Schools Open On Monday

New Principal and Many New Teachers

Newark Public Schools, under the direction of the new principal, Robert J. Koehler, will open on September 3rd. Pupils will report for registration on Monday, and regular classes will begin on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Koehler, the new principal, comes to Newark from Avonmore, Pa., where he was principal of the schools, and his administration promises to be a progressive one. He is a personal friend of Dr. C. J. Scott, superintendent of the Wilmington schools, both men being graduates of Allegheny College. Mr. Koehler has also taken special work in Pedagogy at the University of Pennsylvania. He taught during the 1917 Summer School a class in Methods at Delaware College.

Mr. Koehler's assistants in the high school are also new teachers. Miss Ethel Bruebaker, of Bird-in-Hand, Pa., who has been elected vice-principal, is a graduate of Oberlin College, with several years' experience. She will teach Mathematics and Science. A teacher of English and History will be selected tomorrow.

In the grammar grades there are two new teachers, Miss Ida Armstrong, of Newark, who succeeds Miss McKee, resigned, and Miss Katharine Raby, of Rose Hill, Delaware, assigned to the Eighth Grade.

Mr. Frank P. Mitchell, Secretary of the Wilmington Y. M. C. A., will speak at the twilight services on the College Hall steps next Sunday evening. These services will be continued for two more weeks. Owing to the shortening evenings, the service will begin promptly at six o'clock.

Officers To Be Elected

The W. C. T. U. will meet this Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary B. Donnell. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at the meeting.

WEDDINGS

Vallandigham-Butler

Hilda, eldest daughter of Edward N. Vallandigham, formerly of Newark, was married at Chestnut Hill, Mass., on Friday, August 24th, to Second Lieutenant Pierce Butler, Jr., of the 36th U. S. Infantry, now stationed at Fort Snelling, Minn. Mr. Butler is a graduate of Princeton and of the Harvard Law School, and had just finished his law course when he entered the present war. He first served in the officers' reserve, and then entered the regular army. He is the son of Pierce Butler, a lawyer of St. Paul, and he expects upon leaving the army to enter his father's law office. The young couple went West on Monday, August 27th, as Lieutenant Butler's leave expired on Wednesday. It is possible that Lieutenant Butler may be ordered to France between now and the end of the year, or he may be retained in this country for some months to help drill raw troops.

Hershey-Osmond

Miss Marie Osmond of Harrisburg, well-known in Newark where she frequently visits her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Osmond, was quietly married in Philadelphia last Saturday to Mr. Harry Hershey of the same city. A home wedding had been planned at a later date but owing to the probability of Mr. Hershey's being called for service in the National army the young couple decided upon a quiet wedding at once. Mr. Hershey has already been called for the physical examination which he has passed successfully.

The bride and groom are now on a honeymoon, which includes short stays at Atlantic City, Niagara Falls, and Pittsburgh.

Deming Pays Tribute To Delaware's Colonel

The Deming, N. M., Headlight, one of New Mexico's leading newspapers, publishes the following story, which will be of great interest to Delawareans, under date of August 17, 1917. It is a fitting testimony to the esteem in which the commanding officer of the Delaware regiment is held. The story follows:

Governor Townsend of Delaware has appointed Major J. Warner Reed of the First Delaware Infantry, which was encamped here at Camp Deming as a part of the Fourth Separate Brigade, colonel of the newly raised regiment.

Major Reed was one of the most popular and efficient officers who came down to the border, and the entire city of Deming will be delighted to learn of his promotion and his State's recognition of his ability. The Delaware troops were one of the finest body of men encamped here; they made the remarkable record of not losing a single man during the entire time of their encampment. Brigadier-General Edwin A. Glenn, who commanded the fourth brigade, sent the strongest possible recommendation of Major Reed to Governor Townsend.

The officer has served his State during 23 years, enlisting as a member of Company A of the Delaware National Guard, on September 10, 1894. He was rapidly promoted to the grades of corporal and sergeant and was made a second lieutenant of Company C in 1901, captain in 1903 and was commissioned a major on March 7, 1906. He served through the Spanish War, was in the Federal service while on the border and has been in command of the soldiers on duty throughout the State since the nation's latest call.

There have been many other promotions among the Delaware officers, the majority of whom have many friends in Deming, who admire them for their many fine many qualities and soldierly attainments.

Boy's Bicycle Stolen

A bicycle belonging to Alphonso Taylor, a fifteen-year-old colored boy employed on the farm of Mrs. Rebecca Wilson, was stolen from the premises of the Deer Park Hotel last Friday evening. The boy left the bicycle, which is a "Ranger," with frame painted yellow, hidden in the hedge, between the hotel and the Newark Garage and Electric Company. Returning about nine-thirty, he found the wheel gone. Officer Appleby was notified of the theft, but to date he has received no word of it.

Normal Crop Still Possible

Although due to the dry weather tomatoes are coming in very slowly at the Ritter Kitchen, Mr. Reynolds, manager of the local plant, believes the yield may yet be normal. "Tomatoes mature in from 33 to 35 days from the time they blossom," he contends, "and that gives ample time, should we have a fall as late as last year, for the farmer to deliver a normal crop." Only about fifteen farmers, those who planted very early, are hauling to the kitchen this week. Shipments are being received daily, however, and the catsup making department is being operated to its full capacity. Bean packing was discontinued last Monday.

Mr. Ritter visited Newark today after a tour of the estate. He estimates an 80 percent normal yield are an increased acreage which will make Delaware's tomato production a normal one. Mr. Ritter anticipates the usual glut on the market in September.

Accepts Position With Farmers' Trust

Clarence S. Diggs, former secretary of the Elkton Banking and Trust Company, has accepted the position of book-keeper at the Farmers' Trust Company of Newark.

YARN NOT YET HERE

Plenty Of Work On Way For Delaware Women

Many Newark women have forwarded their names to Miss Grime, volunteering to knit for the comfort of soldiers of our army, and non-combatants in Europe next winter. The call which came from Grayson Murphy, Red Cross Commissioner in Europe, asks for 1 1/2 million sets, each containing sweater, socks, wristlets, and scarf, and Delaware is urged by the Red Cross Chapter to furnish 7500 sets. Although the yarn was ordered many weeks ago it has not yet arrived from the factory. Miss Grime called at Wilmington headquarters yesterday, and was assured that the order from Newark would be filled at the earliest possible moment. Any woman with the skill to knit socks, which are especially desired, is urged to report for duty.

Company E Men To Be Canvassed

Committee Seeks to Learn Their Wishes

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the gift fund for Company E, held last evening, the treasurer reported cash on hand amounting to $400, with additional pledges up to $40. Owing to dissatisfaction on the part of some townspeople relative to the use of this sum for the purchase of a baseball outfit, as at first suggested, it was decided to state the circumstance to the officers of the Company, and ask them to make a canvass, among the Company men, to learn their wishes.

A member of the committee in discussing the situation this morning said, "No one on the committee has any special desire to present a baseball outfit. The sole purpose is to do something which will give pleasure to the men of the Company, through a gift which possesses some degree of permanency. Suggestions will be gladly received. It is, however, necessary to act at once."

Rally Day At St. Thomas'

Next Sunday, September the second, will be Rally Day for the Sunday School at the St. Thomas P. E. Church. All parents are requested by the rector to send their children to the school next Sunday.

The regular Sunday night services of the parish will be resumed on Sunday evening, at seven-thirty.

OBITUARY

Henry C. Leak

Henry C. Leak, aged 37 years, died suddenly Sunday night at the home of his father, Charles Leak, on Choate Street. Mr. Leak had been complaining for two weeks, and had several times visited the doctor, but the trouble was not considered serious by anyone. A noise disturbed the family on Sunday, during the night, and on investigation revealed that Mr. Leak had fallen from the bed. He died before a physician could be summoned.

Funeral services were held from the late residence this afternoon at two o'clock. Interment, Head of Christiana Cemetery. His father, one sister, Mrs. J. T. Wilson, and four brothers, Howard, George, and Walter Leak, of Newark, and Wilmer Leak, of California, survive.

Adaline Hurd Curtis

Mrs. Adaline Hurd Curtis, widow of S. Minot Curtis, died at her home. "The Key" at nine o'clock, after a long illness. Mrs. Curtis was born in 1850, and was ninety-three years of age at the time of her death. She was a member of the church, and her active life was within the last year, when her health began to fail, was the marvel of all who knew her. The deceased had been a devoted member of St. Thomas P. E. Church for many years, and until recently regularly attended all church services. She gave liberally to charity and took an active interest in every uplift movement in the town of Newark.

S. Minot Curtis, husband of the deceased, died about twelve years ago. He was one of the pioneer paper manufacturers of Massachusetts, and came to Newark in about 1840. He was a member of the original firm of Curtis Brothers, paper manufacturers. Later several brothers joined him in the business. Alfred A. Curtis, a nephew, is now at the head of the firm which still operates the paper plant, and which is one of the best known in the country.

Mrs. Curtis was the last of five long-lived sisters, one of whom was Mrs. Harriett Curtis of Newark, who died last January in her ninety-fifth year. She is survived by one son, Walter C. Curtis, and a niece, Miss Francis Hurd, who lived with her for many years. A daughter, Mrs. Allen Brewer, died several years ago.

Funeral services were held last Saturday, August 25th, in St. Thomas Church. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

WHAT ONE MAN IS DOING FOR GOOD ROADS

A Story of Pierre duPont's Activity as Related by the American Highway Association

Bad roads are a kind of habit. Country children toddled over them to school, youths found them good enough for their youthful needs, and so when the young folks grow up and drive to town over them the poor roads seem a fixture in the landscape. They are known to be bad, but so is rain in mowing time, and both are looked upon as inevitable. It is this habit of regarding poor roads as incapable of betterment which has to be broken down, and it is not easy to change established habits.

Fortunately road improvements are not usually stopped when they have once been started in a thriving, intelligent district, but it is often a slow business starting them. The habit of mind, the contentment with ruts and mud, must be overcome. Although a district may have been settled for more than a century and have a well-to-do population, its roads will be likely to stay poor until a few men take the matter in hand and wake up their neighbors to the advantages of good roads. Sometimes the persistent efforts of one man can accomplish this. An instance recently investigated by the American Highway Association affords a good proof of what one man can do to turn poor roads into good roads.

A good many comments have been made among the roadbuilders of southeastern Pennsylvania lately about the steady, quiet progress in road improvements in the part of Chester county adjoined to the state of Delaware. The county has long been famous for its roads and peaches; it is now coming into prominence for its road improvements, and the record of these improvements is a story of the public service of one man.

In 1906 Pierre S. duPont bought a very old estate at Longwood, laid out over 150 years ago in the old manorial style but allowed to fall into rather poor condition by its later owners. It could only be reached from Wilmington over poor roads, after leaving a fair turnpike running from that city to the Pennsylvania line. The improvement of an estate while the roads about it were left in bad condition seemed a one-sided business to the new owner of Longwood. The rich agricultural, fruit and dairy district would plainly be helped along by good roads, so Mr. duPont began to interest his neighbors in the work.

At first it was pretty slow work, for some of the people thought that the owner of Longwood was interested only in improving roads reaching that estate. They found out in course of time, however, that this was wrong, that the improvement of any important road in that part of the country was just as warmly supported by him as if the road led by his property. He not only contributed large sums to the cost of the roads but also gave the services of his personal engineer, Wm. M. Francis, to the local authorities if they wished such engineering assistance.

Today there are about 12 miles of macadam road in the southern part of the county which have been built by the expenditure of about 6 miles worth of expense exclusively by the remainder with his active co-operation. He is maintaining a large part of these roads at his own expense, spreading dry calcium chloride over them every four to six weeks, with screening whenever necessary. The scarifier and roller are familiar sights there. He is encouraging in a substantial way the maintenance of the remaining sections of improved roads. As a result of the object lesson taught by these excellent country roads, which carry considerable travel, road improvement is now warmly supported in the southern part of the county and the local authorities, backed by public sentiment, are undertaking work on their own account.

DEAN CULLIMORE DESCRIBES ACTIVITIES OF MAINE CAMP

The following letter received from Dean Cullimore this week, will interest many readers of the Post:

Technology Training Unit,
Camp Cunningham,
Technology, Maine
August 19th, 1917

My dear Mr. Johnson:

It has seemed to me that you might be interested in the activities of the camp here this summer. The Institute of Technology owns about 800 acres of land on

A much more interesting piece of road work, from a construction viewpoint, is being carried out by Mr. duPont from the Pennsylvania-Delaware line to a point 3 miles distant. Although this section of road is one of the main highways to Wilmington, it was narrow, winding and obstructed by steep grades. It is part of one of Pennsylvania State highways, so Mr. duPont has been co-operating with the highway department of that commonwealth in its improvement. The old right-of-way was much too narrow, so after the state's engineers relocated the road to suit themselves Mr. duPont bought the additional right-of-way that was needed. He has moved buildings for their owners, when they would otherwise be destroyed or injured by the improvements, and he has even moved trees for them. So far as the right-of-way negotiations are concerned, he assumed them, and they were heavy.

Down this right-of-way is being built one of the widest country roads in the United States. In the center is a concrete slab, 24 feet wide, 6 1/2 inches thick at the sides and 9 1/2 inches at the center. Except where the concrete is laid on deep fills it has no joints. At each side there will be a shoulder of macadam 3 feet wide, making the entire width of the highway 30 feet. At one place, the work is held up just now because the highway will cross over a steam railway and the railway company has not yet prepared the finished plans for the crossing. This is by no means all the story, however. The contract for building the road was taken by the Good Roads Construction Company. When it is said that Mr. Francis is President of this company the interference is clear that Mr. duPont is the company, and that the State will obtain an unusual road at an unusual price.

It is not only in country road building that Mr. duPont has shown his appreciation of traffic needs. For a long time there was a narrow street in Wilmington which was not only overcrowded but also dangerous because vehicles passing along its narrow pavement were in danger of colliding with those on intersecting streets, because it was not possible to see an approaching vehicle until the crossing was reached. To make this street safe as well as wide enough for the traffic, it was necessary to do what Paron Hausmann did in Paris under Napoleon III, cut off some of the houses. Mr. duPont has accordingly bought an additional 20 feet along one side of this street and workmen are now cutting 20 feet off the buildings and constructing new fronts for them. In one case, where the trustees of a church refused to allow such work to be done on the church property, a lot was bought for them in another part of the city and a substantial contribution made toward the cost of a new church there.

It is not every man who can spend several million dollars improving streets and roads for the public good. The money is not the most important contribution made by Mr. duPont in this work, however, for the careful thought and large amount of time he has devoted to arousing an interest in good roads has been of greater value. He has aroused this interest thoroughly, so that while Chester county people speak of him as "the road builder" of the county, they are really all road-builders themselves now, which it is a real achievement to have brought about in a conservative district where men change their views slowly. Furthermore, all this has been done very quietly, just among neighbors, as it were, and this account of the work is probably the first public notice of it that has appeared except for brief notes in local papers.

quarters, two students being assigned to each tent while each instructor has a tent to himself.

The purpose of the camp is twofold: first, to provide military instruction for men purposing to enter the service; and second, to furnish instruction in surveying as a part of the regular course in Civil Engineering at the Institute. The work in these two lines is correlated in such a way as to give every man in attendance some work of each type.

Professor Short and I were fortunate enough to have a drawing room assigned for our use on the special train which left Boston on the 23rd of July. Leaving Boston at ten in the evening we arrived at East Machias at about the same hour the next morning, where we detrained and marched to the shore of the lake nearest the village. Here we were met by the camp motor boat, towing a scow, and finished our journey by water.

By nightfall our baggage had arrived, the quartermaster had furnished us with blankets, poncho, and bed linen and we felt quite at home.

The next morning the regular work of the camp began. The first call comes at 5.50, and, if by chance the bugle does not have the desired effect, the cannon shot when the colors go up seldom fails to do the work. Then come twenty minutes of vigorous setting-up exercises following by a plunge in the lake, and breakfast at 6.30. From 7.15 to 9.00 there is drill for all the students. At nine the engineers begin their class work which extends with an hours intermission until 5.30 P. M. At 6.15 retreat is sounded with taps sounds at 9.30 most of us are ready to sleep. Saturday is not so strenuous, all work being suspended at noon, and Sunday, of course, is a rest day, the men attending church in East Machias.

At present Professor Short is doing railroad work while I am on the hydrography. As we take lunches in the field all our day is spent away from camp in the woods, but with games around the fireplace at night the social side is not altogether neglected.

The military work is of a very interesting nature. We have just finished demolishing a miniature Belgian village with a siege gun of wood mounting a .22 calibre rifle all by indirect pointing. The work at present is in the trenches. We have 600 feet of firing trench with communicating trenches, machine gun emplacements, a complete buzzer system of intercommunication. The men are even sleeping in the dugouts at night.

Captain Blaind of the Canadian Artillery has charge of this branch of the work and is a splendid fellow just back from the other side. A week ago he entertained us with his experiences in France. The Captain is to have charge of the instruction of the Yale Battery next year and I hope to persuade him to come to Newark to talk to the Engineers during the winter. Both Professor Short and I are strongly in hope that Delaware College can institute a camp of this kind next summer. The results which are appearing already amply justify the idea.

I do not want to leave you with the impression that it is all work here and no play. Last Saturday three of us went fishing and brought back fish for the 130 men in camp. They were bass with a few pickerel, the bass up here in the cold water are great sport and as these ran about two pounds apiece you can imagine the kind of sport I mean. Short seems to be the star fisherman but I think that last week he had all the fishing he cared for.

Perhaps the best way to end this rather disconnected letter is to say that there have been very few nights in the last month when a fire was not welcome. With kindest regards, I am

Most sincerely,

Judge Churchman on Friday held for the action of the Grand Jury Charles Miller, Charles Harrison and Harry Gold, who were caught at Fourth and Market streets, Wilmington, by policemen after a lively chase on the night of August 18, when several persons complained that the men had picked their pockets. They affected innocence but were identified by victims and Judge Churchman meanwhile had obtained records showing they had served time on various charges in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland. In default of bail they were later committed to the Workhouse by Justice Gillis for the action of the Grand Jury on two charges of larceny and one of attempted larceny.

Warned Paper Train In Time

Less than a minute before the newspaper train, bound from New York to Washington, was due at Fifth and Wilson streets, Chester, early on Sunday morning of last week, John McGinley, track-worker, noticed that the rails had spread at the crossing. He stood between the rails and waved his lantern to and fro. The Engineer saw his signals in time and stopped the train within a few feet of the spread rails. The train was shifted to the middle track.

Notable Seashore Nuptials

Lieutenant Alban R. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alban H. Reed, of 4418 Walnut street, Philadelphia, and Miss Mary E. Polk Pyle, daughter of Colonel T. J. Pyle, of Georgetown, were married at the Pyle cottage, Rehoboth Beach, on Friday, by Rev. Disston W. Jacobs, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church.

The bride is a niece of Congressman Albert F. Polk and a great-granddaughter of the late Governor Charles Polk, of Delaware. The groom was a student at Harvard when the bride was attending Georgetown High School. Their families spent several summers at Rehoboth Beach, where their courtship was begun. The groom was recently commissioned at the Fort Sheridan, Chicago, Training School and was ordered to report at Grand Rapids, Mich. He came to Georgetown and arranged for the marriage, as he wished to claim his promised bride before leaving for Grand Rapids.

Don't you often see a recipe in the paper that you think seems especially good? And don't you often put it in your recipe book, intending to paste and classify it later? And the first thing you know you want it in a hurry, and you sort frantically through a great stack of clippings and fail to find it.

To meet just this circumstance we have designed a little holder for clipped recipes—a series of large envelopes, labelled Soups, Salads, Meats, Cakes, etc., all tied together in a folder, into which you can conveniently slip your clipping and have it properly classified, without the waste of a minute.

All human history attests

"That happiness for man—the hungry sinner— Since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner."

Byron admonishes the cook, from the back of one envelope, and appropriate quotations appear throughout the series. Everyone pronounces the holders splendid for gifts. Let us send you one for yourself and a friend. Price 35 cents.

CAMP McCLELLAN REPORTED IN READINESS

Official Orders To Move Daily Expected

Although Camp McClellan at Annapolis, Md., is reported to be completed, according to unofficial telegraphic advices and Captain Hirzel of Company D, now located there, has written to Colonel Reed of the First Delaware Regiment that everything is in readiness for the Delaware regiment at the camp, no official advice has been received at the local military quarters as to the movement of the troops. The men now at Annapolis are as much in the dark as to when the Delaware troops will go as are the Delaware troops about the time of their departure.

According to the Annapolis dispatch, the Delaware regiment is likely to be brigaded with the Second and Third New Jersey regiments. New Jersey engineers have played a big part in getting the cantonment in shape. It is expected that within a fortnight 45,000 troops will be quartered there.

HOW TO INCREASE THE YIELD OF WHEAT

The Treatment For Stinking Smut

The following advice relative to increased wheat production has been prepared by Prof. Grantham of Delaware College:

The wheat yield is often much lessened by certain diseases to which the plant is subject. One of the most important of these is "stinking smut," or "bunt," as it is sometimes called. This is a fungus disease which attacks the wheat kernel, turning the contents into a dark brown, dust-like, somewhat greasy, ill-smelling mass. These are the spores of the fungus. The disagreeable odor is generally noticeable at threshing time, altho the infected grains will often pass unnoticed. The diseased kernels may often be recognized by their darker color and the absence of germ or crease. The chaff of the wheat is not affected and the grower will seldom suspect the presence of the disease until threshing.

"Stinking smut" not only destroys the grain, but lowers the value of good wheat on account of the strong disagreeable odor it gives the flour. The annual loss from this disease in the U. S. is estimated at 20,000,000.

Seed treatment with formalin will readily prevent the occurrence of "stinking smut" and will greatly assist in checking scab, anthracnose and other parasitic fungi. Thorough soaking and grading, followed by the formalin treatment, will greatly improve the prospects for a good yield of prime quality.

Spread the seed on a clean floor or canvas and sprinkle with a solution of one pound (pint) of formalin to fifty gallons of water until thoroughly moist, but not wet enough to drip. Stir the seed repeatedly to distribute the moisture evenly, then shovel into a pile and cover with sacks or canvas for two hours. Spread in a thin layer to dry, stirring frequently. Sacks, drills, or other receptacles should be disinfected with the same solution before filling with the treated seed. One pound (pint) formalin when made up with water, will treat forty to fifty bushels of wheat. Formalin costs fifty to seventy-five cents per pound (pint).

Insects In Stored Wheat

The Angoumois grain moth and the weevil often attack newly threshed or stored grain. The best method of combating these insects is to treat the grain with carbon bisulphid. This liquid evaporates rapidly, and the gas being heavier than air, sinks quickly into the depths of the grain. It should be placed in shallow pans on the surface of the grain. In buildings reasonably tight 4 pounds of carbon bisulphid is sufficient for each 1000 cubic feet of space, or 1 pound for each 35 bushels of grain. If the bins are not tight or have considerable surface, or the insects are very abundant, the quantity should be doubled. The fumigation should be allowed to continue 24 hours, or even longer if the grain is not to be sown. The fumigation will not injure the grain for milling purposes. The vapor of the liquid is highly inflammable and no fire or lights should be allowed about the building during the fumigation.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Local Patriotism Questioned

Mr. Editor:

May I ask, through your columns, where Newark and Delaware College patriotism is concealed? From a Soldier himself, and a stranger to me—now awaiting the call South, I learned that they were stopped from drilling on Frazer Field, because they were injuring the grass. Woe betide us! also the grass. I could hardly believe my own ears. From another, authentic source, I also learned that the Commons "was too good" for these boys to eat there. Shame on Delaware College—a State institution—and Newark, that these brave lads sons of taxpayers, who are giving all, maybe their life, in defense of their country, are denied such small privileges and comforts, right in their midst. In contrast at Dover, the company there drill on the "Dover Green," eat at the Hotel Richardson, are given supper and granted the privilege of choosing the girl they want to serve them. Tickets, worth $1.00, have been given them, and honored at any store in Dover, for that amount of merchandise. Maryland, too, has opened her doors to the Soldier, and Soldiers from other States. At Odereton, a small hamlet, an entertainment is given every Thursday evening and refreshments served, for the Pa. Engineers, in camp three miles distant, and the women at Jessup, five miles from the camp, gave them a dance in the Episcopal Parish House, and invited girls from Baltimore.

The Soldier also told me that when they were marching down Main St., all doing the best they knew how, and many of them had never shouldered a gun before, they overheard insulting and derisive remarks made by Newark's residents, standing on the sidewalk. Personally, I am ashamed that I live in Newark. Aside from the proprietor of the Moving Picture Theatre, where these boys are welcome at the second show, no consideration has been shown them here. Small wonder they want to get away and never see the place again. Wake up, arouse your patriotism—put yourself in their place—that there may be no regrets when the casualty list is cabled from "somewhere in France."

Open up the Gymnasium. Give Frazer Field for drilling and the MONEY being collected, instead of putting it in a baseball outfit for a few, which these few will have no time and little use for. This trip is no child's play or "border duty"—but hard, intensive training, never known before, from reveille until tattoo.

A Mother of a Soldier [The above article was received too late for investigation or comment. Further details will be given next week.—Ed.]

DUTY OF THE PUBLIC

In Case Of False Exemption Claims

The Selective-Service Law of the United States under which selections are now in progress for military service in the new army requires the knowledge and co-operation of the public if fair play and justice shall prevail. The principle of this law gives every one an equal chance in the drawing and those first drawn in their order are expected to serve their country in the new army unless they are honestly and fairly entitled to exemption under the Rules and Regulations laid down by the President of the United States on some one of the following grounds:

1. Physically unfit.
2. Miscellaneous grounds, such as Public Officers in elective position, Minister of the Gospel, etc.
3. Sufficient dependency conditions where those dependent have no other source of support and are unable to work.
4. Occupation in a vital industry in support of the National Interest and Military Establishment and in a position of importance which cannot be effectively filled by another.

Where the circumstances affecting an individual are falsely reported to the Local Boards or to the District Board for the State of Delaware and exemption results by reason of such false statement or affidavits, justice and fair play are defeated and some other man may be called to the service to take the place of the individual who has perjured himself unless some one acquainted with the circumstances will report to the proper authorities. In the interest of justice and honesty it is, therefore, the public and private duty of any one having such information to immediately communicate the facts to the Attorney representing the Government in the Local District Board for the State of Delaware. The seven Attorneys representing the seven Local Districts in the State of Delaware are:

James M. Satterfield, Dover, Delaware.

Frank M. Jones, Georgetown, Delaware.

Thomas F. Bayard, duPont Building, Wilmington, Delaware.

George L. Townsend, Jr., Ford Building, Wilmington, Delaware.

Andrew C. Gray, duPont Building, Wilmington, Delaware.

Percy Warren Green, duPont Building, Wilmington, Delaware.

Where the informant does not wish his or her name known and has facts of importance pertaining to such cases, they should report to the proper Attorney (as scheduled above), that such information is given confidentially so that the Attorney may be able to make a further investigation of such particular cases. The Rules and Regulations from the President of the United States state: "There has been designated for each Local Board a person who is authorized to take appeal on behalf of the Government from any decision of Local Boards. (For the State of Delaware these designated persons are the Attorneys listed above). Whenever any individual has information which leads him to believe that any person has imposed upon a Local Board and improperly obtained a certificate of exemption or discharge, the person having such information should place it at the disposal of the person designated to take appeal on behalf of the Government in order that the fault may be rectified in the District Board."

This statement is issued by the District Board for the State of Delaware in pursuance of the above Presidential order and at the further request of the above designated Attorneys in order to secure the public assistance and co-operation in carrying out the selective draft now underway in an equitable and honest manner. The State of Delaware must make up its quota of 1208 men for the new national army with absolute justice and equity to all.

DISTRICT BOARD FOR STATE OF DELAWARE.
By Charles Warner, Chairman.

Response Of The American Colleges

More than five thousand graduates and undergraduates of Harvard University have responded to the call of their country and are engaged in some kind of war work. And other large universities, together with the smaller colleges, would show a similar response. The institutions of learning of all kinds demonstrated their patriotism with the outbreak of the war. Many young men at once enlisted. Others have since entered the service. They have made a gratifying record.

With the near approach of another academic year the schools and colleges will face serious problems. Almost all of them are proposing to run their classes as before the war. Quite probably the intercollegiate sports will be continued.

About fifty percent of the students of the average college are not within the conscription age. Many of them have volunteered, but others have been advised to continue their studies. There should be no serious interruption with the colleges and universities. They should look to the future as well as consider the present. The need for trained men will be very great after the war. Then the up-building process in the world will begin. The services of technical men will be sought. Hence the wise thing for young men entering the higher institutions is to take the technical courses.

Attention should also be paid to trade matters. Young men should fit themselves for the great race of upbuilding our trade with foreign countries. Medical students should be exempt if they wish exemption, and permitted to pursue their regular studies.

The college hall will soon be open again and parents and young people in this part of the country should think of Delaware College. It would be rare luck if the beginning of a new term at that institution should disclose a normal or near normal attendance. The college has good courses of instruction and the expenses are reasonable. They are considerably below the expenses of many other colleges which do not surpass Delaware. This item of expense will doubtless appeal strongly to many parents, especially those who are looking ahead and think that this is the time to save a dollar here and there.—Wilmington Morning News.

Shocking Double Tragedy

Wilford Griffith, aged 40, of Calvert, Cecil County, suddenly crazed over the war, shortly before 6 o'clock on Thursday evening, blazed away with a double barreled shot gun at a neighbor, Robert Ankrum, aged 60, who was driving three horses to a manure spreader, as he passed Griffith's home, the charge blowing the back of his head off. Ankrum dripped dead off the spreader, and Griffith went to his bed-room, taking his gun, an axe and a razor. Barring the door, he fired a charge from the gun under his left arm pit, gashed his forehead with the axe and slashed his neck, from back to front, with the razor. He was found an hour later by Sheriff Barnes and Deputy Sheriff McAlister, who hurried from Elkton when notified, seated on the floor in a pool of blood, flowing from his wounds. He was conscious and lived till about 10 o'clock. Griffith was industrious and had

Fix Rural Assessors' Pay

The Levy Court on Thursday with Messrs. Buckson, Elliott, Groves and Shaw present, resolved to make the following allowances to rural assessors for making the 1916-17 assessment for county purposes, to cover all per diem, mileage and fee of every kind: Appoquinimink hundred, $600; Blackbird, $550; Brandywine, $1,050; Christiana, $1,050; Mill Creek, $900; New Castle, $950; Pencader, $850; Red Lion, $600; St. Georges, $850; White Clay Creek, $750.

Feast For New Castle's Soldiers

Members of Company H, First Delaware Regiment, were tendered a farewell supper on Saturday evening by the women of New Castle, headed by Mrs. John H. Rodney and Mrs. Julius Dodd. The affair opened at 5 p. m. Rev. Father F. B. Campbell, Rev. Addison A. Ewing, Rev. S. B. Wylie, Rev. E. C. Primm and Rev. J. H. Bickford, local clergymen, Mayor Cavender and City Solicitor A. B. Cooper took part in the program. The New Castle Orchestra was in attendance and the good things of the season were supplied in great abundance. Mrs. Dodd, in a feeling address, presented the comfort bags prepared by the home branch of the Red Cross to the men, many of whom were much affected by her reference to those they would leave behind them.

Canners Will Observe Law

Chief Labor Inspector Grantland and State Canneries Inspector, Dr. William A. Messick, spent last week in Sussex County. The former stated that while child labor inspector is not generally accepted in the lower counties, some advance has been made in securing its approval. He found canners in general disposed to cooperate in observing the law's prohibitions of employment of children under 12 years of age upon assurance that the provision would be enforced strictly. The sanitary conditions of the canneries and quarters for the hands employed were found to be good, been working on the State road. His mother and sister lived with him but fled to a neighbor's when he shot Ankrum. Ankrum came from Lancaster County some years ago and purchased the farm of the late Dr. Richardson near Calvert. He was a bachelor, his widowed sister and her ten-year-old son residing with him. The latter was the only eyewitness of his uncle's death.

A Message from the Conservation Committee

When such a vital question as that of food supply is before our minds and staring us in the face it is imperative that we give our best thoughts and efforts to doing what we can to conserve our share of food in this great national crisis. It is for the housewife to keep a vigilant eye on the workings of her kitchen. She may not be able to go out in the fields to raise food but she can see that not one ounce is wasted, through her task of preparing it for the table. Some housewives are guilty of greater extravagance than others. The ways of wasting given below may not be your ways of being extravagant but they will perhaps suggest ways to you in which you might be more careful and economical.

1. In farm homes too many kinds of foods are often served at one meal. Sometimes as many as four vegetables are served at once. Eggs, cheese and beans have been found on some tables, the housewife at the same time wondering how she can be more economical. She argues that they are grown or produced on the farm, but they could be preserved for winter use. Only one protein food should be served at a meal.

2. Do not throw away leftovers! They may be used in croquettes, scalloped dishes or the nutritious, much abused hash. By combining leftovers one good dish may be the result.

3. Tough meats and vegetables should not be thrown away, they are valuable in the making of stocks and soups. The hard ends of asparagus when cooked so as to draw out the flavor are far from useless and should not be thrown in the garbage pail.

4. The scorching of fat develops acid and makes it unfit for human food.

5. Fat which escapes down the drain pipe is lost forever. When one remembers that a grain of fat produces nine calories of heat, this is a serious waste.

6. Water, in which vegetables are cooked, should not be thrown away. Potato water for instance, might be used in bread. Others might well be employed in soups.

7. Expensive food materials, providing little nourishment, should not be purchased when the money is needed for so many other things. This might well apply in other than war time, but it is especially true now. In this connection foods out of season the family may be fond of short cake it would be the height of extravagance to buy strawberries in January at 50 cents per quart to meet such a desire.

8. On farms where apples are going to waste, paring them for serving and stringing on strings to dry, is a successful means of preservation and especially helpful when all fruit cans are full and other containers are hard to find.

9. Is your oven in first class order? Bad construction is the cause of many failures in baking. If your cakes are not successful look into the matter and see if a faulty stove does not have something to do with it.

Women's Committee On Conservation.

HERE AND THERE

Leo, the 8-year-old son of Harry Eitingoff, of 622 East Sixth street, Wilmington, fell off Church street wharf into the Christina and was drowned on Sunday of last week. Vernon Reed, a small boy, saw the body floating near the wharf the next morning. The police had searched for it all the previous night.

Workmen last week began laying curbing, inside the pavement line, around the site of the old Court House in Wilmington, the first step taken toward the laying out of the proposed Rodney Square.

Another large concern obtained a charter at Dover last Tuesday—the Travis Oil Corporation, with a capital of $15,000,000, to market petroleum and its products.

The New Castle Board of Education has elected Henry E. Snavelly, of Myerstown, Pa., Superintendent of the City schools, vice Howard T. Ennis, resigned to enter the Army. Mr. Snavelly is 27 years old, 6 feet in height, is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College and has a wife and child. Eight other applicants sought the position, among them Alfred P. Scott, of Newark.

John J. Meredith and wife, of 701 Kirkwood street, Wilmington, were fined $20 and costs, each, by Judge Churchman, on Friday for putting their three children, ranging from 6 to 10 years, out of doors while they were on a prolonged drunk. The children were put in custody of Officer Ray.

Fire, last Monday, destroyed a dozen stacks of hay and fodder in the pen of Thomas Littleton, on the Jones farm, near Lewes. Firemen from Lewes saved the dwelling and outbuildings. A five-year-old child playing with matches, it is stated, caused the blaze.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture looks for a largely increased potato yield this year, averaging probably 90 bushels per acre throughout the State.

Diving from a friend's shoulders at Rehoboth Beach on Wednesday, Dr. Frank Grier, of Milford, struck the sand head-foremost with such force that he became senseless for several hours. He recovered somewhat during the night but as late as Saturday his condition was reported critical.

John G. Constable and Thomas M. Garrett, of Elkton, left on Thursday for Fort Myer, Va., to enter the second training camp of the Officers' Reserve Corps.

The employment of many pupils on farms and repairs in progress on a number of school buildings will likely defer the opening of the Wilmington City Schools until September 17, and possibly until the 24th.

Pusey & Jones Walk-out Ends

Announcement was made on Saturday by an official of the Pusey & Jones plant that the walk-out of 300 of its hands had ended most of the quitters having returned to work and all were expected to be on hand on Monday, with the former friendly relations restored. The 700 strikers at the Harlan & Hollingsworth plant were still out. Officials had nothing to say as to the outcome except that the matter was entirely in the hands of the Government.

Wife Charges Desertion

Lieutenant Edward S. Valliant, of Company K, First Delaware Regiment, charged by his wife who was Miss Nellie Scott, of Milford, with deserting her and their two-year-old child, was arrested on Friday at the Milford barracks and taken to Georgetown where he was held under $500 bail for further appearance. He is a son of County Commissioner William Valliant. The marriage of the couple three years ago was a notable affair and was expected to prove a happy union.

High Lincoln Highway Bid

The Levy Court last week awarded the contract for constructing Section No. 3, of the Lincoln Highway, a stretch of 3 3/4 miles from the Wilmington City Line to Marshallton, to the Standard Rutilithic Company, at their bid of $138,912.78 for Warrenite with a base of concrete, a cost of about $37,000 a mile. The 22 miles of the road from the Pennsylvania to the Maryland line would cost at this rate upwards of $800,000. The Legislature authorized a cost of $500,000. State Highway Engineer Upham favored concrete as costing less for construction and no more for maintenance than Warrenite, and permitting the building of the entire road for the sum which the Legislature authorized to be borrowed by the county. Action upon bids for the Newark-Maryland line section was deferred for a week.

Colliding Auto Speeds Away

While Horace C. Phillips was driving to his home at Oak, along the Lancaster Pike, on Wednesday night, his carriage was struck by an automobile, crossing the pike at the Brindley road. He was thrown 20 feet and was cut and bruised about his head, body and limbs. The auto going 40 miles an hour, did not stop. Another automobile came along and took Mr. Phillips to a physician's office in Wilmington. His carriage was smashed and the horse ran away but stopped about half a mile up the road.

Continental Defeats Strong Harlan & Hollingsworth

The Continental boys played air-tight baseball behind Tinsman Saturday and easily defeated the strong H. & H. Boilermakers, 7-4. The failure of several of the local players to appear had no effect whatever on the team's work and the support given Tinsman was almost perfect. Continental also used their bats to good advantage their timely hitting being responsible for the victor. Tinsman worked in excellent form and was never in danger, allowing only five hits.

Saturday September 1st, Continental will play the fast Rising Sun team on Delaware Avenue grounds, and Newark fans will witness a hard-fought game. Bonnett, who pitched for Aberdeen in the old Tri-county League, will oppose Al Crowe, the local boy.

On Labor Day, September 3rd, Continental will play Hagley Yards, one game starting at 3 p. m. sharp. "Nine" Gray will do the twirling for Hagley.

Come out strong and help the boys win each and every game, now that Manager Jackson has a winning team together. They have several hard games ahead, including Rising Sun, Hagley, Newport, Yorklyn, and Elkton.

SUNSHINE MARY AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Sketch Of The Popular Little Actress

Sweet little "Sunshine Mary" Anderson, who has smiled her laughing way into the hearts of all movie fans, is seen in a delightful role in "The Last Man," the five-part Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, showing at the Opera House on Friday, August 31st.

The daughter of Nicholas Henry Anderson and Nellie Ryley Anderson, both born in New York City, Mary was educated in the public schools of Brooklyn, after which she attended the Holy Cross Academy and the Erasmus High School, also in Brooklyn. It was while a pupil in the latter that her motion picture ambitions were permitted to advance during the summer vacation. She applied to the Vitagraph studio through her friend, Anita Stewart, and for a while did extra work. About the time her vacation was over, she attracted the attention of the Vitagraph officials, and to them she made application for a part of importance. When this was broached to her father, who strongly urged her to continue her studies in the high school, Mary received permission to continue with her motion picture work provided her first picture proved a success. The sole judge was to be her father, who was not particularly partial to the photoplay. Mary played the first part in support of John Bunny and the father was forced to admit that his little daughter had succeeded in the test and she was permitted to make permanent arrangements with the Vitagraph Company.
