THE Athletic Association aims to spread an interest in athletics, and to foster a general spirit of good sportsmanship not only in the athletic but also in the social life of the college. The various sports of the year are under its supervision. These include inter-class games of first and second teams.

Captain Whittemore has very ably and successfully coached the rifle team for the past three years. Rifle is the only sport in which the Women's College takes part in intercollegiate competition, and matches are shot with the rifle teams of most of the leading colleges of the country.

The Athletic Association has as one of its subdivisions the Outing Club, which is in charge of the vice-president of the Association. It seeks to develop an interest in out-of-door life, by means of hikes, bird walks, and various other activities. Fifty-two members were enrolled on Dues Day, and an initiation hike was held on a rainy morning in November.

Its main activities come in the spring, however, when bird and plant studies are taken up.

Miss Hartshorn kindly consented to give a short lecture course on the principles of first aid, and a study of the main constellations was taken up after mid-years.

Socially, the Athletic Association tries to get the girls together for informal, enjoyable parties. One of these was the "Hick" party held in the Hilarium in the early part of November. Everybody came dressed up in some sort of costume; special dances, singing, and recitations composed the entertainment; and after refreshments of cider, apples, lolly-pops, and pretzels, everyone joined in dancing until ten o'clock.

The Athletic Association deserves and needs the full coöperation of the Student Body if it is to carry on its work successfully.
