Chemistry Professor Retires After 30 Years

Work Includes Forty Papers

'Organic' Famous

The retirement of Dr. Glenn S. Skinner, professor of chemistry at Delaware for 30 years, was announced today by Dr. William A. Mosher, chairman of the department of chemistry.

During this period, Dr. Skinner has been in charge of the instructional program in organic chemistry and has taught several thousand majors in chemistry, chemical engineering, and pre-medical students in this important branch of science.

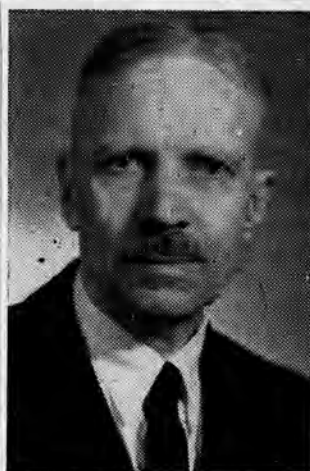

In addition to his instruction at the undergraduate level, Dr. Skinner has offered advanced courses in the organic chemistry of synthetic drugs and in qualitative organic analysis. Since 1946, when the university increased its offerings at the graduate level, 61 masters' degrees and 20 doctors of philosophy have been awarded under Dr. Skinner's personal supervision.

Dr. Skinner's tenure at the university has been marked by great productivity both in teaching and in research. Many of his students have gone on into advanced study of organic chemistry. His thoroughness at the undergraduate level is indicated by the fact that he prepared his own text book and laboratory instructions which he frequently revised to keep abreast of certain new developments.

During this period, he published over 40 scientific papers, mostly in the Journal of the American Chemical Society, the leading chemical publication in the world, and reported the synthesis of several hundred entirely new compounds. These compounds have been tested as tranquilizers, anti-convulsants, and anti-cancer agents. Tests are continuing on these materials.

In commenting on Dr. Skinner's retirement, Professor Mosher said, Dr. Glenn S. Skinner has made a tremendous contribution to the growth and development of the chemistry department at Delaware.

20 Delaware Coeds Prepare For Summer Trip to Europe

While watching newsreels of the World's Fair on television or at the movies this summer, Delaware students are urged to look closely because in that group of tourists walking in front of the camera may very well be one or more coeds from the university.

After much planning, saving money, and endless hypodermics, about 20 women students are ready to bid "bon voyage" to their friends and enjoy the many fascinating events and places that Europe offers the 1958 traveler.

Bombing Final Examination Requires Getting Shook Up

By JIM MARVEL

You ought just as well relax now. Don't bother to study. If you haven't been studying right along the only way out is to cram.

The way to bomb finals is to really study for them and get all shook up just before the exam. When you cease to get all shook up, you're getting over-confident and that means trouble.

Beginning next week with finals, an extremely sociable air will prevail on campus for all class distinction will be lost because everybody will be in the same boat.

LUCKY SENIORS

Of course the underclassmen will be a little jealous of the upperclassmen who have two or three exams and will be finishing up their college careers; but so what! Everybody suffers a little at some time; it just depends at what time.

A few words of wisdom from a veteran exam taker, "The key to this whole mixed-up affair of exams is to think. Think before during, and after the exam."

Many professors will say not to worry about an exam, just think of it as three hour tests (grouped together somewhat as the atomic bomb). What they don't explain is what do you do if you worry about hour exams.

STAY AWAKE

Really the best way to take an exam is to be awake during the exam. The way to plan for this is to go to bed at a reasonable hour the night before. "No-doz" tablets should be avoided at all

Main REW Speaker To Be Jewish Rabbi

Next year's Religious Emphasis Week, which has newly been entitled "Religion in Life," will be held on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, October 12, 13, 14.

The main speaker will be Rabbi Robert Gordis, a faculty member of New York Jewish Seminary. Rabbi Gordis appeared here on campus last fall as part of the visiting theologian program for 57-58. He gave a similar program at Lehigh University in December. The Religious Emphasis Committee, formerly the Religious Emphasis Week Committee, will be in charge of all the details of the week.

WEEK'S PROGRAM

The week's program will start with religious services over the weekend. There will be a social hour on Sunday evening at which time committee members of the Religious Emphasis Committee, faculty members, and any interested persons will have the opportunity to meet Rabbi Gordis at an informal get-together.

At Monday morning's Convocation, to be held in Mitchell Hall at 10:00, Rabbi Gordis will speak on the subject of "Religion, Science and Purpose of Life: their Relationship." Monday evening at 7:30, Rabbi Gordis will deliver a lecture entitled "Religion's Effect on Human Progress." Tuesday evening at 7:30, he will speak on: "Judaism and Christianity: A Study in Relationship."

In addition to his formal lectures, Dr. Gordis will be available for luncheon and dinner meetings with various student and faculty groups on campus. Faculty - Student seminars will be held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoons to discuss topics suggested by members of the student body.

AVAILABLE

Since Dr. Gordis will be on campus for three days, he will be available during that time to answer faculty and student questions in regard to his field and topics. This follow-through is expected to create a more active interest on the part of the university as a whole.

The success of this program is up to the student body, therefore all interested persons connected with fraternity or dormitory groups as well as religious affiliations are encouraged to express their interest as well as give their time to this program.

CHAIRMEN INCLUDE

In addition to the house and fraternity contacts, interested people should contact the following committee chairmen and express their desires, comments and ideas with regard to this program: seminar, Tom Spackman; arrangement, Amy McNulty; housing, Mimi Berkman; finances, Dave Kaplan; assembly, Jean Jaquette; off campus (commuters), Betty Kintigh; publicity, Shirley Glick; program, Emily Donovan.

LanguageShop Summer Study

The language lab, summer program, Ed 408, will be offered for the third consecutive time this summer. This is a workshop type program for the instruction of foreign languages in the elementary schools.

Dr. Edmund Cain, associate professor of education, Dr. Elbert Turner, assistant professor of modern language literature, and Dr. Max Kirch, assistant professor of modern language literature, were the men who began the program.

The course is divided into three parts. It includes the instruction of a modern language, the observation of a demonstration class, and a critique and seminar on the problems encountered in the demonstration class.

A six credit course, the program is open to Delaware teachers and qualified undergraduates.

University Names Dawson As New Library Director

Was Assistant At Chicago U. Library Post

Challenge Cited Post Inducement

Dr. John M. Dawson

Dr. John M. Dawson has been named director of libraries at the university.

After receiving his B.A. at Tulane University, Dr. Dawson earned his B.S. in Library Science at Louisiana State University and his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. He replaces W. D. Lewis at this post.

He was business manager of the University of Alabama Library in 1941-42; served as First Lieutenant in the Transportation Corps in the Aleutians during World War II; and was Assistant Librarian of the Tulane University Library. Dr. Dawson was Assistant Director of the University of Chicago Library before accepting his position here.

The chief inducement that led him to come to Delaware was "the very interesting challenge involved in working in the library of a university whose faculty and administration are alert to the contributions that the librarian makes to the educational and research goals of the university; the stimulation of working in an expanding library; and the opportunity to experiment in providing greater library services to the faculty and students."

Freshman Orientation To Begin September 14

Freshman Orientation Period for the 1958-59 term will begin Sunday, September 14, announced Miss Black, counselor.

The freshmen will register on Sunday afternoon and attend an assembly and dormitory meetings that evening.

Monday morning they will take modern language placement tests; in the afternoon they will meet the various school deans and preregister. Cheer practice and a music program will begin the evening which will be concluded by an open house in the men's dormitories.

Tentative plans for Tuesday include testing and military meetings in the morning and the presidents' reception in the afternoon. E52 will provide a dramatic program in the evening, followed by open houses in the women's dormitories.

"How to Get Along in College" will be discussed by a panel of university professors on Wednesday morning. That afternoon there will be a new student meeting, a club rendezvous, and sports and games. The climax of the orientation will be a get-acquainted party on Wednesday evening for new students only.

Three English Instructors To Depart From University

Instructors Morris, Wilson and Lesser, all of the English department are leaving the university at the end of this semester.

Mr. John Morris plans to continue work on his doctorate at Columbia University, where he will have a half-time instructorship. He did his undergraduate work at Hamilton College, and he received his Masters Degree from Columbia University.

Mr. William S. Wilson will continue to write his doctorate dissertation, "Allegory In Chaucer's poem, 'The House of Fame'" at Yale University. He received his Masters Degree from Yale and did his undergraduate work at the University of Virginia.

Mr. Marvin X. Lesser plans to further his teaching experience by instructing at another university.

All three instructors commented on the interesting and beneficial year they have spent at the university.

NOTICE

Any women students who still have gym equipment should have it turned in by 4 p.m. today. Students who fail to do so will be charged for the equipment.

Dr. Ronkin Is in Denmark, But He Sends Exam Advice

Raphael R. Ronkin, associate professor of biological sciences, is currently studying advanced physiology in Denmark. In a recent letter to The Review, he sent his advice for exams, taken from a Danish newspaper.

The Copenhagen newspaper listed some study hints for students taking the exams. Mr. Ronkin passed these along to the Delaware students.

Be in the mood to study in spite of possible distractions outside the window or claimed dullness of subject.

Find out the times of day at which your studying "form" is best; don't read beyond your attention span; take breaks.

Pay attention to what you read makes learning ten times easier. Read with the idea of remembering what you read as you read it.

To make the text stick, restate each small section in your own words, and understand its relationship to the author's previous ideas.

Stop reading frequently to allow time to think about what you have read.

As part of your study plan, get some "fresh air," totaling at books; look at newspapers, smoke a cigarette take some exercise in the sunshine, visit with your family, but don't think about exams.

Assume from the start that the time available for study will be insufficient, then plan its use carefully. Skim the text first, then concentrate on the sections where you know you are weak.

Look for the main points in the text as you read. Make marginal notes. Underscore ideas, at least one hour a day. Forget the but avoid excessive underscoring; it may confuse you later. Be sure not to skip things you don't understand.

If passages are to be learned by heart, understand their meaning first.

125 Students Are Notified Of Fall Posts

About 125 students in the school of education have received their student teaching assignments for next year and are making contacts with principals and teachers in the schools in which they have been placed, announced Dean William O. Penrose, dean of school of education.

The assignments came after more than 90 cooperating teachers, under whom the students will be trained, attended a student teachers conference here last week.

The student teachers are assigned for an eight-week, full-day period to one of the state's elementary, junior, and senior high schools. They will teach all subjects including the specialized ones such as home economics, physical education, art and music.

Freshmen Order Blazers

About 160 freshman girls recently ordered their sophomore blazers. Some girls also ordered matching skirts and bermudas. A deposit of $5.00 was required for each item.

Cookie Olson, chairman of the Blazer Committee, stated that the balance will be due upon arrival of the garments during the first week of next semester.

The crest which was chosen by the girls was designed by Doreen Siemers. It was chosen from 15 designs submitted by members of the class.

"An outstanding example of the teacher and scholar, Dr. Skinner has been a constant and productive research worker and supervisor. His research has enriched his teaching and has permitted him to pass on to his students his great love for the important field of organic chemistry.

"We are pleased that he will continue his research as he assumes the rank of Professor Emeritus, and that his advice and great background of chemical experience will be available to the faculty and students of the department."

Dr. Skinner has been a member, senior grade, of the American Chemical Society for 44 years, and has served as a national councillor as well as on several committees of the Delaware Section. He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Phi Lambda Upsilon, national chemical honorary society, Phi Kappa Phi, and Sigma Xi, national research honorary fraternity. Tempers Simmer

During Registration

Registration has always been annoying. If there is anything which creates that "hurry up and wait" attitude, it is the beginning of the semester procession through the mill. At Delaware, however, thanks to the efforts of Robert Gebhardt'sbauer and his staff at the Records Office, the irritation of signing up for that course is kept to a minimum.

An immediate example of this is the preregistration system started this spring. Students now know not only the time and place of their class, but they also are informed of the time and date of the final examination. "If reaction to this is good, it will continue," Mr. Gebhardt'sbauer said. The comment is typical of the obliging helpfulness of the crew from Hullahen Hall. As far as the new service is concerned, Mr. Gebhardt'sbauer said that the "preponderant amount of discussion on the subject has indicated favorable."

Over the last two years there has been an increased efficiency with registration, grade reports, et al. The time required to go through a registration line has been reduced materially, and students now may make a greater number of changes in the roster of classes without taking days to do it.

A new offset reproducing card enables the Records Office to make as many copies of pertinent student information needed without having to get the student to fill in countless numbers of blank sheets.

Grade reports now contain more information. Included are cumulative index and cumulative class standing, something which the student didn't receive unless he made a trip to the office. Such information aids with the selection of a student to a honor society, for potential employers and graduate schools, as well as determining at a glance that a student is eligible for graduation.

Certainly Mr. Gebhardt'sbauer and his staff are not infallible. He admits that in getting reports of grades to the students, some 25 to 30 errors are made. The majority of these, however, are corrected within a week after the end of the semester.

Services from the Records Office which are little heard of include personal contact with the student for listing his name in the Undergraduate Directory, supply of a student's transcript, and next fall, the listing of the address of the student who lives off campus in Newark.

"Mr. G's" staff has a thankless task. Yet they keep at it relentlessly. They have to. For this we should be a bit more considerate if our temper warms during registration next fall. Those of us who will be here, that is.

'Neath the Arches

The last mile has begun. The dark corridor stretches ahead. At the end of the passage a door can be seen in the gloom. Nearer, nearer, the writing on the door becomes clearer. There is is in big letters.

FINALS

Open the door and pass through (or out, as your state of mind may be.) Now there is no turning back. After completing the requirements in the room, another door appears marked

FOR SENIORS ONLY

Upon opening it, a big sign hangs from the ceiling saying "Congratulations," you finally made it to graduation. A hand extends, shakes yours, leaving a card in your hand saying "Earl Alger wants you, and your dues."

WEEK-END

All the years of hard and endless labor drop away, and only the pleasant memories of the invigorating and stimulating successful experience of studying remains. Now, the reward for all this nose-to-the-grindstone routine. Senior Week-end with its spirit-lifting schedule of dinners, dances, parties, and picnics. And then June 8—GRADUATION, and freedom from work? (well, from the books anyway.)

NEW SENIORS

The seniors are in their glory, but too soon, the over-anxious freshmen, sophomores, and juniors want to move up a class, and they consider the '58 ers as the "ole grads." Another class passes into history (whisper of violins, please.

Down to earth we go with mere plebian thoughts. The annual Student Art Show is being held this week. On display may be seen houseplans, colleges, and decorating ideas that the students have dreamed-up. Marriage-minded girls will see many helpful hints for planning and furnishing a home.

Cornell was invaded by a horde of Delaware girls, mostly from Kent. The souvenir hunting turned up jackets, mugs, and safari hats. What, no heads!

A cow was seen munching the luscious green grass on north campus. Probably he was fattening up for the Ag final.

Cupid came out of his cave long enough to supervise the pinning of Nancy Torbet and Jack Davidson, Delta Tau Delta alumnus. Best of luck to the two of them.

Speaking of finals, I'd rather not. The one-sustaining thought is the long summer ahead. Have a wonderful vacation, and those who are planning to return in the fall will be all fresh and bright-eyed, ready for the new year.

Be good. See you in September.

Notebook

By GEORGE SPELVIN

If there is just a remote chance that some of you may visit New York in the next few weeks, don't miss the Lunts in Friedrich Duerrenmatt's "The Visit." Here's that rare occasion when the play and the players are perfectly matched. The Lunts are at their all-time best in this shocking play of a vengeance that works its way out through greed that is both damning and inevitable from Miss Fontanne's first venomous entrance to Mr. Lunt's final scene on the scaffold. Seriously, this one is great!

ATTILA

Anthony Quinn is the only good thing about the most recent offering at the Warner Theatre in Wilmington. The film, entitled "Attila," is a reasonably large spectacle about the Hun who conquered the known world in the time of the Roman Caesars. Setting and costumes are authentic, history is not distorted; but somehow we just couldn't care less about the final outcome.

English voices are dubbed in and detract from the acting, which is mediocre at best — with the exception of Queen, who is always good. Sophia Loren is busty, but stinks in the role of Honoria, the Roman Empress who tries to hold on to her Empire by seducing the Hun.

History arranged one of its truly great dramatic moments when Pope Leo encountered Attila and persuaded him to cease his assault on the Romans, with victory already in Attila's grasp. But the movie version of this moment is such that one wonders what imbecile was permitted to destroy it so completely. The only drama present at that point in the picture was the disgust that the audience must have felt for such poor handling of one of Christianity's (Continued on Page 5)

THOUGHTS

By SIDNEY EZRAILSON

Since this is my last column, I want to talk about the things I have liked about my undergraduate career. These are the ones I will remember most when I look back on the four years I spent in these ivy covered walls.

I will always remember the Scrounge, a name which will probably disappear after this year. Many an intellectual discussion or exciting rendezvous took place there. I wonder now for what it will be used.

What other college had a student union without windows?

I will never forget mailboxes numbered 326, 386, 356 and 378, which were mine in the freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior years. Money from home, a steam ship ticket for Europe, an acceptance from a graduate school are only a few of the wonderful things I found in there. But, I can remember the forlorn feeling in my heart when I found that little square devoid of anything.

The fourth floor of Sharp Hall, quite a few steps above the ground, is another important aspect of my undergraduate career. In this small area, I lived for three years, in a beautiful room overlooking the back of the movie theatre. Such a view, including the sign "Shopping Center" and the fire tower with its siren will reoccur in my mind many times.

The fire tower brings back another thing I certainly won't forget. The sirens that occasionally scream in Newark are a sound familiar to all of us. I can remember on the night before a chemistry test, upon hearing the sirens, I wished that it were Brown Lab and tomorrow's exam in the fire somehow, but I got through without the Lab burning down.

I'll never forget the church bells that ring faithfully in Newark every afternoon at five-thirty and arouse all late Sunday sleepers regardless of creed.

Finally, I won't forget the Delaware Review on Monday or Tuesday nights in the office with a rush to get "Thoughts" in on time.

Oh yes, and I'll never forget the column on women, but I hope they do.

Letters to the Editor

Pregnant Pause

The Student Health Service wishes to express a Bon Voyage message to our Head Nurse.

Mrs. George Null has been a key member of the Staff for five years, this last year as Head Nurse, a position she has filled extremely well. Students coming to Laurel Hall this semester know that we are losing Mrs. Null for the most worthy reason, the arrival of a new member of the Null family.

I am sure that the student body will want to join us in sending the Nulls all good wishes.

Sincerely
Gordon Keppel, M. D.
Director of Student Health

Grim Memories

To an older person, such as myself, the Nazi-made film, shown recently by the Sociology Club, depicting the Nazi Party Congress of 1934 at Nuremberg brought back grim memories of troubled times. Out of the dead past came the faces of Adolph Hitler, Rudolf Hess, Joseph Goebbels, Hermann Goerring, Heinrich Himmler of the secret police, and others of that deadly crew. But the younger students of today saw only smiling faces, natty uniforms, precision marching and God knows how many helling millions.

VILE BELIEFS

Neither the film (all in untranslated German!) nor, unfortunately, the preceding commentary, revealed to those present what vile beliefs these same smiling leaders actually stood for and what they subsequently accomplished. I am afraid that the students did not have brought home to them that it was precisely these men who first destroyed German democracy, then destroyed German culture by book-burning, persecution of leading scholars and Jewish scholars and then led Germany and the world into a monstrous war in which over 20 million died.

It was these same natty uniformed men who caused 6 million Jews, 6 million or more Poles, and untold millions of Russians, Frenchmen, Belgians, Ukrainians and many, many others, to die in the gas oven of Dachau, Buchenwald and Auschwitz, and millions of others to live as starving slaves in these and other concentration camps.

The knowledge of these atrocities should never be forgotten by Americans, and we must always be on our guard against a recrudescence of such murderous philosophies as nazism—it could happen again, even here, God forbid!

The Sociology Club is to be congratulated for a good effort, but the job of showing to today's students the truly murderous, bestial nature of the Nazis remains to be done on the campus.

Sincerely,
H. David Hammond
Asst. Prof. Biology

D'Arcy Critic

It is high time to put a logical foot into the mouth of self-styled-expert analysts that attempt to disparage today's college students. College students are uncultured, unthinking, unparticipating, unapt, unaware, untidy, unschooled, unwise, unchangeable almost every phase of your paper beats this drum every week. Apparently anybody who slaps a piece of writing together gets room in The Review to ride the hobby-horse of hypocritical culture with a childlike glee.

Last week a certain D'Arcy proved conclusively that the world's college students are provincial and uninterested in the new because less than a hundred Delaware students attended the showing of a Japanese film and because a few of those few chuckled during a murder scene.

D'Arcy went on to remark this asinine generalization with the fact that many American tourists do not speak the language of their hosts and that they use the services of the American Express Company. Even if they had anything to do with the price of eggs, does D'Arcy expect to master over 2,500 languages before he ever makes a trip around the world? English is spoken by 25 x 10⁸ people—how provincial are you get!!!

Cliff Browning was announced as the outstanding 1958 Blue Hen at the annual Athletic Awards Banquet last night. The award is an unusual honor because Delaware athletics in general have enjoyed one of the most prosperous years ever.

Browning was chosen primarily for his track achievements. He set Delaware records this year in the pole vault and the 220 low hurdles, and starred as well in the broad jump, 120 high hurdles, and as a member of the strong mile relay team.

Cliff was also one of three ends who alternated as regulars during the past football season. This is what assured him of the award for it is based upon versatility as well as ability.

There are many other Blue Hens who deserve recognition for their efforts. Among the seniors (the award winner is traditionally a senior) Jim Smith, Ben Klingler, Tony DeLucas, John Walsh, Larry Catuzzi, Harris Mosher, Jerry Bacher, Tony Toto, Fred Walters and Gene Watson merit special mention.

Smith starred for Delaware nines and fives throughout his collegiate career. He plans to play professional baseball after graduation.

Klingler starred as end and place kicker for the football team and as javelin flinger for the track team.

DeLucas was one of the nation's top collegiate hurlers last year and the #1 defensive quarterback for the grid-ders last fall.

Walsh also combined football and baseball talents. He was the bruising fullback who wouldn't be thrown for a loss, and a rifle-armed outfielder.

Another who possessed both grid and diamond talents was Catuzzi. Larry was the field director of the Nelsonian crew for two years and the infield director of the baseballers for two.

Mosher was the rare three-in-one. The six-foot seven inch was pass-catcher, court center, and hurdler for various Blue Hen teams.

Bacher came into the limelight this season with his 10-0 pitching mark. He also was a cager.

Toto, Walters, and Watson limited their services to one sport but left their marks just the same. The five games Tony played last fall will long be remembered by grid fans around here.

Walters and Watson defended the corners of the diamond for Tubby Raymond and attracted major league scouts with their slugging.

The baseball team was hoping that its finishing flourish would convince post-season tournament selectors that there was no need for a playoff game to be held to determine the MAC champion. The Blue Hens believed that their 18-3 record proved them the best team in the conference, and, of course, the more games you play the more likely you are to lose.

But woe-be-it the Blue Hens will have to beat Lafayette again. This time the game is to be a "big-league affair" says Coach Raymond. It will be played in neutral Temple Stadium and there will be four umpires, when this was written the exact date had not been set, but the contest was slated for this weekend.

The feeling here is that the Hens can do it, that is if last Saturday's Bucknell game is a sample. Bucknell was easy, 20-5, but that's not all. Dick Duerr, Jim Smith, and Jim Breyer, three power-hitting .300 plus batsmen didn't even see action. Fill-ins Dick Holden, John Walsh, and Karl Frantz had seven hits among them.

Final statistics reveal eight hitters, seven of them regulars, in the .300 category, and a team average of .294.

Take a look at the starting lineup:

1. Elia, centerfield	81	26	25	7	.309
2. Breyer, left field	70	22	25	13	.357
3. Watson, first base	80	29	29	16	.363
4. Smith, second base	62	20	20	16	.323
5. Walters, third base	70	23	23	37	.329
6. Duerr, right field	43	10	13	8	.302
7. Frantz or	54	8	14	12	.259
8. Catuzzi, shortstop	30	6	8	6	.267
8. Alger, catcher	59	12	18	9	.305

If you are a perfectionist you can insert Tommy Walls' .324 at shortstop and have an "all 300" lineup.

Netmen Conclude 11-1 Season By Shutting Out St. Josephs

By VICKI DONOVAN

Delaware's netmen defeated Ursinus, 7-0, on May 3. The last two doubles matches of the match were cancelled because of rain.

The following Tuesday the Hens took LaSalle, 6 1/2-2 1/2. There was a tie in the doubles match between Delaware's Woodruff-Brunner and Komis-Walsh. This match left the university team with a 9-1 record against LaSalle's 4-7.

Against F&M on May 12 the Blue Hens took the match, 7-2.

On May 14 the Hens took every match from Drexel. Then they defeated St. Josephs, 9-0, bringing the final record to 11-1.

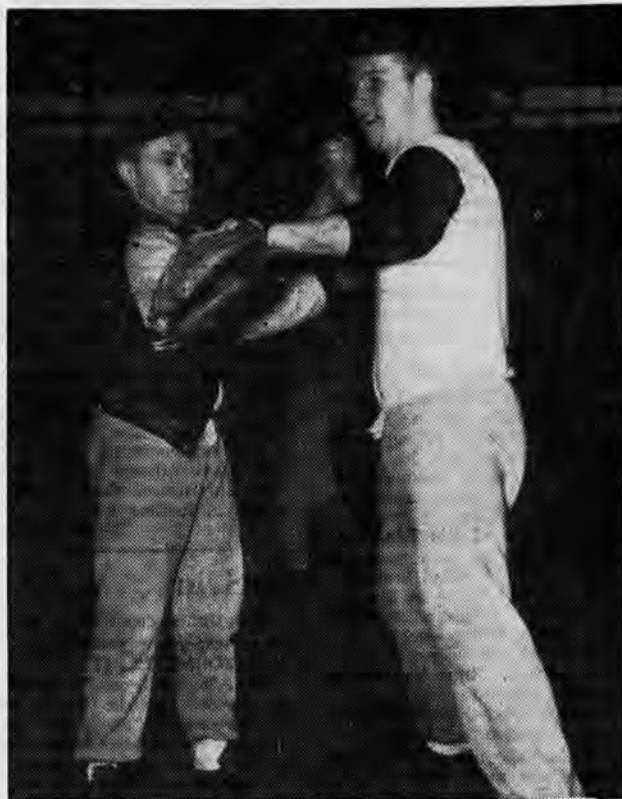

The freshman team played its last match on May 13 and defeated NAPS, 6-3. The final frosh record was 1-2.

ONLY LOSS

The sole varsity loss was to Swarthmore, one of the top teams in the area. The 11-1 record was one of the best ever compiled by a Blue Hen team.

All of the varsity players received letters and Bob Woodruff, captain, won the special award.

Temple, PMC, and Bucknell Fall to Tourney-Bound Hens

BASEBALL COACH TUBBY RAYMOND corrects Fred Walters' pitching form under Carpenter Field House hangar. Walters, a third baseman and lefthanded slugger when he isn't hurling, had eight consecutive hits in two games last week. Three of the hits were homers and, compositely, the hits drove thirteen Hens across the plate.

Track Team Defeats Albright for 5-1 Mark

By GEORGE PRETTYMAN

Delaware's track team completed its 1958 season by defeating Albright, 71-55, last Tuesday at Albright. The win was the fifth of the year for the Blue Hens in dual meets. The only loss was to a capable Lehigh squad in the first meet of the spring.

Captain Cliff Browning and Gerald Quigg paced the Hens in the Albright victory. Browning won the broad jump with 21'5", leap the 220 low hurdles with a time of 27.2 and tide for first place in the pole vault, clearing 12'6". Quigg captured first in the mile with 4:46 and the 880 with a clocking of 2:11.2.

Three new Delaware records were set this year. Cliff Browning ran the 220 low hurdles in 25.4 against Swarthmore and won the MASCAC pole vault with 13'2 1/2". Bill Walston's 22'11 1/2" broad jump in the Johns Hopkins meet was the third new mark.

Captain Browning led the varsity in scoring with 89 points. Don Harper was the high scorer for the Chicks with 44 1/2 points. Close behind were Dale Stecher with 44, George Rust with 39, and Joe Abrams with 38.

School Teams Here to Vie For Track Title Tomorrow

The 43rd annual university Interscholastic Track and Field Meet will be held on Frazer Field tomorrow, it has been announced by D. Kenneth Streets, track coach.

Some 34 junior and senior high schools in Delaware participated in last year's tourney. Howard High School, of Wilmington, won the senior high division with 41 points, a full 21 points more than runner-up Redding of Middletown. William Penn is defending champion in the junior high section.

Coach Steers said most of the schools that competed last year are expected to return with possibly a few additions. Several schools, he said, have begun interscholastic competition just this year.

The only change in the senior high events will be the elimination of the 110 yard low hurdles and the addition of the 120 yard high hurdles and the 180 yard low hurdles. The 50 yard dash will also be dropped from the junior high schedule. Activities will begin tomorrow morning with trials scheduled at 10 a. m. Finals will be under way at 1 p. m.

By JAY GORRY

The regularly scheduled Delaware baseball season ended Saturday, May 17, with a resounding 20-5 victory over the Bisons of Bucknell. Earlier in the week the Hen nine defeated Temple, 10-0, and PMC, 11-2.

Against Temple, Captain Gene Watson, batting cleanup for the first time this season, was the hitting hero with 3 for 4. John Walsh also contributed to the cause by laying down a bases loaded bunt. When the dust had cleared, all three Hen base runners had crossed the plate.

Jerry Bacher threw eight innings of the shutout in registering his ninth win. Al Neiger pitched the last inning. Temple could muster only four hits from the two.

TONY IS BACK

Against PMC, Freddy Walters and Tony DeLucas were the stars. DeLucas, plagued with a sore arm throughout the season, was the top hurler last year. Tony pitched 6 innings and allowed only 3 hits.

Walters went 4-4, hit two home runs, a triple, and a single, and batted in five runs.

Against Bucknell, Walters was again the hero. Freddy went 5-4 hit a homer, and drove in eight runs. Four of his hits came in his first four times at bat giving him eight straight hits against the two teams.

Jerry Bacher pitched the whole game in racking up his tenth straight victory.

The final record was 18 victories against only 3 defeats.

WATSON AT .363

Unofficially, the records have not yet been published, Gene Watson is the leading hitter with a .363 average. Seven other hitters are over .300. They are Lee Elia, Jim Breyer, Jim Smith, Walters, Dick Duerr, Earl Alger and Tommy Walls.

Both Bacher and Neiger have earned run averages of under 1.3. Bacher's is under 1.3.

The Hens are now in definite contention for the NCAA as representative for district two. There are eight districts.

TOP TEAMS MEET

The top four teams of district two meet in a single elimination tournament to decide who will represent the district in the Omaha, Nebraska tournament. This is a tournament with the top team from each district competing.

According to the "New York Times," the top teams in contention for district two are N.Y. U., Pittsburgh, Delaware, Penn State, and Manhattan. This tournament must be finished by June 10 as the Omaha tournament starts June 13.

Although baseball, football, and basketball highlighted Buck Jones' high school career, track took over in college. He has made a name for himself as a 220 and 440 sprinter and occasionally does the 100, mile, and javelin throw.

A few of Jones' bright spots this year were fourth place with teammates, Jerry Quigg, Cliff Rowling, and Al Huey, in the Middle Atlantic One Mile Relay; second place in the mile, third in the 100, first in the 220, first in the javelin, and first with teammates in the mile relay, all against Johns Hopkins. Against Mohlenberg the 6' 2" junior captured firsts in the 440 and 220 and third in the javelin. He has won letters the past two seasons.

A native of Pottstown, Pa., Buck attended North Coventry High School where he starred in the three major sports. In baseball the 200 pounder had the distinction of being first to toss a no hit, no run game in the story of his school. He earned a letter all three years.

Jones became All-Conference and in the Perkiomen-Schuylkill Valley Football Conference in his junior and senior years. In his senior year the center captained his basketball team to a berth of Pennsylvania State inner-ups. He gained letters all three years in these sports also. Buck Jones entered the U. S. Armed Forces after his sophomore year here. He returned to the university after three years service. Jones asserts that he would like to participate in the other sports except that he feels that "there are a lot of boys better than I am." Baseball is out of the question anyway since it conflicts with the track season. The history major is seeking some type of outdoor work for a vocation, with forestry as a possibility. His spare time is occupied with Theta Chi Fraternity, Men's Chorus, intramural football and basketball, and weight lifting. When he's not doing any of these he might be found at the keyboard.

Buck Jones before he let his hair grow.

Sigma Nu Dethrones Sig Ep As Intramural Sports Champ

Sigma Nu won the intramural sports trophy, finishing first in 10 out of the 13 sports events. Sigma Phi Epsilon, last year's champs, won the swimming title and Kappa Alpha finished first in the basketball tournament. With only the tennis tournament to be decided, the standings are as follows:

WAA Elects Awards Pins

By BRENDA BAUMGARTNER

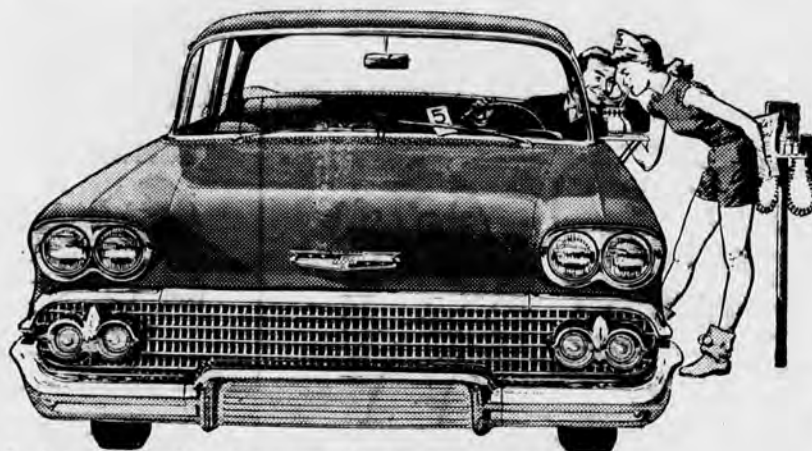

Activities on South Campus came to a standstill this week.

The last WAA meeting was held Tuesday. Election finals were announced and the new officers presided. The Executive Board consists of Pat Seni, president; Kelly Turner, veep; Gladys Durboraw, secretary; Gail Shierman, treasurer; and Brenda Baumgartner, publicity.

Pins were awarded last week to Barbara Jenkinson, Pat Seni, and Gail Pierson for their summa cum athletic achievements.

The new executives voted one change for the coming year: all awards will be in the form of keys instead of pins.
