

Days, I cannot forget it, alone it seems ago that breast of yours a-heaving, your words with love aflow;

The joy within my bosom that bloomed with flowers of pain,

The violet-scented darkness, made musical by rain,

The light-feet of the fairies that patterned in the ead The wet breath of pine needles that fanned us when we trod

