In memory of those who have served...

Before the parade on Sunday, a memorial ceremony was held on the University of Delaware mall in front of Memorial Hall. Jim Snider (left) stands, eyes closed, for a moment of silence. Below, The 3rd U.S. Infantry (The Old Guard) Fife and Drum Corps came from Washington D.C. to play and march for the audience gathered at the ceremony.

Newark officer earns national honor

Officer Thomas LeMin of the Newark Police Department has become one of the first law enforcement officers in the nation to earn recognition from the National Law Enforcement Credentialing Board.

Lemin was among 94 law enforcement officers from across the nation receiving Law Enforcement Officer citations at a press conference recently in Washington, D.C. The NLECB citation is achieved only by officers who meet the highest national standards for knowledge, skills, values, ethics, community commitment, and professional respect.

"By earning this award, these individuals comprise an elite group of law enforcement officers who have demonstrated excellence in their profession," said Rick L. Weisman, executive director of the NLECB and a 23-year veteran police officer in Columbus, Ohio.

"Our goal is to identify the finest to serve as role models."

The three-phase credentialing process is open only to full-time officers with at least five years of law enforcement experience and a college degree, or eight years of experience with no college. They also must demonstrate a commitment to continuous improvement through 50 hours of training directly related to their profession and use their skills to help elevate others in the profession through activities such as writing articles or mentoring.

In addition, successful applicants must have 100 hours of community service, recommendations and evaluations by supervisors, peers and community members, and a passing score on a computerized examination that tests their general knowledge in eight areas, including ethics.

RABIES ALERT

Delaware Health and Social Services' Division of Public Health has identified a probable case of rabies in a dog brought to the Delaware Humane Association in Wilmington. The dog, named Diamond, was a black and tan male shepherd-terrier mix weighing approximately 30 pounds. He resembled a small shepherd dog with a typical terrier 'beard' (long, wiry hair on his muzzle).

The Division of Public Health is asking that any person visiting the facility between April 27 and May 7, 1997, who may have been scratched or bitten by Diamond, call the Delaware Rabies Program at 302-739-7728 or the 24-hour Rabies Hotline at 302-736-9037. Only those who were scratched or bitten by this specific dog are at any possible risk.

There is no reason to believe that other animals at the Delaware Humane Association have, or are at risk for transmitting rabies. As a precaution, the Humane Association voluntarily quarantined its facility for 10 days, from May 8, through on May 19. Animals are available for adoption.

There is no danger of getting rabies from touching or petting a rabid animal unless saliva from that animal gets into an open wound, or into the eyes, nose or mouth.

Police seek info on attempted sexual assault

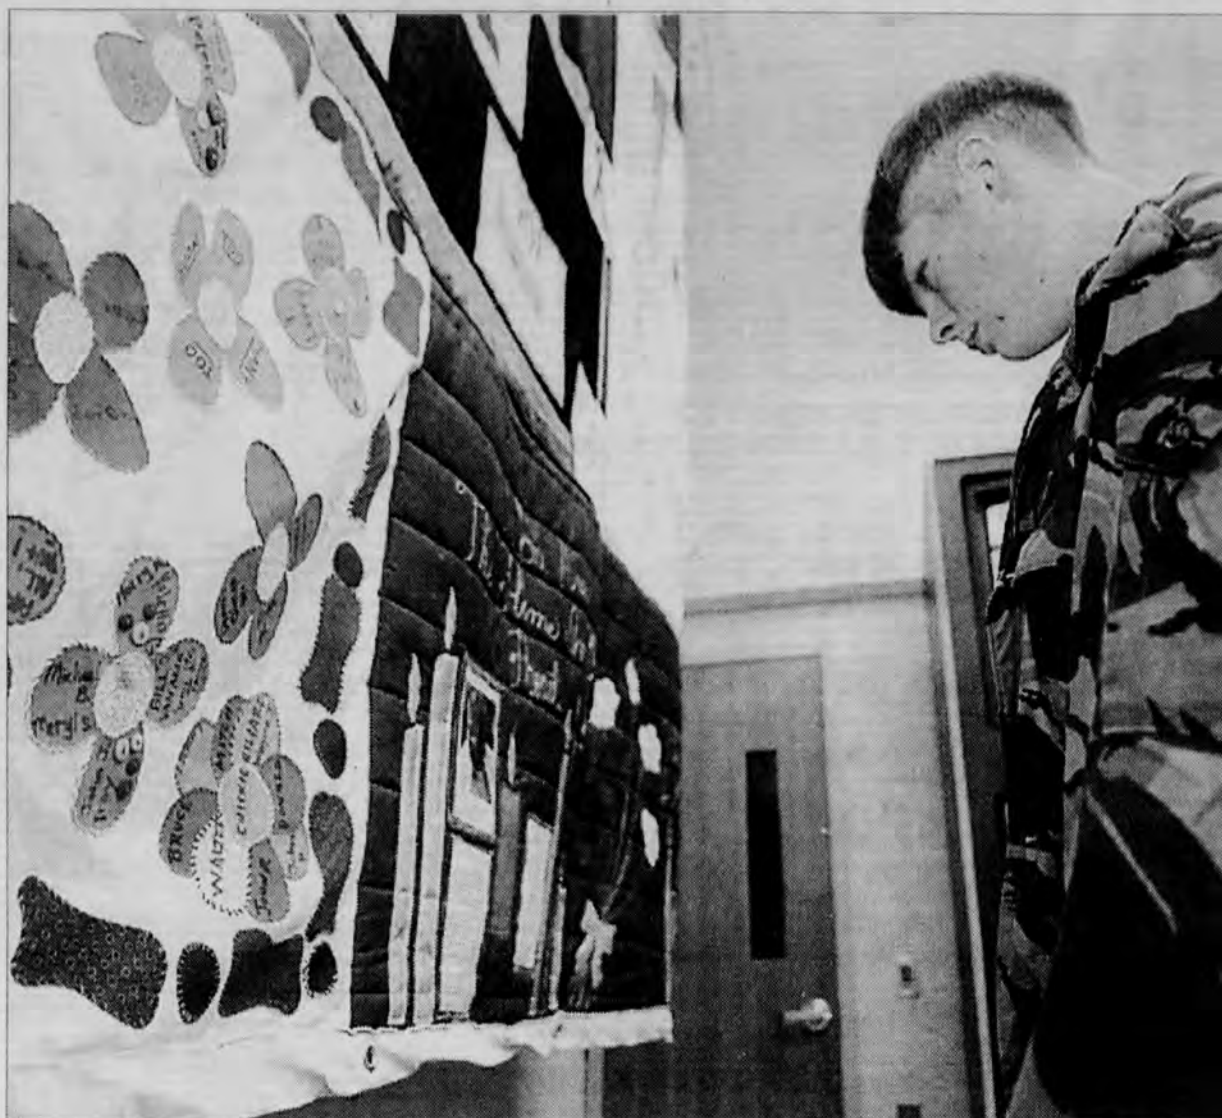

Newark Police are investigating a kidnap and attempted sexual assault which occurred on Wednesday around 12:30 p.m.

A 24-year-old female University of Delaware student told police that she was walking east on Elkton Road when a white male approximately 19 years of age approached her.

The suspect lured her into his dark gray vehicle on the pretense of needing directions. He then drove her to a secluded area on Creek Road where he attempted to sexually assault her.

The woman was able to fight off the attack and flee to joggers along Creek Road who called police.

Anyone with information is asked to call Newark Police at 366-7111.

Jim Murray examines two panels of the AIDS quilt on display at the Newark High School recently. The presentation of the quilt, which also had a signature panel for signing, was arranged by the Newark Key Club through the sponsorship of the High School Names Project. On May 14, the Project, led by Tom Meehan, conducted a remembrance ceremony at the school.

Keeping an eye out

According to media officer Curt Davis, the camera which was mounted across the tracks from the station, is light-sensitive and runs 24 hours a day.

"We have tentative permission from Amtrak to move it closer when the new railroad station is complete," said Davis.

The historic station which houses the Bob Thomas Museum of Newark History as well as the offices of the police union and the Newark city employees credit union has been vandalized repeatedly in past years.

On Sept. 6, 1996, an overnight fire caused more than $20,000 in damage. At that time, Police Chief William Hogan said a "suspect developed early in the investigation" of what was believed to be an arson fire, but the police did not have enough evidence to make an arrest.

Suggestions for increased security at the station included warning signs to trespassers, cutting trees for better visibility, and a video camera connected to the police station. The site already has smoke and burglar alarms connected to the Newark police which helped limit the fire damage in 1996.

Bayard student scores in 24 Challenge

Some of Delaware's best and brightest displayed their lightning-fast mental abilities at the Delaware 24 Math Challenge tournament on April 26.

Almost 140 public and private 4th-8th grade students qualified for the tournament sponsored by Bell Atlantic at the University of Delaware. Some 40,000 students participated in the playoffs held in classrooms and schools prior to the finals throughout the state.

Winners in the two-hour final were: 5th grader William Buckley of Richardson Elementary School, Red Clay District; 6th grader Kelly Royer of Bayard Elementary School, Christina

District; and 8th grader Nick Meyer of Gunning Bedford Middle School, Colonial District.

In a 24 Challenge competition, students study a card with four numbers. They may add, subtract, multiply or divide the numbers to come up with a total of 24. All four numbers must be used and each can be used only once. The answer is always 24.

The first person to come up with the correct combination is the winner.

The brilliantly simple 24 game has reached an estimated five million pupils nationwide and abroad since its creation in 1988.

Police investigating most recent robberies

Newark Police are investigating two late evening robberies which occurred within four days of each other in Newark.

Around midnight on May 15, a white male suspect drove up to the Newark Parking Authority booth in the lot behind the Galleria and demanded money from the 20-year-old attendant. After the cashier gave the man an undisclosed amount of cash, the suspect described as 20-25 years old with a short "buzz cut" hair style, and wearing a blue t-shirt and sunglasses, drove eastbound on Delaware Avenue in a dark blue Honda hatchback.

On May 19 around 11:30 p.m. a 37-year-old Kimberton man was walking across the railroad bridge at Marrows Road when two black males approached him from behind. The men held a knife to his throat and forced him to the ground where they beat him with their hands and feet. After taking some cash and the man's wallet, the suspects fled on foot. The man was transported to Christiana Hospital with facial injuries.

Police are asking anyone with information about either of these incidents to call 366-7111.

TURN IT DOWN!

Despite early morning clouds, Sunday turned out to be almost picture-perfect for a Memorial Day Parade.

"We had a lot of calls from people asking about a cancellation," said parade coordinator Linda Burns. "But there have to be buckets of rain for us to cancel."

Burns said the turnout was better than last year's when unseasonably hot and humid weather resulted in a smaller crowd.

"Everyone involved did a good job," said Burns. "We were even on the Channel 6 news."

Burns also noted that Colonel Daniel N. Sundt, USA, (Ret.), celebrated his Memorial Day birthday a little early by leading the parade.

"He'll be 90 years old on May 30," Burns said.

Award for best appearing Division I marching band went to Avon Grove High School with Glasgow High School in second place. That didn't matter to Amanda Kelly (above), though. She thought they were all too loud. Division II bands winners were: first place, William Penn High School, and second place, Christiana High School.

Honors for best appearing drum major went to Glasgow High School. In the Jr. R.O.T.C. marching units, awards were: Navy, best appearing; Air Force, first runner-up; Marines, second runner-up; and Army, third runner-up.

Don't die for a drink at the party

Spring brings with it many special occasions, especially for high school students, including the prom and graduation. Unfortunately, these events are often marred by young adults who drink alcoholic beverages and then drive.

Drunk driving remains the leading cause of death among America's teenagers - the only age group in our society whose life span is decreasing annually.

AAA Mid-Atlantic urges parents, guardians and educators to offer high school students the opportunity to learn more about the legal ramifications of underage drinking and the hazards of driving while under the influence. Students and parents need to know the facts about alcohol:

- The legal drinking age in every state is 21 years.
- Teenagers who are caught purchasing alcohol will automatically have their license suspended for a minimum of one month.

■ Fifty percent of all traffic fatalities involve an intoxicated or alcohol-impaired driver. High school students can have fun at the prom and graduation by staying alive and by staying sober. Ask your high school or your parents about hosting an alcohol-free afterprom party.

Dressing for success

WE LIKE the current trend in the Christina School District. Starting this fall, three more schools will have dress codes for students. The Early Childhood Centers at Bayard and Bancroft elementary schools as well as Drew-Pyle elementary will require certain dress by students. The school board has okayed the regulations and will evaluate the success of the dress code next April.

The newly-approved plans are more limited than the experiment underway at Shue-Medill Middle School this year. In fact, they require more a "uniform" than a dress code.

Shue-Medill was the first public school in Delaware to implement a dress code following highly emotional public hearings last year. Generally, the Shue-Medill experiment has been dubbed a success.

According to school administrators, more than a dozen community meetings were held to gather public and student input for the new proposal. The school district heard no objections and the code is set for next fall.

For many years, private and parochial schools have seen the value of dressing alike...and they usually do not have the discipline problems that Christina schools hope to solve with the new plan.

As we said in this space last year, Shue-Medill principal Robert Adams was brave to test the stormy waters of dress codes. His journey has been rewarded with an improved learning environment at Shue-Medill.

Personal expression may be limited a bit by dress codes but the regulations seem to be a worthy change in the learning place.

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week, "Out of the Attic" features another photo from the family album of William J. Clancy, Jr. His father, Bill Sr., managed the State Theater on Main Street for nearly three decades. Using the movies on the marquee as a reference, we believe this photo was taken about 1955. The DeLuxe Luncheonette at left was opened by the Laskaras family in the mid-1920s and operated until 1990 when its building and the State were razed. In this space on May 9, we ran an earlier photo of the State that showed Norman L. Harris Credit Jewelers in the storefront left of the box office. In this shot, that space is occupied by the Blue Hen Laundry. "Out of the Attic" features historic photographs from Newark's history, recent and long ago. Readers who have a historic photo and would like to share it with other readers are invited to loan their photos for reprinting in this space. Special care will be taken. For information, call the Newark Post, weekdays, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at 737-0724.

Banquet of Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night

That the banquet of the Newark Chamber of Commerce to be held in the College Commons, on Thursday night will be a success is assured by the large number of acceptances of invitations that have been received. Already seventy-nine persons of Newark have accepted the invitations to be present at the affair. This is the initial dinner of the newly organized body and all the members of the organization are working towards its success.

One feature of the event will be the telephone demonstration to be put on by E.P. Bardo, of the Wilmington office of the Diamond State Telephone Co.

Matrimony holding back teachers

That the thought of matrimony is causing teachers in Delaware to lack ambition, was brought out in an informal discussion at the May meeting of the State Board of Education.

One plan that is being urged by the State Board is that the teachers attend the sessions of the Summer School conducted here in Newark each year.

Those teachers who have applied themselves to the summer course of instruction have rarely failed to win advancement and corresponding increase in salaries.

Council backs Windy Hills residents

Many of the Windy Hills residents who attended the Monday night Newark City Council meeting came away convinced that the city is concerned about the development's future.

Council denied the application of Dr. Leonard Drazek, an orthodontist, for a special use permit to open dentists' offices on the first floor of a home located on Capitol Trail.

The vote was 6-1, with Mayor Norma B. Handloff the lone dissenter.

Land annexation up for voter at May 26 meeting

Newark City Council will have yet another opportunity to vote on annexing 65-acres of privately owned county land on Tuesday.

City officials say because the annexation plan was not accompanied by a subdivision plan, the negotiations with the developers, Transition Realty, Inc., have taken a little longer.

The latest proposal would limit development along a nine acre strip adjacent to Elkton Road to zoning that would permit neighborhood shopping use.

AS THE END OF THE SCHOOL YEAR is fast approaching, the time is right to share this mom's trials and tribulations at the Kelly household and as we continue the journey through preadolescence.

There are many joys happening. Kimberly (now prefers just Kim) has maintained second honor roll status through the fifth grade, and still enjoys going to school every day which is evidenced by perfect attendance for the last two years. She also has not discovered The Newark Post and doesn't seem to mind me sharing our lives. On the flip side, the trials experienced are sometimes both inexplicable and bewildering.

Through the sharing of our lives' ups and downs, my wish is to inform and also to prepare other parents out there on what to look forward to, and in some cases to brace themselves for, as our children approach and travel through those very interesting, oftentimes scary teenage years.

As much as I love this child of mine, sometimes I wish during an outing to the supermarket, library, etc. I could walk up to and tap a stranger on the shoulder and say, "If you can take this child and keep her 'til she's 18 and then give her back to me, I'll pay you quite well."

"Pages from the Past" is compiled from early editions of the Newark Post and its forerunners by staffer Julia Sampson. Efforts are made to retain original headlines and style.

PASSING THOUGHTS

A little whining goes a long way

By JAMES B. STREIT JR.

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

GRIPING IS PART of the American culture and is prevalent here in Newark. I try not to whine but feel the urge today to unload my pontifical comments on a variety of subjects.

Nobody asked me but... DelDOT continues to amaze me. I moved to Newark five years ago and there has been construction along Rt. 896 ever since. Road projects here seem to move at a pace slower than my children when told to empty the dishwasher while "Seinfeld" is on.

Newark's state rep Tim Boulden, the new chair of the House Transportation Committee, has a solution. Next month, when the legislature reconvenes, he will introduce a bill that will allow DelDOT to award public works contracts to other than the lowest bidder, provided the construction is done at night.

This has tamed many a traffic temper in other states. At first, my journalism colleagues tell me, road construction costs rise. But competition forces a return to the current level when construction work at night becomes the norm.

Any Water's Edge or Four Seasons resident would favor this, I'm sure.

Nobody asked me but... I'm confused about the current McDonald's promotion. How come I have to spend $2.64 to get a Big Mac for 55 cents?

Nobody asked me but... tossing cigarette butts out a car window is littering. Most smokers I know are extremely considerate of those of us who don't. But I'm constantly aggravated by traveling smokers who flick their glowing butts out of their cars with no remorse. Not only is this a fire danger, it's unsightly. I don't see smokers flinging empty soda containers and food wraps out car windows; why throw the butts?

Nobody asked me but... I hate it when you enjoy a 90-minute meal at the Galleria but only get parking stickers to cover 30 or 60 minutes. Even worse, I get angered when a clerk makes you feel like a streetperson because you beg for another Newark Parking Authority sticker. I vote with my feet; I don't return to businesses who were granted parking waivers but only reluctantly dish out validation stickers.

Nobody asked me but... the headline of that News Journal editorial really caught my eye. A couple of weeks ago, a commentary was headlined "Butt tax increase...." My imagination was vivid until I realized the paper was referring to cigarettes.

Nobody asked me but... Maureen Feeney Roser is a valuable city employee. Through my newspaper and volunteer work, I've been able to watch the City of Newark's assistant planner in action. She's professional, considerate of the feelings of others, and amazingly tactful in diffusing otherwise heated discussions. Most recently, her work leading the group tackling solutions to Newark's parking "problems" (somewhat akin to finding a cure for AIDS) has been noteworthy.

Nobody asked me but... Councilmember Nancy Turner may be watching too much TV. Her recent cross examinations of other councilmembers lead me to believe that maybe she's been glued to Court TV or reruns of "Perry Mason" recently.

Nobody asked me but... I worry about the future of community service groups. As my own Newark Rotary Club grapples with dwindling membership (and hence resources for service projects), so do the Lions, Kiwanis, Little League and other traditional community servants. Time management hot shots claim there's never a time issue, only a scheduling problem. But today's lifestyles for today's parents leave little time or energy to "give back." Most want to, I believe, but soccer practice and a second job get in the way.

Nobody asked me but... it's a shame someone with a sense of civic pride does not have control over the Roy Rogers property. Property owners certainly have their rights, but it's a pity this eyesore remains in the middle of an otherwise reborn downtown Newark.

Nobody asked me but... I won't be at the Kenny Rogers concert. As the scrolling billboard outside The Bob proclaims in fluorescent dots, Kenny Rogers will perform at the Bob Carpenter Center next winter. Kenny has all but lost his voice, probably since his days with the New Christy Minstrels and The First Edition. Think I'm crazy? Listen to his 1980s and 90s releases. The orchestration is so strong you can barely hear his strained, crackling voice.

Nobody asked me but... the formation of the new Newark Landlords Association is good news. The bad news is the real problems — the absentee owners — probably won't involve themselves in the new group any more than they involve themselves in maintaining their properties.

Nobody asked me but... I'm not impressed with the new ownership of Suburban Cable. Sure, they lowered the cost of HBO a few cents. But suddenly I keep hearing horror stories from people forced to deal with their "customer service" office.

I had a taste of condescending service recently. First, I was on hold for an extraordinary amount of time. Finally, I canceled Showtime only to be curtly informed "that would only save me six dollars." I hadn't asked for the operator's evaluation of the wisdom of my decision.

This was only the beginning. Our numbers differed when we got specific about the next month's bill. Without listening to my explanation that I was holding their invoice in my hand, the cable wizard told me I was wrong. I was informed my billing was from the 27th even though the bill in my hand cited the first of the month. Her computer was right, I was told, and I was wrong.

Steamed, I held my ground and reluctantly walked the operator through my reasoning. Suddenly, silence. Then more minutes on hold as she checked with her supervisor. Finally, she agreed with my number.

Who would have ever thought we'd long for TCI back?

Nobody asked me but... it's time to experiment and lift the 9:30 p.m. parking ban on Main Street. No one wants a return to those thrilling days of yesteryear when Main Street looked like a scene from "American Graffiti." But I have confidence that Chief Hogan and his troops — with appropriate support from all involved — can prevent such a reversal.

Nobody asked me but... "can all the bagel outlets survive?" I think not (I also privately predicted the closing of Jam 'N Java, Brewed Awakenings or Brew Ha Ha by last Christmas!)

Nobody asked me but... Mom didn't pick up my tux. I have been amazed the past weeks observing the lines outside Formal Affairs on Main Street the evenings before prom nights. There were many young men in line, for sure, but also a fair sampling of mothers.

I know times have changed, but I can't imagine my mother agreeing to pick up my senior prom tuxedo rental. She would have sooner asked me to turn my stereo volume UP than stand in line with a bunch of smelly jocks and beer-fueled fraternity guys.

Life isn't 'just peachy'

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

LIFE ISN'T a bowl of cherries for some trees in the landscape, especially a group of close cousins called "stone fruits." Flowering and fruiting selections of cherry, plum, apricot and peach particularly attractive to a number of devastating pests and diseases. Here are three of the ones most noticeable now.

The pests-of-the-season are eastern tent caterpillars. They are nearly full-grown and have constructed large tents of silk in the crotches of wild and landscape trees left to their own devices. Control now is merely mechanical—get a rake to pull the nest out of the tree in the early morning or evening and stomp on any caterpillars that fall out. If you are vigilant next spring, get to them very early with a couple of B.T. sprays to the foliage they like to eat. For more details to help you plan for next year, get a copy of our "Tent Caterpillar" fact sheet as described at the end of this article.

Moderate temperatures and damp conditions as new leaves just emerge are ideal for development of peach leaf curl. Leaves appear distorted and swollen and can have an orange or yellow tinge. As the disease progresses, the leaves and infected succulent twigs will become a powdery white as spores for the next cycle of infection are released. The spores overwinter in the microscopic structures in twig tip tissues that haven't even decided whether they will become leaves. So the new leaves that emerge are full y infected before the homeowner even notices the symptoms. Infected leaves can't be saved, but healthy trees can re-foliate in early summer. Prevent a recurrence of peach leaf curl with a dormant spray of lime-sulfur in fall or late winter.

Black knot also affects peaches, cherries and other Prunus species. This fungus takes two years from infection to fully develop into the black encrusted swellings on twigs in spring. If black knot is affecting fruiting plums, try Cleary's 3336 as an added ingredient to the brown rot prevention schedule (see our "Peach Spray Schedule" for details.) Bertha Meredith, a waitress at the Post House Restaurant on Main Street for over 30 years, said she is like a grandmother to the many teens and college students who work there.

'Waiting' a long time

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

MAIN STREET was a very different place when when Bertha Meredith started working as a waitress at the Post House Restaurant in the 1960s.

The Newark Weekly, Rhodes Drug Store, Farmers Bank, and YMCA lined the street together with Abbott's Shoe Repair, Eagle Furniture, and Murray's Toggery.

The Farm and Home Supply & Hardware was still in business and had a Laundrall business in the basement. The Newark Municipal Building was at Academy and Main.

There weren't many places to eat, though. "The Newark Diner (later Jimmy's and Jude's) was here," remembered Meredith. So were the Simone's Restaurant, Chuck's White Coffee Pot, the Deer Park Hotel and the University Inn, billed as "Newark's Nicest Place."

But as a place to get a good meal anytime of day, the Post House couldn't be beat. One of the specialties when she started was Delmonico steak, Meredith recalled. "The food's always been good and the place is clean," she noted. "That's why people have come back."

As recently as 1996, Delaware Today Magazine named the breakfast at the Post House "Best in Delaware."

Long time customers at the Post House have become "family" to Meredith, even taking up a collection when she had a heart attack 16 years ago.

in 1963. "We lived in several places in Newark, including George Read Village and Choate Street," said Meredith, who currently resides with her granddaughter in Fox Run. During the 1970s, Meredith even lived in an apartment on Main Street.

"When I first started at the Post House, I worked the night shift for about a year," said Meredith. "I worked 3-9 p.m., five or six days a week."

For the past 30 years, Meredith has worked the day shift from 6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. "I like this better, because I don't like going to work at three in the afternoon."

Meredith said the customers and staff at restaurant are like family to her after all these years. "They come in as babies and then their babies come in," she said.

Carmelo Palazzo, retired supervisor of fine arts in the Cecil County Schools, said the Post House was the first place he and his wife ate in Newark. "We went there with our realtor after a day of looking at homes in the Cherry Hill Development," said Palazzo who still lives in Newark. "We had their famous ribeye platter and Bertha was our waitress."

Some of Meredith's regulars have included University people like Bill and Betty Hibble, or schoolteachers like Ellen Ribbaugh and her husband, Bob, who live in Maryland. "Ralph the barber still comes in, and so do Mr. and Mrs.

Stacker," said Meredith.

According to Meredith, Mr. Stacker worked for DuPont and Mrs. Stacker worked for the city of Newark.

"Henry Clark who used to be a car salesman still comes in," said Meredith. "And Otis Huff who works at Newark Lumber has been coming in ever since I was here."

Like many of her other customers, Meredith knows Huff's order by heart. "Two scrambled eggs, soft, with bacon," she recited without pausing. "One reason people like him come back is that I know what he likes."

Meredith's family of customers got together to help her 16 years ago when she had a heart attack. "They took up a collection for me because I was out of work for almost a month," said Meredith.

"Waitresses don't get many benefits so it was really wonderful of them."

Among those who look forward to seeing Meredith behind the counter of the 28-stool restaurant are two little girls. "They stand at the end of the counter and won't leave until they kiss me goodbye," Meredith said.

Princess Boxer, Meredith's granddaughter, said the customers love her grandmother. "At Christmas, she comes home with more gifts than she gets at home!" Boxer marveled.

Meredith recently cut back her hours at the Post House to only weekends. "My arthritis is real bad but I want to keep doing it as long as I can," Meredith said. "It's the only way I can keep seeing the cus-

Campbell collection makes for a 'soup-er' exhibit

A "SOUP-ER" new exhibit and a fine new gallery to house it open at Winterthur Museum this weekend. I may have to apologize for the awful pun, but not for what you will see if you head out the Kennett Pike beginning this Saturday.

The "Cream" (again with the puns!) of the magnificent Campbell Collection of Soup Tureens has been moved from the Campbell Museum in Camden, New Jersey, and is now ensconced in its new home, the Dorrance Gallery at Winterthur Museum, Garden and Library on Route 52, six miles west of Wilmington.

Unless you were fortunate enough to visit the Campbell Museum, it is rather difficult to imagine just how beautiful and what a work of art a soup tureen can be. None of us has to make the trek to Camden any longer to marvel at their design.

The Dorrance Gallery itself is a joy to the eye. The display cases were designed by Stephen Saitas to complement the light, airy quality of this glass enclosed space. Discussing the new gallery Patricia Halfpenny, curator of ceramics and glass, noted, "Saitas worked closely with Winterthur to create an inviting environment where the exceptional qualities of these splendid pieces can be enjoyed by all our visitors." Just stepping inside the Dorrance proves her veracity. The gallery is named to honor the family owners of the Campbell Soup Company since 1876.

But now to the "Meat" (last pun, I promise!) of the new exhibit which opens to the public this Saturday. There are 125 of the most significant tureens in the collection on permanent display.

THE ARTS

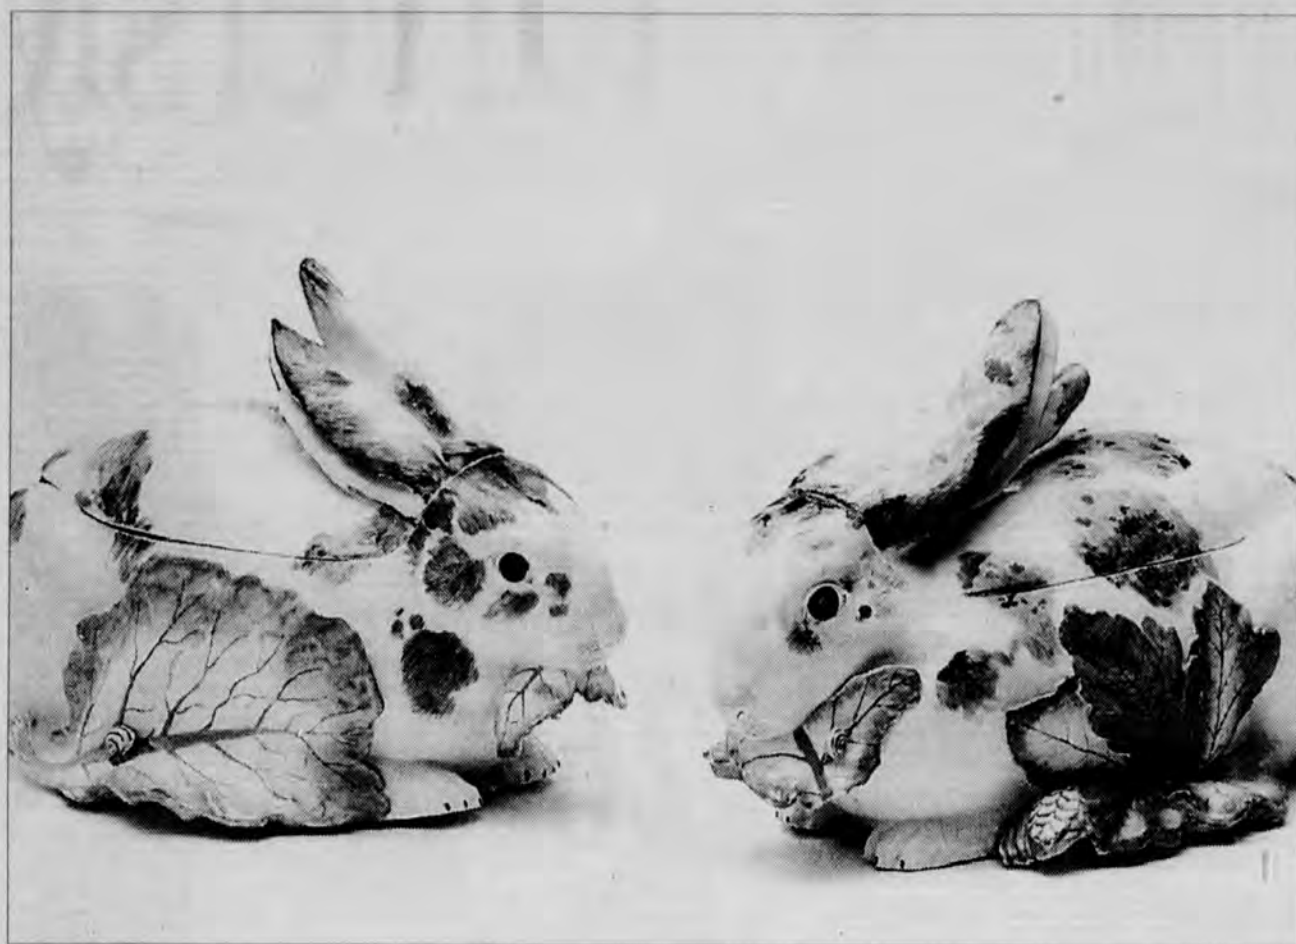

By PHIL TOMAN

Among the metal tureens on display is a striking one made of silver with naturalistic allusions to woodlands and countryside, surmounted by a black bear battling four hunting hounds. It was made for Danish royalty, in 1866 and bears the mark of court silversmith Anton Michelsen.

That one makes quite a contrast with another tureen which caught my eye. This one has two delightful Chelsea rabbits on colorful leaves with snails doing quite a balancing act. It was made in England at the Chelsea Porcelain Factory about 1755.

Harbor and port scenes dominate one from Germany. This hard-paste porcelain was made by the Royal Porcelain Manufactory in Meissen between 1735 and 1740. Another hard-paste porcelain tureen rests on an ormolu support and was part of a large service of more than 350 pieces made to celebrate the marriage of Prince Frederick of the Netherlands and Princess Louise of Prussia in 1825. The intricate hand painted decorations include landscape panels showing The National Library and Gendarme Square in Berlin.

For the more contemporary

These rabbit tureens, made of soft-paste porcelain with hand-painted decoration in enamel colors, were manufactured at the Chelsea Porcelain Factory, London, England. The company sale catalogues of 1755 and 1756 list similar individual pieces as "Fine tureen in the form of a rabbit as big as life."

minded there is one by Bill Stewart made in 1976. It is called "The Great Sells - Four Paws Soup Tureen Menagerie." As always, there is something for everyone to see and enjoy on a visit to Winterthur.

By way of history, the Campbell Soup Tureen collection was begun in 1966 by then chairman of the board John T. Dorrance, Jr. It soon became a most distinguished collection. It was donated to Winterthur about a year ago and it is now ready for us to visit and enjoy.

Everyone at Winterthur is very excited about the new gallery and exhibit. Dwight P. Lanmon, director of the museum, was definitely among the happiest. "The Campbell tureens are superb and we are thrilled to have a collection of its caliber on permanent display. Many of these objects were made for European royalty." Frankly, I share his excitement and I think you will too.

Other items in the donated collection will travel the country on tour. On the itinerary are stops in California, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Minnesota.

According to Hillary Holland, manager of media relations at Winterthur, "A new catalog of the collection will be available in 2000." You may have to wait for the book, but you can see the real thing this weekend.

Admission to this exhibit is included in any Winterthur ticket. The museum is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $8 for adults; $6 for seniors, students and groups and $4 for children 5 to 11. For more information you may call 302-888-4600 or 800-448-3883. Their TTY number for the hearing impaired is 302-888-4907.

Memorial Hall one of many buildings to be renovated

► RENOVATIONS, from 1

In his recent presentation to the Delaware Legislative bond committee, Roselle said, the number one priority is the final installment of $3 million for the construction of MBNA America Hall, and the renovation of Purnell Hall, both expected to be complete by August.

According to Roselle, the University is raising $4 million in support of these projects while the state provides $11 million over four years.

The second priority is for $4 million as the first installment of $7.5 million needed to renovate Memorial Hall. The University will provide $1 million for this project.

Built in 1923, Memorial Hall has not been renovated since its last addition in the 1960s. Renovation will focus on all classrooms and offices, replacement of windows, updating mechanical, electrical and communications systems, and making it handicapped accessible.

The third priority is $1 million for facilities renewal and renovation, an amount to be matched by University on at least a one-to-one basis.

Roselle said the University is about to commit over $24 million to updating and modernizing residence halls along the central Mall in the next four years, and over $9 million to replace HVAC and make other improvements in Christiana Towers.

One of the buildings planned for significant renewal is DuPont Hall, a 70,000-square foot structure built in 1957. Replacement of windows, renovation of research and teaching laboratories and building code and handicapped accessibility issues will be addressed.

Roselle also asked the state for $500,000 to begin planning for the renovation of Wolf Hall built in 1916. This would be the initial installment of a total appropriation estimated at $12 to $13 million over four years.

In addition, the University administration would like $500,000 for one-time acquisition of equipment essential to the cutting edge research in such areas as soil microbiology, the physical biochemistry of proteins, gene targeting and gene insertion and deletion.

$5.4 million science grant to benefit elementary students

The state of Delaware has received a five year, $5.4 million grant aimed at raising student performance statewide in elementary science.

Dr. Margaret Cozzens of the National Science Foundation, presented Gov. Thomas Carper with the grant expected to serve as a model for standards-based reform in Delaware.

Written by the Department of Public Instruction with a coalition of nine Delaware school districts and a host of local corporations and businesses, it is one of only four grants of its magnitude awarded in the United States.

The grant money will be used to augment the "Smithsonian Project," initiated two years ago in answer to growing concerns that only about 35 minutes a week was devoted to science instruction, quality curriculum materials were scarce, and professional development was insufficient.

Operating out of the Science Resource Center, the Project has provided time, resources and professional development to more than 1,200 teachers, effectively reaching more than 27,000 students. The NSF grant combined with added state, local and business funds is expected to benefit more than 1,800 additional teachers.

The grant will specifically target the nine coalition school districts: Cape Henlopen, Indian River, Milford, Seaford, Laurel, Woodbridge, Appoquinimink, Colonial and Red Clay.

"This is an excellent opportunity for the state" said state education secretary Dr. Iris T. Metts. "This landmark grant used in conjunction with the Science Resource Center will provide invaluable professional development and hands-on science teaching that will ensure the incorporation of best instructional practices and implementation of standards-based curriculum in every classroom."

Participating companies included DuPont, DuPont Merck, Hewlett Packard, Hercules, Ciba-Geigy, Delmarva Power and Bell Atlantic. In addition to technical support, the NSF provided funds for the purchase of re-usable science modules.

'I started out being an understanding give-her-some-room-to-grow kind of mom'

► MOM, from 6

I've tried this and it just doesn't seem to work. I figure these folks must have kids of their own that they are trying to get someone to take them, too!

Each school year is unique. This year has been particularly interesting. I still maintain an ongoing relationship with God to help me get through. He's been good to us and has blessed us with health, a roof over our heads and has kept us safe from harm and danger and I am most grateful.

This mom also prays for more patience and the ability to learn to let go and not worry so much. He did, however, not answer one prayer and I'll share that a little later.

Boys are still the number one topic of conversation. Boys are fondly referred to now as "Da Bomb" which for all who may not know, is something good. "Da Bomb" is another way of saying "this guy is cool." This year, though, was the beginning of letter writing to boys.

I started out being an understanding give-her-some-room-to-grow kind of mom and just cautioned her about letter writing and being careful of what she wrote. I painfully remembered as a child, my very personal detailed letter about a boy getting into the wrong hands. I recall arriving home from school with my mother standing at the door looking not too happy with letter in hand given to her by the recipient's parent.

I soon learned the parable of giving a child an inch and they will take a mile. I ended up having to "lower the boom" or drop "da bomb" when the letter writing progressed to passing notes at school. She got the message of this being totally unacceptable and was quickly and firmly informed of the consequences. I've had no more trouble in this area - for right now!!

Another interesting lesson I've learned involved rap music. Over the past few weeks my daughter has grown a "walkman" on her ears. I have given up calling her because she doesn't hear me. She informed me that she wants a cassette by Lil Kim (a female rapper) for her birthday present. I thought to myself, now isn't that a cute name - Lil Kim (like Little Kim).

I fondly thought of "Lil Abner" and "The Little Rascals." Thankfully, I had the good fortune to be at a seminar last week. Several in the group were much younger than I. When I casually mentioned that my daughter wanted this tape of Lil Kim and that I planned to pick it up at our lunch break, did they school me!

They asked me if I ever heard her music and that I might want to listen to it before I bought it. They also alerted me to the new rating stickers that are placed on the CDs or cassettes for sale. As it turns out, Lil Kim is not a "nice" girl, but a very "nasty" girl and when I heard some of the lyrics in the song, I was shocked - and I don't shock easily anymore.

Unlike the male rappers and their violent message, some of the female rappers' message is very sexually explicit. I certainly appreciated these folks educating me about this, for they could have just snickered, said nothing, and later talked about this mom who needs to get with it.

Now briefly to the prayer God did not answer. I asked God not to rush nature and that I was not ready for certain biological occurrences, nor was Kim at age 10. Her pendulum moods swings were coming fast and furious without notice and I needed more time to get ready for the crossover from child to young woman. We were still getting rid of baby teeth, but now on top of all other changes, PMS has now been introduced and this mom is going mad. Sometimes, I wonder whether our dear neighbors have contemplated dialing 911. Stay tuned...we're two women sharing the same space. Need I say more!!

Newark police fawn over baby deer

► DEER, from 1

According to Animal Control Officer Donna Vickers, a resident in West Branch called the police around 8 a.m. on May 16 to report that a fox had carried the tiny deer across their yard.

The resident scared off the fox but needed assistance for the baby whose mother was nowhere to be found.

Vickers said when she first saw the newborn which she named "Randy," it was suffering from shock but did not appear to be injured.

The officer called Hillary Taylor, one of four licensed Wildlife Rehabilitators in Delaware.

"He wasn't injured and after he took a bottle, he was fine," said Taylor. "As soon as he was stabilized we called the game warden to ship him downstate where eventually he can be released directly back into the wild."

Taylor explained that deer cannot be released in New Castle County because it is too built up. "We wanted to move him as soon as possible because deer get harder to transport as they get older," she said. "They can be tranquilized but even that can harm them."

Animals are kept at a release site until they can feed and care for themselves in the wild. "We try to get everything back into the wild as soon as possible," Taylor said, "because wild is where they belong."

The baby deer will "probably" be ready to be released by the end of summer. "He can't go back until he eats what he's supposed to and knows what to do," said Taylor. "But, like children, all animals mature differently so we never know exactly when that will be."

Animal control officer Donna Vickers holds the tiny deer.

Rash of car incidents continues in Newark were notified that two suspects were breaking into cars in the parking lot at Colonial Garden apartments. After a brief foot chase, two black male suspects were apprehended.

Police said two Hondas had been broken into in the lot and electronic equipment was found in the suspects' vehicle.

Sometime after midnight on the same night, a 1988 tan, 4-door Mazda was stolen from the parking lot at the apartments.

The following night around 1:15 a.m., the owner of a 1995 Nissan Pathfinder ran up to an officer on foot patrol near Choate Street and told him his car was being stolen. The officer radioed an officer in a patrol car who spotted the suspect vehicle at the intersection of East Cleveland Avenue and Capitol Trail.

Police chased the vehicle west on East Main Street, through the rear of the Newark Shopping Center, and out onto North Chapel Street. The high speed pursuit continued north on Route 72 and west on Corner Ketch Road before police finally managed to stop the vehicle at the intersection of Doe Run Road and Little Baltimore Pike.

The operator of the stolen vehicle, Jesse L. Dickson of Wilmington, was charged with felony theft, failure to stop on command, reckless driving, disregarding a redlight, disregarding a stop sign, driving at a speed greater than reasonable, passing on the right, and driving with a suspended license.

Police reported that two vehicles were stolen this week from the lot at the Howard Johnsons Motel on Route 896, one overnight on May 14-15 and one the next night.

A 1991 white Dodge Shadow was stolen from Thorn Lane overnight on May 15-16 and later found at Old Capitol Trail by county police. The vehicle, which the owner had not even reported stolen yet, had a popped ignition and two flat tires.

On the same night, unknown persons pried open the driver's side window of a vehicle on Thorn Lane and removed the audio subwoofers.

Newark musicians return in triumph

NEWARK High School students returned triumphantly from their recent week at the All American Music Festival in Orlando.

Competing with 15 other schools from eight different states, the band, orchestra and choir performed in 10 events and brought home more than 30 awards. In addition, 12 students won superior ratings in the solo competition.

Among the individual awards were: String and Symphonic orchestras both received First Place, superior ratings; the Chamber Singers placed Second with a superior rating; and the Concert Choir came in Third with a superior rating. Concert Choir soloist Susie Luljiura received the award for Outstanding Solo.

Christina School Board president Charles Hockersmith, himself a musician, said he attended the festival and overheard a comment by the judges. "They thought our Chamber orchestra was finer than most adult orchestras," Hockersmith said.

The Symphonic Band and the Stage Band both received outstanding ratings; the Wind Ensemble and Jazz Ensemble won First Place with superior ratings.

The Jazz Ensemble also received the awards for Best Overall, and Best Percussion section with musicians Onaris Waters and Steve Politowski.

The Marching Band took six awards with a superior rating in Field Show and Parade, Best Drum Majors, Best Brass section, First Place in Parade, and Overall Best Marching Band.

Best Drum Major was awarded to the Newark trio of Jason Wells, Jessica Kuhlman, and Cana Salemi.

According to NHS band director Lloyd H. Ross, students from around the nation compete in the music festival over 14 weeks with awards going to the winners in each week. At the end of the festival, grand champions will be announced in selected categories.

Soloists from all 200 schools invited to the festival may submit tapes in advance to be judged separately. This year 12 students from Newark sent tapes in February and all of them received superior ratings.

Kurt Marsden was also one of only eight students among the 50 soloists who received an instrument for a distinguishing performance.

A caravan of seven buses carried 280 musicians together with parents and school staff to Florida for the weeklong event.

The orchestra was directed by Rosaria Macera; the choir by Kim Pyle, the Symphonic Band and Stage Band by Jonathan Wittman, and the Wind and Jazz Ensemble by Lloyd H. Ross.

Residents stand up to be counted

Local state legislators recently announced results of opinion surveys of their constituents on local and statewide issues.

State representative Timothy Boulden (R-Newark) said that his 1997 23rd District survey showed that more than half of the respondents are against a proposed increase to the state gasoline tax.

Nearly half supported an increase in state funding for bicycle access, but said they were against construction of a pedestrian tunnel at the Casho Mill underpass.

More than 60 percent of the respondents said they favored extending Route 4 in Newark to Barksdale Road, and more than half supported a re-design of Main Street, at New London Road if the plan would improve traffic flow in the area.

Three-quarters of Boulden's respondents did not think the governors of Delaware and Maryland had done enough to resolve the regional transportation problems between New Castle and Cecil counties; nearly 90 percent said impact fees from developers in Delaware's three counties should pay for transportation improvements.

Representative Pamela S. Maier (R-Drummond Hill) said, of the 887 people polled in the 21st District, nearly three-quarters supported "graduated licenses" for 16-year-old drivers.

Slightly more than half said that the state should consider remote cameras at intersections to identify motorists who willfully disobey traffic signals.

Nearly three-quarters said they did not support a requirement that the state fund bus transportation for children attending private schools, and more than 60 percent did not believe that school libraries should be open for public use.

More than 70 percent said they believed that people over age 65 who make under $30,000 a year should be exempt from school taxes; however, 76 percent supported hiring teaching assistants in order to reduce the student-teacher ratio in K-5 grades without building new classrooms.

In a health-related question, 80 percent said that medical insurers should be required to pay for services related to mental illness in the same way as physical illnesses.

State senator Donna Reed (R-Newark) said her Spring 1997 resident survey in the 11th Senate District showed 93 percent of her respondents support freezing local school tax rates for senior citizens with incomes under $30,000.

Maier

Only 32 percent of those responding supported making county row offices such as the Clerk of the Peace appointed instead of elected.

People were evenly-divided on two issues with 57 percent approving cameras on traffic lights to catch drivers who run red lights, and allowing certified persons to carry a concealed weapon for protection.

Of those polled by Reed, 83 percent were in favor of curfew laws for minors; 81 percent were in favor of revoking the driver's license from minors who are expelled from school; and 80 percent supported the idea of allowing schools to test suspected students for drug abuse.

Seventy percent would allow a garbage incinerator at Pigeon Point; 65 percent would allow Wilmington's sewage treatment system to be privatized; 80 percent said they believed in ending state affirmative action programs for hiring or scholarships.

Shue students set academic record

SHUE Middle School students not only won the recent academic challenge for 7th and 8th grade students in New Castle County, they set the record for the highest score ever.

According to team coach, Marilyn Bryant, the team from Shue scored 480 points in beating Kirk Middle School students for the first place finish in the 4th annual Texaco All-Star Academic Challenge. Shue team members included: Rob Taber, Philip Lewis, Michael Denny, Brad Phillis, and alternate Jon Yamall.

The team from Gauger Middle School came in 4th, beating Wilmington Friends School with a score of 295.

Modeled after the televised high school version, the middle school challenge was created by Wesley College to highlight academic excellence. It is open to all private and public middle schools in the county.

The first place team received a 30-piece Rand McNally Classroom Atlas. Each of the 48 participants got a "gift bag" with items from various sponsors including Zany Brainy, Christiana Mall, and Star Enterprise.

Student musicians at Newark High School recently returned from an Orlando, Fla., competition with top awards.

Caravel nips Glasgow in state softball

Biddle, Beatson lead Bucs

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

BEAR — It was a neighborhood battle that lived up to its billing.

Megan Biddle pitched a three-hitter and Melissa Beatson had two RBI and scored a run to lead eighth-seeded Caravel Academy to a 3-1 victory over ninth-seeded Glasgow High in the opening round of the Delaware High School Softball Tournament Wednesday afternoon.

The win advances the Bucs to a quarterfinal matchup against defending state champion and undefeated Brandywine Saturday at 11 a.m. at Delcastle Recreation Area.

Glasgow ends its season with a 15-4 record.

Caravel got all of its runs in the third inning.

Jamie Keyes led the inning off by getting hit by a pitch. Lisa Delcollo followed with a walk. Kati Salony sacrifice bunted the two runners to second and third base and Beatson's single to center drove both home.

Beatson would eventually score the third run on a wild pitch.

"Melissa Beatson was very big for us today," said Caravel coach Steve Baker. "Without her hit we probably don't score."

Biddle, meanwhile, kept the Dragons hitless through the first five innings.

Kristin Nau hit a triple in the sixth for the Dragons' first hit, but she was stranded at third base.

Glasgow did rally in the seventh inning as Adrienne Welch led off the inning by reaching first base on an error. Kirsty Lloyd followed with a single to left field.

Caravel's Stephanie Rice slides into home plate in the Bucs' regular season finale against St. Mark's. Both teams qualified for the state tournament.

Biddle got the next two batters to pop up and strike out.

Pinch-hitter Lisa Scanlon then sharply singled to right field to score Welch. Lloyd, however, was thrown out at the plate for the game's final out.

"We were trying to be aggressive there," said Glasgow coach Larry Walker. "We really hadn't hit Biddle all game and when we saw the throw from the outfield go to first base we thought we could score. But give them credit, they made the play."

The seventh inning was the only time Glasgow sent more than four batters to the plate all game.

"Biddle was the difference," Walker said. "She was very tough. She throws hard and has a good change. She did a great job against us."

"It was a good season for us. I thought we fell a little short of our expectations but I think we played well most of the year."

Julie Van Deusen limited the Bucs to just two hits but gave up six walks and a hit-batter.

"This is a great win for us," Baker said. "I think it gets us some respect around the state. We don't play in a conference and a lot of people don't know how good we are."

Biddle struck out five and did not walk anybody.

"I felt good out there," said the senior pitcher. "We knew they have a good team. I've played against them all in Little League before so I knew they weren't going to give up."

Kati Salony picked up Caravel's only other hit with a double down the left field line.

"This is a bitter sweet win for us," Baker said. "It's sweet that we won and get to move on."

"But it's a little bitter in that we had to play Glasgow so early. I know and coached (in Little League) most of those players. If we don't win we root for them."

St. Mark's nine rips CR, preps for state tourney

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

MILLTOWN — The St. Mark's High baseball team got ready for the upcoming state tournament in the best way possible.

The Spartans ended their regular season with a 12-1 romp over Caesar Rodney Monday afternoon. The win was the fourth straight for St. Mark's, which will take a 12-5 record into Saturday's opening round of the Delaware High School Baseball Tournament.

St. Mark's, facing one of the most respected pitchers in the state in CR's Dave Williams, pounded the Riders with eight first-inning runs.

Brian Hudock, Billy Cooper, Chris Birch, Andrew Veveiros and Jason Kraiss all got hits and scored in the rally. Neil Jarom and Chuck Rotenberry also scored for the Spartans.

"He was one of the better pitchers around," said St. Mark's coach Tom Lemon of the CR hurler. "To get eight runs in the first inning like that is a good effort for us. We hit around .333 as a team this year, so I think we can hit the ball."

The Spartans added single runs in the second and fourth innings and two more in the fifth two provide the final margin of victory.

In all, St. Mark's had 12 base hits with Birch and Kraiss leading the way.

Defensively, the Spartans were led by the combined pitching effort of John Williams, Kevin Murphy and Hudock. The trio limited the Riders to just two hits and combined for seven strikeouts.

"Our pitching has been good at the end of the year," Lemon said. "At the beginning of the year we had problems with walks but I think we've looked good down the stretch."

"Our three left-handers did real well [against CR] and we also have Matt Munneke, which gives us a good four-man rotation entering the tournament."

"I'm happy where we are right now."

The Spartans, who finished third behind Salesianum and St. Elizabeth in the Catholic Conference, received the third seed in the tournament and will host No. 14 Tower Hill Saturday at 11 a.m.

"I think the tournament field will be a strong one but I also think there's a lot of balance," Lemon said. "Teams have been knocking each other off all year. I really

ONE KEYED the offense and one keyed the defense.

Both proved to be the difference in Caravel Academy's 3-1 win over neighborhood rival Glasgow High in Wednesday's opening round game of the Delaware High School Softball Tournament.

Beatson, the Bucs' shortstop, had a part in all three of Caravel's runs.

She hit a two-run single and came around to score herself on a wild pitch in the Bucs' three-run third inning rally.

"Melissa Beatson had a big game for us," said Caravel coach Steve Baker. "Without her hit, I don't know if we score or not. She was responsible for all three runs."

While Beatson produced the runs, Biddle didn't allow any.

The senior pitcher, headed for the University of Connecticut on a softball scholarship next year, hurled a three-hitter. She struck out five and didn't allow a walk.

She did not allow a hit to the sixth inning and didn't face more than five batters in any one inning.

"Biddle was the difference," said Glasgow coach Larry Walker. "She was very tough. She's a good pitcher. She throws hard and has a good change. When they got three runs, we knew it would be an uphill battle against her."

Pogach advances to state final

By MARTY VALANIA

Newark High senior tennis player Andy Pogach completed an amazing career in a familiar place.

The Yellowjackets' second-singles player won three matches, including a victory over the top seed, and advanced to the second-singles championship match of the Delaware High School Tennis Championships. For Pogach it was the fourth straight year, at a fourth different position, that he advanced to the finals.

Second-seeded Shad Keene, of Seaford, topped Pogach 2-6, 6-3, 6-2 in the championship but that didn't take away from Pogach's accomplishment.

"I noticed in the first set [Keene] was missing the shots on the big points," Pogach said. "But I knew he was playing pretty well. In the second and third sets he didn't miss those shots."

"What he accomplished is amazing," said Newark coach Rick Gwinn. "He won 73 matches in his four years and made it to the championship each year. That's a lot of victories."

As a freshman Pogach played second doubles and made the finals. He moved up to first doubles as a sophomore and again qualified for the championship. His junior year saw the move to third singles, where he again went to the championship match. This year he moved to second singles and, although unseeded, advanced to the final again.

In all Pogach won 73 high school matches and was 2-2 in his four state finals.

"After my freshman year I thought it was great that I had one chance to get to the championship," said Pogach, who will attend the University of Pennsylvania next fall. "But then I got there again as a sophomore. Then I thought it was great to do in doubles but I'll never make it in singles — and I did."

"Then this year I saw I had to play the top seed right away and thought I had had a good run. But then when I won that — that was the biggest win of my life — I thought I could get back."

Newark's Cori James — second-seeded at third singles in the girls' tournament — earned second place by advancing to the final before finally losing to Concord's Margarita Golod.

TENNIS

As a team the defending state champion boys finished a strong season by finishing ninth in the tournament. The team finished the regular season with a 13-2 record but saw its 36-match win streak come to an end.

"We had a good year," Gwinn said. "We had a great group of guys and did very well."

Gwinn also pointed out the academic and athletic success of the team.

First singles player Jordan Golinkoff, a former state champ at first doubles, will be attending Yale; Pogach will attend Penn and third singles player Jon Schwartz, a former state champ at first doubles, will attend Cornell. The first doubles team of Dasharath Gopinath and Adam Lippstone will attend Carnegie-Mellon and Ithaca respectively and the second doubles team of Mike Boylan-Kolchin and Toshal Roy will attend Columbia and Delaware respectively.

"It really was an amazing group," Gwinn said. "To have four Ivy Leaguers, plus the other schools these guys are going to, is a real testament to their hard work."

Christiana tops district rival Newark

By MARTY VALANIA

SOFTBALL

CHRISTIANA — Christiana High won a season-ending softball battle over district rival Newark Friday afternoon.

The Vikings banged out 11 hits and took advantage of 10 Yellowjackets' errors on their way to an 18-6 victory. The win improved Christiana's record to 5-13 overall and 3-11 in Flight A while Newark dropped to 6-12 overall, 4-10 in the conference.

Christiana jumped out to a quick lead with two runs in the first inning and five more in the second.

Second-team All-Flight A short-stop Felicia Freimuth, who led the way for the Vikings with five hits and five runs scored, scored twice in the first two innings as did Misty Dobson. Heather Burke, Karyn VanVeen (also a second-team all-conference selection) and Holly Sloniewski also scored in the early inning rallies.

Other contributors to the Vikings were Cody Allen, Erin Halfen, Jen Hetland, Jen Robinson, Michelle Kitchen, Belitza Torres, Megan Shepherd and Kristin Gray.

"We had a roller coaster season," said Christiana coach Joan Lumb. "We either played well or very awful over a stretch of the season. We actually lost five games by one run."

"The way we played against Newark is the way we were capable of playing all year."

The Vikings lose just two seniors — Freimuth and Tammy Ellis — and Lumb hopes the team will continue to improve next year.

Newark's offense was led by Laura Streets, who belted a two-run homer. Senior Dan Gennusa hit a run-scoring double while Jen Forshey added a single.

"We were up and down all year," said Newark's fifth-year coach John Taylor. "I really think it was a matter of confidence. We have a young team and I'm not sure they knew how good they really can be."

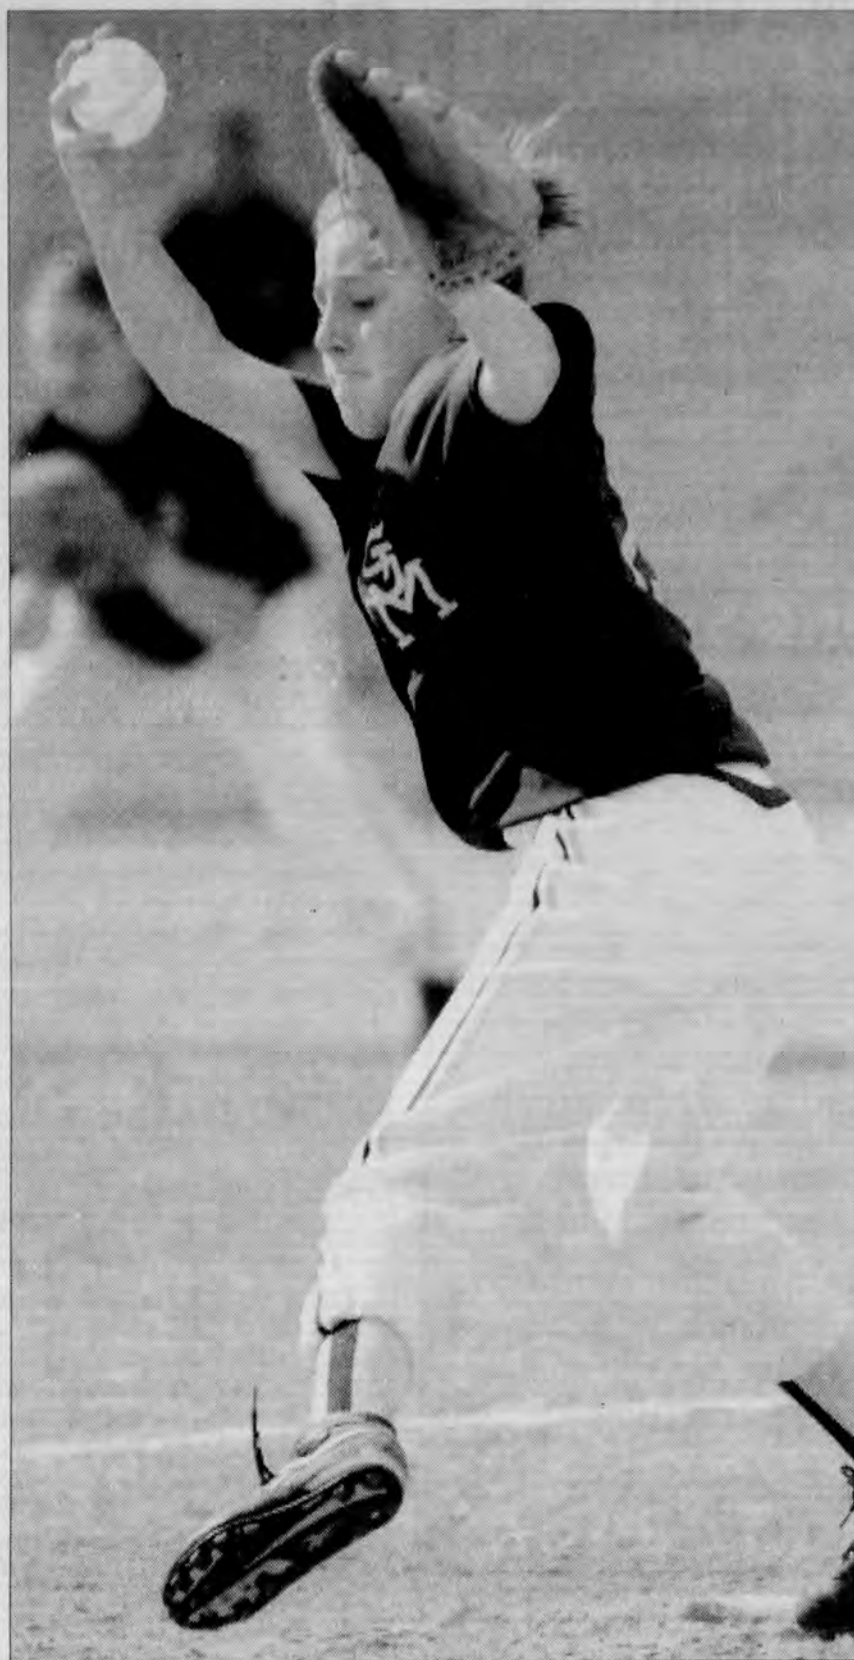

Although the Jackets ended the season with a 6-12 mark, Taylor noted the team showed improvement over the course of the season.

"We beat William Penn for the first time since 1978 and we beat Mount Pleasant for the first time since I've been here," he said.

Taylor was also pleased with his pitcher Streets. The freshman was a second-team All-Flight A selection.

"I was really surprised by the number of strikeouts she was able to get as a freshman," Taylor said. "She really kept us in a lot of games. She had a good season."

Newark loses just two starting seniors and Taylor feels the program is moving in the right direction.

Glasgow races to state titles

Boys and girls both run away with crowns

WOODSIDE — Glasgow High's track and field dominance was reaffirmed as both the Dragon boys and girls teams captured Division I state championships at the Delaware High School Track and Field Championships Saturday at Polytech High.

Erin Anderson led the way for the Dragons by winning the long jump, triple jump, finished third in the 100 meters and was also a member of the winning 4x200 relay team.

Kina Thornton won the 300 hurdles, placing third in the 100 hurdles and running the third leg of the winning 4x200 relay team.

Glasgow finished with 110 points to easily out-distance second place Delcastle, which had

The boys also won convincingly, scoring 118 points to top second-place William Penn's 76. Newark finished eighth, Christiana ninth and St. Mark's 14th.

hurdles, finishing third in the 110 hurdles and being part of the 1,600 and 800 relay teams which finished third and fourth.

Senior Nick Fede also had a strong meet, winning the 800, finishing second in the 1,600 and running a leg on the second-place finishing 4x800 relay.

Other place winners for the Glasgow boys included: Fawad Nisar (3rd, 800; 4th, 1,600); Damon Drummond (4th, 400); Vinnie Giles (5th, 200); Gary Payne (2nd, high jump); Bobby Bryant (4th, shot put; 4th discus) and Jerry Smith (5th, pole vault). Newark, St. Mark's in state quarters

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The girls soccer tournament takes center stage Saturday night at Glasgow High.

Second-seeded Newark and third-seeded St. Mark's both received byes into Saturday's quarterfinal round games.

The Yellowjackets will play the winner of the Archmere-Caesar Rodney game at 8 p.m. while the Spartans will play the winner of the Christiana-Dickinson game at 6.

Defending state champion Alexis I. DuPont, which compiled a 16-0 record during the regular season, earned the top seed and will play the winner of the Tatnall-Concord game Saturday night at 8 at Caravel Academy.

The Spartans finished the regular season with a 13-1-2 mark. The only loss came at the hands of A.I. while the ties were against Newark and Christiana — a possible quarterfinal foe.

"I think we got a very tough draw," said St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis, who won a state championship in the fall with the Spartans' boys team. "We could either play Christiana — a team we didn't beat — or Dickinson — a team that tied Newark in the last week of the season. That's a tough first game."

And if St. Mark's gets by that quarterfinal game it would face Newark again.

Newark, by recent history anyway, should have a bit easier time in its quarterfinal round game. The Jackets crushed Archmere 5-0 in the regular season and the Auks beat CR during the regular season.

"It's a journey into the unknown," said first-year Newark coach Hugh Mitchell. "I know it seems like we have a good draw. But last year this team beat Sanford in the regular season and lost to them in the tournament. Two years ago Newark beat Ursuline in the regular season and lost 5-0 to them in the tournament.

"So it's happened two years in a row. I think we'll be ready this year."

The semifinals are scheduled for a doubleheader (6-8 p.m.) May 28 at Caravel and the championship game will be 7 p.m. May 31 at Caravel.

Christiana makes state tourney

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

GLASGOW — The Christiana High baseball team made a bit of history Tuesday.

The Vikings topped district-rival Glasgow 15-7 and ensured themselves a spot in the state tournament. It will be Christiana's first appearance in the state tournament in many years.

"I can't remember the last time a Christiana team made the tournament," said Christiana coach Scott Tuozzolo, who is in his last year as the coach of the Vikings. "If it's not the first time ever, it's the first time in a long time."

The Vikings scored 11 runs in the second inning to take control of the game against the Dragons.

Paul Oakes led the Vikings' offensive attack with a home run and five runs-batted-in. Jordan Donovan, also the winning pitcher, was 2-for-3.

Roger Richardson led Glasgow with three hits while Shaun Watson added a double and three RBI.

The victory closed out a strong finish to the regular season for Christiana, which beat Mount Pleasant and Dickinson as well in the last week.

"We knew we probably had to win the last three games to get into the tournament," Tuozzolo said. "At least two out of three. But we were able to do that and I think this group deserves to get into the tournament."

Christiana started its season off well winning six of its first nine games. But then the Vikings hit a down spot before recovering at the end.

"We were very inconsistent," said the coach. "I'm not taking anything away from our players, but we didn't play as well as we could in the middle of the year."

"But it's a testament to them to come back like they did."

"There are some good athletes and some good people on this team. A lot of them have won at different levels and in other sports. That carries over to this team."

Christiana, which is the 12th seed, opens tournament play Saturday at 11 a.m. at fifth-seeded William Penn.

Lemon's last season

After 20 years of involvement with the St. Mark's baseball program, Tom Lemon will retire at the end of this season.

Lemon, who has been the varsity coach for the last 16 years after four as the junior varsity coach, compiled a 240-75 (.762 winning percentage) record and won three state championships (1985, '88 and '94). His teams also played in four other state title games.

"It's been 20 years and that's enough," Lemon said Tuesday of his decision. "It's time for someone else to do it now."

Lemon will continue at the school as the alumni director.

Hasty, Lantagne lead Virginia Wesleyan

Former Glasgow High All-State soccer players Matt Hasty and Matt Lantagne are now starting midfielders for Virginia Wesleyan College.

Hasty starts at right wing and Lantagne at left wing.

The Marlins won the eighth annual 7-Aside Beach Classic and the 11-Aside West Chester Classic.

At the West Chester Tournament, Virginia Wesleyan defeated West Chester 1-0, Elizabethtown 1-0, University of Delaware 2-0 and Villanova 1-0 in a shootout.

The team's only loss came to the professional South Jersey Barons. The Marlins, however, won the tournament based on a point system.

Hasty scored the game's lone goal in the win over Elizabethtown.

Both Hasty and Lantagne contributed greatly to Glasgow's 1995 state soccer championship team.

COLLEGE UPDATE

Anderson plays lax at College of Wooster

Matthew Anderson, a graduate of Newark High, recently completed his second season with The College of Wooster's lacrosse team.

Anderson, a sophomore philosophy and art history major, appeared in six games at midfield for the Scots.

"Matt played well when called upon," said Wooster coach John McKechnie. "He should see more playing time next season."

As a team, the Scots finished with a 7-8 record.

Newark High graduate Rusty Kahl participated on the Franklin & Marshall track team this season. Kahl, a senior, ran the distance races for the Diplomats.

Daughter of Newark Post founder honored by historical society

Marjorie Tilghman, whose father, Everett Johnson, founded the Newark Post in 1910, was honored recently by the Newark Historical Society.

About 100 members witnessed the presentation of their 1997 Community Service Award to Tilghman at the society's annual dinner on May 15.

Robert Thomas, president of the society, said the choice of award recipient was "unanimous this year" and praised Tilghman's early and continuing support of the historical preservation group.

"From the very beginning of this historical society, Mrs. Tilghman has been a loyal and enthusiastic supporter," Thomas said, "and it's about time that we get around to recognizing her contributions."

After accepting the award, Tilghman presented a faded printing of a Victor Hugo piece to Thomas, noting that it had been printed decades before by her father at the Press of Kells. The printing business and newspaper were once housed where the Newark YWCA now stands at College Avenue and Park Place.

Tilghman also read aloud a composition that she had written when she was a student at the University of Delaware.

Following the award presentation, Thomas narrated a slide presentation on the White Clay Creek and its historic path through Newark.

Sorenson honored throughout Delaware

State senator Liane Sorenson (R-Hockessin), right, was recently honored by two Delaware organizations on the same night.

The Family & Workplace Connection presented Sorenson with the 1997 Delaware Tomorrow award because of "her long history of advancing the causes of children and families in Delaware both in her professional and personal life."

The Connection, a private, non-profit dependent care resource and referral organization, provides ser-

Patterson-Schwartz joins Realty Alliance

RICHARD T. Christopher, president of Patterson-Schwartz & Associates, Inc., announced that the company has joined The Realty Alliance, whose membership is comprised of 50 of the largest real estate companies in the United States.

"Patterson-Schwartz was a member of The Dozen (one of two organizations which merged to form The Realty Alliance)," said Christopher, "and realized tremendous benefits from the relationship."

According to Christopher, the collective strength of the 50 member companies will position The Realty Alliance to better compete in today's rapidly changing real estate industry.

Christopher further stated that his company's membership in the Alliance will allow PSA to take advantage of a number of strategic marketing opportunities currently being developed at the national level.

Patterson-Schwartz was founded in 1961 and currently holds over 35% market share in New Castle County, Christopher said. Services include relocation, appraisal, commercial brokerage, a real estate school, new homes, and land and farm divisions, property management and home financing through a partnership with Gilpin Mortgage.

There are over 300 Patterson-Schwartz Sales Associates in offices throughout New Castle and Kent counties.

First-timers offered low rate mortgages

The Delaware State Housing Authority has opened its first-time homebuyers program again, allowing some state residents to qualify for low-interest mortgage loans.

Under this year's program, Delawareans who have not owned their residences within the past three years could be eligible for loans with interest rates as low as 6.5 percent.

The current local average is 7.5 percent.

A total of $29 million of the low-interest loan money has been spread among 17 banks and new home builders throughout the state.

Income limits and purchase price limits vary depending on family size and the county in which the property is located.

Last river house on display

The magnificent 40-acre former Cauffiel Estate on Philadelphia Pike is on display through June 9 during the River House Festival.

This unique event features upscale designer interiors of the home, exquisite garden designs, a professional art and antiques show, and a garden marketplace featuring unique garden art and merchandise - from French antiques and accessories to live plants and garden ornamentation.

"This year we have taken an entirely fresh approach to the traditional format of the designer show-house," said event chairperson Sharon Reynolds. "We (hope to) provide a fun and festive way to experience the work of some of the area's most talented designers in one of Delaware's most beautiful homes and gardens."

The 14 interior designers will provide concepts and design ideas which visitors can realistically use in their own homes. Many of the participating companies have retail locations where items seen at the Festival may be purchased.

Designers have been asked to design their space for the intended future use of the property, with the end result being a showhouse with continuity throughout. Designers have also been asked to work within the realm of traditional decor.

Free horticultural lectures also will be held on the weekends, and an outdoor cafe, coffee bar, and microbrew garden will be open throughout the Festival.

The multi-dimensional event is a collaboration between OperaDelaware and the State's Division of Parks and Recreation. The property was recently purchased by the State and will be restored for use as a meeting and reception facility. The River House Festival serves as a vehicle for the restoration. Revenue raised by the event will support the programs of OperaDelaware. A portion of the proceeds will benefit OperaDelaware's educational programs, which include the commissioning of a new musical work to assist schools in educating high school students about AIDS awareness.

"We are very fortunate to have a property which lends itself so beautifully to this event," said Leland Kimball, general director of OperaDelaware. "Visitors will enjoy the opportunity to experience expertly designed interiors and gardens, in addition to browsing through the marketplace for unique garden items, and antiques in one of the 18th century outbuildings on the estate," said Kimball. "Or they can simply relax with a cup of coffee or locally brewed beer in this wonderful setting."

The River House Festival will be open daily through Monday, June 9. Hours are Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tickets are $10.00 and may be purchased at the gate only. Free parking on site. For more information, visitors should contact OperaDelaware at 658-8063.
