Loudis Announces Music Department Expanded Program

Hugenson, Keenze Added To Faculty With Two New Degree Programs Offered

An expanded University of Delaware music department will offer two new degree programs beginning in September.

Anthony J. Loudis, department chairman, has announced that the department will add two faculty members and music education to the more traditional bachelor of arts degree with a major in music.

To implement the expanded program, the music department faculty will be enlarged to 11 full-time and three part-time faculty members. Also affiliated with the department is the University of Delaware's resident string quartet which assists in many instructional and performance activities.

Two new appointments — Dr. Robert C. Hugenson and Marvin H. Keenze — will begin teaching in September. Hugenson will be an assistant professor of theory and composition, while Keenze will be an instructor in voice.

Hugenson, a native of Kirksville, Mo., received his baccalaureate degree from Northeast Missouri State Teachers College; his master of music degree from LSU and his doctorate from Michigan State. He has taught since 1962 at Southwest Texas State College.

Keenze received his bachelor's and master's degree from Westminster Choir College. He has directed church choirs in Highland Park, N. J., and Falls Church, Va., and was soloist at the Presbyterian Church in Washington. Last year he held a Samuel L. Pels grant as a private student and assistant to the director of the Philadelphia Singing City.

He served in the U.S. Army from 1960 to 1963, during which he was a member of the U.S. Army Chorus. At Westminster, he was president of his freshman and senior classes.

Some 65 undergraduates are majoring in music at the university, but the department serves non-majors through its performing groups and elective courses, with more than 2,000 registrants in music courses last year.

Performing organizations include the Concert Choir, Madrigal Singers, University Chorus, Chamber Singers, Choral Union and the symphonic and concert bands.

The 88-piece University Marching Band which performs at football games, is composed of instrumentalists from the symphonic and concert ensembles.

Smaller woodwind and brass groups also perform on special occasions.

Last year the band, choral organizations, and string quartet presented 33 concerts in elementary and high schools throughout the state, in addition to programs on the university campus.

Farm & Home Field Day Scheduled Aug. 14 With Variety Program At UD Substation

New developments in agricultural research at a Sixk Plant Clinic; a day-long home-maker's program; housing, content, and a variety of demonstrations and exhibits are expected to draw more than 1,000 farmers, agricultural businessmen and city dwellers to the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Field Day on Aug. 14, at the Georgetown Agricultural Substation.

Throughout the day, bus tours will take visitors over the university's 210-acre farm for on-the-spot inspection of over 60 research projects.

Field Day chairman J. Frank Gurdy, director of the substation, reports that tours of experimental plots will begin at the substation at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Because of their economic importance in the state, corn and soybeans lead the research effort, with soybean research involving almost 5,000 individual test plots.

Continuing sub-irrigation research on corn, soybeans and strawberries is expected to draw many interested producers.

Also on display will be a wax-oil emulsion for reducing water loss in plants.

Field Day visitors also will have chance to observe effects of an asphalt treatment on sandy Delaware soils. A special bus to the six-acre asphalt plots near Laurel will leave Field Day grounds at 1:30 p.m.

Farm and Home Field Day again will feature a Sixk Plant Clinic. Visitors may see plant specimens for diagnosis by a panel of university specialists.

For the past six years, this clinic has helped farmers and home gardeners recognize and solve problems caused by disease, insects, weeds and other factors.

Vandalism, Theft School Loss Drops With ADT System

During the past 1967-68 school year the Newark special school district expended $215.97 as the result of vandalism and theft, compared with $12,539.89 for the preceding year, according to the figures in a current report issued by H. Lewis Miller, director of business for Newark schools.

Miller explained that "The cost shown for each year reflects the cost of replacement and the hours of cleaning, travel time to school buildings, and time spent to make temporary repairs in order to secure the buildings, are not reflected."

Concerning the drop in costs, Miller said that on May 8, 1967, a new electronic burglar alarm system was completed throughout the Newark school district, and that the number of successful entries declined immediately.

With the ADT system providing protection for all district buildings, ADT and law enforcement officers reach the scene swiftly, Miller added. In at least two cases during the school year just completed, vandals had time only to get to the telephone coin box before police were on hand.

Bob Short and Police Protection

Throughout his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor, Bob Short has stressed the need for protection of Delaware citizens. Riots, other forms of violence, lawlessness of all forms, in fact, must be controlled.

How?

Regardless of the details of the problem, the key to the solution rests with effective police services. Bob Short recognizes this, and with the aid and counsel of law enforcement experts would utilize it to make a safer state for you and me.

More police is one answer—on both the state level and the local level. Better coordination of police is another answer. Use of sophisticated methods for crime detection, analysis and prevention is a third answer. There are others.

The immediate need is a governor with concern about protection of the private citizen and with the firmness to come to grips with lawlessness—with the ability to make Delaware attractive to law-abiding citizens but unattractive to criminals.

Bob Short has pledged to make "A Safe State for Delawareans". The only way he can do this is by our support in the Republican convention and in the general election this fall.

Let's support him and see. There's too much at stake to do otherwise.

MISS KRAACKHARDT ADVISES ON EASE IN CAMP COOKERY

Camping can be an invigorating, easy-on-the-budget vacation. Each year more people discover the joys of a camping trip.

Unfortunately, cooking turns many a trip into drudgery. It needn't, says Marguerite Krackhardt, food specialist at the University of Delaware. A little planning guarantees successful camp cookery.

Make a list of necessary foods and utensils.

Use familiar recipes and keep menus simple. Count on instant potato products for hearty meals in a hurry.

Instant sauces are handy; these sauces are particularly good to dress up canned vegetables. Serve soups often. With little effort they can fancy up an ordinary meal, and they're filling.

Choose desserts that can be slipped up shortly before mealtime. Fresh or dried fruit with cookies or instant puddings are good camp desserts.

Take along quick energy foods suggests Miss Krackhardt. Active campers need an afternoon pick-up such as nuts, raisins, cookies or assorted candy bars.

Refrigerator space is always limited. Keep a good supply of canned or freeze-dried foods. Unless you're going into the back country, it's a good idea to renew fresh food supplies every two or three days. This way you can have fresh meat, milk, fruits, vegetables and bakery products without the fear of food-poisoning.

Plan one-dish meals rather than a number of different dishes. Then if you have food left, you only have one dish to refrigerate. Stews, chili con carne, and pot roast with vegetables are good choices.

Use paper and plastic products and keep mealtime simple.

Ask Dr. QUIZMEE

If you are the first to submit a question which Dr. Quizmeer, our information specialist, answers in his column, we will present to you, free, the complete, illustrated, 25-volume set of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia.

Mail your question to Dr. Quizmeer in care of this newspaper.

This week's winners of encyclopedias are: Laura Eckerlin for alertness. She challenged my statement that the spin-tailed swift, clocked at 219.5 miles per hour, is "probably the fastest moving creature alive."

She asks: "Are there hot latitudes which fly at 600 m.p.h.?"

No, Laura. Entomologists describe such reports as "wildly exaggerated." Modern research has established that no insect can fly faster than 36 m.p.h., although, as your question indicates, it was once thought that hot-lives were fantastically fast.

John J. McCall for asking: "What constitutes a British Thermal Unit?"

One B.T.U. is the amount of heat necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit.

Mrs. Barbara Bruggen for her question: "How was the word 'Salary' derived?"

From the Latin word "salarius" meaning salt. Ancient Romans served and rationed salt and other necessities to their soldiers and civil servants. When money was substituted for rations, the payment continued to be called by the same name.

Miss Krackhardt for her question: "What is the best way to keep a refrigerator cool?"

FOR GALS ONLY The Working World

By Wesley Warnock Wesley Warnock is Director of Victor's Comptometer Schools

Is automation a bogeyman or a blessing? As more and more offices and factories are automating procedures, we're beginning to realize that automation actually is increasing the number of career positions for skilled women.

New opportunities for gals who have the necessary abilities to return to the working world after raising a family.

Is the school located in a desirable neighborhood near public transportation?

Audit Before Enrolling Will school officials allow you to sit in on regular classes without cost or obligation to observe procedures? You should at least observe a class in progress and talk to some of the students.

Does the school have a pay-as-you-go plan with no extra carrying charges?

How much money do you stand to lose if you decide to drop out? Pay-as-you-go plans with little or no penalty for early drop out protect your pocketbook and peace of mind.

Recognition Important Does the school have a good record of job placements for its graduates? This record reflects the school's practical ability and acceptance in industry.

Are you solicited in your home and pressured by the school's sales force? Most reputable schools depend on a "soft sell" from advertising, word of mouth, mailed literature or open house programs with a welcome for you to come in at no obligation. High school career programs often feature speakers from qualified schools.

Do students receive individual instruction? Such instruction insures course completion in the shortest time.

MOON OVER MIAMI

Former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, who has the undesired reputation with some as a loser, won his second GOP presidential nomination early this morning with the first ballot at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach, Mr. Nixon certainly lost to John F. Kennedy eight years ago — but the contest was close, indeed.

The Democratic party is faced with a competitor of high caliber, and as the Democrat husband of a former Nixon supporter, an editor is particularly interested in the outcome of the Chicago convention and its impression on the Lady of the House.

With a near full Florida moon over the ocean at Miami Beach, we congratulate the delegates on their attendance at convention hall.

Senior At Antioch College, Ernest Downs Leaves For 10-Months Study In Hawaii

Ernest Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Downs of 720 Academy Street, Newark, a senior political science major at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, O., is one of seven students from four midland colleges leaving last week for the Hawaiian island of Kauai to participate in the second year of a field center to test what a liberal arts education can contribute to a developing community.

The center is sponsored by the 12-member Union for Research and Experimentation in Higher Education (UREHE), with headquarters at Antioch College, and will be directed for the first six months by Dr. William Warren, Antioch vice-president.

For 10 months the seven Antioch, Goddard, Hofstra and Nassau college students will spend about half their time holding volunteer jobs as researchers with a bureau of community research or tutors and aides with Kauai Community College, with which the center is affiliated.

They will spend the rest of their time working on individual projects in their major fields which relate to immediate problems on Kauai.

Walter L. Mickle Schedules Opening Of Rental Center

A To Z Service System On Elkon Road To Open With Aug. 16-18 Events

Walter L. Mickle has announced the grand opening of his A to Z Rental Center at 243 Elkon Road, Newark, Aug. 16-18 — the newest member of the nationwide, owner-operated A to Z rental system.

Refreshments will be served and a grand prize will be awarded. Mickle said the center will offer for rental "practically all conceivable items used by businessmen and tradesmen, householders and apartment dwellers — from axes (tevery one knows what they are) to axes (an axlike tool for cutting roofing slate)."

The rental outlet will offer such respected things as sanders, power drills and saws, painting equipment and scaffolding, staircases and furniture dollies, and plumber's and mechanic's tools.

"However," Mickle explained, "human needs don't stop with these items and neither will the rental inventory of the center."

Businessmen and contractors will be able to rent floor care equipment and tools of the trade, from cement mixers to power generators.

The new establishment will offer yard and garden equipment and such appliances and conveniences as rug shampooers, TV sets, and vacuum cleaners.

Adult and children's furniture, including cribs and highchairs, will be provided along with sports equipment, banquet and party needs, and invalid and sickroom equipment.

Advantages of renting instead of buying, Mickle added, include elimination of storage when the item is not in use, as well as avoiding maintenance.

Mickle, formerly a Du Pont design engineer, lives with his wife Evelyn and family at 720 Bent Lane.

Hope Of State Aid For NHA Reported By Mrs. Perkins

Federal Funds Denied With Rejection Of Plan For Workable Program

The Newark Housing Authority hopes to be among the first to get help from the State Housing Department, with a cut-off, at least temporarily, from federal funds.

Mrs. Margaret M. Perkins, NHA executive director, said that Newark's workable plan has been turned down by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

The government agency said that the minimum housing ordinance wasn't strong enough, Mrs. Perkins reported.

Mrs. Perkins said that New Castle County has no workable plan, though it is preparing one. Newark and the county, she added, are the only two governmental agencies the authority could work through to obtain federal funds, and without a workable plan no federal funds would be granted.

A workable plan is a plan drawn up by a community showing that it is trying to improve over-all living conditions and must meet certain specifications as to codes, staff and a master plan in order to receive federal assistance for projects.

With the two avenues cut off, Mrs. Perkins said, the only place left to turn if the authority hopes to build any new units in the near future, is the state department.

There is a need for more units, she said with all 78 filled and a waiting list of more than 80 persons and families.

The GNRA Playgrounds

By Diane McFann

As the Newark summer playground program nears its home stretch, the children begin to realize that there just aren't too many weeks left before they are faced with a new school year. No matter what kind of reaction this produces, it is hoped that the summer playgrounds have made the vacation days more fun and that all the children will be back again next summer.

This past week, Downes was the scene of a bubblegum blowing contest. The winners of this amusing event were Andrea and Rise Herber and Dottie Nash.

West Park and College Park played their softball rematch on Wednesday. West Park defeated the College Park team by a score of 9-7. With this second loss, the College Park team will have to content itself with being No. 2 for this summer.

West Park also had a checker tournament last week. Gayle McVey, Don Ortiz and Tom Young succeeded in outwitting their opponents to become checker champs. Medall playground enjoyed a day at Lum's Pond last Wednesday, and on Thursday, Medall had a follow-up just across the street.

Awards went out to Marty Kelagher's dog Queenie, most talented; Brenda Rash's hamster Tammy, the most lovable; and Steve Butler's kitten Snowball, cutest.

The most handsome couple were Bryon Kash's fish Wobble, and Donna Morrison's dog Daisy and the most adorable monkey title was awarded to David Rash's pet.

This week it is time for directors and children to say farewell to another GNRA summer on the playgrounds. Many playgrounds have chosen to say farewell with parties.

Medall playground will add an individual touch by having a "Kiddies' Day" when children will become directors and the directors will assume the children's role. No matter what special events are planned, it's farewell for another year.

Poultry Diagnostic Lab To Be Open On Field Day
The newly remodeled Poultry Diagnostic Laboratory at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation will be open for public inspection during annual Farm and Home Field Day, Aug. 14.

The laboratory which has been in operation several years, is designed to serve the poultry industry in diagnosing diseases and recommending treatment.

Dr. William J. Benton, animal research department chairman, says modern facilities will enhance the laboratory's role in poultry health experiments at the substation.

Top Planthopper Plague Cited By Boys For State
Delaware is being plagued by one of the greatest planthopper infestations within memory, according to Frank E. Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

These insects feed on a variety of plants ranging from trees and shrubs to vegetables. Boys says that the insects are very sticky and secrete a sticky honeydew substance.

Control planthoppers with Sevin sprayed at a rate of one tablespoon per gallon of water. And be careful not to use Sevin near Boston Ivy, Boys adds.

Alpha Phi Omega 20th Anniversary Celebrated At UD

The University of Delaware chapter of national service fraternity Alpha Phi Omega celebrated its 20th anniversary last May.

Chapter members, numbering more than 300 alumni and present students, have sponsored a variety of service projects, among them guided tours of the Delaware campus, fall and spring weekends at Camp Rodney, annual picnic for children of the Gov. Bacon Home; a campus art exhibit; books for Asian students; fund-raising for a needy family; and assistance to incoming students during freshman orientation.

The first chapter project was to clear trees from the area at Camp Rodney, a project undertaken during the presidency of H. Bruce Ayars of Ardmore, Pa. who is now a member of the national staff of the Beta Sigma chapter.

Present chapter officers are George K. McDowell, Claymont, president; William H. Saxton, Newark, Robert B. Dushman, Wilmington, vice-presidents.

In a banquet as a part of a month-long anniversary celebration, the chapter recognized former Advisors Director Edward R. O'U and Dean of Men Donald P. Hardy for their contributions as advisory committee chairmen.

The 22d annual Pushmobile Derby will be held Saturday, Sept. 7, at the Milford Crossroads derby track.

In addition to the derby date, with a Sept. 8, rain date, the committee selected two Sundays, Aug. 18 and 25 as trial dates. On these days boys and girls will have the opportunity to try their cars between noon and 4:30 p.m.

The derby is sponsored by the Delaware Association of Police as its major youth activities project. The track is under supervision of Pushmobile Track, Inc., a non-profit group headed by S. Hallock Dupont.

Entry blanks for the derby are available at the Newark police station. Boys, as in other years, will race in two classes, A for those 13 to 15 and B for those 10 to 12.

Girls in the powder puff event race as a single class but are paired according to weight.

BOGGS BACKS BEACH
U.S. Sen. J. Caleb Boggs has recommended to the U.S. Senate approval of an $8-million program to protect Delaware's 25-miles of ocean coastline. In testimony before the subcommittee on flood control, Boggs described the coastline as Delaware's "most important natural resource."

Delaware Tornado Precautions Cited By Tom Williams

Tornadoes are rare in Delaware, but they do happen occasionally, says Thomas J. Williams, rural civil defense specialist at the University of Delaware.

A tornado is a short, local storm with violent winds rotating at very high speeds, Williams explains. Twisting winds of the funnel have speeds estimated at over 300-mph. and sound like the roar of a jet.

A tornado can occur in any part of the United States at any time of the day or night, says Williams. But here in Delaware they usually happen between April and August from 3 to 7 p.m.

To help protect your family against the havoc of a tornado, understand the meaning of tornado reports and know what to do if a tornado strikes, advises Williams.

In the city, seek indoor protection in a designated shelter, in a strong reinforced building or in the basement of a frame structure. Keep away from all windows.

It is important to remain calm in the face of a tornado, says Williams. Getting excited only increases the danger. People have been killed by running outdoors and into the path of the storm.

Keep abreast of latest advisory information by tuning on a local radio or television station.

Scott Coolidge Hurls One-Hitter To Win State Little League Title For Newark AL

Scott Coolidge pitched a one-hitter, striking out 18 as the Newark American All-Stars blanked Dover 4-0 last Saturday at Camden for the Delaware Little League title.

Coolidge and his Delaware champions face the Maryland state champs in the opener of the two-day Eastern Region tournament in Dover this Friday, with the winner playing the New Jersey representative for a berth in the Eastern finals. The loser goes home.

"I'd really like to win that game," said Coolidge of what may be his last Little League start. He will be 32 on Aug. 25, and will join his brother Bill, also a pitcher, in the Babe Ruth League next year.

Coolidge was a virtual one-man band against Dover. He and catcher Chuck Burns played pitilessly, catching while 18 Dover batters went down on strikes, nine chasing the third strike.

And Coolidge made two unassisted putouts on ground balls hit to the mound. Dandridge, the simpleton to first, the second right-hander, sped off the hill and tagged the batters.

Coolidge also did his bit at the plate. As Newark's top hitter with eight regular-season home runs, he tried to win his own game in the sixth with a single to center — the game's first hit — that was misplayed for two additional bases.

"I thought we'd win when I got my hit," he said later, "but it wasn't that easy."

Dover starter Ronie Martin promptly threw his 19th strikeout to retire the side, and Dover manufactured its best scoring opportunity.

The best team with a walk: George Hostley's infield single and a stolen base between two strikeouts, put runners on second and third before Coolidge caught Tim Frazier looking at a third strike to require extra innings.

Newark then went in seventh on reliever Alvin Carney to work out scoring four runs on two walks; Terry Hayman's run-scoring single, Jimmy Boyd's two-run triple and a sacrifice fly by Burns.

And then Coolidge fanned the side.

Leadoff batter Boyd's opposite-field triple was the clincher.

168 Golfers Face DSCG Better-Ball Tourney At NCC

A total of 168 players, including the defending champions, were scheduled to tee off today at the Newark Country Club in the Delaware State Golf Association's Better-Ball-of-Partners-Gross Tournament.

Defending champions Arthur Cooper and William Laurill of Rock Manor scored 79 to win last year's event at Green Hill.

Rock Manor has 38 teams to lead club entries.

Hot Newark has 28 teams, and 24 DuPont tandems will compete. A total of 15 clubs will participate in the 18-hole stroke play event over the 6,218-yard par 35-36-71 course.

The Pony League, which yearly supplies the Two Newark Little Leagues with new players, crowned Colgate from the Galloper School as champion. Roland Carroll's hustling little charges completed the season with a 12-2 record, including the tournament play.

The Pony-Tail League was won for the second straight year by hard-working Harold Davis' Blue Demons. The Demons not only went undefeated through the regular season but also defeated the All-Stars 1-0 behind an airtight infield. A lot of credit has to go to Manager Davis, who was observed practicing his Demons under the scorching sun at high noon the day of the all-star game.

The Jr. Mike League went to Lou Cavender's Sluggers. Lou's gals, however, bowed to the all-stars from their league, led by outstanding players from Ed Moore's Newark Belles; Dick Warner's Little Demons; and the Queens coached by Theodore Harris and Sue Jump.

The New Bee League title was won by the Yankees under Bill Sheehan. In almost a photo finish, three other teams — the Cardinals, Orioles, and Pirates finished just one game off the pace.

Newark All-Stars Beat Pennsylvania In Babe Ruth Play

Two-run doubles by Gov. Brooks and Steve McDowell powered Newark's Delaware champions to a 6-3 quarter-final triumph over Pennsylvania last Tuesday in the Middle Atlantic Regional Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament at Trenton, N.J.

Russ Vickers' Delaware led 1-0 going into the fifth inning.

Clutch hitting, doubles by Brooks and McDowell produced four runs to provide the winning margin.

Len Canatelli also had two runs-batted-in for Delaware.

Curt Greesman was the winning pitcher.

Vickers' champs scored three runs in the first inning last Monday night to best Plain Edge (N.Y.) 3-4.

Eric Siena doubled to drive in all of Newark's runs.

Paul Ochs protected the advantage until the seventh inning when he needed relief help from Dan Delahin.

Wm. du Pont, Jr. Handicap On Saturday To Feature Delaware Park Meet Finale

Delaware Park's longest and richest meeting of 61 days comes to a close this Saturday with the second running of the $50,000-added William du Pont, Jr. Handicap featuring the finale.

No one who witnessed the inaugural of this mile was a sixteen-hundred stake last summer will soon forget it — nor will thoroughbred racing devotees, wherever they have been that day. It produced one of the biggest upsets of 1967, sports of any kind.

Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft's mighty Damascus, later was voted America's Horse of the Year, went pastward the 1-5 favorite in a field of five with the celebrated Willie Shoemaker in the saddle.

Two days before that race, Delaware Park Racing Secretary Allan W. Lavin was desperately trying to entice enough horses into the event against Damascus to make a race out of it.

One of the trainers he worked on was Joe Considine, conditioner of a horse named Excelsior.

"Heck, my horse doesn't belong in the same race with Damascus," protested Considine. But Lavin talked him into starting. Excelsior anyway.

What happened made racing history. Shoemaker let Damascus drop far back early while Jockey Frank Lovato had Excelsior nicely placed behind the very fast but faltering Flag Raiser.

Saving ground turning for home, Excelsior forged to the front as Damascus belatedly made a big move, passing all but Considine's charge. In a half-raising duel through the last furlong, Damascus drew up to virtually even terms — but Excelsior's astounded audience everyone by Lovato to give ground under Lovato's whip-lash and snuck to his goal to win by the shortest of noses.

Young Alby Jezek was doing a land office business with salmon eggs as bait for the bluegills in a farm pond near Newark, interrupting his father — a former yellowjacket athlete — from time to time for some hook recovery from overly enthusiastic fish.

"What's that little boy using for bait?" Senior Citizen Carroll W. Mumford inquired after seeing his newly purchased Japanese flies and delicate fly casting tackle had failed to match his expectations.

"Salmon eggs — canned!" Big Al called in overhearing Mr. Mumford's query, and from across the pond where Father Jezek was netting fingerling bluegills from an overabundant population for stocking another pond.

Little Alby promptly proffered some of the bucket-size roe of the Pacific salmon — eggs that had been shipped some 3,000-miles from the West Coast to the delight and downfall of eastern fly — and Carroll Mumford immediately caught several stocky bluegills in a quick shift from artificial fly to a salmon egg impaled on a plain hook.

But the fly fishing really wasn't all that had a first cast with a tiny but not tiny enough popping bug resulted in three quick snapping surface strikes from small bluegills, and a second cast was called by a green-gold bluegill that was plenty big enough to include the popper.

The farm pond — nameless, here, to provide some privacy protection for our hospitable hosts — was the ideal field for fly casting, with cleared, grassy banks and no trees or brush to foul up a back cast — and the pond was alive with fish. It still is, because we didn't take out many specimens of its resident marine life.

With dry, tiny trout flies, we had some 100 strikes from baby bluegills swarming in the shallows, and from time to time a more adult fish would get to the fly ahead of the juvenile contingent. And we wound up with a half-dozen good keepers for an evening fish fry.

We weren't fishing at the best of times, either, arriving at the pond shortly after high noon, and casting on through the torrid afternoon to leave just before the really productive time of late evening.

Anyway, we got in some needed practice with classic flyrods, and thoroughly enjoyed some stirring set-tos, with the big bluegills that surged mightily against whipping wands while heavy enameled lines sang through the water.

Some real effort with a splashing surface plug from the business end of an old fashioned bait casting rod — "You don't see many reels like that any more," Dad Jezek said with some wonderment — failed to aggravate the bass snoring in the heat of the day, to the point of striking, and we abandoned the heavier tackle after awhile to resume action with the bluegills sucking willfully at the flies.

"I'd like to come back some time in the evening — after supper," Mr. Mumford said earnestly — and hungrily, too, in eyeing his watch.
