Dairy On Wheels Coming Here For Exhibit May 17th

A. D. Cobb Arranges With B. and O. R. R. to Bring Educational Train To Newark

Through the courtesy of the Commercial Development Department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, A. D. Cobb, of the Experiment Station staff here, has been able to arrange for a half day meeting in Newark on May 17, which should attract farmers to Newark from all parts of the State.

On that date the railroad will bring to Newark a special Educational Dairy Train of eight cars. A special force of trained experts will present a program of interesting dairy facts of general interest to farmers of Delaware. The train will carry about 100 head of pure bred dairy animals for demonstration purposes, and farmers desiring to purchase pure bred dairy sires may do so or may trade their scrub bulls for pure bred at the car door.

In addition to the program for farmers at the train, a nutrition program dealing with the value of dairy products in the diet will be offered for the ladies at some gathering place in town, and a special program is also offered for the public schools. Several of the speakers are of national importance.

All the expenses are borne by the Baltimore and Ohio and the National Dairy Council and different breed associations.

Mr. Cobb invited representatives of different business and civic organizations of the community to meet Mr. O. K. Quivey, General Agricultural Agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad this morning to learn of the details of the meeting.

"Fact or Fable"

Taking as his subject for the evening sermon at St. Paul's M. E. Church, Wilmington, Sunday night, "Facts or Fable," Rev. Harvey Winfield Ewing, of Newark, affirmed the position of the fundamentalists. Dr. Ewing, in a very forceful sermon, attacked the position of modernists, and declared his belief in the Bible as interpreted by the church, in opposition to those who are debating the divinity of Christ and other modernist conceptions of religious belief and bibliography. Dr. Ewing's sermon was a forceful presentation of the fundamentalists' position on the question which is agitating theologians in pulpit and forum.

SCOTTEN NEW CANNERY HEAD

Smyrna Man Appointed Manager of Local Plant For Year

At a meeting of the directors of the United Packing Company late last week, Lester Scotten of Smyrna, was chosen to manage the firm's plant here during the current year, replacing H. Richardson Cole, who resigned to take a position with the United States Can Company in Cincinnati.

Mr. Scotten comes to Newark highly recommended. He has been engaged in the canning business for several years, at one time owning his own plant. He is said to be thoroughly familiar with the packing of tomatoes and corn.

Applicants for the position, three of whom were made public in The Post last week, were: John F. Richards, H. Wallace Cook and Frank Mackey, all of Newark, and Mr. Scotten of Smyrna.

Directors of the plant are busy this week in getting farmer-stockholders signed to contracts for the coming season. A tentative price of $12.50 per ton has been set on tomatoes.

Mr. Scotten will assume his new duties within a few days.

YOUNG ORATORS COMPETE AGAIN

High School Opens Annual State-Wide Declamation Contest Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock in the auditorium of the High School, two pupils will be chosen to represent the school in the county declamation contest to be held within a few weeks. Winners there will meet for the State title late in the school term.

A great deal of interest among students and parents centers about the trials tomorrow.

The contestants and their subjects are as follows:

Helen Vansant: "The Last Class" by Alphonso Daudet.
Catherine Green: "By Couriers," by O. Henry.
Annie Simmons: "The Canyon Flower," from "Sky Pilot," by Ralph Conner.
Catharine Pié: "King Robert of Sicily," by Longfellow.
Jennie Slack: "Here Comes the Bride," from "Mary Carey."
Margaret Wilkinson: "Jane," from "Seventeen," by B. Tarkington.

NEWARK GIRL WED SATURDAY

Miss Edith O. Lewis Became Bride of Wilmingtonian

A wedding of interest to Newark people took place Saturday, when Miss Edith O. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Lewis of this town, became the bride of Ernest M. Sheppard of Wilmington. The ceremony was performed in that city.

Mrs. Sheppard has a host of friends in this community. Prior to her wedding, she was connected with the Farmers Trust Company here. Mr. Sheppard is a representative of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company. Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and groom left for a wedding trip. They will be at home after May 1st at 1613 West street, Wilmington.

NOTHING SAVED FROM BIG FIRE

Wilson Family, Glasgow, Suffer Severe Losses in Blaze Last Week

Reports from Glasgow state that the family of Edward Wilson was left practically destitute of clothing and household goods following the fire which destroyed their home last Wednesday afternoon.

The family is staying temporarily with friends nearby, until they are permanently housed again.

Mr. Wilson is said to be planning the erection of a new home on or near the site of the old one. Heroic work by firemen and neighbors saved the barn and other outbuildings from being destroyed in the fire.

Engineers Seek Right Of Way In Mill Creek Valley

Baltimore and Ohio Surveying Party Staking Lines; City Looks to Red Clay Creek for Future Water Reservoir, Is Report

Strange doings have been reported from the peaceful slopes of Mill Creek Valley, northeast of Newark, during the past few days. Surveyors and rod men are working their way along the stream with the view of finding a new right of way for the Landenberg Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. A few miles away, engineers from the city of Wilmington are busy in Red Clay Creek valley, hunting for a possible water supply which will cover their needs for years to come. Two such prospective developments in the Hundred are occasioning no little interest among the residents.

James B. McManus, chairman of the finance committee of Wilmington City Council, when spoken to about the subject said the Water Department was at work on a plan looking towards the caring for the water supply of the city, but he knew nothing of any agreement having been entered into by the City with the railroad company relative to the water problem.

It was learned, however, that while the railroad company is paying for the survey being made to ascertain the cost of relocating the Landenberg branch line, the costs would be born by the city if the city should eventually utilize the water of Red Clay Creek and construct a reservoir along the waterways, thereby causing a change in the location of the Landenberg line route.

It was also learned that the proposed reservoir, when completed, will have a capacity of two and a half billion gallons of water, the dam breast to hold this volume of water to be two and a half miles in width.

NEW OFFICERS IN LOCAL TRIBE

Minnehaha Lodge, I. O. R. M. Elected Leaders at Meeting Last Night

At a regular meeting of Minnehaha Tribe of Red Men, held last night in their lodge rooms, the following members were elected to the various offices for the current year:

Prophet, Willy Von Ehren; Sachem, Walter Campbell; Senior Sagamore, Millard Ritchie; Junior Sagamore, Lawrence Tweed; Chief of Records, Orville Little; Collector of Wampum, Frank H. Balling; Keeper of Wampum, Ward N. Lindell; Trustee, Frederick Strickland.

COLLEGE HONORS FOR LOCAL BOY

John MacMurray, Jr., Receives High Rating at Princeton University

John MacMurray, Jr., of this town, was among the honor men in the Senior class at Princeton, according to a bulletin issued by the University officials there last week.

Mr. MacMurray is the son of Rev. John MacMurray, pastor of the Head of Christiana Presbyterian Church. He is a senior in the engineering course and is put down in the "second group, general honors." Prior to entering Princeton he attended the University of Delaware for two years, having matriculated from the Newark High School.

BENJAMIN F. KNOTTS

Benjamin F. Knotts died on Sunday, March 21, 1926. He was 84 years old and had been an invalid for over two years. He made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Newton Clark, 55 Choate street, Newark. Funeral was held from the home of his son-in-law, Isaac Clark, in Elkton, on Thursday afternoon.

Special Services Mark Pre-Easter Church Calendar

All Denominations Join in Busy Week's Program; Last of St. Thomas' Lenten Services Tonight; Special Music by All Choirs Being Planned.

With the advent of Easter, Newark churches enter the last week of the Lenten season with many and varied services. Easter Sunday will, as usual, find them full to overflowing with members of the congregations, friends and visitors, here to spend the holiday season. During the current week, several pre-lenten services have been arranged. In all churches, special music will be rendered Easter Sunday by augmented choirs.

In the Presbyterian Church special services are being conducted nightly by the pastor, Rev. H. Everett Hallman. The series opened last evening with a large number of people present. On Sunday morning, communion service will be observed. In the evening, the regular services will be resumed.

Last Sunday evening, a crowded auditorium heard the annual Easter cantata, "The King Eternal," given by the Presbyterian choir, under the leadership of Mr. A. D. Cobb. The singing was of a high order and the choir received many compliments for their work. Soloists were: Miss Mary Houston, Mrs. Robert Seascholtz, James M. Barnes, Eugene Kennedy and Mr. Cobb. A mixed quartet, comprising Miss Houston, Mrs. L. L. Lewis, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Barnes was also a feature of the cantata. Included among those who took part were: Mrs. George Wood, Miss Ethel Campbell, Mrs. Paul Lovett, Miss S. Yearsley, Mrs. Robert Seascholtz, Miss Mray Houston, Mrs. John R.

Levy Court To Stake Out Walk Along Depot Rd.

Will Not Actively Canvass Property Owners Until They See Line of New Pavement; Charles P. Wollaston Active in Behalf of Improvement

Following a visit last week of the entire personnel of the Levy Court, accompanied by County Engineer Charles E. Grubb and an engineer from his office, it is proposed as the first step in obtaining a new pavement for lower Depot Road to stake out the proposed line so that property owners can see for themselves just how much or little land they must part with to insure the project.

In submitting the above information, County engineer Grubb told The Post Monday that, weather permitting, the lines will be surveyed and staked out within a few days.

On their visit here, the members of the court talked with several property owners from Park place to the Pennsylvania station in an unofficial way. From their reports, it is believed that a great majority of the residents are supporting the proposal.

As is customary, the walk will be laid by the Levy Court, providing property holders give a few feet of their frontage to straighten out the right of way.

Wollaston A Supporter

New impetus was given the proposed pavement a few days ago when Charles P. Wollaston, the largest single property owner along the thoroughfare, drew up and submitted to his neighbors along the road a petition enlisting their support. With Mr. Wollaston backing the movement, and with other owners known to be in favor of it, there is little doubt that work can be started shortly after the staking out of the line.

According to the blue print plans received by The Post from Mr. Grubb and which are available at all times for persons interested, the walk will run along the east side of the roadway, beginning at Park Place and continuing to the old station property. It will be six feet in width.

MRS. BRAMHALL DEAD

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Bramhall, widow of Edmund J. Bramhall, a former member of the New York Stock Exchange, and daughter of the late Col. William F. and Harriet Lord Baldwin, of Elk Mills, Maryland, died Saturday, March 27th, at the Hotel McAlpin, New York City. Interment at Litchfield, Conn. She is survived by a nephew, Major William Ray Baldwin, of Elk Mills.

Newark's Battery Comes In For Praise From State Officers After Inspection

Captain Hastings and Staff Congratulated. Probation Cloud Removed by Fine Showing of Men and Care of Equipment. Sgts. Sullivan and Keeley Complimented.

Thursday night of last week was a happy occasion for officers and men of Battery E, Newark's National Guard unit.

The probation period under which the local organization has been under since the unfavorable inspection report of January, 1925, is sure to be lifted, following a visit of a group of inspecting officers last week. The Battery was highly commended by the inspectors, both as to the appearance and fitness of the men, and relative to the care of equipment and improvements in the Armory.

From Captain James C. Hastings and Lieutenant Wallace Cook, who have worked hard with the men during the past year, down to privates in the rear rank, the unit won praise from the visitors. Forty-two members were present. The inspection was conducted by Major Knight, U. S. A., who was accompanied by Colonel John P. Le Fevre, of Dover; Lieut.-Colonel George Schultz, of West Dover, and Major S. B. I. Duncan, of New Castle.

Through the excellent showing made by Battery E the probation which it has been under due to an unsatisfactory rating received after the inspection in January, 1925, has been lifted. Captain Hastings assumed command of the Battery last April and it has improved considerably under his leadership.

Sergeant John L. Sullivan, armorer, came in for special mention as the result of the excellent condition in which the armory was found. A number of improvements have been made to the building, including the building of a garage in the basement which houses two 25-ton trucks belonging to the Battery, varnishing of the floors and numerous alterations. Moneys for these improvements were raised through the holding of dances and other affairs.

Major Knight also personally complimented Sergeant John Keeley, in charge of the equipment, paper work and service records of the men.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE NOTES

(Written For The Post)

The Gym meet on Saturday was a very creditable affair and Miss Hartshorn is to be congratulated on the results of her efforts. The honors of the day went to the Freshman Class, with a score of 73 to 69. The judges were: Miss Clerihew, Miss McKinney and Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson. The Sophomore and Freshman Classes presented Miss Hartshorn with a basket of beautiful flowers. Lillian Steele was accompanist for the dances and drills.

At Vespers on Sunday evening, there was a Y. W. C. A. installation service. The old members of the cabinet welcomed the new members with the beautiful candle ceremony. Margaret Nunn is now president of the Y. W. C. A. and Marian Sharpless is the retiring president. The other members of the cabinet are: Naomi Dawson, Dorothea Pierson, Edith Biddle, Grace Ellison, Anne Passmore, Geneva Lobach, Helen Elliott, Virginia Smith, Blanche Malcolm, Martha Vandever, Jean Middleton, Olive Murray, Julia Blaine, Adelia Jefferson and Nellie Lawton.

Dr. Bohner, of Hanover Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, spoke on the text, "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Eleanor Edge played the piano.

An interesting discussion was held in Chapel on Monday afternoon. First, Dr. Hullihen presented the idea of an Advisory Board for the University. This board should be made up of the president of the University, two members of the Alumni Association, two members of the Women's College, two students from Delaware College, the deans of the two colleges, and two members of the faculty. This idea has now been presented to both colleges and, if no opposition is expressed, the members of the board will be elected in the near future.

Eloise Rodney and Louise Harris spoke on the subject, "Should College Hour be Compulsory?" The discussion on this subject was postponed until a later meeting, as was also debate on the question as to whether or not attendance at classes should be optional with Juniors and Seniors.

Ruth Larter spent Saturday in Philadelphia.

Margaret Brady and Elizabeth Brady visited their sister, Mrs. Jefferson Poole, in Wilmington, over the week-end.

Dean Robinson will spend several days of the Easter recess in New York City.

Edith Nunn has been at her home in Milford ill with the gripe since last Saturday.

School will close tomorrow at noon, work to be resumed on April 8th.

Margaret Satterfield has been elected maid of honor to the May Queen and Mrs. Newman Rose is the choice for Senior duchess.

Visitors over the week-end at college were: Aline Davis, Bert Staats and Miss Parkhurst.

The Junior Class sponsored a movie at the Newark Opera House on Monday evening for the benefit of the Year Book.

Kitty Ady was called to her home in Sharon, Maryland, on Sunday because of the serious illness of her mother.

Marjorie Rosa and Etta Hastings were dinner guests at the Practice House last Thursday evening.

Standardizing Radio Industry

Radio, once regarded as an agency for the amusement or diversion of a comparatively few, is rapidly gaining recognition as a utility affecting the lives of the general public, and observers predict an even greater movement in this direction.

One of the outstanding developments in broadcasting during the last year was the linking of many stations for important features. This process of "chain" broadcasting is expected to move even more rapidly, during 1926. Stabilization of the industry has made great progress, and the public is no longer delaying purchase of receiving sets because of a feeling that they are likely to be changed rapidly and improved.

Fifty Years of Public Service

The first transcontinental telephone line was established from New York to San Francisco only eleven years ago, by way of Chicago and Denver.

A second transcontinental line has recently been completed from Los Angeles through Texas to New Orleans, with lateral lines connecting at San Francisco with the first continental line; from El Paso to Denver and from Fort Worth to Chicago, as well as the existing lines from New Orleans north.

To think that the telephone was unknown until 50 years ago is almost inconceivable. Its phenomenal growth has been due to its practical usefulness and the fact that its officials have always been men of highest ability.

70,000 CITIZENS ANSWER TAX CALL

According to figures issued from the office of Pierre S. duPont, State tax commissioner, 70,000 persons have filed returns for the year, 1925, an increase of 8207 returns, compared with the figures for 1924. The total amount of income tax collected up to Saturday was $711,086.20.

It was estimated that with the amount already in hand plus tax assessments of $202,088.23 to be paid in quarterly payments and about the same amount estimated yet to be declared and collected, the total income tax this year for the State will be $1,115,862.

While the records at the tax office show returns made by 70,000 persons, it is contended that fully 60,000 others are delinquent, and the task of the Tax Department will be to locate them and obtain the returns.

Rev. Herson Back For Ninth Year; Short at Wesley C.I.

Local Interest Centered on These Two Appointments as Conference of M. E. Church Concludes at Dover; Few Nearby Changes Noted; Rev. Gehman Returns to Ebenezer Church.

The re-appointment of Rev. Frank Herson to the pastorate of the Newark M. E. Church for the ninth successive year, and the naming of Professor Clarence A. Short, formerly of this town, to be director of Wesley Collegiate Institute, Dover, were, from a local standpoint, outstanding events of the Methodist Church Conference in Dover. Prof. Short, it is understood, had not accepted the offer up to early this week.

The Conference, which closed Monday, was productive of many interesting sessions, and was considered one of the most successful in recent years. Fewer pastorate changes than usual are noted in the list published today in The Post.

As is the custom, the list of appointments was read at the close of the conference by the presiding officer, Bishop William F. McDowell.

Short in New Post

The appointment of Prof. Clarence A. Short to be head of Wesley Collegiate Institute, while rumored for some days in Conference circles, came as a distinct surprise to Newark people. Prof. Short is at present superintendent of public schools at Laurel, Delaware. He succeeds Rev. H. G. Budd, who has been transferred to an active pastorate, upon his request. He was sent to Greensboro, Maryland.

Professor Short is considered eminently fitted for his new post, due to his long years in the teaching profession, most of which were spent at Delaware College. He is a graduate of Delaware, class of 1896, spent some years in the west teaching, later returning to Newark, where he joined the college faculty as professor of mathematics and civil engineering.

In 1919, Prof. Short resigned his post to become associated with the Continental Fibre Company here. Last year he resigned from the company and early last fall was appointed to the principalship of the Laurel schools.

Herson Returns

The record for continuous service in one charge in the Wilmington Conference was again broken when Bishop McDowell read the name of Frank Herson to be pastor of the local M. E. Church for another period. This will be Rev. Herson's ninth consecutive year in Newark.

Prior to the opening of the conference, it is understood, that the congregation here had extended a formal invitation to Rev. Herson asking him to return to them. With every effort being expended to push the new church building project, and because of his great interest in the work now being carried forward, there appeared to be little doubt of his return to Newark.

In speaking of his re-appointment yesterday, Rev. Herson said:

"I am very well pleased and very much delighted at the invitation of the church, and the assignment of Bishop McDowell, to serve the Newark Church for the ninth year. The Church has grown in numbers and influence, and has appreciated by efforts on its behalf. To take part in the eventful days ahead will be the fulfillment of a long cherished dream. The town has grown considerably, has the forward look, and is a good place in which to reside. I am very happy in being allowed to remain a citizen of this great town."

No Irregularity In Relief Funds, Say Fire Fighters

Cranston Heights Residents Agog Over Reports That Accident Fund Was Used in Various Ways. Father Refuses Check for Son's Death.

Residents of the Cranston Heights section, near Marshallton, are agog over circulated reports to the effect that the fund of $3400 raised through the community for relief of families whose members were killed or injured when the village fire engine overturned last winter had been appropriated in other than pure relief channels. Charges that parts of the fund were used for repairs to the fire engine, for insurance on the members of the company and other items were spiritedly attacked by members of the committee in charge of the funds.

The whole matter was aired when Edward C. Ainsworth refused a check for $300 for the death of his son who was killed in the accident, claiming that he was entitled to $1000 as the fund was raised for the benefit of the families of the men who were killed and not for those who were injured. There was also a statement made that $400 of the fund raised through a benefit performance at the Playhouse had to be taken to pay the tax on the tickets sold.

Statement Given

Saturday the relief committee composed of Alfred H. Williams, chairman; George F. McConnell, Benjamin W. Gregg, Theodore Jones, Walter N. Gregg and John S. Smith, the secretary, made a complete statement as to the amount of the fund and how it has been handled.

The committee says that the total of the fund raised was $3490.75. The money was raised for the benefit of the men who were injured and were incapacitated for work for a considerable time and for the families of the men who were killed. The fund was distributed in this way:

Leroy Hill, who suffered a compound fracture of the leg, received $15 a week for seven weeks and $20 a week for five weeks. His hospital bill was paid at the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital and included in the same bill was the expense of taking X-ray photographs of the injuries of other men, all the bills amounting to $210.50.

Robert S. Crowe, a carpenter, whose left wrist was broken, received the same amount per week as Hill. Crowe was especially affected because he is left handed and the fracture to his left wrist prevented him working for some time.

James Greenwood who had a severe abrasion of the shin and was unable to work, received the same compensation as the other injured men.

James King who had the ligaments of his right leg injured received the same amount of compensation per week but returned to work last week and is now off the relief list.

Leonard Hook who was internally injured and badly bruised was awarded compensation at the amount given the others. He is still unable to work and is still being paid.

H. Earl Sayers and Thomas Ainsworth, who were injured, refused compensation. L. Heisler Hook, who was injured, was paid $15 for one week. The money for injuries was paid because the men needed it. While Hill was in the hospital his wife had the grip and one child had the measles and the money was greatly appreciated by the family.

Mrs. Alfred Oden, whose husband was killed, was given a check for $500 because she was left with a seven-months-old baby. She gratefully accepted the check.

Mrs. Hook, the mother of David Hook, who was killed, was given a check for $300 and has never told the committee that she was other than satisfied.

Edward C. Ainsworth, father of one of the men killed, was tendered a check for $300 but refused it. The check was made for the amount named because young Ainsworth did not live at home and did not contribute to the support of the family in any way.

When all the payments were made, the committee says, those who received the checks, or were offered checks, were told that they represented the first payment, that there was still a balance in bank and that if any money was left after injured men were taken care of, it would be distributed. The total amount expended by the committee was $2213.50. A balance of $1277 remains in the Farmers' Bank to the credit of the committee and can only be checked out by the committee.

HARRIS NAMED FOR 14th TIME

Veteran Treasurer of Pencader Presbyterian Church Re-elected

(Glasgow Correspondence)

An election of the officers of the Pencader Presbyterian Church at Glasgow for the ensuing year was held in the lecture room of the church Sunday, March 28th, the former officers being re-elected, including Mr. Zachariah Harris of Newark, as treasurer, which position he has faithfully filled for fourteen consecutive years.

Mr. Harris has repeatedly declined the office of late years on account of his advanced age. But through the persistent appeals of Rev. John MacMurray, pastor of the church, and his members, he was induced to accept the office for another term.

He has won the confidence of his pastor and the congregation for his faithfulness during all these years, and they hope to have him many more years to come.

Elkton M. E. Church

Services at the M. E. Church, Elkton, Md., will be as follows: Sunday School at 10.00 a. m. Easter stress will be made in all departments.

LOW COST TRANSPORTATION

STAR CARS

Stop and Think

Before buying a new automobile ask yourself these questions:

Am I getting the most car for the money?

Can I get parts when I want them at home or must my car be tied up while waiting for them?

Will the car I am thinking of getting be the most powerful in its class on the market?

Will it be the best looking?

Will it be the easiest riding?

Will it be the fastest?

Will it be the most economical on oil?

Will it be the most economical on gas?

What about tire mileage?

What about used car value?

The Star Car and the Rittenhouse Motor Co. will answer all these questions and more.

GRANGERS BUSY DURING THE WEEK

Harmony

Over 100 members turned out for the weekly meeting of Harmony Grange at the Mermaid Monday night. "Sisters' Night", several times postponed, was observed. As is the custom, the officers chairs were given over to the ladies for the evening. Mrs. Ethel Brackin presided as Master.

During the business meeting, resolutions were ordered prepared relative to the practice of trucks dumping rubbish on farms and roadsides in the community. Considerable discussion and no little indignation was evoked over the unsightliness of many spots caused by the practice. It was also reported that the car of fertilizer ordered by the Grange is due to arrive within a few days.

Visitors were present during the evening from Hockessin and Fernwood, Chester County, granges.

The lecturer's program, in charge of Miss Belle Chambers, provided many humorous features, chief among which was a mock meeting of the "Willing Workers Women's Club." The "club" went through its routine business to the great merriment of the audience. Continual fun was poked at members and their wives. The reading of the "minutes" by Emilie Mitchell was particularly amusing. The Journal was read by Lillian Springer.

An additional musical program, greatly enjoyed, was given by the ladies. Mrs. Pearl Harrington and Miss Blanche Derriekson played two piano duets. Miss Belle Chambers sang a comic song, "No, I Never Marry," accompanying herself on the ukelele.

At the close of the meeting, as is the custom at Harmony, greetings were ordered sent to all members of the grange who were unable to attend because of illness.

Refreshments of pie a la mode and salted peanuts were served by the hospitality committee.

Delaware Grange (Newport)

Delaware Grange, Monday night, served a birthday cake in honor of Governor Robinson, a member of Delaware Grange, and president "of the Delaware State Grange."

At the close of the regular meeting of the grange, the hospitality committee announced the Governor's birthday anniversary as Sunday. The cake was produced, as no one knew the age of the Governor, the candles on the cake formed a question mark.

The Governor blew out the candles all at one time, after which Mrs. Robinson served the cake to the members of the grange.

Diamond State Grange (Stanton)

Diamond State Grange, of Stanton, held its weekly business session Monday evening in Stanton Hall, with a large attendance.

One candidate was initiated in the first and second degrees, and will receive the third and fourth degrees next Monday evening.

At the close of the business session, the lecturer furnished a pleasing program, including games.

Appleton Grange

After the business of Appleton Grange was disposed of, the lecturer, Miss Moore, gave the members papers of conundrums to solve. These pertained to fruits and vegetables. At the roll call each member responded by telling of his or her favorite fruit; this led to some interesting discussions. Mr. E. B. Mulburn talked on "Proper Pruning of Apple Trees." The meeting was closed by singing several songs.

It is proposed to reduce the size of the paper money, probably to make it harmonize more nearly with its purchasing power.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Guardsmen May Train Out of State

While nothing definite is known, it is being hinted that the 198th Regiment (Anti-Aircraft), Delaware National Guard, will hold its annual training encampment outside the state this summer. Requisition for the use of a camp outside of Delaware was made by Adjutant General J. Austin Ellison several months ago.

Although no information has been received by the Delaware National Guard officials from the commanding officers of the Second Corps Area of the United States Army at Governor's Island, indicating where they would desire the annual encampment to be held, and no National Guard officer would discuss the matter yesterday, rumors were that the request would be sanctioned.

ELKTON BOY IS MARBLE CHAMP

Price Kaler Gets 1000 Marbles And a Free Trip

One thousand marbles, not to mention 1000 aggies and a free trip to Washington, were items which made last Saturday a happy day for one Price B. Kaler, an Elkton youngster.

Price is the accredited Elkton marble "champ" by reason of his victory in the finals of a tournament conducted by the Red Star Bus line among the county seat boys. The company offered the above prizes and superintended the matches.

Young Kaler is, therefore, expecting to ride in state to the Nation's Capital the coming week-end, browse around among the stately buildings and return Sunday night to regale his playmates.

GLASGOW

There will be a special Easter service held in the P. P. Church of Glasgow, next Sunday. A large attendance is hoped for. There will be special music also.

Mrs. William Lumm has been entertaining Miss Emma Brown for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John McMurray and sister-in-law, Mrs. McMurray, of Maryland, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Leasure, last Tuesday.

Mrs. James Roberts and daughters, Kathryn and Mary, of St. Georges, spent one day last week with her sister, Mrs. H. L. Dayett, Jr., of this place.

Masters Ralph and Wilbur Leasure and Miss Beulah Leasure spent the past week end with their sister, Mrs. N. C. Holloway, of Berlin, Md.

Little Florence Dayett, of this place, is suffering with the measles.

Those who made business trips to Wilmington last week were Dr. Cann, Miss M. Aldrich, Mrs. Charles Leasure and children, Lela and Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brooks.

Mr. Fred Jackson, of the "Cow-view" farm, is entertaining his mother for a couple of weeks.

Miss Marion Titter and friend, Mr. George Rotherock of Wilmington, were callers at the former's aunt, Mrs. Flora Brooks, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Golt and son, of St. Georges, visited her sister of this place, last Sunday.

The Ladies Aid held their regular monthly business meeting in the lecture room last Wednesday evening, and decided to repair the carpet in the lecture room.

The Sunday School also has planned to paint the windows and doors of the same room.

IMPROVE SPORT FIELD

The new athletic field of the new elementary school on Railroad avenue, Elkton, is being improved by an eighth of a mile track and a 100 yard straight-away. The tracks are to be finished in time for the county meet in May. The Elkton Chamber of Commerce is paying for the digging and cinders for the tracks. The work is under the supervision of Alfred B. McVey.

BOY TRIES HAMMER ON DYNAMITE CAP

Clarence McCall, the young son of C. W. McCall, of Porter's Bridge, in the upper section of Cecil county, while playing with several companions recently, found a dynamite cap. Boy like, being anxious to investigate the inside, he struck the cap with a hammer. An explosion followed, the lad having two fingers and a thumb badly mangled. He was also badly peppered about the face by the powder. His playmates escaped injury.

Strickersville

Mr. George Bland, of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. VanHekle, of Wayne, spent Sunday with Mr. George Bland and family.

Miss Addie Lee is spending the week with Miss Lizzie Buckingham, of Pleasant Hill.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. Mary J. Pierson has returned from the University of Maryland Hospital in Baltimore where she has been for the past two months. At present she is at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Davis, in Newark.

Mrs. Mary Ottey and daughter, Miss Mary, have moved to their new home near Head of Christiana. Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy, of Lancaster county, have rented Mrs. Ottey's farm for the next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Parsons who have been recently married, were given a serenade by their friends last Monday night.

Mrs. Streeper, of Philadelphia, is visiting Mrs. Alice Cloud.

Mrs. Alice Herbener, of Newark, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Herbener.

Miss Jeannette Jones, Misses Agnes and Jean Owen and Master Clifford Owen were guests of Mrs. G. C. Gilmore, Saturday.

NEW STORES OPEN

Stanton and Newport Vie in New Boom

On the heels of the announcement of the establishment of an American Stores unit in the old hotel building at Newport, comes the news that Stanton, neighboring village, is having a boom all its own these days.

Reports are current that two new general stores will be opened in Stanton within a few weeks. Thomas Chambers has purchased the old Dennis property on Main street, and will convert it into a store.

The Stanton Hotel property has also changed hands, with Harry Boulden the new owner. Mr. Boulden, it is stated, will open a grocery store there within two weeks.

CHURCH MERGER

Reports have been current for the past week in Delaware City that the Methodist Church of that village will be combined with the congregation of the Glasgow M. E. Church for the coming year, and a pastor appointed to fill the post. Glasgow has, it is reported, been without regular services for a year.

No confirmation of the rumor has been obtained to date.

Rev. Herson Returns

The Post joins with the community in extending a welcome to Reverend Frank Herson upon his return for the ninth year of service in the Methodist Episcopal Church here. In all the nine, no year appears so full of potential accomplishments as the present one; it is obvious, then, that 1926 will set a hard task for pastor and congregation alike.

Rev. Herson is equal to the task. He is an active, forceful leader. His work does not begin and end in the pulpit. With the Finance Committee and the Congregation as a whole, he has set a goal for his church in the form of a new building. And knowing Reverend Herson as we do, his return to Newark was no surprise. He has hewn his path of service. He would not be content to follow another.

SHOP TALK CONCERNING CRAFTSMEN AT KELLS AND THEIR WORK

The "Craftsman-at-Large" Returns

John R. Shultz, who studied and worked with the Old Man when Kells was very young, has returned to the shop. We welcomed him yesterday as an old friend.

"Craftsman-at-large" is the title that has clung to him since the day back in 1917 when he left to gain added training and knowledge in his chosen profession. In the years that followed, "Jack" Shultz was even at heart a craftsman of Kells. He comes back to us, then, not as a stranger but still one of the "kids."

Shultz has created for himself an enviable record in the printing trades. Upon his departure from Newark, he entered typographic work in Philadelphia. At the close of the war, which he entered as a member of Newark's Company "E," he went to Boston, where he has since attained prominence in trade association activities. Always a student of the graphic arts, he has gained a technical training of great value both to himself and to his old love—Kells.

He does not come here to take the Old Man's place. No one could do that. He comes, rather, to join the Craftsmen in perpetuating the ideals that for so many years were held high by the Master Craftsman of Kells. We bespeak for "Jack" Shultz, as manager of our shop, the close co-operation of every member of the staff and, we hope, the good will of a Community.

St. Thomas Church

Following up the special series of Wednesday lenten services, the last of which will be held this evening, Rev. R. B. Mathews, rector, announces three services for Good Friday and the regular Easter services on Sunday. Special music will be rendered by a newly organized choir.

M. E. Church

Easter Sunday at the Methodist Church here is expected to again tax severely the accommodations of the present building on Main street. Rev. Frank Herson, pastor, announces in addition to a special Easter service, a supplementary program of music by the M. E. Choir, under the direction of Philip B. Meyers. The church's program will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Easter anthems which will be sung at the morning services Sunday are: "God So Loved the World," by Stainer; "Magdalene," by G. W. Warren, and "The Garden of the Lord," by Herbert J. Lacey.

St. John's Church

Holy Week is being solemnized at St. John's Church with special services on Good Friday and at Easter. Father Brennan is in charge of the Easter program. Special music by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Herman R. Tyson, will also be rendered.

"Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities no doubt crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; you shall begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be cumbered with your old nonsense."

"And the finest fellow of all would be one who could be glad to have lived because the world was chiefly miserable, and his life had come to help some one who needed it."

—OUR MOTTO

THE REAL FRENCH GIRL

By MADAMOISELLE YVONNE NASSOY

Mlle. Nassoy, daughter of a French cavalry officer, lives at Thonon-les-Bains. Her spirited defense of the modern French girl, as set forth in the following article, gives an inkling of the new type of femininity which has arisen in the Republic since the Great War. The article was contributed to The Post at the instance of Professor Orville W. Mosher, Jr., a former instructor in Delaware College.

I WISH I could give to all Americans who come to admire our beautiful country and especially to the ones who fought so heroically with us, an idea of the real, typical French girl.

Generally speaking, I am ashamed to say the name, "French Girl" carries with it to the minds of many people, the idea of a sort of exaggerated flapper, a vivacious girl with bobbed hair, painted lips, always flirting or powdering her nose. I wish I could take some Americans into a real French home; if they were once introduced to a real French girl I am sure they would change their minds about her. Let me give a description of a genuine French home:

The French girl, generally speaking, is smartly dressed; she knows how to wear her dresses to the best advantage, how to choose that dress which would best set off her figure. She may be at times a little extravagant in the design of her dress—but none the less she knows how to wear such a dress; she looks none the worse for a dress that is even a little eccentric.

In her "salon" she knows how to entertain her guests; she makes the most charming of hostesses, for she is kind and considerate to everyone present, and knows how to keep the conversation going smoothly, for she can converse on every kind of a subject. It is customary to receive friends at tea-time in France. The French girl knows how to laugh and smile and pour tea and pass little cakes with a grace that is so familiar to her. Afterwards she may charm her audience with music.

People meeting her in this role would never guess that the very morning this same girl was helping in the kitchen. Since the war, servants are very, very difficult to obtain, and girls are accustomed to do every kind of work. Nowadays, our girls are very much, "femmes d'intérieur" being able to cook with ability—that "cuisine française" that Americans who have come across the water have learned so much to appreciate. Yes, they can cook substantial food as well as make artistic pastry. You may be sure even if the family is poor, there will always be something to make the room look nice—a little bunch of flowers, mayhap.

When a French girl gets married, she makes the most charming wife; she is true to the one to whom she has given her soul. She becomes at once his playmate and his helper.

If she has children, she is a most loving mother. From the moment the little creature is placed in her arms her only idea is to love it dearly and to make of him or of her, a man or a woman worthy of the title of "French." Especially since the Great War do the French women know what patriotism means. When the children are very young she nurses them, plays with them and never lets them out of her sight. When they go to school, she helps them with their tasks and is their confidante. When they are on the point of getting married in their turn, she always advises them and she is the happiest when she can tend and love her little grandchildren. Very often you do see in France an old lady with white hair living among her children, being loved and respected by all, like a queen among her most beloved possessions.

May my little article give the right idea of the nature of a French girl and may Americans appreciate the qualities of their friends across the Atlantic—qualities that they so often ignore.

Overworked

(From Cecil County News, Elkton.)

Many children of great promise wither and fade, from no other reason than that they have been overworked. Great things are expected of them and for a time that expectation is fulfilled; then they pine away and their usefulness is at an end.

The most overworked child in the United States today is the suspended sentence—or parole, as it is generally known. As a new institution it gave great promise, and beyond any question was a most excellent factor in the preservation of law and order.

But now, if we may trust the newspaper reports, the leniency of the Courts in dealing with transgressors is having a bad effect upon the morals of communities, and is partly responsible for the crime wave that seems to be widespread over the entire country.

We need less suspended sentences and a few more suspending sentences.

WELL?

"Where Is The Oldest Farm In The United States?"

Mark Sullivan, Famous Writer, Asks Question. Was Born and Reared a Few Miles from Newark.

In an interesting article in The Nation's Business, Mark Sullivan, well-known magazine writer and newspaper correspondent, who was born near Landenberg, Chester county, and attended the West Chester Normal School, propounds an excellent subject for discussion and research when he asks: "Where is the oldest farm in the United States?"

It is quite possible, as Mr. Sullivan points out, that this oldest farm, meaning thereby the farm that has been in the possession of one family continuously, descending from father to son, might be in Delaware. He notes, as an example, that Ann Parrish's novel, "The Perennial Bachelor," deals with seventy years of the history of an old house that stood on the west bank of the Delaware river, near Claymont.

Mr. Sullivan says, in discussing the problem: "The Germans who settled in Pennsylvania in the early 1700's are among the most tenacious and conservative elements in America's population. The oldest American farm might well be among them. Equally stable are their neighbors, the Quakers of Chester and Delaware counties. One would guess that the four or five southeastern counties of Pennsylvania would be a likely place to search.

"But the oldest farm might be in Massachusetts. Connecticut would be no less promising. One might find the oldest farm family in one of these big brick houses that sit with ancient dignity on the lower edges of the hills, just where hill and meadow meet, in the little valleys that run back from the Hudson River in Southeastern New York, where the Holland Dutch made the first settlements.

"One wonders what the present generation would be like, what family traditions they have passed on from generation to generation. One would like to make a search in person, go on pilgrimages to houses that are candidates for the distinction, try to find the house in which 150 years ago young voices sang.

"One might find the oldest farm in New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia or Georgia. These and the other places already mentioned are the more likely localities, the places where farming has gone on for more than two hundred years. It is just conceivable, though, that accident and chance may have broken all the lines of descent in these older American communities; and that the farm held in continuous possession by one family for the longest period may be in the sections that are only about a hundred years old—western New York, Eastern Ohio, or elsewhere. Wherever it is, the search will bring to light other farms distinguished in the same way, the oldest family in continuous possession in each state, in each county."

"Real thinkers know the value of a wise indifference, and that is why they often are the most genial men; unworried by the transient, they can smile and wait, sure of their eternal aim."

Appearance

There is in this city a group of men who so value their appearance that they only wear clothes of distinction. Such are these suits that we offer. Their tailoring indicates style. Their colors, patterns and fabrics a richness seldom seen in ready-to-wear suits. Our values are unusual.

Part of The Story of The Book of Kells

By CORNELIUS TILGHMAN
PART TWO

The spiral is one of the favorite forms of decoration employed by the illuminators of the "Book of Kells." The spiral was introduced into Scandinavia at an early date by the adventure-seeking Norsemen, who had discovered this form of embellishment during their first trips of exploration among the Aegean islands. And it was through these hardy forefathers that the spiral came to Ireland.

To a person of imagination, many "human interest" stories will be suggested by the "Book of Kells." Frequently, one runs across unfinished sentences, sentences which a word or two would have completed. Observing this work, which appears to have been hastily dropped, one wonders what sudden invasion of enemies forced the monk to drop so suddenly his role of scholar or artist and become either a soldier fighting for the defense of his monastery or a refugee fleeing for his life.

IV

In speaking of what is known as the Monogram page, J. A. Brun has said: "There is a beautiful instance in the 'Book of Kells,' presumably surpassing, as a piece of decoration, anything to be met with in any other written book. It is a page to discourage even the most accomplished and most enthusiastic of modern draughtsmen. In nine cases out of ten he will break down before his work is half finished; or, if he should really succeed in completing it, he will have to expend upon it an amount of time and labour out of all proportion to the apparent result of his work."

"Mr. Digby Wyatt made an attempt, and had to give it up. Professor J. O. Westwood, who was a great admirer of Irish art and at the same time a skilled draughtsman, went to work with no better result. And he was assuredly not one to be discouraged by difficulties arising from variety of colours and intricacy of design. No one who has had an opportunity of examining the leaves of the big volume containing the Professor's original tracing and now deposited in the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford can have failed to be struck by the minute accuracy of his delineations and the immense pains taken in rendering even the most complicated passages of Celtic ornament. And yet the copying of the Monogram page of the 'Book of Kells' was, if not beyond his powers, at least too long and serious an affair to be duly brought to completion.

"We are indebted to Miss Margaret Stokes, the accomplished writer on Celtic antiquities, for possessing at last, a copy perfectly finished and worthy of an original which the same author, in a brilliant passage referring to its unique variety of design, has signalled as 'an epitome of Irish art.'"

FIELD TRIALS ON APRIL 5th

Big League Umpire To Be One of Judges at Glasgow Meeting

Dick Nollin, American League umpire, will be one of the judges at the Delaware Setter and Pointer Club field trials which will be held on the farm of Mr. George Townsend, situated between Glasgow and Summit Bridge on Monday, April 5. Jack Dunn, the owner of the Baltimore Orioles, will also be on hand with several of his big winning dogs, when the word is given to go. The field trial game in dogdom has a very strong attraction for the big leaguers and many of them follow it in their off season.

The Delaware Club has a national reputation and those who are fortunate enough to see this contest will have a real treat as high class bird dogs will be seen in action on game. The bob white quail which are to be used for the trials, have arrived. They were shipped from Texas.

The way these dogs are tested, a course is laid out after the fashion of a big race track. Two are run at a time over it, as they near the finish and before they come in sight a pair of birds are let go in a big field which has a splendid cover here in front of the gallery the bird work by the dogs is seen. To a great many who are not familiar with the work of the setter and pointer, it seems almost unbelievable the human intelligence the dogs have in handling their game. These trials are open and the public is invited.

The year 1926 ought to be much more successful and prosperous and luckier than 1925. There are no Friday the 13th in 1926, and there were three in 1925.—Troy Record.

QUOTING from the Encyclopaedia Britannica, we present these brief, but interesting, facts:

"Kells, a market town of the county of Meath, Ireland, on the Blackwater. The population is about two thousand, and the prosperity of the town depends chiefly upon its antiquarian remains. The most notable is St. Columbkille's house, originally an oratory, but afterwards converted into a church, the chancel of which was in existence in 1752. The present church is modern, with the exception of the bell-tower, rebuilt in 1578. Near the church there is a fine though imperfect specimen of the ancient round tower, 99 feet in height; and there are several ancient crosses, the finest being that now erected in the market-place. Kells was originally a royal residence, whence its ancient name Ceannannus, meaning the dun or circular northern fort, in which the king resided, and the intermediate name Kenlis, meaning head fort. Here Conn of the Hundred Fights resided in the second century; and here was a palace of Dermot, king of Ireland, in 544-565. In the sixth century Kells, it is said, was granted to St. Columbkille. Of the monastery which he is reported to have founded there are no remains, and the town owes its chief ecclesiastical importance to the bishopric founded about 807, and united to Meath in the thirteenth century. The ecclesiastical establishment was noted as a seat of learning, and a monument of this remains in the "Book of Kells," an illuminated copy of the Gospels in Latin, containing also local records, dating from the eighth century, and preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin. The illumination is executed with extraordinary delicacy, and the work is asserted to be the finest example of early Christian art of its kind."

Congress Of Teachers And Pupils Of Nation Planned For Philadelphia Next July

YOUTH AND TEACHERS WILL BE HONORED AT PHILADELPHIA, JULY 4

Any American boy or girl between the ages of thirteen and nineteen is eligible to become a candidate for the American Youth Award and any woman school teacher is eligible for the American Teacher Award in each state. The boy and the girl and the teacher in each state upon whom the Award is conferred will go to Philadelphia for the week of June 28 to July 5 to take part in the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of American Independence in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition. Official entry forms and booklets describing the Award in detail may be obtained by addressing the American Youth Award or the American Teacher Award, Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, Philadelphia.

The youth of America will be honored in a new way when the United States celebrates its one hundred and fiftieth birthday in Philadelphia on July 4 in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition.

The boy and the girl in each state who represented the highest ideals of American youth and the teacher who has accomplished the greatest good for the pupils of the state in which she teaches will be selected to represent the youth and teachers of America at the celebration under the plans which have just been announced by the directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition.

The directors have established the American Youth Award and the American Teacher Award under which the representatives from each state will be chosen to spend a week in Philadelphia. They will play an important part in the observance on July 4 on the very spot where the stirring events of 1776 occurred. President Coolidge will grace the occasion with his presence as orator of the day. The youth and teachers so selected will be the guests of the Sesqui-Centennial directors in Philadelphia from June 28 to July 5. All of their traveling and living expenses from the time they leave their homes until they return will be paid by the Exposition.

Every boy and every girl between the ages of thirteen and nineteen, whether in or out of school and whether attending a public, parochial, or private school, and every woman school teacher in the United States will be eligible for the honor of representing their state during the celebration in Philadelphia.

Official entry forms and Award booklets may be obtained by addressing the American Youth Award or the American Teacher Award, Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, Philadelphia.

The youth and teachers upon whom the Award is conferred, in addition to their stay in Philadelphia, will be taken on a two-day trip to Washington where they will visit the White House, the great public institutions, the halls of Congress, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, the beautiful National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., and many other places of national and historic interest. They will also visit Valley Forge, the great Revolutionary camping-ground where Washington's troops suffered and died in that terrible winter of the war of the Revolution. To each of the Award winners will be publicly presented in Philadelphia a commemorative medal and certificate.

In order that the Award shall be conferred in a truly democratic manner as befits the occasion to be commemorated, the task of selecting the boys and girls and the teachers in each state will be left to the states and, in the case of the boys and the girls, more particularly to the youth of the states.

Under the rules as established by the directors, it will be left largely to local determination in each state to decide on what basis candidates shall be judged as exemplifying American ideals in that state. The directors, however, have announced that they expect the Award will be made with the emphasis laid upon the qualities of courage, heroism, sacrifice, leadership and patriotism.

There will be constituted in each state a State Committee of Award with headquarters in the capital city and this committee will be the official body for the administration of the Award for both youth and teachers. The governors of the states have been invited to become honorary chairmen of these committees and many have already accepted the invitation.

The membership of these committees as far as possible will include the state officials in charge of education, the two United States Senators, two representatives in Congress, two members of the National Advisory Commission to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition appointed by President Coolidge, a superintendent of schools, representatives of Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions, a Protestant, a Catholic and a Jewish clergyman; representatives of the American Legion, Daughters of the American Revolution, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, League of Women Voters, Parent-Teacher Association, together with adult executives of the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and the Camp Fire Girls. Each of these state committees will have twenty-five members.

The directors, in announcing the Award, expressed the belief that the task of conducting the Award in each state is worth doing for the effect on the youth of the country and on the public in general, and that its value

POLITICS IN LOWER COUNTY

Blackbird Aspirants To Legislative Offices Are Out Early

Former Representative A. Jefferson Staats, of Blackbird hundred, is being spoken of as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator for the Seventh Senatorial district, comprising Appoquinimink and Blackbird hundreds, to succeed Senator Harris B. McDowell. Representative George T. Stant, Democrat, of Appoquinimink hundred, known as the father of the "Bible bill" in the last session of the General Assembly, also is being boomed by his friends as a candidate for the Senatorial nomination.

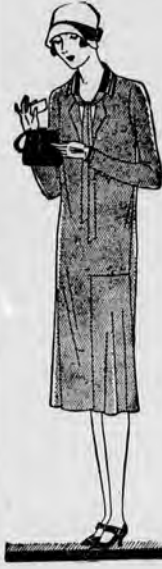

William L. Jones, of Townsend; L. Baynard Marvel and Morris B. Donovan, are mentioned as possible candidates for the Democratic nomination for Representative from Appoquinimink hundred. Representative Ridgely Nickerson, Walter L. Marker and G. Arthur Ginn are being mentioned as candidates for the nomination in Blackbird hundred.

Neil Farmer

I hope that the editorial writer of The Post does not take it into his head to write an editorial announcing Spring. Everybody knows that Spring is here. And anyhow about all one can say about its approach and arrival is that the little birds are chirping, the grass is turning green, and there is an indefinable something in the air. The Editor of the Every Evening tried last week—that's all.

It is rumored that the telephone wires in Dover are going to be placed underground. That would be a good place for the telephone wires in Newark if the Town Council could be moved first.

Did you ever stop to think that if the honey bee labored with the feverish efforts of the man what the price of honey would be?

Why can't the New Post Office be in the old Farmers' Trust building?

43 YEARS AND NOT STARTED YET

Nearly forty-three years ago a Newark newspaper printed the following:

"Many have thought for a long time past; in fact, have known that some place is badly needed in this town where young men who desire to spend a pleasant evening can meet and pass away the time profitably. Such a place is a well-appointed reading room. Here they would be able to improve their minds and morals by reading the lives of great men, the history of our own and other nations; the leading newspapers and magazines and current literature. It is to be hoped that a comfortable reading room can be provided in this town, because such a place would prove beneficial to our young people."

A great man of another age than this has said, "After the church and the school, the free library is the most effective influence for good in America. The moral, mental and material benefits to be derived from a carefully selected collection of good books, free for the use of all the people, cannot be over-estimated. No community can afford to be without a library."

Is there anything else to be said?

I am still waiting to hear from a representative of the University of Delaware Faculty. And I am not hard-of-hearing.

Someone has said that "A country editor's trouble is not what to print, but what not to print." Do you realize how true that really is? Suppose the following items appeared in a newspaper:

"John Doe, the most homely man, at the same time, the most dishonest man in town, visited his father, who is running a still over in New Jersey, over the week-end."

"Donald Wonkey, a prominent and crooked lawyer, by doctoring the evidence won a big lawsuit for the Unbendable Artificial Limb Manufacturing Company recently."

"The Rev. Hokum preached a long sermon on 'Politics and the Church' last Sunday afternoon. It was punk."

"Mrs. Gentel gave a tea Thursday. All the guests were bored to death."

"Mr. Richard B. Styx visited Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wuke over the week-end. Old lady Wuke is trying to marry off her daughter, Elizabeth, who is by no means pretty."

"Joseph X. Off, the laziest merchant in town, is doing very little business. The reason is doubtless because he never cleans up his store and his display windows have not been washed and redecorated for three years."

"Meredith Mutton died at his home yesterday morning. The doctor said it was the 'flu.' Whiskey killed him."

"Married—Miss Sylvan Buss and James McDoodle, last Monday, at Elkton by the Rev. Sun. The bride is a very ordinary girl, who knows no more about cooking than an infant jack-rabbit, and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is ugly and has a gait like a duck. The groom is one of the town's best loafers and pool-sharks. He has lived off his parents all his life. The young couple will probably be in the divorce court within the year."

"The governor of our backward state, who is a mere figurehead with little brains and no talents and who was elected by accident, was here yesterday. At present he has hardly any friends here. He promised some of the voters of this community offices in case he was elected, but since his election he has neglected to pass out the pie."

Well, I ask you, what would happen if a country newspaper appeared carrying the following bits of "news"?

"A certain number of fleas are good for a dog. They keep him from brooding over the fact that he is a dog."

And as Augustus De Morgan has written:

"Great fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bite 'em, And little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum. And the great fleas themselves, in turn, have greater fleas to go on; While these again have greater still, and greater still, and so on."

Expensive Highway Construction

"It is estimated by the Connecticut Highway Department officials that within the next eight to ten years the entire state trunk line highway system, consisting of 1,400 miles of roadway, will have to be reconstructed at a cost estimated at 6 million dollars. Reconstruction will be necessary to keep pace with the wear and tear of motor traffic," says the Bridgeport, Conn., Herald.

"The Highway Department experts figure that within the coming two years, 206 miles of road should be rebuilt. In the following two years, 436.4 miles should be reconstructed. Six years hence, 641 more miles should be cared for, and 222 miles in the following two-year period or eight years from now.

"In the meantime, more roadways will have to be added as a part of the trunk line highway system in various parts of the State. It truly is an expensive replacement schedule which faces the state of Connecticut."

In one Michigan subordinate Grange the lady members raised more than $500 in cash the past year, as a welcome contribution towards the hall mortgage.

Sensitive To Supply and Demand

In few industries can the working of the supply and demand law be seen so regularly reflected in prices, as in petroleum products; the buyer of petroleum products at retail can almost determine the price of gasoline by watching current prices of crude petroleum, so quick and intimate is adjustment of price relations between them.

The relationship between crude oil and gasoline prices is as close as that between cream and butter. The price of the refined product is bound to rise in proportion to the increase in cost of the crude supply.

The Passing Of An Old Friend On The Abandonment Of The Pomeroy And Newark Steam Train By MISS E. E. TWEED

Twenty thousand times the sun has risen, twenty thousand times has set, Just as many mid-day passings, as the lights and shadows met.

Years have passed like a rushing train, and vanished all, as the air Like a journey from Youth to Age, arriving ere we are aware.

Fifty years and still some added since Pomeroy took her iron-trail, Through mossy rocks and shaded fern-beds like a path through Eden's vale.

All these years and Pomeroy's left us—left us in our valley homes; You have gone but memory lingers, echoing your warning tones.

We have watched you from our windows since we first commenced to see, Like a friend that's always welcome, we hailed you in childish glee.

All these mornings have we heard you, coming round the southern curve, Just as surely as the sun rose on his orbs the day to serve.

Waking all the wild-wood bowers, calling to them " 'tis the hour" Bid them from their sleepy dreaming, like the bell-man from the tower.

In the warm noon-day you've journeyed when the breezes would but dream, Wake the herd from their siesta by the cool and limped stream.

On a balmy summer evening you rolled down from northern hills, When the hours were growing weary as the day her duty fills.

We have gazed on you by moonlight when you hushed the whip-poor-will For a moment would be silent, till you'd passed beyond the hill.

We have seen you in the darkness lighting up the dreary way, Streaming lights across the water, how we wished that they would stay.

But your lights they would not linger. Fifty years is just such stuff Some days happy, bright and cheery, other days be dark enough.

White Clay Creek will still her waters with a lonely wandering sigh, Hark! her waters to be silent just to hear you passing by.

But her waters still rush onward—other waters fill their place, So it seems that all things changes, must be so in every case.

Changes come and wrestle with us. It seems so for fate to play, We can wait until tomorrow, or we can "shuffle off" today.

Old Pomeroy you've gone forever, very shortly we may follow, We'll go as gently gliding down, and forever quit the hollow.

BROODER HOUSE SANITATION

Brooder House Sanitation

Comfort and cleanliness are the secret to successful brooding. Thousands of chicks are murdered every year by being placed in cold, damp houses that are loaded with disease germs.

Preparing for the Chicks

Sweep the ceiling, walls and floor. With a trowel, hoe or putty knife scrape every particle of manure from the floor and stove. See that the roof, walls and floor are perfectly tight.

Scrub the walls and floor with a strong solution of boiling hot lye water. (1 pound of concentrated lye and 8 gallons of water will clean a 10 x 12 room.)

Spray the inside of the house with a 5 per cent solution of crude carbolic acid. (13 table spoonful of crude carbolic acid to 1 gallon of water makes a 5 per cent solution.) Use boiling hot water and enough to completely wet the entire inside of the brooder room.

If the brooder house has a dirt floor, you should remove about 4 to 6 inches of the top layer and replace with dry soil from a field where no chicks have ever run.

Litter for the Floor

When the oor has dried, a layer of dry, clean sand 1/4 inch deep should be put in. Over the sand place 1/2 inch layer of short cut straw, hay or shavings.

Keeping the House Clean

Ten days after the chicks are put in, remove the litter and sand, sweep the floor, and spray it lightly with a 5 per cent solution of crude carbolic acid. Place in new sand and litter—1/4 inch of sand and 1/2 inch of litter.

Every five days after this, repeat this cleaning until the chicks are 8 weeks old.

If at any time the litter becomes damp, remove it at once and replace with litter that is clean and dry. Never use dusty or mouldy material for litter.

Summer Green Food for the Chicks

The growing chicks must be provided with an abundance of tender, digestible green food if they are to develop into strong, healthy pullets that will lay and pay.

The question is, "How are we to furnish this green feed?" That will depend upon such things as the type of house and the kind of land you have for the growing chicks to use. To get good results the land must be well manured and fertilized.

For Unlimited Range—Permanent Pasture

The best way to furnish green food is to have movable brooder houses that can be moved each year into a fresh field of alfalfa, sweet clover, or some other green pasture.

For Limited Range—Rye, Rape, Kale and Oats

Where non-movable brooder houses are used, or the amount of ground is rather limited, divide the ground into three lots. Allow no chickens on these lots from the time pullets are removed in the fall until chicks are hatched in spring.

In the fall after pullets are placed in laying houses, lime the soil in all lots around the brooder house, and sow to rye. (Use 800 pounds Hydratic lime to the acre on sandy soil and 1000 pounds on heavier soils.)

In spring leave the lot on the south side of brooder house in rye for early pasture for chicks. As early as the weather will permit, put a heavy coat

The following is the report of the Delaware Farm Egg Laying Contest for the month of February:

Total number of farms reporting	159

Best flock of hens (400 and over)	116	1042	14.2
*Best mixed flock (400 and over)	218	1095	18.3

* Mixed flocks are flocks of hens and pullets running together.

of well rotted barn-yard manure (not chicken manure) on other two lots of rye and turn under. Prepare a good seed bed and work in 100 pounds nitrate of soda or ammonin sulphate to the acre.

Sow both lots early in spring to oats, rape and kale. Use 3 pounds of rape, 2 pounds of kale, and 1 bushel of oats seed to the acre. What is wanted is large stalks of rape and kale that will last all summer. The oats will soon be eaten out.

When the chicks have eaten out the rye in lot No. 1, they can be turned into lot No. 2 on oats, rape and kale. This will have start enough to hold them 6 to 8 weeks. When lot No. 2 is eaten out turn on lot No. 3 which by that time will be so large that it will last all summer and fall.

I have seen some wonderful results with this system on some of the crowded poultry farms around Vineland, New Jersey.

For Crowded Runs—Hand Fed

For those who must keep their young stock confined to such close quarters that the above system cannot be used:

Turn soil in fall, lime and sow rye. Turn young chicks on this rye first thing in spring. Plow and reseed often during summer.

For late spring and summer—plant in the garden or truck patch some kind of greens that can be cut and thrown to the chicks. Lettuce, kale, rape, swiss chard and sorghum are all good for this purpose. Lawn clippings are very valuable. One of Delaware's most successful poultrymen sprinkles his lawn during dry weather and uses clippings almost exclusively. He considers his lawn worth $500 a year for this purpose.

For very early chicks and to tide over dry spells, sprouted oats are useful.

Evolution Of The Automobile Body

The development of technique in automobile body construction is an interesting example of the adaptation of design to changing conditions. The modern motor car body bears as much resemblance to the old fashioned carriage it replaces as the modern locomotive to the first wood-burners that paved the way for today's rail transportation systems. And yet the first automobile bodies varied but little from those of horse-drawn vehicles.

Regardless of speed, the strains, vibrations and shocks of self-propulsion are more severe than those sustained by a vehicle that is hauled by power originating outside itself. When high speed is added, the intensity of these destructive stresses is many times multiplied. Thus it was found that carriage body construction lacked the sturdiness required for motor transportation.

The ordinary wagon or carriage, however built, would soon be shaken to pieces if it were hitched to an automobile and hauled over average roads at speeds of 30 miles an hour and upward.

Despite flexible springs, shock-absorbers and up-to-date balloon tires, automobile bodies still have tremendous strains, shocks and vibration to withstand. They must be built with the utmost strength if they are not to fall to pieces, and yet must overcome the handicap of weight. They must be both light and strong.

The joints that bind the several sections of the automobile body together are a vital point in automobile body construction. According to Colin Campbell, vice-president of Durant Motors, Inc., in the manufacture of bodies for Star Cars are used the most approved modern methods of body construction to insure perfect fitting joints and construction strength that resists disintegration and protects against the squeaks and rattles which are the first signs of loosened joints.

All joints are turned out on jigs with mathematical accuracy that insures perfect fit. Joints of wooden framework are dowelled, screwed and glued, offering effectual resistance against the leverage of road shocks and sideways. These dowelled joints are reinforced where practicable with steel braces and angle irons. A joint so constructed is stronger than the wood itself.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS
President American Society for Thrift

Western newspapers recently told of the death of an Ohio farmer, in settling up his estate it was found that $2,900 had been deposited in a bank and $80,000 had been secreted in cash in fruit cans about his home.

The incident is not unusual. Almost daily we read of cases where considerable sums of money have been hoarded. In fact, government statisticians estimate that something like $400,000,000 is lying idle in this country continually as a result of this hoarding habit upon the part of thousands of our citizens.

While it is difficult to say anything against saving money, there is little or nothing to choose between the spendthrift and the miser. Each illustrates the need of thrift education.

It is not hard as a rule to earn money in this country. Any person with a reasonable amount of industry and a reasonable amount of intelligence can earn a good livelihood. But the hard task is in saving anything out of our earnings.

It recently was estimated that the people of this country are today losing considerably more than one billion dollars a year through frauds of various kinds. A large part of these frauds are possible because those who are victimized have never given thorough study to problems of personal finance, which is nothing more or less than thrift.

It does not pay to put our money away in tin cans where it is of no use to us or to our families or to society. Neither does money which slips through fraudulent investments or useless extravagances do us any good.

There is a great deal to be learned in correct spending. It is a mistaken idea that the man who merely saves is necessarily thrifty. The thrifty man is he who saves his money and puts it to good use.

RED MEN HOLD BIG CONCLAVE

Newark Tribe Have Honor Position in County Meeting Saturday Night

More than 1000 members of the various tribes of the Improved Order of Red Men in New Castle county, took part in the rally and class adoption held at the New Century Club Saturday night in honor of Great Sachem Harvey J. Davis, of Union, Delaware. The exercises began with a street parade in which 800 members participated. The parade started from the Red Men's Hall, between Fifth and Sixth streets, on Shipley, and ended at the New Century Club.

The parade was headed by a squad of patrolmen under command of Police Sergeant John Devenish. Music was furnished by the Five Points Band. Many of the paraders were in their lodge costumes their faces being smeared with "War Paint."

At the Century Club the adoption degree was conferred upon a class of 40 candidates by Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23, of Newark. Following the conferring of the adoption degree Herbert F. Stater, great chief of records of the Great Council of the United States brought a message from the great inchoonee, and congratulated the Red Men of Delaware for such an enthusiastic meeting.

The warrior degree was then conferred by Manitoo Tribe, No. 18.

Past Great Sachem Samuel H. Walker, of Pennsylvania, made an address during which he invited the Delaware tribes to attend the Sesqui-Centennial session on June 19, in Philadelphia.

The chief's degree was conferred by Moccopnaca Tribe, No. 149, of Chester, Pa.

The Degree Team of Minnehaha Tribe was as follows:

SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORY SKETCHES

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

Richard Stockton, Signer

Thrown into the common prison in New York by a band of loyalists, and treated with the utmost severity during the Revolution, was the fate of Richard Stockton, of New Jersey, signer of the Declaration of Independence, to be commemorated by the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia, June 1 to December 1.

At the direction of Congress, General Washington remonstrated with General Howe, and Stockton was exchanged shortly afterward, but his health had been permanently impaired.

The New Jersey signer was born near Princeton in 1730. He was graduated from Princeton College, after which he studied law. When he visited Great Britain a few years later, he exerted himself especially to remove the prevailing ignorance regarding the American colonies. For a while he strove to effect a reconciliation between the colonies and the mother country, and was silent for a time in the opening debates on the question of Independence. In the end, he expressed concurrence in the final vote and signed the Declaration.

Richard Stockton's library, one of the best in the country, was burned by the British when they occupied Princeton at the close of 1776, and his estate, called "Morven," in the suburbs of Princeton, was devastated. The portraits of the signer and his wife were pierced with bayonets. By these strokes of ill luck, and by the depreciation of Colonial currency, his fortunes were greatly diminished and he was forced to obtain help from friends.

As an eminent lawyer who became Judge of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, Richard Stockton became a valuable member of the Continental Congress to which he was elected in 1776. He signed the Declaration of Independence along with his distinguished son-in-law, Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia, who married his daughter Julia.

Minister denies that churches have started wars. Wonder how many people he has married.—Seattle Argus.

1200 EXTRAS USED IN TOM MIX FILM

Twelve hundred extras were required to take part in the tremendous scene in front of the king's palace in the dream sequence of "The Lucky Horseshoe," the Tom Mix feature at the Hamark theatre.

Particular care was taken in the selection of these types, with the result that most of the crowd spoke nothing but Spanish or Italian and the instructions of the director and his small army of assistants had to be translated before the picture could proceed. "The Lucky Horseshoe" is somewhat new in the way of westerns,

OBITUARY

MARY J. CROW

Mary J. Crow, aged 58 years, wife of James Crow, died suddenly at her home on Academy street Sunday evening, following an illness of several weeks. Relatives and close friends were shocked to hear of her death, as her condition was not believed to be critical.

Mrs. Crow was a familiar figure in the neighborhood and had many friends throughout this section.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from her late home, at two o'clock, in charge of Rev. Frank Herson. Interment was made in Newark cemetery.

Deceased was a sister of the late James Brown, who died about a year ago. She is survived by her husband, one sister, Sue Brown of Wilmington, and a brother in Pittsburgh.

LUCY R. HOWELL

Following an attack of apoplexy suffered while a patient in the County Hospital, Mrs. Lucy R. Howell died suddenly there last evening, at the age of 65 years. Her husband, Jacob Howell, was also a patient at the hospital when his wife died.

For several years, Mr. and Mrs. Howell resided on the Tweed farm north of Newark. Lately they have been tenants on the Krapf farm near here.

Funeral services for Mrs. Howell will be held tomorrow afternoon from the funeral parlors of Robert T. Jones. Interment will be made in Newark cemetery. Rev. Frank Herson will have charge of the services.

Lodge Notes

Worthy Grand Matron Mrs. Louise W. Green and her staff of officers of the Grand Chapter of Delaware, O. E. S., will make their first annual visitation to Newark Chapter, No. 10, O. E. S., on Thursday evening, April 1st. An able committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Maud Coverdale is making arrangements for the reception of the visitors.

The work will be exemplified by Newark Chapter in its usual creditable manner. This Chapter, though less than a year old, has made a record for itself among the other Chapters of the State.

All members are expected and urged to be present, and a cordial invitation to members of other Chapters is extended. This Chapter opens at 7:45 o'clock, at which time all officers are asked to be in their stations.

To Vivist Western Apple Orchards

The American Pomological Society has arranged for a trip to the Pacific Coast this summer, leaving Chicago about June 20, and occupying about fifteen days. The first district visited will be that of Boise, Idaho, when the famous Jonathan and Rome Beauty districts of southwestern Idaho will be inspected. The next place will be Hood River, noted for Yellow Newton and Spitzenburg apples. Then will come Portland and the Willamette Valley. From there, the trip will take in the Puget Sound territory, Yakim and Wonatchee.

On this trip will be associated the leading fruit growers of the Eastern and Central states. In the northwest, those who attend will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the men who have built up the Western apple industry. The cost of the trip will not necessarily be more than $200 to $225 from Chicago and return.

Exhibition Of Famous Paintings In High School Here April 14 to 16

Two Hundred Prints, Some in Full Color, Complete Showing; School to Profit

Announcement has been made of a showing of over two hundred copies of famous paintings to be held in the new High School auditorium here on April 14th, 15th and 16th next.

Recognizing the educational advantages to be derived from opportunities to see good art, the schools have arranged with the Elson Art Publication Company, Inc., of Belmont, Mass., for the exhibition.

This collection, consisting in large part of carbon photographs, photo-gravures and prints in full color, made directly from the original masterpieces, is selected by art experts and should attract large crowds. A small admission will be charged, the entire proceeds of which, after deducting the expense of the exhibit will be used in the purchase of pictures for wall decoration. The purpose of the exhibition is thus clearly two-fold:

First—To give people an opportunity to see a collection of the world's masterpieces of paintings, sculpture, and architecture.

Second—To make it possible for the public schools to own a few of these pictures.

One of the leading contemporary art critics, John C. Van Dyke, says:

"You must look at pictures studiously, earnestly, honestly. It will take years before you can come to a full appreciation of it, but when at last you have you will be possessed of one of the purest, loftiest and most ennobling pleasures that the work can offer you."

One great object of picture study is that of opening the eyes to the beauty all around which an artist's trained eye perceives, while it is missed by others. This is the essential service of all great men—to draw us up in some measure to their own level of insight, enjoyment, and inspiration.

Washington

(By National Press)

There is need for a real investigation of the Federal Tariff Commission. It expends a considerable amount of money, and its decisions of necessity have an important bearing on American economic life. But such an investigation should be based on a desire to learn the facts with the idea of either improving or abolishing the body. When, as in the present instance, its hearings are conducted with the idea of discovering, if possible, issues on which the opponents can make a fresh start, then it forfeits public respect even before it is well under way.

Before the lamentations of the experts who functioned with this Board under Democratic national auspices are taken too seriously by the public, it is well for the farmers to remember that it was a ruling of this Board last fall on wheat which helped to save the market, and that a ruling on butter even within the last few days has operated to protect American dairymen from the flood of foreign butters which were wrecking their field. American businessmen, if they look back, can also remember instances where only the ability of this Board to function has made possible the quick adjustment of tariff duties made necessary by a combination of flat paper money and low labor prices abroad, and this allowed certain American industries to continue.

cause of unscientific methods and com-petition of the drillers. Six barrels of oil are lost for each barrel secured.
