he shall forfeit all claim upon the U. States for such indemnification: And provided also, That nothing herein contained, shall prevent the legal apprehension or arresting, within the limits of any state or district, of any Indian having so offended: And provided further, That it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, to deduct such sum or sums as shall be paid for the property taken, stolen or destroyed by any such Indian, out of the annual stipend which the United States are bound to pay to the tribe to which such Indian shall belong. (To be continued.)

FOREIGN.

Translated from Paris papers, received by the Alert arrived at New-Bedford.

Paris, Aug. 30.
Extract of a letter from the Army of Italy, dated 30 Fructidor, Aug. 20.

My Friend,
The death of the Brave General Joubert disconcerts all our operations. I know not what measures the Directory are about to take; but if the army is not immediately re-organized, it will be impossible to do any thing. An inexorable destiny for the war, reigns throughout the camp. It is of the first importance to reorganize the soldiery, and re-establish discipline among the troops, without which the enemy will ultimately destroy us: no enterprise will succeed, but, to the contrary, every event will become pernicious to us. Audacity increases with our disasters; and it is astonishing not to find among French troops, that courage which animated them formerly.

I returned from Aquil the day of the engagement; my station was on the left wing, which the brave Joubert commanded—and marching at the head of two battalions, which he had just rallied, he lifted up his right arm and ordered them to advance; at that instant a musket ball struck him just below the arm-pit and fractured the fifth rib at its entrance, it turned towards the lumbar vertebrae, where meeting with resistance it rebounded back and lodged in one of the arteries of the heart. I saw the hero fall and expire! Thus have we lost this consummate officer, this warrior, without reproach! In him Italy has lost her friend and defender! If he is not replaced without delay by a capable and virtuous general like himself, invested with full power, all is lost. The councils of war ruin every important operation. Genoa is in consternation.

[Another letter from the army of Italy, says, that in spite of all Sawarow's efforts, the French still hold the positions which they occupied before the battle of Novi.]

The Executive Directory to Citizen Joubert.

The Executive Directory, Citizen, has just learned with regret the loss which the country has sustained in the death of your husband: The important services which he has rendered the republic, and those which were expected from his genius and courage will make his memory dear to every good citizen, and universal esteem be the price of his virtues.
Your griefs are great no doubt; believe, citizen, that the Directory feels them no less sensibly, and would desire nothing with more ardour than to be able to console them.

Gen Moreau in his dispatches, terminates his letter by the following paragraph:

“Our troops have seen prodigies of valour, especially the artillery. The Russian corps has been repulsed in four attacks. Every thing at length seems to promise success.”

THE ARMIES.

The right wing of the army of Switzerland has always been successful, it is ready to form a junction with the left of the army of the Alps, now re-united to that of Italy. The army of the Rhine now takes an offensive attitude; the head quarters are removed from Haguenau, to Mannheim.

[Jour. du Com.]

Gen. Championet is appointed commander in chief of the army of Italy and the Alps, now the Rhine, but is to take Paris in his way to receive fresh instructions. There has arrived a new courier from the army of Italy: it confirms the news, that at the battle of Novi, Gens. Perignon and Grouchy, pierced with wounds, have fallen into the hands of the enemy, and that their divisions have greatly suffered.

Ten o'clock at night. INSURRECTION.

A violent insurrection has broken out at Chartres, and the directory has marched 300 men with cannon towards that city.—It is said that the constituted authorities have all been massacred, but we are ignorant of the details. Chartres is an ancient and considerable town, 45 miles S. W. of Paris.

For the thousandth time we are assured that the Emperor of Russia has declared war against the King of Prussia, on his refusal to join the coalition.—What seems to be a confirmation of the above, is, that the King of Prussia has dismissed the Russian Ambassadors, and recalled his own from Petersburg.—However the truth will appear in a few days. (Cour de Paris.)

DOMESTIC.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 4.

This morning arrived here, the new second of Dispatch, Capt. Ward, from St. Sebastians, fall from Lisbon, where the out in some time since dismissed.—Left Lisbon the 20th Sept. in company with the United States frigate Intrepid, Murray, and the British frigate Aurora, both bound up the Mediterranean. The Intrepid had been at Lisbon ten days.

Capt. Ward is the bearer of dispatches for government from our consul at Lisbon.

Arrived at Fame, Reikark, from Hamburg: left there 7th Sept.—We boarded the Fame of the Fort yesterday afternoon, when Capt. R. obligingly favored us with a file of the Mercury of Europe, to the 7th Sept. (from which we shall make some extracts for our next) and the following information:

Left Hamburg the 7th Sept. and the day after saw a fleet of about 60 sail, men of war, and transports, steering for the Texel—supposed to be the Russian fleet destined to cooperate with the British in the reduction of Holland.

On the arrival of the ship Penelope, from Gottenburg, we were not able to see the captain. Yesterday, however, we had the pleasure of an interview, and were informed by captain Felt, that the King of Sweden was making preparations to join the coalition.—That about 20,000 troops were ready to march, and that seven sail of the line and four frigates were getting ready to sail from Gottenburg.

Captain Felt further informs, that the Russian fleet had joined that of the English.

The above news captain Felt had from the American and English consuls, just before he sailed, which was on the 16th September.

Capt. Felt brought out some late Gottenburg papers, which, if he can find them, he has promised to us: He says they contain the particulars of the important events.

All kinds of business at Gottenburg very dull, the merchants had suffered so much by French depredations, that they had laid up their remaining ships till better times, in hopes their government would contribute (by a junction with the coaliced powers) their strength towards driving their enemies to a sense of justice.

Nov. 5.

One day last week, we received a communication on the subject of commodore Truxton's continuing in the navy. It was the first whisper we had heard of the kind. This coming to us as it did, without a name, we thought proper to suppress till we had written to the commodore himself, on the propriety of giving publicity to an event which we considered of too much importance to insert upon anonymous authority. We have received the commodore's answer, which places beyond doubt, the truth of our communication, which we insert with pleasure. Commodore Truxton observes in his letter,

“I have accepted again of my commission—my honor permitting me to do so.”

A gentlemen who arrived here in the Dispatch, informs that the French had been driven from Genoa.

Yesterday we received a Norfolk paper, of the 26th ult. but we do not find a word of the arrival of an English frigate, in a short passage from England. Therefore the news said to be received by her, and which we published last week, falls to the ground.

The College in Providence, was elegantly illuminated on the President's birthday.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2.

We are from the best source, authorized to state, that commodore Truxton has positively returned his command and rank in the navy of the United States, a measure which he was enabled to pursue with honor, from an arrangement in that department. About the 20th instant, he will again hoist his broad pennant on board the Constellation in Hamilton Roads, and proceed from thence to the Windward Islands, to command a principal part of our navy during the ensuing winter and spring.

We congratulate our mercantile friends on the patriotic resolution of Commodore Truxton, as from his vigilance, skill, and bravery, they may promise themselves all the protection in the power of our infant navy to bestow.

November 4.

In consequence of a misunderstanding yesterday evening, between lieutenant I. P. Heath, and Mr. R. R. Keene, these gentlemen met in Howard's Park, at 6 o'clock this morning, for the purpose of adjusting the same—at which time and place, having received their stations at the distance of ten paces from each other, and the signal for firing being given, Mr. Keene discharged his pistol, the ball from which passed through Mr. Heath's coat, upon which Mr. Heath declared he could not afford the life of a person for whom he had the warmest friendship, and immediately discharged his pistol in the air—acknowledging at the same time, the impropriety of the harshness of expressions, on his part, that gave rise to the difference. The gentlemen then advanced and recognized each other upon their former terms of friendship.

George Russell,
Second to Keene.
John C. Seton,
Second to Lieut. Heath.

BOSTON, Oct. 29. FROM CAPE FRANCOIS.

Capt. Harvey, who arrived yesterday from the Cape, informs us, that Toussaint's troops continue victorious over Rigaud's; that they had arrived before Jeremie and commenced the siege; that Rigaud had lost an arm (not his life) in consequence of a wound received in a late action; and that the Americans were treated in the most respectful manner.

The day before Capt. H. sailed, a vessel arrived which had fallen in with the U. S. frigate Boston. The captain stated, she had captured two French privateers from Porto Rico—one a brig of 18 guns the other a schooner of 12. And had recaptured a ship from Bombay for Baltimore.

Oct. 30.

The aspirations of thanksgiving for benefits, will arise to heaven, on the same day, from the citizens of Massachusetts, New-Hampshire and Connecticut, to thank Almighty God, among other blessings, "for the continuance to these United States, of our general peace and security amidst the tumults and convulsions of conflicting nations—for our constitutional privileges, for the advantages of a wise and vigilant administration of his goodness and loving kindness to us as a people and nation, in the singular prosperity with which, at this eventful period we are indulged."

The Adams frigate, capt. Morris, was spoken in lat. 23 20'

The Herald, which lately failed on a cruise from this harbour, is cut down to a handsome sloop of war, and every appearance will do credit to the service. Capt. Russell, who commands her is an officer of nautical experience, and cool intrepidity; & unites the favour of the gentleman with the fortier of the naval commander. Such a ship, with such officers, deserve, if they cannot command success.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 7.

Extract of a letter from Messrs. P. Blain and G. Reinholdt, of Havana, dated 17th ult. to their friends in Baltimore.

"We have now to acquaint you that our Intendant has this day issued an order to the Custom House, granting permission for the introduction of Dry Goods, (cotton manufacture excepted), into this place, by Neutral Vessels, and which indulgence will continue until the pleasure of the King is known."

From a New York paper of Nov. 2.

In the absence of a family in Broad street, their house was entered at mid day, by means of a key which unlocked the street door, and two or three cart loads of goods, furniture, &c. taken away—This was done with so much indifference as to any apprehensions of discovery, that the neighbors who were witnesses to the fact, hardly suspected that these proceedings were not sanctioned by the occupant of the house—and, in fact, were never convinced to the contrary till the gentleman returned to the city, who, on entering the house found it robbed of all the valuable furniture it contained. On declaring this, his neighbours communicated to him the above fact.

We have another, not much less extraordinary.—A Grocer who lives in Barclay street, during the fever that up his store, and went to the country. A few days after, some man, as from authority, opened it, and continued to sell groceries for two weeks, by which time the store was pretty well stripped of its contents, when this knowing gentleman pocketed the money, turned the key, and has not since been heard of.

A duel was fought some time ago in Virginia between a Dr. Steel and a Lieutenant Flint, and strange to say, both missed fire! The dispute was afterwards amicably settled.

Extract of a letter from Madrid, dated Sept. 6.

I am informed that an extraordinary courier from Italy has bro't the news, that Genoa, having been evacuated by the French after the battle in which Joubert was killed—is in possession of the allied army. Other details of that battle are come to hand, directly from Genoa by way of Barcelona, and give us to understand, that the action was long and obstinate; that Pertuison (formerly ambassador here) in the beginning gained a very considerable advantage, having taken nearly 2000 prisoners, but in the end was wounded and taken prisoner; that the bayonet decided the affair; that General Melas was killed; that the remains of the French were attempting to retreat towards Nice, but that a corps of the allied army had been detached with a design to intercept their retreat.

Extract of a letter from Charleston, dated Oct. 11.

"The following curious circumstance is mentioned by captain Burrell, of the New-York mail packet Sutan: On his passage last week from New York, when he came off Cape Look Out, he observed large quantities of fish, of different kinds, floating on the surface of the ocean; the most of them dead, others with some remains of life, but to appearance expiring. This uncommon appearance continued until he came to Cape Fear, a distance of near 70 miles. Night then came on, and he saw none the next morning. He saw them on each side of his vessel, as far as he could distinguish them; they consisted generally of small fish, such as porgies, black fish, and others, that are known to frequent our coasts."

From Hamburg papers to September 7, by the Fame, arrived at New York.

HAMBURG, Sept. 7.

Mr. Grenville, the English Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of Berlin, is arrived at Altona, and, it is said, will go to Holland.

Should the civil war, so much expected in France, not succeed to the wishes of the turbulent, robbers, and public disturbers, they have still hopes that the entrance of the Russians and English into France, will furnish them with terrible arms against the honest, innocent citizens, and confound royalists, moderates, and Jacobins altogether; then, say they, happiness will appear in these republics.—How now, therefore, ought the Batavians and French devotedly to wish success to the Anglo-Russian!

Ami des Lux.

A grenadier of the national guard of Valais has been assassinated at his own door, by 8 royalists.

departments of the south of France, where the administrators have not been changed, still remain in peace and quietness.

The French War Minister has addressed a letter to the administrators of the departments of the Lower Pyrenees, exhorting them speedily to send provisions and reinforcements to the Republicans of the Upper Garonne. "O citizens (says he) do not deceive them! With you I receive life, and the love of liberty, which is more precious than life. Seeing the dangers to which the south of France is exposed, I owe this homage to you, my first concern being towards the peace of my nativity. In disposing of your souls as my own, I considered I had appointed for the inhabitants of the Upper Garonne the most powerful reinforcements, in order to consolidate the victory of the laws and liberty."

BERLIN, Sept. 4.

The British Minister, Mr. Grenville, is gone from here to Hamburg. Before his departure he received, as a present from his Majesty, a beautiful service of Porcelain, of the manufacture of this city.

The Spanish Ambassador to the French Republic, will set off from hence in a few days.

HANAU, August 31.

The French army of the Rhine, which advances from Mannheim towards Swabia, to act, if possible, on the frontiers of Switzerland, marches in three columns, under gen. Collaud, Laroche and Leval, general Hauptmann commands the cavalry. The French head quarters were at Laugenbrucken on the 29th. The report that these troops had taken possession of Heilbronn, wants confirmation. Some accounts say, that the French had been defeated in an action on the other side of Heidelberg. Mainz is now declared in a state of siege.

FROM THE MAIN August 31.

The gen. of division, Breguoy d'Hilliers, has this day removed his head quarters from Rockenheim to Sprenglingen, on the route to Darmstadt. The former place belonging to Hesse Cassel, the commandant of Hanau has formally protested against the violation of neutrality. Gen. Despagne and Parri command under him. Commissary Bucher was every day at the head quarters. The column which marches along the left bank of the Mayo, by way of Gereau, has taken prisoners some of the hussars of Mainz. Near Seligenstadt, the advanced posts met those of Mainz, and were beaten. The French carried their wounded to Frankfurt.

The country people in the Spessart and the territory of Wurtzburg are ordered to arm themselves, and in the neighbourhood of Alschaffenburg they are ready to meet the French, who, however, did not come as far as Seligenstadt. Some infantry of Mainz is at Aschaffenburg, but the elector, accompanied by his minister, baron Abini, has quitted it, and is arrived at Wurtzburg. The elector, in the proclamation in which he orders his subjects to rise in arms against the French, stipulates, that every one who takes up arms shall receive ten kreutzers and a pound of meat; that the families of those who might be killed should be supported, &c. This proclamation has had the wished effects, and throughout the dominions of the electorate, the people are under arms.

It is now said that the French expedition against Aschaffenburg is given up, & that one column of gen. Hillier's troops will march to Heidelberg, the other return to Mainz.

The general, before he quitted Frankfurt, demanded a written testimony of the senate, that the troops under his command, who had been in the territory of the city, had observed the strictest discipline, and behaved in a manner which deserved the acknowledgment of every inhabitant. This testimony was granted, upon which he formally acknowledged the neutrality of the city of Frankfurt, in the same manner as was formerly done by Roche and Jourdan.

From Mannheim the French are advancing towards Bruchsal, and in the mountains on the road to Heilbronn. That place contains considerable Austrian magazines, which the French general Muller is supposed to intend to carry off, as he has ordered 100 empty waggons to accompany his army. Two regiments of imperial cavalry and three battalions of infantry are marched against him; part of the third column of Russians are likewise ordered against Heilbronn. The garrison of Philipsburg has called in its advanced posts, the French extending as far as Bruchsal with a superior force.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 3.

On the 31st ult. and the day before yesterday, arrived in the roads of Elinear, from Beyer, the English ships Diadem, Brakel, Inflexible, Coronandel, Dictator, Walsener each of 64 guns, with 600 men on board; on, Experiment, Hebe, and Montups, each with 350 men.

LINGEN, Sept. 7.

The hereditary prince of Orange has received official intelligence to day, from Ad. Mitchell, that the whole Dutch fleet in the Texel, Helder, and Vlie, with all the galleys and gun boats, had surrendered to the protection of the English, whose troops occupied several points of the island Texel; that general Abercrombie had received a reinforcement of six thousand men from England, and that a great number of Batavian troops had gone over to the English. The Prince has since taken his departure, to embark for Holland.

ZURICH, Aug. 24.

No events of importance have taken place in our neighbourhood. The headquarters are still at Kloten, and it seems some rest will be given to the Russians, before they are led against the enemy. Above the Lake of Zurich the enemy has entirely retreated into the mountains of the canton of Schweiz, and Gen. Hoize has taken his station opposite to them, with a corps sufficiently numerous to be called an army. It seems as if a principal attack was intended in that quarter.

The large frigate, which has been on the Lake of Zurich for many years, is fitting out under the direction of Colonel Williams, and it is supposed that an expedition will take place upon the water, an Hungarian regiment having gone into camp on their opposite shore, yesterday.

The whole of the Russian infantry is now arrived at its place of destination.

On the 22d, at noon, the French attacked the legion Rovera, in its position near Wallishofen; the skirmish lasted about an hour, but the Swiss had only a few killed, and six wounded. Some Colfack, who were in the city, no sooner heard the firing, than they quitted the city, to assist the Swiss: they are said to have daringly thrown themselves upon the retreating enemy. These were the first Russians whom the French saw in Switzerland.

PARIS, Aug. 27.

In the last battle with the Royalists in the south, Thouloute, Gen. Latour was severely wounded.

General Hedouville has now the command of the troops near Rouen, Amiens & Lille, which forms a separate army for the defence of the coasts.

ALEXANDRIA, October 31.

The armed ship Theris, capt. Russell of George Town, and bound there, arrived opposite this town yesterday morning, from Surriam, which place she left the 30th Sept. The British were at that time in complete possession of the island, and had been joined by a number of the Dutch. Capt. Russell, on passing Mount Vernon, the residence of the beloved Washington, fired a salute of sixteen guns.

PROPOSALS FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSCRIPTION, A MAP OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE,
And part of the State of Pennsylvania, together with the soundings of the river Delaware and its bay.

As the shoals and banks in the river and bay have undergone considerable changes, the ancient charts are inaccurate, and consequently useless—it is of great importance to the merchants of Philadelphia and other places, who navigate the Delaware, that these shoals and banks should be perfectly known; on the map therefore they shall be marked with the utmost accuracy and the soundings noted in fathoms—the soundings will be verified by the chief pilots of the Delaware and their fixtures affixed.

This map shall also contain the towns, villages, and the principal places of worship, the most considerable mills and manufactories, the rivers and creeks with their best navigations, and the places where changes have been proposed to be made, the hills and plains shall be distinguished, the chief rivers, with the distances from town to town, noted.

As the State of Pennsylvania has some prospect of opening a canal from the Chesapeake to the Delaware, it is of great importance to know the best place for that purpose—the places where such a canal could be cut shall be traced, and an estimate of the cost of each proposed. A part of the Sittoungann canal in Maryland and of the Chesapeake bay, with its soundings, will be shown.

CONDITIONS.
This map shall be printed on the finest and strongest paper, and rival in elegance of engraving to any map which has hitherto been published in the United States—the price will be Three dollars to each subscriber, one third to be paid at the time of subscription, and the two thirds remaining on the delivery of the map—those who subscribe for two copies shall have their plantations or mills marked out on the map, if desired, with their names—the size two by four feet—this map will be completed within one year from this date.
