Ex-Editor Of Post
Judge Paul Leahy
Dies From Cancer

Editor of the Newark Post from April to November, 1926, immediately after the death of Everett C. Johnson who founded the Post in 1910, U. S. District Court Judge Paul Leahy, 62, died of cancer last Sunday in Wilmington General Division.

A University of Delaware graduate with a BS degree, he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania law school in 1929, and was admitted to the Delaware Bar that same year.

After a newspaper career with the Newark Post and Wilmington Sunday Star, Leahy began practicing law in 1933 as a member of the law firm of Ward & Gray, now Berl, Potter & Anderson.

The judge retired from active duty on the court in 1957 because of ill health and became a senior judge on limited duty.

Last October, he collapsed in the Wilmington Federal Building and was hospitalized. His illness was diagnosed as hypertension.

He had become ill in May, 1964, while trying a case in the 3d Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. He was stricken with acute nephritis in 1950 and two years later underwent surgery for a blood clot on the brain.

On Oct. 7, 1931, he married Frances E. Brown, daughter of a Wilmington physician. The Leahys had no children.

Requiem mass was said Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's—the-Brandywine Catholic Church, Henry Clay, with interment in Cathedral Cemetery.

Tidewater Offers
$1,000 To Renew
Aid At University

Business And Economics, Geology Groups Receive Educational Fund Support

Tidewater Oil Co. has announced conditional aid to the University of Delaware.

For the seventh consecutive year, a Tidewater grant will aid students in the college of business and economics, and the geology department.

Walter J. Harrison, Jr., manufacturing representative, has again presented checks totaling $4,000 to Dr. John W. Shirley, vice-president for academic affairs. He cited mutual benefits of Tidewater's relationship with the university since establishment of the Delaware City refinery.

Graduate Student Gary S. Stacey, Baltimore, who will receive his master's degree in economics next year, held the 1965-66 Tidewater Fellowship.

Dean Ruben V. Austin described Stacey as "a student of considerable promise who already has been awarded a fellowship for work on his doctorate at Ohio State University." Stacey plans a career in teaching.

Two undergraduate geology majors are benefiting from a previous Tidewater grant. Burke E. Lane and Clinton W. Hall, Jr., Wilmington, have received grants of approximately $250 each to attend summer geologic field camps.

Dr. John C. Kraft, acting chairman of the geology department, said that both men have shown evidence of becoming outstanding geologists, and that field experience will add another dimension to their preparation.

Lane is attending the Princeton University field camp at Montana, while Hall is in Western Maryland at a camp operated by Johns Hopkins University.

The geology department will use the remainder of the 1965 Tidewater grant, augmented by university funds, to purchase seismological equipment for use in elementary geology laboratory demonstrations and for advanced research.

NHS Grad Richard Simperts In Air Force
Wins 8 Medals For 200 Combat Missions

"Being a loadmaster on a C-123 Provider aircraft can be a nerve racking experience, especially when you're flying over enemy territory with bullets ripping holes in the bottom of our aircraft."

These are the words of S/Sgt Richard C. Simperts, 28, a loadmaster-droppmaster assigned to Tactical Air Command's Detachment 1, 3rd Aerial Port Squadron at Langley AFB, Va., as he tells of his experiences in Vietnam.

Sergeant Simperts is the son of Mrs. Margaret C. Simperts, Newark. A native of Newark and a Newark High School graduate in the Class of 1957, Simperts arrived in Vietnam in September, 1963, and his primary job was hauling troops and supplies, and making flare drops.

While on one flare drop mission, the sergeant saw an O-1E Bird Dog forward air controller aircraft explode from intensive ground fire. He was later assigned to the crew that went in to search for the pilot.

In January, 1964 when Americans were evacuated from Cambodia, Simperts' squadron performed the mission. He flew eight missions removing 300 persons.

Shortly before his return to the United States an incident occurred which is vividly embedded in his memory.

"We were on a resupply mission to a special forces camp at Gia Vuc and had to make an assault landing. When the aircraft touched down the props were put into reverse, but only one engine reversed properly, causing the aircraft to roll to one side.

"I didn't know it then but we went right through a mine field. The aircraft came to a stop over a ditch and immediately began to burn. The only thing on my mind was to get out because the cargo we were carrying was 55-gal drums of diesel fuel.

Starting with one heifer, Moore built up a herd of 19 animals. He attended 4-H National Congress in 1963 as a state dairy winner; has been a state officer in the Future Farmers of America, and was active in the 4-H junior leader program.

The youth of the year award is given regularly to an older boy or girl with a farming background.

Of New Bulletin
On Soils In State

Sand and silt are the most abundant soil materials in the state according to "Soils of Delaware," a new publication of the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station. Clay is the least abundant soil material, says Arthur L. J. Cotnoir, associate professor in the department of agronomy at the university.

Delaware soils on the Coastal Plain are mostly sandy, poorly developed, highly leached and therefore very low in plant nutrients. They are fairly clay, with low moisture-retaining capacity.

These soils may be very poorly drained at lower elevations because there is no fall to carry off water. When artificially drained, they are highly productive, Cotnoir concludes.

If more silt and clay are present in low-lying soils, they are more difficult to drain. However, silty soils in the northern part of the Coastal Plain of Delaware are usually well-drained, with a high water-holding capacity. These are generally the most productive soils in the state.

North of a line between Newark and Wilmington is the Piedmont, the rolling foothills of the Appalachian Mountains. The soils are older and better developed than those on the Coastal Plains, and are well drained and fairly fertile with a fairly high water-holding capacity. Since the land is sloping, these soils are subject to erosion, according to Cotnoir.

The bulletin, "Soils of Delaware," contains a map showing predominating soils of each area of the state. The bulletin also includes detailed explanation of soils found in various associations.

Crops best adapted to the various soils, drainage recommendations and water-holding capacities, are given. Copies are available from county agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown, or from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware.

By Local Police In Past Year

Annual Report Released By Chief Arthur S. Haussler Includes Clearance Of 84.3 Per Cent Of 840 Criminal Cases, Drop In Juvenile Offenses; 547 Accident Checks

In the recently published annual report of the Newark Police Department for the year 1965, Chief Arthur S. Haussler reports investigation of 4,177 complaints; 3,220 regular patrols, and 536 property checks of unoccupied homes, with a total complement of 22 regular police officers, and one motor patrol officer.

Of the 4,177 complaints, 840 were of a criminal nature, and 708 or 84.3 per cent of these criminal cases were cleared by local police during the year.

A total of 547 accidents involving damages in excess of $25 were investigated; radar patrols conducted at 35 locations resulted in 131 arrests for speeding, and 881 arrests were made for other motor vehicle violations, and by regular police patrols for speeding.

Fingerprinting During the year 353 current criminal fingerprint cards and photographs of persons arrested were added to the files for a total of 1,566, and the identification division of the local police department photographed the scenes of 46 crimes and 75 accidents.

In the juvenile division, 229 investigations were conducted in response to 129 complaints; and 314 arrests were made, including the arrests of repeat offenders; and referred to Family Court.

Juvenile complaints were down 5.2 per cent from the previous year. All police officers completed the annual 40-hour in-training session, and special courses were taken by members of the department at the universities of Maryland and Louisville, in Indiana, and in Canada, including training sponsored by the FBI.

Fines collected during the year from arrests made by the Newark police and forwarded to the city treasurer amounted to $29,432.

Christiana, Eden
New Construction
Progress Reported

In a progress report to a special meeting of the Newark Board of Education, Supt. Wilmer E. Shue stated that with construction at the Christiana-Salem and Eden elementary schools, both will be ready for occupancy this fall, with the contractor expecting to fulfill his commitments on time.

Shue explained that the contractor is using men between the two jobs to insure rapid conclusion to the work, providing Newark with needed classrooms in time for the September opening of school.

A referendum of April 15, 1965, approved construction of 12-classrooms at the Christiana-Salem School on Route 273 in Christiana, and 16 rooms at the Eden School at Bear.

Shue said that alternate plans are ready if there should be any problem with completion of the schools. If the opening of either school should be delayed, the district will announce plans to present a sound educational program for children involved.

At present, Shue said that there is no reason to think these alternate plans will be needed.

a Dog's Life
THREATS TO FREE-RUNNING DOGS
by Bob Bartos, Manager
Friskies Research Kennels

Don't favor your dog with unrestricted freedom in the country this summer. There are too many threats to his health as well as his life. Squirrels and rabbits, which dogs love to chase, play host to dog tapeworm larvae (an intermediate form of the dog tapeworm). Rabbits are also subject to the dread disease tularemia, so if either a squirrel or rabbit is caught and eaten, you're in for trouble. Deer chasing is another great sport for dogs on the loose. The musk gland in the deer has a particularly strong and tempting odor which a dog may follow for miles until he is clear out of the county and lost. Game wardens are generally permitted to shoot a deer-chasing dog on sight, which adds another threat to this particular dog sport.

Then, there's always the lure of the garbage pail or the unprotected dump where a dog can gorge to his heart's content. The aftermath of such feasting is at best a bad intestinal upset.

Poison put out for rats and other varmints, and certain insecticide sprays used by farmers on their crops or by homeowners on their lawns and flowers, are other potential hazards.

Dognapping which has now grown into big business is an ever-present threat to the unsupervised dog, and last, but probably the greatest threat of all, is the automobile.

Feeding tip: In the development and maintenance of bone structure, vitamin D works together with calcium and phosphorus. The deficiency disease of puppies is rickets, where bones are weak and malformed. Feeding a prepared food formulated especially for puppies such as Friskies Puppy Food ensures your pet against such deficiency.

Easy Supper: Chicken-Cheese Sandwiches

Here's a snazzy new sandwich you'll love for informal patio suppers. Layer cooked chicken and tomato on zesty pumpernickel bread, then top all with melowy Cheddar cheese sauce. The sauce is simplicity itself...

Complete your patio picnic with a tray of deviled eggs and fresh vegetable relishes. For dessert... generous wedges of juicy, red watermelon and home-baked brownies. For non-calorie counters have vanilla ice cream and hot fudge sauce on hand to top the brownies.

Truly versatile Cheddar cheese soup makes easy work of meat preparation the year 'round. Use Cheddar cheese soup for a luscious sauce for grilled hamburgers or to add zest to a summer vegetable casserole.

CHICKEN-CHEESE SANDWICHES
4 servings sliced cooked chicken
6 slices pumpernickel bread, buttered
12 thin tomato slices
1 can (10 3/4 ounce) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1 cup diced cucumber
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon chili powder

On cookie sheet, arrange chicken on bread. Top each sandwich with 2 tomato slices. In bowl, combine remaining ingredients. Spoon 1/4 cup sauce over each sandwich, covering edges completely. Broil 4 to 6 inches from heat for 6 minutes or until hot. Makes 6 open-faced sandwiches.

"MOST LIKED" WEDDING GIFTS NAMED

With weddings in July, August, and September together now doubling June's record, here's interesting news for gift-givers. According to a survey conducted by the Sterling Silversmiths of America, solid silver flatware and electric appliances are the two most popular wedding gifts among 110 just-married couples. Furniture placed third in the survey and fine china fourth.

As for other interesting survey conclusions: Brides-to-be usually consult their men on pattern choices of flatware—and simple, traditional designs are blue-ribbon favorites with sleek modern patterns close behind. In listing their "white elephant" gifts, couples gave a five-tiered cake stand, used transistor radio, and a live kitten as three they could definitely do without.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

SO STRIPES belong on barber poles, and popovers belong to breakfast, but in this age of diversification, choose to bridge the gap with a fringed, striped popover, that can be worn to the first meal of the day or to get a haircut. The sleeves are short and so is the sweater for that matter, the fringe making a delightful substitution for the ribbing.

A GREAT WAY TO START THE DAY

This is the perfect project for the beginning knitter and a quick one for the advanced knitter. The stripes are knitted in the basic stockinette stitch with four rows of garter stitches to separate the stripes.

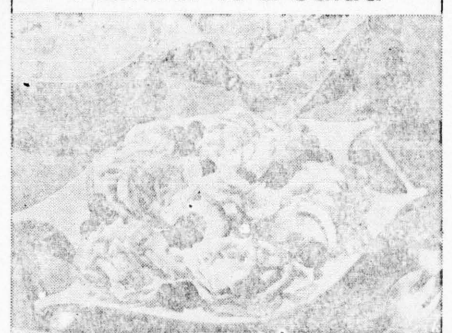

Pick the traditional barber pole colors red and white. Knitting Worsted or borrow those from breakfast, the yellow of the morning sun and bright tangerine as in Vitamin C.

Anyway you look at it, it's a great way to start the day.

BOUND TO BE A FAVORITE

Sweaters are more and more a must in the wardrobe of the well-dressed woman. This perky popover is destined to be one of your casual favorites and a lauded wardrobe member. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PK 2036.

Summer Is a Salad

Summer and salads are almost synonymous to some of us, and why not? Nothing sings out so clearly that summer is on the way as fresh crisp salads.

The packaged salad dressing mixes are a big boon to us salad lovers. We can have the "makings" for a variety of dressings without the clutter of bottles on the shelf. Creamy Russian salad dressing mix, when mixed with vinegar, water, and oil, makes about one cup of tangy, yet slightly sweet, creamy dressing.

A perfect salad accompaniment for this lively dressing is Fiesta Salad, which combines sliced avocado, pimiento strips, and big black olives with Boston lettuce. A colorful salad with a vivid dressing... indeed fit for a... Czar.

FIESTA SALAD
1 envelope creamy Russian salad dressing mix
Vinegar, water, and oil
1 small head Boston lettuce
3 avocados, peeled and sliced
1 or 2 canned pimientos, cut in thin strips
Ripe olives

Prepare salad dressing mix with vinegar, water, and oil as directed on envelope. Chill 1 hour.

Arrange lettuce leaves on a serving platter or 6 individual salad plates. Place avocado slices on lettuce with pimiento strips and olives. Serve with dressing. Makes 6 side salads.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH TOLL

Accidents are the fourth largest killer in this country, the American Medical Association reports. Only cancer, heart disease, and stroke kill more. Also, accidents comprise the largest single cause of death among children, teen-agers and young adults.

Up to age 34, accidents consistently cause more deaths than cancer.

About 10 million persons are accidentally disabled each year, and this represents by far the largest single use of hospital facilities.

"EXACTING WORK"

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says: "Law enforcement is highly exacting work. It demands mental and physical alertness, single-mindedness, dedication, and enthusiasm for effective performance."

"To fully discharge his responsibilities and do a creditable job, an officer should devote all his energy to his enforcement duties. Unfortunately, many cannot do this. They are required to 'moonlight' in order to give their families a decent standard of living."

"My criticism of moonlighting is not against the officers who must hold a second job. Rather, it is against the prevailing systems which unwittingly make this questionable practice necessary."

"Local governments and communities willing to accept the practice as a substitute for adequate police pay are applying short-range judgment to a long-range problem." ing short-range judgement to a long-range problem."

A Pipe Full of Pleasure ...

By Alan Mount CFN Editor

NEW YORK (CFN) — The late George M. Cohan is reputed to have said "Take away an English actor's pipe and he'll talk just like the rest of us vaudevillians."

Far fetched? Not when you consider a pipe can summon up a host of endlessly pleasing images of rambling country homes, cozy fireplaces, hunting dogs, well-stocked libraries and wine cellars. And what woman hasn't at one time or another associated a pipe and pipe smoking with tall, raw-boned, intriguing men striding the earth (and the best clubs) in impeccably cut British tweeds?

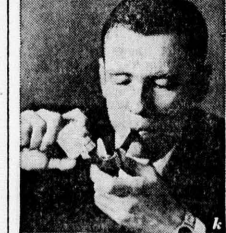

But for those who "somehow never got the hang of it," a pipe may evoke twinges of regret, frustration and even a slight case of envy for those resolute, rather picturesque adventuresome fellows who have mastered the fine art of smoking a pipe.

Like preferences in art, sports, books, and yes, even women, pipe smoking is a very personal thing. And it is pretty safe to say that many men are missing the enjoyment of pipe smoking simply because their first introduction to the mysteries of "putting a bit of fire to the briar" got off on the wrong key. To get right down to the matter, don't start with a cheap pipe on the assumption that once you've learned to smoke you will then go on to the better pipe—say 200 year old meerschaums.

Every veteran pipe smoker will tell you that all tobacco blends and mixtures taste better in a well-made pipe. Actually, says the Pipe and Tobacco Council, the beginning pipe smoker is wise to invest in a well-made (brand name) pipe and to forego wide experimentation in tobacco until ready to savor the subtle differences in cut, texture and aromatics with all the judgment of a connoisseur of fine wines.

For the perfect start to a lifetime of pipe smoking enjoyment, select a good briar pipe. Let your tobacconist help you make your first selection. Remember, the better the briar, the better the smoking. And if there ever was a time when you needed the assurance of excellence, it is at the beginning. Actually, you will do well starting out with two pipes. Their style and shape can vary. But it isn't just a matter of aesthetics—but of good smoking judgment. Having a few pipes to change off regularly enables you to thoroughly air each one, to let the tobacco residues dry and properly coat the bottom of each pipe. Continuous use of one pipe—even though it may be your particular favorite—will turn the bowl soggy and could result in souring your smoke.

A few pipe tips followed at first will add pleasure to each new pipe you add to your collection. Even such a legendary pipe smoker as Sherlock Holmes disliked breaking in a new "recruit." But you'll find the task much more pleasant if you begin with a loosely packed half-bowl full of tobacco. Be sure to smoke it to the very last. With each smoke, use more tobacco. This way, you'll not only be giving your new pipe the proper, mellowed conditioning, but you'll have passed your first pipe smoking days with a minimum of effort that will hold you in good stead for the years of pipe smoking pleasure to come.

Remember, pipe smoking is personal, individualistic. You will always be the final judge on which tobacco best suits your palate, which shape and size of pipe feels right in your hand and in the corner of your mouth. So, once you've reached the plateau where you feel comfortable about spurning on antique meerschaums, who's to say you shouldn't go all the way and get that plum velvet smoking jacket!

Dr. Alan Gowans Quits University; Takes Canada Post

Art Chairman At Delaware For Past Decade To Head U. of Victoria Art Dept.

Chairman of the University of Delaware art and art history department for the past 10 years, Dr. Alan Gowans has resigned to accept the position of professor and chairman of the division of art history at the University of Victoria, British Columbia, effective Sept. 1.

Early last June, University of Delaware President John A. Perkins announced the university would split its art and art history department Sept. 1 and appointed a new chairman to head the two new departments.

Perkins named Dr. William I. Homer, associate professor of history of art at Cornell University, to head the new department of art history, and Julie Acuna, associate professor of art and art history, to head the department of art.

Establishment of the new departments and the return of Professor Gowans to full-time teaching were planned as part of an effort to "enlarge and improve our art programs, particularly in North American art," Perkins said.

Born in Toronto, Canada, Gowans is the author of five books on architectural history.

He has lectured at the Antiques Forum in Williamsburg, Va., the Antiques Forum in Dearborn, Mich., at Princeton and Cornell universities; at the Universities of Edinburgh and Stockholm, and at the Courtauld Institute of the University of London.

He has published articles for periodicals, including more than 30 for the Encyclopedia Britannica.

He and his wife Ruth, and their four children live at 104 Syphard Drive, Lakeland.

The Gowans family plans to move to British Columbia in late August.

Trailer, Oil Firm Burglary Victims With Local Theft

Some 20,000-ft. of insulated copper wire was stolen last Thursday night from a construction job, according to Newark police.

Wire on five spools and in four coils, together with six rolls of plastic electric tape, with a total value of more than $50, was taken from a storage trailer.

Police said the trailer loaded with construction supplies, was recently moved onto the construction site of the New London Textile Printing Co. on Cooch's Bridge Road.

Weight and bulk of the wire indicates it was more than a one-man job and also that it apparently was hauled away in a truck.

This was one of two burglaries reported by Newark police.

The other occurred at Boulden Brothers oil distributors at 540 Barksdale Road.

A transistor radio and spotlight were taken, but police said thieves failed in efforts to open a cash register.

Ken Lomax On Dean's List As Freshman At Lafayette

Kenneth Lomax of Corner Ketch, Newark, is one of 250 Lafayette College students named to the academic dean's list for the second semester of the 1965-66 school year.

Ken won academic honors as a member of the freshman class at Lafayette in Easton, Pa.

Alcoholism, states Dr. Ruth Fox, medical director of the National Council on Alcoholism, is a wrecker of home and family. She says it causes a "... high rate of divorce, desertion, poverty, promiscuity, illegitimate pregnancy, physical abuse and cruelty," in addition to a high mortality rate.

Mary Ann Clemente, 201 Gilbert Drive, Newark—a student at the University of Delaware—is attending the Ripon College European art and architecture summer seminar in Europe.

The group of seven Ripon College students, and nine from other institutions, left New York for Europe on June 30, and will return Aug. 29.

The program consists of a three-week seminar at Lincoln College, Oxford, England's oldest university; and a six-week continuation tour through England, Belgium, the Netherlands, France, Italy and Greece.

The seminar at Oxford endeavors to recreate the spirit of Oxford academic life. It will include study trips and excursions to Stratford-on-Avon, Blenheim Palace, and Winchester, and opportunity to visit theaters and concerts.

During the six-week study tour, the group will fly to Athens and then follow a route through Greece, Italy, and France which touches some of the main landmarks in the history of western culture.

Bill Murphy Wins Gold Award For Track As Coach Ray Ciesinski Lists Lettermen

Bill Murphy received a gold award as a three-time varsity letter-winner in track for Newark High School last spring, and Pat Walker, Dick Kelley, and Tom Curran were named the outstanding senior, junior, and sophomore for the Yellowjackets during the 1966 season.

Walker, Mark Hill, and Wayne Hurd were tri-captains for Ciesinski's track and field squad, third in the Blue Hen Conference with a 5-4 record.

Varsity letter-winners for the past season are Seniors Jack Balling, Tim Clement, Phil Gibbs, Hill, Hurd, Bob Jones, Aubrey Moore, Murphy, Billy Richards, Billy Wagman, Walker, Tom Worrell, and Art Wright, manager.

Junior letter-winners are Jim Glenn, Conway Hayman, Sam Jackson, Al Jennings, Kelley, Larry Tucker, and Orville Wright, while sophomores winning varsity letters for the past season are Curran, Robert Stearns, Keith Green, Dale Meyer, Keith Walker, and Dan Wintener.

With Skipper Dick Pleasanton beneath a Florida-installed Rimini pontoon on the flying bridge of the Young Lady, we drove through a calm ocean rolling in untroubled, great ground swells last Saturday morning.

From the green expanse of the shoreline sea through the blue-black depths and on into the deep blue, blue some 50 miles off the Delaware coast, in quest of white marlin.

A haze obscured the horizon, and the red Delaware Lady lay right at anchor, hoisted up through the mist, her fog horn hooting in a mournful series of three blasts, to disappear far astern of the white wake boiling to the thrash of the big prop behind the rumbling diesel.

Some 40 miles offshore, Dick Pleasanton bounded down from the bridge to rig four lines with whole mullet and white strips of bonito frozen and transported from the Young Lady's Boynton Beach port in Florida last winter to the South Shore Marina at Delaware's Indian River Inlet, and with a pair of baits skipping from the port and starboard outriggers, and another pair trolling directly from the rods, we were fishing for marlin for the first time since last summer.

Along with the chance for billfish, was the likelihood of hitting bluefin tuna and big bluefish as we trolled eastward about 10 miles offshore over the Atlantic Ocean's great grab bag of potential.

"Never been this far off the Delaware coast," Cap'n Dick declared.

With a crew of Earl the mate, a DeLaWarr High School student; Kipe Groff of Laurel; and Gus Tabor and Gibby Young from Newark, we agreed with the cap'n. It was good to be at sea again, and under perfect weather conditions. Fish or no, we had no complaints, and were enjoying every minute of a delightful day.

But Captain Pleasanton is a fisherman, and when the fish aren't being hauled aboard his boat, those fish are something he very much desires. He was far from content with a boat ride and relaxation.

Dickie gave it everything he had—trolling hour after hour over miles and miles of offshore ocean at varying speeds—and when at last he turned the Young Lady's bow westward toward home, he substituted feathers for mullet and bonito filets in a real effort to lure them back to the increased pace of the homebound boat.

We had left Dave and Babs Porter's South Shore Marina shortly after 6 o'clock that morning, and it was after 6 o'clock that evening when the Young Lady returned to the inlet and her mooring. It had been a long day at sea—and we hadn't seen a fish.

Some black sea bass and ling were taken by other boats of the marina in some desperation between fishing, and the headboat, the Big Murph, had fared well in its dippy dunking specialty with a calm sea providing a perfect day for almost all hands. But the gamefish trollers in our area had encountered no more fish than we.

Bun Reese replaced Kipe Groff as a member of the crew aboard the Young Lady that night, along with a couple of recent Yellowjacket trackmen—now, rubber-wet-suited skin-divers, who preferred the mosquitoes and chill of a night on the flying bridge to the stentorian snoring of adults below.

Tommy Worrell and the Billy from home looked longingly from the dock as the Young Lady left the next morning—both foregoing a fine at Bluefish from a boat on the ocean in order to keep a promised date with another young man from Newark, who was to join them that day on the beach. Both boys wanted to go with us—and their remaining ashore for a tentative commitment took a bit of doing.

Others were fishing out beyond us, however, and from radio reports we learned that an occasional marlin was being sighted, and several caught.

The sea sparkling blue and white gold in the early morning sun on all quarters until it blended with the haze south of the horizon, was calm enough to exhibit a curious and surreal surface, and only occasional stormy petrel or Mother Carey's chickens and a solitary shearwater or sailor gull flickered or soared within our field of vision.

"Relaxing," we were having a nice boat ride, even if we aren't catching fish," Dick Pleasanton said somewhat wistfully.

Wilmington High Places Five Blues On All-Star Team

Last Thanksgiving Day provided the biggest thrills for three of the five Wilmington High players selected to play for the Blue team in the annual Delaware All-Star High School Football Game.

John Madric, Marty Matusiak and John Pauley, who will play against the Golds on Saturday, Aug. 20, at Delaware Stadium, helped Wilmington beat arch-rival P. S. duPont 13-7 on that day to tie for the Blue Hen Conference championship.

Joining this trio on the Blue team will be teammates Jim Lotharp and John Kaczmarek.

Madric, a halfback, scored both touchdowns that beat P. S. to give Wilmington its third straight victory over the Dynamiters.

The 173-pounder hopes to enter Delaware State or Maryland State. Matusiak, 201-pound center, who place-kicked 16 extra points last season, plans to enter Delaware to pursue a career in agriculture.

Pauley, a 195-pound tackle, expects to attend Graceland College in Iowa.

Lotharp, who also lettered in track and basketball, led Wilmington in scoring last season with 72 points.

Kaczmarek, a 207-pound guard and linebacker, will attend Pennsylvania Institute of Technology. He and Lotharp were co-captains last season.

In the green water just offshore over the horizon, we hit small bluefish, and Bun Reese had his first experience with these saltwater snappers.

"Beautiful fish," this Pennsylvania native lover said with some real feeling, much impressed.

Trolling from the green into the blue water, we sought bigger blues, but they weren't to be found.

Again, the sea was as smooth as glass, moving under a gentle ground swell, and we saw two solitary hammerhead sharks at intervals, their brown, triangular dorsal cutting the surface ahead of the tail fins in silhouette tandem.

Gus Tabor tossed an empty can of the scented shark and the hammerhead swirled back to nudge the container in curiosity.

We were back at the dock by 2 o'clock that afternoon with 11 small bluefish iced down.

And Dick Pleasanton was anything but jubilant over results. He doesn't have many days when he comes in with an empty or sparsely stocked fishbox.

The fish just weren't there last Saturday and Sunday, Monday, the Fourth of July, may have been a different story—and probably was, with four Newark fishermen back home.

Cape May County's sixth annual tuna tournament will get underway Monday, with an estimated 50 boats in the field for the two-day competition, according to Dr. Carl Filsinger of Merchantville, N. J. and Stone Harbor, chairman of the fishing event.

The tuna tournament is sponsored annually by the Yacht Club of Stone Harbor, and the Stone Harbor Fishing Club, in conjunction with the Cape May County Department of Public Affairs.

The two-day event features an alternate fishing day on July 13; a tournament banquet July 13 at the Yacht Club of Stone Harbor at which the awards will be presented, and a registration get-together at the yacht club on Sunday, July 10.

The tournament is a week later than last year's event because fish have been running later, and tuna are no exception. Only a few fish have been reported so far.

The 10th annual Cape May County Marlin Tournament will be held Aug. 22-23, with an alternate fishing date of Aug. 24. Applications are being received for the marlin test, and entry blanks are available from the Cape May County Department of Public Affairs, Box 365, Cape May Court House, N. J. 08210.

"I've got to give up smoking," he announced as he came home from the doctor's. "Doc says one lung is almost gone."

"Oh, Frank," said his wife, "can't you hold out a little longer 'til we get enough coupons for that new rug?"

They "Backed Ahead"

A horse race that from its very inception at Sheepshead Bay in 1884, created public excitement on more than a local level is the Suburban Handicap, now the regular Independence Day feature at Aqueduct.

The 79 previous winners of this $100,000 event for 3-year-olds and up provides a ready-made Hall of Fame.

The Coney Island Jockey Club's Sheepshead Bay course was the 19th century equivalent of the Big A and when the Suburban Handicap was introduced it caught the public fancy nationally. As a matter of fact, it became the popular medium for "backing ahead" (as they say in Britain) or betting in a future book which opened when nominees for the race were first announced. The following pages of Goodwin's and Kirk's Turf Guides are liberally sprinkled with the advertisements of "turf commissioners" who took these advance bets.

The Suburban is one of several Sheepshead Bay events that are still on the New York Racing Association Stakes schedule, others being The Futurity and Lawrence Realization.

An amusing anecdote connected with the first Suburban, told by the late Walter Vosburgh, turf historian and Jockey Club Handicapper, concerned the Maryland owner, Frank Hall, who deliriously watched his Suburban candidate work one circuit of the course in what he thought to be a dismal 1:55. He might have given the horse away had not trainer Andrew Jackson Jockey acquainted him with the fact that Sheepshead Bay was a mile and one-eighth around, the largest in America at that time.

Pacers, Trotters Prepare For Reopening Brandywine Raceway Meet Next Monday

An air of excitement is evident this week at Brandywine Raceway where scores of trotters and pacers are being jogged, clocked, groomed and otherwise readied for reopening of the 14th annual meet this Monday, with 33 nights on tap through Sept. 9. Post time is 8:25 p.m.

Vans began to roll in from north, east, south and west early Tuesday as training operations officially opened, and now Brandywine is a town unto itself, bustling with activity at every turn.

The regular half-mile track and the nearby training oval are both in tiptop shape, manicured to perfection under the direction of Track Superintendent Bill Davis. There are high hopes that more than just a few track records will be set.

The now-retired Adios Butler holds Brandywine's all-time record of 1:58.4 set in 1960, and Speedy Scot holds the local all-time trot mark of 2:01.1 established in 1963.

Bret Hanover clocked the fastest trip of the spring meet with a 2:01.1 mile, a national season's record at the time.

Racing Secretary James M. Lynch is on the scene along with Assistant

Double Duty At Brandywine

Lady Jamie, Del Miller's sleek trotting filly hoping to make her presence felt at Brandywine Raceway this summer, has been nominated to not one, but two early-closing classics—the $5,000 Tred Avon 3-year-old trot, Tuesday, July 19, and the $12,500 added Martha Washington sophomore filly trot, Sept. 8.

Brandywine resumes its 14th annual meet next Monday with 33 nights on tap through Sept. 9. Training operations opened officially on Tuesday.

Palatial Paddock at Brandywine

This is a view of the interior of Brandywine Raceway's new, completely under cover 84-stall paddock. Track Superintendent Bill Davis, who designed the 120'x220' fireproof building, is shown with his son, Dick, going over plans.

The ultra-modern paddock, hailed as the "world's finest" by many horsemen, is located near the horsemen's reviewing stand enabling drivers to get their horses onto the track at post time without delay.

Founders, Burns Win Brandywine Posts For Blue All-Stars

Dean Founders, an All-State basketball player, will be one of two Brandywine representatives playing for the Blue team in the 11th annual Delaware High School All-Star Football Game.

Bill Burns will join Founders in the game against the Golds on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 20 at Delaware Stadium for the benefit of the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children.

Founders, Delaware's fourth leading pointmaker during the basketball season, is a 180-pound end, and co-captained the Bulldogs as a senior.

Burns, 185-pound quarterback, was named to the All-Blue Hen Conference first team in football and the third All-State team. He was Brandywine's leading scorer with 54 points on nine touchdowns. He quarterbacked the Bulldogs to an unbeaten season as a junior.

An honor roll student and member of the student council, he has been awarded a scholarship to William and Mary College.

Ruth Wagman, winner of NCC Ladies Day Golf

Ruth Wagman won the blind bogey Ladies Day golf event last Tuesday at the Newark Country Club.

Mrs. Wayne Brewer won second place honors, and Mrs. Russell R. Menard finished third. Mrs. Horace Ulmer reports.

Youngsters Face Spotlight In Laurel Reading Events

The Laurel Raceway spotlight this weekend will focus on some of the nation's leading youngsters as the Reading Futurity Trot for two-year-old fillies and the Reading for three-year-old pacing colts hold sway.

The kindergarten trotters this Friday night will have their sights on the present national season's standard of 2:07 set by Speed Model, as well as Aline's track record for the class of 2:03.1.

Lucky Star Stables' and Mort Finner's sensational Romeo Hanover, winner of the first leg of pacing's Triple Crown, the $125,015 Cane Futurity, is expected to lead the field in the main division of the Reading Futurity for sophomore sidewheelers Saturday night.

Mat Star Angus K. Davis Admitted To Columbia

Angus K. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis of 3 Johnston Drive, Newark, has been admitted as a member of the freshman class next fall at Columbia University.

An honor student at St. Andrew's School, Middletown, Angus was captain of the wrestling team; named Delaware's outstanding high school matman; was editor of the literary magazine and of the St. Andrew's yearbook; and president of the dramatics group.

Secretaries Bruce Munn and Mark M. Lydon.

Two-year-old stakes racing will dominate opening week action. There are 21 youngsters nominated to two $5,000-added early closers alone—the Chesapeake Bay for pacers on July 12, and the Chincoteague Bay for trotters, July 13.

Herve Filion, leading driver of the spring meet both on the Universal ratings system and in dashes won, says he feels he has "a good chance" to polish off the Brandywine titles again.

"Sure Fire System" For Profit At Races Among Whacky Letters At Delaware Park

About a year ago, Delaware Park's press department released a story telling about some of the odd—if not downright wacky—requests received in the mails. For obvious reasons, names of the writers were not divulged.

Since then, many more have arrived. Here they are, in part.

"I have invented a sure-fire system for beating the races. It just can't miss, but I do not have sufficient funds to play it.

"Can you advise me how to find someone with plenty of money, say about $5,000, that I could use to play this system. If so, I'll gladly give that person one per cent of the winnings." Ho hum!

"A friend of mine kept telling me at the track the other day 'a lean horse for a long race'. So I bet two bucks on the leanest, tallest horse in the longest race on the card—and he finished last. Don't you think my alleged friend should give me my two bucks back?" More ho hum.

"I have noticed in the charts of the races that lots of horses carry two pounds overweight, or it might be one pound, or whatever. Now, I don't think a trainer should let his horse start in a race if he is more than his proper weight. He should have the animal reduce rather than run a fat horse." This was put in the "how's that again?" file.

"I was standing close to the rail as the horses were going to the post in a certain race a few days ago. One of the horses looked straight at me and bowed his head downward several times as if saying 'yes.' I figured he was giving me a tip to bet on him, which I did, and—the horse wound up 11th in the 12-horse field. Do you think horses lie?"

One request was for not only the ages of all the jockeys at Delaware Park, but for the exact time of day or night they were born.

You get all kinds. And still they come!
