William Johnson Stabs Alfred Taylor To Death In Knife Fight Following Crap Game In Shack

Saturday Night Fight Ends A Feud Of Long Standing; Officers Keeley And Leach Find Trail Of Johnson And He Is Caught Three Hours After Crime In Chase That Leads Over Fields And Into Woods; Denies Knowledge Of Affray At Capture, But Later Confesses To State Police

HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

As a result of a reputed feud of long standing, culminating in a fight late Saturday night in front of one of the United Canning Company's shacks, Alfred Taylor, colored, of Iron Hill, Md., is dead of stab wounds in the chest, and William Johnson, colored, of Newark, is held without bail, charged with murder.

The alleged fight occurred about 11 o'clock Saturday night near the Canning Companies shacks, after an evening of drinking and craps. It is said that there has been bad blood between Johnson and Taylor for some time, which flared up over an argument during the crap game, and in the fight which resulted, Taylor was stabbed four times in the chest and once in the abdomen; the wounds in the chest causing his death. He was not dead when discovered, but died in the Delaware Hospital about three o'clock Sunday morning. Johnson was arrested about two o'clock Sunday morning in a woods about a mile east of Newark after a chase over the railroad tracks and through the fields.

The arrest of Johnson was the result of quick, clever and effective work on the part of Chief of Police Keeley and County Highway Officer Leach. Keeley, while making his rounds on Main street, heard a crash and investigating found a car had run into a pile of stone at the corner of Main street and North College avenue. Johnson and Henry Mitchell, colored, were with the car; Mitchell bleeding from a deep gash on the wrist. Johnson said that he was taking Mitchell to the doctor and Keeley, thinking that Mitchell had been cut in the accident, took him to Dr. Downs, who had to take five stitches in the man's wrist to close up the wound. At the request of Johnson, Keeley called Duhadaway's garage to come and get the damaged car, and N. J. Duhadaway, the proprietor, answered the response. Duhadaway later took Johnson home to a small house he occupied on the old Huber farm. Johnson had been working for Samuel E. Dameron, who farms the Huber place.

In the meantime Leach arrived, and after he and Keeley had examined the car they questioned Mitchell further and found that he had been cut while acting the role of peacemaker between Johnson and Taylor. He told them of the fight and of having been cut himself when he got in the way of a lunge Johnson had made at Taylor. Leach immediately called the State Police and Lieutenant Ray and Private Sullivan, of the State Highway Police, started for the cannery. Keeley and Leach went to the cannery where they found Taylor on the ground behind one of the shacks, apparently dead. Dr. Downs was called and found Taylor still living but bleeding profusely from the stab wounds in the chest, two of which had penetrated the lungs. He was rushed to the Delaware Hospital in the Newark ambulance by Eugene Stiltz where he expired a few hours later.

Lieutenant Ray and Sullivan had arrived by the time that Taylor had been loaded in the ambulance and the four officers, learning where Johnson lived, went to the Dameron farm where they aroused Mr. Dameron. He was pointing out Johnson's house when Johnson was seen to leave and head across the fields. Several shots failed to halt him and the officers chased him across the B. & O. tracks over some fields and into a woods where he was collared by Sullivan. He made no resistance and was not armed when caught. He denied all knowledge of the fight, but it is reported that he has since confessed to the State Police. He was taken to Wilmington and lodged in jail. Magistrate Gluckman held a preliminary hearing Monday morning and held Johnson without bail on a charge of murder.

After the capture of Johnson, Keeley and Leach returned to the cannery and rounded up witnesses. Sunday morning, Judge Daniel Thompson took affidavits from Mitchell, the man cut, Duhadaway, Anna Lamb, colored, and John Gresham, colored. Mitchell told of Johnson wielding a knife and of the fight. Duhadaway testified that, when he was taking Johnson home, Johnson had told him that he had accidentally cut Mitchell when he was fighting with Taylor. Anna Lamb and John Gresham are Virginia negroes staying at the cannery to work during the canning season. Anna testified that the two men had been shooting crap in her cabin early in the evening, of seeing Johnson with a knife and of the men fighting. Gresham told of a threat Johnson had made to kill Taylor, of his having a knife and of the fight.

While the two officers were investigating at the cannery they detected Thomas Smith, colored, hiding behind a tree what turned out to be a gallon of alleged liquor. He was arrested and taken before Judge Thompson, who held him in $500 bail for illegal possession. Smith claimed that the liquor belonged to Taylor, who had asked him to take care of it.

It was apparent that both men had been drinking and had become quarrelsome. Taylor stood 6 feet 3 and was of burly build. Johnson is of medium stature and build. Taylor is the second of his family to die in a knife affray, his brother Levi having been stabbed to death in Atlantic City about three years ago.

DR. MANNS TAKES TRANS-CONTINENTAL TRIP

Dr. T. F. Manns left from Washington last Wednesday with the delegates of the First International Congress of Soil Science for a trans-continental tour, going south to the Carolinas, west through the Southern States, south through California, north through the Western States to British Columbia. The party will return over the British Rockies, through Saskatchewan, Alberta, Manitoba, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, and the corn-belt states, to Washington again, making a 32-day trip, with 45 stops, visiting the experiment stations at many universities.

Proposed New Sunday School For The Presbyterian Church

The above reproduction of the architect's sketch shows the proposed new addition to the First Presbyterian Church of Newark, which will cost $30,000 and will be used as the Sunday School. A campaign to raise funds to build the addition was completed last Sunday with $21,000 pledged. It is expected that an additional $4,000 will be pledged before the end of the week. No date for beginning construction has been announced.

The campaign for the new building was conducted in conjunction with Loyalty Month and the committee feels that the response by the church members was unusual. Much credit for the success of the campaign is given to Dr. P. W. McClintock and Dr. Alexander Mitchell, of the department of finance, National Board of Missions, Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A., who planned the program for the campaign and rendered much assistance in carrying it out.

The slate roof, stone walls, buttresses and other architectural features of the addition will harmonize with those of the present church building. The main floor of the addition, which will be joined to the church by a two story wing, provides for an auditorium or assembly room and four class rooms. There will be a stage at the south end of the auditorium with a class room at each side which can be used as a dressing room. The second floor plan calls for a number of rooms where several organizations can meet at the same time. Without evidence of unnecessary elaborateness or features, the new addition will provide facilities and conveniences which, it is believed, will be unexcelled anywhere else in the State. While adequately caring for all present needs of the Church and Sunday School, the new addition will also provide for expansion anticipated for many years to come.

Fritz Company Will Extend Water System

Council Awards Contract To West Orange Concern; To Complete Work In 90 Days; Delaware Trust Gets Bond Issue At $3000 Premium

At two special meetings of the Town Council last week, called by Mayor Frazer, bids were accepted for $150,000 worth of town bonds and for the laying of 1,900 feet of water mains.

There were four bidders for the bond issue: the Farmers Trust Company, of Newark; the Delaware Trust Company, of Wilmington; Laird, Bissell and Meads, of Wilmington, and Henry F. Knowland, of Wilmington. The Delaware Trust Company offered a premium of $3,000 and their bid was accepted. These bids were opened at a Council meeting last Wednesday night.

Thirteen bids were opened by Alfred Hartman, of the Consolidated Engineering Company, of Baltimore, the concern which has drawn the plans for the sewer and water extensions in the newly annexed territory, for the extension of water mains in the new section. These bids were considered at the Wednesday night meeting. The four lowest bids were laid aside to be tabulated by Mr. (Continued on Page 4.)

SAD CASE

Judge Thompson has had a letter from the Prisoners' Aid Society of Wilmington, soliciting his aid in behalf of the wife of Frank Hunt, who is in the Workhouse awaiting trial on a charge of larceny.

Hunt, who formerly lived near Smalley's Dam, has a car held here for a debt of $50. The Aid Society asked if the car could not be sold, the debt satisfied and the balance paid to Hunt's wife, who, an expectant mother, is stranded and destitute in Wilmington. On investigation it developed that an outstanding mortgage on the car would more than absorb any balance left over from its sale.

Licenses Due

Magistrate Thompson calls attention to the fact that tomorrow is the last day on which manufacturing, mercantile and dog licenses can be issued without costing a premium for delinquency in filing request. In the case of the mercantile and manufacturers licenses, an additional charge of 5 per cent is charged during July and an additional 10 per cent added each month after that.

INTERESTING SALE OF ANTIQUES

An interesting sale was held last Saturday afternoon at the R. T. Jones' storage rooms, when Armstrong and Whiteman, auctioneers, disposed of the household goods of the late Mrs. Mary B. Donnell. The assortment of furniture included many fine old pieces and the sale attracted a large crowd of local folk and antique dealers and good prices were realized. Charles B. Evans, executor of the estate, bought a small rosewood table, inlaid, for $300. Dealers bought three small mahogany tables for $50. Gilbert Porter, of Baltimore, a nephew of the deceased, bought a dresser for $50. A Chippendale cupboard sold for $195. Perhaps the most interesting items of the sale were two Chippendale chairs which had almost lost their identity beneath plush covers. Their value was detected by reason of a tear in the plush, which revealed the style of the chairs. They were sold for $205 and $195 to J. D. Chalfant, of Richardson Park.

COURT ITEMS

John R. Kennedy, living at Roseville, who was arrested by County Highway Officer Leach on several charges, had a hearing before Judge Thompson last Wednesday. He paid a fine of $10 and costs for operating a car without proper tags. The other charges for operating a car without proper licenses were dropped. Kennedy is from Virginia and had Virginia tags on his car. He has, however been a residence here for several months.

W. P. Butler, who was arrested on Saturday by Chief of Police Keeley on a charge of drunkenness, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Thompson at a hearing held Monday.

Presbyterian Church Notes

Holy Communion will be observed at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. The first of the series of community religious services will be held Sunday evening at the Presbyterian Church, Reverend D. W. Jacobs, pastor of the Methodist Church of this town, will be the speaker. A special invitation has been issued through Professor Wilkinson to the students of the University Summer School.

The Daily Vacation Bible School will re-open on July 5th, in the Sunday-school room. Hours, 8 to 11 a. m., standard time. Further notice will be given from the pulpit.

TALKS ON TEMPERANCE

Miss Roberta Carns, national lecturer for the Women's Christian Temperance Union, gave a talk at 1:30 today to the Summer School students, in the chapel at the Women's College. She spoke on the scientific teaching of temperance.

Camp Otonka

July 9 is just about one week off, as many of the girls of the State can tell you. On that date the Y. W. C. A. Camp at Sandy Landing, known as Camp Otonka, will open for the 1927 season. For the first three weeks, or July 9-July 30, the "younger girls" will go a-camping. July 30-31 are the week-end dates for business girls of the State. Mothers and adults are invited to share the joys of camping August 1-6. The High School girls attend the last three weeks—August 6-27.

The girls who have previous acquaintance with the camp will find on their return that the building has had a lovely woody-brown coat of stain and the boats are newly painted, waiting for the jolly rows on Indian River. The Cardinal who sang so cheerily every morning for the past two years, still makes his home in the pines nearby, as well as the other feathered friends of the trees.

Plans for a better and more interesting program are being prepared by the camp staff. Miss Mildred Dougherty, of Philadelphia, who has directed the Y. W. C. A. camp (Camp Arcola), of Philadelphia for two years, will be the Camp Director. Miss Dorothy Johnston will have charge of handicraft, Miss Dorothy Williams will direct recreation and the council hours, Miss Donna Dever will have charge of the meals and the dining room, Miss Hodgson is to be nurse who will help the girls keep well and also offer an opportunity to learn first aid methods or the care of minor illnesses in the home.

Word comes from Miss Helen Camp that she is planning some special interests for the water sports. Not only will there be an opportunity to learn swimming, but those who can pass the tests for Red Cross Life Saving certificates will be awarded the badges at camp, since Miss Camp is a certified examiner. Mrs. C. B. Root will be the camp mother, as well as help in many ways with the camp schedule. Nature study and music will also be stressed.

Registrations are coming in every day and it behooves any girl who is planning to spend part of her vacation at Otonka to get her application blank in as soon as possible.—Secretary.

The Newark girls who will go to Camp Otonka on July 9, for two weeks are: Eleanor Townsend, Dorothy Townsend, Louise Hutchison, Mary Louise Thomas, Virginia Newcomb, Virginia Wilson, Carolyn Cobb, Marian Owens, Mary Louise Smith, and Elizabeth Tiffany.

AMBULANCE RUN

Ruth Taylor, colored, living on New London avenue, was taken to the Delaware Hospital, Thursday, in the Newark ambulance. Alfred Ewing and Ed Shakespeare made the run.

4-H Clubs Here For Annual University Short Courses

81 Boys And Girls From Clubs Throughout State Registered Yesterday; Courses Last Till Saturday; Members Housed In Harter Hall

LEADERS CONFERENCE

Eighty-one boys and girls, members of Delaware 4-H clubs, registered yesterday for the ninth annual junior short courses given by the University of Delaware for 4-H club members. The session continues until Saturday, and in conjunction with it there will be a conference of local club leaders. The enrollment was slightly disappointing, and the small number was undoubtedly due to that fact that many 4-H members are needed at home to help with the harvest. The courses are being held this year at this time as many of the local club leaders are attending Summer School and are available for the meetings and conferences. The local leaders are particularly essential to the success of the clubs, and it is hoped that the Leaders' Conference will become an annual event. This will be the first State-wide leaders' conference held in Delaware.

Mr. A. D. Cobb, State leader, and his assistants have arranged particularly full and interesting programs for both the courses and the conference. All club members coming from a distance are being housed in Harter Hall; the boys in the south section and the girls in the north section. Both sections are adequately chaperoned. The boys and girls make their own beds and are charged with keeping their rooms tidy. "Reveille" is at 6:30 and "taps" at 10 o'clock. All meals are taken at the new dining room at the Women's College, each (Continued on Page 8.)

Change Drill Night

Captain H. Wallace Cook, of Battery E, announces that, beginning July 5, drill night for the Battery will be Tuesday instead of Thursday, as has been the custom for the past six years. There will be no drill this week due to the limitation of drills for the year.

The State rifle and pistol matches, which were scheduled for this week on the rifle range at New Castle, have postponed to a date which will be announced later in the month. The Battery will hold its annual encampment beginning July 30.

On Saturday night show call was sounded in the Armory and the Battery sat down to an old time army feed.

BOY HURT IN EXPLOSION

Oliver Rambo, twelve years of age, son of Oliver Rambo, of Chestnut Hill, with a playmate, Herbert Wood, was experimenting with acetylene gas at the house of Willard Wood last Friday when an explosion resulted, lacerating both of young Rambo's hands, the left one so badly that the thumb was almost torn off. He was brought to the Flower Hospital Friday evening, where he was treated by Dr. Johnson, and on Saturday morning, it was found necessary to take twenty-eight stitches in the hand.

In the apparatus which the boys had contrived a number of tin cans were used, and it is thought that the boys held one of these in his hand at the time of the explosion and that the tin caused the cuts. One can blew against his chest, making a contusion, which was not serious. Herbert Wood was uninjured.

COBWEB SOCIAL JULY 15.

A cobweb social will be held at the home of Mrs. Marguerite Balling, on Academy street, Friday evening, July 15, to which the public is invited. The affair is being given by the Boosters Club of the A. O. U. W., and a number of novel features are being prepared for the evening's entertainment.

The next meeting of the Boosters Club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kauffman, on Kells avenue, Thursday evening, July 7.

Coccidiosis Causing High Loss Of Chicks

H. S. Palmer Covers Disease In Report And Suggests Remedy; Egg Record Averages

H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman at the University farm, in his report for the month of May of the Delaware Farm Egg Record Club, includes some important comment and information on coccidiosis, a check disease that is unusually prevalent this year. Mr. Palmer's remarks are as follows:

"The intestinal disease called coccidiosis is causing unusually heavy losses among young chicks this season. The disease is carried over from one year to another in the soil or by old birds that have recovered from the disease. It is giving more trouble where chicks are running on ground that has been recently run on by early broilers or old hens. It attacks chicks when they are two weeks to four months old.

"The first symptoms of the disease are paleness of the beak and legs. Then the feathers get dirty and ruffled and the chicks lose their appetite and become inactive. Soon after this blood will appear in the droppings. In some cases bloody droppings will be the first symptom noticed.

"Dr. Hare, State Poultry Disease Specialist, Dover, is recommending the 'California Milk Ration' as a treatment for the disease and many flocks have been cured by it this season. The exact formula for the 'California Milk Ration' is as follows:

40 pounds dry skim-milk.
10 pounds wheat bran.
30 pounds yellow corn meal.
20 pounds ground barley (or oatmeal).

"For convenience most poultrymen are taking 60 pounds of their regular growing mash and adding 40 pounds of the dried skim-milk to it. While dried skim-milk is recommended, several folks have used dried buttermilk with good success.

"As soon as you notice any symptoms of the disease you should send a sick chick to Dr. Hare at Dover for examination, and if he reports that it is coccidiosis you should start the milk treatment at once. The longer you wait the harder it is to cure and the heavier will be your losses.

"Keep the milk ration before the chicks in hoppers for ten days or two weeks. Feed only a small amount of grain once a day (at night) or none at all. The chicks will drink twice the usual amount of water, so keep them well supplied. Give them plenty of tender green food.

"The milk will cause their bowels to become very loose and require that the house be cleaned almost every day and sand or dirt spread on the floor to absorb the moisture.

"Keeping the chicks in the house while you are treating them will prevent the disease from contaminating your soil or spreading to other chicks on the farm. However, if confinement to the house would over crowd them it may be better to allow them to run out. Cleanings from the house should be hauled to a part of the farm where chicks will never be reared.

"After the treatment is over the ground around the house should be plowed and limed heavily, and the house thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

"Several poultrymen in Delaware feel that they have avoided the disease this season by keeping the brooder house very clean and by harrowing and liming the bare ground around the house after every rain. Some folks who know that their runs were contaminated with the disease have attempted to control it by keeping the chicks constantly confined to the house. In spite of this precaution the chicks in several instances have come down with the disease. Apparently it was carried in on the feet of the caretaker."

One hundred forty-three farms reported egg records for May, showing an average number of eggs per bird of 17.3. The best flock of pullets had an average of 27.4 eggs per bird, while the best flock of hens had an average of 22 eggs. The average of the best mixed flock of hens and pullets was 21.7.

Company Will Dry Forage Crops

A new industry which should prove a boon to the agricultural and dairying interests of Del-Mar-Va is now under construction on the Delaware State highway at Hare's Corner, it has been announced by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. It is a drying plant for alfalfa, oats, soy beans and other crops and will be completed by the middle of next month. The plant is being built by the Mason Alfalfa Process Company with main offices in Philadelphia.

This is the third such plant for the Mason Company, two others being in operation, one at Flossmoor, Ill., and the other at Plainsboro, N. J. In addition to the plant being built in this state, another is under construction at Waco, Texas.

The particular merit of the utilization of this drying plant lies in the fact that crops may be dried and ready for storage in either wet or dry weather and the crops so dried retain a greater percentage of their food values. This is especially valuable with forage crops.

The Mason Alfalfa Process Company have under option from the town of New Castle, 1100 acres of the New Castle Commons which was granted New Castle by William Penn in 1802. According to information received at the Philadelphia office, all of this acreage will be placed under alfalfa this year and distribution of the finished product—alfalfa meal—will commence. A siding of the Pennsylvania Railroad is available for the company's use in shipping.

The officers of the company are Morris L. Cooke, president; Charles Jenkins and Dr. H. E. Keifer, vice-presidents; Joseph Marion, secretary, and Otto T. Mallory, treasurer.

Dr. Keifer, who is also general manager of the company, selected the site adjacent to New Castle after making a complete survey of the eastern section of the county. He selected this site because of the adaptability the soil offers in growing alfalfa and also for the ready market in New Castle county for the product. The dairying industry will be the prime market and New Castle county is coming rapidly to be a leader in the production of dairy products, they not only going to Wilmington, but also to Chester and Philadelphia.

The Mason process, according to Dr. Keifer, is not economical on an alfalfa cut of less than 600 acres. The company, however, does make it a practice to sell the plants outright to groups of farmers whose combined acreage reach 600 or more acres.

The operation of the plant is almost entirely automatic. The alfalfa or other forage crop is moved by a special machine, which also catches it as it falls and automatically loads it into a truck traveling at its side. The truck transports the cut alfalfa to a unit of the machinery which disentangles the mass and weaves it into a uniformly porous mattress, which is carried into a long tunnel-like dryer, hot air generated by a number of furnaces being forced over and under and through the crop until dry. The drying process requires about one-half hour. The dryer tunnel at the New Castle plant is practically completed and work is going ahead on the construction of the furnaces and installation of the necessary machinery. The dryer is 150 in length. After drying the alfalfa is ground into meal, sacked and either shipped immediately or stored. A warehouse with a capacity of 200 tons will also be part of the New Castle plant.

It is claimed by the company that the process results in an increased tonnage per acre in that it has no losses in the field and also that the Masonized alfalfa contains six to seven percent more protein.

4 GOVERNORS EXPECTED AT CHAMBER OUTING

Governors of four states, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, as well as officers and directors of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, and editors of newspapers published on the Peninsula are expected to attend the banquet at the New Henlopen Hotel, Rehoboth, tomorrow night on the occasion of the annual outing of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. Governor Robinson has practically assured officials of the Chamber of his attendance, and Governors Ritchie and Byrd, of Maryland and Virginia, respectively, are also reported to be favorably considering the invitation to the affair, which will be held in connection with the official opening of the new hotel. More than 400 persons will be present at the banquet.

The outing, according to announcement of Chamber officials last night, will be the largest and most elaborate in the history of the organization, greatly over shadowing the one last year at Berlin and Ocean City, Md., in connection with the annual Peach

Day celebration. More than 200 went along last year by special train.

Those taking part in the outing will leave Wilmington by automobile from the Municipal Building at 8 o'clock on the afternoon of the 30th, arriving in Rehoboth in time for a swim. For those who do not have automobile accommodations, arrangements are being made to have a number of motor buses at the Municipal Building to leave at the same time as the private motors.

The Wilmington members of the party may return to that city the following morning, although the committee in charge of the affair will make arrangements for those who desire to remain over the week-end.

TOADS ARE VALUABLE

The United States Government says that every toad is worth $24. Therefore a wise gardener will protect the toads. Toads are the night watchmen of the garden and are busy devouring cutworms and beetles which hide during the day. Birds carry on the insect war during the day and toads by night.

CARE IN SEED PLANTING

In sowing fine seeds, mix them with dry sand to avoid planting too thickly. All hardy perennials do better if sown in the spring than later in the summer. This gives them a longer growing season and the young plants will be stronger and better developed before cold weather sets in.

The Spoken Word

Award of the gold medal for diction
to Miss Edith Matthison by the American Academy of Arts and Letters calls attention to the spoken word at a time when the written word and the pictured word seem to be disputing its supremacy. Yet the clear, accurate, discriminating use of the spoken word is increasingly important as human communication by means of the telephone and radio extends and multiplies itself. It is even economically more important. Think of the inordinate amount of time expended in repetitions made necessary through want of clearness or mispronunciation of words or slovenliness of manner or prolixities or ambiguities of expression. Minor errors in speech are multiplied by radio into major offenses against society. Mumbling, in articulate telephone messages become trespassing against those who try to receive them.

The National Council of Teachers of English made an investigation a year or two ago as to the success with which the ordinarily intelligent person met the language demands made upon him and found a surprisingly low efficiency. His shortcomings were not so much in matters of form as in the adjustment of language resources to a situation. As to telephoning, the head of one of the great industrial establishments replied: "Indistinct communication is a common fault. Few show any previous training in how to open or close a telephone conversation or how to get quickly to the point for which the conversation is being held.
The result is much wasted time and many misunderstandings." Since telephoning is now universal, might not the school courses in spoken English include instruction in diction? They would teach clearness, conciseness and a temperance that may give it smoothness.

To these qualities may be added, by inheritance, if one is as fortunate as Miss Matthison was in the selection of the parentage of her voice and of her interest in beautiful speech, or by practice, if one were not so blest, an ability to speak in a manner comport-ing with the nobility of this gift of which Goethe said that if it were not contestably the highest that we possess, music would be. It is through perfecting the communication of mind
with mind, and not merely the improvement of the physical means of carrying words, that society is to move to a higher level. Words lead the way, for as Mr. Kennedy says in his "Terrible Meek," "All the good or bad that gets done in this world is done by words." Miss Matthison has given distinguished illustration of the beneficial influences that these "daughters of men," as the great biographer Samuel Johnson called them, may exert among the "sons of heaven."

The American Academy is performing a service for the stage. May it not find a way to encourage good diction in other fields of English speech, which in Shakespeare's day was used by only five or six million people, but has now become the spoken word of from two to three hundred millions?—N. Y. Times.
"You believe in immortality?" inquired Macfarlane seriously. "Believe in it? I possess it! How can it be taken from me? As well make a bird without wings, a tree without sap, an ocean without depth, as expect to find a man without an immortal soul!"

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Elkton

Mr. and Mrs. John McCloskey returned on Thursday from their wedding trip, and are occupying their summer home at Town Point, Elk River. Mrs. McCloskey was formerly Miss Margaret Hartnett, one of Elkton's most popular school teachers.

Mrs. George Boyd, of Nottingham, spent this week with her mother, Mrs.
Edmund Lynch.

Mrs. George M. Lee, of Baltimore, is the guest of Elkton relatives.
Dr. and Mrs. George Harlan Wells, of Philadelphia, are occupying their summer home "Wellalea" at Old Fields Point, on the Elk River.

Dr. C. P. Carrico, one of Elkton's prominent physicians, is critically ill at his home on West High street. His condition is reported very grave, with small chances for recovery.

Assemblyman William T. Vinsinger has returned from a tour of the Eastern Shore, where he accompanied a large number of representatives of the Maryland House of Delegates on a trip of inspection.

Miss Peterson is recovering very satisfactorily from an operation performed at Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, last week.

Charles P. Blest, of Newark, has been appointed bookkeeper in the National Bank of Elkton.

Mrs. Josephine Cannon, aged about 65 years, a resident of Galena, Md., died Monday evening at Union Hospital, Elkton, from injuries received

TO TRAIN THAT DOG
Kindness First Rule, and Remember
a Pup is Full of Play All the Time

The first requisite for training a dog is confidence in the master.
Puppies are born with it and it is the only sound foundation upon which to build.

The little fellow just out of the nest will run toward a kind voice and away from a cross voice, writes Josephine Z. Rine in Nature Magazine of Washington. Try it and find that confidence, plus the spirit of play, are the tools ready at the hand of the skillful teacher.

Giving orders to the beginner, use
as few words as possible, choosing always the same words of command.
To say at one time, "Go to bed," and the next time, "Get into your box,"
is confusing and taxes the little pupil unnecessarily.

"Go to bed" may be repeated as the youngster is seen to be headed in that direction. Every time he seems disposed to drag his toys to his bed for a good old chew, advantage may be taken to use the formula again.

There are only a few lessons that may be taught safely during the first months of life because the puppy is just a baby then. His backbone is not strong enough to stand the rigor of the upright tricks. He is not fully matured until at least the fifteenth month, and too much cannot be expected of him before that time.

The first command, "Come here,"
is easily taught by taking advantage of the little one's delight in the master's return.

As he runs toward you, call, "Come here," plainly but quietly. Toss him a bit and act as if you are glad to see him; jolly him, and before he is old enough to know why, he will stand ready to sell his little soul for you.

Many a dog that stubbornly refuses the order, "Come here," will fall for the greeting, "C'mon, old top." It is a matter of deciding on the particular disposition at hand. The timid ones will require jolly and the fresh and boisterous ones a firmer tone.

The youngster may come to you via the in-and-out route of chair rungs and table legs, but even so, he is not disobedient. He is only playing every inch of the way. Once called,
however, he must be made to come,
because obedience is the first lesson.

"Dear Clara," wrote the absent-minded young man, "pardon me, but I'm getting so forgetful! I proposed to you last night, but really forget whether you said 'yes' or 'no'."
"Dear Will," she replied by note,
"so glad to hear from you! I knew I had said 'no' to someone last night,
but I had forgotten who it was."

Monday night Company E, 1st Inf.,

Negro Killed Jumping Train

In attempting to jump a fast moving freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, directly in front of the Elkton passenger depot, to go to Wilmington, Sunday afternoon, James Nields, colored, fell between the cars, and was so seriously injured that he died on Monday.

His right leg was cut off near the ankle, his left knee crushed and his head badly lacerated. He was removed to Union Hospital in the American Legion ambulance.

Nields was in company with two other Negro men, and was standing in front of the waiting sheds on the south side of the tracks when the locomotive passed. After several cars had passed, he took a running start, and grabbed the handholds on the side of a car. His companions shouted for him not to try to board it. The three Negroes only a few hours previous had been released from the county jail in Elkton, having been arrested at Conowingo last week, on the charge of trespassing on the company's property near the proposed dam across the Susquehanna river.

CURIOSITY

One of the ordeals of attending a royal court is the fact that one must wait in a limousine for an average of two hours before one's turn is called.
This waiting is done in the splendid roadway of the mall fronting Buckingham Palace. The show thus provided is too good to miss, and many thousands of those Londoners to whom lords and ladies are still a pageant of never-failing interest take the fullest possible advantage of it.
The stream of sightseers pushes up and down the line of cars, making the frankest of remarks concerning the appearance of those who have been honored by an invitation from the King. If any curiosity exists as to stockings or footwear, no compunction is felt about opening the car doors for a better inspection. In the nature of the case those on the way to the palace can hardly indulge in a controversy about this uncensored inspection. Many questions are addressed to those in the car, one of the commonest being, "Don't you feel funny in feathers?" During the last court an old woman in bonnet and shawl caused much amusement by opening the door of a car and candidly remarking, "Well, dearie, I've been right up and down the lot of 'em, and though you're not the prettiest by far,
nor the most stylish, still I like you the best because you've got such a nice homely face."—Christian Science

Miss Clara Morrison, of Philadel-

Hockessin, were entertained at the Pennington home Saturday. On Sunday, the Penningtons entertained Mr.
Woodward Benard and family. Miss Helen Pennington is now home from her school work at Morrisville, Pa., for her summer vacation. Martin Pennington visited with Bancroft Peach Saturday night, the latter returning home and spending Sunday
with young Pennington.

On Sunday Howard Pierson and son John visited Howard Pierson, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brackin have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mildred, to Albert Biddle, of The Cedars. The wedding is to take place in the near future.

HARMONY GRANGE

Harmony Grange reported a full turnout on Monday evening. During the business routine the binder twine order was reported received and mostly distributed. After some discussion it was decided to entertain the Pomona in September in the Stanton Hall, owing to the smallness of the Harmony Hall. Two committees were appointed; one to arrange for the exhibit at the Delaware Agricultural Fair, the other to make arrangements for a festival or bazaar during the month of August. After other matters were dismissed to some extent, a motion to take a vacation
until the 15th of August was passed.
A notice was read of the Lecturers'
Conference to be held in New Brunswick, N. J., at which all the grange lecturers should be present.
After the business hour the meeting was opened to admit visitors.
The grange members were entertained by a harmonica selection by Gene Woodward; reading of clipping

from the National Grange Monthly as to some things done at the last session of the Delaware State Grange; given by Mrs. Mabel Ball; budget by Mrs. Ethel Brackin; singing "The Bells of St. Mary's," by several of the sisters; a harmonica selection by Abner Woodward; followed by an illustrated song, "Sweet Daisies."

The grange adjourned to meet again on August 15.

IN MEMORIAM

The blow was unknown, the shock
severe,

We little knew his death was near.
Sadly missed by wife and children,

And leave us here to mourn.

A Devoted Husband

The "Seattle Star" says that William Tyson, an Idaho trapper, found that an unlucky coyote had escaped with the trap and a heavy stone drag.
He watched for the trail of that drag for weeks. One day looking down into a little glen, and only one hundred feet away, he saw a female coyote wearing his trap and drag, and with her mate close at hand. Many uneaten pieces of rabbit around her showed that the male had been bringing her food during the long period of her suffering and helplessness.

Cooch's Bridge

Governor Robinson has signified his approval and interest in a sesqui-centennial observance of the Battle of Cooch's Bridge, on September 3. A celebration of this kind will undoubtedly meet with response from the people of the whole State, for the spot has been of increasing interest throughout the years. Hundreds of sight-seers stop at Cooch's Bridge every year; hundreds of children are told the story of the battle, of the unfurling of the Stars and Stripes, and of the historic figures who camped thereabout. There is no spot in Delaware that attracts more the traveller from other States.

July 4 and Safety

July 4, the anniversary of one of the most significant dates in our history, has always been a time of buoyant and boisterous celebration. In years past manufacturers of fireworks vied with each other to produce the most powerful and noisiest explosives. Agitation for a safer and saner Fourth resulted in legislation against the manufacture of giant crackers, and more fitting and patriotic celebrations have largely taken the place of promiscuous shooting of firearms and dangerous explosives. However, the Fourth still has its aftermath of death, smoking ruins, torn and burnt fingers, blinded eyes and cases of lockjaw. Senator Louis A. Drexler, president of the Delaware Safety Council, has issued a warning containing eleven suggestions for taking the menace from the Fourth. They may well be heeded by Fourth of July celebrants.

1. Don't burn gunpowder. You can celebrate without it. If you must have fireworks get an experienced man to handle them.
2. Don't allow children to hold a "sparkler."
3. Don't permit youngsters to light matches.
4. Don't throw down a lighted match.
5. Don't hold a lighted firecracker in your hands.
6. Don't discharge firearms.
7. Don't build a bon-fire or stand too close to one.
8. Don't light a firecracker while holding other fireworks in your hands.
9. Don't let anyone whose clothes have caught fire run. Tear off the burning garment or smother it with woolen material.
10. Don't try to celebrate the Fourth by mixing gas and booze. If, however, you must drink, let somebody else drive your car.
11. Swim only at protected beaches or pools.

Friction-Matches

John Walker's Invention

The centenary of the invention of the friction-match this year deserves notice in this country; for the match was beyond question invented in England. Small and unpretentious in appearance, it must be recognized as one of the most indispensable of modern inventions. Few now remember the time-wasting and exasperating tinder box, which required three minutes ordinarily before a light could be got from it, and perhaps even as much as half an hour. Greater usefulness could hardly be claimed for the telephone or the motor-car.

The friction-match was invented, either late in 1826 or early in 1827, by John Walker, chemist and druggist, of High street, Stockton-on-Tees. The son of a Stockton tradesman, he had been educated as a surgeon, but afterwards qualified as a druggist and set up in business in 1819. He was interested in botany, mineralogy, and similar studies, and was well liked in the town, where there are still living some who can remember him.

The manner in which Walker evolved the match may be inferred from entries in his still extant day-book. The old-fashioned flint-lock method of discharging fire-arms had just been superseded by the percussion-cap, and Walker was accustomed to make up and sell, especially to a certain young sportsman, a son of the Mayor of the borough, a percussion powder, compounded of chlorate of potash and sulphide of antimony, which exploded on percussion and was suitable, therefore, for discharging a gun. Walker also sold occasionally (as other entries in his day-book show) "dipping-matches," headed with chlorate of potash, which ignited when dipped into sulphuric acid and were used for "getting a light." Putting these two facts together, one cannot doubt that Walker conceived the idea that if he placed a very small quantity of his percussion powder on the head of a match it would be possible to ignite the match gently by friction.

Walker's "friction-lights" as he always called them) contained no phosphorus and were difficult to ignite. The head of the match had to be nipped tightly with the thumb and forefinger between folded sand-paper, a piece of which was enclosed in each box. The force necessary to ignite one by drawing it along the sanded side of a box would have broken it. Often the heads were pulled off several matches before a light was obtained. The friction-lights were three inches long, broad and flat. They were sold usually in small round canister-like boxes of "tin," for which 2d (4c) was charged, in addition to 1s. (25c) for the 100 matches it contained. Thus the matches cost eight a penny. Probably not more than 50 or 60 fully authenticated examples now exist. There are a few in the Bryant and May museum of fire-making contrivances at Bow, where there is also one of the tin boxes. A few others are preserved, with due reverence, at Stockton and at Newcastle-on-Tyne. Walker's day-book shows clearly that their sale was always largely local.

Exactly when Walker began the public sale of his matches is unknown. Sales over his shop-counter were not recorded in his day-book. His first recorded sale was to a local solicitor, Mr. John Hixon, on April 7, 1827; so that tomorrow may be regarded as the centenary day. Within two years, therefore, Stockton can claim to be associated with two such notable events as the opening of the first passenger railway and the invention of the friction-match.

Walker's sale of his "lights" did not last more than about three years. He refused, for philanthropic reasons, to protect his invention by a patent, and others soon began to make similar matches and reaped most of the benefit. Walker died, in comfortable circumstances, at Stockton, at a good old age, in May, 1859. He never married, and there is no portrait of him. His day-book and the pestles and mortars he used in his business are still treasured.

The man who largely caused him to cease the sale of his "lights" was one Samuel Jones, a young chemist, of 201, Strand, London, a still-existing house, which he named very appropriately "The Light-house." In the summer of 1829 Jones brought out and advertised extensively under the name of "Lucifer" a match identical in every way with Walker's, with the nature of which he had become acquainted (according to a vague, but not improbable, tradition) through Professor Faraday. He was the first to sell matches in rectangular boxes of the size and shape of those now in use. His were, however, made of cardboard, not of thin chip, and had removable slip-on lids, instead of a sliding interior or skillet.

Jones died in 1835, aged only 34; otherwise his name would be better known. He invented the name "Lucifer," which still persists, though the true "lucifers" were almost as short-lived as "friction-lights," for they were in use for less than five years. Examples are now extremely scarce. They were superseded by the ingenuity of one Charles Sauria, a young Frenchman, a chemical student at Dole, in the Jura. In 1830 he conceived the idea that by adding phosphorus to the inflaming composition hitherto used the ignition of the match might be greatly facilitated. He may be regarded as the inventor of the phosphoric friction-match, which very soon displaced the non-phosphoric lucifer and has held the field ever since. Yet its practical introduction to the world was not due to him. It is related that one of the professors at the college, happening to visit Germany, told a scientific friend there of his pupil's achievement, and that he, in turn, told certain business men. The result was that, scarcely a year later, in 1832, the new match, manufactured chiefly in Austria and Germany, was on sale almost everywhere throughout Europe under the name of "Congreve." Sir William Congreve, the inventor of the famous war-rocket, had been dead several years when it was brought out, but it must have been called after him.

The easy ignition of the "Congreve" allowed of a smaller match, ignitable by gentle rubbing on the sanded surface of the box. At first its easy ignition made it a serious danger, but later this disadvantage was surmounted. There have been many forms of it.—From London Times.

Philosophy Founded On Experience In A Newspaper Office

(From The Newark Post, issue of October 16, 1912)

Any man who refuses to consider another man's view on a great moral, educational, social or religious question, in which country and state are vitally interested and affected, proves himself a coward.

Not to be willing to grant a man the hospitality of one's home is one thing; but to refuse to listen to his views is quite another.

To say that an article which presents a view different from his is unworthy of being answered, advertises the fact that he not only lacks intelligence but is devoid of courage, which dares to "prove all things and hold fast to that which is good."

The man who is afraid to read the other side of any and every proposition is a moral coward whose craven soul is more than half convinced that he is wrong.

And the man who discourages those friends of his from reading or answering such articles has unwittingly convicted himself before an honest jury who will sooner or later pronounce on him his just sentence.

To say of a man or of his writings that which he would not dare put in print, proves the speaker unworthy of prestige in American life and manhood.

Show me the man who refuses to listen to or to read both sides of a question which may effect him or influence the welfare of his children, and I will show you either a moral weakling, an academic force for stagnation, or a crook.

For if he be morally true, intellectually strong and worthy to be called a man, he will, by virtue of his courage and his knowledge, set to ridicule this apostle of error and silence any misrepresentation of facts, of conditions, or of life.

To fail in this, he fails in his duty, to his right to live, to his State and to his God.

If the question be one of morals, his sincerity will win; if it be one of education, his intelligence will rule; if it be one of society, the part he plays in his every day life will silence his accusers; if it be one of religion his humanity and his God will so assist and endow him that the world will pronounce him victor and follow his leadership.

Unless he bravely and openly meets the man and the issue, society will soon recognize his ignorance or his duplicity and so reckon him as not worth nor worthy of the age or of manhood.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN AWARD SCHOLARSHIPS

The two scholarships offered each year by the Delaware Branch of the American Association of University Women have been awarded to Miss Kathryn Keasler, of near Dover, a graduate of the Caesar Rodney School at Wyoming, and Miss Helen Swain, of Milford, a graduate of the Milford High School.

Both girls have a high average of scholarship. Miss Swain was valedictorian of her class. Both took part in the many activities of school life. They plan to enter the Women's College of the University of Delaware in September.

The awards were made by the scholarship committee headed by Mrs. John J. Morris, Jr. The choice was made through personal interviews with candidates and through competitive examinations. The papers were graded by Miss Quacita Drake, Ph. D., a member of the faculty of the Women's College. Miss Madeline H. Dixon, a member of the faculty of the Wilmington High School, and a member of the correcting committee of the college board examinations. Other members of the scholarship committee are Mrs. O. Chester Jones, Mrs. John W. Iliff, Mrs. Hugh M. Morris, Mrs. Thomas Tatnall, Jr., Mrs. E. G. Menery, Mrs. Alfred Larsen, Mrs. John Strevig, Miss Drake and Miss Dixon.

Honorable mention for their fine examinations was made of Miss Katie Rubin, of the Wilmington High School, and Miss Eleanor Sawin, of the Tower Hill School.

Hartman and members of the Council. The four low bidders were the W. G. Fritz Company, West Orange, N. J.; the Fernow Construction Company, Philadelphia; the McHugh Company, of Philadelphia, and the Sexton Company, of Mineola, L. I.

The figures of the bids were tabulated, and at a meeting of the Council Friday night, the contract was awarded the Fritz Company, the low bidder. Their bid was $51,209.25. A representative of the Fritz Company, a Mr.

Morrison, attended the meeting on Friday and was asked to change the estimate to include "Sandspun" pipe on the job. This pipe, which is of denser and stronger material than most pipe, is less costly. Mr. Morrison said that its use would reduce the cost of the work $2,019. It was decided to use "Sandspun" pipe.

The bids on the water system extension were remarkably close, only $7.75 separating two of them. The Fritz Company are specialists on the construction of water systems and the largest concern of their kind in New Jersey. Their large volume of business enables them to buy supplies at a large discount. They will complete the contract 90 working days after the work is started. They have done work for the Town in years past.

While the contract calls for much of the material, the Town will have to supply a quantity of expensive equipment, such as fire hydrants and all valves and fixtures of that sort.

It was announced at the Wednesday meeting that electric lights were being installed on Kent Way, an underground system being used.

Lodge Notes

On Friday evening, July 1st, Deputy Pocohontas Pearl Tweed and her staff will visit Little Elk Council of Cherry Hill, Maryland, by request, for the purpose of installing officers.

Over fifty members of Mineola Council, No. 17, Degree of Pocohontas trailed to Wilmington on Saturday evening to witness an adoption. There were thirty-five candidates in the class and the initiative work was beautifully done in dramatic form by Setan Council, No. 38, of Philadelphia.

Deputy Pocohontas Foulmer, of Wilmington, presided over the meeting with her staff of officers. On behalf of her mother, she was presented with an enormous bouquet by Great K. of W. Ferguson.

Past Great Deputy Pocohontas Tongue, of Pennsylvania, delivered a splendid address and received an exquisite bouquet. Great Sachem Cantler and Great Keeper of Records MacIntyre each spoke briefly. A banquet followed and although five hundred were present everyone received ample share of goodies. It was in the wee hours of the morning that Mineola Council trailed back to their own reservation.—Sara Tryens, Press Correspondent.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Editor, Newark Post:

Your assistance in publicizing the accident hazards incident to the celebration of our Nation's Natal Day is most earnestly solicited. It is a deplorable fact that within the past twenty years more than 61,000 men, women and children have been killed or seriously injured in July 4th accidents. The facts to follow are drawn from bitter experience. Will you not call them to the attention of your readers?

Under no circumstances should parents allow small youngsters to play with fire crackers, Roman candles, sky rockets, pin wheels, colored explosives or sparklers. True Americanism demands an Independence Day free from unnecessary accident hazards. Manifest your patriotism by games and sports, picnics, hikes and safe motor tours. If there is a municipal fireworks demonstration, or other civic celebration by all means participate.

Traffic and swimming in addition to fireworks will be the large classifications under which lives will be lost and bodily injuries sustained. The unusual volume of motor traffic coupled with the fact that many drivers will hurry to make definite objectives constitutes a large hazard. More than usual care should be exercised in driving over the July 4th week-end and in so far as possible motorists should seek the lesser traveled roads. Swimmers should confine their bathing activities to protected beaches and ponds.

Let us celebrate our nation's birthday, but let us not sacrifice in fire and noise, the lives, limbs, property and future happiness of our people. Honor our country by living through Independence Day without injury to yourself, your family or your fellow-men.

Sincerely yours,
Louis A. Drexler,
President, Delaware Safety Council

WEDDINGS

MACKAY-LEVIS

The home of Mrs. Robert Carter Lewis, on West Main street, was the scene of a very beautiful wedding last Saturday evening at seven-thirty when her daughter, Miss Hester C. Miss Ella Lewis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the best man was Dr. David L. Mackay, brother of the groom.

The bride wore her mother's wedding dress, of faille silk, made over, with a bouffant skirt, short in front and long in back. Her tulle veil was flesh shade to match the dress, and of cap shape, held in place with orange blossoms. The train, of the same material as the dress, hung from the shoulders.

The maid of honor wore a frock of apple green crepe romaine made with a circular skirt and a graceful cape back. With it she wore silver slippers and hose. She carried snapdragons and pale pink roses. Mrs. Lewis, mother of the bride, wore black lace over blue satin, and her corsage of deep pink roses was tied with gold ribbon.

Newark Linksmen Win From Kennett 48-46

Eddie Ginther Beats Harry Anderson 2 Up; J. M. Terrell and E. B. Wright Take Flat, Ware

The Newark Country Club Golf Team defeated the Kennett Square linksmen by a point score of 48 to 46 in a match played on the Kennett Square course on Saturday. To make the victory complete and decisive, Eddie Ginther went along and trimmed the Kennett pro, Harry Anderson, 2 up. This victory is quite a feather in the cap of the local club as the Pennsylvania course is of the goat variety and particularly to golfers who aren't used to side-hill lies.

J. M. Terrell won the medal play competition on the local course Saturday with a low put of 77. The prize was a silver spoon. E. B. Wright took the silver spoon offered Sunday with a low gross of 77.

The matches in the second round for the President's Cup were played off last week with the following results:

E. B. Wright defeated J. P. Armstrong, 7 and 5.

W. E. Holton defeated F. I. Crow, 1 up.

F. C. Houghton defeated H. L. Bonham, 3 and 2.

S. H. Stradley defeated P. B. Myers, 5 and 4.

P. F. Pié defeated E. B. Crooks, 5 and 3.

Roy H. Brinton defeated H. A. Turner, 1 up.

A. S. Eastman defeated A. D. Level, 2 up.

C. A. McCue defeated E. W. Steedle, 2 and 1.

A Flag Incident

When marching to Chattanooga the corps had reached a little wooded valley between the mountains. The colonel, with others, rode ahead, and, striking into a bypath, suddenly came upon a secluded little cabin surrounded by a patch of cultivated ground.

At the door an old woman, eighty years of age, was supporting herself on a crutch. As they rode up she asked if they were "Yankees," and upon their replying that they were, she said: "Have you got the Stars and Stripes with you? My father fought the Tories in the Revolution, and my old eyes ache for a sight of the true flag before I die."

To gratify her the colonel sent to have the colors brought that way. When they were unfurled and planted before her door, she passed her trembling hands over them and held them close to her eyes that she might view the stars once more. When the band gave her "Yankee Doodle," and the "Star-Spangled Banner," she sobbed like a child, as did her daughter, a woman of fifty, while her three little grandchildren gazed in wonder.

They were Eastern people, who had gone to New Orleans to try to improve their condition. Not being successful, they had moved from place to place to better themselves, until finally they had settled on this spot, the husband having taken several acres of land here for a debt.

Then the war burst upon them. The man fled to the mountains to avoid the conscription, and they knew not whether he was alive or dead. They had managed to support life, but were so retired that they saw very few people.

Leaving them food and supplies, the colonel and the corps passed on.—By M. M. Thomas (Adapted).

SCOUTING FOR WORTH

Every young man should understand that he is being watched by many eyes, and often when he least suspects it.

"Scouts," the baseball word for men who search out promising material for the professional leagues, are everywhere.

Old men and middle-aged men, bankers and lawyers, manufacturers and merchants, editors and publishers, hold this thought uppermost in their minds at all times: Where can I find young men with the right stuff in them, the right habits, the right temper, the right balance? These veterans have money that needs watching, that must be put to work. They control enterprises that are floundering, and need the energy of youth in the management.

Let a young man demonstrate that he has the qualities required for success in modern enterprise, and someone will make him an offer if he exposes himself to opportunity.

Only those who are compelled to depend upon others for the execution of their plans and dreams can ever know how persistent and relentless is the search for youth of high spirit and capacity. It is going on day and night. At many times in our life we all come under the appraising eye of a scout.—Ex.

Newark vs. New Castle

This afternoon Newark and New Castle are doing battle again on the baseball diamond, after a nine year lull in hostilities. The game is being played on the Battery Park field. The teams from a standpoint of records are evenly matched. Newark is depending on Chalmers, Seth, Robertson and Potts, potent Susquehanna leaguers.

First Gun Fired In Alfalfa Campaign

New Castle County Agent R. O. Bausman, this week fired the opening gun in the Alfalfa Campaign which the University Extension Service has been preparing for some time. Mr. Bausman states that an examination of the farm records taken from 150 farms in New Castle county shows that the biggest problem with the dairy farmer is the cost of purchased dairy feed; usually equalling one-sixth of the total farm expense. On farms where alfalfa is used, this item has been reduced by one-half.

The first letter in the campaign reads as follows:

"If someone showed you how to cut your feed bill in half, would you do it?"

"Some New Castle county farms are producing seven dollars worth of milk per dollar invested in purchased dairy feeds, while others are producing less than three dollars worth of milk per dollar spent for feed. These are facts."

"Usually the farms that have the low feed bills are the ones that are growing alfalfa hay."

"Alfalfa will produce the same amount of hay on one-third the acreage that you now have."

"Alfalfa hay has two or three times the feeding value per ton as mixed hay."

"If properly cared for, alfalfa hay needs to be seeded only once in five to seven years."

"Alfalfa hay means low feed bills."

"A cut of one per cent per quart in the cost of producing milk is the same as an increase of one cent in price."

"To grow alfalfa hay you need—1, right kind of seed; 2, right time of seeding; 3, properly prepared seed bed; 4, high state of soil fertility; 5, lime; 6, inoculation."

Mr. Bausman's second letter to the New Castle county farmers is a clever pictorial argument for the growing of alfalfa. A cartoon shows a truck on the road to profitable milk production, the load being alfalfa production. Each cylinder represents one of the fundamentals of a successful crop. The caption asks: "Are You Hitting on All Six?"

PROPOSE ORGANIZATION OF STATE CIVIC BODY

Sponsored by the Wilmington Civic Association and the Five Points Civic Association, of Richardson Park, a meeting of representatives of all civic and improvement leagues of Delaware will be held at the Armory, Dover, on Saturday, July 23, at 2 o'clock, standard time.

Those interested in the proposed meeting will endeavor at that time to ascertain the feeling of civic workers as to the necessity of a State-wide association of such organizations. The subject has been considered at several meetings of the two Associations and it is felt that while Civic Associations have done much good in their given communities, more benefits are to be reaped through a State Association.

The two organizations calling the meeting are the largest organizations of their kind in the State. The Wilmington Association was organized in February of this year, while the Five Points Association was incorporated in May, 1921.

Every Civic and Community organization in Delaware is requested to be represented at the Dover meeting by two or more delegates. Letters calling the meeting are being sent to the known addresses are being sent to an appeal is being made through the press of the State for the names and addresses of all such organizations and they will be sent full details of the proposed meeting.

Secretaries of such Associations are urged to send the information to "The Joint State-Wide Civic Association, I. B. Finklestein, acting chairman; Wm. H. Sevier, acting secretary, Box 698 Wilmington."

COOL DRINKS FOR THE 4th

Iced Cocoa

Sift together  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a cupful of cocoa with  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a cupful of sugar. Slowly pour over the mixture 1 cupful of hot water, stirring all the while, then cook over hot water until the syrup is thick. Add  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoonful of vanilla extract, pour into a jar, cool and chill. A tablespoonful or so of the syrup stirred into a glass of cold milk makes a delicious and refreshing drink.

Lemonade Syrup

It is real economy to keep such syrup made up because lemons soon spoil in the summer and some members of the family are wasteful when they make lemonade without supervision. Pour 2 cupfuls of boiling water over 4 cupfuls of sugar and boil 10 minutes; add 1 cupful of strained lemon juice. When the syrup is cold, bottle and cork it securely and lay it on the ice, or keep it in the refrigerator in a covered fruit jar. Children can handle the bottles better than jars. This syrup keeps well. A little of it poured into a glass three-quarters full of cold water makes a most refreshing drink that is always easy to get.

The amount of the syrup to be used must be governed by individual taste. When the family agrees on the most pleasing proportions, it is a good plan to make a note of it on a piece of paper that can be temporarily pasted in a conspicuous place on the wall near the refrigerator. Then anyone can make his own drink without calling for assistance.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cool Summer Salads

The most inviting spot after an exciting day of "doubles" is one where chairs are drawn up tete-a-tete near a table under a sheltering tree, where ice tinkles in tall glasses and a tempting salad is set forth on a cool nest of lettuce leaves.

Into this salad, whether it be one of meat, cheese, fruit or vegetable, the versatile pineapple finds its way. The cooling juices of canned pineapple are soothing to the throat while its tart taste adds the zest which youth demands.

The following summer salads present pineapple in some of its most alluring combinations.

Pineapple Salad De Luxe

Dice a cold boiled chicken and add two-thirds as much finely-cut celery as chicken. For each person place a slice of pineapple on a bed of lettuce leaves. On each slice lay four tips of canned asparagus and cover asparagus with chicken mixture. Garnish with slices of stuffed olives and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Treasure Island Chicken Salad

Mix two-thirds cup of drained, crushed pineapple with two cups chopped cooked chicken, one cup chopped celery, one-half cup chopped walnuts, one-half teaspoon salt. Garnish with lettuce or celery tips and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Pineapple Salad

Mix the contents of a medium-size can of pineapple tid-bits (or slices of pineapple cut into pieces), one-half grapefruit sliced, one tart apple cut in small cubes. Place on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with the contents of one small bottle of marachino cherries. Serve with French dressing.

Pineapple and Cream Cheese Salad

Use the heart leaves of lettuce, arranging a ring of these on individual salad plates. On each ring place a whole slice of canned pineapple drained and slit across with a sharp knife so that it can be easily divided by the salad fork yet does not show the cutting. Rub a fresh cream cheese through a ricer or colander on the pineapple so that it stands up in light flakes, then with a teaspoon gently put in the hole of the pineapple guava or currant jelly. Finish by sprinkling with a French dressing in which lemon juice is used instead of vinegar. Serve fingers of whole wheat bread and butter with this salad.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Pineapple

Peel large ripe tomatoes, being careful to keep their shape. Cut a slice from the stem end of each and carefully remove pulp from the center. Cut the pulp in pieces and drain. Drain one cup of crushed pineapple and mix with the tomato pulp. Add one-half cup walnuts broken in pieces, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon paprika. Mix thoroughly with thick mayonnaise and refill tomatoes with the mixture. Garnish with lettuce and walnut halves.

Pineapple and Cucumber Salad

Thoroughly drain one cup of crushed pineapple. Mix with one cup of finely diced cucumber and add mayonnaise to moisten well. Arrange on lettuce and garnish with strips of red pimiento.

Pineapple and Pimiento Salad

Thoroughly drain two cups of crushed pineapple. Add one cup of diced celery and two chopped pimientos. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Celery Stuffed with Pineapple and Cheese

Wash, scrape, and cut celery stalks in four-inch pieces. Work one tablespoon butter until creamy, add two tablespoons cream cheese and two tablespoons crushed pineapple and stir until thoroughly blended, then season highly with salt and paprika. Spread mixture on inside of celery stalks and serve on bed of chopped ice.

Deviled Pineapple

Cut six hard-boiled eggs lengthwise. Remove yolks and mix with one cup of crushed pineapple, one tablespoon vinegar and one-half teaspoon salt. Pile pineapple mixture in the eggs and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with two tablespoons chopped salted peanuts.

SALAD DRESSINGS

Since much of the success of the salad depends on the goodness of the salad dressing, the following suggestions are offered for unusual dressings:

Cooked Salad Dressing

Is especially good with chicken salad. Scald one-half cup of cream and add one tablespoon of butter. Thoroughly mix one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard, one-half tablespoon flour, one teaspoon sugar with three tablespoons vinegar. Add to cream. Stir and cook until thick, cover and continue cooking for ten minutes. Add one egg slightly beaten, stir and cook for one minute. Strain and cool before using.

Hawaiian Salad Dressing

Heat one cup of syrup drained from crushed pineapple. Mix three tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon mustard and one-eighth teaspoon paprika. Add the hot syrup, stirring constantly, and bring to the boiling point. Add one-fourth cup of vinegar and allow to boil slowly for three minutes. Chill and serve on any fruit salad in place of mayonnaise or other cooked salad dressing.

For a Summer and Winter Living-Room—A Fibre Suite!

The living-room that would have a cool, summery appearance through the warm weather and must still be comfortably and invitingly furnished when winter winds blow couldn't have more suitable, all-the-year-round furniture than one of these fibre suites.

And they're not expensive for good living-room suites.

There is a four-piece suite, finished in a two-tone, mellow parchment. It has a sixty-inch davenport and comfortable chair and rocker. An oval table with bottom shelf is included, and the suite is upholstered in an attractive cretonne. It is priced, for the suite of four pieces, $120.00.

Another very attractive suite, finished in a pumpkin color, has the cushions upholstered in a regimental stripe. There is a table and a fernery included in the suite. It is priced, for the five pieces, $140.00.

A suite finished in a lavender and grey, with touches of gilt, is upholstered in cretonne. A round table is included and it is a particularly desirable suite for the smaller living-room or sun parlor. It is priced, for the four pieces, $140.00.

Another suite with flat, woven arms, is finished in a new color, goose grey, with diamonds of red and green. It is upholstered in a very attractive summer cretonne and there is a table to match. It is priced, for the suite of four pieces, $160.00.

A very beautiful suite is finished in a frosted lavender with a square table to match. The upholstery is unusual, being a combination of apple green mohair and fine tapestry. It is priced, for the suite of five pieces, $160.00.

A suite with kidney-shaped davenport is upholstered in cut velour. It is finished in a royal lavender, with polychrome decoration, and has a most unusual, oblong table. It is a distinctive and attractive suite and is priced, for the four pieces, $250.00.

The Eddy and the Crystal—

Two of the finest refrigerators, and each the best of its class!

The Eddy—an old and proven favorite, is made of white pine that won't warp or split or crack. The hardware is of heavy brass—the trap—simply and easily cleaned. The insulation is of mineral wool and ground cork and the linings either of rustless zinc or one-piece porcelain. There are thirty sizes and styles to choose from, to meet all requirements.

The Ice Chests are priced from $14.00 to $54.00.

Refrigerators, metal lined, $36.50 to $77.25.

Refrigerators, porcelain lined, $68.25 to $147.00.

The Crystal is an all-steel refrigerator, trimmed with rustless aluminum. They are finished, inside and out, in white enamel, baked on, and the hardware is heavily nickel-plated. They are cork insulated and made with two or three-inch doors and oval ends that eliminate corners. There are fifteen sizes to choose from, in front-door icing styles and apartment styles, and priced from $45.00 to $120.00.

If your old refrigerator is wasting ice, and, perhaps, spoiling food, replace it now before the real hot days come along.
