Poultry Specialist Offers Six Suggestions as Goals

Six goals for the year 1953 have been suggested for egg and broiler producing farmers by J. Frank Gordy, Extension Poultry Specialist at the University of Delaware.

"These goals, or objectives," said Gordy, "are only suggestions. They give you something to shoot at. You may have some others, and these may not fit your farm. But I believe goals are helpful in any kind of undertaking."

Gordy's six goals are: Keep death loss in laying flocks down to 12 percent for the year. Hold broiler mortality to not more than 5 percent. Maintain a feed efficiency of 10 pounds or less for each pound of meat sold. Visit at least one dressing plant and observe one of your own flocks being dressed.

Interesting Women Of Our Community

From time to time there will appear in these pages articles calling the attention of readers to the variety of jobs done in our community by women. Some of them will be familiar to many, while others, along with their various occupations, are known to only a few. The purpose of these articles is to bring the little-known ones to the attention of the community.

Mary Field, Homemaker

Mary Field, in George Reed Village is a local homemaker who stands out in this all-important field because of her ideas and the way in which she has carried them out.

Born, educated, and married in Iowa, she, with her husband and two children came East in 1935 to farm 219 acres on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, near Chestertown. She says that the experiences of those first years were like turning back the pages of history — kerosene lamps, wood stoves, land and soap making, butter churning, butchering, and the rest. They cut trees, hauled them to the saw mill and then used the lumber to build. They grew their own wheat, took it to the mill, and brought home their flour.

The farming was incidental to her husband's job with the Federal Security Agency, training recreation leaders in Maryland. This meant that much of the farm work rested on his wife's shoulders and with a family of four youngsters—two girls and two boys—she needed help. That was when she began practicing her homemaker ideas and child-training. There were the regular farm chores for children but she went further than that. Both the girls learned to bake by the time they were six and they could start a meal if their mother was delayed at her 4-H Club or with the PTA. It was fun and interesting to be busy. By the time one of the girls was 10, she had made a dress in 4-H and one of the boys—at two—had churned his first butter. The picture of the big farm kitchen as the center of family activity is a pleasant one.

Because of the children and the war, they sold the farm in 1945 and when Mr. Field became personnel director of the National Magnesium Co. in Elkton, they moved to George Reed Village, Newark.

Mrs. Field continued her plans for making the family a close-knit unit and the children capable co-operative, and independent. The instruction has gone on through the years and each child has learned to cook, wash, iron, sew, paint, refinish furniture and cultivate a garden. And when their mother became ill for a long while, the girls were able to take over. Later, when Mrs. Field taught in the Newark school, life went on smoothly with each one doing his or her share of the work at home.

The children have been active in the Scouts, at 4-H work, dramatics, dancing, and athletics — normal, lively youngsters.

Presently, with the mother teaching school, previous home training is bearing much fruit and indicates what planning will do.

Every Sunday each one in the family makes out a schedule of the week's outside activities, and is assigned household chores accordingly. Each puts his room in order before leaving the house and on Saturdays a cleaning schedule is worked out in which all share. In order to renew her certificate for teaching, Mrs. Field must take as many hours of education at the University of Delaware, and these classes are on Saturday.

There have been many times when Mrs. Field almost decided it is easier to do the work herself than wrestle with the problem of getting the youngsters to cooperate.

and persistence has been important.

As a family they do many things for fun — fishing, boating, swimming and horse-back riding. Other interesting things are done for fun and necessity — canning, interior decorating, and painting. All of the children decorated their rooms and the boys even made their curtains as a 4-H project.

Church and Sunday school have a place in the family plan and they conduct family worship at night when the dinner is finished — each member taking turns in leading.

With all of this the mother is always ready to assist her husband in his work. She is a member of the Methodist Church, attends PTA regularly, is a good square dancer, and is a grand neighbor in the Village.

Of course there are the same problems in this family as in others with lively, normal boys and girls. But the ideas, the thought, and the care of the mother have made her an outstanding homemaker.

YELLOWJACKET HIGHLIGHTS

By the Journalism Class

Visitor From Formosa

Mr. Yaelen Wu, an exchange teacher from Formosa now visiting the Newark Schools, was interviewed by the Journalism Class on Monday, January 12, 1953.

The class asked Mr. Wu questions of a political nature and questions concerning school life on Formosa. One member of the class asked Mr. Wu if Chinese Nationalist forces are ready or willing to fight the Communists. Mr. Wu said that the only way was willing but the orders came from the U.N.

Mr. Wu mentioned that since Formosa has become the seat of Nationalist China's government, many refugees from the mainland have created a serious problem. The greatest problem is to find occupations for these people.

Mr. Wu's comments on school life disclosed that in many respects school life is the same in Formosa as in the United States. Subjects in school hours are approximately the same, but Formosan students are much more homesick. Another difference is that dancing is not to be seen anywhere in his country. Mr. Wu said that he was surprised to find that high school students are allowed to dance here in America.

Wonderful, though, what help we get from penicillin and streptomycin to mention what a blessing it is to have a doctor come to your aid. Most of the time we sort out them for granted.

Dental Society Hits Sweet Tooth Habit

The Delaware State Dental Society, in the second of a series of articles presented in observance of National Children's Dental Health Day, Monday, Feb. 2, warns against the danger of tooth decay.

Teeth aren't in perfect health one day and suddenly diseased the next. When an aching tooth flares up in the middle of the night, it signifies the end product of a long process of decay.

The pain is the danger sign and may be the death rattle of a dying tooth, not from within.

Because the outside layer of the tooth, the enamel, is the body's toughest tissue, the pinpoint spot enlarges slowly at first. But as the decay works its way into the soft tissue within, it spreads rapidly.

Decay usually doesn't occur on smooth tooth surfaces that are constantly cleaned by movement of food over them in the chewing process. To create decay, there must be a favorable site for growth. Pits, fissures, grooves and spaces between provide the attraction for decay.

Most dental authorities agree tooth decay is caused by acids formed in the mouth through action of bacteria on the sugars and starches that stick in these crevices.

One of the recent findings of dental science is that acids are formed very rapidly and are in greatest concentration on the teeth five to 20 minutes after eating fermentable carbohydrates. These acids may continue to be produced in sufficient strength to damage the teeth for about 30 minutes.

Nature has provided a neutralizing defense against the acids, but in our modern civilization it is becoming inadequate because people are eating sugar in excess of the body's protective mechanism.

America's sweet tooth is so highly developed, an average of about 140 pounds of sugar per person is being consumed a year according to the calculations of one university dental professor.

University Dance Group On Penn Olympics Card

The dance group of the University of Delaware has been selected to perform in the 1953 Dance Recital of the University of Pennsylvania's Cultural Olympics at 8:30 tomorrow night, in Irvine Auditorium, 34th and Spruce Sts., Philadelphia.

The University dancers, directed by Miss Ruth L. Malburg, will share the program with groups representing Adelphi College, Garden City, N.Y.; Temple University, the University of Pennsylvania, Bordentown (N.J.) Manual Training School and the studio of Miss Nardia Chilkowski, Philadelphia dancing teacher.

Cultural Olympics, founded in 1938, is an arts program open to all. It aims to encourage self-expression by providing audiences, to raise the achievement level by setting standards of excellence and to discover unusual talent.

Performances are non-competitive, but individuals and groups must meet exacting standards to earn places on the programs.

KEPT DELICIOUS THROUGH FLASH PASTEURIZATION

"CONTROL" is the watchword in every Pensuprem plant," says Dr. Charles Livak, shown here at the controls of Pensuprem's new "Flash Pasteurizer." Dr. Livak, a milk scientist, is Laboratory Director for all Pensuprem milk plants.

Preserving the delicious, natural flavor of farm-fresh Pensuprem Milk is the minute-to-minute responsibility of the technician who watches this control panel. Here sensitive instruments record the progress of the raw milk through fifteen seconds of high-temperature pasteurization, which leaves the natural flavor of the milk fresh and unspoiled.

"None of the flavor is cooked out of the milk, as in old-fashioned pasteurizing systems," adds Dr. Livak. "The high grade milk we buy tastes the same on your table as it did on the farm—a rich, refreshing, natural flavor, thanks to 'Flash Pasteurization!'"

Try delicious Pensuprem Milk for only fourteen days. You'll find out about Flash Pasteurization—because you can taste the difference!

Delaware Five Out of Action After 91-87 Win Over Sailors

Hens Resume Play Jan. 21 at West Chester; White Scores 8 Points in Bainbridge Overtime As Jack Loomis Paces Delaware Scorers with 22

Delaware, after a thrilling 91-87 overtime win over the Bainbridge Navy at home last Saturday night, withdraws from the competitive cage wars until Saturday, Jan. 31 when the Hens move into West Chester for a non-conference joust with the Rams. Last year, Delaware trounced the Teachers, 57-47.

George Dempsey, former Kings College star, picked up scoring honors for the evening with 29 points, while surprising sophomore Jack Loomis led the Hen offense with 22. Loomis, from a forward berth, accounted for ten field goals and a pair of successful free throws.

Swimming Hens Take PMC, 66-18 And Long Rest

The University of Delaware's mermen, after swamping the PMC swimmers last Saturday at Taylor Pool by a discouraging-for-the-Cadet 66-18 count, get back into the swim of things on Feb. 7 at Swarthmore.

Coach Harry Raskstrom's amphibious Hens have racked up a 4-1 record thus far this season, and in Saturday's meet, walked or swam off with nine of the 10 events.

Co-captain Charlie Presnell contributed the high of 85.7 points to the victorious Delaware squad, and in so doing, set a new Delaware and Taylor pool diving record.

Marty Apostolico was another big factor in the Hens' win as he took the 50 and 100-yd. freestyle medals—the only dual winner of the meet.

Delaware splashed into a good lead when in the opening event, the team of Bob Agnor, Jack McDaniels, and Jerry Keogh capped the 300-yd. medley-relay in a time of 3:17.8.

Krusberg swam to first place in the 220 freestyle, ahead of PMC's Jay Carr, while Bill Reynolds, Delaware finished third. The time was 2:22.7.

Apostolico capped the 50-yd. sprint, with PMC finishing second and third, and in the 150-yd. individual medley, it was Delaware again with Art Mayer and Dick Goodley ahead of the PMC entry.

In the 100-yd. freestyle race, Apostolico and Presnell placed one, two, and in the final event—the 200-yd. backstroke swim, Ted Zutz and Bob Agnor finished first and second ahead of Felix Cruz, PMC.

Frosh Scholarships Increased to $400

An increase to $400 for each of the four scholarships given annually to entering freshmen at the University of Delaware by the Alumni Association has been announced by Miss Dorothy E. Markert, chairman of the Scholarship committee.

The following scholarships are offered to freshmen women:

Winifred J. Robinson Scholarship, awarded to an applicant from Delaware.

Everett C. Johnson Scholarship, awarded to an applicant from out-of-state.

Emilia P. Warner Scholarship, awarded to either a Delaware or out-of-state resident.

Holders of these awards must live on campus for the year of the award.

Edith A. McDougall Scholarship, awarded to a Delaware or out-of-state applicant who may continue or live on the campus.

In addition, Miss Markert also announces that the Scholarship Committee will award a $100 scholarship to a entering freshman who resides north of the state. This award is made possible by the members of the Edge Moor Alumni Chapter.

Application must be made by a longhand letter, discussing the place in which the girl lives, her interests, and activities in high school and outside of school, her reasons for wanting to come to college, her plans concerning college, and the degree of financial assistance needed. This letter must be accompanied by a 3x4 picture and this material must be in the Alumni office by Friday, February 12.

On March 7, the applicants will be tested and interviewed. Girls from Newark, Wilmington, and surrounding vicinity will be interviewed March 8, and will have lunch together and tour the campus.

Town Council

A committee of Carl P. Rankin and Frank Durnall was appointed by Mayor Johnson to study and present for Council consideration, recommendations for types of pension plans. These recommendations are to be presented as soon as possible.

Limitations on the provision of Newark city water service were discussed and it was agreed that this service be restricted to an area within a six mile radius of the city boundaries.

Frank Durnall recommended that George Jackson be considered for the position of City Assessor. Mr. Jackson was unanimously elected.

The First Annual Report of the City Planning Commission to the Mayor was read and approved by Council.

The Commission recommended the construction of by-pass roads to relieve the flow of transient traffic through the city, and suggested that serious consideration be given to an over or underpass at the B&O grade crossing, west of town.

Provision for off-street parking, to be made by the local merchants, was recommended by the Planning Commission and local police were commended for their handling of the serious traffic problems.

The need for improved recreational facilities was stressed and close cooperation of school and college authorities with the Newark Recreation Association was recommended.

It was recommended that accurate maps of the city be prepared, and that an up-to-date census of city property be taken.

Some further discussion was devoted to the matter of properly numbering the houses on various streets and it was pointed out that in the original numbering system, a number was assigned to each 25-ft. of street frontage. For this reason, there exist many large gaps between house numbers on the same street. It was agreed to refer the re-numbering problem to the Street Committee for further study.

Brookside

proved, homes landscaped, the "dream come true," Brookside Park will be a very beautiful section of Newark, easily reached, and a part of the city. Until then, this condition will bring the homeowners together in a way that perfection never could. Sharing an experience is the finest way to knit friendships. The hardships are all a part of a growing dream, and as each improvement is made they will appreciate its value the more for having shared this experience. As the individual tastes and expressions begin to show in landscaping and decorations, these homes will take on the personalities of their owners. The homes of these people, with their varied backgrounds and experiences, will reflect individual personalities. In a few years it will be hard to believe that all of these homes started out so nearly the same in every detail. The feeling of interest in facing problems together—and solving them—will make Brookside Park residents members of a close-knit group. We hope they will also feel they are citizens of Delaware's fastest growing city—Newark! That they will let's all do whatever we can to help our new residents have all of the facilities and privileges we in Newark are so proud of. And let's hope one of the first accomplishments will be GOOD ROADS! Let's get Brookside Park out of the mud! contribute their ideas and their wealth of experience in these communities to help Newark with its problems of growth and development. Newark, in turn, welcomes them to the community with open hearts, appreciating the value of such a neighborhood.
