Blue Hens Cop Second Victory In Game With Lebanon

In the second home game of the season the basketball team trounced Lebanon Valley 31-20, Friday evening in the Gym. The game was well-played and interesting throughout. The Pennsylvania team, fresh from an over-whelming victory over Drexel Institute, looked to be a very formidable rival for Delaware. The game fulfilled the expectations of the gallery. Both teams played a strong game but the Blue and Gold excelled in passing and thru this medium delivered most of its points. Captain "Don" Horsey put up a sterling game at forward, shooting nine field-goals. Alexander's passing was also a feature. Ritz tossed in Delaware's three foul goals. Seltzer's foul shooting and Moore's work from the field were the features for Lebanon Valley. The score:

It was the second game of the day for Dover, Wilmington High having over-whelmed them in a hard contest in the afternoon. Aikens' and Barnard's shooting and Roach's guarding were the features. REORGANIZATION OF STUDENT COUNCIL

Preparations Made For A New Student Government Constitution

At the chapel time, last Monday, January 7, the committee which was elected before the holidays to work out some plan for a satisfactory settlement of the Thanksgiving vacation trouble, made their report. The recommendations of this committee provided for the election of a temporary governing body to be elected by the student body. This temporary committee is to have two functions: First, they shall carry on all the unfinished business of the old Student Council, and they shall have charge of the conduction of our mid-year examinations; Second, they shall reconstruct the constitution of the student self-government association so that it shall be acceptable to both the student body and the faculty. This new constitution will probably embody a definite statement of the governing functions of the student body.

Following the report of the committee, the resolutions were voted on and adopted by the student body, and the temporary committee was elected. This committee consists of the same men who comprised the old Student Council with the exception of J. P. Truss, '19, who has gone to the Reserve Officers Training Camp. To fill this vacancy the Juniors elected Craig and Levey as eligible for the position, and on Thursday, at a meeting of the student body Craig was chosen for the position.

Junior Prom

At a recent meeting of the Junior Class final arrangements for the "Prom" were discussed. The date for the dance has been set as Friday, February 8th. It was decided to restrict the number of couples at the dance to ninety. The dance is to be strictly a college affair, only students, faculty and alumni being permitted to attend. This restriction was made to dispense with the inconvenience of crowding Old College Hall where the affair is to be held. Reservations of tickets will be made up to a certain date, which has not yet been decided by the class. Tickets for the dance will cost $2.00 for students and $3.00 for alumni.

Delaware Man Instructor At Camp Meade

Richard Whittingham of Newark, who recently graduated from the Officers' Training Camp at Fort Myer is still adding honor to the name. Graduating sixth in the class, as First Lieutenant, he has now been chosen as Instructor at the new Training Camp. He is one of two chosen out of a possible 300 officers. Some honor! Under his command are six Delaware College Men.

Delaware Student Weds

During the Christmas holidays announcement was made of the wedding of P. D. Lovett '18, to Miss Katharine Jaquette of Newark. Both of the young people are well-known to the student body. Lovett recently left for Camp Meade to train for a commission in the army.

Meeting Of Economic Societies

In chapel on Thursday morning Dr. Fred Clark gave a report of the meeting of the national economic societies, which was held in Philadelphia during Christmas week. Dr. Clark's report was, in brief, as follows:

The discussion in every session centered around war activities. All present were agreed upon the seriousness of the situation. Among the interesting points brought out was the question of Federal ownership. It is recognized that in time of war fundamental ideas are put to a severe test. It has been a fundamental idea of Anglo-Saxon races that industry is best developed by competition. Now that the government has assumed control of so many industries, the question of Federal ownership assumes a new and serious importance.

Another question discussed was that of price fixing. Its object is two-fold: prices must be kept down, but useless consumption must also be curtailed. It was decided that America is not yet economizing as it should. There must be further rationing of products if the war is to continue.

In the discussion of the labor problem, the most important point developed was this: that the present situation is the result, not the lack of labor, but rather of a lack of distribution of existing labor.

Changes In Review Staff

Owing to the training camp which began at the first of the month, three men have been lost to the Review Staff. This list includes Paul Lovett '18, L. B. Stayton '18, and J. T. Gough '20. Lovett was an assistant editor, while Stayton and Gough were on the business staff. Gough, however, did not enter the training camp, but has withdrawn from college. In view of the nearness of the date for the election of officers of the staff for the coming year, it was decided to allow the staff to remain the same. This will, of course, necessitate additional work for the remaining members of the present staff.

The Officers' Ball

On Friday evening, December 21, the commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the cadet battalion gave a very enjoyable and attractive dance. This dance was held for the purpose of stimulating a greater interest in military affairs in Delaware College and for bringing the officers of the several units into close touch with one another. This dance is a revival of the old custom of giving military balls. It might be recalled that the first Junior Prom was a military affair and the custom was adhered to for several years. There were about thirty-five couples present including a few members of the faculty. The music was of a very excellent type. Refreshments were served from the kitchen of the Commons between the halves. The patronesses were: Mrs. E. P. Pendleton, Mrs. S. C. Mitchell, Mrs. C. E. Short, Dean Winifred Robinson, and Miss Winslow.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Hold Annual Dance

On Friday evening, January fourth, the Delaware Alpha Chapter of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity held its tenth annual dance in Old College Hall. The dance was more brilliant this year than ever before, and the beauty of the hall added greatly to the success of the dance. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Fraternity pennants and colors were artistically blended with the college colors. Evergreens and potted plants contributed the remainder of the decoration.

The military spirit dominated the whole dance. After the grand march all lights went out and a spot light was thrown on the American flag while the orchestra played the Star Spangled Banner. The service flag of the fraternity (Continued on Page 2)

Elected To Phi Kappa Phi

The members of the Senior Class who have been elected to membership in the Phi Kappa Phi Honorary Fraternity are: T. S. Carswell, D. P. Horsey, P. D. Lovett, B. Brown, E. M. Marks, R. L. Sumwalt, J. F. Davis, H. P. Cleaver.

Training Corps Escort Drafted Men

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps made its first public appearance on Wednesday, December 19, when it acted as escort for the third contingent of drafted men of the county and of Wilmington. The county contingent left Newark for Fort DuPont on the 8.30 o'clock train and the college corps with the band escorted them from Purnell Hall, the county headquarters, to the railroad station.

The battalion then took the train for Wilmington where they participated in the "send off" given the drafted men of that city. The parade in Wilmington left the Old County Building at Tenth and Market Streets at ten o'clock and proceeded down Market Street to Front Street and thence to the P. R. R. station where a special train awaited the candidates for the National Army.

The new uniforms were worn for the first time and the battalion presented a natty appearance. The soldierly bearing and marching of the companies together with the work of the band was the subject of much favorable comment. The members of the battalion were glad of the opportunity thus afforded of rendering a public service.

Enlistment In Engineers' Reserve

In accordance with the provisions of the government where by engineering students who are regarded in the present draft shall be permitted to complete the college courses and thus to be capable of rendering a greater measure of service to the country, a number of the Delaware boys have filed applications for admission to the Engineers Enlisted Reserve. The men who have applied up to the present time are:

E. S. Wilson, '18; A. L. Lauritsen, '18; R. L. Sumwalt, '18; I. R. McElwee, '19; G. R. Cantwell, '19; W. McKinney, '19; G. M. Lang, '19; M. C. Shaw, '20; M. Rosengarter, '21; A. E. Olsen, '21.

Delaware Takes Two Games

The Delaware College Basketball Team opened the home season in the College Gymnasium last Wednesday night with a victory over the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy. The Osteopaths were out-classed from the beginning of the game until the final whistle.

The team put up an entirely different article of basketball from that which was played at Stevens and Pratt. With good team work, excellent passing and close guarding the Blue and Gold cagers were able to pile up 29 points to the visitors 11. The biggest improvement in the playing of the team was noticed in the guarding. Marston and Lord, both played excellent games and kept the shots under the basket down to a comparative few. The one big fault in the team's playing was that when the ball was in Delaware's possession the men did not get uncovered fast enough. The foul shooting was very poor. In this respect the team missed "Morry" Pierson who was very accurate from the 15-foot mark last year. Alexander showed up well at center with five field goals to his credit while Horsey and Ritz played good games at forward. The line-up is as follows:

Osteopathy	Pos.	Delaware
Elwell	forward	Horsey
Saile	forward	Ritz
Hilzey	center	Alexander
Belland	guard	Lord
Pinto	guard	Marston

Substitutions: Osteopathy—Brown for Hilley, Hilley for Elwell; Delaware—Carter for Lord, Lord for Ritz, Wilson for Marston, Craig for Lord, Barnard for Alexander.

Field goals—Saile, 2; Hilley, 1; Horsey, 4; Ritz, 2; Alexander, 5; Craig, 1. Foul goals—Hilley, 4; Pinto, 1; Horsey, 1; Alexander, 4. Fouls committed—Osteopathy, 18; Delaware, 13.

Referee—Raby; Timekeeper—Bowen.

In a preliminary game the Scrub team defeated the Newark Independents in a poorly played game by the score of 16 to 7. Line-up:

Independents	Pos.	Scrubs
Robinson	forward	Aikens
Moore	forward	T. Wilson
Rowan	center	A. Barnard
Rosslyn	guard	Roach
Moffitt	guard	Ewing

Substitutions: Independents—Armstrong for Moffitt; Scrubs—Robins for Roach, Attix for Ewing, E. Barnard for A. Barnard.

Field goals—Robinson, 1; Moore, 1; Aikens, 5; J. Wilson, 2. Foul goals—Robinson, 3; Aikens, 2.

Referee—Raby.

"Bill" Stewart Elected Captain

At a meeting of the letter men of the 1917 football team held before the Xmas holidays "Bill" Stewart '19, was elected captain of next year's team. "Bill" has left for an officers' training camp at Camp Meade but it is hoped he will be back in college in the fall to pilot the football team.

During the past season Stewart played fullback and his defensive work was a strong factor in the team's play. This is his second year on the varsity and both seasons his work has been of high calibre. The election was unanimous.

Organized vs. Unorganized Democracy

Last week the first act of vandalism was committed in Old College Hall. There was no doubt as to the general opinion of the students. They were mortified and disgusted to find that there was someone among them who had so little pride in the building as deliberately to deface it. It lowered our self-respect as college men to feel that there was someone in college whose ideas had not yet graduated from the playground and back-porch of the grade school-house.

No one desired to see a recurrence of the act. Numerous expressions were given to the contempt in which all shared. But how bring this sentiment to a focus, in order to make it uncomfortable for the culprit, and leave no doubt about the strength of the common opinion?

One man, temporary chairman of the reorganizing committee on student government, called attention to the act in chapel. A dozen others would have spoken, if they had felt it their special business to do so. Perhaps it was unnecessary in this case, opinion was so unanimous. But we are as yet an unorganized democracy. What was everybody's business proved, as usual, to be nobody's.

The incident emphasizes, at a critical moment, the significance of organization. Another thing it emphasizes: the importance of putting on the House Committee, on the Student Council, men who are really representative, whose words will be of weight, because they are known to have behind them the whole force of the best student opinion.

W. C. D. Reporter

The Review congratulates the staff of the W. C. D. Reporter on their first issue, and extends its sincere wishes for success.

The "Reporter" will satisfy a need at Delaware which has been felt for some time. Under the policy adopted by the two colleges with regard to their relations with each other it has been impossible for the Review to meet the demands of both the Women's College and Delaware as a college paper. Now that the Reporter has made its appearance there is every reason to believe that the two publications will better represent every phase of life at both colleges.

With a little competition, and at the same time, co-operation, between these papers, the standard of both publications should be raised. We hope that this will be one of the first gains as a result of our junior competitor.

with the stars representing "the sons of Delaware" now in the service came in for a generous share of applause. The moon dances were also of novel nature and were very popular.

The success of the evening was also made possible by the fine music rendered by Ewing's orchestra. During intermission refreshments were served in the west wing of the hall.

The patronesses were as follows: Mrs. S. C. Mitchell, Dean Winifred T. Robinson, Mrs. L. K. Bowen, Mrs. H. E. Tiffany, Mrs. John Pilling, Mrs. J. H. Hossinger, Mrs. E. L. Smith, Mrs. C. L. Penny, Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mrs. G. E. DuHon.

Letter To Editor

Editor, Delaware College Review, Newark, Delaware.

The "Review" arrived in this morning's mail. You surely have the proper spirit, for nothing helps to buoy a fellow up so much as to learn how his old school acquaintances are getting along; especially when that news comes thru the old College paper. I'm glad to know that so many of the fellows are in the service.

As Weigle left Detroit last night for home, he will undoubtedly be in Newark some day next week and give you all the news. We have been together for five months. Army life fully agrees with me as I have gained about fifteen pounds since last July. Everywhere we find good homes open to us, and we have made many valuable acquaintances.

With best wishes for all success, I remain

Many thanks for the "Review."

New System Of Electing Managers And Assistants Discussed

At a meeting of the Athletic Council held last Tuesday evening the election of the managers and their assistants was discussed together with a new system of electing said managers and assistants. A plan was advanced that four men be chosen from the Freshman class to serve in their Sophomore year as sub-assistants, by the student body. The squad votes for two of these four men for assistants to serve in their Junior year and the squad also votes for one of these two men to serve as manager during his Senior year. This plan has only been suggested. The Athletic Council is anxious that the students discuss this matter and think it over and if there are any other plans that any student would offer or any amendment to the proposed plan, they will be gladly accepted. The matter will be brought up at an early date before the student body.

Letter To Editor

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 15, 1917
Dean Lawrence E. Smith
Delaware College
Newark, Delaware

Dear Sir: To the list of Delaware men in the U. S. service should be added the name of J. H. Veale, '14, who joined the regiment of railroad engineers recruited in Philadelphia in the early spring and among the first to cross to France. Previously Veale had been located in Salisbury, Md., with the B. C. & A. R. R. His present address is:

Corp. J. H. Veale
19th Regiment of Engineers
(Ry.)
Co. D. (detached) P. O. 708
American Exp. Forces via New York.

I recently had the pleasure of reading three interesting letters from him to his mother and father. He tells of the various towns and cities in which his regiment has stopped. Of course, Paris is the most interesting with its many architecturally beautiful buildings. Here the streets are filled in the evenings with soldiers of every ally nation. In the smaller cities and towns there is no definite plan; the streets run in every direction and without regard to interesting streets. If one grade does not meet another, a set of steps is inserted.

Also he says that the railroads are far behind times. The trains look like the toy ones our children have at Christmas. The freight cars hold less than a fair sized auto truck. Each state or subdivision has its own width of gauge which causes a cargo to be transferred several times in its trip from the seaport to the front. (Although he does not say so, I imagine that the task of standardizing the railroads is one of the present problems of his regiment.) In fact, he tells, the French are far more primitive in many things than one would imagine; and neither the French nor the British can understand the hurry of the Americans, not that they themselves, are lazy, but accustomed to take their time.

Personally Veale seems to be well provided for. He says no beans or hard tack for him as yet and gives a menu for the day of his last letter, Nov. 11th. For breakfast he had hot cakes: for dinner, beef steak and potatoes; and for supper, beef stew. With ten others he is detached from his company and assembled as a drafting unit. They are comfortably quartered in a house of the small town and furnished with plenty of warm army blankets. Their uniforms are also heavy and comfortable including both overcoat and raincoat. At his writing he had more use for the latter as winter weather had set in with mostly raw, rainy days and a sunshiny day once in a while.

When I read his letters, I did not think of borrowing them for the Review. They would be more interesting in their original form. However, if you think the news included herein of interest, I feel certain he would be glad to have it distributed through the columns of our paper.

Very truly yours,
C. E. GRUBB.

BLUE HEN TO APPEAR SOON

Work Progressing Rapidly

Overcoming greater obstacles than are pictured in "Pilgrim's Progress" the 1919 Blue Hen

Board has about completed work on the annual and already the printing press of the Star Publishing Company in Wilmington is turning out the pages which will for years to come be a delight to the student body. The books will be ready for distribution early in March, possibly by the last week in February.

The features of the issue will be the Military and Campus sections. Views of the college in artistic style will occupy twelve pages and ten pages are devoted to military. The book will show originality. The staff has shown the courage to discard the conventional forms and introduce new ideas. When the outline of the Blue Hen was presented to Dr. Mitchell for suggestions he made the following remark, "I have no suggestions to make. Your work is excellently planned and will make a truly remarkable publication."

All phases of our college life will be represented and the unusual atmosphere of our present session will be portrayed in such a manner as to make it of historical value.

Of the original board of twelve members but six remain. Fitzpatrick, Truss, Tyson, Booth, and "Mike" Plam are now in service, and "Bob" Marshall left college and is in unknown parts. The book will sell at two-fifty. Write a check and hand it to G. R. Cantwell today that you may be sure of your copy.

ANOTHER STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

The constitutions of Student Government Associations in other colleges become of interest in view of the endeavor now on foot to reorganize student government and make it workable here. At Williams College the Student Council, —a body of 12 men: 6 seniors, 3 juniors, 2 sophomores, and 1 freshman,—supervises student activities of greater range and variety, of course, than ours; and also undertakes responsibility in matters in which the students here would feel that the time is not ripe for a student council to interfere. For example, it has general oversight over all college elections: election of class officers, publication boards, and so forth. The "chairman" of the Student Council is a member of all undergraduate committees ex officio. In this way coordination is secured.

Powers of Council at Williams Clearly Defined

It was in confusion as to the relation of the Student Council, of the Student Government Association itself, to the other members of the college body, that the old Delaware Student Government Association foundered. That confusion must not be repeated, even if very plain-spoken words have to be used, and vested misunderstandings treated roughly. In the article on "Functions," and in another on "Powers," in the Williams constitution, the relationships which, as outlined in a previous paper, must in the nature of the case subsist between Student Government (represented in the Student Council), Faculty, and Trustees, are unmistakably implied.

Three functions of the Council are defined. (The numbers are mine.)

"This Council

- (1) shall represent the student body to the governing bodies of the college,
- (2) shall supervise all extra-curriculum interests and the maintenance of undergraduate regulations and order, and
- (3) shall interpret and administer the undergraduate regulations."

In the article on "Powers" the same spheres of authority are defined:

1. "The Council representing the student body shall have power to confer with any of the governing bodies of the college, or any member thereof, upon any subject pertaining to the undergraduate body."

2. "The Council shall have power to interpret and administer all undergraduate regulations and co-supervise all extra-curriculum activities."

In (1) and (2) of both articles quoted above the same definition of spheres is clearly intended.

In all matters that have to do with curriculum,—schedule, courses, calendar, scholastic requirements,—the student body has no rights, except to be heard in conference. "The Student Council shall have power to confer—" The student body agrees in conferring to act through the men whom it has freely declared to be representative of its mind,—namely, the Student Council. It plainly follows that if the influence of the Student Council, exerted in conference, is fruitless, the right of the students to action in the matter terminates. The Faculty could not discharge its direct responsibility to the Trustees, its indirect responsibility to the public, to produce educational results, if it did not reserve the authority to say the last word in everything which it believes to bear upon the effectiveness of the curriculum. Otherwise, wise, the public would be allowing students to educate themselves! Where Student Action is Decisive Retaining authority over the curriculum in all of its bearings, the Faculty at Williams College,—the body empowered by the Trustees there as elsewhere to act as executive,—believes that the best results can be obtained, its own obligations best discharged, by putting extra-curriculum activities squarely in the hands of the students. The object of the Faculty in thus delegating its authority is primarily to secure results. "The Student Council shall supervise all extra-curriculum activities"—runs the constitution. In every case where the student bodies of American colleges have soberly shouldered their responsibilities, they have secured better results than the Faculty could in dealing with matters that vitally touch their interests as members of a community. Happily the by-product is an exercise in self-government, tactful management of others, and accommodation of interests, that has been felt by many graduates to be worth more as a preparation for life than the curriculum.

Ultimate Test of Success

But it must never be forgotten that the ultimate test of Student Government is not its incidental benefits, not rights, but results. Unless it produces an orderly community life, a jealous pride in the care of property which students use, a high sense of honor, that will hold a man steady in the dark as well as when under scrutiny, a loyalty to the college sensitive to every breath that touches its good name: unless it results in an administration of extra-curriculum activities that is regular, honest, and vigorous, there is not the slightest ground of reason why Student Government should be permitted to exist.

Can the students of Delaware College produce results of this order in the administration of the Gymnasium, Old College Hall, the Dormitory, and tests and examinations? That is the simple question facing them in their new attempt at self-government. It constitutes a pretty big order. But great is the reward. Enough to say that if they should produce such results, they would be surprised to discover by how much their influence upon the direction of the college had increased. When they were seeking enlargement, they would not find it necessary to strike. But all this waits upon results!

The law of stewardship was declared some two thousand years ago by one whose insight into humanity was deep: "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much * * *. And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?"

Need Of Lecturers

The lack of public speakers to make addresses to the student body has been sorely felt this year. Many students have expressed a keen regret that they have not had the opportunity of hearing the excellent lecturers who have spoken at Delaware in recent years. It has been the custom in the past to have several prominent men address the students on subjects of current interest. It is difficult to determine just how great an influence such men had upon the student body, but the fact that the students feel a need of more men to address them shows that undoubtedly great benefit was derived from these lectures.

The arts and science students probably feel the need of this training more than the men of the other courses. Both the engineering and agricultural students have been fortunate in securing several prominent men to address them on subjects which closely pertain to their profession. It has been impossible for the arts and science men to secure capable men to address them, and hence the entire first term has passed without a single lecture. The matter, however, is not one which concerns only a certain class or group of men; it is vitally important to all.

Due to the present crisis it has been a difficult matter to secure prominent speakers, since most of the leading men of the country are now over-burdened with patriotic duties. However, it is hoped that during this final term some arrangement can be made in order that the student body may have the opportunity of hearing some good lectures. Such a step would be welcomed by every Delaware student.

DELAWARE MEN IN TRAINING CAMP

Ten Delaware College students and alumni left Saturday morning for Camp Meade, Md., to join the third Officers' Training Camp. Of those who left six are students—Paul DeWitt Lovett, Leon B. Stayton, William Stewart, Jr., Michael Walter Plam, James P. Truss and Frank H. Tyson. The former two, who would graduate next June, under a resolution of the trustees of the college will receive their diplomas. The other four students are juniors. The four alumni who also left for the training camp are: Washington Irving Brockson, Daniel Raymond McNeal, Carlton D. Pepper and Alfred C. Connelley.

Mr. Brockson, who graduated in 1915, has been an instructor at the University of Illinois and was granted a leave of absence to enter the training camp. He was in Newark, yesterday, and visited a number of his friends.

Two of the students, Stewart and Plam, were backfield men on last season's football team and their services will be greatly missed next year. Stewart was recently elected captain of the 1918 football eleven.

PROFESSOR TIFFANY RESIGNS

Accepts Position With duPont Company

Assistant Professor Harold E. Tiffany, who for 12 years has been an instructor in chemistry at Delaware College, has resigned to enter the service of the duPont Powder Co. as a chemist and will be located at Deep Water Point after January 28, when his resignation takes effect. Professor Tiffany who has given valuable service to Delaware College, is a graduate of Bucknell College, and did graduate work at Harvard University, coming to Delaware from Harvard in February, 1905. As assistant to Professor Charles L. Penny, State chemist, considerable of his work consisted of the analysis of fertilizers for the State. For several years he has been chairman of the faculty committee on Self Help for Students. He organized and launched that work, which has resulted in many students being aided in securing good positions that assisted them in finishing their courses at Delaware.

Professor Tiffany, and family, will for the present, continue their residence in Newark.

Professor Firman Thompson, for several years a chemist at the Agricultural Experiment Station, will succeed Professor Tiffany, and after this month will devote all his time to teaching. He has been teaching agricultural chemistry in connection with his other work for some time.

Letter To Editor

Camp Meade, Md.
December 24, 1917.
Delaware College Review,
Newark, Delaware.

Please print the following if you think it suitable:

When our college days are over,
And Life's Sun is sinking low,
May these verses bring to memory
The old friends of long ago.

May our fondest recollections
Springing back from out the past
Linger on our college classmates,
They whose friendship still holds fast.

May we dream upon the fireside
Of the days long since grown old
When we cheered our teams to victory,

Cheered the waving blue and gold.

And till Life's Race is ended,
To our college we'll be true,
Loyal to our Alma Mater,
Loyal to the Gold and Blue.

The above is a letter received from a former Delaware boy who is stationed at Camp Meade. He did not sign his name but the thought expressed shows what our former classmates are thinking. It is another example of the true Delaware spirit and we appreciate it.

President Hopkins of Dartmouth and President Lowell of Harvard have united in an endeavor to further plans for a new degree which will be given to those students who have entered the service of their country for this war. Both of these men have written to the Yale News in regard to their idea, and express themselves as being in favor of some such degree as Bachelor of Military Science, which would tend to show the purpose of the honor, without giving the men credit for the completion of their academic work.

FREE AUTOMOBILE DELIVERY TO NEWARK

For the purpose of fitting young men to take positions of responsibility in the business world and to fill them intelligently and efficiently, Delaware College has established a course in Business Administration as a part of the work of the Arts and Science Department. The course is conducted by Dr. Fred Clark, who came to Delaware this year from the University of Michigan, where he has been an instructor for several years. In addition to taking subjects which are designed to give a broad cultural training, the students in the new course will have work in economic problems and in the problems and practice of actual business.
