HARD AS A ROCK

Aileen Westbrook, of Newark, tightens her grip on the University of Delaware's challenging rock wall at the Carpenter Sports Center. The City of Newark's Parks and Recreation Department sponsored a basic rock climbing class for teens recently. Ten young students learned the basics necessary to successfully conquer the climbing wall at UD. Basic equipment needed and its care, climbing skills, rope handling and, above all, safety, were taught to the kids. After learning about equipments, its proper use and safety, each participant was given the chance to venture up the wall.

Newark goes hi-tech!

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEWARK became the first city in Delaware to go online with their own site on the World Wide Web this week.

"We're elated at this presentation," said Mayor Ronald Gardner. "In particular, it's now possible for Newark to communicate back and forth online with other university towns which already have this."

City secretary Sue Lamblack and assistant electric director Graham Bingham spent a year researching, designing and launching the site.

"Neither of us knew anything about websites when we took on this project a year ago," said

Lamblack to the city council Monday. "It's incredibly exciting to stand before you to present Newark's home page for the first time."

According to Lamblack, the designers looked at websites for cities from around the world to get information and ideas. "We had a chance to see what would be useful to us and what was stupid," said Lamblack. "We didn't want the city to be embarrassed when people looked at the site."

Newark's home page is linked to that of the Newark Business Association and the University of Delaware as well. "We had a lot of help from other people in doing this," said

Lamblack. "The University of Delaware was very instrumental in making this possible."

Computer signals smoother traffic

Representatives from the state Department of Transportation (DelDOT) confirmed plans for impending traffic improvements in downtown Newark at the recent city council meeting.

According to Charles Freil, director of external affairs for DelDOT, computer synchronization of traffic signals in Newark will begin at the intersection of Library Avenue, Ogletown Road and Main Street by September. "People should see some improve-

Newark tells its story to the experts

Despite complaints from businesses and visitors, board members of the Newark Parking Authority said they are satisfied with their role in providing parking in Newark's downtown.

At their recent meeting, president Robert Whitman told the board that an expert from the National Main Street Center in Washington, D.C., was coming "for a parking seminar or whatever they do."

Whitman told the board that the expert would be interviewing several organizations in Newark to find out what could be done about

Serial rapist in prison for life

Kevin J. "Tweety Bird" Howard, charged with numerous rapes in northern Delaware between 1991 and 1994, was sentenced to eight consecutive life terms, plus more than 100 years, on eight counts of rape and numerous related offenses.

Howard was convicted in two separate trials of breaking into the homes of middle-aged women throughout New Castle County and beating, raping and robbing them.

Howard was accused of attacking a 60-year-old woman from the southwest area of Newark in February, 1991, and again in September, 1993, after evidence connecting him to the 1993 incident was uncovered in 1995.

Superior Court Judge Norman A. Barron called Howard "the personification of evil" while sentencing him on July 19. According to Prosecutor Ferris W. Wharton, investigators never learned how Howard selected his victims who came from widely scattered areas in the county.

Deaths ruled murder-suicide

New Castle County police have ruled the July 22 deaths of a Dunlinden Acres couple a murder-suicide.

According to police, it appeared that 41-year-old Francis West, shot his wife, Ardalyn Thatcher, 35, before shooting himself.

West, a self-employed tow truck driver, and his wife were each shot once. A handgun was found nearby.

The couple were found around 2:45 p.m. in the living room of their home after relatives asked co-workers of Thatcher's at Charlie's Pro's in Philadelphia to check on their welfare.

Police said it was believed that the couple, who had been married for about two years, had been having marital problems.

Thatcher's 10-year-old son from a previous relationship was staying with paternal grandparents in Philadelphia at the time of the shootings.

Fashion Bug suspect arrested

A man wanted in connection with a robbery of the Fashion Bug in College Square shopping center on July 16 was located through a Delaware state police search at a motel on Governor Printz Boulevard.

State police discovered evidence connected with the robbery while executing a search warrant at the Riverview Motel in an unrelated incident. Newark police obtained a warrant and arrested Donald Bass, 20, for the gunpoint robbery at the Newark store.

Employees at the Fashion Bug told police that the gunman threatened to shoot the store manager during the robbery. Bass was charged with robbery, conspiracy and possession of a deadly weapon during a felony. A suspected accomplice has not been located.

New rules at shopping center

A NEW and improved Newark Shopping Center was promised by police, merchants and center management following two meetings in the past week.

According to Tom Krapf of J & T Partners, managers of the shopping center, all parties are "in agreement" about what needs to be done.

"We are 100 percent behind the changes proposed by the police and merchants," said Krapf. "We've set up procedures which should be in place by the beginning of August."

Krapf said the rules would follow ordinances already in effect in the city of Newark but not previously applied to the shopping center.

"The management has asked us to cooperate with them in enforcing these rules which we already have in Newark," said police chief William Hogan. "Only they have the authority to establish rules for their property, though."

The list of rules, to be posted and enforced at the shopping center in the future, includes:

- Parking for patrons of the shopping center only (others will be towed);
- No loitering;
- No public consumption of alcohol;
- No loud radios, stereos, or other noise "pollution;"
- No skateboarding or rollerblading;
- No speeding;
- Trespassers will be prosecuted; and
- The shopping center will be closed from 1:30 to 6 a.m.

The four outside payphones in the center will also be removed because they have become a gathering spot for unwanted teenage activity, according to the shopping center management.

Hogan said police have been concerned about young people in the shopping center for some time. "Now that we've agreed on the procedures, we can do more to assist them," Hogan explained. "We can see that the shopping center caters to people who use the businesses but remove those who are just hanging out there."

Marilyn Minster of Minster's Jewelers, a long-time tenant at the Newark Shopping Center, said she was very pleased with the results of the meetings last week, which were attended by about 20 merchants. "Everybody was very positive," Minster said,

"and agreed they wanted to get the shopping center cleaned up."

Signs listing the rules have been ordered and will be in place within the next week. "If you can read, you should have no problem," said Krapf. "There will be no question of our position once this is done."

Private security employed by the management will still be used. "But nothing will work if we don't have police backing it up," said Krapf. "And some of these kids don't even respect the Newark police."

Krapf emphasized that the purpose of the rules is not just to keep people out, but for the safety of customers as well as others in the center. "There's a lot of potential for problems with the way things have been and we want to change that."

Slots paying off better than expected

OFFICIALS DIDN'T KNOW what to expect when the first quarters were dropped into slot machines at Delaware Park and in Dover. But they know now they grossly underestimated the revenue the one-armed bandits generate.

In the first six months, gamblers have dropped $870.8 million into slot machines at the state's two casinos.

"The total is certainly beyond what we or anyone else had expected," E. Wayne Lemons, state lottery director, said July 10.

"It's about 33 percent higher than I anticipated," said William M. Rickman Jr., president and part owner of Delaware Park here.

Slots casinos opened Dec. 29 at Delaware Park in Stanton and Dover Downs in Dover.

Net proceeds for the six months were $76.7 million. That money was divided among commissions for the tracks, increases for purses and state and vendor fees. The state received $16.5 million over the period.

Nonetheless, there are no rave reviews from Gov. Thomas R. Carper, who opposed the slots casinos and let the laws allowing them take effect without his signature.

"Time will tell if the revenue realized outweighs any social costs as a result of having slot machine gambling in Delaware," said Sheri Woodruff, Carper's press secretary.

"It is not something which will ever generate high praise from the governor," she said.

Many Newark-area residents like Kitty Bray have contributed to the underestimated numbers at Delaware Park.

"I come here more than I should," Bray said, "but I'm not allowed to have the mortgage money, so it's safe."

Observers have pointed to a higher-than-expected number of frequent visitors like Bray as one reason for the 33% gain over predictions at the local race track.

The figures show that in January, the average daily take was $267,741. In February, that increased to $367,175. Rickman noted that in the first month, many machines at Delaware Park were broken so the figures probably would have been higher if the problems had not occurred.

From March through June, the average daily take hovered in the $456,000 to $467,000 range.

The leveling off was expected, said Ellsworth Gaskill, casino manager at Dover Downs.

"I think what we saw near the

Kitty Bray, of Newark, finds herself in a familiar position: in front of the slots at Delaware Park end of the spring is what we will see year round (on average)," he said.

"Business has held. We are still doing reasonably well and the summer has kicked in, which has brought some new faces to our property," Gaskill said.

Before the casinos opened, the fiscal year 1997 net proceeds estimate was $55 million, with the tracks receiving $33.9 million of that and the state, $8 million.

The estimate was way off. The net proceeds of $76.7 million for the first six months was also the last half of fiscal 1996, which ended June 30.

Lemons said the initial estimates were low because "we were looking at what was happening in other venues in other places in the country, particularly in the eastern half of the U.S."

"It just so happens Delaware is far exceeding that. I don't know all of the reasons why, but it is," Lemons said.

He has estimated slots revenue to the general fund will be about $40.6 million for the fiscal year. That figure is based on 2,500 slot machines — 1,000 each at Delaware Park and Dover Downs and 500 at Harrington Raceway, which is expected to open in a few months.

Delaware Park expects to have 1,000 machines soon and Dover Downs 1,000 in October.

Discipline crackdown continues

Governor Carper has signed a package of legislation that's a continuation of last year's crackdown on discipline in the classroom.

"While these three pieces of legislation have different objectives, they all mesh well to ensure that students get the most out of every school day," Carper said Wednesday.

"Just as it is true that students cannot learn if they aren't in school, it is also true that disruptive students hinder the progress of attentive pupils," he said.

SB304, which applies to truancy among children in kindergarten through fifth grade, establishes a statewide system for addressing truancy in elementary schools. Under the new law, parents must sign a contract agreeing to make a reasonable effort to have their children abide by school rules and regularly attend classes.

If a child accumulates 10 days of unexcused absences, a school official will visit the home. Fifteen unexcused absences means parents will be notified by certified mail to appear at a conference at the school.

Thirty unexcused absences gives school authorities the right to turn the case over to the attorney general's office for prosecution in magistrate's court.

A conviction for a first offense could net parents a $5 fine and two days in jail. Subsequent offenses carry penalties of fines from $25 to $50 and up to five days in jail.

"The schools have always been able to prosecute. But this bill mandates it after 30 days," said Peggy Bradley, Carper's education adviser.

Carper also signed HB651, which is an extension of a law already in place requiring school authorities to notify parents if their children are involved in criminal activity on school property.

"I think most schools or districts did this on their own. If the student was threatened or hurt, they were called. This bill actually makes it law," Mrs. Bradley said.

The third bill in the package, SB422, was designed to clarify questions that have arisen since a previous law authorized the establishment of school discipline improvement committees.

In particular, the new law clarifies that the school district, and not the committee, still determines the code of conduct for schools.

Parade Magazine Helps Parents Choose a Martial Arts School

New York, NY — As one of the fastest growing activities for children, the martial arts can be a very positive experience for a child, provided his parents find the right school. The June 30th issue of Parade Magazine, distributed to over 36 million homes, includes an article to help parents choose a school and determine how young to start a child in martial arts. With over 18,000 martial arts schools nationwide, this is important advice for a parent seeking the safest and most professional experience for their child.

The author of the article, former world karate champion Joe Lewis, recommends that parents seek out schools certified by the National Association of Professional Martial Artists (NAPMA), the martial arts industry's professional association. NAPMA provides its nearly 700 schools with ongoing education and information on the most effective and safe teaching methods for operating a family martial arts program.

In addition to the physical benefits of training, Lewis emphasizes the self-esteem building qualities of martial arts for children in addition to the important self-protection aspects.

A father of two, Lewis shares the same concerns of all parents in seeking a program that will instill good skills and discipline and, at the same time, build self-esteem.

Reaching over 36 million homes, Parade Magazine has the largest distribution of any magazine in the nation and is included as a free insert in Sunday newspapers around the country.

NAPMA member school in Cecil County includes Karate Plus.

Even with $5 million, Bear library still needs money

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

A grassroots group has raised an estimated $5 million to build a library in Bear in the heart of the U.S. 40 corridor. But in spite of their considerable progress, the Friends of the Bear Library are still in need of public funding.

The $6.2 facility will sit behind Governors' Square near the intersection of U.S. 40 and Del. 7. The four-acre site was donated by Delle Donne and Associates.

"The goal they have to reach before the county can put [the project] out to bid is $750,000," New Castle County libraries spokesman Gordon Hesse said. "When you put something out for bid, it's serious business."

The library could open its door within a year after reaching this goal.

The good news is that only about 20 percent of the sum has to come from the community through tax-deductible donations.

The bad news? The group needs the money as soon as possible.

"Anything that anyone would send in would be very helpful to us," said Carol Harrington, who has served as president of the 300-member Friends' group since 1993. She said much of the funding committed to her group's cause will not be received until the public contributes its share.

"It kind of makes sense," Harrington said. "[Corporations] don't want to plunk down a significant sum of money [to finance]... a 20-year plan. They want to fund individual libraries closer to the time they go up."

Thus far, the proposed library has received $2.3 million from the county and an additional $1.84 million from the state. A $400,000 challenge grant the library received from the Longwood Foundation is the largest single cash contribution the group has received from the private sector.

The group has also received an $80,000 Welfare Foundation grant and a $4,000 grant from the Public Libraries Foundation for New Castle County.

The 25,000-square-foot building will be connected to the county system by way of a telecommunications network, allowing the library to draw from the resources of the other county libraries.

"It opens up a much larger [book] collection than one small library," Hesse said.

Harrington said the current plan for the library includes a community room.

"There's no real focal point to this area," she said. "There's no public place to display things. We're hoping this library will draw people together and be the interest spot."

With the nearest library in downtown Newark, the new facility will make the trip quicker. The building's proximity will be especially helpful to parents with young children — whose population numbers about 15,000 in Bear — learning to read.

"Early reading is such a critical skill for what comes afterward," Hesse said.

Harrington's group has sent a brochure that outlines group's needs to about 40,000 households in Bear, but she concedes the area's population could be twice as large.

The Friends of the Bear Library received its not-for-profit status from the state in 1991, entitling the group to be tax exempt, the group's brochure said. Membership is on a volunteer basis.

Call Harrington at 834-1735 for further information.

ments there," said Freel.

A second phase of the $250,000 project which includes Delaware Avenue, Cleveland Avenue, Park Place and S. College Avenue will start in Spring 1997.

"We have made an effort to bring some intersections online now," said Joseph Wutka, assistant director of planning for DelDOT. "But it's impossible to bring everything online by the end of 1996."

Officials said hardware for the program is already in place and, once sensors are installed, the network will help adjust the flow of traffic. "This is not going to affect traffic volume," said Mark Tudor, a DelDOT engineer. "It's going to monitor traffic flow and make it more bearable to Newark drivers."

According to Tudor, DelDOT will put the synchronized system in place "and then we will talk about maintenance and upkeep."

"We need to talk about it," said city manager Carl Luft. "Right now we don't have any personnel devoted to this."

Newark police chief William Hogan said he would like an opportunity to talk with DelDOT about where and how traffic signals will be adjusted. "We met with New Castle County operations last week and they couldn't answer our questions," said Hogan. "Since we will oversee it, we'd like to discuss our concerns about traffic in Newark."

Realignment of the intersection at Main Street, Elkton Road and Delaware Avenue are at the "data gathering stage," reported the officials. Public meetings to review options will be held in late August or early September. "We expect to have final recommendations by October and a formal design sometime in November," said Wutka.

According to information previously reported from the Wilmington Area Planning Council, construction for the redesigned intersection is expected to start by 1998. The expected cost of that project is more than $1.2 million.

Connor seeks re-election to Senate

State Senator Robert T. Connor (R-Penn. Acres) has announced he will run for re-election in the 12th District.

Connor

Connor's district, the largest populated senate district in Delaware, includes the city of New Castle and communities along Route 13, Route 40 and Route 7.

Connor is active with civic groups throughout his district, regularly attending meetings of the Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations and the 7/40 Alliance and talking with community leaders about their concerns.

According to Connor, during the past two years he has attended and spoken at over 160 community meetings in addition to county council meetings and zoning hearings.

Among his concerns are land use issues, infrastructure problems, air quality, alternative school funding and relief from maintenance association mandates.

Connor is the Senate Whip for the Senate Republican Caucus and also serves on the Ethics, Administrative Services, Legislative Council, and Senate Executive committees, as well as the Committee to Combat Drug Abuse.

Maier wants 2nd term

State representative Pamela S. Maier (R-Drummond Hill) will run for re-election in the 21st District, an office she first won in 1994.

Maier

Maier said her priorities are DelDOT, school issues, police and other state agencies. During her first term Maier sponsored legislation for an oversight committee for the Comprehensive School Discipline Programs' funding, reapportioning school board election districts based on the most recent census, requiring health care providers to counsel their pregnant patients on HIV testing, and allowing registered Independent voters to work at the polls on election days.

Maier is vice-chair of the Health and Human Development Committee, and also serves on the House Education, the House Substance Abuse and the Joint Sunset committees.

THE LUNCH COUNTER at Woolworth's in the Newark Shopping Center is usually a very busy place. On a recent Monday, three waitresses rushed back and forth as usual, grilling and serving sandwiches and meals as customer after customer came and went.

Still boasting some of the original fixtures and design of the Woolworth's fondly remembered by a generation of shoppers, the Newark store also retains certain human values.

"My faith in basic human goodness has been renewed!" related Nancy Sullivan, a resident of Newark for 26 years.

Sullivan stopped to eat lunch at the store one day in June and discovered more than good food.

"I came in all by myself and after I finished lunch, I left money on the counter to cover the bill and tip and went shopping in the store," said Sullivan.

While browsing through the aisles, Sullivan was suddenly confronted by a waitress in uniform. "She said, 'I know I'm good, but not that good,'" remembered Sullivan.

Then Deborah Saindon, a waitress at the store for 20 years, told Sullivan she had left a ten-dollar bill on the counter to pay for a meal that cost a little over $3. "I'd never even have known it," said Sullivan. "I meant to leave $5."

Officials at Woolworth's corporate office refused to let reporters interview the waitress or take pictures in the store. "We're proud of her but we believe that anyone in the store would have done the same," said corporate spokesperson Andy Romeo. "We do not want to disrupt business."

Customer Nancy Sullivan was surprised and delighted when waitress Deborah Saindon searched the aisles of Woolworth's to return her overpayment for lunch.

Home, said she could not understand why the store did not want to publicize their employee's worth. "Most businesses would be thrilled to have this in the paper," said Sullivan.

Saindon, interviewed outside the store after her shift was over, was "bashful" about the publicity but appreciated that Sullivan wanted to thank her. "People don't always bother to tell you when you're doing a good job," said Saindon.

Welcome news

IT APPEARS AS THOUGH the parties involved — save the teenagers — have put their heads together to solve the loitering problems at Newark Shopping Center, as detailed in our cover story last week. Soon, we'll see if nuisance loitering and the associated problems are eliminated without further discouraging potential customers.

We sympathize with one anonymous teenaged caller who claimed the problems are not bad as listed in our report. We know that many well-behaved, non-destructive, law-abiding local youths and young adults patronize businesses at the shopping center without incident. Police believe many of the troublemakers appear to be out-of-towners.

But it's a time-proven theory that a few can ruin opportunities for many. Such is the case at the shopping center. Steps had to be taken to halt the loitering, public drinking, vandalism and the like before the situation got out of hand.

Though they would rather forget, many Newarkers remember the days when hordes of teens and young adults, many of them from nearby Maryland and Pennsylvania, would cruise and clog the downtown area on summer nights. Through a variety of measures, including the hiring of a new police chief and a late night parking ban, residents reclaimed their town.

The recent rebirth of economic development in the heart of Newark attests to the wisdom of this action. The plan devised last week to prevent a return to the cruising is welcome news.

THROUGH THE WOODS

Attack of the squirrels

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

I HAVE NO IDEA what the squirrels did in our backyard before we arrived, but since my husband and I moved to our Windy Hills home a year ago, they have had all the fun they can handle.

I am a child of the cities, as is my husband, growing up surrounded by acres of cement and concrete, unacquainted with life in the raw and only seeing live animals on trips to the park or zoo.

Despite having moved over a dozen times in our married life, we seldom had the financial clout to acquire and maintain land parcels capable of supporting any wildlife larger than ants.

I frankly never realized how deep my husband's needs in this regard ran until our move to a Pittsburgh suburb in 1992. For eight months before we bought our house, he lived in an apartment there and commuted to our former home for one or two weekends a month.

Set high on a hill, the yard surrounding the apartment drew birds and squirrels almost year-round. Nearby residents had set a bird feeder in the trees and my husband began to watch this activity almost without thought at first. Seeing this as a way to alleviate his solitary weekends, I gave him a feeder shaped like a bird's nest to set outside his window.

The next time I visited, he complained that squirrels could get into the feeder, and were stealing the seed he purchased. He spent a lot of free time chasing squirrels and by the time we moved to our house, he was already well into his mission.

He bought a larger feeder to hang from the trees and birdseed became a staple product on our weekly grocery list. When friends gave us a hummingbird-feeder, my husband was only disappointed because we saw few birds small enough to eat from it. And, although we saw plenty of deer and gophers, for some reason squirrels were scarce near our development.

Then we moved to Newark. Busy with jobs and unpacking, we installed one of our bird feeders in the first handy place in our backyard. We used a portable stand because the yard and trees were too overgrown for selecting a good viewing point, although neighbors told us there were many birds in the area.

This spring, we finally began to clear our yard and on a trip to Southern States for fertilizer, my husband couldn't resist a 40-pound bag of birdseed on sale. He tried to share some with our daughter, but she said she'd never use all that seed.

We thought it would last for the entire summer, but after only a few weeks of refilling our one bird feeder, still haphazardly installed in a flower bed in the backyard, my husband came home with another 40-pound bag.

When I protested, he said the first bag was already gone! His old enemy, the squirrels, were routinely eating and carrying away several times their weight in seed each day.

They climbed the six-foot metal stand and dropped onto the feeder where they ate at their leisure. My husband considered this problem for a while and then devised a cardboard "collar" for the pole to prevent them from getting to the top. In less than two days the squirrels learned to climb around the barrier and continued to eat the seed. The next weekend my husband moved the feeder to a rope in a tree but after only a few days it was obvious the seed was still disappearing at a fabulous rate. Anxiously watching from the windows, my husband realized that the squirrels were climbing the tree and sliding down the rope to the feeder.

Consulting friends at work who shared his concern, my husband learned that there were domed baffles which could be installed over feeders to keep the squirrels away. But the very night after he purchased and installed one he was horrified to discover a squirrel sitting under it complacently eating seed.

Watching carefully, he saw that the squirrels climbed partway up the tree and then acrobatically leaped through the air and landed on the feeder.

He made another trip to Southern States where he purchased a long cable. Marching grimly into the backyard, he moved the bird feeder out as far as possible from the tree.

Then teetering precariously on our highest

Higher Price For Tomatoes

According to Down-State reports, tomatoes are the strong point of the canned vegetable market. Delaware packers predict higher prices next winter because of the 75 percent reduction in plants set out last spring. Between October, 1920, and last May canned tomatoes fluctuated between 85 cent and $1 a dozen for No. 3's. Since May the wholesale price has climbed steadily and now the quotation is $1.25 and $1.30.

Other Side Of The Dam Story

In all the controversy over the proposed White Clay Creek Dam, the side most heard from has been that of the opposition, the whole collection of hunters, outdoorsmen, hikers, ecologists, and even lovers who despair at the suggestion that the leafy pathways along the White Clay Creek be flooded to oblivion in the name of progress or anything else. Rarely has there been publicity for the other side, those who have no particular objection to the dam, of those who even think the valley ought to be flooded. However, longtime Newark resident, Virgil Baird, not only shares this latter view, but this week set his thoughts in writing in letter to the editor form, a letter which he suggests should be a dedication speech for delivery when the dam is actually built.

Road to ruin?

Glasgow merchants are anything but united on their opinion of the New Del. 896, which carries thruway traffic away from a number of established local businesses. Some of those businesses depend in large part on walk-in (or drive-up) customers for their continued livelihood. Now that their main source of customers has been taken away, they say, keeping their businesses will be a serious challenge.

Newark girl makes her own clean water plea

Rhiannon Trent, a 7-year-old, discovered the truth in an old proverb, "The pen is mightier than the sword," the Windy Hills, Newark, youngster wasn't about to fight over the purity of the Brandywine River, but she did write to Governor Castle about her concerns. She told the governor that she and her dad liked to go fishing in the river. "If they keep dumping in the water the fish will die," Her letter ended with the plea, "please don't let them ruin it for me."

Everything you've always wanted to know about Newark

The information available could change or be eliminated in the future. "We're putting a counter on the page to determine how many people log on and what they want to look at," said Lamblack. "If people aren't interested in something, it won't be worth it to continue."

Additions to the site in the future could include a link with the Christina School District Home Page. "We don't know right now, but the possibilities are endless," said Lamblack. Information available at website address — <http://www.udel.edu/Newark/DE/usa.htm> — includes: introductions to the mayor, council and city manager; names, biographical information and descriptions of all city officials and their departments; city services and procedures for licenses and permits; employment information; committees and their members; statistics and facts about the city; questions most commonly asked of city departments; and telephone numbers where city officials can be reached.

"We noticed that a lot of places don't list telephone numbers," said Lamblack, "but it's obviously necessary."

Some city personnel didn't know what information should go on a website, said Lamblack. "We had to educate them as well."

Parking authority, others to discuss parking 'problem'

► PARKING, from 1

parking. Whitman added, "I'm not sure what they're doing but it can't do any harm."

According to Deirdre Peake of the Newark Business Association, Cuffy Sullivan of the National Main Street Center, brought parking expert John Edwards to Newark for a two-day workshop yesterday and today to review parking and related issues here.

"They're touring parking areas downtown and then meeting with representatives of the police, the department of public works, the parking authority, the University of Delaware and the business association," explained Peake on July 19. "They also will give a report on their findings."

Upon being told that each interview would last 30 minutes, board member Arthur Amick commented, "Thirty minutes to find out all about the parking authority — oh, dear."

Fred Herald, city liaison with the parking authority, asked the board members if they had any concerns they wanted to talk about at the workshop.

"Not really," said Whitman, "we always work out our concerns at our monthly meetings."

Main Street resident David Robertson said his friends are always "fussing at me" about parking in Newark. "I know there's parking here, but the perception is that there isn't," said Robertson. "People who come to Arts Alliance events also claim they can't find parking."

NPA administrator Hank Ross said the parking authority met with people from the city and business association and two reports were written. "We've tried to dispel the perception," said Ross. "The business association probably got that information to its members."

Herald asked if anything was being done to change the public's perception and board members pointed to cards printed with names of businesses that validate parking as well as the lighted banners recently put up at parking lot entrances by the city.

"The city cooperated very nicely with the authority on that," said Anne Munyon, referring to banners proposed, designed and paid for by the city administration.

Whitman asked Robertson if he had any ideas. "Yes, but you probably won't like it," Robertson replied.

Robertson's proposal included offering free parking for as many public events as possible in order to introduce the availability of parking to "people who don't normally come and would not otherwise know about it."

Whitman and the rest of the board said that they do provide free spaces in some lots for city events when requested but the board had to consider loss of revenue when making such decisions. "We don't know what else we can do," said Whitman.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Growing better every day

■ Part one of two.

American producers, processors and retailers take pride in supplying American consumers with abundant, safe and wholesome food. They also take pride in contributing to economic growth and rural development, preserving the environment and improving technology.

Over the next several columns, I will use material supplied by the Agricultural Council of America to focus on today's farm profile, American consumers, non-food uses of agricultural products and agricultural technology. I'll begin by looking at agriculture's contribution to the economy.

■ The Economy

Each year one American farmer provides food and fiber for 129 people—97 in the U.S., 32 abroad (in the 1960s U.S. farmers provided food and fiber for 25.8 people).

U.S. farmers and ranchers produce more than 200 raw commodities yearly for domestic and export markets.

American agriculture employs 21 million people or 18.5 percent of the labor force in:

- wholesale and retailing - 50%
- farm production - 20%
- marketing and processing - 15%
- agribusiness - 12%
- farm supplying - 3%

By the year 2000, agriculture is expected to generate 25 percent of the U.S. Gross Domestic Product.

One-fourth of the world's beef and nearly one-fifth of the world's grain, milk and eggs are produced in the United States.

About 17 percent of raw U.S. agriculture products are exported yearly, including 83 million metric tons of cereal grains, 1.6 billion pounds of poultry and 1.4 million metric tons of fresh vegetables.

As you form opinions and make decisions on future land-use and development issues, consider the importance of the agricultural industry, the farmer, the farm family and their impact on our every-day well-being.

Senior students take center stage

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

LIFELONG learners from the Newark area provided both the subject and the cast of a comedy co-authored and directed by Pike Creek writer Sima Robbins.

"Off Course!", a production of the First Stage Theater Company together with the University of Delaware College of Arts and Sciences, is based on conversations with students enrolled in the university's Academy of Lifelong Learning.

"Before we began the play, we did tapes and interviews with students in the academy," said Robbins. "But there are no actual people portrayed here."

Robbins said seven of the cast members, who range in age from 50s to 70s, are also students of the academy and some of them had no previous acting experience. "The people in the cast are quite an assortment," Robbins explained. "Some were actors, but others were retired and thought they'd just risk it. I think there's a wonderful message here."

Robbins, who previously wrote "Man Imperfect," said this play was written in tandem with Drury Pifer, artistic director for First Stage and author of 30 plays, and Deanna Riley, author of more than 20 plays and a two-time Emmy nominee.

"We each took a few of the characters in the cast and made them our own," explained Robbins. "The dialogue is in e-mail and telephone calls and memos which we wrote and faxed to each other. That's how people do a lot of communicating now, isn't it — not face to face?"

According to Robbins, the idea for the play came from Roxana Arshat, Delaware's first woman judge, a benefactor and participant in the academy. "She is also making a cameo appearance in the play," said Robbins.

The Academy of Lifelong Learning at the university's Wilmington campus provides opportunities for adults age 55 and over to learn, teach and travel with their peers. Joyce Hill Stoner, spokesperson for First Stage and chair of the department of art conservation at the university, helped conduct the interviews. "We have a lot of people coming to see the play because of the academy," said Stoner. "Jane Tripp (former Newark city councilperson) is coming and bringing six people with her. They are hoping to start a branch of the academy in Newark."

Cast members include Ellie Young, Frank Baker, Joan Lane, Barbara Miller, Irv Engelson, Joe

Brumskill, Florence Clark, Lois Hanak, Mitzi Herrmann and Joe Ryan.

"Off Course!" will be performed at 3 p.m. tomorrow at Arshat Hall in Wilmington and on Sunday at the Chapel Street Players auditorium in Newark.

'Vocal fireworks' in upcoming opera season

IF YOU RECKON summer as the three months between Memorial Day and Labor Day, I have an important announcement. Two-thirds of the summer of '96 am went! I hope you are having a great summer but, at the risk of rushing the seasons, I must admit some exciting things are on our opera horizon when the 1996-97 season opens after the kids get back to school.

One of our area's most exciting companies, the Opera Company of Philadelphia, has a super season in store at the Academy of Music, the Grand Old Lady of Locust Street. General Director Robert Driver is offering us four performances, each of four major works. One is an area premiere!

Vocal fireworks over Scotland's misty moors will shine forth in the season opener, Gaetano Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor." October performances are: 14 at 7:30, 18 at 8:00, 20 at 2:30 and 23 at 8:00. Our Edgardo will be tenor Stuart Neill whom critics on both sides of the Atlantic regard as the successor to Pavarotti. Maureen O'Flynn will sing the title role with the bravos from her Metropolitan Opera debut still ringing in her ears.

Matthew Bitetti will sing Arturo; John Hancock, Enrico and Suzanne Duplantis, Alisa. Maestro Maurizio Barbacini will be in the pit and the stage director is James de Blasis.

Bring plenty of handkerchiefs or tissues for the second offering of the season, the story of an American sailor and a teen age dalliance which turns tragic, Giacomo Puccini's "Madama Butterfly." I truly do not know how many times I have seen this opera, but I never remember a dry eye around me — including my own!

"Butterfly" will be performed in November at the Academy on this schedule: 11 at 7:30, 15 at 8:00, 17 at 2:30 and 20 at 8:00. Internationally recognized Patricia Schuman will make her debut in the opera with the OCP. This is an event many of us have been looking forward to with great anticipation. You may have seen her as Donna Elvira in the Metropolitan Opera's production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" when it was broadcast on PBS this past January. Next summer she will be back in Salzburg as Vitellia in another Mozart opus, "La Clemenza di Tito." Maestro Joseph Rescigno will make his conducting debut with the OCP in this work. Kay Walker Castaldo will direct.

The third opera, the area premiere, is Igor Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress." The Opera Company of Philadelphia production, according to the company's Craig Hamilton, will "... bring the famed Hogarth engravings to life as Tom Rakewell befriends the devil and loses himself amidst the pleasures of big-city London."

It is an interesting story as Tom's decline evolves through the hands of Nick Shadow, Mother Goose and Baba the Turk. Let us never forget his faithful Ann Trulove either. It will be presented in March. Curtain on the 3rd at 7:30, 9th at 2:30, 12th at 8:00 and 14th at 8:00.

An outstanding cast is being readied for us to hear in this rarely performed work. Martin Thompson will sing the role of Tom and Heather Dials will perform Ann Trulove.

Others in the cast include Gregg Baker as Nick Shadow; Stephanie Blythe, Baba the Turk; Melissa Parks, Mother Goose; Melvin Lowery, Selem and Richard Johnson, the other Trulove. George Manahan will conduct and Leon Major will direct.

Giuseppe Verdi's comedy "Falstaff" will be the season finale on April 25 at 8:00, April 28 at 7:30, May 4 at 2:30 and May 7 at 8:00.

The "misunderstood" or "too well understood" (depending on one's point of view) Jack Falstaff will be sung by baritone Timothy Noble who is earning praise for his performance in this role from audiences and critics alike. Barbara Daniels will offer us Alice Ford.

Ms. Daniels just finished a stint in Puccini's "La Fanciulla del West" where she worked with Placido Domingo and Sherill Milnes.

Rounding out the cast for Verdi's final work are Jane Giering de Hann as Nanetta; Stephanie Bloythe, Quickly; Richard Troxell, Fenton; Robert Orth, Ford; John Davies, Pistol; Melvin Lowery, Bardolf and Jonathan Green, Caius. OCP boss Robert Driver will also direct this work and Maurizio Barbacini will conduct.

Tickets for a single performance begin at only $18 and for season tickets, $60.

For a brochure with full details you may write The Opera Company of Philadelphia at 530 Walnut Street, Suite 1450, Philadelphia, PA 19106 or call them at 215-928-2110.

Sounds like a memorable season is in the making during this Summer of 1996.

Now is the time to get in on the action!

Soprano Patricia Schuman will sing the title role in Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" in the Opera Company of Philadelphia's 1996-97 season.

Killer squirrels

► PETZAK, from 6

ladder, he installed the hummingbird feeder in another tree and happily reported that tiny finches were coming to feed there. For about a month, my husband only fretted that larger birds were taking the tiny seed from the finches, but experiments with the type of seed seemed to be solving that problem. The squirrels were a distant worry until last weekend.

Gazing casually out the window, my husband suddenly noticed that a burlap sack he was using to cover a newly-seeded patch of grass was being dragged across the yard by a squirrel. Thinking the animal had become caught on the sack, he went out to take a closer look.

The squirrel ran off and my puzzled husband replaced and smoothed out the cloth on the ground. A few hours later, however, his worst fears were confirmed. He looked out and saw a squirrel dragging the sack through a gap in our hedge to a neighbor's yard. He rushed out and retrieved the sack once again and returned it to our lawn. On Monday night, he reported that the sack was again dragged halfway down our yard away from the emerging grass.

He still hasn't announced a plan for this latest squirrel attack, but my personal feeling is that I may be scanning the supermarket ads for grass seed specials any day now.

POWERS-CASE AT THURGOOD MARSHALL

Top principal in state

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

KAROL Z. Powers-Case, principal of Thurgood Marshall Elementary School in Bear, was overwhelmed recently to learn she had been named Delaware's National Distinguished Principal for the 1996/97 school year.

"I'm just absolutely thrilled," said Powers-Case who has been a teacher since 1957. "As part of my award I get to go to the White House for a black tie dinner in September and meet President Clinton."

Powers-Case, who began using her hyphenated name professionally after her marriage to George Case a year ago, said 59 principals from U.S. states and territories will be honored during the two-day trip to Washington, D.C. "I understand we each get an engraved school bell," she said.

The award is given by the National Association of Elementary School Principals (NAESP) and the U. S. Department of Education. Her selection followed a nomination and review by her fellow principals in a statewide search process.

Powers-Case was nominated

Powers-Case

by a principal from the Caesar Rodney School District and then had to submit information about herself.

"School principals are the unsung heroes of our education process," said Dr. Samuel G. Sava, executive director of NAESP. "Next to parents, principals play the most critical role in shaping the character and quality of a child's education, a very notable, but rarely rewarded accomplishment."

According to Dr. Kae

Keister, chairperson for the selection committee, criteria for principals of the year include achievements above and beyond those expected in the usual school program.

In addition, each must have been a principal for five years, maintain high expectations of students and staff, show evidence of outstanding contributions to school and profession, and be an established, respected member of the community.

A native of New York, Powers-Case was previously principal at Ramon C. Cobbs Elementary School (now Gauger-Cobbs Elementary School). She has been principal of Thurgood Marshall since 1993.

At Thurgood Marshall, Powers-Case is in a partnership with the University of Delaware as Delaware's first Professional Development School.

Ground to be broken for new church in Bear

3,000 families anticipated for Roman Catholic parish

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

MEMBERS of a Roman Catholic parish on Route 7 in Bear hope to break ground in August for their first church after waiting 17 years.

"The diocese originally formed St. Elizabeth Seton Parish from parts of Our Lady of Fatima in Wilmington Manor and Holy Family in Newark because they saw this area was developing," said the Rev. Clemens D. Manista, only the second pastor in the church's history. "Unfortunately, there was a mini-recession almost immediately that slowed development or caused many builders to downgrade their plans."

"We used Pleasantville Elementary School for services for the first two years," said Paul Adams, chair of the church building committee and one of the original parishioners. "In the beginning, we only had the rectory built for Father Gardiner, and my sons and I put up the rectory garage ourselves with the help of some other parishioners."

The Rev. Richard Gardiner, founding pastor, had previously built churches at St. Ann Parish in Bethany Beach and at St. John the Beloved Parish in Wilmington so he was considered an ideal choice for starting a new parish in 1978.

The parish hall where Masses are presently held was ready by 1980. "In 1985, we added another modular-type building which doubled the size of the hall," said Manista. "We were able to put in eight classrooms and increased our worship space to hold 480 people."

The classrooms are used for 111 preschoolers in the mornings as well as for religious education classes and parish meetings at night. "With 500 children enrolled, we already have one of the largest religious education programs in the Wilmington diocese," said Manista. "These classrooms were never meant to get so much use."

Manista noted that among the 20 different organizations in the parish are a St. Vincent De Paul Society and Parish Outreach Office which serve families in need throughout the greater Bear community. "We're here for others besides just our parishioners."

"By the time I arrived in 1985, the recession had turned around," Manista said. "It's been a little like a boom town here ever since."

Plans for a $3.1 million church building finally started in 1990. "We interviewed seven architects and picked George Yu of Philadelphia to draw up a design which included a large circular worship area, two small chapels for daily Masses and baptisms, a round gathering place or entrance hall, a new classroom wing and church offices," said Manista.

The size of the church was important because, according to Manista, the University of Delaware and DelDOT have projected 35,000 families in this area by the year 2010. "We anticipate that 3000 of them will be active Catholic families so the church is designed to accommodate 700 people at a Mass," he said. "We already have over a 1,000 families and at 3,000 we would be one of the largest in Delaware."

Financial realities and struggling through a three-year capital campaign eventually led parish planners to reassess their needs. "Cost considerations made us put the new classroom and office wing on hold," said Manista. "We also changed the plan for a metal roof to shingles and eliminated the steeple."

The new building will still have the "illusion" of a steeple with an added skylight and tower supporting the cross, said Manista. "We believe this will be an elegant place of worship but not 'gold-plated,'" said Manista.

Pledges and contributions to the church fund presently total $2.1 million. "We need $2.8 million to start," said Manista, "so right now we're going back to individuals and businesses and asking if they can renew or add to their pledges."

Manista said the parishioners have been grateful for the positive response to this second campaign. "We've received gifts from people who are not even parishioners," said Manista.

Fundraisers have not yet reached their goal but are very hopeful that the late summer groundbreaking will take place. "We're still talking to people about donations and we have proceeds of events like the recent carnival which go toward the building fund as well," explained Manista.

In a recent letter to parishioners, Manista noted the parish is at a "critical stage" in its development—it needs to go forward just to stay in place. "We believe that deferring the project will only result in increased costs," said Manista. "We are looking at contingency plans and we think we're going to be able to do. We're so close!"

Glasgow med center now size of small hospital

By DOUG RAINEY

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

WHEN the Glasgow Medical Center opened in 1990, it took a while for the area to catch up with the sizable health care facility.

Joseph Rule, executive director of Community Medical Care Inc., said a sizable cash subsidy was required in the early going.

The facility has since undergone a 52,000-square-foot expansion that goes into operation this month. The expansion includes an 11,000-square-foot outpatient surgery center, along with additional space for physician practices.

Despite the near doubling in size of the Glasgow center to 109,000 square feet (the size of a small community hospital) Rule expects that the expanded facilities will be adequate for only another two years. Growth in the area is expected to continue, which in turn will attract the types of medical practices that Community wants to see in the center.

The Glasgow Medical Center is a sizable contributor to the economy of the area.

Rule estimates that employment at the center is around 400, with about 50 physicians working out of the center. Rule notes that many of the positions are part-time, given the nature of the health care industry and the multi-office practices of physicians.

With the new addition, the center has invested $12 million in its facilities, with an additional $2 million in equipment.

Rule sees the Glasgow center as an asset that improves the quality of life in the community. Well known to residents is the medical aid unit, for patients who can't wait to see their family doctor. The center also operates an imaging and x-ray center and laboratory as well.

"We're not an emergency room," Rule said. However, the center has seen its share of patients who have suffered a heart attack and need to be stabilized before they are transported to the hospital.

Adjacent to the Glasgow center is a county paramedic station that assists in such cases. Another heavily used facility is the medical center's imaging center that provides x-rays and other services.

The imaging and the aid unit demonstrate that Community's approach involves more than renting office space. The Glasgow center works to recruit a good mix of specialties and family practitioners who can fill the needs of the area.

A number of specialties are now part of the Medical Center and Rule hopes to see oncologists (cancer specialists), dermatology (skin specialists) and neurology (brain-related) practices.

Glasgow Medical is also working on a primary care system that would reduce the cost of care outside the hospital setting through a network of physicians.

Rule said the expanded medical center is designed to improve efficiency in an increasingly cost-driven health care environment.

Joe Rule

While health care reform is debated endlessly, Rule does not see as great an emphasis placed on increasing overall efficiency of delivering services. The Glasgow Medical Center and its most recent expansion addresses those areas, he believes.

The average square footage for medical practices in the new portion of the building has tripled to 5,600 square feet, a reflection of the growing size of the average practice.

Efficiency is emphasized, with examination rooms clustered together and other measures have taken to allow physicians to treat more patients.

In one practice, adults and children's waiting rooms are separate, because youngsters typically have more infectious diseases.

The most ambitious step taken at the Glasgow center is the addition of the outpatient surgery center.

The center is designed to provide a comfortable setting for the growing number of procedures that can be performed on an outpatient basis at a reasonable cost.

Rule admits that it may take some time for the center to attract enough patients to allow it to become profitable. In addition, other health care providers in the area have beefed up their outpatient facilities.

However, the rapid growth of the area and the need to rein in health care costs makes the surgery center a wise investment and an asset to the community, he said.

Rule's quarter-century career in developing and managing medical centers started at DuPont Co. In studying the issue of providing efficient clinics to serve employees and their families, Rule said he came up with a plan for a system of clinics that would be a short drive from almost any area of Delaware.

DuPont did not want to get into the health care business. However, Rule decided the approach was a sound one and began to assemble a system.

Rule said the statewide plan never became reality. However, Community now has three clinics convenient to most areas of the county.

The first project was a Silverside Medical Center, a 26,000-square-foot facility that opened in 1976. The center, located in a developed area, faced some neighborhood opposition and was limited in its ability to expand. From that point on, Community's strategy involved construction of larger facilities on large tracts in rapidly growing areas.

In 1985, Community opened the 65,000-square-foot Limestone Medical Center, followed in 1990 by the Glasgow center and in 1991 a 10,000-square-foot expansion of Limestone.

Rule said Community has worked hard to maintain good relations with those living in the Bear-Glasgow area. It offers free of charge a large meeting room that can be used by community groups in the area which has few such facilities.

In a related development, Rule was asked by the Biddle family, which had sold the site of the Glasgow center, to develop the remaining 42 acres.

A group that includes Rule and other office developers is now at work on a 400,000-square-foot office park.

While the project is obviously a long-term development, Rule sees it adding to the quality of life in the community by bringing jobs closer to where people actually live.

In the meantime, Rule believes demand is sufficient to construct a 50,000-square-foot office building that would house practices and businesses related to the Glasgow Medical Center, such as optometrists and opticians.

Ann Marie Hobbs sits in the expanded offices of the Ambulatory Surgery Center at the Glasgow Medical Center.

Canal senior girls win district crown

Team tops Suburban in championship

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

NEW CASTLE — Players come and players go and some eligible players don't even return. No matter what the losses are, though, the results within District II seem to remain the same.

The Canal senior softball all-star team topped Suburban 12-7 Saturday at the New Castle Little League complex to complete a three-game sweep and capture its 13th district title in the last 14 years.

Canal, with the district title, advanced to the three-team state tournament in Lewes with Milford and Seaford.

The win came on the heels of a 4-3 win over Stanton-Newport in the tournament opener and a 10-3 win over the same Suburban team in the winners bracket final. Suburban edged Stanton-Newport 2-1 in nine innings to advance to the final.

Canal scored six runs in the first inning to take control of the game. Megan Richardson got the first her three hits to lead off the game. Erica Richardson followed with a walk and Cori Abshagen singled to load the bases. Jamie Gallagher walked to force home Megan Richardson and Christine Cariello singled to plate Erica Richardson. Melissa Perez then was hit by a pitch to load the bases again. Stacey Watson got hit by a pitch to force in Gallagher. Cariello scored on a wild pitch and Stephanie Rice got a single to score Perez. Megan Richardson then got her second hit of the inning to plate Watson and complete the rally.

Suburban rallied to cut the lead to 6-5 in second inning but Canal answered with three more runs in the bottom of the inning.

"I think we got a little lethargic after getting the big lead," said Canal Manager Ed Abshagen. "But we were able to come back and take control."

Watson hit a two-run double to plate Cariello and Jessica Marley to lead the second inning rally. The other run came when Gallagher singled and moved around the bases on three wild pitches.

Canal also scored single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Rice singled to lead off the third inning and Megan Richardson's third hit of the game scored her. Perez doubled to lead off the fourth inning and she scored when Watson picked up her fourth RBI of the game.

Canal's final run came when Gallagher doubled home Erica Richardson in the fifth inning.

Allison DeBoda relieved starting pitcher Cori Abshagen in the fifth inning and closed out the win.

"We really felt confident," said winning pitcher Abshagen, a 15-year-old who has played on three senior all-star games. "I think even when they cut the lead to one run, we felt we were going to win."

"It's going to be tough in the states though. That's the hardest tournament. Every year the down-state teams get better and better."

Members of the district champi-

All-Star fun is spoiled by a few

ALL-STAR SEASON IS A FUN TIME of the year for many players and parents. It's also a miserable time of the year for a few players and parents — and they do their best to try and make it miserable for as many other people as possible.

In this day and age it's not a real mystery of why problems arise. Kids (and, more importantly, their parents) who think they are 'all-stars', and have been told they are for several years now, have a tough time accepting that when playing with other 'all-stars' they're not the top dogs anymore.

I fully realize that 14 roster spots and only nine positions in the lineup is an equation for trouble.

That being said, I still can't believe how many times I saw kids just quit or leave for vacation while the team is still alive.

If you have a vacation planned, then maybe the parent and player should decline their spot on the team and let someone who is willing to be at all the practices and games be on the team.

Most distressing is the some parents insistence on berating a coach in front of players and other parents. Nice example.

That kind of pompous bullying tactic might work on a volunteer summer coach, but what's going to happen when the kid gets to high school and has the same problem. They're not many high school coaches that are going to put up with that type of garbage.

championship game between Canal and Suburban. District II Administrator Bob Clevinger bestowed the honor on Huda.

Betty Huda has been involved in girls softball since its inception in the district in 1973.

I have been involved in covering Little League softball for seven summers now and have seen Huda at every single district tournament game over that span of time.

It's certainly an appropriate honor for someone who has put so much time into the girls softball programs in the district.

Newark National rallies

How about that Newark National major all-star baseball team.

Getting in the losers bracket is normally the last place any team wants to get. National, however, dropped its first game of the district tournament. If the players wanted to keep their baseball playing part of the summer to continue, it would have to be in the losers bracket.

The team proceeded to rip off five straight wins to advance all the way back to the championship round, where it fell to Brandywine.

In a time when quitting seems to be in vogue it was nice to see a team show a little bit of fortitude.

Canal major girls win state opener

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

MIDDLETOWN — The Canal major all-star softball team opened defense of its state championship in fine form.

Jackie Homiak scattered five hits to lead Canal to a 5-0 victory over District III titlist Lewes Monday night at Silver Lake Park. The win advanced Canal, the District II champs, to the winners bracket final Tuesday night against District I champion Middletown-Odessa-Townsend (MOT).

The win was the team's fourth straight in the postseason without a loss. It was also the first time during tournament play that Canal won by more than one run.

The game remained scoreless through three innings before Canal struck in the fourth. Jaime McLaughlin led off with a walk and moved to second on a passed ball. Alexis Niggebrugge followed with a single to score McLaughlin with game's first run. Niggebrugge, who moved to third when MOT tried to get McLaughlin at the plate, scored on Melissa Ball's infield ground ball.

Four straight hits led to three runs that broke the game open in the sixth inning. Homiak, McLaughlin, Niggebrugge and Ball all collected sharp hits in the inning with the first three scoring.

"We finally got our bats going," said Canal Manager Charlie Marioni. "We knew we could hit the ball; it was just a matter of time."

Homiak struck out seven and allowed just two runners to reach as far as third base.

"Jackie did a terrific job," Marioni said. "She looked great out there."

It was Homiak's second win of the post-season.

"I think the week we had between districts and states really helped us," Homiak said. "I think we just keep getting better."

Marioni concurred with the idea that the time off helped.

"We got some extra practices in and I really think that helped us," said the manager. "I think this team is still improving."

"I think the team really looked solid tonight. They're really a great group and fun to work with."

NEW CASTLE — Sunday's loser bracket final of the District II major baseball tournament was a classic example of two teams going in the opposite direction.Newark National, after dropping its opening game of the double-elimination tournament, beat Canal
National 15-1 at the Suburban Little League complex to pick up its fourth straight victory and advance to Tuesday night's championship round against Brandywine. For Canal National, who won its first three games of the tournament, it was a second straight loss that elimitimes in the first inning and six more in each of the second and third to end the game because of the 10-run rule after 3 1/2 innings."A lot of people contributed," six more runs in the third inning.In all, Plumsy, Farmer and Rash gained the win on the well and we just couldn't get any-inning, Brandon Farmer hit a two-run home run and Mark Rash followed with a solo shot to give the Nationals 5-2 lead.Another solo home run — by Mark Murray leading off the sixth — provided the Nationals with their all-important insurance run after Suburban had cut the lead to 5-4.But Suburban threatened again in the sixth after coaxing two straight walks from starter Matt Logan to open the final frame. Both runners moved into scoring position on a wild pitch. Enter R.T. Plumsy.Would he be a hero? Or The Wild Thing?The Suburbans nudged across their fifth run on a sacrifice fly, but the diminutive closer got a fielder's choice and a strike out to end the game."He just took care of it," Nationals manager Bob Bush said of Plumsy. "When he came in, he had to face the top of their order with base runners on."The Nationals took a 2-0 lead in the first. Plumsy walked and Farmer singled to set the table for Rash, who hit an RBI double.

Logan followed with a single to score Rash.The lead held until the third when Suburban tied the game on a two-run home run. But the Nationals' home-run barrage in the fifth put the local kids out in front for good."It been a team effort all the way through this thing. It's a couple of different guys every night. Everybody's rallying around each other and just playing good, solid baseball."

MILLTOWN — Brandywine held Newark National to one hit over the final four innings en route to a 10-3 win in the finals of the Major All-Stars tournament.Matt Logan's leadoff home run highlighted a three-run second, but Brandywine scored five in the bottom half of the inning to take a 7-3 lead. A three-run home run in the third turned the game into a rout.

Brandywine took a 2-0 lead in the first. With two outs, a Brandywine runner collided with Newark shortstop Mark Rash while advancing to third base.The third-base umpire appeared to rule interference on the play in which Brandywine score its first run. But the call was changed to allow the run to stand. A throwing error resulted in Brandywine's second run.

The Nationals came back to take a 3-2 lead in the second. After Logan hit his home run, John Parkinson walked, Mike Murray singled and Greg Bulovas reached base on an error.R.T. Plumsy drove in the tying run after Brandywine's third baseman booted his ground ball. With Brandon Farmer at the plate, Murray scored on a wild pitch to give the Nationals a 3-2 lead. The lead didn't survive the inning.Brandywine loaded the bases on two walks and an error. A two-runsingle pushed Brandywine back in front 4-3. Three more runs scored on a double, a fielder's choice and another single.Newark National manager Bob Bush praised his team's for winning five straight games after losing the opener."We've come a long way," Bush said. "We just played real good as a team. I had fun. The kids had fun. It was a long, hard road.""They know that getting to this final game [out of the losers bracket] was a huge accomplishment."

National juniors eliminated

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

NEW CASTLE - Newark National was eliminated from the Junior All-Stars tournament after a 13-6 loss to New Castle last Friday.

The Nationals played their opponents to 2-2 tie through the first four innings of the July 19 game. But New Castle outscored Newark 6-1 in the fifth and sixth frames, then turned the contest into a rout by getting five more in the seventh.

The Nationals staked pitcher Steve Rogers to a 1-0 lead in the first after Brian Fitzgerald scored on Jeff Ashton's ground-out. But Newark beat itself with a fatal combination of walks and errors even though they out-hit their opponents 10-9.

The downward spiral began in the second. An error with runners on second and third put New Castle ahead 2-1. The Nationals came back to tie the game in the bottom half after Dave O'Malley got into a run-down, which allowed Ashton to score.

A leadoff double and walk in the fifth proved to be the Nationals' downfall. An infield hit, a double steal and sacrifice fly put New Castle up 5-2 after a wild pitch moved the runners into scoring position.

Newark cut the deficit to 5-3 after O'Malley scored on an error, but New Castle started the sixth by loading the bases. A single, a hit batsman and a walk brought the runners across to make the score 8-3.

To their credit, the Nationals never threw in the towel. They got to within 8-4 after Joe Eppler scored on Ashton's single. Even after they trailed 13-4 in the sixth, the players kept hacking away.

Ryan Bullen — who made a spectacular over-the-shoulder catch in deep center earlier in the game — opened the inning with a double and scored on Patrick Ferris' single. Ferris went to second after Eppler's walk and scored on a double play.

"We just didn't play to our capabilities," Newark National manager Dick Vitek. "Once the momentum shifts, it's hard to get it back. You tie five errors and 11 walks together, and that's a lot of base runners."

The Nationals defeated New Castle 8-6 earlier this month to advance to the winners bracket finals against Brandywine. But Brandywine's 5-0 shutout dropped the Nationals into the losers bracket.

The loss — Newark's third to Brandywine in a winners bracket final in as many years — set up the rematch with New Castle, who had come off an impressive 14-4 win over Newark American.

Canal National falls to Brandywine

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

One big inning can change the course of an entire tournament.

Leading by two runs in the fourth inning, Canal National watched as Brandywine scored nine runs on its way to a 10-4 victory in last Thursday's winners bracket final of the District II major (11-12 years-old) baseball tournament at the Newark American Little League complex.

Andrew Budney stroked a two-run homer in the top of the fourth inning to give Canal National a 3-1 lead and put the team within two innings of advancing to the championship round of the tournament.

Brandywine, however, took advantage of four walks and six hits — many of them that just fell between outgoing infielders and incoming outfielders — to score nine runs in the bottom of the inning to take control of the contest and the tournament. The win advanced Brandywine to the finals where it would have to be beaten twice.

"Just one bad inning," said Canal

National Manager Ralph Sassaman. "We took the lead and then couldn't hold them off. They're a very good team and were able to come back on us."

Trailing 1-0 in the second inning, Canal National's Breck Widenmann ripped a home run over the right field fence to tie the score. The game stayed tied until Budney's blast in the fourth.

Widenmann also picked up an RBI in the fifth inning when he singled home Scott Frieze (single). Tim Biliski also picked up a hit for Canal National.

Canal sr. girls lose state opener

LEWES - The Canal senior softball all-star team dropped its opening game of the state tournament.

Canal fell 13-3 to Milford in Monday night's game at the Lewes Little League complex. The loss dropped Canal — the District II champs and nine-time defending state champion — into a loser's bracket meeting with the same Milford team Wednesday night. Milford fell in the winners bracket final to Seaford. The winner of Wednesday's game will have to beat Seaford twice to advance to next week's Mid-Atlantic Regional in North Cumberland, N.J.

Milford strung together eight hits and took advantage of three Canal errors on its way to an 11-run first inning.

"They hit the ball really well," said Canal Manager Ed Abshagen of Milford. "They hit a lot of line drives that went over our infield and dropped in front of the outfielders. We made some mistakes to keep the inning going and they took advantage of it."

Andrew Hom, also of Jack's, won his second straight kickboxing match. Akira Miyashita dropped a decision in his match.

The next scheduled fight is Aug. 6 in Baltimore.

Magic qualifies for ASA Nationals

The Delaware Magic 12-and-under ASA softball team finished in second place in the Central Atlantic Regional Tournament in College Park, Md. The placing qualified for the Magic for the ASA National Tournament to be held in Altamonte Springs, Fla. from Aug. 7-11.

The tournament consisted of the top 12 teams from Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Offensively, the Magic were led by Rachel Pawlikowski (9-for-15), Ashley Davis (6-for-15), Jackie Homiak (7-for-18), Jaime McLaughlin (4-for-12) and Alexis Niggebrugge (4-for-15).

Pitching wise, the Magic was led by Homiak, who recorded two victories including a 3-0 shutout over the Vienna (Va.) Stars. Pawlikowski was 1-1 and threw a no-hitter against Pennel.

The Lehigh Valley Flames defeated the Magic 6-2 in the championship game.

The team is now in a fund-raising mode having to amass $7,000 for its trip to the national tournament.

Anyone wishing to contribute should call coach Skip Homiak at 633-5000.

East End's reign comes to an end

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

The king is dead. Long live the king.

Deer Park eliminated East End Cafe, winner of the past eight post-season titles, and faced Time Out Sports in Wednesday's championship round.

Each team faced a special challenge. Though Time Out only needed to win one game, the Sportsmen dropped four of five to Deer Park during regular season play.

And Deer Park needed to sweep a doubleheader in the final round — not an easy thing to do against a team that reached the finals last season after it compiled a perfect 36-0 regular season mark.

But both teams earned the right to play for the championship. They both beat East End, who will begin next season as the defending regular season champion after picking up their ninth straight crown prior to the tournament.

Time Out, the winners bracket champions, defeated Scorer's Pub Gold 12-4, East End 13-4 and Crab Trap 14-5 to reach the finals.

The Deermen reached the finals by way of the dreaded losers bracket, defeating Scorer's Pub Blue 17-16, East End 11-6, Newark Fence 13-6 and Crab Trap 15-6.

"Deer Park is hot," Time Out manager John Slack Sr. said. "They're hitting the hell out of the ball. They deserve to be where they are."

But Slack, whose team thrives on a singles-hitting attack reminiscent of the 1980s St. Louis Cardinals, isn't intimidated by the Deermen's muscle.

"There is no sense in trying to do anything different than we've done all year," he said. "We have excellent pitching and an excellent defense — and we'll take what they give us offensively."

Deer Park's Keith Purdy also kept his comments pretty low-key. His team's success comes to down to one thing: whether it hits or not. And the lineup has over the past four games to the tune of 13-14 runs a game.

"We're real confident," Purdy said. "The only trouble is we have to beat [Time Out] twice. If we don't hit we're done. It seems like it's come back now."

Purdy's team knows what it's like to have its back against the wall. After dropping their opening-round game 3-1 to Crab Trap, the Deermen found themselves down 16-12 to slugging Scorer's Pub Blue with two outs in the seventh.

"We considered ourselves gone, down that many that late," Purdy said.

But Al McDaniel's two-run gap-putter put the finishing touches on a five-run miracle come-back. And Deer Park's made the most of its second chance.

Trailing 4-0 to East End, the team scored 10 runs in the fifth en route to eliminating the defending champs. "We've just really been hitting," Purdy said.

"We have nothing to lose."

Little consolation

Yankee Restaurant won the consolation tournament with a 12-2 win over Border Crossings Tuesday.

The Yankees, a first-division team only a year ago, began the season mired in a 2-12 slump. Though they finished impressively, their 15-21 mark fell short of qualifying for the 'A' bracket.

"We had basically two seasons," Manager Steve Germani said prior to the final round. "[Now] we're looking to make the most of where we are. Let's not quit on ourselves. Let's win ballgames."

Goodwill opens new store at Fox Run

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

THE PLACE is littered with bargains. Belts for a buck and sports jackets for $6.50. Children's clothes start at a couple dollars and women's jeans go for $5.

Goodwill Industries' opened its sixth Delaware store recently in the Fox Run Shopping Center in Bear. The non-profit organization, which now has five stores in New Castle County including a high-sales outlet in Newark's downtown, uses sales revenue from the stores to finance training programs for people dealing with disabilities and disadvantaged backgrounds.

About half of the 14-member staff at the Bear store has disabilities.

"Effectively we're taking people off the welfare rolls and other government-funded programs," said Cathy L. Benson, Goodwill's vice president of sales and operations in Delaware and Delaware County, Pa.

Benson said the store has met its projected sales goals during the month or so that it's been open. This is good news both for the store and the merchants nearby.

"All the merchants are happy about it. They've had increased traffic in the shopping center. And [area] customers and donors no longer have to drive into Newark," Benson said.

The 8,000-square-foot store stocks more than just clothing. Toys, records, CDs, books and furniture are also available. "If people purchase it, we end up with it here eventually," said Karen Kee, the store's manager.

Best of all, the new store has been well received by area residents.

"I like it a lot," said Peggy Wagner, 40, who has lived in Bear for 11 years. "I used to travel to the [store] in Newark."

Glasgow's Dave May found himself in the same predicament, having to drive to Goodwill's Wilmington store. "Can't beat the prices," said May, a 30-year-old mechanic who goes through a lot of clothes.

"I get them greasy and throw them away. My wife likes shopping here. ...I just follow [her]," said

May, who has lived in Glasgow for three years.

Mark Cooperman praised the store for its selection. "This store seems like it has more stuff than the other [Goodwill] stores," the 31-year-old New Castle man said.

Benson said the store could become a vocational training site. Traditionally, Goodwill Industries teaches retail, job interview and janitorial skills and provides computer and literacy instruction.

The store could also serve as a site for First Choice Employment, Goodwill's job placement service.

Shoppers check out the grand opening bargains at the new Goodwill outlet at Fox Run Shopping Center. Goodwill's Newark store on Main Street presently is undergoing renovations but remains open for business.

UD wins 'Better Newark' award

Four wood-framed houses owned by the University of Delaware at 12, 28, 30 and 34 West Delaware Avenue will receive the second quarter 1996 "A Better Newark Award" from the City of Newark's Conservation Advisory Commission.

The four properties together were chosen because of overall external appearance, upgrades that blend harmonious pastel-colored paints applied to the wood sidings, as well as emphasis on energy conservation and other environmental improvements. Environmentally friendly plants were used in mulched beds to reduce need for watering and mowing. In addition, many of the 18 plants chosen are native to the area and reduce the need for insecticides. Also, new thermal barrier windows and doors, added insulation, new energy-efficient lighting, heating, air conditioning, as well as water-saving faucets highlight interior energy-conservation improvements.

The quarterly award, including photographs of the properties and a mayor's proclamation suitable for display, are presented to the property owner. A photograph is also displayed in the Newark Municipal Building lobby.

Anyone within the city limits of Newark interested in being considered for future awards or nominating other properties can obtain a short nominating form from Patricia Bodley in the City Secretary's Office, or by calling 366-7070.

The commission established this award about seven years ago to recognize property owners of houses and businesses in Newark who improve the appearance of their property through structural renovations and/or landscaping.

The following amendments to the Constitution of the State of Delaware were passed for the first time by the 138th General Assembly and are being published in accordance with Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of the State of Delaware.

HOUSE BILL NO. 495
AS AMENDED BY

HOUSE AMENDMENT NO. 1 AND SENATE AMENDMENT NO. 1

AN ACT PROPOSING AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE IV, § 11(1) OF THE DELAWARE CONSTITUTION OF 1897, AS AMENDED, RELATING TO THE JURISDICTION OF THE DELAWARE SUPREME COURT IN CRIMINAL CASES.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE (Two-thirds of all members elected to each house thereof concurring therein):

Section 1. Amend Article IV, § 11(1) of the Delaware Constitution of 1897, as amended, by adding thereto a new paragraph, said paragraph to be designated as (1)(c), to read as follows:

"(1)(c) Notwithstanding any provisions of this Section to the contrary, to receive appeals from the Superior court in criminal causes, upon application by the State in all causes in which the Superior Court, or any inferior court an appeal from which lies to the Superior Court, has granted an accused any of the following: a new trial or judgment of acquittal after a verdict, modification of a verdict, arrest of judgment, relief in any post-conviction proceeding or in any action collaterally attacking a criminal judgment, or a new punishment hearing in a capital case after the court has imposed a sentence of death, or any order or judgment declaring any act of the General Assembly, or any portion of any such act, to be unconstitutional under either the Constitution of the United States or the State of Delaware, inoperative or unenforceable, except that no appeal shall lie where otherwise prohibited by the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution of the United States or of this State. Notwithstanding anything in this Article to the contrary, the General Assembly may by statute implement the jurisdiction herein conferred."

HOUSE BILL NO. 639

AN ACT PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE IV, SECTION 26 OF THE DELAWARE CONSTITUTION OF 1897, AS AMENDED, RELATING TO THE POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE PROTHONOTARY AND THE ENTRY OF TESTAMUM FIERI FACIAS.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE (Two-thirds of all members elected to each house thereof concurring therein):

Section 1. Amend Article IV, Section 26 of the Delaware Constitution of 1897, as amended, by adding the following sentence at the end of the section:

"This section shall not be interpreted to prevent the transfer of a judgment from any court of one county to the Superior Court of another county pursuant to legislation enacted by the General Assembly, nor shall it be construed to require the issuance or entry into the record of a testatum fieri facias when a judgment is transferred from a court of one county to the Superior Court of another county pursuant to legislation enacted by the General Assembly."

SYNOPSIS

The purpose of the requirement in Article IV, Section 26 of the Delaware Constitution that, before a judgment in one county may bind lands in another county, a testatum fieri facias must be entered in the Superior Court of the county where the lands are located, is to ensure that subsequent purchasers of property in any county of the State are provided constructive notice of liens or encumbrances affecting the property that may have arisen in another county. Lawyers Title Ins. Corp. v. Wolhar & Gill, Del. Supr., 575 A.2d 1148 (1990). Allowing a judgment creditor to transfer a judgment from a court of one county to the Superior Court of another county does not violate that principle.

This Bill is the first leg of an amendment to the Delaware Constitution which clarifies that point, and ensures that judgment creditors may transfer judgments from a court of one county to the Superior Court of another county without the issuance or entry of a testatum fieri facias when that is accomplished pursuant to legislation enacted by the General Assembly.

SENATE BILL NO. 298

AN ACT PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE IV, SECTION 29 OF THE DELAWARE CONSTITUTION OF 1897, AS AMENDED, RELATING TO THE TERM OF OFFICE OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE (Two-thirds of all members elected to each house thereof concurring therein):

Section 1. Amend Article IV, Section 29 of the Delaware Constitution of 1897, as amended, by deleting the Section 29 in its entirety and substituting in lieu thereof:

"Section 29. There shall be appointed, as hereinafter provided, such number of persons to the Office of the Justice of the Peace as directed by law, who shall be commissioned as follows:

(a) upon first appointment and confirmation, a Justice of the Peace shall be commissioned for four (4) years;

(b) upon second and subsequent appointments and confirmation, a Justice of the Peace shall be commissioned for six (6) years."

SYNOPSIS

Article IV, Section 29 currently provides for four-year terms for Justices of the Peace. This amendment would provide that Justices of the Peace who had completed one four-year term successfully enough to warrant appointment and confirmation for succeeding terms would thereafter serve terms of six years.

SENATE BILL NO. 417

AS AMENDED BY
SENATE AMENDMENT NO. 1

AN ACT TO PROPOSE AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE IV OF THE DELAWARE CONSTITUTION OF 1897 TO INCLUDE THE FAMILY

COURT AND COURT OF COMMON PLEAS AS COURTS ESTABLISHED BY THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE AND ARTICLES III AND IV OF THE DELAWARE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE TO DELETE REFERENCES TO THE ORPHANS' COURT.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE (Two-thirds of all members elected to each House thereof concurring therein):

Section 1. Amend Article IV, Section 1 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware by adding the words "a Family Court, a Court of Common Pleas," after the phrase "a Court of Chancery," and before the phrase "an Orphans' Court" as that phrase heretofore appears.

Section 2. Amend Article IV, Section 2 of the Constitution by striking the second, third and fourth full paragraphs of said section, and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

"In addition to members of the Supreme Court there shall be other State Judges, who shall be citizens of the State and learned in the law. They shall include: (1) the Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellors; (2) The President Judge and the Associate Judges of the Superior Court, three of whom shall be Resident Associate Judges and one of whom shall after appointment reside in each county of the State; (3) the Chief Judge and the Associate Judges of the Family Court; and (4) the Chief Judge and Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, one of whom after appointment shall reside in each county of the State.

There shall also be such number of additional Vice-Chancellors, Associate Judges and Judges as may hereinafter be provided for by Act of the General Assembly. Each of such Vice-Chancellors, Associate Judges, and Judges shall be citizens of the State and learned in the law.

If it is otherwise impossible to determine seniority of service among the Vice-Chancellors, or among the said Associate Judges or among the said Judges, they shall determine it by lot respectively and certify accordingly to the Governor."

Section 3. Amend Article IV, Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware by striking the word "and" after the phrase "or Vice-Chancellors," as that phrase appears in the first sentence of the first paragraph of said section; by adding the words "the Chief Judge and Associate Judges of the Family Court and the Chief Judge and Judges of the Court of Common Pleas" after the phrase "Associate Judges of the Superior Court" as that phrase appears in the first sentence of the first paragraph of said section; by adding the words "Chief Judge or Associate Judge of the Family Court or Chief Judge or Judge of the Court of Common Pleas" after the phrase "Associate Judge of the Superior Court" as that phrase appears in the sixth sentence of the first paragraph of said section; and by redesignating current paragraph "Fourth" as paragraph "Sixth" and adding new paragraphs "Fourth" and "Fifth" after paragraph "Third" to read as follows:

"Fourth, at any time when the total number of Judges of the Family Court shall be an even number, not more than one-half of the Judges shall be of the same political party; and at any time when the total number of Judges shall be an odd number, then not more than a majority of one Judge shall be of the same political party.

Fifth, at any time when the total number of Judges of the Court of Common Pleas (including the Chief Judge) shall be an even number, not more than one-half of the Judges shall be of the same political party; and at any time when the total number of Judges shall be an odd number, then not more than a majority of one Judge shall be of the same political party."

Section 4. Amend Article IV, Section 4 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware by striking the word "and" after the phrase "or Vice-Chancellors," as that phrase appears in the first sentence of said section; and by adding the words "the Chief Judge and Associate Judges of the Family Court and the Chief Judge and Judges of the Court of Common Pleas" after the phrase "Orphans' Court" as that phrase appears in the same sentence.

Section 5. Amend Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Delaware by adding thereto a new Section immediately following Section 7, which new Section shall read in its entirety as follows:

"§7A. Jurisdiction of Family Court.
Section 7A. The Family Court shall have all the jurisdiction and powers vested by the laws of this State in the Family Court."

Section 6. Amend Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Delaware by adding thereto a new section, which section shall read in its entirety as follows:

"§7B. Jurisdiction of Court of Common Pleas.

"(2) Upon written request made by the Chancellor, President Judge of the Superior Court, the Chief Judge of the Family Court, or the Chief Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, or in the event of an absence or incapacity, by the next qualified and available Vice-Chancellor, Associate Judge or Judge, who is senior in length of service, to designate one or more of the State Judges (including the Justices of the Superior Court) to sit in the Court of Chancery, the Superior Court, the Family Court or the Court of Common Pleas, as the case may be, and to hear and decide such causes in such Court and for such period of time as shall be designated. It shall be the duty of the State Judge so designated to serve according to such designation as a Judge of the Court designated. Unless otherwise vested by the laws of this state, a State Judge sitting pursuant to this section in the Superior Court shall not preside at a trial where one or more felony charges are at issue or sentence an individual guilty of one or more felonies except where no Judge of the Superior Court is available to hear or decide the matter. The provisions of this paragraph shall not be deemed to limit in any manner the powers conferred upon the judges of the Superior Court under Section 14 of this Article."

Section 8. Amend Article IV, Section 17 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware by striking the phrase "Orphans' Court" as it appears twice therein and adding the words "the Family Court hereby established, the Court of Common Pleas hereby established" and "established" as it appears in the first sentence of said section; by substituting the word "any" for the word "either" as it appears in the first sentence of said section; and by adding the words "the Family Court, the Court of Common Pleas" after the phrase "Superior Court" as that phrase appears in the second sentence of said section.

"Until the General Assembly shall otherwise provide, the Chief Judge of the Family Court and the Associate Judges of said Court, respectively, shall each singly exercise all the powers which any law of this State vests in the Judges of Family Court, whether as members of the Court or otherwise, and the Chief Judge of the Court of Common Pleas and the Judges of said Court, respectively, shall each singly exercise all the powers which any law of the State vests in the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, whether as members of the Court or otherwise."

"§34A. Continuation in office and designation of judicial officers of the Family Court and the Court of Common Pleas.

Section 34A.
