Grotto's game room tabled

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Grotto Pizza's application for a special use permit to include an arcade/game room in their new restaurant on Main Street was given close scrutiny before being tabled by city council on Monday night.

Stephen Spence, attorney for Grotto, said the company proposes to put a foosball table, four race-car-driving simulation machines, two pool tables, two basketball-toss tables, a shuttle "bowl" lane, 11 video games and six pinball machines in a game room accessible through the dining and bar areas of the restaurant.

According to documentation submitted with the application, the "purpose of the arcade is to provide entertainment for Grotto's patrons, which would include families in the community and students attending the university.'

NPA, business interests to tackle parking

In an effort to establish better communication between downtown businesses and the Newark Parking Authority, a series of informal meetings are planned to discuss joint concerns.

According to Robert Whitman, chairman of the parking authority board, city manager Cari Luft suggested the meetings to him. In addition, a recently completed study by the Wilmington Area Planning Council of on-street parking in Newark recommended some changes which need review and discussion by those affected.

Bancroft students question astronauts

By JULIA R. SAMPSON

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Students at Bancroft Elementary School have been studying about space since December. Students read books, created their own ABCs of space, and worked on computer projects relating to space and space travel.

With the cooperation of NASA, Jennifer Apicella and her 6th grade class at Bancroft were able to pose their ques-tions via e-mail to the astronauts of the spacecraft Galileo. "If their question was original the students would receive a personal message from one of

Two men followed, confronted

On Feb. 22 around 1 a.m., a 21-year-old and 17-year-old drove out of a parking lot on Elkton Road and saw a vehicle behind them. When the two vehicles stopped at S. College and Delaware avenues there was a verbal exchange between the occupants of the cars, police said.

The cars then continued on Delaware Avenue to S. Chapel Street where two people got out of the suspect vehicle and ran toward the other car, striking it with a bottle

The victims accelerated away and went to the Newark Shopping Center where they made a phone

As they were leaving the center, they again saw the suspect vehicle in the Bikeline parking One of the earlier suspects was standing in the lot pointing a gun at their car and a second suspect pulled a gun from his jacket. The teens left by the Chapel

Street exit of the center and drove to the Newark police station.

The suspects are described as a white male, 6' to 6'2", 240 lbs., in his early 20s wearing a navy sweatshirt and jeans, and a male with short blonde hair, about 5'10", 170 lbs., wearing a Dallas Cowboys Starter jacket and a baseball cap.

Underage drinker

Newark Police responded to a report of criminal mischief on W. Main Street Feb. 23 around 1:30 a.m. and found a 19-year-old man and detected an odor of alcohol.

Jacob Edward Thomas, 19, was charged with underage drink-

Charges pending

On Feb. 23 around 9:55 p.m. police were called to the Newark Shopping Center on a report of suspects breaking into cars there.

According to a security guard at the center, two young males were seen walking around and trying the doors of vehicles.

Taken into custody were two 15-year-olds, one of whom was found to have a butterfly knife with a four-inch blade in his coat pocket. He was released to the custody of his father.

The other teen was transported to his residence outside the Newark area and turned over to his stepfather.

Charges are pending.

Park vandalized

Sometime between Feb. 19

and Feb. 23 at Olan Thomas Park on Cleveland Avenue unknown suspects removed eight screws in a ground light cover and broke the glass on four sets of lights.

Light bulbs were also taken, according to police.

Damage amounted to $200.

Marijuana found

On Feb. 24 around 4:25 p.m. police were called to Rainbow Records to investigate a shoplift-

The store employee reported that a man had concealed a compact disc on his person and attempted to leave the store without paying.

During a search of the suspect police found a small plastic bag filled with a green leafy substance, which field tested positive for marijuana, police said.

David Lahuta, of New York, was charged with shoplifting and possession of marijuana.

Man arrested

On Feb. 23 about 10:50 p.m. police arrested Christopher Michael Hogue, 19, at E. Main and Chapel streets for underage drinking and resisting arrest.

Teens charged

On Feb. 23 at about 10:30 p.m. police arrested three teenagers for underage drinking in a parking lot on S. Chapel Street.

Charged were a 17-year-old female, name withheld, and Wehde Alden

Campbell, both 18.

Car entered

Sometime overnight on Feb. 23-24, unknown suspects entered a car parked on Shull Drive in Newark and removed a cellular phone and radar detector.

Police have no leads.

Unlocked car entered

Sometime overnight on Feb. 23-24, unknown suspects entered a car in the 200 block of Elkton Road and removed a bag containing a phone, drivers license, Visa card and AT&T phone card.

There was no damage to the vehicle and the owner said she might have left the car unlocked. The credit cards have been canceled.

Police have no leads.

Phone taken

Police report that overnight on Feb. 23-24, unknown suspects entered a car parked in a carport on Devon Place and removed a cellular phone.

The investigating officer noted other similar incidents in the area. Police have no leads.

Alcohol taken

Sometime overnight on Feb. 22-23 unknown suspects entered a porch on the unit block of Dallas Avenue and took two bottles of beer, a bottle of wine and a carton container of wine.

Police have no suspects.

► GAME ROOM, from 1

The target market, according to the vending machine suppliers, will be "18-35 year

Councilmembers expressed considerable concern because the game room, attractive to people under the drinking age, would be accessible through the bar.

"I'd be a whole lot happier if the arcade could be accessed only by the dining area," said Harold Godwin. "It would be a little safer in regard to underage drinking which is a big problem in Newark."

In response to the contention by the vending machine supplier that this would be "adult entertainment," Irene Zych replied, "I beg to differ. I have a 16-year-old myself and he and his friends will love it."

Zych also noted, "We already have a billiards parlor in Newark that's very popular with older teenagers - this (game room) is just going to draw them in droves.

The council also questioned the fact that alcohol, while not served in the game room, could be carried there by patrons.

"I'd be concerned about mixed use in that room," said Anthony Felicia.

Members acknowledged Grotto's reputa-

Whatever you have planned, this population will test you to your limits," warned Newark police chief William A. Hogan.

Councilmember Gerald Grant suggested tabling the application to consider the objec-

"It's almost like a separate business - a lot of stuff could be going on in there," said Grant. "I think it would be to the advantage of the petitioner and ourselves not to vote on this

Representatives for Grotto were asked to consider redesigning the floor plan to eliminate the bar/game room access and/or proposing a monitoring plan that addresses concerns about underage drinking.

Spence said he hopes to meet with city officials in the near future to discuss ways the matter can be resolved. "I think hearing the expressed concerns of the council and tabling of the matter really aided us," said Spence. "I'm comfortable and confident we can find a way to satisfy those concerns.

Spence indicated that Grotto officials hope to open the restaurant by May, therefore, the matter will need to be considered again by council before then.

Parking officials, city, NBA to meet this month

► PARKING, from 1

Starting this month, Hank Ross, administrator of the NPA, Fred Herald, city liaison to the NPA, Deirdre Peake, economic development director of the Newark Business Association, and Maureen Roser, city liaison to the NBA, will meet on an asneeded basis, said Roser.

"The perception is that the Newark Parking Authority and the Newark Business Association are not working together as well as they might," Roser said. "We hope any problems could be handled day-to-day if we met period-

Among the concerns to be addressed are snow removal in NPA lots, the parking validation system, and the "perceived" lack of parking in the downtown area.

According to Roser, also assistant planner for the city, there is some concern that businesses are not making good use of the validation system. "It's the only way some people can build because they don't have room to provide parking," said Roser, they're validating." Whitman stated that the parking authority does their part by making validation stickers available, but Roser said that if "businesses don't offer them to customers, it's not really validating." Also said Roser, the validation lists posted at NPA booths are not always current.

'but there's no system

The WILMAPCO study suggested increasing the cost of onstreet parking meters in an effort to force drivers to seek out the NPA lots where parking is usually available. Whitman and other board members said there is "adequate parking, although not always where people want it."

WILMAPCO The report added that the should have lots "improved signage" because the existing signs are hard for visitors to see in time to make turns at the entrances on narrow driveways between buildings

The council also suggested that an "advertising campaign" would be useful to better publicize the existing merchant validation program.

Board member Pat Clark said both Gene Danneman, president of the NBA and owner of Copy Maven, and Jeffrey Lang, developer-leasing agent for the Galleria, had complained that "the snow removal was not very good" during recent winter

She added that Danneman complained that no one returned her phone calls to the NPA.

Ross said he thought their contractor "had done a decent job" of snow removal and some lots had cars parked in them when they were trying to plow.

The board discussed possible ways to implement a snow removal policy in the future requiring drivers to move their cars after storms so plowing can be more effective.

July 4th will be a blast

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Thanks to a refusal to take no for an answer, Newark residents will have fireworks at this year's July 4th celebration.

According to Fred Herald, assistant to city manager Carl Luft, the city has received "many, many requests from our community" to incorporate fireworks into the annual Liberty Day event.

On Monday night, city council approved waiver of the bidding procedures and awarded a contract to Zambelli Internationale Fireworks of New Castle, Pa., for a pyrotechnic display not to exceed $15,000 in cost.

Herald said the city received one other "very similar" proposal but the city purchasing office recommended Zambelli "based on their (references) and their safety record."

According to the information submitted by Zambelli, the company has staged fireworks displays at events around the world, including the National Victory Celebration in Washington, D.C. following the Gulf War, the Virgin Islands Carnivals from 1987 to 1995, and the Statue of Liberty Celebration on July 4, 1986, in New York.

Noting that Zambelli fireworks featured in Walt Disney movie premieres in New York and Pittsburgh, councilmember Irene Zych jokingly said, "I bet Disneyland paid more for their display than $15,000."

Newark's July 4th fireworks are scheduled to take place at approximately 9 p.m. on the University of Delaware property behind the football stadium.

Shopping center bank robbed in broad daylight

Newark Police and the FBI are continuing their investigation into the bank robbery which took place last Friday in the Newark Shopping Center.

According to Curt Davis, information officer for Newark Police, a black male, described as 5'4" and weighing 150 lbs., entered the PNC Bank around noon and approached the teller. He handed her a note and implied he had a gun although no weapon was displayed. After receiving an undisclosed amount of cash, the suspect fled.

Supervising special agent Ted

Munson said Wednesday that the FBI had a tentative ID but no arrest had been made. "He has not been questioned or located although we had several possible addresses for him in the Newark area," said Munson. "He knows we're looking for him."

Police have released a surveillance photo of the suspect taken at the time of the robbery. Munson said anyone with information on the suspect or the robbery incident should contact Newark Police at 366-7111 or the FBI field office at 658-4391.

14 Bayard students injured in Main Street bus accident

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A school bus containing Christina District students from the Bayard Elementary School was stuck by an improperly operated truck at W. Main Street and S. College Avenue in Newark on Tuesday afternoon around 4 p.m.

According to Bob Reynolds, district spokesperson, the driver of the school bus told district officials that she was driving north on S. College Avenue and stopped at Main Street because the light was changing. The

"It somehow caught the bus and dragged it over into the other lane and partway into the intersection," said Reynolds, who was on the scene shortly after the accident. Reynolds said the truck appeared to be an "18-wheeler with a tarp over it."

Curt Davis of the Newark Police stated that the school bus driven by Brenda Riddle, 31, of Wilmington, and a dump truck driven by Pennock Simmers, 58, of Atglen, Pa., "apparently bumped into each other" while making the turn from S. College Avenue onto Main Street. The right side rearview mirror on the school bus and the lift wheel on the left mid-section of the truck were the only damage.

Fourteen children on the school bus claimed minor neck injuries and were examined and released at the Christiana emergency room. Approximately 27 other children on the school bus were transferred to another bus which completed the route

The driver of the truck has been cited for failure to stay in his lane.

WILMAPCO plan ready for vote

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Wilmington Area Planning Council meets next Thursday to vote on the much reviewed 2020 Metropolitan Transportation Plan.

According to executive director G. Alexander Taft, the council has held 185 meetings since "the visioning process" for area development began in July of 1993. Of those meetings, 87 specifically addressed the 2020 MTP.

Both the public and technical advisory committees to the council have voted to recommend the plan and Taft said he is hopeful that the final draft will be approved by the full council.

In response to inquiries concerning one of the more public controversies involved in the MTP process, (the designation of 'country roads' in Cecil County in a previous draft), Taft said all such issues had been resolved by deleting the references in the present draft.

In addition, on Feb. 15 the council published a 23-page list of revisions addressing concerns raised by councilmembers and others which together with the draft released in December constitute the entire plan to date.

The Newark-Elkton Intermodal Plan Major Investment Study to determine long range solutions to the area's traffic problems is included as part of the MTP but the Scope of Work for the project has not yet been determined, said Taft.

In December, a resolution by Newark city council urged DelDOT and WILMAPCO to "conduct a detailed and program specific Major Investment Study, as part of the Newark/Elkton Intermodal Transportation Plan to examine any and all possible solutions to Newark's and the greater Newark region's serious transportation prob-

The current draft of possible MIS for that project, released in January by WILMAPCO and not yet revised or adopted, ignores that resolution by specifically proposing to develop highway alternatives other than a bypass of Newark through Cecil County.

Officials of Cecil County have previously stated they will not support any plan involving a bypass for traffic relief between Elkton and Newark. A possible bypass has been an ongoing issue in Newark since the 1950s.

According to Mayor Ronald Gardner, a final draft for the Scope of Work for the Newark-Elkton plan will not be agreed to until after the current short range studies are complete and analyzed. "The consultants have taken longer than anticipated," said Gardner. "I'll be explaining some of these things in the weeks to come. Let's face it, I want things to happen and not just be studied."

Police crash vehicle replaced

The latest reverberation from the December motor vehicle accident which totaled a police car was felt in Newark city council this week.

Council approved a request to replace the 1994 Ford Crown Victoria which sustained extensive damages when a police officer responding to a call swerved to avoid hitting another vehicle and then struck a utility pole.

Neither the officer nor the other driver was seriously injured in the crash which police chief William Hogan said is a "testament to airbags.

The accident also caused an electric power outage for over 1000 customers in Newark, including the Newark Municipal Building where a council meeting was in progress at the time.

Winner Ford of Newark which provided seven new police cars to Newark recently under a State of Delaware contract advised the city that they had one 1996 police package vehicle in stock and agreed to honor the State contract price even though the contract had

City assistant Fred Herald said the insurance settlement, which came to $1,500 more than the city paid new for the car, would cover the cost of the replacement vehicle.

Crime-fighting hotline hopes to combat Rt. 40 problems

The Route 40 Neighborhood Coalition and the Boys and Girls Clubs of Delaware have taken an active role in addressing the crime problem in the Route 40 area by establishing a drug and crime tip hot line.

The hot line, which is answered directly from the police sub-station at the Boys and Girls Club, will provide area residents with a totally anonymous method to report incidents in the community.

According to a 1991 study by the University of Delaware's College of Urban Affairs, residents in the area believe that the sale of illegal drugs, crimes such as burglary and theft and vandalism/disorderly conduct are the biggest problems in the com-

"It's one of the goals of the coalition and Boys and Girls Clubs to try to have a positive impact on the surrounding neighborhoods and to address the many serious problems," said Coalition coordinator Trebs Thompson. "We're glad to offer this as a service to make our community a safer place."

According to Thompson, hot lines similar to this have been successful in curbing crime in communities such as Middletown and Odessa.

The hotline's non-emergency number is (302)836-6091. Callers are asked to leave their tips on the answering machine and to provide as much detail about the situation as

Good deed earns reward

Sometimes it is said, 'no good and walked away. deed goes unpunished'-and that might have been the end of this story. But a town worker in Elsmere intervened after witnessing an unappreciated effort to help and brought about a happy conclusion.

In January, Raymond Jackson and Michael Johnson were on their way home from their fifth grade class at Stubbs Elementary School when they crossed the parking lot at Howard High School. They saw a man walking away from his car with the lights still on and they ran to tell him. Using profane language the man told them to mind their own business, turned off the car's lights

Joseph Cherneski, an Elsmere public works employee, saw the exchange while waiting to pick up his daughter.

As a result, on Feb. 8, Corporal Bill Shite of the Elsmere Police, together with Cherneski, gave the two 'heroes' free passes for a year to the Elsmere Skating Rink.

In addition, the skating rink was so impressed with the story they also supplied coupons for free refreshments at the rink and promised the boys they could earn a free pair of skates if they keep their grades up.

the crew members," said Apicella. The students of Bancroft sent in this question, asked by Frank Houser: "What is the most valuable information that you have learned from Galileo so far that will help our space program?"

After waiting a little over a month for a reply, Robert West answered on Feb. 15: "The most valuable information I have learned from Galileo that will help our space program comes from the press coverage of the probe's first results and the enthusiastic response people have had. People are excited to learn of the many discoveries made by Galileo! The public interest in the exploration of the solar system is the driving force behind the space program. The space program will thrive as long as people like you remain interested in planetary exploration.

To gain a better understanding of what space travel might be like, the 6th graders simulated a space shuttle launch. The class broke into groups, each with their own array of 'NASA" personnel. Maurice Murray was a mission control specialist of the team 'Neon Ball.' Their mission was to be the first people to play basketball on the moon. Katie was the commander of the team

'Flower Power.' Their mission was to be the first people to plant flowers on Jupiter. Josh Lotz was also a Commander. His team 'Air Flight' was to be the first people to set off fireworks on the moon. Said the students of this project, "You have to pay attention, be organized, cooperate and have patience.'

"We learned new terms and the computer at the same time and that makes it fun," said Murray of the simulation.

Mary Akhemien, one of the 6th graders, said that the space program opens up the mind to the Earth and to space.

SOMETIMES A HERO FINDS INSPIRATION WHERE OTHERS SEE ONLY PAIN.

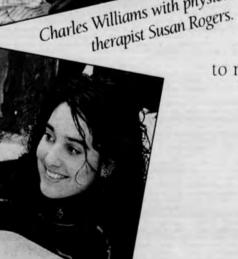

Everyone who works for the Easter Seal Society of Del-Mar, Inc. has a special story about how they came to be part of this remarkable organization. Sandy Tuttle, the organization's president, for example, was inspired by two very special people in her life. The first was her mother, who endured rheumatoid arthritis for most of her life. And the second was her friend, Vandella Dorsey, whom she met while volunteering at Easter Seal Camp Fairlee Manor when Ms. Tuttle was just 15 years old.

Vandella Dorsey was unable to communicate with the outside world, but Ms. Tuttle realized that there was an intelligent person inside. Through the years as Sandy got to know Vandella and all the Easter Seal campers as "just people," her passion to help make life better for them grew. And Ms. Tuttle "fell in love with this incredible organization."

An incredible organization, indeed! Easter Seals was started in 1907 by Rotarian Edgar Allen. Mr. Allen experienced the agony of watching someone he loved, his son, suffer from injuries caused by an auto accident. Unfortunately, Mr. Allen's son didn't have access to proper treatment and died of his injuries. As a result, Mr. Allen dedicated his life to helping communities provide care not only for accident victims, but also for anyone challenged by physical disabilities or mental impairment. Today, there are many Easter Seal programs, including the Independent Living Center, Early Therapeutic Intervention, and Easter Seal Bright Beginnings Preschool.

Easter Seals is a place where people can realize their dreams. It's an organization that took its name from the beautiful Easter Seal stickers it's been selling since 1934 to raise funds for hospitals and therapy centers. And it's an association known for creative approaches to raising public awareness about the strengths and talents of the physically and mentally Charles Williams with physical challenged. Above all, it's a group of men and women, paid workers and volunteers, who teach us to focus on what people can do instead of what they can't and inspire all of us to make the most of our own potential.

Pyrotechnics in Newark

Then we look up at the night sky for the people of Newark.

This also adds another din beautiful explosions of color and light. Many people in Newark have wanted a fireworks display and we applaud city hall for listening. Fireworks have become an integral part of celebrating in America. Pyrotechnics has become an intricate and involved science. Combining the two in Newark seems like the right thing to do.

City council's only hold up was the safety reputation of the display. They chose Zambelli Internationale Fireworks because it has a better reputation for safety.

Last year many townspeople wanted a fireworks display over Main Street for the 10th annual celebration of Newark Nite. Because fireworks cannot be set off over the tops of buildings, the request was denied. But calls kept pouring into the Municipal Building to light up the summer night

This also adds another dimension to the Liberty Day events that happen all around Newark. Whether Newarkers spend the day at White Clay Creek State Park, at the beach or grilling in their own back yards, they will be able to see fireworks without traveling too far at night.

Perhaps it's because of the snow this winter. Perhaps it's because of the cold that may be nearing its end. But right now, the idea of standing out at the University of Delaware football stadium with friends and family on a warm summer night as a shower of colorful sparks flows over our town sounds pretty good.

Disneyland may have spent more money on their pyrotechnics display, as councilmember Irene Zych jokingly said, but we applaud the city government for listening and for spending money on something that all Newarkers can enjoy.

PTA: Call for leadership

Note: It is important to state that the opinions expressed Kelly are my own, hence "One Parent's Perspective" and although I am an Executive Board member of Delaware State PTA do not speak for the organization.

Ineffective leadership at the local level was what I identified as what was sorely lacking in PTA as was inclusion. Neighborhood and development turf wars are also a major problem to surface. Since writing that initial arti-

The average PTA member is not who I'm really concerned with. Effective PTA leadership is what ultimately bears the awesome responsibility of keeping the organization focused and to serve the entire school community. The core leadership team in each school building plays a vital role in the successful academic journey of its students and its makeup consists of its PTA officers, principal and a corps of dedicated parents. Unlike the last editorial which addressed who should not consider being a PTA leader, I will share some of the qualities of good leadership.

During any school year current officers and staff should always be scouting for someone

They came in singles. They came in groups. There were tall ones and short ones, fat ones and skinny ones, rich ones and not so rich ones. They came by the tens of hundreds, representing every religion, color, ethnic group, and sexual persuasion. Why did they come? They came to say good-bye!

They came to say thank you! For over 25 years, the Newark Mini-Mall has been home to a bookstore, the last 8 of which have been occupied by Volume II Books. We did many neat things at Volume II. We sponsored well-known local authors reading their poetry or discussing their latest book. We searched and succeeded in finding hundreds of out of print books for our customers. We mailed books to prisoners. We delivered books to customers who were infirm. We gift wrapped books for birthday parties. We donated items to after-proms, church auctions, PTAs, fraternities, rowing teams, and to schools who lost books through fire and floods. In the last two years, we helped almost 700 needy children receive books for Christmas through our Angel Tree project.

We knew most of our customers by name (or at least by face) and knew what kinds of books they liked to read. Books were ordered according to our customers likes and dislikes. That's why each "independent bookstore" is different, unlike a "chain bookstore" where you'll find the latest John Grisham displayed in the same location in each store. Volume II was not only a place to buy the latest bestseller, but a place to go to talk about your favorite author, get help with a health problem, buy a special gift, or just browse.

I have many happy memories of Volume II along with a great sense of accomplishment in knowing I provided this town with a good bookstore. My staff was customeroriented, knowledgeable, and just super in every way and I want to thank them publicly for without them we could not have existed.

Every time an independent store closes on Main Street, a little piece of the town disappears: the Malt Shoppe, the State Theater, Braunstein's Dept. Store, Vera's, Inden's, Scott's Ice Cream, and now Volume II. I implore the townspeople to support vigorously those stores that are left: Newark Camera, Delaware Sporting Goods, Brewed Awakenings and the Newark Newsstand, for if you don't, they too will soon be gone.

To all those that came to say good-bye, to all those who came to say thank you, to you I say thank you and bid farewell.

I am writing to express my appreciation for Mr. Elbert Chance's recent piece regarding Major Robert Kirkwood. The article brought attention to the oversight of one of Delaware's greatest heroes. Major Kirkwood's bravery and devotion to the troops under his command stand as an enduring example for today's leaders.

The Army R.O.T.C. Fightin' Blue Hen Battalion plans to recognize many distinguished graduates of the University of Delaware (and its predecessor, the Newark Academy) this coming October. As part of Homecoming Weekend, a Hall of Heroes will be dedicated in Mechanical Hall and will contain a framed photograph and biographical description of each distinguished alumnus/a.

Heroes such as Major Kirkwood will surely be among the first inductees. Anyone seeking more information about this project may contact the Military Department at 831-2217.

PTA: Call for leadership

one to take their place and always be on the lookout for potential future leaders in their school buildings to provide continuity. They should be looking for individuals (male or female) who have good organizational and interpersonal skills and who are accessible. This PTA leader should be focused on providing educational enhancement not just for their own child/children. but serving all the children in its community. This leader must interact with a variety of people and staff and must present themselves in a professional, friendly, and intelligent manner. Moreover, this person must also be one who is capable of speaking out and keeping the membership informed.

Working closely with PTA leadership is the building principal and teachers or their representative who should serve as impartial facilitators and whose mission is to ensure that the school community is being served equitably and fairly. Minutes should be published and widely distributed to let your customers (membership paying parents, etc.) know how their money is being spent. Those who wish to attend meetings for the socialization can do so, but those who can't or choose not to have every right to know what is going on in their school buildings.

Those in control of the coffers must be held accountable for their actions or lack thereof. Membership and fundraising monies and the resultant perks and quality programs are evident and appreciated by the PTA membership. Our children have had enriching, educational and culturally beneficial experiences that have been funded by PTA and in the opinion of this writer, has been money well spent and wisely invested for the most part.

On the other hand, programs that only benefit a few and have no educational value should be closely monitored by the entire PTA body and as a member you have every right to question any expenditure and bring any concerns to the floor for discussion.

I submit that an involved, informed parent can either be seen as a blessing by some or a PTA's worst nightmare. How you are viewed is often a mirrored image of its leadership.

In future columns, I will share information on what PTA at the State Level is working on to assist local units and also share the vision of our State President. PTA has a reputation of being cookie baking, chit-chat clubs. As educational reform moves forward in our State PTA has an opportunity to be positive change agents in our school communities and to enhance the education for all children. There is much work to be done. Let's roll up our sleeves and get to work!

CHANCE, from 6

Wilmington Country Club. A local news story noted that "interest and enthusiasm are growing beyond all expectations", and the board of directors announced that the number of charter members would be limited to 200. The first nine holes were completed by the fall of 1921, and Albert D. Ginther was hired as golf professional the following year.

Other community leaders were added to the membership roll including mill owner J. Irwin Dayett; E. Brinton Wright; University of Delaware president Dr. Walter Hullihen and Professors F. C. Houghton, Charles A. McCue, Thomas F. Manns and Dr. W. Owen Sypherd, who won the first Men's Club Championship. Some years later, in 1940-41, Newark also became the home course for promising young professional Dave Douglas, who joined the tour and, after winning several events, was a member of the U.S. Ryder Cup team in 1953

In 1952 the directors hired Joseph R. Aneda, Jr., for the combined post of professional/grounds superintendent, and though he retired once for a brief sojourn in Puerto Rico, the popular octogenarian has returned to his old haunts and last year was elected a member of the Philadelphia PGA Section's Hall of Fame.

Shortly before being honored at age 85, he made the fourth hole-in-one of his career en route to a 77.

After struggling through the difficult World War II years, the Club continued its steady growth and progress, becoming an ever more popular site for community functions, dinners and wedding receptions. But tragedy struck in 1957 when the renovated barn that had served as combination clubhouse and pro shop was destroyed by fire. The board of directors, then chaired by Dr. Paul K. Musselman, met the challenge and a new clubhouse was designed and built by the summer of 1958. That building has been completely renovated in the last three years by an entirely new group of directors, whose major project in 1996 will be the installation of a new swimming pool.

The Newark Country Club has been a pioneer in the state. Its members were early advocates of statewide competition and five successive championship tournaments were held on its course from 1947 through 1951 before the Delaware State Golf Association assumed responsibility for this event. In 1980 Newark became the first country club in the state, and among the first in the nation, to elect a woman director. The late Sue Davis, daughter of an earlier director, became president of the board in 1985.

Continuing the founders' original intent to serve the entire community, the club hosted the city's Constitution Ball in 1987 and has hosted tournaments benefiting another respected local institution, the Newark Senior Center.

And, lest we forget, golf remains the focus of today's 700-plus members. The course record of 64 was set by Andy Smith, a former University of Delaware varsity letterwinner, on June 11, 1973. That mark was matched on October 7. 1995, by Mark Doughty.

Bottled H₂O: What's the difference?

TITH ALL THE RAIN and snow we have been having, flooding has increased. With this comes the need to chlorinate our water supply to ensure safety. Many people have temporarily turned to bottled water as an alternative since the taste and smell can be overpowering. How do you know what you're buying? About 25 percent of all bottled water comes from municipal supplies that deliver the same product to people's kitchen and bathroom sinks. Right now Americans are spending about $3 billion for the 2.7 billion gallons of bottled water sold each year. Usually we have no way of knowing whether the brand we choose is essentially tap water. Due to a new rule issued by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, this will soon change.

The new rule will require the labeling of bottled water so that people will be able to know much more about where their store-bought water has come from. Effective this coming May, the rule requires bottled water from public water supplies to be labeled as such. It also gives legal definition to various bottled water terms that in the past have meant whatever bottlers have wanted them to mean. The government's new ernment's new definitions: Artesian water or artesian well water is drawn from a well that taps a confined aquifer a water-bearing rock or rock formation.

This week's author:

Maria Pippidis

Ground water comes from a body of water underneath the ground that is not in contact with any surface water.

Mineral water is drawn from an underground source and contains at least 250 parts per million of dissolved solids. At that level, whatever minerals are present begin to impart what is generally recognized as a mineral-water taste.

If the mineral water contains between 250 and 500 parts per million total dissolved solids, the statement "low mineral content" must appear. If it contains more than 1,500 parts per million of dissolved solids, the statement "high mineral content" must appear.

Some of the minerals that may appear in mineral water include calcium, iron, and sodium. If a cup of the water contains at least 20 milligrams of calcium, .36 milligrams of iron, or 5 milligrams of sodium (all very small amounts), the product must carry nutrition labeling, as is required on most other packaged foods.

Purified water or demineralized water is water from which all minerals and any other solids have been removed. It is also allowed to be called distilled water, deionized water, or reverse osmosis water depending on the removal process.

Local man was about Welsh immigrant

By JULIA R. SAMPSON

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

A LOCAL MAN is raising consciousness about the importance of Welsh imigrants to the area. One of these was a man named David Thomas.

Peter Williams, a Welsh immigrant, local teacher and author is trying to capture Welsh history as well as revive the Welsh language. "Welsh was virtually a forgotten language," says Williams "For the first time in history, children are now able to learn in their native tongue."

Williams conducts hymns at the Welsh festivals held in Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, and Hazleton, Pa. He is currently working on a Welsh Hymn book that has both Welsh and English translations.

But his Welsh heritage brought him in contact with an important man. A common bond ties Peter Williams and David Thomas other than being of Welsh decent. Both men came to America on a ship from Liverpool. Through much research at the Hagley Museum and letters to Thomas from his family, Williams wrote the book David Thomas: Iron Man From Wales, published by The National Welsh Foundation of America, a nonprofit organization.

"Dave Thomas should be known because he did so much for America. We call him the father of the American anthracite iron industry."

Contacting Hagley Museum upon learning of the Welshman who was an integral part of the iron industry, Williams discovered a fascinating tale. Hagley Museum has a series of letters about Thomas who discovered a use for anthracite coal.

Delaware's Sterck School for deaf children pioneers instruction

EAR OGLETOWN, on Route 4 passersby may notice a building like any other public school in Northern Delaware. The only noticeable difference is in the words, high atop its water tower, "Delaware's School for the Deef."

Originally a Newark School District adjunct, the Margaret Sterck School opened to deaf school-age children during the 1968-69 school year, after the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, in Philadelphia, could no longer serve Delaware students. At the same time, Diamond State parents of deaf children insisted that good instruction be made available closer to home.

Principal Ed Bosso said the school, now administered by the Christiana School District, eagerly encourages each child's potential by approaching them through both linguistic and cultural points of view.

Since its inception, he said, Delaware's only school for the deaf has taken a national lead in teaching deaf children through instruction based on dynamic research and innovation.

In terms of talent and ability, Bosso has no doubt that deaf children and adults do not differ from society's cross-section "mainstream" hearing populations. His own fluency with American Sign Language (ASL) is testimony of a sweeping commitment to deny an obsolete trend of perceiving deaf individuals as having medical/pathological problems requiring "correction."

Swedish influence at Montchanin Mills

WELL PLANNED and executed exhibit of the works of Donald Almquist, Swedish-American artist living in historic New Castle, and Gunnar Norrman, a Swedish artist living in Malmo, is on now through March 21 at a diminutive gallery nestled in Montchanin Mills Montchanin Arts. The show is the brain child of gallery director and art historian David Schaff.

Both of these artists are in the maturity of their careers. Almquist's entire life has been in the arts. He has worked in commercial and the fine arts. He has had a number of one-man shows on both sides of the Atlantic. Norrman was trained as a botanist and it wasn't until the 1960s that he began to be taken seriously as an artist.

I asked David why he is hanging both artists in this show. "First, I wanted to play the two off, one against the other. One is Swedish, the other Swedish-American. thought that the two visions could be put together with both artists benefiting. Almquist works mainly with water color and Norrman mainly with black and white. Second, realism or very good draftsmanship is at the center of both of their works and I thought that was something we could look at together." After spending an afternoon at the gallery, I can tell you Daivd's idea is working very well.

In the first room of the gallery, we are introduced to the techniques and themes of Gunnar Norrman. We can see etchings which are rather broad and dry points which are extremely delicate. For example there is "Studio Window" which has very strong contrasts and then "Morning Mist" in which it appears that the mist is actually printed on the page and the drawing is so fine that one appears to be looking

The comparisons really begin in the second room of the Montchanin Arts gallery. Here we see works by both artists hanging side by side and the subjects are quite similar, bottles and flasks. The first is a work by Almquist done with graphite and watercolor and next to it is a large graphite by Norrman. This juxtaposition gives us the opportunity to compare the spareness and restraint of Norrman and the detail and color emphasis of Almquist.

In the next room I had a chance to compare two works by the same artist, Norrman, with relatively the same type of scene, both done with graphite, but with different techniques. The first was a beautiful sunlit meadow with a little cottage. Next to it is "Evening View," where I saw a similar scene but in a very rich graphite to portray evening.

There are two Delaware scenes not to be missed, both by Almquist. One is a rich and deeply colored view of the Delaware River and the other a much more subtle one of Delaware marshes. His home in New Castle give; him a great base for such interesting works.

When asked to comment on the artists themselves, David noted, 'Almquist's technique varies from descriptive realism to abstract color brushwork. The tone of the works recall the Danish turn-of-the-century master Wilhelm Hammershoi's light and mood. Others are Neo-Surrealist."

Most of Almquist's works use motifs drawn from either still life or the works of nature. He is currently at work on a series of interiors and four of them are included in this show. One of my favorites is a graphite and watercolor on hand made paper called "Interior: Letter Writing." It appears with my column today.

Back to David again, this time on Norrman: "Landscape is the principle inspiration for Norrman, although he has made studies of architecture and still life. His refinement of line and richness of tone recall the charcoal drawings of Georges Seurat.'

In the current exhibit are both dry point etchings and pencil drawings. In both, Norrman uses only black and white to capture the solitude of

There are 46 works to be seen at Montchanin Arts. The gallery is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. For those unable to visit during the week, the gallery will be open Saturday, March 2, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

If you become interested in the artists and want to know even more about them and their works, books are available through the gallery as well. For more information, you may call 302-655-5645.

New bottled water

► WATER, from 8

Sparkling bottled water is naturally carbonated. The product may not be made bubbly via carbonation added from an outside source.

Spring water is derived from an underground formation from which water flows naturally to the surface of the earth. It may be collected either at the spring itself or through a hole tapping the underground formation feeding the spring

Sterile or sterilized water, used not only to make baby formula by some people but also drunk by individuals with immuno-compromised systems, must meet requirements of microorganism removal set by the U.S. Pharmacopeia.

From a community water system or from a municipal source must appear on bottles whose water comes from the same place as the water that flows through the pipes of a city or town. The phrase has to appear "conspicuously."

Not sterile. Use as directed by physician or by labeling directions for use of infant formula must appear when the label states or implies that the product is for use in feeding infants but is not actually commercially sterile.

Coming this May it will be easier to be a wise consumer when it comes to water. Until then remember to read the labels, ask questions and comparison shop.

first to successfully use anthracite coal in South Wales. The first run of pig iron was burned successfully on July 4, 1840. The Lehigh Navigation Coal Co. in Pennsylvania wanted Thomas to come to America. They were on one of the largest anthracite coal fields in the world. The anthracite coal was used to pave sidewalks in New York City because it was thought to be stone, therefore rendering it useless. Every attempt to burn it failed, but Thomas's method was to heat the air in a big oven, called a blast furnace, then force it into the coal furnace and the coal would then light immediately.

Thomas built the furnace himself with some Welsh iron workers. Within 10 years the Lehigh Valley was the leading industrial valley in the world, making more iron than any country on earth. David Thomas themselves more often than not denied employment in then-existing institutions. By mid-century, the use of the language as endorsed and promoted by Gallaudet and Clerc was singing its swan song.

Sterck School pioneers deaf instruction

➤ STERCK, from 8

When the Milan Conference convened in 1860, deaf people had been relegated to the outskirts of program development meant for their benefit. Intentionally bereft of valuable insights the deaf could have offered, Milan "experts" defined educational resolutions which approached hearing impairments as aberrant, the victims of which, without "help," could not fit into a society dependent on sound.

From Milan came debilitating tactics such as oralism, the practice of teaching only through spoken words which experts assumed pupils would somehow understand. Methods like this dominated deaf education for over 100 years. Even when Margaret Sterck operated her deaf school, from 1929-1945, she made liberal use of oralism while assuming students would know what she intended to communicate.

With hindsight, Bosso explained this legacy as fallacious since, deeming itself authoritative, it demanded that without hearing the deaf fit into a world of sound instead of encouraging them to develop with a unique linguistic foundation.

This attitude continued until the 1960s U.S. civil rights movements gained momentum which lead to big changes in how the deaf are perceived and taught. Though still used, oralism is at best only a small portion of a huge awareness which now stresses ASL as the foundation of personal development. "The important thing is that where Sterck is today, we're trying to look at current research [and the] best practices," Bosso said. While constantly relying on the results of modern "bilingual" research, Sterck School programs remain open to constant revision, a practice which, Bosso admits, is not always easy to maintain when one or more methods seem to work well.

For the past 27 years, Sterck School has consistently encouraged children and their parents to get involved with ASL very early in life.

Kelly, Talley take wrestling crowns

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

DOVER - For St. Mark's Bruce Kelly and Kyle Talley, winning state titles meant just having to win their bouts at a different venue. Their opponents were all too familiar.

Kelly, who punctuated his win by throwing his fist in the air, defeated William Penn's Todd Merganthaler during the 119-pound finals at Delaware State University. It was the fourth time the two squared off this season.

get by Talley had to Salesianum's Matt Burke in what also amounted to their fourth match

Kelly fell behind early to Merganthaler — a state champion at 103 pounds in '94 — then rallied to pull out an 11-9 decision in the final seconds. Early on, Kelly said, "I was being conservative. I didn't open up.

To make up points, Kelly knew he would have to be aggressive. "I figured I'd have to shoot more than him. For me, my best defense is my offense. I just figured I should keep attacking him the whole match," he

Kelly, who also won a title last year at 112 pounds, said last Saturday's win proves he should be mentioned in the same breath with the top wrestlers in Delaware.

"Last year I heard some coaches say that I was lucky," he said. "This one [title] proves that I'm up there."

Kelly downplayed the pressure and the hype that comes with wrestling Merganthaler in big bouts. He has defeated the William Penn junior in three out of four bouts, losing against him during the Independent Schools Tournament late last month.

Mark's coach Steve Bastianelli put rivalry in a different light, saying Kelly's record against Merganthaler could have worked

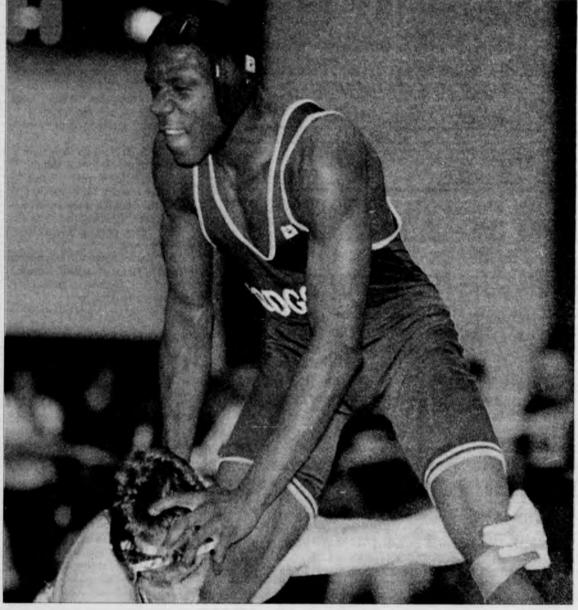

"It certainly favors, in a small way, the guy who loses the close match," said Bastianelli, who won state titles in 1974, '75 and '76. "He has more incentive the next time.

'If there was a weight class that was the premier weight, this was certainly it," said the coach, who described the athletes in the bracket as "national caliber."

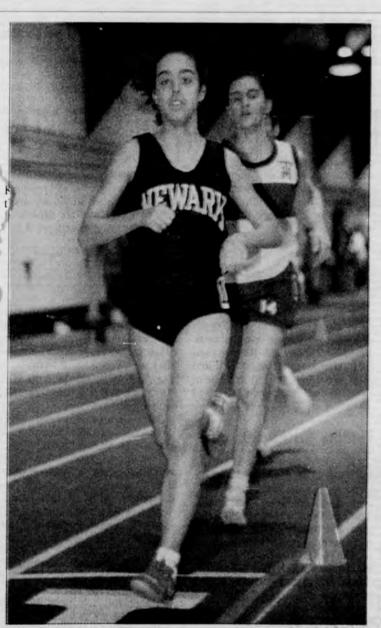

Talley was confident he could get by Burke. He had already defeated the Sallies wrestler three times. "I knew if I wrestled him like I'm capable of, I would win the match."

The Spartans' junior, who lost in the semi-finals as a freshman (to Merganthaler) and sophomore, won 14-0. But the win did not alter

OR GLASGOW HIGH, it was a case of settling for a L tie, and for Newark High it was a one-man show.

Glasgow tied Delcastle for a tie in the girls indoor state track and field meet.

'We're disappointed. We feel that if everything was handled correctly, we would have won outright," said Glasgow coach Art Madric, Madric, in his fourth year, felt his team competed well behind Erin Anderson and Kina Thornton. Anderson won the triple jump, placed second in the long jump and fourth in the 200 meter run. She was also on the 4X200 relay team that placed fourth. Anderson was singled out by Madric for her leadership. She placed fourth in the 55M hurdles and second in the 400. In the 4X200, Anderson brought her team from deep sixth posi-tion up to fourth, and she anchored the winning 4X400

St. Mark's prepares for tournament

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

T. MARK'S TOOK a journey back to the past in whipping William Penn to end its regular season. Well, kind of.

The Spartans defeated the Coloniels 52-51 at the buzzer to take home the 1995 state championship and keep their undefeated added, especially if All-State guards record in tact. Point guard Alex Karlsen banked in a desperation shot from about 30 feet, a basket that would be replayed on TV.

But that was then. This is now. Gone for St. Mark's are John Gordon (Maine) and Jason Vankerkhoven (Delaware); Gary Lumpken (Xavier), John Green and William "Tail" Davis were similarly absent for William Penn.

St. Mark's Coach Lee Sibley was quick to say that deja vu wasn't a factor in last Friday's rematch, a 56-34 rout. Preparing the team for the state tournament was the goal.

The game was a stepping stone for tomorrow's second-round matchup against the winner of the Delmar-Woodbridge game scheduled for 8 p.m. at Glasgow.

"We wanted to treat it like a tournament game," Sibley said. "It had nothing to do with last year. I think we're healthy, confident and playing pretty well.

'We're looking forward to it." And from the looks of things last Friday, the Spartans' opponents could have much to dread. St. Mark's looked razor sharp in executing its motion offense.

If basketball had its own set of commandments, the Spartan players exemplify the one that says "Thou shalt pass.

The hard thing in coaching today is getting the kids to be unselfish," Sibley said. "If you're successful, the kids buy into it," he like Karlsen and Gene Kelly buy into the philosophy.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

EWARK HIGH's Butch Patrick set a meet record for the long jump during the Indoor Track and Field Championships at the University of Delaware Field House.

The Newark Post Athlete of the Week also won the 55-meter dash and the high jump at last Saturday's meet. But overall, it wasn't one of his better days. Or was it?

"My legs were burning," said Patrick, 18, of Bear. "I didn't have that spring in them I usually

He won the high jump with a mark of only 6 foot, 4 inches after jumping 7 feet at Tower Hill in January. Of course, the event he put his signature on followed three others: the 55-meter dash, the long jump and the 200meter dash.

'Mental toughness has a lot to do with a lot of sports," Patrick said. And that's what guided him through the high jump.

The long jump is relatively new for him. "I was just messing around in the pit," he said. "I figured I'd take a shot at it. Before I knew it, I was winning it.'

He uses a shorter approach - less than 30 yards — than most jumpers. "I accelerate quickly, so it's OK," he said. "I would say speed's the key. If you get good height, your speed's going to carry you."

Patrick's jump in the semifinals was enough to win the event. His last three attempts the third of which established a new mark of 23 feet, 1 1/2 inches - was just more evidence of how competitive this athlete is.

Ironically, he may not compete in the long jump during the spring, because individuals are limited to a maximum of four events per meet. Patrick could opt to run on one or more relay

Patrick's next goal is to win the high jump in a national meet that is scheduled in Boston on March 9 and 10. To do this, he dropped the 200-meter dash, which he finished second in last Saturday.

"I want to be at my best," he

St. Mark's girls dominate meet

The St. Mark's girls swimming team established itself as one of the dominant teams in history by winning their third straight Swimming and Diving Championships held at the University of Delaware.

The Spartans won the 400 freestyle relay and the 200 freestyle relay and took the top two spots in the 100 back stroke and 100 breast stroke to distance themselves from the rest of the field.

Assistant coach Lori Mitchell said the atmosphere for victory was set by coach Mike Ramone.

"It was because of Mike's inspirational leadership and his knowledge of the sport that the kids could do so well," said Mitchell. "The kids stuck together as a team all season. They had great drive and deter-was a battle. Only one point separated Brandywine from Newark. Glasgow High finished fifth behind Padua.

St. Mark's girls had first place finishes by Charli Reasons in the 200 freestyle, Megan Iffland in the 50 freestyle, Lauren Morelli in the 100 back stroke, and Sandy Stephens in the 100 breast stroke.

Other top finishers for St. Mark's included a third for Mary Beth Brown in the 50 freestyle, a fourth for Cheryl Anderson in diving and seconds from Charli Reasons in the 100 back stroke and Jamie Skinner in the 100 breast stroke.

The St. Mark's boys team placed third overall and were lead by Brian and Scott McGillen. Brian was first in the 50 freestyle and third in the 200 freestyle and 100 freestyle. Scott took fourth in the 100 butterfly. St. Mark's placed fourth in the 200 Medley, third in the 200 freestyle relay and third in the 400 freestyle relay.

For Newark's girls tearn, Megan Schuster finished third in diving and the 400 freestyle relay team placed third. Ralph Elliot placed fourth in diving for the boys team from Newark that finished seventh overall.

Christiana had two top finishers but could only manage an eighth place finish overall. Eric Robson won the boys diving event and Chris Schaer won the 100 butterfly.

Glasgow High girls team finished fifth. Kari Kleinburd finished third in the 200 freestyle and Julie Van Deusen finished a close second in diving.

The St. Mark's win was their 77th consecutive in dual meets and this year was their seventh Catholic Conference title.

A year to remember at Hodgson

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GLASGOW Hodgson's wrestling team enjoyed a year of milestones. In fact, the milestones were so numerous that it's safe to call the 1995-96 season the best ever for the Silver Eagles.

Hodgson finished second in the Division II duel-meet state tournament after finishing first in the Blue Hen Conference Flight B. They took home six individual trophies from the Blue Hen Conference tournament, and placed in six weight classes during the state tournament last weekend at Delaware State

"The team had a family atmosphere," said Hodgson Coach Jerry Lamey, who won his 100th match in January after starting the program nine years ago. "It's fun when you win and are successful. And we were successful."

Aaron Jester (103 pounds), Brian May (112), Greg Antonelli (140), Harvey Ogden (145), Jason Higgins (171) and Brad Talley (189) won conference championships.

Pete Laucirica (130), Ed Papiro

(135) and Brian Anker (160) finished in second while Brad Speakman (125) and Jason Anker (152) took third during the Blue Hen Conference Tournament at Delcastle.

In the state tournament, Higgins reached the finals before William Penn's Jeff Snow eliminated him. Brian Anker and Laucirica both finished in third place.

Overall, Hodgson finished its regular season with a 12-1 record en route to upending A.I. duPont, last season's Division II champions, in the conference standings. The Silver Eagles' only losses came against Salesianum during the regular season and Smyrna in the Division II tournament.

Both the coaching staff and the wrestlers share a passion for practice and conditioning. "Our whole motto was to outwork everybody," Lamey said.

Some of the guys even got together on weekends at each other's homes for more work after winter storms closed canceled school for several days at a time.

"I think everyone knew we would have to work harder than most teams if we wanted to be successful," said Talley, a senior whose brother Kyle wrestles for St. Mark's

Added Ogden: "We knew what we were capable of."

Especially after Hodgson put away A.I. DuPont in a match that Higgins called "one of our stepping stones." Higgins, in only his second season as a varsity wrestler, started the season slowly. He appeared winded by the third period during several bouts.

But conditioning wasn't his problem. Technique was.

"He wasted a lot of energy because he didn't know technique." Lamey said. But wrestling in a group that included Talley and Brian Anker enabled Higgins to come a long way - all the way to the state finals, in fact.

Lamey said the team was underrated early in the season, which provided yet another source of motivation. "This team was searching for [recognition], and it worked for it," he said.

And with only five seniors graduating, the Silver Eagles will likely find themselves in an unfamiliar position next winter - rated with the top teams in Delaware.

"We got lots of possibilities," Higgins said. "Watch out."

Hodgson boys finish second at meet

Hodgson Vo-Tech finished second at this weekend's state indoor track and field meet. Paced by Dayne Ross who won the 200M and 400M races, Hodgson was the top local team to finish in the boys division. Newark finished fourth and Christiana finished fifth.

Hodgson's Casey Swain won the 55M hurdles. Hodgson picked up valuable points by winning the 4X200 race. Alvin Ennis placed second in the triple jump.

Christiana tied for fifth. John Gibbons placed third in the 400M. and the relay team finished third in the 4X800 race. For the Christiana girls, Lynn Harris placed second in 55M and Yoshino Woodard won the

St. Mark's girls finished eighth behind Jessica Travis's third place finish in the 3200 and Kelly Ellis's second place in the shot put. For the St. Mark's boys, Mike Puglisi finished second in the 1600 and won show. Marra was attempting to win at three events, and Patrick at four. Marra got off to a rough start in the 800 when she got tangled up in a pack and fell. She spent a lot of energy moving back to the front and placing second in the race. She won the 1600, but finished a disappointing sixth in the 3200.

For the boys, Madric's team was lean. But Justin Taylor's second place finish in the 55M hurdles is a story in itself. Taylor was involved in a photo finish in the hurdles. The senior was competing in his first year of track. Rick Hines placed fourth in the 55M hurdles. Madric was pleased with the efforts turned in by pole vaulters Jerry Smith and Kevin Krevchuck.

Newark coach Frank Smith said that trying to triple was made difficult because of the lack of recovery time.

"Caron was the defending champ at 3200," said Smith. "What she tried to do was outstanding. She's a tough competitor."

Marra also anchored the mile relay team. Smith felt she had done enough for the team, but she insisted and Smith let her run.

We had some injuries. Kyneta (Lee) had a pulled groin and Kendra Todd had twisted her ankle in the long jump," said Smith. "Caron wanted to run so I let her do it.'

As for Patrick, Smith expected him to do well. He scored all of Newark's points. Patrick won the long jump, the high jump, the 55M race and placed second in the 200M

Spartans close out season with make-up game win

By CHRIS YASIEJKO

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

ENIOR GUARD Alex Karlsen had 15 points in helping the St. Mark's High School boys basketball team close the regular season Saturday night with a 49-35 victory over the McKean Highlanders.

In a game which was not expected to be especially close, the Spartans (17-5) were surprised early by the Highlanders (8-14), ending the first period with a narrow 9-6

But when St. Mark's guard Matt Willard hit a three-pointer from the top of the key just 43 seconds into the second period, the Spartans picked up some much-needed momentum and went on a rampage.

St. Mark's most powerful scoring run of the game actually began with 4:41 remaining in the first period, when senior guard Gene Kelly hit a field goal from the foul line. The Spartans would proceed on a 31-6 tear spanning the next two periods.

Willard was the driving force in the first half, scoring 12 of the Spartans 24 points on four threepointers, all of which came in the second period.

'When we were struggling offensively, [Willard] hit those four three-pointers, so he was the big story tonight," said St. Mark's coach Lee Sibley. "He got us the cushion, and we kept it there most of the Kelly, who had 13 points, said that the defense played a significant part in the Spartans' turn-around.

"A lot of our offense runs off our defense," said Kelly. "We get steals, rebounds, fast-breaks. In the beginning, we came out and our defense was good, but after [Friday night's 56-34 win over William Penn] it's probably dropped down a couple levels. For the [state] tournament we feel we have to have that defense come back

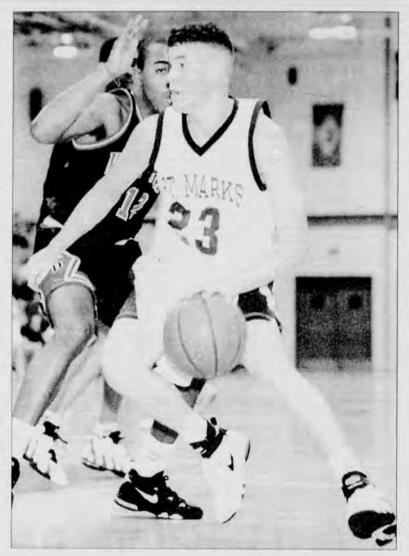

With the regular season completed, the next step for the Spartans is the state tournament. This season, St. Mark's is not entering the playoffs with an undefeated record. What, then, are the Spartans focusing on to aid in their quest for a repeat as state champions'

"If we keep up our defense like we did [Friday night] against William Penn, we should be able to be in every game," said Karlsen. "Our defense varies directly with our offense; we feed off the charge."

Along with every team in the tournament, St. Mark's will start with a clean slate. And as Kelly so aptly stated, "Once we're in [the tournament], it's one-and-done.'

High School hoop tourney heats up

St. Mark's isn't the only boys basketball team in the Newark area hoping to experience madness in March.

Glasgow, Christiana and Hodgson competed yesterday in first-round tilts after qualifying for the state high school boys basketball tournament.

Hodgson (15-7), which faced Seaford, is the most impressive. The Silver Eagles finished third in the Blue Hen Conference Flight B with an 8-4 mark, which included upsets of conference champion Howard and top-10 schools A.I. duPont and Wilmington.

Hodgson's starting five relies heavily on a trio of underclassmen, led by sophomore Lloyd Price, a firstteam Flight B selection who should merit some All-State consideration.

Shawn Harrison, a bulky sophomore center, was a second-team Flight B selection. Junior Jamie McDaniel was an honorable mention at point guard.

Christiana (9-6 in Flight A) is a small, quick team whose starting backcourt was named to the all-conference team: point guard Eddie Stafford (first team) and George McBride (second team). But the undersized Vikings faced a tough Milford team on Thursday. Being unheralded has its advantages, especially after Christiana won eight of their final nine games.

"I think we have an advantage because they're [Milford] going to take us lightly," said McBride, a senior. "We're definitely an underdog."

Glasgow, which faced Sussex Tech, may have the toughest road because the Dragons are entering the tournament without big-man Darnell Vaughan. His replacements are inexperienced.

"We played well enough to get an opportunity," said Glasgow Coach Don Haman. "That's all we can ask for.

To compensate for the Dragons' lack of size, Haman said he would rely heavily on guards Cee Cee Whittle, Bernard Williams, Davey Jones, Antwan Bell and Jearn Moultire.

Caravel's 63-34 knockout of Wilmington in the first round of the state high school girls basketball tournament Wednesday had some good news and bad news attached to it.

First the good news: The Bucs advance to the second round today. The bad news is they face Sanford, who beat them by more than 30 points during their first meeting in January.

Facing Wilmington on Wednesday, Caravel streaked to 19-4 lead behind freshman point guard Kristin Mills. Mills scored eight of the Bucs' first 12 points and got a couple of quick steals that ignited the fast break.

The Bucs never looked back, leading the Red Devils 32-9 at half-time and by as much as 32 late in the second half.

"It was still a game for us," said Mills, who led Caravel with 20 points, 9 rebounds and 9 assists. "We came out and played well right from the start. I liked the way we were fast-breaking today."

Junior center Kristen Nachstein chipped in with 12 points and 8 boards; freshman Cori Abshagen scored 10 points and junior Lisa Delcollo added 9 points.

Playing Sanford will be another story, however. "We're going to have to play a

"We're going to have to play a great game," Caravel Coach Bill McCartan said.

McCartan emphasized his team will have to score more than the 26 it scored against Sanford the first time around. But that game closely followed a disappointing loss at Padua, and Caravel's players believe they suffered a major letdown against Sanford.

"Now we want to get back at them," said Nachstein, the Bucs' leading rebounder and primary inside scorer. "If we shut down their outside shooters, we can run with them.

"After you win a game like this, it gets you even more pumped up for the next game," Nachstein added.

Delcollo said the Bucs will need other players to help Mills and Nachstein on offense, especially if Sanford decides to double-team the team's two top scorers. "We have to play together," she said. Added McCartan: "If we play

Added McCartan: "If we play well, anything can happen. We're the underdogs. We have everything to gain and nothing to lose."

The Apostles of the Historic Christian Church taught the truth about God the Son In these end times compromise of the truth or apostasy as God calls it has entered into the doctrines taught by many "Christian Churches" of the 20th Co. Jesus Christ, and they taught the truth about salvation through faith, not by works. In all of the 2000 Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod Churches through-out the world, the historic truth about God is still proclaimed and taught. The same historical truth of Jesus Christ is the underlying assumption of the academics taught at all of our schools and colleges.

The local Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod Church is: Saint John's Evangelical Lutheran Church and School 135 South Old Baltimore Pike Newark, DE 19702-1535

Daily Hindu devotions & classes Open to all interested in the profound Hindu spiritual disciplines for Body, Mind and Soul. The vital role of spirituality and an appreciation for all the great religions of the world is presented. Contact: Swami Param, P.O. Box 427 North East, MD 410

The Apostles of the Historic Christian Church taught the truth about God the Son In these end times compromise of the truth or apostasy as God calls it has entered into the doctrines taught by many "Christian Charles". Jesus Christ, and they taught the truth about salvation through faith, not by works. In all of the 2000 Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod Churches through-out the world, the historic truth about God is still proclaimed and taught. The same historical truth of Jesus Christ is the underlying assumption of the academics taught at all of our schools and colleges.

The local Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod Church is: Saint John's Evangelical Lutheran Church and School 135 South Old Baltimore Pike Newark, DE 19702-1535

6 6 It's like having 9 9 extra insurance.

Mother Nature, when she sets her mind to it, can certainly make life tough for us drivers. That's why every new Saturn is available with traction control. It actually identifies and adapts itself to the road surface you're driving on - wet pavement, snow, ice, whatever it might be. Meaning, you can always count on getting the most traction possible. And since you can't count on much else as far as the weather is concerned (like forecasts, for example), that's a very good thing. Hope to see you soon. SATURN.

If you happen to live somewhere that gets crummy weather on occasion, which, we suppose, covers just about the entire country, you might want to consider a Saturn with traction control. Traction control (along with anti-lock brakes - they make a very good team) is available on all 1996 Saturns with both automatic and manual transmissions. To find out more about how it works, just ask your Saturn retailer. @1995 Saturn Corporation. Traction Control

They treated me like I was buying a Maserati or something.

Just because you're looking to buy a used car doesn't mean you should get short-changed on courtesy. And if you stop by a Saturn showroom, you won't. Whether you're in the market for a used Saturn or another used make, you'll get the same respectful and honest treatment that all of our new car customers receive. And that includes your inalienable right to browse. Hope to survey one and death white collection is seen you soon.
