Improved Uniform International LESSON

Lesson for July 24 GIDEON: FOLLOWING GOD'S PLAN

LESSON TEXT—Judges 7:47, 15-23. GOLDEN TEXT—Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage. Joshua 1:9.

Who is he? What are his connections? How large an organization does he represent? These are the measures of the greatness of a man which are common in the world.

Gideon came from an obscure family in a small tribe in Israel—and was astonished when God called him (Judges 6:15).

I. An Insignificant Army (vv. 4-7). At first thought it seems almost foolish to comment on this story of repeated reductions in the size of Gideon's army in these hectic days when the nations of the earth are living for but one objective—to create a fighting machine bigger and more fully manned than that of any other nation.

But on second thought it is just the time for such comment, because what the nations are doing is a perfect example of the hopeless philosophy of men, while what Gideon did is a presentation of God's way.

We need the lesson today that it is by the seemingly insignificant Gideon's band that victory is to be obtained. Take courage, ye 800, rid yourselves of the 22,000 fearful ones, let God sift out the 9,700 who are not alert to the danger of the enemy, and then, under some Gideon who is obedient to the command of God, go forward to victory.

II. Obedience to God's Command (vv. 15-23). After the Lord had encouraged the heart of Gideon by the account of the dream of the Midianite (vv. 8-14), he and his band are sent forward with strange weapons and even stranger instructions.

III. The Sword of the Lord and of Gideon (vv. 18, 20).

While some folk err in counting the Lord out and making everything depend on man, there are a few who make the opposite error and become fatalistic in spirit and relatively useless to both God and man—because they hold an improper view of the manner in which the Lord works through human agencies.

A man who objected to soul-winning efforts, and especially personal work, said that he believed "God could save a man if he were alone on the top of the Alps." Of course He could, but God does not ordinarily work that way. It is the "sword of the Lord"—yes, but do not forget that it is "the sword of the Lord and of Gideon." God has graciously condescended to do His work on earth through human agencies. Let us be ready and subservient instruments for His use, but let us at the same time be alert and active in His service. The two are not at all inconsistent, in fact the one whom God chooses to use is usually the one who is already busy about His work.

CANNING SEASON ADVICE

Mrs. Daugherty Offers Many Suggestions

"The canning season is here with all the wonderful opportunities it provides to fill the pantry with foods for winter use," says Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty, county home demonstration agent for the University of Delaware.

Easier To Handle Tin cans are easier to handle; there is less breakage, and they can be cooled quicker to prevent overcooking of the product.

Obedience to God's Command After the Lord had encouraged the heart of Gideon by the account of the dream of the Midianite (vv. 8-14), he and his band are sent forward with strange weapons and even stranger instructions.

III. The Sword of the Lord and of Gideon (vv. 18, 20).

ICE CREAM CAKE FORM FOR BRIDE

Many Showers Brightened By Simple Hearts

Molded ice cream hearts have brought many a bridal shower to a happy ending, but here's something that's never been tried before (to our knowledge)—and is as simple as ice cream and cake—is ICE CREAM CAKE HEARTS.

The nice thing about this dessert is that the hostess can make it quite inexpensively. First, it is suggested that she bake her favorite chocolate cake in a large shallow oblong pan, so that the baked cake will be 3/4 to 1 inch in depth. From it, cut individual hearts, using either a large cookie cutter or a card board pattern. Then, carefully place them on a bread board to be ready, when the time comes, for their regal topping of easy-to-make delicious sauce.

Banana Ice Cream (Sufficient for 8 to 10 "hearts") 1 1/4 cups sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 egg 2 cups milk (scalded) 2 cups coffee cream 2 cups ripe banana (diced)

Combine sugar, flour and salt. Add the beaten egg and blend thoroughly. Add the scalded milk slowly and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Let cool, then add cream and fold in the bananas. Pour in freezing container of modern ice cream freezer; assemble and cover. Surround with mixture of 3 parts crushed ice and 1 part rock salt. If you have a modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator, you know you'll always have a plentiful supply of hard-frozen ice on hand.

Newark, Delaware, July 21, 1938

LET'S PUT UP A BATTLE!

Any business concern, with the lone exception of the Pennsylvania Railroad, would go far out of its way to serve a customer that is putting some $36,000 every month into its coffers. Even if an occasional favor were asked, or a measure of free service needed, any business concern, with the exception of the Pennsylvania Railroad, would furnish it for a $36,000-a-month customer.

But the Pennsylvania Railroad, demonstrating the same hoggish traits that in the beginning caused thousands of tons of freight to be driven away in motor trucks and thousands of paying passengers to quit the rails in favor of busses and private automobiles, figuratively tells Newark, a $36,000-a-month customer, to jump into White Clay Creek.

Not content with a one-half cent increase in passenger rates, which becomes effective this month, the Pennsy has tersely announced the closing of the local passenger depot on August 15. No doubt the doors on the unhandsome edifice will remain unlocked and the windows unbarred, but in making Newark a mere non-agency stop, railroad officials might just as well remove the structure altogether.

Although the announcement of the move doesn't say as much, the Pennsylvania Railroad indicates dissatisfaction with its passenger return here. Hence Newark, a $36,000-a-month customer, counting freight, mail, and passenger revenues, is to be insulted and inconvenienced so that a so-called public service corporation can either dismiss or transfer one clerk at a saving of $100 twelve times a year.

It's cheap on the part of the railroad and it's shoddy treatment for a community that grew to the extent of $161,000 in assessed valuation last year, with another $200,000 increase being added in six months of 1938.

If the Pennsylvania Railroad isn't smart enough to encourage the support of a community such as this, then the community, in turn, should show its resentment. Let's put up a battle!

HAVE YOUR CAR INSPECTED

Delaware's Tenth Annual Motor Car Inspection Campaign is now in full swing. Ten years ago this worthwhile movement was originated and sponsored by the Delaware Safety Council as a purely voluntary inspection. During the following years it has grown into a mandatory inspection campaign properly covered by rules and regulations in Delaware's Motor Vehicle Code.

The Delaware Safety Council urges that motorists give the Annual Inspection Campaign their one hundred percent cooperation. According to Accident Facts, a brochure released by the National Safety Council, fifteen per cent of all motor vehicle accidents are directly attributable to faulty equipment.

Owners can greatly relieve the congestion at the official inspection stations by having their car examined prior to presenting it for official inspection. No repairs or adjustments are made at the safety lanes. Car operators are expected to have repairs and adjustments made at their regular service station. In previous campaigns, faulty headlights and brakes have been the two features causing the largest percentage of rejections.

At the present time, three states—Connecticut, New Jersey, and Delaware—are using mechanical equipment owned and operated by the state as a means of conducting the inspection. This method has proved to be superior to the old one—of designating certain garages to act as official inspection stations.

INSECT LIFE

It is estimated that nine out of ten living creatures are insects, and that the number of different species may be as great as ten million. About 475,000 species have been studied and classified by scientists.

In his new book, Grassroot Jungles, Edwin M. Teale gives many interesting facts about insects and their habits.

One of the most vicious is the praying mantis, so called because its forelegs are bent in such a way as to suggest hands folded in prayer. It feeds on other insects, and will tackle any kind except ants, but is harmless to man. The female often eats the smaller male after mating.

The most prolific insect is the aphid, or plant louse, which reproduces without mating. It is estimated that if all the descendants of one aphid could possibly survive through a whole year their total weight would be more than 800 million tons. (Please don't ask us to prove that one.)

The ant is considered the most intelligent insect, closely followed by the wasp and the bee. Bees and silkworms are the most useful, although many species are of service in destroying other insects.

Most surprising of all is the dragon fly, which has such a fondness for live meat that it sometimes eats parts of itself, beginning with its tail.

According to Webster, the term "insect" is also used to designate "any small, trivial or contemptible person." But it would take another book to discuss that kind.

Insurance Manager

Barton H. Mackey

Succeeding Charles B. Palmer, Gordon Heights, as manager of the Wilmington office of the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont, Mr. Mackey, Newark resident, took over his new duties this week.

Mr. Palmer, general manager for 29 years, resigned recently, but will continue as associate manager with emphasis on personal policyholders' service.

Mr. Mackey, an alumnus of Bucknell University of Pennsylvania, has been engaged in life insurance work in this and Philadelphia territory for 15 years. His wife is the former Miss Hester Lewis. They have two sons.

Present offices of the company will be retained in the duPont Building.

May Cost Man Job

H. L. Morris, who serves the local public in the interest of the railroad as passenger and freight agent, with the assistance of a clerk, L. H. Martin, at present, will probably be the lone employee available for patrons here, providing the plan goes through.

The latter, who has been in the services of the Pennsylvania for twenty-four years and who was acting agent at North East, Md., before coming to Newark, is threatened with the loss of his job. Martin will either be dropped from the payroll, or will be forced to follow the heartless routine of ousting (bumping) a younger man in the service out of his job. All because the Pennsylvania Railroad has chosen to make Newark a mere non-agency stop.

Opposition Voiced

Mayor Frank Collins, on behalf of the Council of Newark and as an individual stockholder of the company, has filed formal and vigorous protest with M. W. Clement, president of the concern.

In protesting the move, Mayor Collins stated: "The Pennsylvania Railroad Company takes something like $36,000 out of Newark every month in freight, mail, and passenger revenue, which indicates a profitable piece of business.

"Simply because one phase of that business may not be showing a profit, there is no reason why a public service corporation should be permitted to unreasonably curtail it while continuing profitable branches only.

"In furnishing light, power, and water to people, business houses, and industries in Newark, the Council is forced to carry many accounts that are unprofitable. Because Council is acting as a public servant, however, we could not think of refusing to render service simply because an account is not profitable.

"And as long as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company operates here, I feel that it should be forced to continue passenger service on an agency basis." The Mayor's protest was filed with the railroad's head in the absence of a public service commission or a kindred body in Delaware.

Jackson Protests

George F. Jackson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, stated yesterday that formal protest had been forwarded to the railroad on Monday. "We are bitterly opposed to the Pennsylvania's action," Mr. Jackson stated, "and we will fight the contemplated move to the end."

Numerous lodges, fraternal groups, and business organizations are being lined up to protest the plan.

Pretty Prisoner

Said to reveal her dramatic power at its highest in "Condemned Women," Sally Ellers has the principal role in this melodramatic picture of a girl convict's sacrifice for love. James Ellison is the other romantic element in the film, while Anne Shirley has a co-featured role.

Time Out-- For Thought

Syndicated by the Rostercians Amore, San Jose, California

Fathomless, mysterious ocean, full of revelation and threats; who can sit at thy bosom and contemplate thy ceaseless action without being stimulated to thought adventures? Man has reaped untold benefits by the harnessing of the mighty forces of nature, which are meant to be utilized by him. But it can be done successfully only in compliance with the laws of nature.

Are we not living in an ocean of turbulence at all times, seeing the waves rolling by; delightful at times, threatening always? There is much to be learned of life and its laws if one would be able to make some headway or occasionally float in content safety. One certainly has to know the principles of life in order to know when to utilize an oncoming wave constructively and when to avoid being in the way of destructive forces. Whether one jumps or dives, or resorts to a more original method of escape is all a matter of personal skill and knowledge. Only the foolhardy or un instructed will try to oppose established laws of nature; while skillful adjustment proves accumulated wisdom, and assures more pleasant experiences.

Life becomes very interesting when one senses the purpose of it and then makes an earnest effort to learn to cope with it intelligently. One may just paddle at the edge of it without ever learning the joy of entering into it deeply; or one may learn gradually but persistently how to strike out boldly and courageously and dive into the fullness of it because familiar with many principles to govern one's actions. One may even attain much knowledge as to be able to ride on the crest of the waves just holding the reins and utilizing the powers, ever ready to serve man who has attained control successfully.

We may never be called upon to show great skill in the watery element of the ocean, but it is safe to say that most of us will meet circumstances in life when the waves will roll so wildly that nothing but keeping above them can save us. In cases of "swim or sink" situations, performance and records are possible, but the final goal to be achieved is to keep all upsetting, conflicting turbulence under foot and rise into the joy and calm of established life.

SOCIETY WRITER EXPOSES DARK SECRETS

MISS MARY WARD, who restricts her observations to the highest strata of society, bursts forth in the July Town and Country with the revealing information that society's Mrs. Paul Abbott and Mrs. Arthur White have butler-fertile tattooed on their knees. Not only that, but Hadie Eames Yates has a Kewpie on her thigh; Caresse Crosby Young has a cross on the sole of her foot; Bettina Belmont has two bumblebees on her knee; Dorothy Parker has a heart on her arm; Ogden Starr has an American flag, snakes, and what not all over; J. Bryan, 3rd, has an elephant over crossed cannons on his dexar carpi radialis—and so it goes with a dozen or more well known socialites who have submitted to the long, sharp needles of the tattoo expert.

In her article on the startling subject, Mary Ward traces the rise of the art of tattooing through the Navy (which in 1927 received orders to "keep it clean") and into society via sea-faring sons of kings. At one time, according to Miss Ward, coats of arms became almost as customary on the forearm as on the family silver.

Led by such fraternities as DKE and the Phi Deltas, who still wear a Maltese cross on the left arm, tattooing reached into the colleges. From colleges it slipped into high society, where social registrars now vie with each other for the flossiest and most colorful design.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM F. ALLEN

BUYING AND SELLING—A large number of buyers have turned up unexpectedly with the first showing of fall lines of goods. Although the activity of textile mills is not up to proportion to the increased sale of goods off the shelves, it is being stepped up somewhat; sales of automobiles are showing an upward trend which is slightly above any expected.

COMMODITY PRICES—The firmness with which commodity prices are holding to their recent advance is encouraging buying. Producers, both at home and abroad, are finding this new trend in buying very helpful.

RAILROADS—Eastern railroads have been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase passenger fares from two cents a mile to 2 1/2 cents, for a trial period of eighteen months. This will mean $32,000,000 in additional revenue, provided that passenger travel is not adversely affected. This fare increase follows a small increase recently allowed Pullman fares. A heavy movement of grain to market is of great help to the Western railroads at present.

CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS—2,595 Projects to cost $637,141,000 when completed, have been allotted in funds by the Public Works Administration to date. $68,925,000 has been set aside for 17 additional slum clearance projects by the U. S. Housing Authority. This brings the total to $427,299,000 and promises of more to come. Plans for 230 new Federal buildings to cost $60,000,000 have been given approval. All these projects show a steady increase in building, which should bring the country back to normal.

BRITISH-AMERICAN AGREEMENT—Talk is again strong for a British-American Trade Agreement. With the United States showing an improvement in its economic condition, the foreign pressure has been eased on the dollar.

FHA MORTGAGES—Not only is public construction showing a steady increasing activity, but the field of home construction is also clocking. The Federal Housing Administration has forecast that twice the value in insured mortgages will be seen in 1938, over 1937.

Many Activities
Nature walks handicraft and pioneering are the other activities enjoyed by the girls. The pioneer unit is under the direction of Miss Doris Young, assisted by Mrs. Frederick Bellinger. This group of girls is equipping an out-door kitchen to be used in the future by Girl Scouts, taking overnight hikes to the camp. Among the things being built are a fireplace and an incinerator.

Assisting Miss Marguerite Gunn, state director of Girl Scouts, are Mrs. Pauline Ewing and Miss Francis Wilson.

Edith Counahan Is Spending Summer With Arden Players

Local Girl In "Bit" Roles With Stock Company

For the summer season this year, Robin Hood Theatre, Arden, has adopted one of Newark's most talented young women, Edith Counahan, graduate of Newark High School who will enter her sophomore year at the University of Delaware in September. Miss Counahan is studying the theatre by practical experience with professional Robin Hood players so that she may, in a few more years, enter the theatre as an actress or costume designer.

From high school to the present day, dramatics have been of major importance to her. During her high school career, Newark people will remember she won first place twice in the declamation contests for her school, once for the county, and once for the state. During her senior year she played the leading part in the high school production of "The Boomerang," in which she was the "medicine" prescribed by the doctor for a lovesick young man.

Read Paris From Plays
Last year, her first at the university, Miss Counahan started her college career by reading parts from one act plays for play-bill programs, among them "The Importance of Being Earnest." Her first real break came with the leading part in "Mrs. Moonlight," in which she played the woman who never grew old. This was an outstanding performance, especially by a freshman, and warranted her the role of Tessie in "Excursion." For all other productions at Mitchell Hall she assisted with publicity.

With the Robin Hood company this summer she has appeared twice as a reader in the Christian Endeavor, are spending the week at Pastor George A. Palmer's Camp near Mullica Hill, N. J.

Harriet and Ruth Ann Crompton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Crompton, of Hillcrest, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crompton, of Delaware Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Jones, of Wilmington, and Miss Eleanor Eastburn and Miss Helen Eastburn, of Newark, have returned from a week's stay at Lake George, N. Y.

on the stage, once in "The Devil Passes," and again in "Once is Enough." In addition she is a valuable member of the backstage crew. Her work includes prop lists, prompting, stage management, and other important positions which are entrusted usually only to professionals.

Adds Artistic Touches
Particularly helpful is Miss Counahan in adding the artistic touches which brighten each set: Painted signs, posters, or a bit of color added here and there.

She first became connected with the Robin Hood theatre through the University of Delaware, and came to live at the Robin Hood Inn on the first day of "Yes, My Darling Daughter." She expects to be in Arden all summer, playing bigger and better parts.

"Room Service" Current Show At Robin Hood

The difficulties which best a poor play producer make "Room Service," the Robin Hood Theatre's production of the week, a blistering, bubbling bit of farce comedy. Although it is still running in New York, the company at Arden has secured permission to play it to summer audiences from Tuesday through Saturday of this week.

Following the script of the offering, Gordon Miller, in an effort to stage a new play called "Godspeed," has sponged upon the hospitality of his brother-in-law and has moved his entire cast into the White Way Hotel. He has no money, no theatre, and no backer. Wagner, the manager of the hotel, always on the verge of moving them out is constantly tricked into letting them remain.

Complicated Action
The action is further complicated by the arrival of Leo Davis, the author, who promptly becomes an added expense to the company. Just when hope is nearly dead, however, they find a wealthy backer, secure new credit with the hotel, only to discover the backer to be a fake.

Keeping the new setback a secret, they use the credit and put the show on in five days. But even on opening night, the penniless author has to pull a suicide stunt in order to prevent Wagner from stopping the performance. Constant action, constant comedy bring it to a breathless climax.

Bowler Is Hotelman
As the talkative producer, Maurice Burke plays the leading role. Gribble, his brother-in-law, is played by Mortimer Weldon, and John Wynne and Charles Mendick are his two henchmen. Richard Bowler has the role of Wagner, and Edwin Ross is Leo Davis, the hick author.

The feminine touch is added by Laura Barrett and Vivian MacGill, while the cast is finished off by the presence of Francis Mann, John Rodgers, Robert Coull, Victor Clark, and Dr. Frederick Miller. Refreshments are served every Tuesday on the Robin Hood stage following the performance.

Medical posts are being established every 50 miles and doctors every 100 miles apart in South Africa.

Home, here. This group will also arrange for a moonlight outing to be held next month.

Roamin' with Rutledge

Why Give It Away? Because we didn't see the fracas and know nothing of the details concerning the whys and wherefores of the afternoon, we are reluctant to become a grandstand pilot—second grasser, as it were—in thinking of the Jackets' 9-to-8 defeat at Darlington Sunday.

Like all fans with interest in the local team, however, we are wont to wonder why John Grundy, a green and inexperienced youngster who has done little pitching since the high school schedule was completed well over a month ago, was permitted to remain in the box to lose the battle, while Paul Whiteman, without question the finest pitcher in the Bi-State circuit, languished in left field.

We aren't being critical for the simple reason that we didn't see the contest, but it is only natural, being an interested fan, that we are perplexed by a situation that stands out in the box score like a faith healer performing in a surgical clinic. The contrast is that cock-eyed!

Plainly Apparent In suffering their third Bi-State loss in as many weeks, by a single run, the Jackets hold an 8-to-5 margin as late as the home half of the eighth frame. Tagged after freely throughout the fracas, Grundy was the victim of singles by Ryan Lloyd, and Wilson as the rallying Marylanders reduced the Jackets' lead to 8-7 with a pair of markers in their eighth turn at bat.

It events that had transpired weren't enough to indicate that Grundy was in difficulty, then that eighth frame should have presented the story with telling emphasis. But Grundy was shooed back to the mound in the ninth. With one away, Stan Bailey, the opposing hurler who is as threatening against curve ball pitching (Whiteman's specialty) as this department would be in the same ring with Joe Louis, blazed a triple. The score was promptly tied when Curt Jordan ripped a sharp single over second.

Sheets' error, an intentional walk to Lloyd, and an unintentional pass to Wilson gave Darlington its ninth run and the ball game. Any second-half winner that enters a post season series following a hard fight to the finish has an immediate advantage over a first-half champion that has grown soft and careless by playing through the latter portion of a schedule in an indifferent manner.

That's why the Jackets cannot afford to continue the slovenly pace they have followed since July 4. They are almost certain of meeting an opponent that'll be red hot in September. We hope they realize it and snap out of their present attitude of dullness. In view of the fact that the little red head turned in a hard-fought

Racquet Stars Enter Quarter Finals

300 Horses Shipped From Charlestown For Bel Air Meet

SECOND ROUND OF PLAY NEARS END; LEADERS WIN

Defending Champion Inactive; Seeded Entrants Still In Running; Mock Brothers Hang Up Wins; Chris Laskaris Triumphs

Seven aspirants to the Newark tennis throne entered the quarter finals of the third annual tournament during the past week with only one match remaining to be played in the second round.

Steve Bartoschky, defending champion, who drew a bye in the initial encounters, has yet to meet Dave Cronhardt, cut-stroke artist, who turned back George Laskaris in the first week's play.

Hen Stars Triumph Only one defeat turned up in the second week of play. Bill Knopf, a summer school student who commutes to Dover, was unable to make connections and was forced to forfeit his match to Fred Bellinger, third-seeded star.

John Ballard, who bowled over Walter Wilson in the first round, fell before the superior stroking of Walt Mock, University of Delaware star, in three frames, the only over-time match of the second round.

After dropping the first set 5-2, Ballard staged a comeback to take the second, 6-3, but the Hen ace came through in the finale with a 6-4 win. Mock will meet the winner of the Bartoschky-Cronhardt encounter.

Charles, the lone member of the Laskaris trio left in the running, chalked up a hard-earned, two-set triumph over Gil Chase. Much closer than the scores indicate, Laskaris won in two 6-3 chukkers.

Maxwell Goes Down Ned McCully, seeded in the fourth spot also turned in a victory for his first match of the affair, as Joe Maxwell fell before the former champion's court game, 6-3, 6-1.

Al Mock, another Blue and Gold racquet-wielder, kept pace with his brother by defeating Jack McDowell, who had entered the second round via a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Cary Douglas McDowell, was eliminated by a pair of 6-3 sets.

George Mix, the tournament's darkhorse, chalked up another surprise conquest by taking the measure of Osborne Macker, 6-0, 6-1. Tiring near the end of the second set, Mix began to weaken as Mackey pressed to take the sixth game, but the darkhorse managed to last out for the victory.

Bill Miller, conqueror of Ned Cooch in the first round, turned in his second win of the tourney by turning back Joe Cannon, 6-4, 6-2. The match was well played with several long rallies dotting the performance.

Ten teams have entered the doubles tournament, according to the announcement made by Mr. Mix, manager of the tournament. Seeded behind the Bellinger-McCully duet is the Bellinger-Mock combination, while Bartoschky and Knopf have been placed in the third spot. Six byes were given in the first round to the following teams: Chase-Miller; Mix-McDowell; Chris Laskaris-Leo Laskaris and the three seeded pairs.

In the two first round matches, George Laskaris and Cannon will oppose Hancock and Cronhardt, while the Mackey-Douglas team will match strokes with Cooch and Lovett.

Women To Start Play Eight aspiring females will open negotiations this week-end for the Charles H. Rutledge trophy, in Newark's second annual women's round robin tournament.

Three legs must be annexed on the award before permanent possession can be obtained. Medals to the champion and the runner-up will also be presented.

Miss Ann Chalmers, defending champion, is again favored to take her opposition in stride, while Miss Mary Lou Gaffney, 1937 finalist, and Mrs. Fred Bellinger, a dark-horse, are expected to make a good showing.

HAGUE IS WINNER OF HILLCLIMB

Wilmingtonian Captures Third Affair Here

Louis Hague, Wilmington daredevil, won the 1938 motorcycle hill-climbing championship Sunday before more than 2,000 spectators who crowded the course at Blood Root Mountain, near Elliott Heights.

Climbing the 300-foot, 80-degree hill in six and two-fifth seconds, Hague replaced "Wild Willie" Woolleyhan, local rider, as champion. The affair was sponsored by the Newark Motorcycle Club under the sanction of the American Motorcycle Association.

Thirty riders participated in the meet that was featured by exciting spills and overturning motorcycles. Woolleyhan, the defending champion, suffered a narrow escape from serious injury and the loss of his title when his machine turned over, took an unexpected turn in the air, and fell within inches of the prostrate rider.

Stern Is Winner Gibson Stern, West Chester, won the 45-inch class in six and four-fifth seconds. Woolleyhan and Frank Gale, Chester, tied for second place, being clocked in seven and one-fifth seconds. Gale took second in the runoff.

Hague's six and two-fifth seconds captured the 80-inch class, which found Michael Timko, Newark, finishing second, and Joe Kappis, Folcroft, Pa., third.

Ernie Jordan, local star who won the title in 1936, failed to make the grade in the championship event, but captured the consolation test in six and four-fifth seconds. William Serfoss, Philadelphia, N. J., was second in seven and one-fifth seconds.

Hague's winning time in the title event was the fastest of the afternoon.

Swimmers And Bathers

AMERICAN RED CROSS SERIES By W. E. Longfellow When the American Indian developed the canoe it was a very safe craft as he used it for the Indian knelt to paddle, placing his weight well below the center of balance and below the water line where it added to the stability of the light, graceful craft which played such a large part in developing and conquering the wilderness. To be sure the Indians were spilled out at times in running rapids, or in driving their craft upon partly submerged logs or hidden rocks, but for every-day, straight paddling, including the carrying of great loads of equipment, the canoe is a most useful and safe mode of transport.

When the white man first made it out of canvas following the Indian model, he continued to kneel as he stroked, resting his back against the narrow cross braces of thwarts. His weight, however, was on his knees, which were protected from the bottom of the boat by kneeling pads of hide, or perhaps a thick pair of mittens.

Less Expert Hands But as time went on, canoes fell into less expert hands, and while used as a means of transport, they were used for a bigger seat so that the trippers could straighten their legs. It wasn't long until the paddlers had their knees in the air with very little weight on the floor of the craft, and three-quarters of the weight of the body poised on a small wicker seat six or eight inches higher than the waterline.

The once stable craft in Indian hands thus suddenly became a ticklish, uncertain, but still delightful boat in which a fellow could take his girl and face her as he faced the direction the canoe was heading. This was not so bad as long as she sat upon the floor, but he was in a very unstable position and when she also started to paddle on the bow seat with her knees above the gunwales, skills became more and more numerous.

Tippy and Uncertain It was thus that the canoe acquired its reputation as tippy and uncertain. But all the time the canoe itself was all right. The only thing necessary to change it from a tippy to a stable craft was proper ballasting. A kneeling pad for the bow and stern paddlers makes all

Meadow Brook Polo Stars Tune Up

Polo Stars at Meadow Brook—Preparing for an exciting campaign, four of the nation's top polo stars were spotted at Meadow Brook, L. I., in one of the weekly matches. They are (left to right) Stewart Ingelhart, Elbridge Gerry, Earle Hoping Jr., and Jimmy Mills.

The Hartford County which is among the most popular in the state, was held at the Meadow Brook polo grounds, near New Rochelle, N. Y., on Sunday afternoon.

Rip Smith registered two wins over Williamson, 30-43, and Cramer, 50-63, in the only other matches played.

In addition to forfeiting the Beck-B. Crowe affair, promoter Jack Foster handed out nine other penalty decisions. Jack Sanders was given wins over Howard Melvin Cane and Ernie Reed; Neil Smyth over B. Crowe and Cane; Bud Robinson over Cane and Cramer; Rip Smith over Cane and Cramer; and Ray Gregg over Kealey and B. Crowe.

Hughie Thomas registered a major upset when he scored a 50-to-46 victory over Jake Hogan, former victor who is holding forth in third place. It was Hogan's fifth defeat in nineteen matches. He is now three full games behind Tweed.

Thomas Loses Two After stopping Hogan, Thomas dropped starts to Bob Stewart, 50-45, and Huck Morrison, 50-32. Stewart gained his second win of the week against Willis, 50-56.

Handed a win by forfeit over Burt Crowe, Boo Beck suffered a miserable loss nevertheless in dropping three matches. He bowed to Taylor, 65-21; was beaten by Conway, 65-22, and finished on the short end of a 50-to-45 count against Ray Gregg.

Flashes By Bill Fletcher

THE NEXT TIME YOU GAZE UPON THE HANDSOME COUNTENANCE attached to George Mix, notice, friends, that the manager of the current tennis tournament is suffering a premature visit of Father Time.

Evidence of the additional weight of years which has been heaped upon this former symbol of youth, may be discovered in the vicinity of what was formerly just a mass of raven black curls.

When we saw George the other day, he was being pushed down the street by his wife in a wheel chair. He was besting time to the tune of "Look Down, Look Down That Lonesome Road" with one hand, while the other was busily engaged in tearing his hair out by the roots.

"Hello, George," we said, lifting his ear trumpet up to the place where it would do the most good. George yelled: "What say?"

RUBBING HIS WRINKLED cheek with his gnarled hands, he adjusted a pair of thick-lensed glasses and peered up at us, seeking our identity.

There was a blank expression on his face. Standing behind the chair, Mrs. Mix sadly shook her head and whispered: "He's changed so much since the tennis tournament started. At first, he was like a wild man, dashing here and there, making telephone calls and arranging matches."

"Then he began to slowly change. I noticed it after the first round had been completed and the first sign was a bit of grey hair around his temples."

"The second sign of this approaching calamity came when I walked into his study and found him filling out an application for his old-age pension which, of course, he isn't eligible to receive for many, many years."

Bartoschky Wins!

Steve Bartoschky, defending champion, advanced to the quarterfinals of the Newark tennis tournament by defeating Dave Cronhardt in the second round, 6-1, 6-1.

Two quarterfinal matches have been scheduled for today. Bartoschky will oppose Walt Mock at 1:30 p. m., while Chris Laskaris and Ned McCully will battle it out at 6:15 p. m.

George Mix and Bill Miller will tangle at 5:30 p. m. Friday, and the Fred Bellinger-Al Mock tussle will hold the spotlight on Sunday morning at ten o'clock. All matches will be played on the University of Delaware courts with the exception of the Sunday battle which will take place on McCully's court, East Main Street.

Local Fans Honor Dick Roberts, Milford Catcher More than fifty Newark baseball fans motored through a driving rain storm last night to attend an abbreviated Eastern Shore League game at Milford. Limited to four and one-half innings, the contest ended with the "Little Giants" winning over Salisbury, 1-0.

Japanese Use Feat To Teach War Strategy

American Football players are being taught war strategy by the Japanese. It is a result of a campaign by the Japanese government to use sports as a means of teaching war strategy.

It is a Japanese good plan, "Football is good training," a Japanese sportsman said. He compared football to making shock troops of the principles of war, exactly the same as the principles of football. The football of football as he saw it, were duplicates of military tactics.

Scientific tests show that the hearing of the ears is the most important sense in the body. It is the sense that is most easily affected by noise. The hearing of the ears is the sense that is most easily affected by noise.

Don Hutson, former all-American end on the Alabama football team, advises college athletes to "bear down hard on the books."

"It is mighty important to get your sheepskin," he says. "A degree is necessary in most coaching or business positions."

Don left Alabama to play pro football in 1935—before obtaining his degree. He is back at the university registered in the School of Commerce, and expects to be graduated next summer.

All Face Bow In such a case, if the water gets rough, all should face the bow, sit on the floor, hook the knees under the gunwale and sit tight as the boat fills. The water may creep up to their chests, but the boat does not sink and all four can paddle the craft to shore with the hands. Japanese Use Feat To Teach War Strategy

American Football players are being taught war strategy by the Japanese. It is a result of a campaign by the Japanese government to use sports as a means of teaching war strategy.

It is a Japanese good plan, "Football is good training," a Japanese sportsman said. He compared football to making shock troops of the principles of war, exactly the same as the principles of football. The football of football as he saw it, were duplicates of military tactics.

"It is mighty important to get your sheepskin," he says. "A degree is necessary in most coaching or business positions."

Don left Alabama to play pro football in 1935—before obtaining his degree. He is back at the university registered in the School of Commerce, and expects to be graduated next summer.

BAILEY FANS 14 AS JACKETS BOW THIRD TIME

Strengthened Darlington Tossers Make Uphill Fight To Capture Decision, 9-8; Grundy Victim Of Hit Attack; Wildness Costly

By "The Roamer"
Chalmers' slipping Jackets strengthened their Bi-State League cellar Sunday when they dropped to the up-an-coming Blues at Darlington in a 9-to-8 count. Despite a five-run outburst in the eighth, the Jackets were unable to end a losing streak that has now reached the third time.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Inuy Morris

President of the Newark entry in the Bi-State League, Mr. Morris will mark his fiftieth birthday on July 25. Born in Hartford County, Md., Mr. Morris has resided in Newark most of his life. He has headed the local baseball club in the position of chief executive since it was reorganized two years ago.

Deaver weakened in the ninth when the visitors registered their final pair of tallies. A great throw by Ort Spratt ended the uprising and the game.

Deaver and Charlie Trust, opposing hurlers, limited their rivals to five blows each. Herstine paced the winners with a single and triple, while Pons' two singles topped Bel Air's offense.

Uncle Sammy's ornate gunners fell before the heavy firing of Taylor Bliles' Oxford Maroons by a 13-to-4 count at the Aberdeen Proving Ground. George (Sadie) Aiken was in rare form as he stopped the Gunners with ease while his mates pounded the offerings of Bothhart at will.

Larry Preston continued his heavy work with the stick by belting a home run, his second in two games, and a pair of triples. Woodworth also delivered a round tripper for the Maroons while Aiken aided his own cause with a trio of safeties.

Yerkes worked behind the plate for the winners and Gilpin was on the receiving end of Barnhart's tosses.

FIBREMEN WIN TWO CONTESTS

Delton A. A. And Delaware City Meet Defeat

Behind the stellar hurling of Bill Deaver and Rube Argo, Continental Diamond Fibre registered a pair of wins in the New Castle County League during the week. Delton A. Wilmington entry which replaced Christiana A. A. in the loop, fell before the Fibremen and Deaver last Thursday night, 2-0, while Delaware City was limited to four hits by Argo as the local outburst marked up a 3-to-1 triumph Tuesday night. Both games were played at Continental Field.

Delaware City took the lead in the fourth stanza when it accounted for its only run. After going scoreless for five frames, the Fibremen came through with a trio of tallies in the sixth to take the verdict.

The names of Whiteman, Ernie George, Sheets, and Deaver spoke magic as the Fibremen took the Delton array into camp last week. Whiteman scored both runs in the 2-to-0 victory, George placed him in scoring position in both instances, while Sheets sent him scurrying across the rubber on each occasion.

Deaver's contribution was a five-hit performance that was featured by six strikeouts, two of which were registered in the sixth, when the Wilmingtonians had runners on second and third.

Whiteman counted the first, and what proved to be the winning run in the initial frame. He opened with a single to center, took second on George's sacrifice bunt, and scampered home when Sheets shot a slashing double to right.

The second and final run went into the records in the third. Whiteman, first up, walked. George promptly dropped a pitch over the left-field barrier for a ground rules' double, sending Whiteman to third. Sheets' fly to Duffy opened the scoring gates.

Clinefelter Wild
Using a teasing slow ball, Specs Clinefelter hurled a creditable game for Delton as he limited the Fibremen to five safeties. He issued six walks, however, to place himself in several trying spots.

After going down in order in the first three innings, a double play, Laws to Argo discounting Duffy's single in the opening frame, Delton managed to put a pair of runners on the bases in the fourth with two away. Deaver retired Hayman for the third out, however, on an easy fly to Whiteman.

Two were out in the fifth, when McMenamin and Clinefelter singled in order, but Healey ended the threat with rap that George fielded in good shape to retire the runner at first base.

At the outset of the sixth, Duffy drew a pass and stole second. He took third on Davis' single to short center. With Crowley at bat, Davis stole second. Crowley went down swinging. Hayman skied to Whiteman whose quick throw to the plate held Duffy at third. Deaver hooked the third strike over Scomarucha to end the tanning.

Big Six Loop Claims Five Firsts In Sports

The Big Six Conference regards itself as an intercollegiate sports. It takes pride in the fact that changes which since have been beginning generally saw their origin within the conference fold.

George Veenker, Iowa State athletic director, cites a few. The Big Six was first to try and adopt the master clock at football games, so spectators would know exactly how much time remained.

First to try out eliminations of center jump in basketball. First officially to adopt playing numbers front and rear of same size, as those specified now.

Among first to specify striped shirts for sports officials. First to use honor system in substituting, umpire keeping no track of players' entry.

LANGHORNE TO CLIMAX 1938 CARD

Final Event To Bring 40 Crack Drivers Together

Pennsylvania's last 1938 convention for American speed maniacs on Langhorn's great mile speedway, is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, with Hanksinon Speedways offering a nine-event spring program of auto races to wind up the season.

It is expected to be a great thrill spectacle, according to Joe Dawson, veteran program supervisor, representing the A. A. A. contest board, for never has there been so many renowned stars from every section of the United States involved in one gasoline battle in the East.

Lured by generous cash appropriations, seven of the greatest drivers that dominate the hot bed of speed in California, will be here to challenge the best talent that the Midwest and East can muster. The redoubtable Rex Mays, whose speed records for the last five years have emblazoned across the A. A. A. record books, and who gave the most remarkable exhibition of daredevilry in the last Langhorne program, will head the contingent.

With him will be Chet Gardner, of Long Beach; Ted Horn, Los Angeles; George Conners, San Bernardino; Frank Woome, Los Angeles; Roy Lake, of Burbank, and Karl Hattel of Los Angeles. All but Lake are outstanding Indianapolis Speedway stars.

Prominent Easterners
But the brilliant stars from the Pacific slopes will hardly outshine the flashy mid-western contingent which has also been bolstered with additional talent. Duke Nalon, of Chicago, who won the feature in the last Langhorne program, is back to defend his laurels. Billy Winn, of Detroit, who finished second, has returned; Jimmy Snyder, daredevil Chicago milkman, believed to be the best driver of all, has a new car for the occasion and Tony Willman, of Milwaukee, a consistent challenger, will have his fast Crager entered. Lucky Teter, the daredevil stunt man, will race a new machine in the race, with Frank Beeder of St. Louis, at the wheel.

Probably of greater interest to Eastern fans than all of these stars, will be the return of Bobbie Sall, of Paterson, N. J., to Langhorne competition. Sall set a new world's record in May and now is ready to meet the challenge of America's greatest stars in open competition. In the eyes of many, it will be Sall against the field. There will be 40 crack drivers entered, speedway officials announced.

A $37,000,000,000 Mortgage

By RAYMOND FITCAIRN
Again, news dispatches report, Washington has indicated that it intends to give serious study to the problem of our National Debt.

Again the American people, against whom this debt is billed, are hoping that the promise will be fulfilled. For, as the people know, this mortgage against their future earnings has continued to climb until it now tops the $37,000,000,000 mark, and threatens to go still higher. This, it has been computed, means a deferred bill of almost $300 against every man, woman and child in the country.

For public debt, like taxes, must be paid in the end by the men and women who work and save. Government has no mysterious source of funds. It gets its money either by taxing its citizens, whether directly or indirectly; or by borrowing from them, which means more taxation at a later date.

The more government borrows, the heavier becomes the future tax burden. And the heavier the tax burden, the higher the cost of living, with its merciless toll on the pay envelope of every worker, and the pocketbook of every housewife.

It is this fact that makes a $37,000,000,000 bill against their future so serious a concern to all citizens. That is why they ask a halt in our steadily mounting National Debt. That is why they continue to demand economy in government.

Americans, always generous, are glad to help all who need help. But they oppose waste in government, or elsewhere, particularly when that waste must be paid for out of their pockets.

What Americans demand is a re-valuation on the part of Washington that it is they, the people, who bear the current costs of government, and in the end must pay off its debts.

A debt of $37,000,000,000 or more is too heavy a mortgage on their future earnings and their hopes for sound recovery.

"Saving the Nation" By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Soon from every available forum and over every available wave-length America will hear the impassioned phrases of political oratory, weighted with promises to "save the nation."

And America, as it listens to these boasts, will wonder again why the politician takes unto himself the credit for what, not he, but the American people have achieved.

For, as every citizen knows, America was founded, built and developed, not by the promises and the ambitions of officeholders, but by the toil and the strength of the people themselves.

"We, the people of the United States," is not merely the introductory phrase of our Constitution; it is the identification of the power that created and developed this nation.

And whatever the politicians may claim, America knows that: It was "We, the people," who won our independence.

It was "We, the people," who wrote our Constitution.

It was "We, the people," who tamed and made productive the forests and mountains and plains which now constitute the United States.

It was "We, the people," who developed our fertile farms, our productive industries, our world-wide commerce.

America Chooses Its Typical Small Home

Four to five rooms, American Colonial designs, safe roofs demanded

On the basis of a nationwide survey, Randolph Evans, famous architect, has planned for the Monthly Small House Club the home sketched above. It represents a composite of the typical home favored by builders all over the United States. The house includes 1237 1/2 cubic feet. It has an ample living room, including a large, cheery fireplace. The two bed rooms are of good size, equipped with deep clothes closets and the bath is convenient to both. The kitchen is admirably arranged in the important matter of saving steps. The dinette provides all dining facilities needed by a small family save in the occasional emergency of several guests. As the house is planned, there is room for the heater on the floor level. However, the plan has been so drawn that a basement including a boiler-room may be added for almost no additional expense.

Survey by famous architect reveals average price as $3,650

choice and for economy based on low purchase price, ease of application and long service. These shingles are also being widely used on already-built houses where it becomes necessary to replace the old-fashioned roof, as well as on countless new homes, rural, suburban and in large cities. Real comfort for today's American family calls for properly applied home insulation, of which mineral wool is the most widely used and effective type. While such insulation is not apparent to the passerby, its effects are marked to the occupants, not only in the comfort of coolness in summer and warmth in winter but also in economy. Mineral wool insulation eliminates the "hard to heat" room and provides a liberal return on the money invested by definite savings in fuel bills.

Children's Home Society Now Making Great Strides Forward

Has Served State For 40 Years; Report Shows Developed Program

The Board of Directors of the Delaware Children's Home Society, after a careful study of the accomplishments of the group during the last fiscal year, recently released a detailed report of the achievements during that period.

High lights of the report indicate that the society has faithfully served the state for more than 40 years in child welfare and child placement work. Although handicapped for many years by inadequate financing and an insufficient staff, the past year has seen the society forge ahead to a new record of service and efficiency.

Program Revised
The organization and program have been completely revised and improved to harmony with recognized standards of child welfare and a rapidly developing program of state supported welfare work.

During the year, Miss Elsie Lee Spring joined the staff as case consultant. Her many years of practical experience in child welfare work has enabled the society to greatly improve its investigation, placement and supervisory services.

A study of every child under the care of the society and of every foster home in use was completed. The visitation and supervision of children and foster parents was developed to a point of efficiency that was not possible with the smaller staff of previous years.

Rev. Joseph A. Lee, of Dover, was elected to membership on the board of directors at the annual meeting. The board is now functioning actively on a monthly rather than a semi-annual basis. Mrs. A. A. Hearn, welfare worker, and George Ehinger, superintendent of the Murphy School, both of Dover, became advisory members of the group and Lewis M. Price, of Smyrna, was selected president.

A substantial increase in financial support made it possible for the society to double its expenditures on vital services to children. The Society spent more for boarding care, special aid, clothing, and health service than was spent during the whole previous ten year period of its work.

Through membership in and contact with national and regional child welfare groups, the society is being kept abreast of the best procedures and developments fostering increasingly more effective service.

During the year major service was provided for 173 children. Minor services were provided in one way or another in cases involving nearly 150 children. Of the placement cases, 25 per cent of the children are in New Castle County, 40 per cent in Kent, and 26 per cent in Sussex. The placements are 73 per cent white and 22 per cent colored; 65 per cent boys and 35 per cent girls. Each child is carefully studied through mental and physical examinations and frequent personal contacts.

Misjudged Birds Save Millions In Crops Yearly

Baltimore Orioles, Swallows, Woodpeckers, And Robins On List

Some of the birds that save millions in crops each year are still misjudged by the farmer.

The Baltimore Oriole has been accused of damaging grapes and garden peas. But studies show that the oriole's food habits are largely beneficial. Caterpillars are its favorite fare, but it also eats quantities of plant and bark lice, ants, wasps, grasshoppers, spiders, and weevils.

Farmers who tear swallows' nests from barn eaves are turning out their best friends. Swallows consume vast numbers of harmful flying insects and young birds in the nest often eat more insects than their parents.

Drill For Larva
Woodpeckers are often suspected of damaging trees by their drillings. Each hole drilled means that the bird has located the larva of a destructive wood-boring insect. Woodpeckers are among the most valuable forest conservationists and with their heavy bills they get insects that other birds cannot get.

Fruit raisers often look on robins as enemies because of the robin's appetite for cherries, yet robins consume insects harmful to fruit crops throughout the year, and only during June and July do they eat cultivated fruit to any extent. One good way to keep robins out of the orchards is to plant mulberry trees nearby. Mulberries ripen at the same time as cherries and the birds prefer them to other fruits.

By Miss Emma S. Maclary
Newport, July 20—The Newport Town Board at its last meeting decided to call $2,000 worth of bonds from the General Indebtedness Fund, payable September 1. Fresh Fruit Is Used To Produce Frozen Flavors

Food Specialists Have Discovered Value Of Full Ripe-Soft Fruit

In seasons of high production, large quantities of fresh fruits are allowed to go to waste because there is no market and they can be held in storage only for a few months at the most. Since 1931, food specialists of the United States Bureau of Chemistry and Soils have been studying and improving methods of preparing and keeping frozen fruit pulp which may be used in making fruit ice cream and fruit sherbet. Fully ripe fruit, when flavor is at its peak, is crushed to a pulp or puree, a predetermined amount of sugar or syrup is added, and the mixture is frozen rapidly. The amount of sugar or syrup depends upon the use of the product.

Stored Seven Years

Some of the original fruit stored seven years ago still is in storage and samples opened from time to time have been as high in quality as when fresh. The fruit is held at a storage temperature of zero Fahrenheit. Reports from manufacturers show that the frozen puree makes an ice cream much smoother in texture than when pieces of fresh fruit are used. Full ripe fruit which may be too soft for shipment, or shape, or marked with superficial blemishes may be used.
