A Proclamation

The Congress of the United States, by Joint Resolution, has established that Constitution Day, September 17, be observed annually as Citizenship Day, the recognition, observance and commemoration of American citizenship.

On this day, the worth and meaning of United States citizenship, its rights and responsibilities, are emphasized anew—for the native-born, a rededication and renewed devotion to the land of their birth; to the newly naturalized, a feeling of dignity, security and hope. On this day we also pay tribute to our loved ones who are now serving their country so nobly in the Armed Forces.

Recognizing that the joint Constitution Day-Citizenship Day observance will tend to build better citizens and a stronger America through the exemplification and dramatization of the American Way of Life.

Now, therefore, I, Frank M. Durnall, acting Mayor of City of Newark, commend The American Legion for instituting the observance of Citizenship Day, September 17th, call upon our people to lend their full weight and support to the program, and urge the participation and cooperation of community organizations on this day of commemoration.

B&O RR Receives Safety Award For Performance

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad received an E. H. Harriman Memorial Award for outstanding safety performance among Eastern railroads at a meeting of the American Museum of Safety in New York today.

The awards are made annually by the American Museum of Safety, using a formula that considers employee accidents as well as casualties among passengers, trespassers and other persons injured on railroad property. Mrs. Mary W. Harriman established the awards 40 years ago in honor of her husband, E. H. Harriman, a leading railroad executive.

One of the features of the expansion program will be a drive-in window accessible from the Academy Street side offering customers a new form of service. This is considered of great importance for the convenience of customers because of the severe traffic and parking problems which exist in Newark.

The customer-banking portion of the expanded facilities will have ten teller windows—in addition to the drive-in window—instead of the five teller windows now available. The Drive Sales and Installation Loan Department will also be substantially increased and will be located on a new second floor on the Main Street side, Mr. Dayett stated.

Newark Scientist Aids State Trees

A few years ago a little-known fungus disease almost wiped out the production of white pine and Douglas fir seedlings in Delaware. Then a scientist from the University of Delaware developed a treatment which now provides a record production of seedlings.

Dr. Robert S. Cox described his work this week at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences in Madison, Wis. Using a combined treatment of soil fumigation and foliage spray, Dr. Cox found a double barreled method of protecting conifer seedlings from the time of germination until the seedlings leave the plant bed two to four years later.

The treatment has also increased the growth rate of young evergreens. Being free of parasites, the white pine and Douglas fir seedlings grow as rapidly in two years as they did formerly in three or four years.

HISTORICAL OF THE NEW by Ethel M.

from time to time to the Newark Post, Newark, Delaware, Thursday, September 17, 1953.

When I was a little girl, I used to read the Newark Post every day. It was a great source of news and information for me. I remember the day when I was first elected to the Newark Board of Education. It was a great honor and a great responsibility. I was proud to serve my community and to represent the people of Newark.

One day when I was a young woman, I was asked to give a speech at a school assembly. I was nervous, but I gave it my best shot. I talked about the importance of education and the role of the teacher. I was glad to see that my speech was well received and that I had made a positive contribution to the school.

We got along all right in our new home. The house was a little old, but it was a good one. I was glad to have a place of my own. I was also glad to have a place where I could raise my children. I was proud to be a mother and to see my children grow up and become responsible citizens.

When I was a young woman, I was asked to give a speech at a school assembly. I was nervous, but I gave it my best shot. I talked about the importance of education and the role of the teacher. Economist Advises Delaware Farmers To Hold Corn Crop

Storage After Harvest
Until Market Increases
Advocated by McAllister

A University of Delaware economist advises farmers to store their corn after harvest to get the best prices later. The problem is one of adequate storage facilities, says W. T. McAllister, marketing specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station.

There is a much corn on the market during September, October, and November that the bottom drops out of the market," McAllister states. "If the storage facilities are available, farmers can hold their corn until the market strengthens," he adds.

Corn is a new cash crop for many Delaware farmers. Farmers who raise corn to sell should consider the following things, McAllister claims: price changes, grain storage costs, farm storage facilities, and possible insect damage. There are no set rules to tell you when to store corn or when to take it out of storage.

McAllister recommends storing corn for only three or four months to keep too much corn off the market during the harvest season. Cost of storing depends on the type of storage you use. There will be the interest costs, insurance, the cost of the storage bin, taxes, loss due to shrinkage, and the possibility of insect or disease damage while it is in storage.

Taking all costs into consideration and using a new permanent storage, all costs run around 15 to 18 cents per bushel for six months storage. McAllister explains. Of this amount 8 to 10 cents go to pay for the storage bin. This cost can be cut in half by using a building already on the farm or by building a much less permanent type storage. Keep in mind the minimum requirements for storage loans by the Production and Marketing Administration.

The Extension folder, "Corn—Store it or Sell it" is available free of charge from the Marketing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

A MORE RESPECTABLE DOLLAR

A Wall Street Journal news story began with these words: "The dollar is getting more respectable. Despite the great abundance of greenbacks kicking around each of them will buy more of nearly everything." The paper went on to say that the official cost of living figures do not show this, but a trip to the market does. It then dealt at length with a wide variety of wares in common use which have gone down in price, based on surveys made by its reporters in communities from coast to coast.

It would be a foolhardy man indeed who would forecast that inflation has run its course and that we can confidently expect steady price declines. No one knows what the future will bring, but the fact that so many prices have dropped, often by substantial percentages, since abandonment of government price controls is an excellent commentary on the worth, efficiency and vigor of our competitive system of doing business.

All of us see that system in action on the retail level. Every kind and size of store, from the newest and smallest specialty shop to the oldest and biggest chain, is aggressively seeking business. In many lines, the "buyers' market" has come back with a vengeance. Every possible inducement of price and service is used to attract the consumer. In most merchandising operations, the retailer's profits are very small—a few cents or less out of each dollar he takes in. Together, mass production and mass distribution, both intensely competitive, see to it that we get the best possible value for our money.

Letter To Editor

Albionville, N. C.

Dear Editor:
I have felt for some years that we should seek to counteract the Russian peace offensive with statements of what we want and desire for the German, Austrian and other enslaved, non-Russian people.

The demands should be based on the highest moral and Christian principles, and they should be broadcast not only to the German and Austrian people but to the free world as well.

We have no time to lose; we should act at once. We should notify Russia that we will talk only about certain matters, such as a united Germany and Austria, giving the German and Austrian people the privilege of establishing their own government, freedom to vote without coercion, freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of the press, free enterprise, and a treaty with all of Germany, accepting them as a free people among the nations of the world.

We should not only let the German people know that we are demanding their freedom, but also the other Russian satellite countries. We should send these messages by Radio Free Europe, Voice of America, and balloon barrage. We should also arrange to train and send thousands of refugees back to these countries, and let their fellow countrymen know that we want for them all the liberties and freedom that we enjoy in America.

Let them know by every possible means that we are praying for them and are asking God to help us know best how to help them. Let them know that if they put their faith in Christ and in God the Father, pray constantly, and work with others of like belief to help them obtain their freedom from bondage and slavery, they too can become free men, as God has planned for all men. Let them know that when they are free, we will help them to reach a higher degree of economic freedom than they now have, and that we will join with them as a free, God-loving people to establish a lasting peace and prosperity for all mankind.

May I urge all American citizens to write the President, Secretary of State, your Congressman, and your Senator, and ask them to act quickly to let the enslaved peoples of the world know that we are working and praying for them?

Army Chaplain To Present Talk At Wesleyan Chapel

Guest speaker at the Wesleyan Methodist chapel this Sunday will be Capt. Alvin J. Paine, U. S. Army Chaplain stationed at Valley Forge. Speaking at both morning and evening devotional services, Capt. Paine will bring news of the fieldwork of the church in Korea.

Rev. Norman Handy of the Wesleyan Chapel reports that fifty hymnals have been donated to the chapel by the W. N. Robinson family of Akron, Ohio—a family that has made a practice of donating hymnals and hymnals to needy congregations for the past 50 years.

Miss Louise R. Whitcomb Urges Care and Caution To Reduce Accident Toll

Hurried mothers in the kitchen are headed down the road toward the hospital with accident injuries, warns Miss Louise R. Whitcomb of the state farm safety advisory committee, University of Delaware.

"Many women would never drive over 25 on the highway, but you'd never know it by the way they speed around the kitchen," Miss Whitcomb observes. "Slow down, take it easy, the same thing goes for husbands and their work. Rushing and carelessness, either alone or together, cause a great number of accidents," she adds.

Using a box instead of getting a sturdy kitchen step ladder to reach top shelves, or storing jars on stairways instead of investing in some shelving are other quick tickets to the hospital.

Take time to turn handles of pans on the stove back out of the way, so you won't bump them and spill hot grease or water. You must think of these things if there are children in the home.

Organizing small kitchen equipment will prevent many an accident. Sharp knives should always be stored in a separate container. Remember too, a sharp knife is safer than a dull one.

Waxed, shiny floors look nice, but they're too often slick and dangerous. It's better to have a floor that doesn't look so nice, but is safer to walk on.

I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in Heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance. — (St. Luke XV, 7.)

We can be living, or trying to live, Christian lives ourselves and still, at the same time, often be too sure of our own righteousness to think of our neighbor who, not living in Christ, seems beneath our notice. How much greater strength will come to us when, through our example and efforts, one who is without God shall come to know and believe on Him.

AMERICA NEEDS YOU

IN THE GROUND OBSERVER CORPS!

HERE'S WHY:

The potential of modern military offense is such that a surprise raid against this country could cause tremendous casualties.Our military defense is aware of this possibility. Air Force interceptor planes and Army anti-aircraft batteries are designed to repel such an attack.But—if that attack ever comes—warning must come through in time!
Citizen volunteer plane-spotters—ground observers—play a vital role in providing the necessary warning.Already some 300,000 civilian Americans are contributing to the job of guarding our ramparts. I salute these Ground Observers for their patience, their perseverance, their patriotism.But the job calls for twice their number to man these vital posts. Will you serve your country for two hours a week?Dwight D. Eisenhower

THE HOSPITALITY THAT COMES IN CANS

There was a time when the words "gracious living" suggested candlelight on mahogany tables and long hours for Mother in the kitchen getting ready for "company."

Today, with a simple twist of the wrist, Mother can serve company or unexpected guests table-ready canned foods of a freshness and variety that were beyond the dreams of anyone only 50 years ago . . . from lobster bisque and whole pheasant to quick, easy-to-fix "one-dish" meals.

And today's canned foods are less costly, keep indefinitely on your pantry shelves or in your refrigerator without losing vitamins and other nutritional values.

Also, today the party is liable to center in the kitchen or on the patio instead of the dining room. And, whether he is the party chef or simply whipping up the family meal, you'll often find Dad enjoying a can of cold beer and broiling the canned franks over charcoal in the fireplace.

The 35,000 people of Canco are proud of their contribution to modern living in America. Around the clock and around the calendar, we strive to give you increased leisure, informality and freedom.

The "housekeeping revolution" that began when Canco developed the modern food container is just one of the big changes in our everyday lives that have made the United States such a satisfying place in which to live and work and play.

PEOPLE behind your telephone

Floyd D. Marine

Vernon E. Marine

To provide good, fast, dependable telephone service for Delaware takes vast quantities of equipment . . . and nearly 1400 skilled people to install, operate and maintain it.

Aptitude for telephone work often seems to run in a family. Take, for example, the Marine family of Seaford. Vernon Marine, a veteran of naval service in the North Atlantic, is now an experienced telephone Lineman. His brother Floyd has also joined the telephone team—as a Cable Helper. Together, they help extend the network of wire and cable that carries Delaware's growing telephone traffic

It is people like the Marines . . . alert, competent people . . . who make your telephone service so dependable in emergencies, so useful every day in the year.

Wonder Drugs Aid State Poultrymen To Stem Disease

Terramycin, Aureomycin Added To Feed, Control "Blue Comb" Epidemics

The so-called "blue comb" disease of chickens can be controlled by the use of two wonder drugs, terramycin and aureomycin, according to Dr. Ernest F. Waller, chairman of the department of animal and poultry industry at the University of Delaware.

Dr. Waller says a number of treatments are used. The best, however, seems to be an addition of 30 grams of terramycin or aureomycin to each ton of feed.

A disease of pullets, "blue comb" is most common between July 15 and October 1. It is always costly in terms of growth and lost egg production and can wipe out 20 per cent of the flock.

"Good management practices will reduce the extent of the disease," Dr. Waller explains. "If poultry houses are well ventilated so the birds can be comfortable, losses will drop and egg production will rise."

Increasing the amount of water consumed will also help to keep "blue comb" under control. A veterinarian in Ohio recently controlled the disease in 54 flocks by adding terramycin to the drinking water. The birds should be kept comfortable at all times.

Cooler weather usually brings an end to "blue comb." Very few cases are found after the first killing frost. Sometimes it is found in broiler flocks where it is called "mud fever" or non-specific enteritis.

SERMON OF THE WEEK

The following add was placed recently in the Floyd County (Ky.) Times by A. J. Allen, of Garrett, Ky., on a candidate for the office of judge.

"My relationship on my father's side is that George Allen was my grandfather. Grandmother Allen was the daughter of James P. Patton. My mother was Reuben Stephens' daughter. I am the son of Andrew Allen. My grandmother Stephens was the sister of the late L. Hicks and Jonathan Hicks, of Middle Creek. I married the daughter of Bud Handshoe, of Hootersville, Ky. Her mother was the daughter of H. Fitch. The deceased George Fitch, of the Mouth of Brush Creek, was her uncle. A word to mothers: If your son happens to get in jail, I will see that he has good treatment, plenty to eat, and a decent place to sleep."

In this sophisticated age we may be rather inclined to smile at this sample of old-time political advertising, but the hill folk of Kentucky still solemnly consider a candidate's relatives as well as his qualifications for office when they go to the polls. In the light of what we know about the combined power of heredity and environment in the family, this may not be such a bad idea. Most of us are familiar with the history of the notorious Jukes family. In the course of five generations, the descendants of Jukes, a lazy good-for-nothing who lived in the early days of American history, had reached the proportion of 1200. Almost without exception, all were lazy, ignorant and physically unfit. A total of 200 were criminals, seven were murderers, 300 children had died of neglect, and most of the others were paupers.

In contrast, the contemporary Jonathan Edwards family history has been studied. Out of the first 1400 descendants of this distinguished man, 285 were college graduates, 13 college presidents, 100 college professors; more than 100 became ministers and missionaries, and the others followed other respectable professions.

Yes, physical heritage is important—but we know of a relationship that is even more important. It is the spiritual heritage that is ours when we become children of the living God. He who has told us that "he that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son" (Rev. 21:7).

GM Telecasters

Lindsey Nelson and Mel Allen, two of the nation's top sports commentators, will team up to announce the TV Football Game of the Week series over the 84-station national NBC network this fall. It was announced today by General Motors, sponsor of the series.

Allen, NBC's top sportscaster, will handle the play-by-play account of the GM TV Game of the Week series, while Nelson will bring the nation's televisioners commentary and color during each game.

The 12-week series starts on September 19 when the Nebraska-Oregon game is telecast from Lincoln. Ten other complete games are included on the schedule with two Saturdays, October 24 and November 7, slated for panoramic telecasts of the highlights of four separate games.

The GM TV Game of the Week schedule, set up by the NCAA, includes games in all sections of the country with no team appearing more than once in the series.
