652 STUDENTS IN NEWARK SCHOOLS

Enrollment This Year Compares Favorably With 1922 Primary School Full

COLORED SCHOOL ATTENDANCE OVER 100

Miss Hatfield Resigns As Member of Faculty Here

Newark's marching hosts of school children, in white collars, new shoes and dresses starched within an inch of their several lives, came down with a rush yesterday morning upon the schools of the town, in response to the familiar bell, which has been strangely silent for the summer months. Some came gladly, others came with but a slight smile on their faces, but perhaps the majority were inclined to lag behind. However, they came in droves and everybody was happy.

In comparing the enrollment the first day with that of last year, Superintendent Owens stated that it was almost on a par. Several more students are expected in before the end of the week, having been delayed by various circumstances.

The enrollment among the white schools was set at 652, divided as follows:

High School—154.
Grammar School—287.
Primary School—211.

The Primary School enrollment was exceedingly heavy this year, while the High and Grammar grades remained about the same as last year.

It was estimated that about 100 children enrolled in the colored school yesterday, thus bringing the total first day enrollment to 752 children.

A half session was declared yesterday as the students had nothing particular to do except enroll in their courses. Beginning today the regular hours will be observed, with the exception of the Primary grade, which will continue for a week on half sessions.

Miss Hatfield Resigns

It was announced yesterday that Miss Hatfield, of Wilmington, a teacher in the grammar grades had resigned. Her place will be filled temporarily by Miss Ruth King. Miss King will be assistant dietitian at the University this year, and will hold the public school post only until College opens.

With this exception, all appointments to the teaching staff have been made and the several departments are well manned with instructors. The Newark district is one of the few in the county where there is no real shortage of teachers.

Coach Joe Wilson will have his football candidates out in a few days in preparation for the attempt to carry on the State championship for the third straight year.

GET MEDALS AT CAMP

Newark Boys Receive Honors At Citizens Training Camp

The Newark contingent at the Citizens' Military Training Camp came home last week with several medals marking their successes with the rifle during the marksmanship course at Plattsburg.

Henry Townsend, George Townsend, James Thompson and Clarence Poole received "Marksman" insignia, while James Watson performed well with the rifle, and just missed making the Camp Perry team from Delaware. He was also on the winning Company rifle team at Camp, and along with six others received a silver medal.

George Townsend and James Thompson were members of the relay team which won the Inter-Company event held towards the close of camp.

BREAKS ARM

Stanley Wilson Suffers Painful Accident Friday Last

Stanley Wilson, a young Newark boy employed in the C. B. Dean meat and grocery store on Main Street, suffered a very painful accident last Friday afternoon, when his right arm was broken in cranking a small truck belonging to his employer. Both bones were fractured near the wrists.

X-ray photographs will be taken this week to determine whether an operation will be necessary to restore the injured member to its original position.

HARDING STAMPS SOON ON SALE

Local Post Office Will Have Supply Soon—First Sheet to Mrs. Harding

WILL BE BLACK

Upon inquiry at the local Post Office yesterday, it was found that the new issue of Harding Memorial stamps will arrive in Newark as soon as it is possible to have them distributed from Washington. While the larger cities will be supplied first, it is believed that Newark will see the stamps on sale within a few days.

It is the intention of Postmaster General New to present Mrs. Harding with the first sheet of the new stamps run off the press, together with a special mounted die proof prepared from the master die. The first sales of the Harding stamps to the public was made last Saturday at Marion, Ohio, and at the philatelic agency of the Postoffice Department in Washington.

The chief of the stamp division of the department at Washington estimates it will probably take a week after the initial sales to distribute the stamps throughout the country so they will be available at all post offices. The initial order to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving of the Treasury Department is for 300,000.

MISS ECKMAN ACCEPTS

New Women's College Instructor Will Take Over Practice Teaching

An appointment of interest to School and College circles was announced recently, wherein Miss Mary Eckman, of Erie, Pa., was named by University officials to take over the work in Home Economics left by the resignation of Miss Agnes Snyder. Miss Eckman comes, it is understood, well prepared for the work, having recently been in charge of similar work in the City School System of Erie.

In addition to her work at the Women's College, Miss Eckman will take charge of the Practice Teaching work in the Newark Public Schools.

DR. HULLIHEN IS BACK FROM EUROPE

Spent Several Weeks in Paris and On Tour of Continent

MET DELAWARE BOYS

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hullihen returned from Europe late last week and arrived in Newark during the past week-end, after a six weeks' trip on the Continent.

While in France Dr. Hullihen took the opportunity to visit the Foreign Study Plan students from Delaware, and expressed himself as well pleased with the progress of the work. This pioneer work on the part of Delaware, according to Dr. Hullihen, is attracting wide attention in French college circles and the people are watching with interest. At several luncheons in Paris, Dr. Hullihen met the boys and Prof. Kirkbride, who is in charge. Ambassador Herrick entertained the group on one occasion.

PROFESSOR RESIGNS POST

Alexander Blair, Jr., Goes to University of Cincinnati This Fall

Alexander Blair, Jr., assistant professor of English at the University of Delaware resigned his post this week. It is understood that Mr. Blair will go to the University of Cincinnati, where he will probably engage in advanced work in English. It is also reported that he has accepted a position on the faculty there, but this could not be confirmed this morning.

Mr. Blair took an active interest in all University dramatics, and was responsible for many of the delightful plays which have been given there for the past two or three years. Stage lighting and decorating effects under his supervision were greatly appreciated by the audiences at the plays. He was for the past year Faculty Advisor of the Footlight's Club.

HUNDREDS ATTEND PILLING FUNERAL

Short Services Held at His Late Home Monday Afternoon—Buried at Head of Christiana

LONG FUNERAL CORTEGE

In respectful memory of one of Newark's prominent citizens, and to a man known personally by many people in this and other nearby States, hundreds of relatives and friends of the late John Pilling attended his funeral Monday afternoon of this week from the Pilling home on East Main Street. The services, in charge of the Rev. Frank Herson, were brief and impressive, and consisted of readings from the Scripture and prayer. Mr. Pilling was a member of the Society of Friends.

Noticed in the throng which attended the services and who later followed in the funeral cortege to Head of Christiana Cemetery, were many men prominent in State affairs. It was believed to have been the largest funeral held in Newark in recent years.

The pall bearers were nephews of the deceased, J. Pilling Wright, James Thompson, Norris N. Wright, Ernest B. Wright, Dr. Joel T. Boone, of Washington, D. C., and Herbert Boone, of St. Clair, Pa.

In the room where the body lay during the services, masses of floral offerings were placed. Flowers came from old friends, business associates and organizers and filled the room.

The funeral cortege was one of the longest ever seen here. A short prayer marked the extent of the burial services at Head of Christiana Cemetery.

John Pilling, aged 60 years, died at his home on East Main Street late Thursday evening. He had been ill since early last week when he had a stroke of paralysis. Dr. Joel Thompson Boone, of Washington, who was one of the physicians with President Harding when he died and who is now one of the personal physicians of President Coolidge, came to Newark twice since Mr. Pilling was stricken to consult with Dr. Walter H. Steel, the family physician. Dr. Boone is a nephew of Mrs. Pilling's.

The deceased was a son of the late (Continued on page 10)

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. George McConaughy to the marriage of their daughter, Ida Mae, to Mr. William John Kelly on Wednesday, September 12th, at six-thirty o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss McConaughy is widely known among the younger set of the community. She has for some time been on the staff of the Farmers' Trust Company of this town. Mr. Kelly also enjoys a host of friends among local people.

SMALL RIOT ENDS IN STABBING AT UNITED CANNERIES SUNDAY LAST

Frank Cawley Suffers Wound in Trying to Prevent Attack on Woman—Two Participants Lodged in Jail

EVIDENCES OF LIQUOR FOUND ON GROUNDS

The barracks given over to the use of employees of the United Canneries Corporation plant, near the Pennsylvania Station was the scene last Sunday afternoon of a small riot, brought on by two members of the force of workmen indulging in a fight.

Frank Cawley, of Baltimore, suffered a stab wound in the side and is in Delaware Hospital recovering. He also suffered bruises on his face in the melee.

Matthew Finley and Frank Merchant, also of Baltimore, were arrested by Officer Lewis following the fight and brought before Magistrate Thompson on Monday. They were committed to the Workhouse in default of $1000 bail each.

According to reports, the trouble started when Finley and Merchant, said to have been under the influence of liquor, started a fight. Finley's wife went to the aid of her husband, it is stated, and Merchant attempted to assault her. Then Cawley entered the fight with the intention of protecting Mrs. Finley. As a result he received the stab wound.

The fight became almost general and threatened to assume real proportions when a hurried call for assistance brought State policemen and county officers to the scene.

Following the fight, the officers attempted a search of the barracks for liquor supposed to have been brought in by workmen, but were unable to find it. Ex-Senator John R. Richards, one of the officials of United Canneries, was present shortly after the trouble started and aided in quelling the disturbance. James McKelvey was also soon on the scene and took care of the injured man.

Local authorities are of the opinion that liquor is being brought into the barracks at regular intervals, and is thus causing much of the recent trouble reported.

RED MEN HOLD SMOKER

Get Together Meeting Scheduled for September 25th In Lodge Rooms

The Minnehaha Tribe No. 23, Improved Order of Red Men are planning an old-time get-together smoker in their Wigwam in Fraternal Hall, East Main Street, on Tuesday evening, September 25th. The committee in charge urges all members to be present as important matters will be brought up for discussion.

DR. BROADUS MITCHELL WEDS MISS HAMMIND

Dr. Broadus Mitchell, associate professor of political economy at Johns Hopkins University, was married last Saturday in Buffalo, N. Y., to Miss Adelaide Hammond, daughter of Mrs. A. B. Hammond of Pasadena, Cal., according to a Buffalo dispatch. Dr. Mitchell is a son of Dr. S. C. Mitchell, former president of Delaware College.

The ceremony occurred several days after the arrival of Miss Hammond in Buffalo, where Dr. Mitchell was registered at a hotel.

Among those who attended the wedding are Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Mitchell, of the University of Richmond, Richmond, Va., Mr. and Mrs. George Orr Clifford of Akron, Ohio; Mrs. Hammond, the bride's mother, and Mrs. W. S. Cameron of British Columbia, the bride's grandmother.

Dr. Mitchell is associate professor of political economy at the Johns Hopkins University.

COUNCIL HAS A BUSY MEETING

Will Prohibit Gasoline Pumps Without Licenses From Town in Future—Ordinance Passed

OVER $20,000 PAID OUT ON STREET WORK

Councilmen Pleased With New "City Hall" Headquarters

The first meeting of Town Council was held last night in their new room on Academy Street. Those present were Mayor Frazer and Councilmen Widdoes, Beales, Colmery, Patchell and Grier.

The interior appointments of the new "City Hall" greatly pleased the Councilmen, and it is certain to be of great benefit to the town.

Considerable interest centered about the third and final reading of the ordinance "To Regulate the Sale of Gasoline In and Along the Streets of Newark." The aim of the ordinance is to prohibit the promiscuous erection of oil and gasoline pumps along the curb without first getting a permit from Council.

The ordinance passed its third reading with an amendment offered by Councilman Beales in which a fine of $25.00 for the first offense and $10.00 for each 24 hours the pump is in operation thereafter, was added.

$20,000 On Streets

Mrs. Hossinger in her report of the financial condition of Council said that a balance of $6,153.20 remained on September 1st. It was brought out that a sum of somewhat over $20,000 had already been paid out for the street repair program now going on in town. It was considered a remarkable bit of financing for a small town to be able to pay the bill to date without being forced to borrow extensively. The Council borrowed $4500 from a local bank a few weeks ago.

Councilmen reported that New London Avenue was in splendid condition now. A delegation inspected the new street yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Frazer notified Council that he had arranged with Contractor Lovett to start work on the grading and top dressing of Academy Street, and asked for the support of Council. That body voted to pass on Mr. Lovett's estimate of $602.50 for the work.

The secretary was instructed, after a discussion by members present, to notify several owners of property along New London Avenue to have their pavements laid within thirty days or that Council would lay them and collect at 10 per cent above cost. Three property owners are said to have notified Council that they would not put in pavements unless forced to do so.

It was ordered that Edward Watson, a colored resident of the same section, have his premises connected with town water at once. At least two wells nearby are not fit for use and occupants of the houses have been carrying water from neighbors for some time.

A committee of three, Councilmen Widdoes, Wilson and Beales, was appointed by the Mayor to confer with Wilbur Wilson, Town Engineer, relative to a communication received by Council last night.

It was brought out that charges made at the last meeting of Council to the effect that W. J. Bernard was delivering milk in Newark without a license, were unfounded.

A discussion relative to increasing the dog tax for the town was indulged in by the Councilmen. Extracts of former ordinances were read but no action was taken pending an investigation as to the procedures of other towns. Cats and chickens as a nuisance also came in for a share of the very interesting discussion.

Council adjourned about 10.30 to meet upon call of the Mayor.

MEMORIAL SERVICES TO CHARLES DAVIS

West Amwell Sunday School will hold Memorial Service in their chapel, next Sunday afternoon, September 9, 1923, at 2.45, in memory of Charles Davis. Address by Dr. W. G. Harris.

The President Appeals For Aid To Stricken Japan

"To the people of the United States:

"An overwhelming disaster has overtaken the people of the friendly nation of Japan.

"While its extent has not as yet been officially reported, enough is known to justify the statement that the cities of Tokio and Yokohama and surrounding towns and villages have been largely, if not completely, destroyed by earthquake, fire and flood, with a resultant appalling loss of life and destitution and distress, requiring measures of urgent relief.

Appeals Directly to People

"Such assistance as is within the means of the executive department of the Government will be rendered; but, realizing the great suffering which now needs relief and will need relief for days to come, I am prompted to appeal urgently to the American people, whose sympathies have always been so comprehensive to contribute in aiding the unfortunate and in giving relief to the people of Japan.

"In order that the utmost coordination and effectiveness in the administration of the relief funds be obtained, I recommend that all contributions, clearly designated, be sent to the chairman of the American National Red Cross at Washington or to any of the local Red Cross chapters for transmission to Japan."

Down on The Farm

PUTTING THE ANSWER
BEFORE THE QUESTION

Eastern farmers have not been much excited by all the fuss that has been raised about the price of wheat. Why should they? They are not growing much, if any, more than they have come to regard as the right amount and they prefer to let some of the Western States, who have not yet cut down their over expanded acreages, adjust themselves to present conditions before considering much of a change.

Still with the price of wheat tending to average down more and more closely to the old dollar standard and with the cost of labor high,—prohibitive in many instances, eastern farmers intend to conserve their wheat profits by cutting down their production costs.

Cost of production depends not so much upon how much money is spent on an acre, but rather upon how much is produced on that acre. By spending a little money for fertilizer, farmers can materially increase their acre yields. This is borne out, for example, by the investigations of Dr. A. G. McCall, of the Maryland Experiment Station, in various parts of that State. At the Chestertown field on the Eastern Shore, proper fertilization increased the yield from 15 to 28 bushels of wheat per acre.

The accompanying photographs were taken at the Leonardtown field in the southern part of the State. A few hundred pounds of a 4-8-4 fertilizer applied to the tobacco and wheat crops in a rotation of tobacco, corn, wheat, and hay gave the following 5-year average increases over crops receiving no fertilizer,—tobacco, 634 pounds per acre; corn, 12.1 bushels; wheat, 3.9 bushels; hay, 62 tons.

Methods which can thus increase the rate of production are an important answer to the question, "How shall I reduce my production costs?"

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE TO PROVIDE OFFICIAL INSPECTION ON LATE APPLES

For the past two years Delaware has shipped a larger percentage of graded fruit than ever before, and it has been proven that careful grading and packing means larger returns to the growers and satisfied customers. Now, in the interest of better grading and packing, the State Board of Agriculture, through the Bureau of Markets, has arranged for official shipping point inspection on late apples, beginning September 15th, and continuing for 30 days. This inspection will be done by experienced Government Inspectors. Two Inspectors will be located in Delaware, one at Wyoming and one at Bridgeville, the two largest shipping points. Arrangements for inspection at other points can be made by making application to the nearest inspector and furnishing transportation. If at any time the inspectors are not busy, growers may take the inspectors to their packing house and be instructed as to packing and grading in their own orchard without cost.

This inspection can only be made on the request of some one who is financially interested in the fruit; that is, the buyer, the seller, or the transportation company. The charge will be $5.00 per car, which will be paid at the time the inspection is made, and paid by the person or firm who makes the request for inspection. This charge is less than one cent per bushel, and it is a known fact that officially inspected apples bring a premium in most markets of from 10c to 25c per bushel over the ordinary fruit. This alone should convince both the buyers and the sellers of the importance of having their apples inspected.

At the time the apples are inspected, a certificate will be issued showing their exact quality and condition. This certificate is accepted as prima facie evidence of the facts in any Court, and this inspection will reduce claims and rejections.

This is the first time that shipping point inspection service has been provided in Delaware, and whether or not the service is continued will of course depend on the use that is made of it. It is hoped that growers and dealers will be quick to realize the benefits to be gained, and that it will soon be possible to provide official shipping point inspection on any Delaware product at any time of the year. This year will be an opportunity for some buyers who have complained a lot in the past about poor quality and pack, to perform a real service to themselves. Let them buy graded stock, officially inspected, and pay the growers the difference in value and they will find the growers willing to cooperate. Brokers, dealers, growers and consumers should take an active interest in this inspection work in order to provide better grading and packing.

This inspection work will be done cooperatively by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Bureau of Markets at Dover. Wilmer T. Derickson of the Bureau of Markets will be in charge of this work for the State, and the Government will appoint a Supervisor to see that the inspectors get started properly. All fruit will be inspected according to Federal grades. Buyers and consumers who obtain officially graded fruit will avoid any question

NARROWLY ESCAPE TERRIBLE DEATH

New Jersey Car Struck by Train Near Elkton
Monday

A touring car driven by Charles Wardell, of Woodbine, New Jersey, and containing four other people from the same town, was struck and completely demolished by a Pennsylvania Railroad express train at the Red Mill crossing, near Elkton, Monday last.

It appears from accounts of the accident that Wardell's car in some manner veered off the plank crossing onto the rail. Before he could get it back on the roadway, the fast express bore down upon it.

In responses to shouts from nearby people, the occupants managed to get out and fled for safety just in the nick of time.

The train could not be halted in time to avoid the accident. The car was smashed into a thousand pieces, and completely destroyed.

NEW CABLE TO SOUTH AMERICA IS PLANNED

Work Will Soon Start On 5000 Mile Stretch From
New York to Buenos Aires

Work on a new Atlantic cable to connect New York with the West Indies and the East coast of South America, will be started soon, according to officials of the All-America Cables. The new line is to be 5,000 miles long and have a capacity of 1,800 messages a day. It is to cost approximately $5,500,000.

"We would start the link between the United States and Haiti and Santo Domingo tomorrow," one of the officials of the company said, "if permission were given us to land the cable in those countries. By this I do not mean that we would start at once laying the cable, but we would start putting plans in operation so there would be as little delay as possible in the construction of the line."

Representatives of the company have been working for months in these islands and in some of the countries in eastern South America, it was said, in an effort to obtain the right to land cables and transact business there. Location of the cable will depend upon the success attending these efforts.

The company would divide the cable into about five loops of approximately 1,000 miles each, touching at Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Rio de Janeiro, Pernambuco, one point in Venezuela, Haiti and Santo Domingo and thence to New York City. Should the company fail to obtain the grants it seeks the line, it was said, might be constructed to take in one or two points in the northern part of South America and then connect with Cuba and then with the United States.

The additional cable will give the All-America Company cables practically surrounding South America, the present cable lines of that company go via Cuba, Panama and thence down the West Coast of South America as far as Valparaiso. From Valparaiso overland connections are made with Buenos Aires and thence again by cable to Rio de Janeiro.

Besides touching countries not now directly reached by the All-America Company, the proposed line would increase the facilities of the company in handling messages between the United States and South America. Present capacity of the cable lines is approximately 5,500 messages a day. Even though the cable were divided into five loops for the purpose of increasing the number of points touched and adding to the business, it would not interfere with rapid transmission of messages, it was said, because automatic relays will be used.

Plans for financing the project have been worked out. By the time construction was completed, officials said, the arrangements for laying the cable would also be completed, so that the cable could be put down with little delay.

An anticipated increase in business between the United States and South America in the future is one reason for the new cable. Recently, part of the trade between the United States and South America which was lost during the war has been revived, as indicated by the cable business.

as to quality. Growers should sell officially graded fruit, establish their own brand, have satisfied customers and secure the increased value in price.

ROAD PATRIOTISM

"Honor the flag; it is the symbol of your country. There is no better, nor can there be one better.

Thus are children taught, and truly. But they should also be taught that while no man may improve the flag, all men may strive to improve the country for which the flag stands. Why should this, the greatest Nation, have the worst roads? Why should the children of the most enlightened Nation, have the greatest difficulty of getting to the best idea in education the word has ever seen, the public school?"

The children of today are the voters, the legislators, the officials, one of them the President, of tomorrow. Building an adequate system of National Highways for the United States is not to be accomplished overnight. It is a matter of years. . . . years and education.

Therefore, teach children not only to honor the flag which all revere, but to make the country for which it stands even more worthy of honor, by building good roads through its length and breadth, that all may have the social, moral, economic, and humanitarian benefits which come from quick, easy, inexpensive, and rapid transportation.

A ROAD IS AS GOOD

AS THE WORST MILE

A small dog, barking loudly, chased madly after a passing express train up a country railroad station platform.

"What makes him run after it?" asked a traveler of the station agent, owner of the dog.

"I dunno," answered the agent, thoughtfully. "But that never bothered me so much as what will he do with it if he ever catches it!"

There are many communities which talk loudly about the need of good roads, the value of good roads, the use of good roads. They talk themselves into a bond issue, or a road tax, and build, one, two, ten miles of good roads. Too often those miles neither

Little Frederick, en route with his parents, was put to bed in the lower across the aisle from them, an elderly gentleman occupying the upper over him. It was Freddie's first sleeping car experience and he was a little nervous. His mother, to reassure him, said, "Now don't be afraid, mamma and daddy will be just across the aisle, and you know God is always with you."

After the lights were turned out that lonesome feeling got too much for him and he called out:

"Mother, are you there?"

"Yes, darling," mother answered, "I'm here."

"Daddy"—a moment later—"are you there?"

"Yes, son. I'm here. Go to sleep like a good boy."

In a moment the questions were repeated, with answers satisfactory for the time being—to Freddie, if not to the other passengers.

After a short silence his voice again cut through the car with "Mother, are you there?"

A deep voice from above announced:

"Yes, your mother is there and your father is there and I am here."

Then came Freddie's tremulous query:

"Mother, was that God?"—Pullman News.

The first two men up in the ninth stanza for the home team scratched out singles and Ward, the clever all-around first baseman for the home team, came through with a two-bagger through short stop and won the victory, 2 to 0.

Few of these sportsmen reported any large bags of game, however. They all found the birds scarce and poorly fed. The reed birds, it was said, were flying unusually high and few shots were to be had.

A LOGICAL MIND

A gentleman who was a member of one of the aristocratic London clubs had his umbrella taken from the rack by some other member. Naturally, he was offended, and promptly affixed this notice to the club bulletin board: "The nobleman who took away an umbrella not his own on February 20th will please have the goodness to return it to the rack."

The House Committee did not like the form of the notice and had the member before them.

"Why should you suppose a nobleman took your umbrella?"—they asked him.

"Well," replied the aggrieved member, "the constitution of the club says that the members must be noblemen or gentlemen, and he was no gentleman who took my umbrella."—The Youth's Companion.

TWO ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Enroute to Berwyn, Pa., Demolished Near Roseville Saturday

A nasty accident occurred about a mile from Newark town limits, near the Roseville Bridge along the Lincoln Highway, Saturday night and resulted in two people being injured.

A Ford touring car enroute from Washington, D. C., to Berwyn, Pa., was struck by another car going in the same direction near the bridge and overturned, being almost completely wrecked. Aaron Shank, Berwyn, and Norman Harkins, of Balls-town, Va., were badly cut about the legs and arms. Paul Sullivan, of Clarendon, Va., escaped with slight bruises.

The injured were taken to Wilmington by William G. Lyttle, where they told the story of the accident to police officials. They left by train for Berwyn later in the evening.

While in Wilmington, they gave the police a description of the car which struck them. It was said that no attempt was made to stop and render aid to the injured people. Police are on the lookout for the involved machine and its driver.

Ducks and swallows are believed to fly as fast as 100 miles an hour at times.

They (the signers of the Declaration of Independence) meant to set up a standard maxim for free society, which should be familiar to all, and revered by all; constantly looked to; constantly labored for. . . Its authors meant it to be . . . a stumbling block to all those who, in after-times, might seek to turn a free people back into the hateful paths of despotism. They knew the proneness of prosperity to breed tyrants, and they meant when such should reappear in this fair land and commence their vocation, they should find left for them at least one hard nut to crack. —Lincoln.

Summer Experiences

Every day now brings more returning vacationists. New scenes, new faces, new ideas, away from the daily activities of the year made humdrum in routine, have given a fresh view on life and work. Fall colors, crisp air, school, autumn games on gridiron and links are approaching. Soon, our clubs and organizations will begin another year's program. The spirit and joy of work is coming back. Those who have been fortunate to see other communities with their methods of increasing prosperity and happiness should be free in telling us stay-at-homes of their experiences and observations.

The possibilities of this community cannot be surpassed and by a pooling of the experiences of our summer travellers we can better realize the Town we want to be.

So good friends, returning, give freely of your experiences this summer and thereby render a service that is truly worth while.

WANTED FACTS NOT THEORIES

Just What Is Our Obligation To Europe

"Our internationalist editors, story writers and lecturers are very flippant in their use of terms," declares Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "Such words as 'isolation,' 'aloofness' and 'desertion' are applied to the attitude of the United States towards Europe with the utmost nonchalance. With reckless abandon we are told that we should rush to the aid of Europe and rescue those countries from the chaos that impends. Probably not one of those writers and talkers has a single specific suggestion as to the form such aid and rescue should take which he would dare advocate before a typical American audience. The loose generalities in which they indulge have a beneficent sound to the public ear, and in the public mind have a sort of detached relation to the government at Washington. Probably not one person in a thousand stops to consider what the United States would have to do to clear up the European situation, or what sacrifice it would bring to him personally.

"Is it not about time for our alien propagandists to abandon their appeals for sympathy and get down to facts and figures? Disregarding for the moment the enormous contributions the United States has already made toward the rehabilitation of Europe, the huge accretions of territory and natural wealth which the allies won as a result of the war, and the refusal of this country to accept any of the spoils of war, just what is the obligation which those people conceive we now owe to Europe? "Do they wish us to cancel the $11,000,000,000 debts owed by Europe to the United States

Treasury, and increase the taxes on our own people sufficiently to make up that amount? If so, let them courageously advocate such a policy and not cowardly hide behind a general plea for 'aid to Europe.'

"Do they want the United States Senate to ratify the treaty submitted to it by former President Wilson, whereby this country would guarantee France against any future aggressions from Germany? If so, let them declare themselves and candidly tell the people what they think it would cost them in men and money to make the Franco-German boundary secure.

"Do they want the United States to accept German bonds in lieu of the allied debt obligations now held by our Treasury, and then look to Germany for future payment of those bonds? That scheme has been suggested abroad more than once, and would undoubtedly bring great relief to Europe. If that is their plan let the propagandists boldly advocate American reorganization of German finance, the stationing of American tax collectors in all the German ports and cities, and whatever else may be necessary to get our money back.

"Do they want an American army sent to drive the French out of the Ruhr? If so, let them come forth and urge such a program upon American mothers and taxpayers.

"Do they want us to join the League of Nations and perform the onerous duties under the covenants that have been shirked by every one of its signers? If so, let them have the courage to demand such a course from the 16,000,000 voters who denounced that instrument in 1920.

"If those suggestions do not include the program of the European aiders and rescuers at the expense of the United States, will they please give us enlightenment? No matter what further 'aid' may be extended, the price has got to be paid by American men and women, by American taxpayers and producers. It is only fair to them that they be given some inkling of what is in store."

A Plea for Music in the School and Community Life

To the Editor of THE NEWARK POST:

As almost every reader of THE POST must know, the interest in public school music during the past few years has been manifested in a variety of ways throughout the country. The growth in the school music field has created a demand for teachers and supervisors that has been difficult to meet. And yet Newark, with all its wonderful educational advantages, for some reason has escaped the crying need of music in the public schools. Our future citizens are trained in the schools, and if music forms an important factor of the school curriculum and is carried on in a proper way, music will play an important part in adult life of the future. The appeal of music is universal; everybody responds to it in some form, and if the child's natural interest in it can be fostered throughout his school career, America will become in time a nation of real music lovers.

Newark is a beautiful town, one of the most comfortable towns in which it has been the writer's privilege to live. Its prosperity is significant in its sufficient and comfortable homes, opportunity for regular employment, up-to-date business, public improvements, good churches, and a university that well might be a source of pride and satisfaction to the entire community.

But the children. What are the public schools doing for them in the way of developing that greatest gift of all—the gift of music? It may be song, it may be any one of the many musical instruments, or it may be a fine appreciation of the best in music. Whatever it is, every child is keenly responsive to music, and many a

Letter from Reverend Dr. Jones

Newark, Del.
Aug. 30th, '23.

To the Editor of the NEWARK POST Newark, Del.

Dear Sir: An item in reference to myself on your front page in this week's issue of your popular weekly rather discomfited me.

Some time ago you gazetted me as "The Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Cincinnati, Ohio." Today I have been reduced in the ranks, and am merely "assistant to the Rector of St. Paul's Cathedral." When I received my promotion, needless to say I was pleased, and after timely consideration placed my resignation of my present parish in the hands of my Vestry. But now I have been demoted by you to the office of "Assistant to the rector," I shall have to reconsider my resignation of St. Thomas' Church, for "assistant to the rector may mean his errand boy or his chauffeur, or his valet or any one of a hundred things and certainly does not mean anything of real importance in my profession. I am very sorry that you saw fit to "reduce me" since as far as I know I have done nothing that would call for such drastic treatment on your part. But I would like a certain measure of stability to enter into your ecclesiastical appointments as they affect me, for such a fluctuating of appointments, to say the least, is a source of material embarrassment to me and my family. Would it be too much, therefore, to ask that before again changing my ecclesiastical status you inform me of your decision. This, I am sure, is not asking too much of you and it will be a real kindness to me.

I remain

Cordially yours
EDGAR JONES.

YES—WE MADE A MISTAKE

We made a mistake in last week's issue of the Sentinel. A good subscriber told us about it. The same day there was a letter in our post office box that didn't belong to us. We called for ninety-eight over the telephone and got 198. We asked for a spool of No. 50 thread and when we got home we found it was No. 60. The train was reported thirty minutes late. We arrived at the depot twenty minutes after train time and the train was gone. We got our milk bill and there was a mistake of 10 cents in our favor. We felt sick and the doctor said we were eating too much meat. We hadn't tasted meat for two months. The garage man said the jitney was missing because it needed a new timer. We cleaned a spark plug and it's run fine ever since. Yes, we made a mistake in last week's issue of the paper.—Glen Elder (Kan.) Sentinel.

A War Prayer

MARK TWAIN

O Lord our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the wounded, writhing in pain; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless, with their little children to wander unfriended through wastes of their desolated lands in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of the sun flames of summer and the icy winds of winter, broken in spirit, worn with travail, imploring Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet! We ask of one who is the spirit of love and who is the ever-faithful refuge and friend of all that are sore beset and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer, O Lord, and Thine shall be the praise and honor and glory now and ever. Amen.

Mark Twain said of this prayer, "I have told the whole truth in that, and only dead men can tell the whole truth in this world. It can be published after I am dead."

And it was.

NO WONDER

The ship captain and the chief engineer had a dispute as to which was the most important man aboard the ship and agreed to change places.

Soon the captain came up covered with oil and grease. "Chief!" he called, "you'll have to come down here. I can't make her go."

"Of course you can't," replied the chief; "she's ashore."

WHAT IS NEWS?

A Weekly Experience In Every Newspaper Office

People are continually coming to a newspaper office with articles they want published or to keep something from being published. Usually they know much more than the newspaper man about what should or should not be printed, and their modesty doesn't prevent their telling him about it. Often they take it for granted that all that is necessary to get something in the paper, or to keep something out, is to make known what they want. Because they subscribe for the paper or carry advertising in it they feel free to dictate its policy under threat of "stopping the paper" or discontinuing their advertising.

Such people forget that each of them is only one of thousands who are reading the publication, and that the thousands may wish to read the very story that the one wants suppressed. They forget that a newspaper owes fair treatment to all of its readers and that it betrays its trust if it "plays favorites," printing news about some people and withholding it about others. When they have done something that does not reflect credit on themselves, they ask the paper to protect their families or friends from publicity they have brought on them, although it is as much the newspaper's duty to print the news as it was the duty of the offender to protect those near to him by doing nothing that would cause them pain or sorrow. He tries to shift responsibility to the paper instead of recognizing his own.

One individual's conduct brings him into contact with prohibition officers. He has read scores of like stories, but when his appears he cancels his advertising contract. Another has an unfortunate incident at his home that injures someone else and arouses outside interest. He cancels his advertising contract when the news is printed. A third violates a traffic rule and when the public is told about it he stops taking the paper, which is a yellow rag, anyhow." None of them considers that no reputable newspaper attempts to sell its circulation or advertising space on anything but their merits, that it believes it is giving money's worth, and that the cancellation is doing more damage to the person who loses the space or the paper than to the publication, if he needed it in the first place.

A newspaper must have and follow rules governing the character of the matter it publishes in its news columns. The best rule we know anything about is to print whatever has news value, no matter who is concerned in it, without fear or favor. We aim to print all the news that is fit to print, just as we aim to make our paper worth the subscription price and our advertising worth space rate. If it's news we must print it—and we must decide what is news.—
Marietta (O.) Times.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION AT UNIVERSITY TO BE INCREASED

Special Faculty Committee Worked Out System Approved by Trustees

HONOR POINTS TO DECIDE GRADUATION

Some important changes in the requirements for graduation have been made and will become effective with the reopening of Delaware College, University of Delaware, this month. The changes will especially affect the School of Arts and Science. They were worked out last year by a special committee of the faculty and adopted by the Faculty and approved by the Board of Trustees.

The following general statement and also new requirements for graduation have been prepared by the University authorities:

General Statement

The School of Arts and Science offers instruction in the following general fields of knowledge: Literature, history and social sciences, philosophy, psychology and education, and mathematics and science. Through a proper selection of courses of study in these fields, a student may obtain an adequate foundation for study after graduation in preparation for professional or business life; or through a greater amount of specialization than is implied in the foregoing plan, fit himself for immediate usefulness in the fields of secondary education, business, chemistry, biology, science, and public service.

To assist the student in the carrying out of one or the other of these plans, the following curricula have been formulated: General course, secondary education, business, chemistry, biological sciences, public service, pre-ministry, pre-medicine, pre-law, pre-journalism.

In the organization and administration of these curricula, the School of Arts and Science recognizes as its fundamental aims the following: to give instruction in those subjects a study of which is essential to the highest type of citizenship; to discover and stimulate the special aptitudes and interests of students; to lay the foundations for later professional specialization; and to give the technical instruction necessary in preparation for certain occupational careers.

Degree Conferred

The degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred upon all students who complete satisfactorily the requirements for graduation in the School of Arts and Science.

Candidates for graduation are required to complete a minimum of 120 credit-term-hours of work in addition to military science and physical education. The exact number of credit hours is determined by the curriculum elected by the student.

Candidates for a degree must also obtain sixty honor points to be estimated on the basis of two points for the grade of A in a one-credit term hour course, and one point for the grade of B in a one-credit-term-hour course.

Each student must have a good reading knowledge of at least one foreign modern language. This requirement will be fulfilled by the passing of a general examination conducted by the Modern Language Department. In general a student must satisfy this requirement before the beginning of his Junior year.

Any student found to be deficient in English at any time after the close of his Freshman year will be required to take an additional half-year of English composition, one hour a week without credit.

Each student must, at the close of undertake a certain amount of general reading in the fields of literature, history and social sciences, philosophy, psychology, and education, and mathematics and science, under the guidance of the committee of faculty advisers of curricula. At the close of his junior year each student will be required to sustain an examination designed to show his grasp of the assigned reading.

Each student must, at the close of his senior year, either present a thesis or sustain a one-hour oral examination in his department of major study. The department concerned will determine which of these requirements shall be met by the student. For oral examinations the examining board shall consist of three professors, two professors, where possible, from the department of major study, and at least one additional professor from the department of minor study.

All students are required to take four years' work in military science and tactics, four years' work in physical education, and the orientation course for freshmen.

Since that time the Company has been very active with an operating capital of over $200,000.00, and has been very successful under the present management with Ira S. Dunkle as Secretary and Treasurer in charge of the business. During the first four months a handsome profit was made on the Company's operations and on July 1st the first quarterly dividend was paid promptly.

PURPOSE OF PRESENT ISSUE:

The purpose of the release of the present issue of $50,000.00 is to give the Company some additional capital which can be very easily used at the present time.

With this additional capital the Company will be able to increase its earnings, and, in our opinion, should very soon be able to pay from 10 to 12% on both Common and Preferred Stock. The Preferred Stock now issued is guaranteed by $100,000.00 paid in Common Stock, both as to principal and as to quarterly dividends, and with the participating privilege to 12%, it is especially attractive and is highly recommended by us as good safe investment.

Only a portion of this issue will be sold to the public, the remainder being reserved for the present stockholders.

MASONS PREPARING FOR CELEBRATION

Many From This Community Will Attend Corner Stone Laying of Washington Memorial

DATE IS NOVEMBER 1st

Many Newark Masons are expected to join those from all over the State in attending the laying of the corner stone of the new Washington Masonic National Memorial, in process of construction at Alexandria, Va. This memorial will be the largest and most imposing of any such building in the world, it is said. George Washington was one of the early members of the Masonic Lodge in America.

A meeting of the committee for Delaware, recently appointed by Grand Master Charles A. Bamberger, was held at the Masonic Temple, Wilmington, last week, when Chester R. Jones was elected chairman and Kenneth Horn, secretary. Committees on transportation, notices, publicity and food were named. The next meeting of the general committee will be held at the Masonic Temple, Saturday night, September 8.

The memorial, which is declared to be the most imposing ever erected in honor of any man, will be built on Shooters' Hill, along the Arlington Ridge and commanding a view of the city of Washington, of Mount Vernon and of all the country most frequented by George Washington.

The structure will exceed in size all the other great monuments heretofore erected in the national capital and immediate environs. It will be 230 feet in depth by 160 feet in width and its height will be 200 feet. It will be in classical style, of enduring granite, and its cost when completed will be $4,000,000.

The committee for Delaware plans to arouse a lot of interest in the corner stone laying, so that it will be necessary to have several special trains to carry the delegation from this State to Alexandria.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHTING IN EGG PRODUCTION

Center of Egg-Laying Industry In New Jersey Torn By Opposing Views

NOT USED HERE

Local poultrymen watched with intense interest the discussion recently among fellow chicken fanciers in South Jersey, principally in the Vineland district.

Artificial lighting is being practiced extensively in that community, and of late considerable opposition has arisen against the "daylight saving" system. There seems to be a divided opinion in Newark and community over the self same issue.

Following is a brief discussion of the argument against the practice, taken from a Vineland daily:

"Recent disclosures that attack the principle of artificial lights applied to egg production continues to be the chief topic of discussion among poultrymen of the Vineland community, whose holdings in all number over a million and a quarter hens.

"Attacked by some sort of weakness or infection, several commercial ranches are faced with a puzzling menace to their flocks, causing sore eyes, low vitality and a high death rate; this in addition to an almost total cessation of production.

"One wing of the poultry colony ascribes this to overwork and excessive working hours of the hens, induced by artificial lighting, both in the early morning and late at night.

This theory is denied by the champions of artificial lighting, who insist that the principle has been abused and that the weakness has been induced by over-greed; that artificial lighting in reason, never permitting egg production to go over 60 per cent is not only harmless, but greatly increases the output of eggs, notably in the early spring months when eggs are at their highest point.

"Still another theory is that the affection overtaking the laying birds is in no way associated with the lights, but is a parasite that for some years past has raged more or less in the California and other producing districts.

Looks Like Sense

"In an interview Saturday with one of the most successful of the South Vineland pountrymen, the latter, who desires his name withheld, advances the following theory that, on its face, looks sound:

"Keep the lights away from your breeding stock," was his warning. "It is but natural that forced production stands for weakened vitality in the long run and weakened brood stock cannot but result in weakened chicks. In fact I have known this to reach a point where there was but a 20 per cent hatch, due to feeble fertility.

"The hens seem to hold up the first year, but fall off the second; or at least that is my observation. Also that it will not work when applied to successive generations. I use the lighting system for my commercial laying flocks, but never on my breeding flocks, either for personal use or to go out as hatching eggs or baby chicks. It is imperative that you keep the foundation of your flocks to the highest point of reproductive vigor, and in order to reach this you cannot afford to stimulate egg production further than in the natural order."

WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE ECLIPSE OF THE SUN ON SEPTEMBER 10th

Several Arrangements Here Given Which Will Enable the Amateur Astronomer To Get A Glimpse of the Phenomenon

USES OF THE CAMERA IN GETTING VIEWS OF ECLIPSE

This great astronomical event will be visible in its natural phases in all parts of North America, and although the darkening will be total in only a small part of California and Mexico, the amateur can make many observations at home without the trouble of travelling to this area.

Amateur observations, like those of professional astronomers, can be both visual and photographic.

Plan your program carefully in advance of the eclipse time. Pick out a location from which the sun will be easily visible and where no smoke, dust or clouds are likely to obscure the spectacle.

Dozens of crescent suns can be observed if you will look under shady trees and on tree shaded walls while the eclipse is in its partial phases. These images, with the horns of the crescents turned in an opposite direction to those of the sun above, have a striking appearance. Tiny holes in the leaves act as lenses, as they do in pin-hole cameras, and form the images with the ground or wall as a screen. In ordinary times when the sunlight is not in conflict with the moon, the sunlight filters through the leaves in a series of tiny, overlapping disks on the grounds, each round since it is an image of the sun. In photographing the crescent images of the eclipse period, an ordinary snapshot exposure with a large stop in the lens may be used. These exposures should be developed full time. Because of the fact that the images obtained with ordinary hand cameras will be quite small, it is recommended that enlargements be made and these enlarged pictures should prove very attractive.

For observing the sun directly, the old and tried method of smoking a piece of glass over a fish-tail gas jet or with a candle will prove satisfactory. This smoked glass should be prepared before the time of eclipse so as to obtain a carbon coating of proper density. Dark spectacles will be popular with those who do not wish to get their hands dirty. A photographic film or plate that has been exposed to the light and developed can also be used.

With such eye shields it will be possible, by beginning observations a few minutes before the predicted time of the eclipse, to check up on the actual time that the moon first infringes on the sun's disk. The magnitude of the eclipse, or the amount of the sun's diameter that is covered that which would be given normally, by the moon can also be estimated through the protectors and also the time that the moon passes off and ends the eclipse should be noted. A drawing of the sun showing the location of the points at which the eclipse began and ended would be an interesting record.

The eye strain of looking directly at the sun can be obviated by using the pin-hole method of observation. A hole is punched with a fine needle through a piece of cardboard or dark film and a smooth white card is used as a screen. The needle-hole acts as a lens, since it is so small. Rays from opposite edges of the sun pass each other in going through the hole and the result is a perfect image of the sun on the cardboard that can be enlarged if desired with a small magnifying glass. This simple apparatus can be constructed and tried out on the un eclipsed sun.

To get the most effective and interesting photograph of the partial eclipse, a series of exposures should be made at intervals of say five minutes, covering the duration of the eclipse. For this the camera should be placed on a tripod, the legs of which are arranged so that the camera points upward sufficiently to show the image of the sun in the upper right corner of the Kodak finder. All preparations should, of course, be made before the eclipse starts.

In localities where the eclipse starts with the sun low enough in the sky, it would add to the pictorial value of the picture to include the horizon line in the picture area. As to exposure, it is suggested that the smallest stop be used in the lens and that the shutter be set for fastest speed. Then make one exposure every five minutes without turning the film for the duration of eclipse. A single exposure can, of course, be made of the eclipse, in which case, the camera can be held in the hands, but a succession of images at equal distances apart will make a more effective showing.

A color filter would add in preventing overexposure if the day is unusually clear, and the atmosphere free from haze. No change should be made, however, in the stop and shutter speed combination mentioned above, even if a very deep colored filter, such as the "G", is used on the lens. In place of the filter, a piece of film that has been flashed to light and developed to a good density could be used in front of the camera lens to prevent over-exposure. It is also recommended, that if the sun is not obscured by clouds, that the time of development be reduced to one half of

Where the eclipse is total, however, the camera should be placed on a tripod and a succession of exposures of 2, 5, 10, 20, 40 and 60 seconds made the film being wound a complete turn of the winding key between each exposure. A filter or piece of film should be used in front of the lens when photographing a total eclipse. Such a series of exposures just mentioned should give interesting studies that which one can have the thrills of an astronomer during the coming eclipse of the sun, Monday, September 10.

of the eclipse and the sun's corona. The corona can neither be seen nor photographed except where the eclipse is total. A record could be obtained with a pin-hole camera, but to make a really successful camera of this sort requires little knowledge of photography and would necessitate some previous experimenting as to exposure time.

The common box camera equipped with lens and shutter will make excellent pictures.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

A pretty wedding of much interest took place Saturday afternoon last in Newark when Miss Sarah E. Walhraven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Walhraven, of North College Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Clarence J. Fox, also of Newark. The wedding took place at the bride's home at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal Church, had charge of the ceremony.

The immediate attendants at the wedding were Miss Mary S. Rash, of St. Georges, Del., and Mr. Pierce Fox, of Bear Station, who was best man. The house was tastefully decorated with flowers and plants and many guests were present from Newark, St. Georges, and other nearby points. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip.

"Dust," a comedy-drama of American life, presented by a splendid cast under the management of Oliver Morosco...

"Dust" deals with a subject which is very near and dear to a large proportion of the proletariat—namely the zeal, fervor and fine spirit which pervades that wonderful band of men—the Catholic clergy...

Rev. Father Kennedy, of Newark, N. J., has declared the play is not offensive to the Catholic religion. Prior to sending the play on tour Morosco decided that he wanted the views of a Catholic priest on the play...

Father Kennedy witnessed a special rehearsal and afterward stated the "priest" of the play throws no reflection on the cloth and church.

The play has many intense and highly dramatic moments, while it is also richly flavored with a wealth of comedy of the cleanest and most wholesome sort.

Mr. Morosco has assembled a typical Morosco cast of prominent Broadway favorites for its presentation which includes Taylor Holmes, Selma Paley, Juliette Day, Grace Valentine, James Spottswood, Barney Gilmore, Douglas Wood, Edwin Forsberg, Jennie Lamont and Doris Moore.

MARYLAND'S BURIED TREASURES Nearly Every District in the State Has Legend of Hidden Wealth

Buried treasure is the theme of many a Maryland legend. From the East Shore, along whose bays and creeks plutocratic pirates are reputed to have stored their wealth, to the mountains where Bergdoll is said to have hidden his gold, nearly every district has its tale of buried wealth and its hope of finding easy money.

With George Washington as his guide, General Edward Braddock led a mixed column of British regulars and Virginia militia westward toward Fort Duquesne in the spring of 1755. Though destined to disaster, the campaign in its early stages was a colorful adventure that stirred the admiration of the colonies.

The march was seriously handicapped by lack of transport, but Benjamin Franklin took hold of that difficulty with his customary energy. As Postmaster-General he drew upon colonial resources. As the leader of the Pennsylvania legislature he obtained public grants to aid the expedition.

There is a frontier village that is now one of the loveliest of America's historic towns, the wise statesman listened to the headstrong soldier's campaign plan. Braddock thought that Fort Duquesne might delay him three days or so, after which he would march on to Niagara and winter there.

In his ignorance of frontier conditions, so the story runs, Braddock carried with him a large stock of money with which to pay his troops and buy supplies enroute. This was good practice in settled regions, but the specie would have been useless in the wilderness that lay between Frederick and Fort Duquesne.

mountain ridge that bears his name. There are several reasons for not believing the story. Washington, a thrifty and honest man, would have gone back and salvaged the treasure for the King, providing he had known its whereabouts.

Nevertheless the tradition persists that for many years after Braddock's defeat officers and men who had fought with him returned to Braddock's Ridge to prospect for the treasure, always without success.

IF YOU CAN'T PLAY GOLF DON'T EXERCISE So Says Doctor in Speaking of Weak Hearts and Sports

No good can result to any one from trying to frighten old men out of playing golf by raising a bogey that it's too violent an exercise for them, in the opinion of Dr. A. K. Haywood, superintendent of Montreal General Hospital in Quebec.

"The death rate among people in normal health over 40 years of age is 1 per cent," Dr. Haywood explained. "That 1 per cent is going to die somewhere in any case, whether they play golf or not."

"There are, of course, a few people who should not take violent exercise," the doctor continued. "Sufferers from angina pectoris and other serious heart afflictions should make sure of their physical condition before doing any severe muscular exercise, but there is more violent exercise in running up a flight of stairs than in the average game of golf, and any old gentleman who is not physically fit to play golf should be very careful about taking any exercise at all."

GOLF SHOULD BE PLACED WITHIN REACH OF EVERYONE, SAYS WALTER CAMP

NOTED AUTHORITY ON ATHLETICS ALSO DEPLORES TENDENCIES TO ALTER COURSES

(Extracts from Colliers) How to bring golf within reach of the great number of people who simply can't afford to play, is the problem...

again to the home land of golf and learn how the game should be administered so that the bank roll shall not be a more important club than the mashie niblick.

to build or take care of as the artificial platforms to be seen on practically every American course.

"Second, the fairways. There can also be a decided economy affected in the construction and upkeep of fairways. Some years ago I asked an Englishman who has played several American courses what he thought of them. 'They are very good,' he said, 'but most of the time it seems as if you were playing on a soft billiard table.'"

Not being content with merely pointing out dangers which confront the average small golf club in the average American town, Mr. Camp further takes occasion to make a few suggestions which might help bring the game within reach of Mr. Common Citizen.

We hold no brief for Mr. Camp, nor for that matter for golf clubs, but there are real truths in Mr. Camp's sentences which, we think, should interest every golfer, expert or "duffer," and particularly the hard-working chap who longingly hungers for the feel of a club, but who "simply can't afford it."

"Practical suggestion number one, then, on ways and means to cut down the cost of golf is to let the course alone once it has been laid out. Don't spend extra thousands of dollars to make a more difficult test out of a course which is already hard enough to test the best game of the duffer player who plays the hills! Don't be deluded by the urge: 'Let's make ours a championship course!'

"First, the tees. On practically all our courses the tees are artificially made, built-up affairs. There is a lot of extra expense in the construction of such tees, but of what advantage? The one function of the tee is to mark a spot from which the player must start his first shot to the hole. If that is the case, a marked-off space on the ground is sufficient. Most of the British tees are limited to such marked-off spaces, and are not as expensive

"Even the duffer (who pays the bills) can probably drive 125 yards. Why, then, should territory within 125 yards of the tee be kept as carefully as a well-clipped lawn fronting a private home? If the duffer miserably tops his shot or shoots a feeble pop-up that travels only 50 to 75 yards, he should be forced to play from the rough.

"Third, the greens. The Scotch have a plan of using a single large green for two holes. Many of the greens at the Scotch St. Andrews are double-hole affairs, as the outward and homeward nines parallel each other. It is obvious that the cost of maintaining one huge green in good condition will be less than that of caring for two smaller greens. This is practical, of course, only where greens come near together; but it should be done wherever it is possible, not only because it effects a money saving, but because it adds a shot which we don't get on our 'handkerchief greens'—that is, the long-approach putt."

DELAWARE TEAM MAY BE PROBLEM

Coach McAvoy Handicapped By Lack of Seasoned Material

With the approach of September, considerable speculation as to the probable strength of the Delaware football team this year is being heard on the street. Just how the team will line up in the first game is still to be decided.

As has been the rule for the past three years, a training trip covering a period of about two weeks will be indulged in again next month. These trips are for the purpose of drilling the men in the fundamentals of the game, which in their stiffened condition for the hard grind ahead.

Delaware's season starts shortly after college opens in late September. As a result, the players must be in fairly good shape before the opening struggle, else they may receive injuries, which in their stiffened condition, may take weeks to throw off.

Many Stars Return To get an idea as to the material which may make up the Varsity for the season of 1923, it is necessary to cull over the men who wore the Blue and Gold in last year's campaign and see who will be in uniform again.

In the backfield, Mac has five good men upon whom to start work. These men are "Ike" Elliott, Harvey MacDonald, "Jack" Williams, "Soak" Jackson, and Weggenmann. There seems to be some question as to whether or not MacDonald will return to college. At the termination of last semester, MacDonald felt that he would like to take a trip to Penn State and finish his course in that institution. But late rumors have it that MacDonald will return to Delaware for the completion of his course in the Arts and Science School.

Jackson will be certain to be ready for the initial practice. The recent award of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club of a $250 scholarship will assure Jackson of sufficient cash to pursue the studies which he expected to have to discontinue.

MR. SPIVUS SEES THE FAIR

Cooch's Bridge, Del. Labor Day.

Yes, Mr. Ticker:

The fellow who named this Labor Day was one of the best in the business, and I know that to be a fact, for I never worked so hard in all my short and brilliant career as I did today.

Well that all brings us back to the Fair. Well, sir, I been goin to County Fairs for years and years, been to Oxford, in the old days when they had the three-shell games going strong, and once I was at Harrington, Del.

But let me tell you this here Wilmington Fair nigh took my breath away. Never did see so many people, smell so many smells, nor see so many swell cows and hoeses.

I took Sally Ann and the buckboard and went up Thursday. Couldn't find a hitchin post on the whole grounds. These danged teakettles and cornsheller automobiles take up all the room anyhow.

They had more excitement Thursday than you could shake a chunk at. Right off the reel, some African driver tried to get off his sulky when a rein broke, changed his mind, and fell off. He bounced twice, and came up runnin, much to the delight of the stands.

Thrill No. 2 came when some kid from out in Brandywine Hundred started on a personally conducted Marathon race around the track. He had nothin but a halter on his fiery steed. So when he passes by the judge's stand on the seventeenth lap, (more or less) the judge he hollers, "Boy, take that hoss off the track." And the boy he looks up and hollers back, "that's what I been trying to do for the last two miles."

The poor kid finally sees a hole in the fence and they dashes through and the kid rolls off with great abandon.

Thrill No. 3 occurred during the Auto Polo game, which by the way, Mr. Ticker, is murder, sudden death and suicide all rolled up into one. Them durned fools got so mad at each other that during the course of the match, they quit ridin' their Fords and went to fighting right out on the track in front of the grandstand.

Two broken down Fords. Three ruined tires. Four badly injured tempers.

I guess all the politicians in Delaware was at the Fair Thursday. I told Sally Ann that I'd like to vote for all of them so there wouldn't be no hard feelings, but Tom Green says if I don't vote for demberats, he will kill all my chances for being tax collector for my district.

Trustin that you can tell me who this bird is what invented Labor Day, and give me his address, for I will write him a scorchin letter. You know I am complete master of biting adjectives and expressive language of the modern writin.

I am with respect, etc., JOSEPH SPIVUS.

HUNDREDS ATTEND PILLING FUNERAL

(Continued from Page 1.) John Pilling, who, for many years, operated woolen mills in this vicinity and who, for probably a quarter of a century, was a Republican leader in this state. John Pilling, Sr., also served in the Legislature. The father of the deceased was for years connected with the Dean Woolen Mills, located at that time in Newark, and later operated the woolen mills at Kiamensi and Stanton, the latter mill now being operated by Richard T. Pilling and John P. Armstrong, the latter of Newark.

Mr. Pilling was associated with his father in the woolen business for some years and later conducted a coal and lumber business in Newark. He retired from business some years ago.

Mr. Pilling is survived by his wife who is a sister of former State Auditor Daniel Thompson, and two daughters, Mrs. Carl Taylor and Mrs. Donald P. Horsey, both of Philadelphia. His wife and daughters were with him at the time of his death. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Samuel J. Wright. A niece, Edith Spencer, daughter of Mr. Pilling's sister, Mrs. Annie Spencer, who died some years ago, had made her home with her uncle since the death of her mother. Miss Spencer, who has been touring Europe this summer, is now on a steamer on her way home.

HARDING STAMPS ON SALE SOON

The Harding memorial stamp is of the same size and shape as the regular 2-cent stamp, with a profile portrait of the late Chief Executive within an oval, over which appear the words, "United States Postage."

The portrait used for the new stamp is a reproduction of a copper plate etching made of Mr. Harding a few weeks before he left for Alaska. In the upper left-hand corner appears the date of his birth, 1865, and in the upper right-hand corner the date of his death, 1923. A deep black line edges the stamp.

This stamp, according to Postoffice Department experts is one of the finest stamp engravings ever produced in the United States. They assert that its distinctiveness will in no way lead to confusion with the present black stamp in current denominations—the 7-cent McKinley stamp.

As an interesting sidelight the new issue also re-emphasizes that among all the stamps used by this government only one, the regular 4-cent postage stamp, bears the portrait of a woman. She is Martha Washington. All others bear the portraits of the Presidents, other prominent figures in American history, or subjects chosen for their historic appropriateness, or to commemorate some national possession or event.

Electric light is much less harmful in museums than daylight, according to a series of tests made by the director of the British Museum.

PLAN SEVERAL CHANGES IN NEWARK COUNTRY CLUB COURSE

Following several conferences among officials of the Newark Country Club during the last month or two, it has been decided to make several alterations and improvements in the golf course.

Since the course was laid out several minor changes have become almost necessities if it is to continue as a real test of golf.

Included in the plans for alterations are the deepening of sand traps and enlarging bunkers around several greens. No. 2 green will be extended back some yards and made much larger.

This hole, the shortest on the course, has long been in need of alterations, according to A. D. Ginther, professional at the Club and members of the Greens Committee.

Another feature of the program will be the putting green, now under construction just below the clubhouse. This will afford ample practice for the players without disturbing the sod on nearby playing greens.

Club Championship on 15th

It was announced yesterday that the annual Club Championships will be played on Saturday the 15th. This is one of the really important tournaments of the season and always draws many entrants. Since the event last year, many more exceedingly good players have developed and should be heard from at the end of the round.

Armstrong Wins Medal Play
The Handicap Medal Play Tournament was run off on the course Monday. The holiday event brought out many entrants and competition was keen.

J. P. Armstrong carried off the low scoring honors when he shot a 79. Deducing a handicap of 6, he was low net with 73. Robert C. Levis finished second, with a gross score of 87, less 13 handicap, giving him a net score of 74. Third place went to G. C. Gardner whose net score was 78.

On Saturday next, the final matches for the Match Committee's Cup will be played. The semifinals will be run off at various times this week to make way for the final tests.
