the welfare of men and boys in Newark.

The objectives of the association are:— First—To give to the men and boys of Newark a balanced program of activities that will be of interest and help to them in their everyday life. Second—To relate the Association program to the churches of the community and to enlist boys and men in active church membership.

Third—To stimulate in the community a program of activities for the welfare and uplifting of boy life and man life in all that stands for the highest manhood. Fourth—To include in this program such practical steps toward eliminating causes of evil as may be in harmony with our objectives, and not to be content merely with alleviating the results of evil.

Fifth—To cooperate with other agencies working to Christianize community life. Sixth—To supplement and strengthen the home, the church, the school, and the municipality in their relations to the social, recreational, educational, moral and spiritual life of the community.

To accomplish these objectives a complete program has been mapped out by Mr. Behout. Ten gym classes have been scheduled for each week at which time, calisthenics, games and other athletics will be given the men and boys. The class schedule will be:

Preps—Age 10 to 12. Tuesday, 3:30 to 4:45. Saturday, 9 to 10 A. M. Grammar School Boys—Age 12 to 15. Tuesday, 4:15 to 5:15. Thursday, 3:45 to 4:45. Saturday, 10:15 to 12 M. Older Boys—Age 15 to 18. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 to 5:30 P. M.

Seniors and Business Men. Tuesday and Thursday. 7:30 to 9 P. M. Gym open for individual work and games on other nights.

Basket Ball—Indoor baseball, volleyball and football teams will be organized in season among the different groups.

The drill floor of the Armory has been fitted up so that the men and boys of Newark will have one of the largest and best gymnasiums in the State.

LOCAL POST OF AMERICAN LEGION TO MEET FRIDAY

Will Have Combined Smoker and Business Meeting

A special meeting of the Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post, No. 6, of the American Legion will be held in the Armory on Friday evening, October 3, at 8 o'clock. It will be a combined smoker and business meeting of an informal character where plans for the future will be discussed and delegates elected to the State convention which will be held in Dover some time this fall.

Post Commander Whittingham has recently received a letter from Ex-governor Miller asking that he as a representative of the New Castle Co. soldiers help to formulate plans for an all-state reception for returned soldiers to be held in the near future.

At Friday's meeting he will endeavor to get from the assembled soldiers their ideas and suggestions for this affair and thus aid the reception committee in determining what form of entertainment the soldiers themselves desire.

Civil Service Examination Given Saturday

Three candidates for a vacant clerkship at the local post-office took the civil service examination in the high school building on Saturday morning. The examination was given under the direction of William Lynam.

Receives Discharge From Navy

Paul Rhodes received his discharge from the Navy recently and arrived home last night from League Island which has been his headquarters for some months. The young man's mother, Mrs. Leonard Rhodes visited him at League Island during the last few days of his stay there and was entertained on board the Illinois.

State Board of Education Representatives Here Saturday

George B. Miller, president of the State Board of Education, Pierre S. duPont, secretary of the State Board and State Commissioner of Education, Arthur R. Spaid met with the local Board of Education on Saturday to discuss the matter of a site for the proposed new school building. The sites available were visited and discussed. Suggestions were offered by the State Board which will be discussed at a meeting to be held this week when it is probable that the site will be chosen.

Lad Injured by Automobile Recovering Rapidly

Grover Ward, the little nine-year-old lad who was almost fatally injured last Thursday on Main Street when he was struck by J. C. Willis' automobile is recovering rapidly.

The accident occurred at noon while the boy was on an errand on his way home from school. He attempted to cross the street near the Primary School building and ran directly in front of Mr. Willis' machine. He evidently did not hear the machine blow and before it could be stopped he was struck with sufficient force to break the machine headlight. The glass inflicted on his chin and throat severe cuts which bled profusely. He was hurried in Mr. Willis' machine to Dr. Kollock's office where his wounds were dressed. He was afterward removed to his home on South Chapel Street where he is steadily improving.

Reading Circle Will Meet Tomorrow Evening

The Chautauqua Reading Circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Linton Coyle on Thursday evening, Oct. 2, promptly at 7:45. This is to be a Current Events meeting with Mrs. Priant as leader. Every member is asked to take part. Much interest is being taken in this organization. There are at present, fifteen members.

"NEWARK POST" HAS WORTHY RIVAL

"Grammar School News" will Appear at an Early Date

The first issue of the Newark Schools News published by the students of the elementary grades in the public schools will appear in the first of the week. The publication this year is larger and better in every way than that of last year which was a very creditable production conducted by one grade. This year all of the grades are represented and the material is put up in excellent style. Samuel Handloff is editor-in-chief and has on his staff the following assistants, Dorothy McNeal and Misses Raby, Gallaher, and Snyder.

The reporters are Elsie Heifert, Irwin Cornog, Florence Riley, Herman Handloff, Edie Towson and Oscar Morris.

The members of the business committee comprise:

John Cunningham, secretary; Evelyn Worrall, treasurer; Corbit Crompton, 8th grade; Cuthbert Claringbold, 8th grade; Horace Patchel, 7th grade; Justin Steele, 6th grade; Mildred Moore, 5th and 6th grade; Mary Atkinson, 5th grade; Francis Stapleton, 4th grade; Laura Perkins, chairman, 8th grade.

Western Union Operator Transferred

Mr. James Berkheimer who has held the position of telegraph operator for the Western Union has been transferred to Swarthmore, Pa. Mr. Hastings from Bridgeton, N. J. succeeds him.

Head of Bureau of Education to Reside Here

Dr. Richard Watson Cooper has rented the McGowan property recently purchased by George W. Griffin and expects to occupy it in a short time.

Dr. Cooper has been appointed head of the Bureau of Education recently established by the Service Citizens of Delaware. He has just returned from France where he was Registrar for the American E. F. University at Beaune where he registered nearly ten thousand students.

MANY VIEW MILITARY WEDDING

Union of Miss Alice D. Evans and Captain Durant Notable Event

The dignity and simplicity that befits a military wedding marked the beautiful ceremony which united in marriage Miss Alice Evans, daughter of former Representative and Mrs. William H. Evans and Captain Armand Durant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Durant of Atlanta, Georgia, at the First Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening at 7:30.

The entire color scheme carried out in the decorations and in the costumes of the bridal party was green and white. Bridal wreath, ferns and potted plants transformed the chancel of the church and formed a bower at the left where the ceremony was performed by Dr. S. C. Mitchell assisted by Dr. William J. Rowan, pastor of the church. Norris Morgan, organist at Grace Church Wilmington, gave a recital before the ceremony and played the march and recessional.

While the organist played Star Spangled Banner, Captain Durant attended by his father, Lieutenant Edward M. Durant together with Dr. Mitchell and Dr. Rowan approached the chancel from the side aisles and a dozen or so girl friends of the bride preceded the remainder of the bridal party up the centre aisle. To the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March the bride, attended by Miss Elizabeth Wright as maid of honor and Misses Mary Mitchell and Catherine Maltby of Northford, Conn. as bridesmaids, entered on the arm of her father. The bride was attired in a gown of duchess satin with pearl trimmings and court train. Her veil was worn in cap effect, caught with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses, sweet peas, snapdragons and orchids.

BIG CROWDS VIEW PARADE OF RED MEN

Procession Marches on Principal Streets and Stages War Dance

A fitting welcome was extended by Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23 I. O. R. M. last night to the 17 young warriors who have returned from the world war. A parade in Indian costume over the principal streets of the town, in which local and visiting tribesmen took part, speech-making, and refreshments constituted the celebration.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, the parade formed on Main Street near Academy, with Little Elk Tribe from Cherry Hill, who brought the Elkton Band and their famous goat, in the lead. This latter member of the visiting tribe, decorated in belligerent red attracted much attention from the assembled crowds along the route of the march. Members of Andastaka Tribe from Newport, Little Bear from Bear Station, and Wawa from Union brought large delegations and preceded Minnehaha tribe which turned out in force with their band. A dozen or so "paposes" wrapped in varicolored blankets loaned by kindly Red men or by indulgent mothers brought up the rear. Plenty of red fire, inspiring music, and hearty cheering along the whole line showed beyond a doubt the hearty welcome accorded the returning soldiers.

The route of march covered the full length of Main St. to the town limits, a counter march to north Chapel St., to Cleveland Ave., to North College ave., to Main, to Quality Hill, and counter to I. O. R. M. Hall. Here for the benefit of the assembled crowds the Red Men executed their best war dances and many of the spectators joined in the sport.

When they adjourned to the hall speeches of welcome to returned soldiers and visitors were given by George W. Griffin and Frank Smith. On behalf of the soldiers Major Clarence A. Short, Orville Little and visiting tribesmen responded. Several of the young men told of their experiences overseas. Other speakers were Great Junior Sagamore Abernathy of Md. and Carl Barber of Wilmington.

Following the exercises refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Those in whose honor the affair was given include the following: Prof. Clarence A. Short, Walter R. Powell, Clarence Hopkins, J. P. Shockey, Jesse N. Jett, C. Wesley Keith, E. B. Moore, Albert Vose, Enos Coover, Edwin Coover, William Coover, Leon Major, Fred Major, William Rupp, C. F. Ware, Samuel L. Hamilton, Henry Bultnick.

Great crowds of people from Newark and the surrounding country, lined the sidewalks all along the line of march and occupied every vantage point from which the parade could be viewed. On few occasions recently have so many machines and so many people been seen on the streets.

Cooch's Bridge Chapter, D. A. R. to Meet Saturday

The regular meeting of Cooch's Bridge Chapter, D. A. R. will be held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Frazer on Saturday, October 4.

Will Hold Annual Supper December 4

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold their annual poultry supper on Thursday, December 4.

Rally Day Services at Head of Christiana Well Attended

The Rally Day services at Head of Christiana last Sunday were very well attended, a number of children taking part. The first prayer meeting of the series preparatory to the special services to be held October 12 to 19 will take place on Thursday evening, October 2. Following this there will be a business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The services next Sunday will be at the usual hours, Bible School at 10, public worship at 10:45 and Christian Endeavor at 8.

Osceola Tribe to have Homecoming Celebration

Prominent Speakers to be Present

Will Send Class of Six to Wilmington for Initiation on Saturday, Oct. 11th

Osceola Lodge No. 5, Knights of Pythias will hold a homecoming celebration on Friday evening, October 10th in their lodge rooms in Odd Fellows Hall. Presentation of honor rolls, speaking, and refreshments will constitute the main features of the celebration. Prominent speakers will be present including W. W. Knowles of Wilmington and C. A. Short of this town.

On Saturday, October 11, this lodge will take a class of six to Wilmington to be initiated with a large class from Oriental Lodge. This ceremony will take place at K. of P. Hall and will form part of an all-day celebration which will end with a rally and dance.

Local Masons Attend Grand Lodge Meeting

Rev. William J. Rowsan, David C. Rose and C. B. Evans are attending the Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. which is in session today and tomorrow at Masonic Temple, Wilmington.

Dr. Rowan is Grand Chaplain and will read the necrological report. Mr. Rose is a member of the committee for the Masonic Home and Mr. Evans is also a member of one of the important committees.

NEW CENTURY CLUB TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

Will Hold Reception for Incoming Officers

The first meeting of the New Century Club year will be held held next Tuesday, October 7, promptly at 2:30 P. M. Since this is the first time for several years that the club has found it possible to open at the regular time, a fall attendance is expected. Epidemics and war activities which have heretofore broken in upon the club year are happily not a disturbing factor this season and everything now points to a successful club year.

A reception to the incoming officers will be the feature of Tuesday's meeting. There will also be a short business session, a poem by Miss Eleanor Harter and music.

Preparations are under way for the supper and dance to be held on October 9 for the benefit of the building fund. The members are well pleased with the sale of tickets.

Improvements at the High School

The faculty and students of the high school have been busily engaged during the past week attempting to beautify the building and grounds. New desks have been put into place and dead limbs, tin cans and other rubbish removed.

Property Transfers

The Newark Trust Co. has recently sold the Alexander McGowan residence on West Main Street to George W. Griffin and three houses belonging to Robert Walker of Philadelphia to John K. Johnston.

Bishop Monaghan Conducts Special Services at St. John's

Rt. Rev. John J. Monaghan Bishop of Wilmington conducted a special service at St. John's church on Sunday morning where he consecrated the Stations of the Cross which were recently installed. This completes the improvement plan inaugurated during the summer by which the interior of the church has undergone a complete transformation.

For Sunday's service, the choir had prepared special music which was rendered very effectively.

"SOLITUDE"

By LILBURN HARWOOD TOWNSEND

Just a dull gray sea and a fading sky,
And a soaring gull and his lonely cry;
Just a sunset glow and the ocean's roar,
As the foaming waves fall upon its floor.

Just a whiff of wind from the golden west,
And a gleam of pearls on the billow's crest;
Just a low, weird song from a siren's throat,
And a speck of sail on a distant boat.

Just a wild wide shore and a dying day,
And the ebbing tide and drifting spray;
Just the rising moon and the evening star,
O'er the wreck of Hope on a hidden bar.

For The Homemaker's Eye

Economical Gingerbread.

One cup molasses in mixing bowl; put two level teaspoons shortening in to a cup, and fill cup with boiling water; add to molasses. Sift into the above the mixture one and one-half cups flour, three-quarters teaspoon salt, one level teaspoon clove or cinnamon and nutmeg mixed together. Grease the pan well. Bake in a moderate oven. Will take about thirty-five minutes.

Breakfast Gems.

Mix together two cups of bran meal, one and one-half cups of white flour, four tablespoons of sugar (scant), one teaspoonful of salt, four teaspoonsful of baking powder, two eggs, two cups of milk and two tablespoonsful of melted butter. Mix together all dry ingredients, beat the eggs and gradually add the milk to the eggs. Stir slowly into the dry mixture. Lastly add the melted butter.

Creamy Cold Slaw.

Chop the cabbage in a wooden bowl, sprinkle it with salt and cover it until the moisture is drawn from the cabbage. Drain it. Marinate with three tablespoons of white or pure cider vinegar, tossing the cabbage with a silver or wooden fork. The dressing is made with four tablespoons of powdered sugar dissolved in one cup of cream. Have everything very cold and add the dressing just before serving the cabbage, which may be used as a salad or as an accompaniment to meat or fish course.

To Keep Lettuce Crisp.

A sure way to keep lettuce crisp when not taking ice is to wash lettuce under running water to remove dust, then put in a colander, then rinse out a piece of cheese cloth in cold water and lay right over lettuce, put in a cool place and it will keep crisp for two to four days.

Dried Beef and Gravy With Variations
A half cup of tomato and a tablespoonful of chopped sweet pepper fried with 1-4 pound of dried beef, and the gravy made in the usual way. Makes a pleasing variation of the dried beef and gravy dish.

Helpful Hints.

Never smooth mashed potato in the serving dish. It makes it heavy and compact. Heap it lightly into the dish.
Let puddings and pies cool slightly before putting on the meringue; if not, the meringue will be dotted with drops of liquid.

Overcooking will curdle milk as well as cooking milk that has been salted. It is best to add salt after the milk has been removed from the heat.
If a custard has overcooked, pour it into a cold bowl and beat with an egg beater; if this will not make it smooth, strain and use it as a custard sauce.

To decorate cakes for children, frost them, then dip a small brush into melted chocolate or beaten egg yolk, and put on the design or name desired. Any coloring may be used by adding a bit of color to confectioner's sugar and water or milk.

Use stale bread for French toast. Beat one egg, add a half cup of milk or more, one teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of sugar. Cut the bread in narrow strips and dip in the egg on both sides. Fry in a little hot fat.

When washing spinach, put salt in the first water; it will save several washings.

When creaming butter for a cake, if in a hurry, add a tablespoon or two of hot water to it; the cake will mix much quicker and it is fully as fine grained.

When your cakes stick to the pan, try moistening a cloth in hot water and patting the bottom of the pan with it.

A handful of salt with enough vinegar to cover it will be very effective in shining the faucets of a lavatory.

Creamed bacon is nice to serve with baked potatoes. Fry the bacon and pour over it a white sauce made with the fat.

Print the various uses of the household brushes in large letters on their backs.

A 1-4 peck of quinces costs considerable this year, but careful and economical handling will make them go further than an equal amount of any other kind of fruit. This quantity weighs 3 1-2 pounds and will make 2 pints of canned quinces, 4 glasses of marmalade and one glass of jelly.

Following is the way to prepare them:—Wash and dry the quinces, remove the stem and blossom, then quarter and pare them. The quarters are cut into slices and put in the preserve kettle and covered with cold water. Cover the kettle and bring to boil very quickly (then the fruit does not get tough); add four cups of sugar and simmer or boil slowly 1 hour, removing scum as it rises. Fill into well-sterilized jars while at boiling point. Two quarts or 4 pints of delicious fruit to serve with plain or whipped cream.

Quince Jelly.

To the liquid which is left over add 1-2 cup of sugar, which is put on a plate in the oven to heat (being careful not to melt); add the sugar to the juice and boil 5 minutes. This makes a large glass of clear good jelly.

Quince Jam.

The jam is made from the skins as the quinces are pared; the skins and cores are put into a saucepan of water, they must be liberally covered. Put on fire and boil slowly 1 hour with the cover on; if the water boils away add enough to keep to top of skins; when they are very soft, mash thru wire strainer, and to each cup of the pulp add 3-4 cup of sugar and a few grains of salt; boil 10 minutes, skimming if necessary. Put into glasses; when cold and firm, cover with paraffin. The cost is very little for these delicious sweets and takes very little time to prepare.

Quince Honey.

Wash, pare and grate the quinces; to each quart of grated quinces add 1 1-2 cups granulated sugar; put into preserving kettle and boil slowly 45 minutes; remove the scum, stirring frequently. It must be stiff and not separate. Fill into well-sterilized, wide-mouthed bottles, cover with paraffin and paste paper over top.

Keep on Climbing

You can never let down the bars when you want to become great. The price is eternal vigilance. Even when success is assured you must keep on going. Men who become great by spurts usually sink into insignificance the same way. Besides making up your mind that you are going to succeed, you must see to it that you realize what's in your mind. Talking about what you expect to do will never bring it to pass. The uphill is always before you. The only way to reach the top is to climb. If you command the means that takes you there it will save you energy for other things. Usually the energy you develop through the climb will be useful in day to come. The climb may tire you, but it will also make you appreciate the view.—Grit.

In this existence, dry and wet
Will overtake the best of men—
Some little shift o' clouds'll shet
The sun off now and then;
And mebbly while you're wonderin'
who You've fool-like lent your umbrell' to
And want it—out'll pop the sun,
And you'll be glad you hain't got none!
—Riley.

PREPARE SILO FOR THE WINTER FEED

Farmers Are Advised to Examine With Care Before Filling

Corn canning time—when a portion of the corn is prepared and sealed in the silo—is near at hand and every silo owner should see that the structure is in good condition to receive the succulent crops. Farmers are advised by the United States Department of Agriculture specialists to give the silo a thorough "once-over" and to see that the interior is properly protected. To protect the wood against decay they advise the application of a mixture of coal tar and creosote, both inside and outside. This mixture so relatively inexpensive that no silo owner should allow his silo to stand without this protection. Loose hoops should be tightened in order that no cracks or crevices allow air seepage. If, however, the hoops have been kept very tight during the time that the silo is empty they should be loosened just before filling to prevent buckling or breaking of hoops due to swelling when the dry staves absorb moisture from the green silage.

In the case of wooden silos it may be advisable to cement around the bottom of the silo where the foundation joins the superstructure. In the case of old silos it will be profitable for the farmer to go over them carefully to look for cracks and wherever he finds them to seal with tar and oakum, food filler, or other effective material. If the bottom of the silo has decayed slightly, the owner may saw off whatever amount is necessary and then, by the use of blocking, gradually lower the silo to the foundation again, cementing around the base as previously described.

When the silo is air-tight and able to stand the most rigid inspection, the owner may consider the actual work of filling. A wise precaution is to place several feet of straw in the bottom of the silo to act as a protective blanket between the bottom of the silo and the feed, as ordinarily silage juices collect there unless proper facilities for drainage are provided and the straw acts as a valuable absorbent for this excess of moisture which otherwise might damage the bottom silage.

Must Tram It Down Well.

In the actual operation of filling the silo it is of paramount importance that no air pockets be left; this is prevented by sufficient tramping.

The proper sealing is also important because where the silo is correctly topped off there usually is a minimum loss of the succulent feed.

A Better Berth For Bossie

The American dairy cow, beauty that she is and has always been, has never made very much of a reputation in Europe until the war destroyed so many of the native milk producers. Now, the American dairy cow is crossing the ocean pretty freely, and the United States Department of Agriculture, largely for her benefit, has revised its regulations governing the inspection, humane handling, and safe transport of export animals. The regulations in the first place, were fixed mainly for beef cattle. A dairy cow that is to live her life out and bear a responsible part in the upbringing of a human family requires more careful handling than an animal that is to be slaughtered. Consequently, better arrangements have been made for stalls, an adequate number of attendants is stipulated, and more careful handling in general is required.

Emphasized Value of

Home Paper

The importance and value to the state of the local newspapers were emphasized in one exhibit at the state fair at Syracuse, N. Y., recently. The persons who visited the exhibit were greeted by a placard reading: "Has your editor doubled the subscription price and advertising rate of his paper? If not, he needs to." And this declaration was backed up by the statement that during the past four years 125 country newspapers went out of business in New York. Still another card pointed out that "if the folks of the town did half as much for the papers as the editor does for the town fewer country weeklies would go out of business."

The exhibit was made by the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, which explained on a placard that the college believes the local newspapers are making a real contribution to the life of their towns and may be ranked with the church, the school and the home and farm bureau as factors in the life of a community.

WANT TO ADVANCE INTERESTS OF TOMATO GROWERS

Delaware Growers Asked to Affiliate With National Board of Farm Organizations

Tomato growers of Delaware have been invited to affiliate with the National Board of Farm Organization, with a view to having their interest represented at Washington. Secretary Lyman of the board said it had been recognized that the tomato growers of that state had not been given the consideration to which they are entitled by the War Department.

This, Secretary Lyman said, was due to a large extent to the fact that there was nobody in Washington outside of their Senators and Representatives to speak for them, and these are usually too busy to give more than passing attention to them. Every other agricultural interest is represented at the capital by organizations ready to serve the growers. The tomato men of Delaware, Maryland and other States, have however, not so far apparently seen the necessity for organization right under the nose of Congress.

It is pointed out that growers of farm products in many states have received prompt payment from the War Department for the provisions supplied the government, but the Delaware growers are still waiting for their money, or a large part of it. Of course, the government does not deal directly with the farmers, but it is pointed out that failure promptly to meet its obligations to the canners and packers had depressed prices, and in consequence the farmers have suffered.

How to Kill the Minister

An exchange gives the following timely suggestions on "how to kill the Minister."

1. "Tell others that you don't like him, but never tell him why. If you told him why you don't like him he might show you wherein you were mistaken; then you would need to apologize to him for talking behind his back.

2. Criticize his sermons. Say he's too old-fashioned in his theology, or he's too liberal; his sermons are too long; he is too closely confined to his notes; he's tiresome, stupid, and monotonous. Never tell him his sermon helped you; that might make him puffed up.

3. Complain because he doesn't call as often as you think he ought to. Forget that he has several hundred other people to call upon, that he must prepare two sermons each week, must marry the living and bury the dead, and be all things to all men on all occasions, that he may win some.

4. Criticize his family, especially his wife. Say, "She takes up too much of his time, she tries to run the church, she is not in sympathy with his work, she has too many hats, she dresses too well, or not well enough."

5. Go to some other church because you don't like your own minister, and because the other minister is more sensational, more dramatic, more educated, more orthodox, more social, and more anything else that suits your fancy.

6. Always look for your minister's weakest points, never look for his strongest qualities. To look for his strongest qualities might mean to be convinced that with all his failings he has consecrated himself to the High Calling of God for your salvation, that he has sacrificed a larger income for a mere God to the end that men may come to a saving knowledge of God. The persons who visited There is nothing else."

Townsend Resents Removal of High School

Complaints against the removal of the high school from Townsend to Middletown were read at the meeting of the County School Board Monday. Objection to paying taxes to Middletown district, poor train service and fear that some of the trade would pass to that town were the chief points at issue.

The little man made his way back to the box office. "This seat number sounds like a German submarine; it's U-13," he said.

"You don't want to exchange it merely on that account, do you?" asked the ticket man.

"No, but I thought you might be able to supply me with a periscope to see over that big woman sitting just in front."

Locally Known Young People Marry

Miss Ruth Lister and Edward Bennett, both of Wilmington, were married on Saturday, September 20, at the parsonage of St. Paul's M. E. Church. Mrs. H. A. Jackson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mr. Jackson was best man. The bride wore a brown tailored suit and wore a corsage bouquet of roses.

The bride is a frequent visitor in Newark and the groom is a brother of Mrs. William D. Dean, of this town.

DOES NOT BELIEVE FARMER SHOULD LOWER PRICES FIRST

Secretary of Agriculture Says
Business Men Must Do
Their Part

David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, does not assent to the theory that the prices of farm products should fall before the prices of manufactured commodities fall. He makes this clear in replying to a recent communication in which it was stated that "There must be a drop in prices before there is a drop in wages, and it would mean that the farmer is the man who is going to be first hit."

The theory has been advanced by a number of manufacturers, said the secretary, who continued, "It is clearly a subject of contention. It manifestly would not do to ask farmers to produce anything that they have to buy from manufacturers at high prices, with the assurance to them that their products will fall in price, so that then manufacturers will consider what they will do with reference to their own prices. Obviously, manufacturers must be willing to make at least a contemporaneous decrease in their prices. It might even be contended that they should make a prior decrease in their prices, since the farmer's operations involve a year and he could not recoup for 12 months or could not recoup at all, because, on the theory put forth, his products would fall in price. It seems to me that business men must be brought to realize that if we are to get back to the normal they must set about immediately to do their part, and unquestionably profiteering in manufactured products must be eliminated."

"Of course, everything possible will be done to enable the farmer to produce more economically, so that if prices do fall he will not sustain a loss or incur a loss. All the efforts of the Department of Agriculture and of the land grant colleges have this aim. They are trying to bring about better methods of cultivation, better financing, better marketing, the elimination of plant and animal diseases and insect pests, and the better utilization of labor. Much has been done in this direction and more will be done as time passes."

Who Are "Doughboys" and Who Are Not

Uncle Sam's soldiers are particular about a great many things. Cavalry troopers, for example, are very particular about their dress and constantly strive to live up to the cavalry's reputation as the "Beau Brummel branch." Marines are ticklish about their "Devil dog" reputation. And infantry soldiers. Well, they're very particular about many things. Not the least of these is their service nickname.

The Infantry soldier, and that soldier only, is the "Doughboy" of the American Army.

A youngster fresh from conquests abroad, visited a member of the national headquarters staff of War Camp Community Service the other day and had a few things to say.

"Why do those writers get that 'doughboy' stuff?" asked the young soldier. "Every time you see a picture of a bunch of men in army uniforms you'll see 'doughboy' in the printed stuff under the picture. And yet, if you'll use your eyes you'll see, lots of times, the insignia of the Engineers or the Medical Corps or the Cavalry on the collars of the men. They're not 'doughboys.'"

"We're the only 'doughboys.' The other branches of the service handed us the name sometime to make fun of us. Now the name stands for the various names the infantry made in this war, as it has in every war."

"Each branch of the service has its nickname," said the young soldier. "We call the cavalry, for instance, the 'yellow legs,' because of the yellow stripes on their dress breeches. And, the Marines are called 'kathernicks.'"

Advertising Essential to Permanent Success

Advertising is no longer regarded by business men as a necessary evil, but is looked upon as essential to permanent success. Merle Sidener, of Indianapolis, chairman of the National Advertising Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World told the convention of the association.

"Advertising," he said, "is education and will become the most potent means for the dissemination of authoritative information in all lines of activity."

Richard H. Lee, of New York, declared there would be no advertising unless there was truthful advertising.

"The value of advertising space in any medium," he said, "rises or falls in accordance with the belief on the part of its readers in the advertisements it publishes."

"Pay Your Teachers for the Sake of Your Children"

With this as a text the editor of one of Philadelphia's leading newspapers preached last Children's Day an eloquent sermon, part of which follows: It is an alarming fact that the enrollment in the normal schools in this state this year is 50 per cent below the average. It is a dangerous fact that scores of school boards today are appointing as teachers for next year young men and women who are not half qualified, either by learning or experience.

Yet we live in an age which prides itself on having uplifted the child! We live in a country which boasts of its high ideals and its moral and spiritual leadership! We live at a time when the church sets apart one Sunday for special consideration of children!

Are we going to sit back and content ourselves by listening to sweet words said to them? Are we going to satisfy our conscience with singing hymns that tell about the pattering of little feet in the golden streets of the hereafter? Are we going to weave beautiful word pictures around the old, old stories, or are we going to put on the whole armor of God and go out to fight for the inherent rights of these boys and girls as those rights are endangered at this very hour?

We have helped to win a war for freedom and righteousness. We have given the lives of our men without complaint and poured out our money without stint. Billion after billion has freely been given to provide and supply an army that would assist in putting down an attempt to rob us of all the past has given us. Even when we knew that much of this money was being mispent, we carried on.

And here we stand today, facing the one army that can be of assistance in holding what has been gained—and we say to these 20,000,000 children whose praises we are singing and for whom we are praying: "We cannot afford to pay the few millions that are needed to give your teachers a living wage. We appreciate those teachers, of course. They are doing a noble work. They are a fine set of men and women. But they must try to get along some way or other, for with all our other expenses we cannot afford to pay them a living wage!"

Mark you, I say we say this to the children. We may think we say it to the teachers, but the fact is, we say it to the children—to our children, to the children of America. And when we say it to them we say it to the United States of America tomorrow!

We cannot afford to keep our country high-minded and efficient! We cannot afford to keep her free from Bolshevism and anarchy and the dry rot of arrested imagination! We cannot afford to pay for the best guidance, to wall out ignorance, to build up the kind of character that is developed by men and women trained for the holy profession of teaching!

Already our blindness has done damage which only years can repair. Already we have lost more than we can regain in a decade, however swift our awakening to this mightiest need of the nation. And still we are dawdling and haggling and trying to justify ourselves by claiming that we are too poor to do as much for the teachers as we would like to!

Haven't we eyes to see that it's not the teachers for whom we would be giving, but the children?

Haven't we sense to know that the maintenance of the standard of teaching is the maintenance of our national ideals; that we will fall hopelessly behind unless we quickly strengthen our teaching forces; that we will send out armies of young folk undeveloped mentally and spiritually and unfit to cope with the great problems of the day that will be theirs to glorify or disgrace?

Do not mistake this for the mouthings of an alarmist. Doubt it! Question it! Go to the bureau of education at Washington and ask for the facts. Go to any school board and ask for the facts! Write to all the normal schools in the nation and ask for the facts!

Acquaint yourselves with these facts, for they concern the heart and soul of America. They concern the safety and happiness of your own home. They are so basic that unless we face them and act in accordance, the things we love and praise and sing about will wither into foul and bitter shapes of what might have been!

So this is my message to you on Children's Day—that you get out from this church with one determination ranking all others; that you go out to enlist as a fighting private in a great army of citizens who will see the profit of digging into their pockets to provide proper pay for teachers—not for the teachers as teachers, but for the children. And what you do for the children you do for yourselves and for all the years and for all men everywhere and forever."

"A Good Law"

The law regulating the lights on automobiles was one of the best laws that was ever passed in the state, the glaring headlights was at fault for numerous accidents and there was hardly a single instance of where the high powered searchlights averted an accident,—but the law has been abused—gradually the lights have been given a little more power, the rays given a greater radius, a powerful searchlight added to the equipment and in some cases the law entirely ignored, and yet there is no record of where anyone has paid a fine for a violation of this law which is even more dangerous than speeding.

The law in Maryland requiring all vehicles traveling at night to carry a light is a good one and should be passed and enforced in this state. It is hardly possible for a driver to see a team directly ahead of him while meeting another car at night, where if the light is used on the team it would be possible to see at a safe distance.

—State Register.

Road Hogs

About as good a way to study human nature is when you are driving on the public road. If a man is willing to observe the laws and the courtesies of the road he will duly give his share of it when meeting another, and shows he is willing to do the gentlemanly thing about it. But when you meet one who takes every advantage of those he meets, and holds the road for his own selfish self, often to the great discomfort of those he meets, or will not allow them to pass, we are almost sure to think of the hog in connection with such drivers of teams.—Middletown Transcript.

As a result of experiments conducted by the Forest Products Laboratory, United States Department of Agriculture, a good grade of paper is being produced in commercial quantities from cotton-hull fiber. Pulp made from second-cut cotton linters and hull fiber, the forest specialists say, is well suited for the manufacture of book, writing, printing, blotting, cover, and other high grades of paper, and is equal in quality to the highest grades of paper stock.

Daytime "Make Up" Not Sinful But Silly

If the average girl firmly believes that powder and rouge will give her "flashing beauty and healthy, glowing color" all the homilies of a canonized saint will not keep her from using them. Once convinced her that rouge as it is ordinarily applied is ridiculous and vulgar all the cosmetic dealers on earth could not make her use them.

A convent girl once asked her confessor if it was sinful to use rouge and an eyebrow pencil; he told her no, that it was not sinful but it was silly. The feminine instinct in woman makes her desire to be attractive. It is noticeable at summer resorts that the best-dressed women do not use "make-up," as cosmetics are called, in the day time, neither do the young girls from the most select schools. The "rouge-box and the powder-puff" are left to women and girls of far less select coteries. In the evening cosmetics judiciously applied are in general use, and they have been since long before the days of the Queen of Sheba. "Attain a complexion if you have it not" is the philosophy of even very pious women.

The case against the use of rouge by daylight cannot be too strongly urged; it is ugly, for no matter how delicately it is put on it can always be detected, and the artificial repels admiration instead of attracting it; valuable time is consumed over this facial make-up, and it gives a frivolous aspect to characters that may not really deserve it. The average man whilst he loves beauty in woman detests artificiality and frivolity. "Girls who are so intent upon adorning the outside of their heads that the inside is left quite bare of furniture will be unable to keep for long the love of any sensible man, and the engagement that is chiefly to the clever manipulation of cream and paint and powder is not likely to be followed by a happy marriage." As a matter of fact few engagements are ever due to these exterior things. That mysterious magnetic force called love has deeper sources. To return to complexions, there if anywhere in a girl's rule of life belongs the proverb: To be, and not merely to seem to be.

When your eye falls on a neglected task which "Somebody" should attend to, the burden of proof is on you to show why you are not that somebody.

DELAWARE LEDGER EXPLODES

One Barrel goes off half cocked and the other "busts"

"NOTHING" has so stirred the tax-payers as did the argument against the school code before the Supreme Court in Dover on Friday. Henry Ridgely, who made the defense of the obnoxious measure in our opinion did not meet the objection of Mr. Robert G. Harman who so masterfully demolished whatever claims the measure had for constitutionality. The latter showed that when the bill was drafted it was the intention to put it through, as provided by the Constitution of the State. However when it was seen that the code could not pass by a two-thirds vote, this provision was changed. It then passed the General Assembly by a majority of one vote. This was clearly illegal.

An effort to make it appear that the measure is not a corporate one is ridiculous. The bill specifically provides how title is to be taken and if it were not a corporate act no such provision would have been made. Mr. Ridgely contended that Article 8, section 7, tells how the assessment on all properties for State, county, hundred, and school taxes shall be levied. So much for Mr. Ridgely's contention.

We shall see whether outside influence is to run this State.

So this is what the Delaware Ledger thinks of the Supreme Court of Delaware.

Comments unnecessary.

WEDDING

HASTINGS-MORRISON

Yesterday at high noon in the presence of a few friends Miss Elizabeth J. Morrison was married to Mr. Charles Hastings of Selbyville, Del., at her home near Ogleton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. David A. Reed. After the wedding refreshments were served and the newly-wedded pair left on a bridal tour to Atlantic City.

A fool is one who goes through life with his eyes open, but sees not the things his eyes were intended to see. Instead of passing to one side of trouble, he bumps into it, runs headlong into brambles and gets stuck in mire. And sometimes he walks right into the arms of fortune which happens to be Johnny on the spot when favors are being distributed. But his streaks are so thin as compared with the thickness of his worries and disappointments that they are hardly worth considering.

Old Delaware to be Represented in Harlan Meet

Many of the college track men will go to Wilmington this Saturday to take part in a meet held by the Service Dept. at the Harlan plant, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. The meet will begin with a marathon race from the B. & O. Station to the Harlan athletic field on the south side of the city. This meet will serve as a tryout for the cross country squad at Delaware, and should prove of especial interest on account.

Engineering Society Holds First Meeting Friday

The initial meeting of the Engineering Society was held last Friday in the west wing of Old College. Charles Carswell, president of the Society, outlined briefly the aims and purposes of the Society. The meeting was primarily one of organization and a committee consisting of Carswell, Jacobyan, Mulrooney, Anderson, and Colpitts was appointed to revise the Society's constitution and present it at the next meeting, to be held on Thursday, October 9. Dean, A. R. Cullimore spoke of the immense benefits to be derived by the engineering students from the Society. Prof. Miller emphasized the

The maid of honor wore a gown of green silk brocade trimmed with ostrich tips; the bridesmaids wore green silk net over green satin trimmed with ostrich tips. They carried colorful bouquets of snapdragons, dahlias and sweet peas.

The ushers were Captain Lester Templeton Gayle, Captain Fiedling Robinson, Jr. and Captain R. L. Lanté Montague, Lieutenant Catesby Jones, Lieutenant Arthur W. Glunt and William Terry Mitchell.

At the close of the service the ushers formed with their sabers an arch under which the bridal party passed.

Following the ceremony a reception was given for the families of the bride and the girl friends of the bride. After the reception the young couple motored to Wilmington and after spending the night at the Hotel duPont left for Hot Springs, Va. They will also visit White Sulphur Springs and will later spend several weeks at the home of the groom's parents in Atlanta. They will then motor to Fort Meyer where they will make their home.

The wedding was the result of a romance which began when the young people were in the service overseas. Captain Durant was a student at the A. E. F. University at Beaune, after having served at the front since the first entrance of the United States into war. Miss Evans was at the same time doing recreation work there with the Federation of Clubs Unit under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. She is a graduate of Northfield Seminary and of Women's College of Delaware, Class of 1918.

Captain Durant is a graduate of Virginia Military Academy, and served at the Mexican border. At the outbreak of the world war he was detailed to train the 8th battery, 6th Field Artillery with whom he was sent overseas early in 1917. His battery was one of the first to get into action. His father, Edward M. Durant gave up his business at the beginning of the war, entered officer's training camp, won a lieutenant's commission and served in the Motor Corps for the duration of the war.

The friends of the groom who acted as ushers represented every branch of the service. Captain Robinson is one of President Wilson's aides and Lieutenant Jones bears scars received in the world war. He has just recently been discharged from the hospital.

The bride received many beautiful gifts among them complete furnishings for their home at Fort Meyer, the gift of the groom's parents; a piano, the gift of the bride's parents, and an oil painting with a priceless frame, the gift of the groom's aunt.

The invited guests from out-of-town included Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Durant and son, Ross of Atlanta, Georgia, Dean and Mrs. Harry Hayward and daughter Mary Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Graham and daughter, the Misses, Irma, Louise and Eugenia, Misses Alice Durant and Julia Humphrey, Mr. Joseph Y. Gunby of Salisbury, Md., Mrs. R. P. Graham, and Miss Margaret Graham of Baltimore, Miss Lillian Sudler of Bridgeville; Mr. Rulon Dare of Jamesburg, N. J., Mrs. A. D. Warner, Miss Downing and Miss Georgine Downing, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Kinard, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Newlin, Millard F. Davis, Mrs. E. C. Clark, George F. Robinson, Misses Cora Downing, Paulina Smith, Alice Jeffries, Florence Ramo and Winifred Bach of Wilmington; Mrs. Raymond Armstrong, Miss Charlotte Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Taylor of Philadelphia; Mrs. Clarence C. Keyes of Farmington; Miss Harriet Evans of Elkton and Miss Gladys Walton of Iron Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McCarty, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Simms Bray, Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Whitten E. C. Bruffy, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Peel, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Speer and Miss Carrie Blount Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Motley, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Simms and Dr. and Mrs. W. Bwings, all of Atlanta Mrs. J. Lindsay Jonson and the Messrs. Ross of Rome, Ga.

On Friday evening friends of Miss Ruth Lipscomb whose marriage to Pierce Laws will take place on November 1, arranged a delightful surprise in the form of a linen shower which was held at the home of her mother, Mrs. Herbert Reynolds. The details of the affair were planned and executed by Miss Mildred Charsha and Mrs. D. Lee Rose. The guests were entertained with dancing and cards. Refreshments of punch and cake were served. Those present were Mrs. C. A. Bryan, Mrs. Harvey Boyce, Mrs. William Holton, Sr., Mrs. Henry Smith, Mrs. John Charsha, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Colbert, Mrs. William E. "Freshies" Beat "Sophs" in Tug of War

The "Freshies" beat the "Sophs" in the annual "tug of war" which has now, to a very great extent, taken the place of senseless unorganized free for all fighting and destructive horse-play of previous years.

The "rush" took place on Wednesday afternoon on Frazer field and was witnessed by a large number of residents of Newark and members of the college faculty.

The rush was in the form of a rope-pulling contest between a squad of twenty students selected from each team, and was won by the first-year boys. F. Bayard Carter, president of the Students Self-Government Association, with the assistance of other upper classmen, had charge of the arrangements for the rush.

Twenty men from sophomore class were placed at one end of about a 100-foot rope and the freshmen at the other end. The contest lasted three minutes and Coach Shipley fired a pistol to indicate the start. At the very start the freshman squad pulled their opponents about one foot down the field. The "sophs" then held and for about two minutes neither side gained more than a few inches. In the last minute, however, the "freshies" got the "sophs" started and were pulling them down the field at almost a trot when time was called. After the contest members of the two classes had several clashes to gain possession of the rope, but they were finally quieted down and the football practice was then resumed.

While it was supposed to be a scrimmage between the so-called "varsity" and "scrubs," as a matter of fact, Coach Shipley tried out numerous combinations on both teams and there was no indication whatever as to who will likely make up the "varsity" team. While one short scrimmage is hardly enough to form an opinion as to the ability of the candidates, yet it was sufficient for Shipley to pick out the strong and weak points of most of the players.

The training table for the squad was started yesterday. A number of the candidates and especially some of the former "varsity" men, have considerable extra weight to work off, but they are gradually getting rid of it. The opening game is with Franklin and Marshall on Frazer Field Saturday of next week, and the men should be in good physical shape by that time.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of my niece Madeline Devonshire. In a snow-white casket, resting all among the flowers lies my loving blue-eyed Madeline who such a little while was ours.

Gives Dance for Bride-to-be

Miss Elizabeth Wright entertained about 50 couples at a delightful dance held at the New Century Club on Friday evening in honor of Miss Alice Evans and Captain Armand Durant whose marriage took place the following day.

Yellow was the predominating color in the decorative scheme and potted plants were used profusely. A great many out of town guests including the officers who were to be attendants of the groom and his family from Atlanta, Georgia, were present. Music was furnished by Madden's orchestra.

Give Surprise Party to Couple Wedded Over Half Century

Neighbors on Depot Road tendered a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. James Webb last Tuesday in honor of the 53rd anniversary of their marriage. It was also a birthday anniversary for Mrs. Webb. A number of the friends and neighbors enjoyed a pleasant social evening. Refreshments of punch and cake were served.

The couple received a number of gifts.

DISTINCTIVE FALL APPAREL
That Mirrors the Autumn Modes

To briefly summarize our readiness: Everything that is new enough to belong to this season has a place in our stocks and nothing that is sensibly new is missing

Fall Dresses

Expressing the Utmost Individuality

Dresses--To meet your requirements which are yours, every dress offered our customers must be "different." This difference is always observable in the distinctive style, the fabrics and exclusiveness. Our selection for this season includes all the fabrics in wool and silk that are in demand.

Dresses have become an all-year-round proposition and the matter of having the correct diversity in one wardrobe is worthy of serious thought.

Street dresses come in serge, tricotine, velour and silvertone, more often than not in unadorned styles, very beautiful in length and straightness of line. On the other hand the dresses for afternoon and semi-formal wear are of silk and the removal of the wartime sombreness is the first feature they will call to mind.

New Coats

Comfortable and Attractive

OUR COATS are not to be confused with other coats for they have superiorities that less high specifications could not bring into being.

Light weight but warm fabrics for instance, whole silk linings for a second point, hand tailoring in all the important parts for a third, and practical styles and colors to furnish the final appeal.

Generous collars and cuffs of raccoon, Hudson seal, nutria, beaver and Australian opossum are to be found in many cases, such as the coat sketched above. Of silvertone, bolivia, chameleon, tinseltone, frost glow and many other fabrics.

Silks and Dress Goods

Both of these lines always to be found at their best here are shown in a range of styles and colors seldom attained by any store anywhere. All satin faced fabrics are strongly in demand in silk, while serges, silvertones and tricotines are popular in woolsens. No matter your requirements we are amply prepared to meet your needs.

Silk Underwear

Silk Underwear is no longer an expensive luxury. Improvement in making has brought their cost down to a point where they are being used almost universally. Every woman's wardrobe consists in at least a part garments of silk. Vests, Combinations, Bloomers, Envelope Chemise and Gowns are shown in a wonderful choice of styles.

We solicit charge accounts from those of established credit, and prepay delivery charges on all purchases within a reasonable distance.

SOME WILD FLOWERS CONTAIN DEADLY POISONS

Many of these Pleasing to the Eye May Not be Handled

"It is rather alarming to realize that a number of the wild flowers of which we are all so fond contain deadly poisons," says an article in "On Nature's Trail," in the September issue of the Boy Scout Magazine, Boys' Life.

"The daffodil is an instance in point. Its long, narrow leaves contain a powerful irritant poison, and children should be warned most strongly against chewing them.

"The common foxglove contains a poison which has the most extraordinary effect upon the heart, whose action may be reduced to only seventeen beats to the minute. Of any one thus poisoned, the pupils of the eyes are widely dilated, and his only chance of life is to lie absolutely still until the doctor comes.

"Everyone knows the wild arum or cuckoo-pint, with its big heart-shaped, glossy leaves. A most dangerous plant it is, too. If you chew a leaf, your tongue swells enormously; so much so that you will be almost unable to swallow. Melted butter is the best remedy for poisoning by this plant.

"The most dangerous of all common hedge-row plants is the aconite or monk's hood, which has palm-shaped leaves. A very small dose causes a strange tingling all over the body, and partial blindness. A little more and death is certain.

"These are all plants which are more or less attractive to the eye. There are others which seem to advertise themselves as dangerous. The hemlock, for instance. If you pinch a leaf it gives out a nasty, mousey odor. One need hardly state that it is very poisonous, being a powerful narcotic. The sufferer sinks into a drowsy state which, if remedies are not at hand, ends in death.

"All the nightshades have a sinister appearance and should be avoided altogether. There are also many common shrubs of which the leaves, if eaten, produce unpleasant results. Among these are the common privet, the elder, holly and laburnum.

"Plane-tree leaves will cause in some people an illness resembling a bad attack of hay fever, and this not through chewing, but merely handling them. The eyes become red and swollen, while nose and throat are sore and inflamed.

"Quite a number of plants are possessed of short hairs on their stems or leaves, which will cause a rash to break out upon sensitive skins. One such is the Primula obconica, which is one of the commonest pot plants in greenhouse or on window sill.

"Bulbs of the Roman hyacinth are covered with a sort of light scale, which comes off on the hands and sets up an unpleasant irritation which sometimes spreads up the arms.

"Many who work in conservatories or glass houses often find that hyacinths cause severe eye trouble. The idea is that the pollen is the irritating cause."

"Flying Forecasts" to Inform Airmen of Weather

All interests, civilian and military, in any way connected with aviation are expected to profit by a new service, consisting of "flying forecasts," which has been instituted by the Weather Bureau of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. By reason of this special information, which will be issued twice daily to the office of the Director of Military Aeronautics, hazardous and long flights are greatly lessened. In fact, military aviators are no longer permitted to undertake extended air trips, until they have secured the latest forecasts, to make sure that an encounter with serious storms is improbable.

These special weather forecasts are furnished also to the Naval Communication Service for the benefit of naval airmen. The reports given the military authorities include forecasts for each of 13 zones into which continental United States has been divided by the Weather Bureau. They are also supplied free to any newspaper or private enterprise on condition that the recipient pay the telegraph charges.

The need of the service was demonstrated a few weeks ago when a fleet of military airmen undertook an extended flight without securing a forecast of the weather and, in consequence, ran into a storm that caused considerable damage. This experience was responsible in part, at least, for the suggestion that the Weather Bureau supply weather forecasts in the special manner indicated.

This latest activity of the Weather Bureau is in effect a nation-wide extension to the forecast service instituted more than a year ago, when aircraft began carrying mail between large cities.

"Tastes Differ"

We all have our own likes and dislikes, our own standards of taste, in the matter of clothes, housefurnishings, amusements, and so on, and there is no reason why we should not express these if we do it in the right way. But are we taking the right way when we ridicule or condemn what we do not like ourselves? We never know when words thoughtlessly spoken may bring real unhappiness to some sensitive friend. It is better and kinder to lay quiet stress on what we like than to condemn what we do not like. Circumstances often make it necessary for people to wear clothing or use furniture or tableware that is a "thorn in the flesh" to them, and to keep this in mind, will make us more kindly in expressing our own standards.

Sound Philosophy From General Pershing

"I don't let anything worry me," says General Pershing. "I do a good day's work, and when it is finished I go to bed. And what is more, I go to sleep."

More words from the wise. General Pershing has plenty of things to worry him if he were of a mind to let them. While he was abroad he must have carried heavy mental burdens. He might have worried himself into his grave. There must have been many a day when he could not accomplish the thing that seemed vital. It took courage to send his young men by the thousand into the apparently hopeless mazes of the Argonne forest, to know how they felt like grain before the reaper at Chateau Thierry. It is not easy to determine that brave men must die.

Waiting for supplies that never came must have tried his patience and his nerve more times than history will tell. Every decision he made was freighted with responsibility.

Besides all this tax upon him as a soldier he has personal sorrows of the kind which tend to pull the eyes wide open in the dark. Yet here is his philosophy:

To refrain from worry; to do a day's work, and at the end of it, go to bed and to sleep.

It is a master recipe for insomnia. Some of the nervous people who complain of wakefulness should study it carefully. It is a creed of deliberate intention, and, what is more, anybody who chooses to live by it can do so.—St. Joseph Gazette.

American Legion Denounces "Fly Trap" Critics

Can well afford entirely to ignore the scattered darts of criticism aimed from ambush at its existence. They come from places that are as dark and obscure as they are questionable. Yet it might be profitable, in passing, to glance at their sources and inspiration. Briefly characterized, those who bark at the Legion are those who see in the Legion a menace to their own selfish ends. To the alien slacker and the little American and the confirmed exponent of the old-order-of-things the American Legion is a positive calamity.

In snarlings they do not snarl in the open. Their methods are indirect and hidden. A favorite method of attack is to set up a fly-trap newspaper and raise the cry of class distinction and what not, carrying such blatant propaganda by loudly claiming the earth for returned service men. Claiming the earth when they represent nothing but their own selfish designs and when they can deliver nothing. But the real object is not to help the service man. It is to obstruct and retard the swiftly-moving plan of the service men to take their own interests in their own hands and work them out through organization.

How unfortunate for all such that the men who were in service are proceeding to organize so as to present a solid front against such social, political and industrial charlatans must beat their heads in vain. How disconcerting to those who dreamed of exploiting the soldier vote and the soldier influence that the men have returned from service capable of doing their own thinking and intent on doing their own thinking. And having that capacity and that intention are uniting in one great body to express their own thoughts through their own organization in their own concrete way.

So long as the great common people insist on burning high test gasoline, eating porterhouse steak twice a day and wearing silk shirts and silk stockings on week days it's going to be a little difficult to lower the high cost of living.

Army Training Makes Good Business Men

"As a general rule we believe that of two men having an equal knowledge of the banking business and equal intelligence, that one who has served in the Army should be a better man."

No has had an experience in life that another man cannot hope to have. He has been subjected to a wholesome discipline and if he has good stuff in him he will have profited by that discipline and know the part which co-operative effort ably directed plays in the great world of affairs.

The returned soldiers are, right I think in asking that the training they have had be taken into consideration and that their recompense and particularly their opportunities for the future be based upon their larger status.

Nor need there be any fear that unusual ability will not be recognized and rewarded. Large organizations are constantly in need of young and vigorous men who have a detailed knowledge of the business or industry involved."

Height of Sinks and Work Tables Important

The height of a woman's kitchen sink and work tables are important factors in her well-being and well-doing. She can't do as much or as good work and feel well and strong with her sink and table so low that she has to bend over to work, or so high that she has to "reach up," as she would were they the proper height. As a general rule, 32 to 36 inches from the floor is the height for general work tables and the bottom of the sink should usually be 30 to 31 inches from the floor, the home economics kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests. However, each woman ought to find out for herself the height of the table at which she can work most easily and efficiently, and see that her work tables and sink are adjusted accordingly. Legs which are too long can be cut off, and those too short can be raised by blocks under them.

"This thought occurred to me at a school, where I asked a bright little girl:

"How did Socrates die?"

"He died, the little girl replied, 'from a dose of wedlock.'"

Home Journal Editor Resigns

The resignation of Edward Bok as editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, effective January 1 next, has been announced. H. O. Davis of Los Angeles, Cal., who has been managing editor of the magazine for the last six months, will succeed him. Mr. Bok has been editor of the publication for 30 years and in his letter of resignation said he wished to mark the thirtieth year by a withdrawal from active editorial work. He will continue on the board of directors.

Rehoboth May Have Big Hotel

General T. Coleman duPont, part owner of some of the largest hotels in the East, declared last week he favored a plan to build a large all-year-round hotel at Rehoboth Beach, provided the people of Delaware would benefit by it. A 400-room hotel to be open all year is proposed.

Church Property to be Sold

The Free Methodist Church building, erected on West High street, Elkton, twenty-five years ago, will be a thing of the past on October 4, when the board of trustees will sell the property at public sale, including the fixtures. Lack of interest in the church compels the step taken.

Offers Road Gift to Maryland

General T. Coleman duPont, of Delaware, has offered to build, free of charge, a link of road three and one-half miles long to connect the Delaware Boulevard, which was constructed by him and presented to the state, with the Maryland good roads system north of Berlin. He is seeking rights of way 200 feet wide to correspond with the width of the Delaware road. The proposition will be taken up by the Maryland roads commission as soon as the rights of way shall have been obtained. For the construction of this link the Maryland Legislature appropriated $75,000. Because of the high price of labor and materials, this fund was exhausted before the gap was reached.

New Revenue Collector Now

Harry T. Graham, appointed some weeks ago Internal Revenue Collector for the new district of Delaware, assumed his new duties today. Mr. Graham went to Baltimore Monday to confer with Collector Miles of that district relative to the work. The Delaware district has been under Mr. Miles jurisdiction up until this time.

"Oh, very well, indeed," said the other. "There is safety in numbers, you know."

"Ah!" was the instant reply. "I only found it in Exodus." — Dallas News.

GENERAL PERSHING'S HORSE PUT IN QUARANTINE

No Exception Made for "Kidron" Who Carried Commander to Victory

"Kidron," the horse that General Pershing rode to victory in the World War, began his career as a laurel wreath collector by getting in quarantine. While the great commander is playing the leading role in triumphal parade in the big cities of the country, his war horse is detained, under observation by Government veterinarians, at Newport News.

It is not that "Kidron," so far as anybody knows, has any "catching disease," but simply that he may have any equine disease, and like every other horse of the A. E. F., must stay at the port of entry for five months, until the Government veterinarians know that he is a safe animal to be at large in horse society in the United States.

Naturally, a great many people wanted to see Gen. Pershing mounted on the horse that carried him over the battlefields of Europe during the last fateful days of the world's greatest war. But there are many millions of horses and horse owners in the United States who, respectfully as they feel toward "Kidron," are entitled to protection from any disease that he may have picked up in Europe, where there are many horse diseases of which the United States has, thus far, kept clear. When the appeal was made, without the knowledge of Gen. Pershing, to the United States Department of Agriculture that an exception be made of "Kidron" and that he be allowed to come out of quarantine almost immediately after landing, in order that he might be in Washington for the parade on September 17, a regretful but firm refusal was the result.

The position taken by the Department of Agriculture is that, under no circumstances, can sentiment be permitted to interfere with the protective measures that have been worked out, slowly and sometimes precariously, for the protection of the live-stock interests of the country.

If "Kidron" were released from quarantine, he would probably visit scores of cities throughout the country, and if he had a disease, might spread it beyond all reasonable possibility of eradication. For those reasons the Department of Agriculture thought it wise not to create any sort of favored status for him.

This is not the first time such a situation has occurred. When Gen. Leonard Wood was ready to return from the Philippines, he had two horses that he very much desired to keep with him. The Department of Agriculture insisted that safety demanded their detention. President Roosevelt took a personal interest in the matter but investigation convinced him of the justice of the department's position, and the horses did not come in.

SOME QUEER ANTICS IN THE WOOLING OF BIRDS

Male Birds in an Amorous Mood Effect Complete Transformation

Mere man, under the spell of love, is commonly supposed to be not quite himself. This might also be said to be true of birds, for at the time of courtship they not only assume quite unwonted attitudes when in the presence of the object of their affection, but in not a few species perform the most astonishing acrobatic feats.

One of the most remarkable illustrations of this fact is furnished by that most interesting bird, the great bustard, which a generation or so ago was more common than now. Even in its sedate moments it is a handsome bird, the back being of a lively ochre, barred with black, while the neck and under parts are of a delicate dove color. The only ornament of the male is formed by a tuft of long feathers extending backward on each side of the head. When in amorous mood these have a role of their own, and a by no means inconspicuous one. But the "display," as it is called, of the great bustard is a very ceremonious affair.

The first stage in the proceedings is to inflate a most wonderful windbag, which runs down the front of the neck, just under the skin. How this is done no man can say, but the necessary air is somehow drawn through a slit-like aperture opening just under the tongue. As the process of inflation proceeds the head is drawn down until it rests between the shoulders, the beak pressing down onto its strange air cushion. Meanwhile the feather tufts are raised upward and thrown forward, to stand like a palisade on each side of the beak.

While this is going on the tail is raised and drawn forward till it lies on the back, where it is held down by tips of the wing feathers. This brings into view a billowy mass of white feathers formed by the under tail coverts. As the quill feathers are brought into play to hold down the tail, the long, barred "scapulars" and the pure white secondaries are in some mysterious way spread out into a sort of shield, covering each side of the body.

By the time these complex movements are completed a transformation has been effected which is almost indescribable. All likeness to the bird of a few minutes ago has vanished. What remains is a bewildering shimmer of feathers from which proceeds a series of low, guttural sounds like "oak-oak-oak" slowly uttered. As these sounds are uttered this feathered contortionist stands directly in front of his mate evidently endeavoring to excite her admiration and her consent to his suit.

No other member of the bustard tribe has quite so remarkable a display. But the great Australian bustard makes a good second. With this species the tail is also drawn forward over the back and the neck is inflated, but by a very different means, for it is the gullet and "crop" which are filled with air. At such times the "crop" forms a great pendulous bag, hanging down far below the line of the breast and swaying with the bird's every movement.

The head, however, instead of being drawn down on the back, is thrust high up into the air, the neck forming a sort of pole to which, as it were, it is affixed. In this strange posture the bird struts about with a mincing gait before his commonly passive and apparently indifferent mate. At last, however, his pertinacity is rewarded.

Among birds windbags are by no means rare devices for captivating coy mates. In some species these aids to courtship are bare of feathers and brilliantly colored, as in the case of the strange frigate bird of the tropics. Herein the air vessel forms a great crimson pouch which, when fully inflated, rivals the rest of the body in size.

This year's corn, over most of the United States, is good corn, the kind of corn that a man can plant with greatest assurance of getting a good crop. There is no knowing what next year's corn will be. It may be late, caught by early frosts, soft, and unfit for seed. The farmer who looks ahead says corn experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, will save enough seed corn out of this crop to meet his needs for two, or, better still, for three years.

The old cry, of course, will be raised that there is not time at this busy season to select seed corn even for one year's planting, to say nothing of two or three. It does take time—but it takes less time to select the corn now than it will take spring after next to scour the country for a crib of old corn, or, failing that, to find seed further south. Fortunately, the right way is the least expensive and safest way. Also, it enables the farmer to go on growing the strain of corn that has "made good," instead of getting something haphazard that he knows nothing about.

DELAWARES APPLE CROP WORTH OVER A MILLION DOLLARS

State Depends Now on This Crop for a Good Income

It is estimated that this year the crop of apples will exceed a quarter of a million of barrels or that amounts to 1,500,000 baskets which this year are selling wholesale at 75 cents a basket, which when figured out, brings the grand total to $1,125,000. In this estimate the apples used in this state for the making of jam and jellies has not been counted. This, it is estimated, totals about 10 per cent of the output.

In the months of July and August of this year the Pennsylvania Railroad shipped nearly 50,000 tons of apples from the leading shipping points like Wyoming and Woodside, with the former being far ahead. This of course counts only the early apples, and gives an estimate of the late apples which are now just about beginning to be put into cars for shipment all over the country. Delaware apples have a market that is not confined to any one locality, and the demand for them is so great, because of their goodness and beauty, that their price is also high. As a matter of fact, apples that have been grown in this state are to be found on sale in the stores of the region of the great Northwest, where it is claimed they grow the finest fruit ever.

Delaware Apple Belt.

Authorities on fruit agree that there are no better apples than those as produced in Delaware. Nowhere does the King of Fruits ripen with a handsomer skin, with juicier flesh or with a more delicious flavor than on the soils of Delaware.

The growers in this region are helping themselves by establishing zones, which for their record in producing the best are not to be excelled anywhere else. One of these divisions is in Kent county, and is known all over the country as the Delaware "Apple Belt." This belt was really established about 25 years ago in the center of Kent county by the growers of the region, who finally settled on apples to take the place of the peach crop, which at that time was beginning to wane.

This apple belt touches the edge of Dover and extends as far south as Feltton. In other words, it is about ten square miles. Most of this territory is fruit land and the fruits grown upon it, beside the apples, are pears, grapes, etc. As a matter of fact the apple belt is no better for the raising of fruit from the ground immediately to the north or south of the belt.

Finds Newark has Grown in Past Three Years

Miss Elizabeth Smithson of Baltimore visited Newark friends last Thursday. Previous to her departure three years ago she had been connected with Delaware College for more than a decade. She was agreeably surprised to find that the town has grown considerably in the past three years.

Newark High School Arranges Football Schedule

The successful athletic season of last year in the Newark High School will in all probability be repeated this year if the enthusiasm displayed in preliminary tryouts is any indication. About twenty of the students many of whom composed last year's team, reported for the first practice held on the rear of the Academy lot last Wednesday afternoon. The squad is particularly fortunate in having secured the services of George M. Longland, instructor of agriculture and science, to coach for the season. Longland played tackle on the varsity team at Delaware College last season.

Longland has been elected manager and has worked out a tentative schedule. The opening game will be played with Elkton High School at Elkton on Friday, October 10. A return game will be played on the local grounds on October 31.

The candidates who reported on Wednesday were Paul Steele, Paul Moore, Robert Major, Herbert Henning, Leonard Fawcett, Earle Evans, Leroy Crompton, John Mote, Guy Brown, Wesley Wadsworth, Victor Armstrong, William Riley, Robert Hayes, Frank Dunlevy, Floyd Hubert, Frank Durnall, William Rupp, John Hofficker, Henry Townsend, Robert Cook, and Pentose Wilson. Robert Major has been named temporary captain.

A sailor had been showing an old lady over a large liner, and after thanking him she suddenly remarked: "I see, that according to the ship's orders, tips are forbidden."

The sailor then turned to the visitor and, with a knowing look, answered: "Why, bless yer, ma'am, so were apples in the Garden of Eden."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

RED CROSS MEETING AT HOTEL DUPONT THURSDAY

Will Be All Day Conference to Discuss Further Activities and Peace Program

A meeting of the utmost interest to all Red Cross workers will be held October 2nd in the Grill Room of the Hotel duPont. The meeting will take the form of an all day conference which has been called together by the officers of the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division. The future activities of the Red Cross and the Peace program will be presented by representatives from Division Headquarters, well qualified to speak upon this subject.

After the program a discussion will take place at which the members may ask for further information or for suggestions as they see fit. Delegates from the various branches and auxiliaries throughout the State have been invited to attend this conference. All Red Cross workers, as well as the specially invited delegates, will be welcome. The meeting should be of interest to every Red Cross worker in the State and should be largely attended, as the first-hand information gained at this meeting and the inspiration of attending the meeting in person will undoubtedly do more for Red Cross workers than the message that the delegates who represent them could possibly bring to them.

The meeting will be free and open to all and it is expected that it will be a particularly large and interested audience in the Delaware Chapter, as the Delaware Chapter is one of the most important chapters in the Division, the standing of the Chapters being judged by the output and production and quality of their war work.

Following is the program for the day which has been received by Gen. Charles Bird, Chairman of the Delaware Chapter from Charles Scott, Jr., Manager of the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division:

"The future activities of the Red Cross and the Third Red Cross Roll Call will be presented and discussed in a series of all-day group conferences, to be held in:

Wilmington—October 2nd, Philadelphia—October 3rd, Harrisburg—October 7th, Pittsburgh—October 8th, Scranton—October 14th.

The largest possible group of people interested in the Red Cross and its future should attend one of these conferences. They will all be similar in character. In addition to the officials of the Chapter, the Roll Call Chairman and his assistants, there should be present delegates from each Department, and as many as possible of the active workers.

The programme to be followed in these meetings is:
9:30-10 a. m. Introductory
10:00 The Peace Programme
10:30 Nursing and Public Health
11:00 First Aid
11:30 Junior Membership
12:00 Home Service
12:30-2 p. m. Luncheon recess
"The Membership Drive."

2-3 Speaker
3-5 Round Table discussion by Departments.
All Red Cross Workers are urged to come and be on hand October 2nd to make the meeting in Wilmington as fine a meeting as the Division will find on its tour of five cities.

W. C. T. U. Convention to Be Held at Dover Next Week

The fourth annual convention of the Delaware W. C. T. U. will be held in Dover on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 8, 9, and 10. Judge Bardsley of Washington, D. C. will deliver an address on Wednesday. Governor John G. Townsend, Jr. Secretary of State Everett C. Johnson and others prominent speakers will also address the convention. Mrs. Salo Friedewald will give a recital on Thursday evening. Mrs. Victor duPont, Sr. Mrs. William P. Hilles and other prominent workers will be present.

There are few of us, who if we really give our minds to it, cannot find time in which to live rightly and by living rightly we live longer and gain increased happiness for ourselves and our fellow-men.—Olive Green.

"HIGH COST OF LIVING" SUBJECT OF CHAPEL TALK

Economist at Delaware College Suggests Increased Production

In chapel yesterday, Dr. Homer Hoyt discussed the "High Cost of Living." Dr. Hoyt's address contained a statement of facts concerning the High Cost of Living, with its resulting consequences; and a resume of suggested remedies together with the real remedy. Increased production was clearly demonstrated to be the only permanent relief from this perplexing question.

Dr. Hoyt showed that the 1919 dollar had so declined in purchasing value as to be equal only to a 1915 half dollar. This shrinking of the purchasing value of money has compelled New England widows and orphans, who were dependent upon the fixed income from bonds, to apply for charity. The police strike in Boston, and other forms of social unrest were also shown to be directly due to the rising cost of the necessities of life.

Of the suggested remedies for the high cost of living, Dr. Hoyt thinks that the outcry against profiteers is largely a popular delusion, and that price fixing and the seizing of hoarded goods are only temporary expedients. Professor Irving Fisher's proposal for preventing price fluctuations, by varying the amount of gold in the dollar from month to month, Dr. Hoyt feels, will ultimately be adopted altho it does not completely solve the present problem.

More production, Dr. Hoyt believes, will solve the problem in its entirety. It is not a question of getting a paper increase in wages or in making a paper reduction in prices, the real problem is to enable the average man or woman to get a larger income in terms of bread, butter and automobiles! In this country, there is a fixed capital invested in building, machinery, and railroads of about 50 billion dollars, and it is necessary to pay the interest on this capital even if the factory doors are closed, the machinery idle, or the freight cars empty! High prices stimulate production and if production is increased, the markets are flooded with goods and prices decline.

Fire Destroys Home at Lewisville

Fire early Sunday morning destroyed the home of Mrs. Emma Alexander at Lewisville together with her winter's supply of coal. For a while the blaze threatened other homes in the town but the quick response of the Singler Fire Company to the call for aid and their excellent work kept the fire from spreading. The loss is estimated at $3500 partly covered by insurance.

State Board of Education Here Friday

George B. Miller, president of the State Board of Education, Pierre S. duPont, secretary of the State Board and State Commissioner of Education Arthur R. Spaid met with the local Board of Education on Saturday to discuss the matter of a site for the proposed new school building. The sites available were visited and discussed. Suggestions were offered by the State Board, which will be discussed at a meeting to be held this week, when it is probable that the site will be chosen.

First Bake Saturday

The ladies of the M. E. church will hold the first of a series of bakes in the vestibule of the church on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 6.

Many of the club boys and girls have come so fond of the animals they have raised as club projects that they find it hard to carry out their original intentions of disposing of them to increase their bank accounts or to buy thrift stamps.
