Three Seats In Council Open As Elections Near

Little Early Interest Shown In Coming Elections; Term Of Widdoes, Patchell And Grier Expires This Year; Candidates Must File Prior April 3rd

The whacking of drums and beating of cymbals in favor of this or that candidate for Town Council is conspicuously absent with election day a good month off.

Confidential agents in the employ of The Post have been unable to detect a tremor in the serene surface of local politics. April 13th is the date set for the election of three members to the Council, vice Messrs. O. W. Widdoes, Howard Patchell and H. C. Grier, whose terms expire.

Candidates for the offices must file their names with the secretary of Council prior to April 3rd to be eligible for votes. Candidates must also own property within the corporate limits of the town of Newark.

Early rumors, while still considerably clouded, have it that Councilmen Widdoes and Grier will be candidates to succeed themselves. Mr. Patchell's attitude in the matter appears to be negative.

Whether additional Council timber is being groomed for the race is a problem. Early surmises, however, point to no particular contest.

ONE DEAD IN CROSSING JAM

Delaware City Branch Train Crashes Into Auto, Killing Fort DuPont Soldier

One soldier was killed and a civilian was gravely injured when a train on the Newark-Delaware City branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad struck an automobile at Reybold's Crossing late yesterday afternoon.

The dead man is William Hark, 48, a soldier from the Ordnance Department, Governor's Island, who has been billeted at Fort du Pont while repairing anti-aircraft guns of the 198th Coast Artillery, Delaware National Guard.

The injured man is George Peacock, a civilian machinist, stationed at Fort du Pont. The men had been to the rifle range below New Castle and were returning to the fort.

When the auto was struck by the train, Hark was thrown beneath the wheels of the train and killed. Peacock was thrown clear of the tracks and suffered three fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. He is under treatment at the fort hospital. Hark had been in the army for twenty years and was eligible to retire on a pension.

Proceeds from the performance will be added to the church building fund.

A HARD WOMAN

Great interest has centered this week upon a lady who holds forth in the window of H. B. Wright's hardware store on East Main street. Steel wool hair, stovepipe arms, padlock earrings and galvanized wire skirts give her a sense of stability, if nothing else.

This formidable person was created by George Jackson and forms a unique bit of advertising for the store.

MRS. EMMA CHRISTADORO
Mrs. Emma Christadoro, aged 83 years, died Saturday last at the home of her son, J. W. Christadoro, on East Park Place, following a long illness.

Funeral services were held from her son's residence here last evening. The body was later shipped to Brooklyn, N. Y., where it was interred today in Evergreen Cemetery. Mrs. Christadoro was a native of Brooklyn, but had been living here with her son and family for some months.

TOWN MOURNS WILSON'S DEATH

Former Student and Teacher Here Succumbs To Pneumonia Attack Near Harrisburg

News of the death of Joseph S. Wilson, formerly instructor and athletic coach here, and one of the best track men developed at Delaware College in years, reached Newark Friday evening. It was a distinct shock to all, since it was not generally known he was ill. Mr. Wilson died at his home near Harrisburg, Friday morning following an attack of pneumonia.

Funeral services were held from the home of his father-in-law, Fred Camblin, in Elkton, yesterday afternoon, and were attended by many Newark people. He is survived by his widow, formerly Della Camblin, and by one child, Joseph S. Wilson, Jr., aged two years. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Wilson, reside in Oxford, Pa.

Popular Athlete

"Joe" Wilson attended Delaware College for four years, beginning in 1917. Prior to coming to Newark he made an enviable athletic record at Perkiomen School. As a distance runner, he was a steady and brilliant performer. He captained Delaware runners during his Senior year. Off the athletic field, his influence and energy were felt in many college activities. He was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the Derelicts.

Upon graduation, in 1921, he secured a certificate to teach agricultural training in rural schools, and taught for a year and a half at the Newark High School. He also acted as athletic coach at this institution and turned out several championship teams. After leaving Newark High he became principal of the Lower Paxton Vocational School near Harrisburg.

He represented District No. 5, of the Pennsylvania Federation of Y. M. and Y. W. H. A.'s and kindred organizations, which includes Delaware.

"The Bid of Judaism for World Peace" was the topic of the address which Mr. Cohen delivered before 1,100 persons, who packed the large Y. M. H. A. auditorium. His manner of delivery and the fine points of his speech brought tremendous applause from the great audience. ## DOWNHAM CASE OUT OF CECIL

Change of Venue In Murder Trial Granted; Centerville Selected for Trial Next May

Upon application by his counsel, Henry A. Warburton, a change of venue was granted Alvin Downham, alleged murderer of Edward Yeomans, North East taxi driver. Downham, an Elk Mills resident, has been held in Baltimore city jail since January. He was brought to Elkton Monday by Sheriff Pierson, spent the night in Elkton jail and was brought into the Cecil County court yesterday.

The accused man will be tried at Centerville in the Queen Anne's County court during the May term, it was announced.

The proceedings were brief. When the charge had been formally lodged, Attorney Warburton arose and, as was expected, applied for venue change. Little discussion was noted, the judge quickly granting the request. Downham will be formally arraigned when the case is opened at Centerville.

Docket Jammed

Sixty-three cases, involving 49 defendants, are listed for trial during the March term of Court of General Sessions, which opened Monday morning. Seven of the cases were appeals, one case for decision and three for sentence. The case for decision is that of Bruno Dominelli and Michael Valent, counsel having moved for a new trial and the State having moved for a reduction of the conviction from highway robbery to simple robbery.

Two cases are listed for trial in the Court of Oyer and Terminer on Monday, March 15.

Robinson to an invitation to speak here on Wednesday afternoon, March 17th, in connection with the presentation of the State Banking Association's silver cup to the High School corn judging team. Accompanying Governor Robinson will be H. C. Stout, president of the Association, and Dr. H. V. Holloway, State School Superintendent.

The exercises will be held in the High School auditorium here beginning at 2 o'clock. John A. Shaw, president of the local board, will preside, providing he will be back from a business trip in the south.

The Newark boys, who won the cup at the Corn Show in Lewes a few weeks ago, are: George Cook, Alex Zabenko and James Harkness. The team was coached by Horace A. Nunn, agriculture instructor.

DICKENS HOUR PLEASES CROWD

Frank Speaight, Authority on English Novelist, Pays University Return Visit

Appearing before one of the largest audiences that has attended a College Hour this year, Frank Speaight, of London, presented a series of impersonations of famous Dickens' characters at Wolf Hall yesterday morning. The program was a humorous one throughout. Bob Sawyer, Sam Weller, Snodgrass, Jack Hopkins, Pickwick and others appeared in various scenes and situations at the will of Mr. Speaight.

Professor Ryden, who introduced Mr. Speaight, first made a few announcements to the student body. Among which were a recital of the Women's College Glee Club in Wolf Hall on Friday evening, March 12, the exhibition of work of the students of the Industrial School of Arts of Philadelphia, now on display in the second floor of the University Library, and announcement that Mr. Rodney Sharp would talk on his recent trip to New Zealand at the next meeting of the Forum at the Women's College.

Speaight then presented his impersonations in his highly convincing and entertaining manner. This is the second time that Mr. Speaight has appeared at the University of Delaware. The first time was about a year ago. His success in catching the interest of his audience the first time was responsible for his second appearance. A great many of townspeople attended College Hour yesterday. The faculty was also unusually well represented.

TOWN MAY SEE GAS MAIN BY NEXT SUMMER

Result Of Conference Saturday Seems To Have Settled Problem Providing Gas Company Procures Franchise From Council; High Official Here For Meeting Called By N. N. Wright

HEIM NAMES COMMITTEE

That the mains of the Wilmington Gas Company will be extended from Marshallton to Newark during the coming summer months, looms as more than a possibility, it was learned this week.

News of a definite nature was forthcoming from a conference of interested parties called by Norris N. Wright and held at his home here Saturday afternoon. H. S. Schutt, vice president of the organization controlling the Wilmington Company was present at the meeting.

In effect, Mr. Schutt said that, providing Newark town council grants the gas company an adequate franchise, work on extending the mains to Newark will be started early in the summer. While distribution of small mains to consumers will hardly be completed during the current year, it is estimated that the trunk main will have been completed as far as the eastern limits of the town.

Settles Question

Every phase of the situation was discussed at the meeting Saturday. The outcome has a far reaching effect in that it settles definitely the problem of procuring gas for the community. Mr. Wright, in commenting on the question, expressed his confidence that the gas company will proceed along the lines as outlined Saturday. A franchise agreement, it is understood, will first be prepared and submitted to Charles B. Evans, attorney for Council. It is possible that discussion of the franchise will be a special order of business at the Council's April meeting.

The lone objection so far indicated by Councilmen concerns the tearing up of paved streets, upon which the town has spent thousands of dollars during recent years.

Mayor E. B. Frazer and E. C. Wilson represented Council at Saturday's conference. From the Chamber of Commerce came the new Gas Committee, consisting of D. A. McClintock, E. C. Wilson, Edward L. Richards, Dr. George W. Rhodes and R. W. Heim, acting president of the Chamber.

This latter committee held a preliminary conference on Friday evening at Mr. Heim's home, where further details were discussed.

Attention of the community, it appears, is now centered upon the decision of Council as to the granting of a franchise to the Wilmington company.

SHERIFF OUT FOR LEVY COURT

Lank Seeks Berth of Hamilton Stewart From West Side of City

Sheriff William M. Lank, Monday, confirmed reports current during the past week to the effect that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Levy Court for the western district of Wilmington, to succeed Commissioner Hamilton Stewart, who goes out of office soon. Under the law a Levy Court commissioner cannot succeed himself.

Among those mentioned in addition to Mr. Lank for the Republican nomination are Harry J. Gillis, of the state income tax office.

BOY BREAKS LEG

Clarence Frampton, a youngster living on Elkton avenue, suffered a fracture of the leg, just above his ankle on Friday last while roller skating.

The boy collided with another youngster and fell heavily to the pavement. He was picked up by Mrs. Chalmers, who saw the accident and sent home in a passing car.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE NOTES

(Written For The Post)

The boy who, when being reprimanded by his mother for his continual getting into difficulties at school, answered, "It's not the school, Mother, it's the principle of the thing" was not a member of the student body at Unionville High School, in Pennsylvania. Professor Fretz, head of the Unionville Consolidated High School, gives the boys what they want in the line of instruction.

Recently a request was received from thirty-five boys for a course in Home Economics for boys. The petition was presented to Miss Dorothy Nunn, who was graduated from the Women's College last June and who is at present director of the Home Economics Department at Unionville High. The unusualness of the demand made it necessary for the petition to be turned over to the faculty. After a conference it was decided that such a course—probably the first of its kind—would be instituted without credit.

The fact that no credit would be given did not deter the boys from their goal. All thirty-five signed up for the new course; however, due to conflicts in their schedules, twenty were forced to give up their intention of studying Home Economics for this year, at least. The remaining fifteen were able to arrange their other courses so that they might take up their new course in "kitchen engineering."

At a meeting Saturday of the State Home Economics Association at Rodney Square Inn, in Wilmington, Miss Nunn related bits of her experience with her boys' class in home economics. Dean Robinson, Miss Parker, Miss Drake, and Miss Spenser of the Faculty of the Women's College, attended. Miss Nunn's informal talk was undoubtedly the feature of the meeting.

She related how at the first class she was at a loss as to what to take up with the boys. Consequently, she asked them what they wanted to study. It appeared that their chief interest was in training diets, although serving, marketing, catering, and so on were discovered also to be subjects in which the boys were interested. The course started out with no definite aim other than to give the boys just what they wanted. As time has gone on, the scope of the course has widened, and now rules of courtesy, which includes the solution of such important questions as whether or not a young man should assist a girl to fasten her galoshes, who should precede in getting from a trolley, and etiquette at a dance, have been included in the course.

The boys' course in Home Economics meets three times each week. Its popularity and its excellent results have decided Professor Fretz that it is a necessary part of the high school curriculum. Next year credit will be given for the course.

Elkton Legion Buys Ambulance From Cadillac Co.

Decide On Imperial Limousine Type,
Costing Around $4500, According To Reports; Fund Collected
Allows Operating Expenses

At a recent meeting of the Legion Committee in charge of purchasing, decision was made to buy a Cadillac limousine ambulance for the Union Hospital, Elkton, to be used for the residents of Elkton and Cecil County.

The handsome new machine, said to cost in the neighborhood of $4500, consists of the regular 7 passenger Cadillac chassis, surmounted by a special ambulance body, designed and conveniences for patients and attendants.

The ambulance will be finished in Arizona grey, it was discovered after the meeting.

Notable in its comfort equipment are the two exhaust heaters, dome and rear corner lights, Lorraine spot light mounted on left front pillar, flower vases, electric fan, and ventilating rear window. There are two comfortable leather seats for attendants. Invalid bed with pad is included in the standard equipment. The interior is trimmed entirely in two-tone gray leather, and the floor is covered with ship linoleum. The driver's compartment, trimmed in black leather, is wide enough to carry three passengers.

Elkton Deaths

ZACHARY MCKENNEY

Zachary C. McKenney, a highly respected resident of Elkton, died at Union Hospital here early Friday morning, after a brief illness, of pneumonia, aged 74 years. The deceased was a miller by trade, which vocation he followed up to a few years ago. For the past couple of years he had been watchman at the Elkton foundry. Fraternally the deceased was an Odd Fellow. He is survived by his wife. The funeral was held from his late home on South street Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Elkton cemetery.

Here In Two Months

Officials of the Cadillac Company estimated at the meeting that the ambulance will be delivered to the Elkton Legionnaires in from two to three months. The machine was purchased through H. M. Duyicink of Rising Sun, sub-agent for the Delaware Motor Sales Co., Cadillac dealers in this section.

Fund Still Grows

About $6500 has been collected by the Legion workers in their drive to provide a mercy car for the county. Of the remainder, following payment for the machine, an operating fund will be set aside to insure proper upkeep and handling.

The general cooperation from individuals, churches, and organizations throughout the county was shown to a great advantage during the drive. It went over the top with lots to spare. Great credit is due the members of Elkton Post, who were in the drive to the limit, for their spirit and hard work during the campaign.

The Power of Desire

Editorial from The Newark Post, June 22, 1910

"This one thing I do."

In Ibsen's "Master Builder," one of his strongest productions, the following colloquy is found:

Solness (the Master Builder)—"Don't you agree with me, Hilda, that there exists special, chosen people who have been endowed with the power and faculty of desiring a thing, craving for a thing, WILLING a thing so persistently—so inexorably, that at last it has to happen? Don't you believe that?" Hilda—"If that is so, we shall see one of these days, whether I am one of the chosen." Solness—"It is not one's self alone that can do such great things. Oh, no—the helpers and servers—they must do their part, too, if it is to be of any good. But they never come of themselves. One has to call upon them very persistently—inwardly, you understand." Hilda—"What are these helpers and servers?" Solness—"There is a troll in you, too, as in me. For it's the troll in one, you see—it is not that that calls to the power outside us. And then you must give in, whether you will or no."

There is a deep philosophy in this quotation, which it will do us good to consider. It is not the desire, it is not the faith, it is not the will alone that works wonders; it is the psychic energies which by the action of these are liberated. We can desire to the end of time; we can believe on and on to life's close; and we can will as best we may, and yet the object of our desires will elude our grasp and keep beyond our reach unless there be awakened within us the dynamic forces which compel results. Desire and faith and will are essential to the process. It is through these that the energies are awakened. It is by means of these as by means of the switch, that the circuit is closed, but they are not the spark which fires the mine or that sets aflame the essential forces.

In Scandinavian mythology there is reckoned to be a supernatural being, sometimes of gigantic and sometimes of dwarfish proportions, capable of working charms. This is the "troll" to which Ibsen alludes. It is an alliance with such a helper that Solness regards as the power—the compelling power within us. Our very desires are aroused, we know not how. We are impelled by forces which we do not comprehend. Said Beecher:

"There are times when it is not I that is talking; when I am caught up and carried away so that I know not whether I am in the body or out of the body; when I think things in the pulpit I could never think in the study; and when I have feelings that are so different from any that belong to the lower or normal condition that I can neither regulate them nor understand them. I see things and I hear sounds and seem, if not in the seventh heaven, yet in a condition which leads me to apprehend what Paul said, that he heard things that it was not possible for a man to utter."

The man who merely thinks and wonders how he is going to do a thing, if it be nothing more than to recover his health, will think and wonder in vain. "If you think how you are going to write (music)," says Mozart, "you will never write anything worth hearing. I write because I cannot help it." But the will which says, "THIS ONE THING I DO," by utilizing the drawing energies of desire and faith, sets in motion the mechanism which will ultimately accomplish our purposes. But the fire itself, which must come ere the act is consummated, is communicated. WE FEEL THE THING THAT WE OUGHT TO BE OR OUGHT TO HAVE BEATING UNDER THE THING THAT IS until

"The tidal wave of deeper souls
Into our being rolls,
And lifts us unawares
Out of our meaner cares."

"It's the troll in one, you see—it is that that calls to the powers outside us. And then you must give in—whether you will, or no."

MEMORIAL

The members of The Orpheus Club of Wilmington desire to record their deep sorrow at the death of Everett C. Johnson, which occurred at his home in Newark, Delaware, on February Twentieth last.

The State of Delaware has produced no higher type of citizen or sheltered a finer or more lovable character. Both in public service and in private life, he displayed a conscientious fidelity to duty and a firm adherence to the highest and best traditions. He was an able and gifted writer and a fearless and eloquent speaker in behalf of every cause and principle that he espoused, and was faithful and responsive to every duty devolving upon him. His vision was broad and comprehensive, his ideals were lofty and well defined, his patriotism was unmistakable and found frequent expression. Always kindly and considerate, and with rare personal charm, his friendships were many and cemented by the firmest and closest ties. His deep personal interest in this organization, at all times displayed, has not only been keenly appreciated, but will be sadly missed.

As expressive of the high respect and honor held by the members of this organization for their departed friend, be it therefore

RESOLVED that his services and devotion in public and private life, his personal and social virtues, and his many qualities, which have left so deep an impression not only upon the community in which he lived, but throughout the State which he loved and served, entitle his memory to be cherished as a wise, virtuous and patriotic citizen, an indulgent and loving father, a loyal and devoted friend, a manly man.

FURTHER RESOLVED that we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the members of his family, in their bereavement and transmit to them a copy of these resolutions.

Daniel Bonade, solo clarinetist of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will be the assisting artist and will participate in the playing of the Mozart clarinet quintet in A major.

This one concert has been arranged to determine Wilmington's interest in high grade chamber music and is being sponsored by a group of music lovers with the view of arranging a series of chamber music concerts for the next season and succeeding seasons. The support accorded this one performance will decide the possibility of bring more and better music to Wilmington.

CONCRETE POURED FOR NEW BANK

Newark, March 9—Completion of the foundations for the new Farmers Trust Company building on Main Street was reported today by the Tilghman-Moyer Company, contractors in charge.

Concrete was poured to a depth of 2 feet below the floor of the excavation and 11 feet below the street level. In view of the weight the foundations must bear, specifications called for unusual thicknesses throughout. The outside walls will rest upon concrete footings 4 feet wide. To take care of the pillars which will grace the front of the new building, a bed of concrete was laid, measuring 9 feet deep and 3 feet 6 1/2 inches thick.

Preliminary work was also completed this week on the footing of the basement or book vault of the new building. It is extremely important, according to the engineer in charge, to have a surplus of strength in the foundation work of this type of building. The new bank's walls rest on solid concrete of the finest quality.

Newark Soldiers Lose Close Battle To Wilmington "Y"

Lead Until Last Few Minutes Of Saturday's Game, When City Men Spurt Away To Victory; Newark Reserves Lose Preliminary Game

Although leading at half time, and well into the second frame of the game Saturday, Battery E of Newark could not hold the Wilmington Y. M. C. A. team in check, thereby losing a hard game, score 37-29.

Waller, Wilmington forward, ran wild in the last stages of the game, caging the ball from all angles. He gathered in eight field goals during the evening. In the face of such shooting, the Newark attack seemed to break down.

Chalmers Good

Shorty Chalmers played one of his consistently good games at forward for the locals, pairing off with Smith. Later on in the game, Bland went in at forward, netting the ball three times from the field. Jaquette and Buck Ramsey were strong on the defense.

The score at half time was 19-13, favoring Newark. The locals started off again with a rush, but saw their lead cut down by the phenomenal shooting of Waller and the general sprucing up of Wilmington's team play.

Grange Notes

The National Grange, through its legislative department, is vigorously backing the truth-in-fabrics bill which Senator Capper has introduced in Congress, and the support of subordinate branches of the organization throughout the country is being widely enlisted. The Capper bill eliminates many objectionable features in former bills and especially provides for the distinct labeling of all adulterated fabrics.

United States Senator Pepper appeared before the recent session of the

The Chafing Dish

Neil Farnér

I thought that I had finished with this morning's mail, but here is a letter, that just arrived. I suppose I will have to read it. Well, here goes.

It starts off well. "We've just been thinking of you" (I feel honored and ashamed and then doubtful: honored because some persons have just been thinking of me; ashamed because I have not just been thinking of them, too; and then doubtful because there are so many things that they might have just been thinking.)

The letter continues "—wondering where you are and how you are." (One could have sung it much more easily than one could have read it. That line fairly quivers with melody, moonlight, memories, and muddle. And, moreover, they are actually wondering where I am—do I owe any outstanding bills, I wonder—and in what state is my general health—it must be from the insurance agent who was here to see me last week.)

Haven't seen you since that day? (Sally went away?) "—oh, a long time ago" (Long, long ago, long, long ago! Can you imagine it? They recall having seen me even after a period of time has elapsed. It must be from Mr. Addison Sims, of Seattle. No one else could ever have remembered.)

"—when you came in" (So I have called on this mysterious and charming person, who employs the editorial "we" in his letters to replace the more personal "I." I am ashamed again, for I do not recall that call "and bought a pair of shoes." (The Devil! Into the wast-paper basket with you, you vile unfulfilling promise of romance!)

As the objectionable trade letter settles down into the basket on top of other papers of equal unimportance, it lands face upward and the postscript slaps me on the back and tells me in a confidential manner, "Say, you just ought to see our $8.00 shoes—they're pips."

Speaking of letters, there is no more powerful pillar of civilization than the postage stamp.

A letter will often save one from suicide, murder, or spats.

I have on my desk at this moment a letter which recalls, what is to me, one of my most valuable memories—a memory which is a continual and potent inspiration. And yet it is a very little thing, a very little thing. Yet—

The letter to which I refer makes no mention whatsoever of the memory which I treasure. It merely suggests it; which is better.

The clear, delicate writing, the lucid style, the personality expressed, bring to my mind an evening spent in the home of the writer.

When I retired that night, I discovered in just the right position at the head of the bed in which I was to sleep—and what a luxuriously comfortable bed it was!—a little table. On the table was a lamp with the shade adjusted at just the right angle. Beside the lamp were two books.

I hurriedly undressed, banked the two pillows into position, switched out the ceiling light, and turned on the reading-lamp. Taking one of the books—I have forgotten which; it does not matter—I settled myself to enjoy one of the pleasantest midnights I have ever experienced. (It is indeed sad that so many midnights are squandered in sleep.)

I didn't read the book, but held it before my eyes and read the much more thrilling stories which were swirling, half-shaped, in my consciousness—stories I would never write even if I were able; they are too old and too precious. . . . No, not exactly day-dreaming. Something more sacred.

However, I read one story about the time when I would accord guests of my own such hospitality, as a thoughtfully placed reading-lamp and books—not really to read, but just books, and—

It was a comfortable bed, though for some reason I didn't sleep that night.

There is nothing more fascinating than a human being—not stuck on a piece of blotting paper with a pin and gazed upon through a sterilized microscope, but a human being in its native element—life.

I was strolling down one of the most uninviting streets in a nearby city at noon one day this past summer. From ahead of me came the spiritless harmonies of a mechanical piano. I could not keep from wondering who, in such a poverty-stricken appearing place, could have afforded such a luxury as a "player-piano."

As I came to the shabbiest dwelling I had yet seen, through the open door, I saw the organ of artificial music, and playing it a woman. She was ragged, desolate appearing, with all hope erased from her prematurely wrinkled face. She was pumping the pedals of the piano furiously.

Her mouth was open. There were no signs of intelligence in her eyes. She was playing one of the latest jazz selections.

She pumped away as if to drown out forever the sounds from the street—unpleasant sounds, very unpleasant some of them—she pumped as if she were running away from her environment.

The shiny mahogany of the piano looked so out of place in that shack of a house.

Since this column has been appearing in The Newark Post, the combined circulation of this paper and that other weekly Post, the Saturday Evening, has risen to over two million.

Pennsylvania State Grange and addressed the 2000 or more delegates present on pending farm issues before Congress. Senator Pepper owns a farm of 200 acres near Philadelphia and operates it extensively.

In connection with Farmers' Week at the Michigan Agricultural College, a Grange "school of methods" was conducted, designed to train Grange workers for more efficient achievement. The same idea has been in vogue many years in Ohio, is being taken up in New York and elsewhere features big farm gatherings, whose attendance is largely composed of Grange members.

MISS CANNON IS AGAIN HONORED

Famous Astronomer, Native of Dover, Named State's Most Notable Woman

Miss Annie J. Cannon, of Dover, has been selected to represent Delaware in the American Woman's Association, which will meet at Madison Square Garden in New York, on Thursday, March 18, when the association will elect to honorary membership in the association an outstanding business or professional woman from each state in the Union.

Miss Cannon will receive the Delaware honor. She is a world-famous astronomer.

The American Woman's Association is an organization of 5000 business and professional women, who having outgrown their present headquarters at 220 Madison avenue, New York city a year ago inaugurated a campaign for $3,000,000 to build a new club house. Land has been acquired on West Twenty-third street and the campaign is on the last lap of the $3,000,000 which is necessary before building can begin.

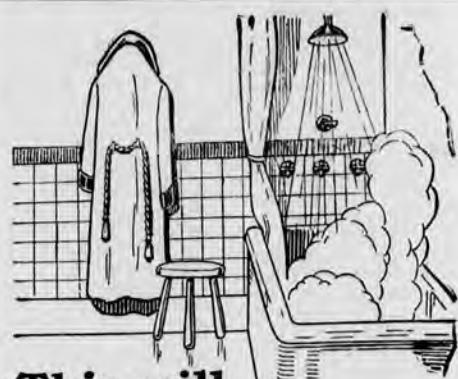

Miss Cannon, through her honorary membership in the association, will have the club house at her disposal during her trips to New York and will be afforded the many interesting and worthwhile contacts which can be offered in a club house of this kind.

Miss Cannon has been a frequent visitor to Newark. She is a sister of Mrs. Hester C. Levis of West Main street.

MAKE COW PAY WAGES

How to make a cow pay you wages on a bigger scale to make a bigger profit is explained in a bulletin issued by the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics. To ascertain exactly the hourly wage each cow is paying for the labor and care expended on her, just deduct the total expenditures from the total receipts of each cow and divide the difference by the number of hours of labor expended on her during the year.

On one of four neighboring farms where careful records had been kept it was brought to light that not only did the farmer receive no wages for the time spent on his cows, but that it actually cost him 12 cents an hour each to have them hang around his place. In the other three instances, the farmers were paid at the rate of 42 and 48 cents per hour for the time and labor spent on each of their cows. The two lots of cows bringing the fattest pay envelopes were better bred than the others, although the right kind of feed and better care would have done much toward making the others profitable employees. The amount of milk produced annually by each of the cows was found to have a direct relation to the number of hours of labor and the care which they received, in each instance the animals with better care producing the greater income.

It is a costly error for the farmer who uses family labor to assume that whatever the cow produces is all to be good, according to the Institute. He should not be satisfied until his careful record keeping indicates that he is receiving at least current wages for his efforts. The record will further point out to him the unprofitable members of his herd, and these he should aim to replace with animals that will produce on an average of 250 to 325 pounds of butterfat each year. With the non-producers cut out and the good stock left put on balanced rations and given proper care, there will be no reason why the farmer should not receive a full pay envelope from each cow in his dairy herd.

NEW EGG MASH FORMULA

Buttermilk Mash and All Other Poultry Rations Unchanged

A committee consisting of Profs. J. C. Graham and W. C. Monahan of Massachusetts, R. E. Jones and W. F. Kirkpatrick of Connecticut, C. E. Bennett of Rhode Island, and H. A. D. Ziegert of Vermont, recently reviewed very carefully the formulae of Eastern States poultry rations. They agreed that all except the Egg Mash were satisfactory, and were confident that Eastern States Egg Mash could be improved by the elimination of gluten and the addition of more corn meal. In accordance with its custom of following the recommendations of feeding authorities, the Exchange will adopt their formula for its Eastern States Egg Mash and the change will go into effect on shipments on and after April 1, 1926. The formula is:

- 50 lbs. Yellow Corn meal
- 40 lbs. Wheat Flour Middlings
- 30 lbs. Ground 40 lb. Clipped Oats
- 20 lbs. Standard Wheat Brand
- 10 lbs. Meat Scraps 55%

1000 lbs. Eastern States Egg Mash. This ration is guaranteed to analyze 18.5% protein, 3.5% fat and not more than 8% fiber.

Believing that many of the members will be anxious to change to the new egg mash formula as quickly as possible, and that they will want to do this gradually, the Exchange through March will ship to farmers egg mash mixed on the new formula, provided they specify in their orders that this is their desire. After April 1, members desiring the old mash can secure it by asking for it when ordering.

Since gluten usually costs more than meat, the new mash should run relatively cheaper than the old. On the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange price list of March 3rd, for example, the old Egg Mash was quoted at $50.80 per ton and the new at $47.80.

Farmers who have never realized the difference between the Exchange and a commercial feed manufacturer should note carefully the way in which this egg mash formula change is handled by the Exchange. In the first place, the change is made only after the extension and college poultry experts have made their definite recommendation. The members of the Exchange are at once notified through announcements like the one above in the agricultural press and in the Eastern States Co-operator, and they are told precisely what the new formula is—not merely the list of ingredients, but the pounds of ingredients which make the ton.

The Exchange recognizes the fact that poultrymen do not like to shift their laying flocks from one ration to another and it is making its change at the present time so that the hens may become accustomed to the new mash before the period of rising egg prices sets in. It believes, furthermore, that at this time of year when hens have the same natural instinct to lay, little if any reduction in egg production will result from changing to so good a mash.
