WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Work To Be Complete On Contract Time

Work on the Women's College is progressing rapidly. The final coat of plastering will be completed by July 1st ready for the carpenters. Superintendent Hough in speaking of the progress said that Residence Hall will be completed ready for the furnishings by August 15th according to contract specifications. This will give a whole month for drying out before the opening of school.

The furnishings have been purchased by the Commission and will be delivered on notice.

Work on the Science Building promises to be completed by September 1st. This will be in ample time for the opening as the furnishing will not require so much time as Residence Hall. A sub-committee of the Commission has been appointed to provide for the equipment.

Barring misfortune, the buildings will be complete in ample time. Work on the grounds will be started early in the fall.

Girls Compete For College Scholarships

Examinations for entrance to the new Women's College of Delaware were held at Delaware College last Friday and Saturday. Owing to the custom of admitting candidates upon the presentation of certificates from accepted high schools, the majority of students take no part in the examinations. Special interest was added to the examination last Friday, however, because of the offer of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs and the Delaware Association of College Women, of two scholarships of $100 each, to the girls presenting the best papers at the examination. Eight girls contested for these scholarships on Friday, two coming from Dover, and the remaining six from New Castle county. The committee in charge has been highly gratified by the excellence of the papers submitted. The names of the winners have not yet been announced owing to the fact that three papers are graded the same by the professors according to the letter method of marking used at college. The ladies in charge will probably base their final decision upon the records of the girls in their respective high schools.

M. E. Church Notes

M. E. Church—Sunday, June 28th 11.00 a. m.—The Heptasophs or Seven Wise Men of Newark, will turn out in a body to worship and listen to a sermon from the pastor.
6.45 p. m.—Young People's Service.
7.45 p. m.—Public Worship. Free Seats A Hearty Welcome
Fifty-five persons were received into membership in the Church last Sunday morning. Others will be received at an early date.

Political Gossip—There Ain't None

Several requests have come to this office for news of the political situation. To date, however, we are unable to report anything definite. In fact even rumors are scarce. Locally the situation has not assumed any campaign aspect. Aside from a few card announcements, there is nothing doing. Several politicians were at the farm on Farmers' Day, mostly office holders seeking re-election. Judging from the several comments heard, they did not receive much encouragement.

The political situation in Newark is a side issue. Public improvements are the center of interest in Newark. After Main street improvements are completed and the Armory building is started, it is probable that the local celebrities will be trotted out for observation.

W. C. T. U. Supper

Ladies of the Newark W. C. T. U. have announced that they will hold their annual supper September 17th.

L. H. Cooch Chosen County Agent

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College, held last Tuesday, Mr. Levi H. Cooch, of Cooch's Bridge, was appointed the agricultural extension representative for New Castle county at a salary of $2500, under the provisions of the Lever Bill, recently passed by Congress. Mr. Cooch will enter upon the work August first. Director Hayward of the State Experiment Farm, in speaking of the duties of county agents, gave the following information: It will be the agent's duty to visit the farms of the State, and to ascertain as fully as possible, specific problems on the farms. All the resources of the State College will be brought into play to solve these problems. In connection with this work Mr. Cooch will organize the farmers into buying and selling clubs; inform them where the best seed, fertilizers, implements, etc., can be had at the lowest prices, and render all possible service in helping farmers to dispose of their products to the best advantage. The agricultural agent will test soils for acidity; make farm surveys with reference to outlying systems of rotation; form boys' corn and pig clubs; girls' poultry and canning clubs. Mr. Cooch will try to interest the farmers in stock improvement and help to organize improved sire associations and cow testing associations. In brief the county agent will be the counsellor for the farmers of the county. Anything that any farmer wishes to know can properly be put to the agent and it will be his duty to find out if possible.

Mr. Cooch will be on the road five days a week, and at his home one day, where he may be reached by the farmers of the county. His work is as much a part of the U. S. Experiment Station as though his duties were confined to the campus of Delaware.

Matinee On July 4

Much interest is being shown by local sportsmen in the matinee to be held on the Dr. B. Murray track on the afternoon of July 4. The feature of the day will be the match race between the local favorite, Bessie Patchen and Belle Direct, both horses owned by Mr. LaFerty.

Prospect For Large Class For Delaware

Nineteen candidates presented themselves for admission to Delaware College at the examinations held last Friday and Saturday, the largest number applying in June since the entrance committee of the faculty has been in charge of the examinations. Over two-thirds of the young men are graduates of high schools, and come excellently prepared. Eight of the newcomers have matriculated in the engineering departments, six in the arts and science, and four in the four year agricultural. The prospect is for the largest freshman class in recent years.

No Concert This Week

The regular Thursday evening concert given by Minnehaha Band will be discontinued this week, June 25.

The management expects to render interesting programs in the near future.

New Anti-Saloon Head

After two years as assistant superintendent of the Maryland Anti-Saloon League, it was authoritatively stated yesterday that the Rev. C. M. Levisier is to be put in charge of the district comprising the Delaware and Maryland Peninsula. He will make his headquarters at Salisbury, Md., and will leave Baltimore about July 1.

At Salisbury, he succeeds the Rev. Cyrus P. Keen, who has been selected by W. H. Anderson, formerly superintendent of the Maryland League, but now of New York to assist in the work there and he will take up his new duties July 1.

The New Castle County W. C. T. U. will hold a rummage and apron sale at 100 West Eighth street, Wilmington, June 25, 26 and 27. Contributions will be sent to the named place.

COUNTY COMMISSION OFFERS SCHOLARSHIPS

Six Girls May Benefit By Proposition

There has been some seeming confusion in the minds of many concerning the six scholarships offered by the School Commissioners of New Castle county for work at the new Women's College at Newark. In response to several inquiries concerning the announcement made at the State Farm last Monday, a representative of The Post called Dr. Wagner today and received the following information: Previous to this year New Castle county has paid the tuition for six Delaware girls at schools outside of the State, in recognition of the fact that our State failed to provide for the higher education of her women. Six Delaware girls graduated this June, which makes it possible for the Board to provide for six additional young women, and the offer of assistance is presented in the form of scholarships for the new State College. The Commissioners offer to the girls $2.00 per week toward living expenses while at the college. Full particulars may be had by applying to the president of the commission, Mr. Moore of Odessa, or to Mr. Eliason of Middletown.

Some Farm Observations

The recent drought in this section has been a serious one to the farmers. The early vegetables are mostly a matter of buying the seed and planting. Practically no crop has been harvested. Potatoes are cut short. The blight is attacking several of the large plantings. Corn is late. Several fields had to be entirely replanted. Hay crop will be short. While early in the season, this crop looked exceptionally good, the drought has made the tonnage way below the average. Oats are heading in some places with an 8 and 10 inch straw. While wheat looks well, experts say that the grain is light.

The rains of the past week have been a great help but not sufficient to plan for fall crops. Several tomato growers are much concerned over their plantings. Using strong fertilizers, the plants have died due to the extended drought.

Alfalfa has been the best crop of the season so far. Those fortunate enough to have this are planning for extended acreage another year.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS ON MONDAY

Newark Children To Be Benefitted

Dr. Wagner is in town today arranging for the Summer School for Teachers which opens at Delaware College next Monday. A large enrollment is expected. Much local interest centers in the model school which will be conducted in the primary building of the Newark public school by Miss Moore of Houston, Delaware. While the primary aim is to provide a school of observation for the benefit of the young teachers, many Newark children are embracing this opportunity of making up work in which they have failed in order that they may go on with their grades in September. Mr. Friedel, to whom application has been made, stated today that there were more applicants for admission than could be accepted. The plan is to show the best methods to be followed in a rural school, which includes all the grades from one to eight. The maximum enrollment is thirty-five. Children will be accepted according to the date of their application, probably four from each grade from one to eight, inclusive. The school will continue until August 5th.

Chamber Of Commerce To Visit Newark

Chamber of Commerce is arranging for a visit to Newark, Elkton, Perryville, Oxford and other nearby towns. Mr. Sinclair of the Chamber of Commerce accompanied by Messrs. Killen and Metten of the Every Evening were in town this afternoon mapping out the route. Details of the tour will be given in next week's issue. The Scout party spoke very highly of the reception given them last year. It is hoped that citizens will turn out again and give our Wilmington friends a rousing reception.

Fire Discovered Last Sunday

Excitement was created last Sunday when a small building on the Kinsey Chambers property was discovered to be on fire. Aetna Fire Company responded promptly to the alarm and a stream from the fire plug soon enabled the firemen to gain control of the situation. The building was occupied by Robert Wilson. Twenty-five dollars will probably cover the damage.

Dr. Harter Receives Gift From Faculty

On Saturday evening, June 20, the Faculty of Delaware College presented their retiring president, Dr. Geo. A. Harter, with a handsome gold-headed cane as a slight token of their affection and esteem. Professor and Mrs. Penny very kindly placed their home at the service of the Faculty and shortly after eight o'clock twenty-one members of the teaching staff assembled there to meet Dr. Harter and his daughter, Miss Elinor Harter. After the presentation speech, which was made by Professor Robinson, refreshments were served by Mrs. Penny, and the evening was spent in agreeable social intercourse. Those present were Professors Robinson, Penny, Short, Smith, E. L. Rowan, Hayward, Conover, Sypherd, Reed, McCue, Vaughn, Manns, Koerner, Thompson, Grantham, Tiffany, Dutton, Whittier, and Messrs. Preston McAvoy and Taubenhaus.

Gift From Mrs. Warner

At the last meeting of the Women's College Commission, Mrs. A. D. Warner announced that she would provide furniture for the reception room. It was also announced that the W. C. T. U. of Sussex county would contribute enough money to furnish one double room in Residence Hall.

Bids For New Armory Opened

The State Military Board met this afternoon at the office of General I. P. Wickersham, Wilmington, to go over bids for the new armory to be erected in Newark. The bids were found to be as follows: Wm. D. Haddock Co., Wilmington, $14,222; John Haley, Wilmington, $15,399; J. Frank Owens, Wilmington, $13,333; L. B. Jacobs, Newark, $15,700; Geo. W. Griffin, Newark, $15,780; A. S. Reed & Bro. Co., Wilmington, $14,619; H. C. Clark, Delaware City, $14,987; Wm. H. Jones, Wilmington, $12,976.

This office called the State Arsenal just before going to press and the contract had not at that time been awarded.

The officers of Company E are receiving contributions for the land which must be given title free, to the State. Practically $1000 is required for this purpose, one half of which has been raised.

Many Changes In The Militia

A number of radical changes will be made in the Organized Militia of Delaware in order that it may conform with regular army regulations set forth in the bill known as the Militia Bill which was passed by Congress several years ago. The various States were given five years in which to bring about this conformity which will necessitate the abolishing of several offices believed to be superfluous.

The orders have just been issued by Adjutant General Wickersham and chief among the many changes will be the assignment of Colonel Weller E. Stover to the rank of major and chief of the quartermaster's corps, while prior to the change he was chief quartermaster and commissary of the First Infantry.

The entire hospital corps of the militia has been abolished and assigned to the medical department while the office of assistant adjutant-general, held by Major C. P. Holcomb, is also a thing of the past. Major Meredith I. Samuel and Captain James McElpatrick who have been in charge of the hospital detachment of the regiment, have been directed to sever themselves from the regiment and report to Major Marshall of the general staff, who becomes chief of the medical department. Just what is to become of the two officers is a matter of much speculation among the militia officers.

Dwelling Burned

The frame dwelling house adjoining the Pennsylvania railroad at Worth's Crossing, formerly occupied by Charles Thompson, was destroyed by fire on Friday morning. Sparks from a passing locomotive are believed to have started the blaze.

SUNDAY VIOLATIONS

Law And Order Society To De. fine Law

Recent actions of the Law and Order Society have been the subject of considerable comment. Several warrants have been issued and fines imposed for illegal selling on Sunday. This action has been taken by the Society at the request of local citizens.

In view of the many misunderstandings of the law on this subject and the criticisms of those concerned there will appear in next week's issue of the Post, a sketch of the Law and Order Society as organized in Delaware, its power and workings. The whole subject has reached a stage of conflicting statements. Accusations without any foundation are topics of the day. An illustration of this is the accusation that the editor of the Post is personally interested in the fight and that he is secretly upholding violation of the law.

Arrangements were made today for a representative of The Post to interview an officer of the Law and Order Society who has promised to outline the work of the organization and its special interest in Newark affairs.

The law as far as has been interpreted will be given, and the Post in its small way will lend its force toward the observance of that law. It will do it openly, however, and without discrimination. Pity for the man whose influence is so near nil as to have to work for good citizenship secretly.

Delaware Attorneys Beseige President

Attorneys throughout the State are still writing individual letters to President Wilson asking that he appoint Judge Victor B. Woolley, of the State Courts, as successor to Judge George Gray, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

It was said last night by one interested that it is expected virtually every attorney in the state of Delaware will write a letter to the President in behalf of Judge Woolley.

So far as is known here there are no new developments with respect to the appointment.

Commencement Dance A Great Success

The Commencement Dance was a success in every way. Visitors were present from the three counties of Delaware and from the neighboring counties of Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. By permission of the Faculty, the new dances were danced almost exclusively. The wives of the members of the faculty acted as patronesses.

Rummage Sale

Ladies of the Presbyterian Church will hold a Rummage Sale on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, afternoon and evening.

OBITUARY

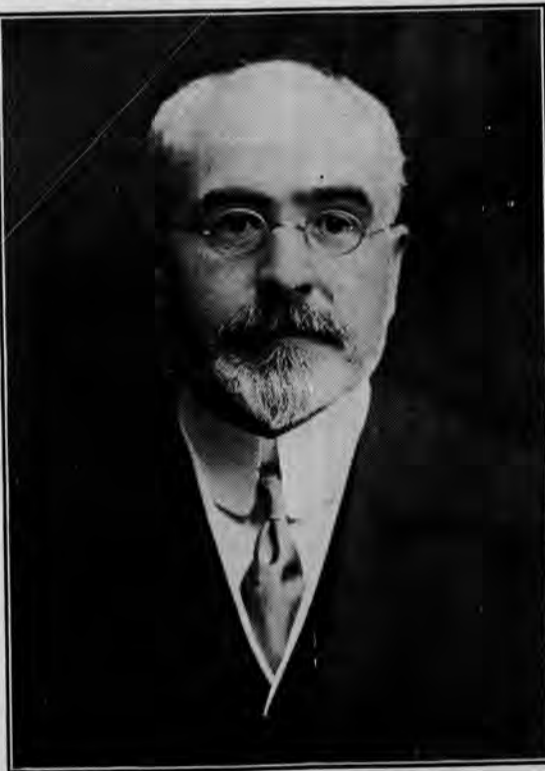

GEORGE D. MEDILL

George D. Medill, aged 74, for about a year a sufferer from heart trouble, passed quietly away shortly after midnight last Saturday. Mr. Medill was known throughout New Castle county where he spent his entire lifetime. For many years he owned and farmed the property south of town now belonging to Albert Stroud. Mr. Medill served in the Levy Court as a member from White Clay Creek Hundred under the old system of hundred representation, and also was a member of the Delaware Legislature at the session of 1887.

Funeral services were held from the late residence today at two o'clock. Interment at White Clay Creek, in which church the deceased was in former years an elder.

Company Coast Artillery followed suit. The former couple will reside in Bellington and the latter in Whitesville, W. Va.

$10,000 For 100 Words

One hundred dollars a word is the fabulous price offered for the best suggestion for the final chapter of a splendid mystery story which is to begin in The Wilmington Sunday Star on June 28. The story, which is entitled "The Million Dollar Mystery," is to be published serially in The Star and at the same time is to be shown in moving pictures by the Thanhouser Film Company in various motion picture theatres throughout Delaware.

Even without this absorbing feature every Delawarean should be a constant reader of The Star, for, more than any other Delaware newspaper, it is the staunch and intelligent advocate and supporter of everything that promises good for Wilmington or Delaware or the Peninsula.

No man or woman who wishes to keep informed regarding the important developments or proposals in politics and civic betterment can afford to be without The Star, and no one who wants to keep abreast of the news of the Peninsula, including the things that other papers dare not print, can hope to do so without reading The Star.

It has been well said that The Star sets the pace, and its 45,000 readers, no matter how many other papers they take, find that it grows in interest and value every week.

In order to extend the circulation of The Star in Kent and Sussex counties we will send it by mail postpaid three months (13 issues) for 25 cents. Simply mail 25 cents cash or stamps to The Sunday Star, Wilmington, Del., and the paper will be sent to you-Adv.

Odd Fellows Attend Memorial Service

Odd Fellows Lodge No. 12, of Newark turned out in force last Sunday, the occasion of a memorial service as requested by the Grand Sire of the I. O. O. F. of the United States. All subordinate lodges that had suffered loss of membership by death were requested to assemble and engage in appropriate exercises. Prothers Edward Herbener, Thomas A. Mullin and George Johnson were appointed by the local lodge to arrange for the service which was held in the Presbyterian church, Newark, at eleven o'clock.

The regular church services were preceded by an organ prelude, the "Dead March" from Saul. Previous to the sermon preached by Rev. W. J. Rowan from the text Genesis, 50th chapter and third verse, the secretary read a list of the deceased members of the lodge, which is now 67 years old. The names and year of death follow:

- Edward Biddle, 1894; Nathaniel Bayne, 1849; Morgan Jones, 1851; William J. Patton, 1852; Gideon B. Scott, 1852; F. V. Carter, 1855; William Alexander, 1857; William A. Taylor, 1857; C. Technical English For Students In Agriculture

The introduction of a course in advanced composition for students in Agriculture is the final step in the standardization of the courses of instruction in English for all departments of study. According to the present requirements for graduation, elementary English composition is prescribed for Freshman, English literature for Sophomores, and advanced composition for Seniors. The requirements of technical English for advanced students in engineering and agriculture is in keeping with the growing tendency in colleges and universities to put special stress on instruction in English composition which will enable a technical student to perform the specific tasks in writing which will be demanded of him after graduation. During the last five years, courses in technical English have been introduced into many of our Engineering Colleges; and late catalogues of several agricultural colleges, notably Iowa State University and the University of Maine, show that in Agricultural colleges, notably Iowa for specific training in journalism and in writing of reports, bulletins, etc. In these universities, technical English is required in the Junior or Senior year. It is hoped that this new course in Delaware College will help materially in increasing the efficiency of our graduates in Agriculture.

Suffrage Headquarters Changed

Headquarters of the Congressional Union for Woman's Suffrage of Delaware have been changed to 305 Delaware avenue, Wilmington.

A neat swinging sign on the outside advertises the whereabouts of the workers, while within are many evidences of suffrage.

The wall paper has yellow roses, "The Little Yellow Rose of Suffrage," on a white background, and white serim curtains across the front window have a yellow rose design. They moved in yesterday and today everything was being made trim and neat. Telephones were being installed and the office will continue to be open from 9 a. m. until 2.30 p. m., unless the new secretary makes other arrangements.

Miss Elsie Hill, the new worker and campaign director, who comes from Washington on Monday, has for two years been president of the College League for Suffrage of Washington, D. C., and is generally considered one of the most pleasing and effective speakers and workers for the cause.

THROUGH A FARM HOUSE WINDOW

BY ISRAEL ANDIRON

THE BEAUTY AROUND US

I went over to Mary's house this afternoon, and sat on the porch and drank lemonade. Paul Pry, the old crow she brought up by hand, was on a tree by the roadside as I went there, and I took him for a wild bird. As he did not move I said "Hello," thinking it would frighten him, but he said "Hello, too, and flopped along after me squawking and sputtering.

At the house, while we were talking feminism, war and art, we decided to let the bird follow his natural bent and see what he would do. Consequently, the crow had a happy afternoon. First he stole the dishcloth and hung it on a limb of the big elm. He seemed quite proud of the effect of his decorative work and soon had a towel hung up beside it. Then he got the soap and put that in a fork of a limb. Near where these were there was a hole in the tree trunk adorned with bits of tin, broken glass and anything shiny he could lay claws on. He perched there a while and then went to the house, stole Grandma White's gold-bowed spectacles and took them to the garden. There he buried them with much apparent joy and secrecy and covered the ground with great care, to make it appear nothing was hidden.

Beyond question Paul Pry is inspired by an impressionist ideal of art. He does not seek to picture nature, or to work at art for art's sake, or to inspire lofty emotions among the greatest number of people for the longest period of time. He seeks only to gratify his own desire for an impression. He is something of a cubist and altogether a futurist, and he will do in future, to the remotest tree-top generation, just what he is doing now. His decorative work in the tree is what he desires. It inspires and stimulates his mind, it fills him with rapture. If he could cooperate enough he would doubtless get all the crowns in the world to bring their tin shavings, cigar bands, old glass and horseshoe nails to a grand exhibition and he would doubtless say that that exhibition included all the art worth while of an intelligent soul. Paul Pry has explained the futurists, the cubists and the rest of the apparently lunatic cults; they are men and women who have unconsciously returned to the crow standard, the monkey, the gorilla, the Hottentot impressionism. They seek exactly what Paul Pry seeks; plot, perspective and meaning all yield to the desire for exciting color and light. The raven on the pallid bust of Pallas just above Poe's chamber door should be the emblem of the futurists and all their kind. They bury the lenses of civilization through which man may see more clearly than the animals; they are, like Paul Pry, sufficient unto themselves.

Farmers, and farmers' wives, miss, because the veils of custom are over their eyes, much of the flower wealth about them. Many a woman who will, with loving care, make a flower bed and tend the roses while they grow, does not really know when the crimson clover sets the farm fields ablaze nor think to adorn the house with its flame and fullness of life. She does not know that the clover bloom is sweet on acres of good ground, that the buckwheat bloom of autumn or the spring wealth of gold which the dandelions strew upon the pastures are dear flowers, masses that make flower gardens such as the princes of Babylon or the queens of Egypt did not have. The tapestry woven by the God of the Wheat, the pale green glory of the rye and the blue-green goodness of the oats are unheeded by many souls athirst for beauty.

It is easy to see the obtrusive fruit bloom and we treasure the memory of the apple blossoms and the peach trees of old days; linked as they are, for most of us, with romance and self-discovery and dear joys, but we do not make effort enough to edge our fields with beauty and our lives with delight in color and harmony. I know a woman who compels her husband to fringe the garden and sometimes a corn field with sunflowers, who has seized a portion of the vegetable garden for her favorites, making space for morning glories planted like the pole beans, with poles to climb upon. She sets the cosmos in ranks beside the cabbages and tiger lilies among the cucumbers. It is not original for her to do these things, but it is not a usual thing. All women ought to do it, if they have fields to conquer.

Happy in after life is the child who has had at school a teacher who has taken pains to teach him the compensation nature gives those who seek to understand her; who has made him acquainted with the people of the fields and the scheme of life for all that grows. He who can look out upon a valley or a hill and see there, visible and busy, the Infinite Something which is back of us all, the universal phrase of our life, can endure grief as others can not endure, can remain unshaken by financial or farm troubles that would make others grow old and sad. The old classical ideals of education will long cling to us; politicians and dreaming theologians find it much more comfortable that the people should think on Latin rather than on life, on Alexander rather than on nature, on things that were rather than things that are. But sometime the first things taught in all the schools will be life and nature and toil and play and love and family life at its best; all that makes man and woman usefully happy will sometime be put forward in the schools and the dead languages and the dead creeds and the dead political economy and industrial economies, now so solemnly taught to minds cluttered with much waste information, will be banished in favor of civilization. In the meantime each teacher who wrenches from her overworked days the time to tell the children little stories of vegetable and animal life, to teach them how things grow, how beauty may be understood, the infinite mode apparent, the universal life brought by observation into a part of the consciousness, is a prophet and a servant of that living God which is the summer and the rose the child and the singing bird, the love and the mind behind the million wheels of commerce.

Lloyd and Mrs. Huber were recent guests at Mr. Robert Hall's. Miss Anna Singles has returned home for her summer vacation. Mrs. Wm. Passmore spent Friday in Wilmington. Mrs. Mary Preston, of Wilmington, has been visiting her niece, Miss Mary Carlisle. Miss Dora Singles spent the past week with her parents. Misses Martha and Anna Crowe spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Pierson.

Why The Republic Will Live

Dr. Charles Eliot, president of Harvard University, writes for the Delinquent about some of the forces which promise long life to the American republic. He considers: Toleration in religion. Universal education. Better family life than that of any perished republic. Better and juster inheritance laws. Extreme publicity in all activities. Organization on a large scale of corporations which "afford a new discipline for thousands of managing or directing people." Besides, yet by no means in the last place— "Universal suffrage prolongs in the United States the effect of universal education; for it stimulates all citizens throughout their lives to reflect on problems outside the narrow circle of their private interests and occupations; to read about public questions; to discuss public characters, and to hold themselves ready in some degree to give a rational account of their political faith."

Militia On Long Hike

Under orders from Governor Charles R. Miller, commander-in-chief of the Organized Militia of Delaware, there will not be a camp for the State militiamen at State Rifle Range this year. Instead, the militia will be put to a real test such as it might expect under actual service conditions. Governor Miller has ordered that the entire regiment go on a six days' hike. Only one day will be spent in camp, the remainder of the week to be spent in marching or making their camp along the road. The march will be to Milford. General I. Pusey Wickersham has arranged for the regiment to concentrate at the State Range on July 18. The Wilmington companies and the companies from Newark marching to the range and the down State companies going there by train. Sunday will be devoted to rest and divine worship and Monday morning the regiment will start on the road. It is expected that the militia will march approximately ten miles a day. Shelter tents and only the lightest marching equipment will be carried by the men and there will be all the tricks of modern marching worked on the march. At times the soldiers will be forced to imagine that they are traveling through a country bristling with enemies; another time they will be "attacked" and forced to flee from a much larger force of men. It can readily be seen that such a hike offers great advantages over a camp for a week, especially as the militia has been to camp many times, but has never taken so long a march, heretofore the marching having been limited to a one-day hike.

Lieutenant Elvid Hunt, United States Army, will have charge of the military instruction while on the march and this movement will be a most thorough test of the ability of the quartermaster and commissary department, under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel W. E. Stover, who will have charge of the arrangements for camps and provisions, to meet any conditions that may arise.

Peace Advocate Dead

Baroness Bertha von Suttner, the Austrian writer who had devoted most of her life to the cause of peace and to whom was awarded the Nobel Peace prize in 1905, died on Sunday. Baroness Von Suttner had been ill three weeks. She was undergoing a cure for obesity which her constitution proved unable to bear. She left instructions that her body be cremated at Gotha without religious ceremony, speeches or flowers, her ashes to be deposited in a columbarium there.

Born in 1843, the daughter of Marshall Count Franze Von Kinsky, the baroness became noted as the editor of Die Waffen Nieder (lay down your arms), the magazine of the International Peace Bureau in Berne.

One force behind your telephone

In many of the school physiologies to-day, man's brain is compared to the telephone switchboard which is the force back of the talk nerves of the country.

The first switchboards were crude indeed, but those of to-day are the most intricate, ingenious and fascinating things ever created by man.

They are a vast monument to the brainy telephone engineers and experts who worked out the many problems of linking together first a few telephones, then a few thousands and to-day over 8,000,000, so that any two telephones can be joined together.

If the switchboards of the Bell System were placed in a single row, they would stretch 36 miles—an imposing illustration of the force back of the Bell Telephone, which brings you the most efficient telephone service in the world.

When you telephone, smile!

CAUTION

Before buying an oil stove look into the wonderful qualities of

OUR OIL BURNER

It will save you space, as it is installed right in your own stove. When cold weather sets in it can be disconnected and the stove turned into a coal stove again. It will give you every comfort which your coal range gave, viz.: your cooking, baking, and heating of water in your range boiler. It is "Economy" itself as well as giving you a real sanitary kitchen having no odor no dirt. This oil burner is used here daily. Do come in at any time and see it working. It will speak for itself.

Campaign Promises And Administration Facts

Repeal of the tolls exemption law has been urged because of the wording of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty; it has been urged because the President requests repeal, but not an advocate of repeal has asserted that such repeal is in the interests of the citizens of the United States or in accord with their instructions to the executive and legislative branches of the government as evinced by their votes at the election of 1912.

The present administration, it is but fair to say, would never have been given political power if the candidates of the party had repudiated the tolls exemption plank of the Democratic party prior to the election of that year.

If the President while a candidate had called upon Democratic aspirants for the Senate and House to repudiate that tolls exemption plank then, to say to the voters then, this is not right; it is not Democratic; it is a violation of our treaty with Great Britain; it is a subsidy, how many of those candidates for the legislative branches of the government would have obeyed his instructions?

If they had followed such instructions and repudiated the platform, how many of them would be in their seats today?

The President, as a candidate, knew its nature then; he knew its bearing upon our treaty provisions then; he knew it was not in the nature of a subsidy then, or else he would have repudiated it and denounced it for himself, and called upon other Democrats to do the same thing as honest, sincere candidates desirous of keeping faith with the voters of the Union.

The Democratic nominee had been a student of history from his childhood; the annals of the world and of the nation were his special field of investigation.

The 29 men who now hold seats in the Senate who were members of the Baltimore convention have been political tutors and leaders of men for years, and they would have the right to feel insulted if charged with not being well informed on our treaties with foreign countries, the course of our republic's legislation, and the meaning and application of every plank in the national platform which they aided in constructing and voted to approve.

It was a most amazing spectacle presented to the citizens of the United States to have the chief magistrate call for the repudiation of an important plank in the platform upon which he was elected scarcely sixteen months before, and without assigning any definite or distinct reasons for his request, urge the senators and representatives of the union to repeal a law which the great majority of the voters of the union had approved by their votes at the election in which he was chosen to his high position.

No one in the world challenges the sincerity of the President.

He was sincere when he declared his approval of the platform; he was sincere and correct when he stated that this particular plank was to provide the desired competition between the coasts. He was truthful and sincere when he declared it was not "molasses to catch flies." No doubt he is now sincere in believing it for the best interests of the republic that he change his mind and use all the influence of his great office to undo that which he and his party and all parties promised the American people should be done.

His instability of opinion in this case, his infirmity of judgement as to what was right in 1912 and wrong in 1914 give no reason for any charge of insincerity, but neither do they give assurance that he is correct in his latter conclusion.

The Democratic party was founded to give correct expression to the wishes of the majority of the voters of the republic.

It has taught for more than a century that the people are supreme.

It has taught honor to the presidential office and respect to him who has been chosen to fill it, but it has also taught good faith with the voters and obedience to their expressed wishes at the polls.

Let the Democrats trust the people who make the platforms rather than the shifting judgement of those who interpret them one way before election and the opposite way after power is obtained.

—Washington Post.

The Van Winkle Test Case

In the test case of B. F. Van Winkle, Adams' Express agent at Smyrna, charged with violating the Hazel Liquor Shipping law, the Supreme Court ruled that the liquor delivered by Van Winkle was a shipment of inter-state commerce which a State law could not control, was for a lawful purpose, private consumption and therefore not contrary to the terms of the Webb-Kenyon Act. The effect of the decision is that shipments of liquor are barred to individuals in Kent and Sussex from New Castle county, but may be made from outside points, if for lawful purposes. The Attorney-General sought to have the case re-argued but the Court thought the matter had been thoroughly threshed out and ordered its decision recorded.

OPTOMETRY—The science of prescribing and fitting glasses to correct defective vision without the use of drugs.

OPTOMETRIST—One skilled in optometry, an expert in measuring eye defects. A physical Eye Specialist.

Concerning Your Eyes

Good eyesight is essential to health and comfort. Eye strain uncorrected leads to nervous disorders and is a factor in causing many reflex disturbances.

Tired, aching eyes, frequent pain over the eyes or heads aches are some of the indications of eye strain. At other times the eyes give no indication themselves of strain, but endeavor to keep up the demand upon them, by using the reserve accommodative power until they give out.

GLASSES RELIEVE EYE STRAIN

Success in relieving eye strain depends entirely upon the skill of the practitioner who prescribes the glasses. Our Optometrists are experienced and capable.

Instruction Of Public Servants

"If we, the people of the United States, are really to have a part in our government, we must organize." These were among the first words of Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, as she stepped from the train at Madison, Wis., where she went to attend the preliminary conference on civic secretarship which began there on June 19th.

"If we do not want the office-holders whom we elect to be under obligations to political machines not of our making, we must make our own machine—the machine of democracy—and demand their allegiance to it," she added.

Miss Wilson said: "We elect our representatives and then let them go their way unheeded by us, except for irresponsible criticism by individuals here and there. No wonder that they do not always know what the people want. We must get together to tell them.

"All of our representatives are organized into deliberative bodies. We, whom they represent, ought also to be organized for deliberation. When this happens, and then only, shall we vote intelligently; and then also shall we be helpers and advisers to our representatives.

"In short, the great work that we American people have before us as I see it, is the conservation and organization of the forces of democracy. At present these forces are being dissipated in every direction.

"The school buildings, since they belong to us all and are natural centers, are obviously the places in which we can best concentrate these forces. Let us all unite in erecting the standards of democracy in the school buildings and then stand to them.

"Not only should the school-houses be provided for this use without charge, but the paid secretarial service should be furnished—just as this service is furnished for the meeting of Aldermen, legislators and other subcommittees of the citizens.

It goes without saying that one of the most important parts of this great work of conserving and organizing the forces of democracy is the conservation and direction of the energies of our young people. For this purpose we must give them those wholesome pleasures that we all crave in our youth (otherwise they will dissipate their energies in unwholesome pleasures) and well-planned opportunities for self-expression, especially training preparatory to good citizenship."

New College President in Newark

Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, the new president of Delaware College, formally took charge of his new duties on Saturday last, when he arrived from Richmond, Virginia, and took up a temporary residence at the Deer Park hotel. Dr. Mitchell spent Saturday inspecting the college and the field of his new work, conferring with Dr. Harter and other members of the faculty. On Sunday he manifested an interest in the life of the community by attending the services at the Presbyterian church and addressing the boys and girls in the Sunday School.

Dr. Mitchell will take an active part in the Summer School which begins next Monday, June twenty-ninth.

Buildings Being Moved

Workmen are busy removing the buildings belonging to Charles P. Wollaston from the ground purchased by the Affiliated College Commission, to a point on Mr. Wollaston's farm adjoining. Mr. Robert Wilson of Wilmington has charge of the work which it is expected will be completed by July twenty-first.

Endowment Fund Grows

At the Alumni meeting it was stated that $67,000 had been raised of the $80,000 necessary to secure the conditional $20,000 offer made by a friend of the College. It was also stated that the necessary $13,000 would be raised by September.

HERE AND THERE

Charged by a bull driven by two men on the Georgetown-Milton road, one day last week, E. C. Smith, riding a bicycle, had a close call from injury when the animal's horns grazed his rear wheel.

Harry Donovan, Thomas Wooters and Roscoe Barton pleaded guilty at Dover on Saturday to bringing liquor in excess of a gallon into dry territory and were fined $50 each with three months in Dover jail. Joseph Cook was fined $50 and given six months at Greenbank and Alexander Young was fined $200 and given a year's imprisonment for the same offense.

The Delaware State Bankers' Association held its annual meeting at Lewes on Thursday with 110 members and guests in attendance. The delegates and their friends enjoyed luncheon and an auto trip to Rehoboth. Five banks have joined the association since last fall. John H. Danby of the Union Bank of Wilmington, presided. A letter was read from the Philadelphia Clearing House Association, strongly urging Delaware banks to employ inter-locking directorates, which Joseph Moore of Philadelphia supported in a strong address. Other speakers were Governor Miller, Henry Ridgely of Dover, Mayor J. T. Thompson of Lewes, President Danby, Col. Nields, M. N. Willits, Jr., of Philadelphia, and others. Col. Lewis W. Mustard of the Sussex Trust Company of Lewes, and Daniel W. Corbett of the New Castle County Bank, of Odessa, were chosen delegates to the American Bankers' Convention at Richmond, Va.

Girl's Opportunity in Delaware

Delaware, for the first time in her history, extends a cordial hand to the girls graduating from the high schools, and happily refers them to the provision made for the future. The Woman's College is at last a reality. The catalog recently issued sets forth the requirements for admission and describes the courses offered, tuition free, to the girls of Delaware. Three courses are presented leading to a degree, and one—a two year course leading to a certificate. Dean Robinson, who has worked so enthusiastically for the last two months, to develop the idea of loyalty and support for the new institution, has urged life in the dormitory, as an important part of the College course. An encouraging item, looking toward making this possible to the average girl, is the generous number of scholarships offered by various organizations of the State, namely: $100, given by the Delaware Association of College Women; $100 given by the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs (for the first and second best entrance examination passed in June); $100 by the Alumni of Wilmington High School for the graduate of the class of 1914 who receives the highest standing in a special examination, $100 by the Milford Alumni Association. The latest announcement made by State Commissioner of Education, Charles A. Wagner, at the College Farm last Monday, is that scholarships, amounting to $2.00 per week, will be given by the School Commissioners of New Castle county to girls qualifying at a special examination. These offers open a new world to the ambitious girl of Delaware.

It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining daffodils;
In every dimpled drop I see
Wild flowers on the hills.
The clouds of grey engulf the day
And overwhelm the town—
It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining roses down.

It isn't raining rain to me
But fields of clover bloom,
Where any buceaneering bee
May find a bed and room.
A health unto the happy
A fig for him who frets—
It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining violets.

THAT CHRISTMAS GIFT

I know it is not in keeping with the weather to think of Christmas. But a little time and attention given now to your Cards or Gift Calendars will repay you more than you realize.

☐ At the holiday season, you rush off and buy some stock card or calendar. Time demands something and that is the best you can do.

☐ While now, a little thought and talk with the Printer will result in something Original—Individual. Express Yourself to your friends at Christmas tide.

☐ We are going to do some real original Christmas printing this summer. Shall we do calendars for you? Perhaps there is some scene, some quotation from your reading that you would like to share with your good friends. Let us talk it over with you.

At THE POST, of course,—a Shop where Printing is considered an Art and not a Job.

SURPRISED WOMAN!

—she never knew there were so many good looking men in this town.

A well-known local lady stopped in at my store with her husband yesterday afternoon. "My!" said she, when she saw the store full of 40-year-old youngsters giving the snappy Spring Samples the O. O. and A. (once over-again), "but you have a distinguished-looking trade!" And she hit the nail plumb on the cranium, gentlemen. She said exactly what I've wanted to say in these ads. "Distinguished-looking" is a perfectly corking expression—and it gets over vividly the precious idea I am trying to make clear.

Which is, that when a 40-year-old youngster really dresses in fashionable clothes, he's the best looking dresser on earth. Style blends in his figure with a careless ease that few younger figures encourage. The mature repose and poise of his body, the lines of character in his face, the worldly twinkle of wisdom in his eyes accentuate the smartness of the smartest clothes. "Distinguished-looking"—did you ever hear that word applied to a callow youth? Seldom, brethren, seldom! But put those fine clothes on Father—and you can almost hear the crowd saying, "Make way for his Honor, the distinguished-looking Judge!" Ahem, Senator, ahem.

Besides custom tailoring, I carry the finest line of ready-made clothing for the money—suits and separate trousers. Come in and look them over.

Also do repairing, pressing, cleaning and dyeing.
