Improved Jail Conditions Discussed

Council Considers Ways and Means

At the meeting of Town Council Monday night there was a short discussion about better jail facilities for the town. It was agreed that some improvements will be made before another winter session. The present lockup is inadequate. Mayor Joseph H. Hossinger suggested that it would be a good idea for the town to sell its present quarters in case arrangements can be made with the Aetna Fire and Ladder Co. for a small chamber and jail in the proposed building to be erected by the firemen. The fire company, however, has made no definite arrangements about building. No action was taken on the matter.

This was the last regular meeting for three members of council, Eben B. Frazer, Gottlieb Fader and Joseph Lutton. Their terms expire on April 11th, when the annual town election will be held. It is possible that all three will be candidates for re-election. Wilbur Johnson and A. L. Fisher were appointed judges to conduct the elec-

A tastefully draped veil completed the toilette. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of brides' roses and sweet peas. Miss Lowe, the maid of honor, wore pink and carried pink roses; the bridesmaids were gowned in green satin, with draperies of pink tulle. Little Mary Helen Lowe, a cousin of the bride from Harrisburg, was flower girl. Following the ceremony the bride and groom left for a trip south. They will reside in Philadelphia where Mr. Short is employed, with the H. K. Mulford Co.

GREAT SPECTACULAR EVENT ON JOE FRAZER FIELD

COLLEGE FOLK AND TOWNSPEOPLE JOIN IN CELEBRATION

The ambition for a genuine Community Festival expressed by many residents upon their return from the celebration at Kennett Square last October, is about to be realized, for all Newark is to share in the Shakspeare Festival, planned by the English Department of Delaware College. From a purely academic celebration of the tercentenary of Shakspeare's death, the plan has grown, until it has become a community affair, of more than local significance, however since it will attract people from all parts of Delaware. The order of the Festival follows:

On Friday afternoon-April twenty-eighth, the Festival will begin with a Pageant depicting scenes from the life of Shakspeare. A Procession will form at the Women's College at three o'clock and proceed to Frazer Field. Here will be held a Community Celebration. At eight o'clock students of the two colleges will present in the Newark Opera House, Shakspeare's "Twelfth Night." On Saturday at ten thirty, Professor Harry Morgan Ayres of Columbia University will deliver a lecture in the College Oratory, on "Shakspeare: both of an age and for all time." A second performance of "Twelfth Night" will be given in the Opera House at one thirty Saturday.

Everyone in the community who will co-operate by donning Elizabethan costume is invited to meet at The Women's College at three o'clock on Friday afternoon and join the procession which will be an important part of the Pageant. Suggestions for the making of costumes will be given upon request by Professor Myrtle V. Caudell, Department of Home Economics, of the Women's College. Those who do not care to come in costume will be welcomed as spectators.

The Pageant proper, to be held on Frazer Field in the afternoon, promises to be a genuine community celebration as well as the most spectacular affair ever witnessed at Delaware. Professors and students, town-folks—parents, teachers, and children, are working enthusiastically to make the plan a success. The pageant will be divided into three distinct parts, portraying first, scenes from the boyhood of Shakspeare, second, Shakspeare as a young man, and third, Shakspeare as an actor. The first part which will be presented to the school children of Newark, represents the struggle of the good fairies under Titania, and the bad fairies under Oberon and Puck, for the possession of the genius of Shakspeare. The story is purely fanciful, and is based upon parts of Midsummer Night's Dream. This part of the program will include fairy dances, and fairy movements, and old English games that were played by the children during the period of Shakspeare's boyhood.

Added to the spectacular interest, the second part is of special historical significance. The presentation opens with an old English May Day Celebration. There will be the youths and maidens (students from the two colleges) dancing the old English dances to genuine old English tunes. The deer stealing episode will figure in this part of the pageant, which concludes with the departure of Shakspeare, to enter a trade in London.

The third section, perhaps the most elaborate part of the program, represents the visit of Queen Elizabeth with her Court, to the Earl of Southampton, the patron of Shakspeare. The scene will show the arrival of the

EDUCATIONAL RALLY LAST SUNDAY

COLORED FOLK HOLD SPLENDID COMMUNITY MEETING

A community meeting of the best type was that held at the colored school house, Cleveland avenue, Newark, last Sunday afternoon, under the direction of the teachers, Misses A. R. Davis, and C. L. Waddeleton. The occasion was "Educational Rally Day," and marked the culmination of a campaign to raise funds for the extension of the school term beyond the one hundred and forty days required by law. $132.59 was reported as a result of the work of the past weeks, a sum sufficient to run the school until sometime in May. Obadiah Henry, clerk of the school district, presided at the meeting. The program opened with a chorus by Mount Zion choir, followed by prayer by Rev. C. H. Walker. Mary Saunders a pupil of the school, gave the welcoming address, after which Mrs. H. Hayward, president of the New Century Club of Newark, talked of The School and the Home. Mrs. Hayward dwelt upon the importance of co-operation between the home and the school illustrating her talk with anecdote and story, which held the closest attention of her hearers, and conveyed the speaker's idea most forcibly.

"The parent must teach by word and example," Mrs. Hayward declared, "and the child must gain from the teacher right ideas of right. When a child comes home, with a great story about the teacher, and how unfairly she has treated him that day, don't sympathize with the child, and condemn the teacher until you have first investigated the incident." The speaker recited the experience of a teacher friend, who had found it necessary to punish a little boy for his repeated offences very severely. The boy went home in great indignation and returned at noon, just as school had been called, with his mother. "My boy tells me you have punished him," the mother said. "Yes," the friend replied, "I am sorry, but I had to do so."

"Well I want to talk to you about punishing my Johnny."

"Very well," the teacher replied, "if you will have a chair, as soon as I can find the time, I will be glad to do so."

The teacher gave the mother a chair, and turned her attention to the little ones. There were so many little children, and they needed so much attention, that the teacher forgot all about the mother sitting there, in one end of the room. When school was over she turned around and saw the mother.

"Oh, I am sorry," she said, "but I have been so absorbed with the little ones!" But instead of turning to meet a complaint, she was greeted with the admiring exclamation, "How do you manage so many children so beautifully? I don't know how you ever do it."

"Do you know," Mrs. Hayward asked, that statisticians have proved that every day spent in school means at least $10 a day, for your boy or girl in later life? If someone would offer to put $10 each day in a savings bank for your child would you not be delighted and feel deeply grateful? Yet changes might come and all this money be lost. The school offers to make deposit of knowledge and character, which are enduring, and of a more lasting value than any riches of this world. It offers to make of them better men and women, for book knowledge without character may prove only a curse to them. I once heard a speaker tell of visiting a school where he saw Greek on the black-

School Election Last Of April

The annual school election for districts Nos. 30-41 1-2 inclusive, will be held at the Academy building on Saturday afternoon, April 29th. The terms of Harvey Hofecker, and C. A. McCue, expire at that date. It is understood the retiring members will be candidates for re-election.

Presbyterian To Meet At Berlin

The annual Presbyterian—the spring meeting of the Home and Foreign missionary societies of the Presbyterian churches of the New Castle Presbytery, will be held at Berlin, Md., April 11th to 18th, inclusive. A feature of the meeting will be the announcement of those societies who have qualified for the honor roll, by prompt payment of quarterly dues, increased contributions and membership. The Head of Christiana Society will be represented by Mrs. A. Van Oeveren, and the Newark Presbyterian by Mrs. M. C. Kilgore, and Mrs. C. B. Evans.

Pension Fund For Delaware

Announcement has been made by Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, president of Delaware College, of a gift of $25,000 from a friend of the college, who has stipulated that the money shall constitute a pension fund for the professors and instructors of the college. It is understood that the first beneficiary will be Professor Frederic H. Robinson, on the eve of retiring after twenty-six years at the head of the engineering department.

Next Horticultural Meeting In Dover

Plans have been started for a big horticultural meeting with a fruit and vegetable show to be held in Dover early next January by the Peninsula Horticultural Society. Efforts will be made to secure the State Armory for the exhibit and the opera house for the meetings. The citizens of other towns have in recent years been giving the members a reception and banquet, and it is probable that Dover will do the same thing.

President J. Leonard Soper has named the following committees, the chairman of each committee being expected to make a report on the subject assigned him:

Apples: A. W. Slaymaker, W. E. Sanger, Herbert C. Richardson; Peaches: O. A. Newton; Benjamin F. Rash, I. T. Cooper; Pears: Walter B. Harris, J. M. Reed, W. R. Ballard; Nut Culture: J. W. Property Escapes Damage In Million Dollar Blaze

A recent letter received by a friend in Newark from Dr. A. Lee Porter, of Augusta, Georgia, tells of the fire that raged in that city about two weeks ago. Dr. Porter and his son-in-law, Mr. Kruger, are cotton dealers of Augusta. Both the warehouses and residences of the families were in the fire zone, the home of Dr. Porter being saved only by a fortunate turn of the wind. The residence of his brother was entirely destroyed. Neither Dr. Porter nor his son-in-law, however, were losers by the fire. The family has many friends in Newark where, for several years, they have made their summer home.

Scope Of Summer School Broadened

Recitations to be Held at Women's College

Because Delaware College and The Women's College of Delaware have decided to require 14 units for entrance instead of a certain number of years of preparation in a high school, the work of the Summer School should be of especial interest to students in high schools which are unable to furnish more than about 12 or 13 units. By completing satisfactorily some of the advanced courses in the Summer School, students who wish to enter either college may make up the units which they lack for entrance. Any one interested should write to the entrance committees of Delaware College or of The Women's College of Delaware.

On account of the building operations at Delaware College, it is probable that the recitations of the Summer School will be held at the Women's College. This arrangement will in many ways be an ideal one. Residence Hall will be used as a dormitory and about it will center much of the social life of the school. Board and rooms may also be secured within easy walking distance. Science Hall is modern in every respect, and has large classrooms and well equipped laboratories and gymnasium.

GREATER EGG PRODUCTION THAN LAST YEAR

Delaware Hen In The Lead

Who can imagine Easter on the farm without the old mother hen, with her downy flock of cheeping, peeping chicks? Indeed the countryman finds it hard to think of the warm spring sunshine, the mud dried roads, and the tender springing grass without the familiar scratching chickens. All of which perhaps explains the interest displayed in the north American egg laying competition at the Delaware College Experiment Farm under A. M. Pollard. When questioned as to the progress of the competition this year, Mr. Pollard on Monday stated that the total record on April third was 29,612, an increase of 630 over the figures registered on the same date in 1915. Correspondence, now, relative to poultry questions, averages fifteen letters a day, contrasted with six or seven at this time last year. There are, two, perhaps twice as many visitors as at the same time in the previous competition. From far and near they come. Among the number last week was Mr. Fred Mozart of the Mozart Poultry Ranch, Campbell, California. Mr. Mozart declared he had come one thousand miles out of his way to visit the plant and observe the management of the competition. A request, also, has recently been received from Professor F. S. Jacoby, animal husbandman of the Ohio State University, for samples of all the forms used in the competition. Ohio contemplates starting a similar contest next fall.

Of individual interest in the competition is a White Wyandotte hen, owned by Thomas Hutt, Sergeant of Delaware City. At the end of the twenty-second week in the contest, the bird has a record of 120 eggs, compared to Lady Eglantine 121, at the same period last year. These records form an interesting study since they represent two widely variant breeds,—the Wyandotte, a heavy breed, our only purely American bird, and the Leghorn a light weight, imported from the Mediterranean countries. The second best in the competition is also a Wyandotte, with a record of 104 eggs.

A visit to the competition cannot fail to mean for the average farmer or housewife a valuable object lesson in methods which will go largely toward making poultry raising profitable. Individual records of the five hundred hens entered in the competition are kept in Mr. Pollard's office. These afford a most interesting study. Lady Eglantine's record of last year shows that her longest uninterrupted laying period was from March 9th to April 18th. The owner by studying a similar report may determine what seasons of the year are the greatest laying periods of a particular breed. If the laying period comes at a season when prices are low, he will naturally conclude that this is not the hen to select for breeding purposes. Another interesting feature of the records is the set of cards showing the kind and quantity of food consumed by each hen of five birds. At the beginning of every week each pen is supplied with six pounds of mash, and twelve pounds of grain. (The birds get their meals by pecking at automatic feeders which are in operation only at certain times a day.) At the end of the week the amount of food remaining is weighed in order that an accurate account of the amount consumed may be filed in the office.

Invariably the greatest layers consume the most food. Lady Eglantine's pen used 3.5 pounds of mash, and 4.7 pounds of grain, compared with 3.8 pounds of mash and 1.9 pounds of grain in one of the low record pens. The entrants in the present competition represent a wider territory than those in the last competition, although there are twelve entered from our own State, an increase of five over last year. In order to confine the competition to a study of the problems that confront the average farmer, the eggs from the plant are sold to a regular commission house in New York City.

Injured in Auto Smash

Walter C. Merrey, formerly rural mail carrier on the Elkton—Elk Neck route and well-known in the town and neighborhood, now residing in Camden, N. J. was seriously injured last Wednesday when crossing the railroad near Riverside in a light auto delivery truck which was struck and smashed by a train. He was taken to Riverside where he was found injured about the stomach and back.

New O. M. D. Company
 After an address by Col. John G. Townsend at Georgetown on Thursday night enough young men of the town signed a petition for the forming of a new Military company there. The signers will be mustered into Company B of Milford and later will form a new company when the next Legislature gives the needed authorization.

The automobile of William P. White, stolen from in front of West Presbyterian Church, Wilmington on the night of March 26, was found early last week by Frederick Davidson abandoned between New Castle and State Road.

TOWN MEETING SUGGESTED

We wish to call attention to the article in our People's Column by E. N. Vallandigham. He needs no introduction to Newark. In his travels since leaving the home town, he sees our opportunities and wherein we are lax, better than we, who remain at home. As usual, his suggestion shows a practical love and interest in Old Newark.

For several years past, we have made wholesome attempts at "Cleaning up." These campaigns were good and lacked only a wider co-operation to make them conspicuously effective.

Let us take up this suggestion. Not individually but as a Community Campaign. Once we start, the idea of "Town Beautiful" will become, as in other localities, a slogan. Competition for results, will enter into partnership with Co-operation, and Newark will truly arrive. Just such a little work and we lead the State. And the pleasure will be more than the mere leadership.

REAL EDUCATION

The work of the teachers of the colored school, Miss E. N. Davis, and Miss C. L. Waddleton, should win the admiration of every citizen. The young women came to the Newark school from Washington about three years ago, and since that time they have changed entirely the reputation of the district. No less an authority than Professor Cross, County Superintendent of public schools, has pronounced it the best disciplined and most efficient colored school in this county.

The exercises held last Sunday, a credit to any district, were planned by the teachers, themselves, for the purpose of extending the school term beyond the one hundred and forty days required by law. Of the one hundred thirty-two dollars turned in for this purpose on Sunday, the two teachers had raised by subscription, about one hundred dollars.

Miss Davis, the principal of the school, has expressed her appreciation of the co-operation of the white friends in the community. She pleads for the strict enforcement of all laws, a heavy fine for disorderly conduct, and the turning of money so gained into an educational fund for her people. Mrs. Rosa who talked in Newark this week, on the subject of Prison Reform, made the statement that eight-five per cent of the prisoners in the country have been brought to their present condition through ignorance or drink. Would not Miss Davis' plan strike at the heart of both of these primal sources of misconduct?

The presence of Miss Charlotte Slowe, supervising principal of the colored schools of Cecil county, Maryland, added largely to the success of the meeting. Miss Slowe is a broad, liberal minded exponent of the theory that the colored folk must produce their own leaders. That they can she herself proves. She has devoted her life to educational work, having by way of preparation, spent three and one half years in a teachers' training school in Baltimore, a year at the school at Cheyney, Pa., a time at Mechanics Institute, New York, three summer sessions at Hampton Institute. Recently she has done observation work at Columbia University, an experience which she is hoping to repeat this coming summer.

The meeting here Sunday was a striking illustration of the extension of the ideals of Booker T. Washington. The interest that has been demonstrated should not only win the approval but the material support of the entire community.

COMMUNITY FESTIVAL

The greatest Community Celebration ever known in this section of the country is being staged at Newark—the Shakspeare Festival on April 28th and 29th.

A strong statement but preparations being made justify this prediction. No, it is not exclusive, it's the community. In the pageant, the school children, over one hundred of the citizens of the town, students from the two colleges,—all will take part. Every one is invited to take part in any way that suits the fancy.

Of course the dominant feature is to do honor to the memory of Shakspeare. The pageant, the play, the lecture, to depict the life and times of this Immortal. But, to us, the by-product of this Celebration is of interesting moment—that of Community Co-operation. Every phase and class of our community life is going to have a very important part in the success of this historic and gala event.

Mothers today are planning making dresses for some princess, or sash for some hauboy. Her interest, the child's interest, is aroused in the college, in education. The college in turn is interested. These boys and girls are a very necessary part of the plan.

We can't begin to tell you, all it promises to be. It seems wonderful—that's all.

THE REPUBLICAN ATTITUDE

No complaint can be made by the administration against the attitude taken by the Republican members of the Senate throughout the past three years. The statement issued after the recent conference of Republican Senators recognized that the duty of dealing with the present Mexican situation rests with the President, and set forth that while there was a deep concern over the present expedition into Mexico, there was no disposition to interfere with the executive branch of the government. The Republicans, in their statement said:

"Republican Senators fully recognize that the duty of dealing with the present Mexican crisis rests with the President, and they have not at any time had any purpose of interfering with the executive or any department of the government in that matter; but they have been and are now very solicitous that the military expedition in Mexico shall be adequately protected and, if necessary, reinforced, and that the border line shall be provided with forces sufficient to prevent raids similar to that one that occurred at Columbus.

None of the responsibility for unfortunate results of unpreparedness with regards to Mexico can be placed upon the shoulders of the opposition party. There has been no interference from the Republicans. For the past three years they have given the executive branch of the government everything that was asked. The members of the minority did not attempt to hamper the expedition into Vera Cruz; they placed no obstacle in the way of cleaning up the situation at that time; they agreed to all the appropriations and resolutions that were desired.

Yet the minority and the country itself are fully aware that there are not sufficient troops at the border to constitute an army of relief in case the expeditionary force should be cut off or surrounded. There are barely enough troops to patrol the border at the present time. If more troops had to be sent into Mexico, the border would be left inadequately protected. The party in power in Congress can remedy this situation now if it will.

THE LITERACY TEST

With strange persistence the House of Representatives again attempt to bar the gates of the United States to honest, able-bodied immigrants by imposing a literacy test. In the face of history and in spite of the repeated reminders of patriotic Presidents of both parties the House clings to the notion that immigrants unable to read and write are not fit material to enter the United States.

The pressure for this legislation comes from men who were themselves immigrants not long ago, and who would now shut the door through which they entered. They would monopolize the opportunities of America under pretext of purifying the stream of immigration. They stand directly athwart the pathway of progress, and would call a halt to the march of millions of honest and hard-working aliens who have in them the stuff of which America is made.

How can immigration be purified by a language test? Will it keep out Black Handers, and poisoners, and anarchists and birds of prey generally? There is no pretense that book learning makes for morality or that lack of it implies criminality. No one has had the hardihood to suggest that if an anarchist were unable to read he would be more criminal than he is. The literacy test is not set up as to moral sieve, but is intended merely to restrict immigration without regard to its moral quality. It is a device for excluding good and bad, indifferently, for the benefit of those already in. It is supposed that it will make labor scarcer and therefore raise wages.

The United States needs more labor if it is to develop and meet the needs of an increasing population. Illiterate immigrants do not remain illiterate long, and even while illiterate they are good workers. Probably the proportion of shirkers is smaller than among immigrants who have absorbed the vicious socialistic stuff dealt out to the submerged tenth in Europe. Immigrants do not make up the majority of meddlesome agitators in this country. The worst offenders, who would wreck the Constitution and introduce crazy schemes of reform, are pure bred Americans, like those who rule Kansas and Oregon. The average immigrant finds the United States as far ahead of the old country that he is willing to take his chances without wasting his time in investing improvements in government.

If Congress should pass the literacy test, it is to be hoped that the President of the United States will knock it squarely out with a veto, and thus keep the doors open to the deserving of other lands, without regard to their lowliness and previous lack of opportunity.

NOT OUR KIND OF A BOY

The boy who kills a robin is not our kind of a boy. He isn't a good sport. Really, I hesitate to say it, but he isn't a good American. This killing robins with air rifles is thoughtlessness—that's all. Boys, every one of you, want to play fair. Killing robins isn't doing that. A little study of birds, a little reading, and rather than shoot them, you would fight for them.

No, this is no Sunday School lecture, it's just an appeal to the sport in you, the American in you—it's not fair. Those birds, aside from their beauty, their song, their interesting traits and haunts, are doing a very useful work in the world. Be a good sport now.

We are sorry to say, we can't tell you all the wonderful things about birds, for then we could convince you. But this we know—a Boy Scout wouldn't kill a robin. And a Boy Scout is a good American. Are you?

Addition to the duPont School

Brown & Whiteside, architects, have submitted for bids plans for an addition to the duPont School on the Kennett Pike, near Wilmington. The plans call for an addition 98 ft. x 75 ft. 9 inches, two stories in height, built of stone to match the present building with interior partitions of hollow tile. Concrete will also be used. The staircases will be of iron with slate treads and the floors will be made of fireproof material. A new shingle roof will be put upon the entire building. It is understood that Piere S. duPont has given the school a $60,000 endowment fund and a sum sufficient to complete the proposed addition.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

Suggestion From Old Citizen
To the Editor of the Post: As I can never think of myself as quite an outsider in Newark, I write to make a suggestion to my fellow townsmen. Should there not be a movement now, instantly, to make the town, public premises and as well private, worthy of what the College is getting to be? This spring seems to me a time for Newark to put herself in apple pie order. I suggest a town meeting to consider ways and means, and then co-operation between the town authorities and the private citizens to make everything, public and private, look its best at commencement time, and as much earlier as possible. As I recall, the public buildings of the town would be the better of climbing plants and shrubbery. You can't grow climbers in a single spring, but a very small appropriation would provide shrubbery where needed in school grounds and about other public buildings. Public neatness also could be brought about by an insistence upon clean and well watered streets, and well ordered public buildings.

As to private premises, all householders could undertake to do their part, and by co-operation whatever plants and seeds were needed could be had at lowest rates. Paint and whitewash help to freshen the town, and a nail here and there would suffice to put fences in proper order. The school children could be stirred to a sense of civic thoughtfulness by a few words upon the wisdom of keeping the streets free of unsightly waste of any kind, while the same spirit of consideration for public neatness could be aroused among adults by a discussion of such matters at the town meeting. A movement of this kind might easily have far reaching consequences. Newark, with a corps of horticultural specialists at the College ready to give practical advice, ought to be the most charming town on the Peninsula.

SOCIAL NOTES

Mrs. Harold Tiffany entertained a thimble party last Friday, in honor of her guest, Miss Beardsley, of New York.

Members of the Sigma Nu Fraternity entertained their friends at an informal dance last Saturday evening. There were twenty dances on a program suggestive of the occasion—an April First celebration. The patronesses were Mrs. C. B. Evans, Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, and Mrs. H. M. Campbell. The committee in charge was composed of J. W. O'Daniel, chairman; H. W. Horsey, and Gilbert Craig. About thirty-five couples—many of whom were from Wilmington, were present.

Prominent among social events of the season was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Whittingham last Saturday, the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary. About one hundred friends called during the afternoon to present their congratulations. Among the guests were three—Professor and Mrs. Frederic H. Robinson and Mr. W. H. Whittingham—who were present at the wedding held in Epiphany Episcopal church, Washington, twenty-five years ago. The day was also the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mrs. Whittingham's parents, her father having been Colonel R. G. Rutherford, U. S. A.

Linden Hall, the beautiful old colonial home of the Whittingham family, lent itself graciously to the occasion, the charm of the spacious rooms being enhanced by a profusion of white flowering plants. Mr. and Mrs. Whittingham received, the "bride" wearing a gown of white satin, striped in a subtle antique. There were touches of iridescent lace on the skirt, and the jacket which adorned the bodice was made of the same lace mingled with Georgia crepe. Mrs. Whittingham carried an ostrich feather fan that belonged to her mother. Miss Beattie Whittingham wore a becoming frock of green charmeuse trimmed with gold lace; Miss Edythe Whittingham a gown of iridescent blue taffeta with lace edging and trimmings of dainty artificial flowers. Mr. Richard Whittingham was also present. Those assisting at the reception were the Misses Whittingham, Mrs. Charles H. Blake, Mrs. Frank Evans, Miss Lena Evans, Miss Eleanor Duffy of Philadelphia, and Miss Louise Evans of Chester.

The decorations in the dining room, in white and silver, were in keeping with the occasion. A large basket of white flowers—snap dragons, bride's roses, narcissus, and fern, tied with silver gauze, adorned the center of the dining table; there were also silver candle sticks with dainty white shades, and a great bride cake, frosted in wedding bells, and bearing the dates 1891-1916. Following the departure of the guests much merriment was occasioned by the cutting of the wedding cake in the presence of the family and all who had assisted at the reception. Mrs. Calvert found in her portion the thimble, suggestive of industry; Miss Edythe Whittingham the ring, prophetic of an early engagement, and Mrs. Whittingham, the piece of silver, foretelling future wealth. Many handsome gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Whittingham.

The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Stadelman, Miss Henrietta Stadelman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis, the Misses Davis, Rankin Davis, and Miss Edna Taylor of Wilmington.

New Century Club News

Members of the New Century Club had as their guest last Monday, Mrs. Jacob Rosa, of Milford, Federation chairman of Prison Reform, who told of the ideals of the committee, and urged every club member to exert her influence in effecting a reform in Delaware. Mrs. Rosa's plan is practically the same as that which has been practiced at Sing Sing, under the wardenship of Thomas Mott Osborne, who is remembered at the Federation meeting last May.

"Drink, ignorance and inefficiency, or abnormal physical conditions," the speaker declared, "lie at the root of all crime." No amount of punishment can improve these conditions. The period in prison should rather be a period of preparation, to enable the man to meet more successfully the problems of every day living and the temptations of life. Mrs. Rosa told of the work of the Mutual Welfare League, at Sing Sing, which has organized the prison into a miniature community; where has been established self-government, with regular elections, with a court, presided over by a "judge," where the verdicts are given by a jury of prisoners. Here an effort is made to remove the blight of ignorance and inefficiency by the organization of splendid industrial schools for the studying of languages, schools for the training of chauffeurs, etc. Experts from the medical profession from time to time are volunteering their services at the prison, to discover the physical defect which has, perhaps, prevented the normal development of the prisoner. The verdict, in such instances, has resulted in operations which have given the man a fair chance in the world. The introduction of this method of treatment in Japan has resulted in reducing the number of repeaters from 40 to 3 per cent of the entire prison population.

"All this has been done in other states," the speaker declared. "I ask you, what shall be done in Delaware?"

The ladies of the club will hold a Rummage Sale on April 14 and 15. Members are requested to save all articles, which will be collected the day before the sale. The nomination of officers for the new club year will be held next Monday. Any member who wishes to present the name of a candidate may do so by forwarding same to the nominating committee: Mrs. E. L. Smith, chairman; Mrs. E. V. Vaughn, Mrs. Ernest Frazer. The program next Monday will include the New Century Club Edition of the Newark Post, by the Editor, Mrs. Houghton. Edith Hoffecker, Press Correspondent.

EXPERT EXAMINES SCHOOL CHILDREN

Federal Agent Spends Week in Newark

Both Mrs. Houghton, president, and Mrs. Richards, vice-president of the Parent Teacher Association being ill, Mrs. Grantham presided at the meeting on Thursday, March 30th. After the usual routine business, Dr. Mullin, expert on mentality, sent by the Federal authorities to make a survey of New Castle county, was introduced. As Dr. Mullin had been testing the children of the Grammar School for several days, the parents were much interested in the explanation of his methods and the apparatus which he uses. Dr. Mullin said that he had made a survey of the rural schools near Wilmington and in this locality. From Newark he will go to Middletown. The result of his county survey will be made known later.

Dr. Mitchell gave a very interesting account of his recent visit to the famous Gary school in Indiana, where the principle of "training hand as well as head" is being so successfully carried out; also the early training of girls and boys in the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. The "Gary system" is being rapidly adopted by all progressive communities and Dr. Mitchell gave practical suggestions as to how some parts of the work might be introduced into our schools with but little expense.

The next meeting of Parent-Teacher Association will be Thursday, April 28 at 8.30.

WHAT HIGHER EDUCATION SHOULD MEAN

INTERPRETED BY CHARLOTTE SLOWE, NEGRO EDUCATOR

"It is better to make ourselves great by good deeds than to be born so"

By higher education is usually meant the pursuing of Literary, Philosophical and Scientific subjects for four years, beyond the high school course. We need thinkers as leaders, and through a liberal education are thinkers trained. There must always be leaders or those who rise above the mob, and unless they are better informed, more widely read than the crowd, they cannot have vision enough to lead. Should Negroes be given such education? By all means. They more keenly than any other American group need breadth of vision, and width of knowledge concerning men and conditions in general. We need leaders with keen foresight and liberal view. Our artistic and intellectual powers should be developed for we have yet to make our contribution, in a large measure, to the world. We as parents and teachers must see to it that every negro child who is capable of taking higher learning gets it. For every people must have its own leaders of thought. Education is capital to the poor man and interest to the rich man. Public instruction should be the first object of government. The world is only saved by the breath of school children and a child is better unborn than untaught.

Now what should Higher Education mean to us as a mass? It should mean this: That whatever we have to do must be done to the very best of our ability. Let us use the talents God has given us. We must apply ourselves, for talent is the capacity of doing anything that depends on application.

He is the learned man who knows enough to live well. Character lives in a man, reputation outside of him. Let us keep our faces always to the sunshine and the shadows will fall behind us. Our ideals are our better selves, and no good tree can bear bad fruit. Let us do nothing in private that we would not have known in public. We must give no advice to others which we are not willing to follow. It never pays to find fault. We must keep this in mind, that little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortunes, but great minds rise above them. It is easy for one benevolent being to diffuse pleasure around him, and a kind heart is a fountain of gladness making all in its vicinity to freshen into smiles. Nature, time, and patience are three great physicians, and paradise is open to all kind hearts. Kindness to our fellowman will help us to become great and it is better to make ourselves great by good deeds than to be born so.

Our Higher Education should mean that we be courteous. We cannot do evil to others without doing it to ourselves. Smaller courtesies sweeten life, the greater ennoble it. Life is not so short but there is always time for courtesy. Remember investments in courtesy pay the largest dividends.

We must keep in mind that each has a life work to perform and any failure on our part to carry our share of the common burden throws upon other members of society an unfair share of that burden. Each must be useful and efficient, must love work, have courage, patriotism and common sense. He who knows how to make a living and fails to do so, is a shirker, and in failing to give his service to the community will rarely receive the plaudits of his fellows, nor may he ever claim justly that his full duty is done. Remember he who only does what he gets paid for, seldom gets paid for any more than he does.

Wisdom is not found with those who dwell at their ease. We must do the duty nearest us and do it with all our power and skill. When nature adds brains she adds difficulties.

Let us develop whatever traits of character and mind every gentleman and Christian should have. We must be able to meet hard work for the greatest character builder known is hard work.

Difficulties strengthen the mind as labor does the body. Surmounting difficulties makes heroes. Work to man should be what water is to a fish. Honor lies in honest toil. Those who would attain to any marked degree of excellence in a chosen pursuit must work and work hard. There is no easy road in life. One must contend and fight for every inch of space attained.

Let us be trustworthy. That is another step in our Higher Education. If a promise is made live up to it. This makes the other fellow depend upon us. Let us form this habit to "own up, pay up and shut up." Let us learn the lesson of humility, for by humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, honor and life. We must be upright and unselfish and learn the joy of service. Public service is the real object of life. Reliability, thoroughness and conscientious effort will win promotion.

Let another step toward our Higher Education be perseverance. To him that wills, ways are not wanting. There is no true wisdom without patience and perseverance. Much rain will wear away stone, and victory belongs to the most persevering.

When a thing is to be done we must keep pounding and see who can pound the longest.

Nothing is impossible to him who wills. The nerve that never relaxes, the eye that never blenches, the thought that never wanders these are the masters of destiny. In prosperity we need moderation and in adversity patience.

Let us read good books. The Bible tends to make large minded, noble minded men. Good books are true friends. Good books are to the mind what warming sunshine and refreshing rain of spring are to the seeds which have lain dormant in the frosts of winter.

Next we want a conscience about all we do. The unknown is an ocean. What is conscience? The compass of the unknown. Conscience is the voice of God in the soul, the soft whispers of the God in man. Conscience is the sentinel of virtue. Finally a good conscience is a continual Christmas, the best looking glass of Heaven. Conscience is a compass and life is a sea. Without a quickened Conscience the voyage is a most dangerous one. Let us labor to keep alive in our breast that little spark of celestial fire called Conscience.

Let another step in our Higher Education be Discretion. When you deliver a matter do it without passion and with discretion however mean the person be. Use no reproachful language against any one. Neither curse nor revile. Be not hasty to believe flying reports to the disparagement of any. Slander and other vile reports are alike disease germs of small pox and measles, spreading contagion far and wide. It is like the assassin in ambush in the dark to attack the unsuspecting traveler. It is like the hidden serpent coiled under cover of the weeds to attack its prey. It is like a deadly poisoned arrow that inflicts a deadly wound. It is like the bite of a scorpion that inflicts death on its victim. It is better to say little and do much than to say much and do little. We reap what we sow. Gloat not over the misfortunes of another though he be your enemy. Finally the Good Book tells us Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God. Let us listen to reason for good counsels observed are chains of grace. Let us have faith for faith is necessary to victory. Let us keep to the right and stick to the truth. He who leaves the high road for bypaths thinks he gains time and loses it.

Let the next step in our Higher Education be Self Control. The man is a king who can control himself. He who reigns within himself and rules passions, desires, and fears, is more than a king. Those who command themselves can command others. The best government is that which teaches us to govern ourselves. "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty and he that ruleth his own spirit than he that taketh a city." When passion entereth at the foregate, wisdom goeth out at the back gate.

It is wise indeed to commune with our past hours, and learn what report they bore to heaven, and how they might have borne more welcome news. Let us inspect the neighborhood of our lives, every shelf, every nook of our abode. Let no sleep, come to our eyes until we have reviewed the transactions of the past day; let us ask ourselves this question, "Where have I turned aside from rectitude? What have I left undone? What am I doing toward Higher Education?"

In conclusion let us say, "Having done our best and chosen our course let us renew our trust in God and go forward without fear and with manly hearts."

Berkshires As Pork Makers

The winner in the recent Massachusetts Boys' Feeding Contest was a purebred Berkshire. She was four points above her nearest competitor and made the remarkable gain of 2 1-4 pounds daily.

Wherever accurate account of the feed consumed in relation to the gains made is kept the Berkshires gratify their adherents. A striking illustration of their feeding qualities is shown in a recent report of the New York State Prison and Charities Commission. The report covers the swine feeding records at 29 state institutions. Accurate record is kept of the amount of grain fed; the amount of garbage and table waste depends upon the daily average population. The breeds maintained include the Berkshires, Chester Whites, Yorkshires, Durock-Jerseys and Mulefoots. The cost of grain follows: Berkshires, $570; Chester Whites, $1,032; Yorkshires, $731; Durock-Jerseys, $587. It required a smaller amount of grain in addition to table waste in the herds composed of Berkshires or Berkshire grades. The amount of pork produced per capita of the prison population was—Berkshires, $2.82; Chester Whites, $2.22; Yorkshires, $1.23; Durock-Jerseys, $1.14; Mulefoot, $1c. While the Berkshires consumed less grain they produced more pork per capita.

The report of the preceding year is strikingly in favor of Berkshires. The value of the pork produced per capita from the table waste was as follows: Berkshires, $3.71; Chester Whites, $2.71; Yorkshires, $1.23; Durock-Jerseys, $1.53; Mulefoots, 65c. There is no guesswork here. The figures are accurate and a matter of record.

Bonfire Fatal for Child

While playing about a bonfire near his home 411 Madison street, Wilmington, on Saturday Albert, the four year old son of Oscar Sharp was fatally burned when his clothing came in contact with the flames. He ran screaming to his mother who tore off his burning dress. He was hurried to Delaware Hospital where he died a few hours later.

Charged With Robbing Neighbors

State Detective Murphy and Constable Vansant on Friday arrested Paul Parag, a Hungarian, living on a small farm near Smyrna charged with stealing several pigs from James Trax and corn from Charles Jones, two neighbors. Trux lost eight fine Jersey Red pigs and found Parag behind his barn with two more in a bag which he dropped when Trux opened fire on him with a gun.

Jewelry Show Case Robbed

Unknown thieves, about 2 a. m. on Friday smashed a glass show case at the entrance of 719 Market street, Wilmington, on the second floor of which Joseph Kern conducts a jewelry establishment. Seventeen watches, some scarf pins, ear rings and wrist watches were taken from the shattered case but the rest of his contents were left as the thieves did not linger to empty it entirely. James McDaniel, night watchman at the Union Bank, adjoining the Kern building discovered the shattered case which is said, was similarly robbed about a year ago. About an hour earlier on Friday morning the front one in C. E. Fink's jewelry store on Main street, Elkton, was smashed with a rock by unknown parties who secured only a few flash lights for their trouble. A reward of $50 is offered for the thieves' detection.

Death of Alfred D. Vandevan

Former Coroner Alfred D. Vandevan, a Civil War veteran and said to have been the oldest active fireman in Wilmington died at his home 1138 Walnut street, last Tuesday. He was descended from old Swedish settlers and was born in Chester county, Pa., on November 24, 1833, but had lived in Wilmington since boyhood. His funeral was held on Friday with interment in Old Swedes Cemetery.

Returning to her home, 1507 Gilpin avenue, Wilmington, from market last Wednesday morning, Mrs. Oliver Hoffman found her husband suffocated from gas pouring from an open jet in a second story room. He worked at the Bancroft Mills and had been ill with nervous trouble for some weeks past.

The new uniforms for the baseball men have just arrived. The players who make the team will get an entire new outfit this year with the exception of shoes.

Coach McAvoy was afraid to take a chance calling the baseball candidates out for practice yesterday afternoon on account of the cold damp weather. They will be out this afternoon if the weather permits.

Men are working on Joe Frazer Field and have the diamond in good shape. The cinder track will be rolled this week.

Assistant Coach Keyes is working hard with the relay candidates and is well pleased with the showing made by the men to date.

CAR SMASHED AT TENTH AND MARKET
 Driver Convalescing In Delaware Hospital

A motor ride which started from Newark last Friday night ended in disaster shortly before 10 o'clock Saturday morning at Tenth and Market streets, Wilmington. The ride was made in a big Studebaker car belonging to O. K. Strahorn, which turned turtle while rounding the corner of Tenth and Market streets.

Roy Bacon, of Newark, who was driving the car when the accident occurred was caught under it and painfully injured. He was sent to the Delaware Hospital but it has been stated at the hospital that his condition is not considered serious. The other occupants of the machine, excepting one, there being five of them, all men, disappeared immediately after the accident. The car was badly damaged.

Taxicab Man's Tale
 According to a taxicab chauffeur who witnessed the accident and who said he was in Newark at the time the trip was decided upon, the party secured the car from Charles W. Strahorn's garage in Newark, Bacon having been employed as a machinist there, and sallied forth. They ended their evening of fun at Tenth and Market streets with a crash.

Following the car up Market street was Frank L. Cates, a local insurance man, who barely escaped being struck by the car as it passed him. He arrived at the corner just in time to drag Bacon from under the car, while a number of men, attracted by the smash, raised it off his body. Michael Randolph, the only other man hurt, was thrown headlong to the sidewalk of the duPont Building. The street was strewn with broken glass and parts of the car.

Hoped to be on the Job
 Mr. Cates stated that the car was being driven up the street at a fast rate of speed, and that when they attempted to turn the corner, he speeded up his own car in order to "be there when they landed, and help some if possible."

Some called the ambulance, and Bacon and Randolph, who was not then known to be hurt, were taken to the hospital, where it was found that, aside from severe bruises and the effects of shock, neither was seriously injured. Bacon was kept in the hospital for treatment, and Randolph was discharged after receiving what attention he required.

In Former Accident
 Bacon figured in the accident in connection with the automobile races at the Delaware State Fair on September 10, 1915, when, while driving a Renault car in the three mile free-for-all race, a tire burst while his car was rounding a turn in the track, and the car turned turtle in the air, and Bacon was thrown violently to the track. He was taken to the same hospital, where it was found that two of his ribs had been fractured and that he was suffering from internal injuries, which kept him in bed under the care of his physician for a month or more.

Contribution From A "Little Citizen"

The following bit of work, from the pen of one of America's "Little Citizens," enrolled in the public school at City Point, Virginia, has come to our notice through the courtesy of Mr. C. E. Grubb, Delaware College, class of 1914, now principal of the school in the mentioned city. The young author had spent three years in the schools of Greece, previous to the emigration of his parents to America. He has been in the City Point School only a few months. Not yet able to speak the language, he is painstakingly learning to put his ideas into written word. The composition printed below was inspired by a picture:

elephant is Broad like a Barn door. He got a long snort. and he got Big feet. He got a little tail He got little eyes. He got to years A elephant has a Big head. A elephant is a Big animal. He got a mouth. They eat Pennut.

Hurt in Auto Wreck
 Roy Bacon who was seriously hurt in an automobile race at the Delaware State Fair last summer was again injured on Friday when his automobile skidded and was overturned at Tenth and Market streets, Wilmington. Michael Randolph of 707 Monroe street, and Robert Fisher of Newark who were in the car were cut and bruised.

Why I Need A Silo
 Twelve good reasons why the farmer should provide himself with a silo are given by T. B. Woodward of the Dairy Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin No. 556. Every one of them touches some spot of vital importance to the feeder.

1. More feed can be stored in a given space in the form of silage than in the form of fodder or hay.

2. There is a smaller loss of food material when a crop is made into silage than when cured as fodder or hay.

3. Corn silage is a more efficient feed than corn fodder.

4. An acre of corn can be placed in the silo at less cost than the same area can be husked and shredded.

5. Crop can be in the silo during weather that could not be utilized for making hay or curing fodder.

6. More stock can be kept on a given area of land when silage is the basis of the ration.

7. There is less waste in feeding silage than in feeding fodder. Good silage properly fed is all consumed.

8. Silage is very palatable.

9. Silage, like other succulent feeds, has a beneficial effect upon the digestive organs.

10. Silage is the cheapest and best form in which a succulent feed can be provided for winter use.

11. Silage can be used for supplementing pastures more economically than can soiling crops, because it requires less labor, and silage is more palatable.

12. Converting the corn into silage clears the land and leaves it ready for another crop.

Almost anything in the way of forage crops may be put in the silo and will keep until it is needed.

Since about the year 1880, silos have increased in number in the United States until now they are extensively used, especially in those states devoted to the dairy industry. There is a general awakening thruout this State to the fact that a good cow will give fair returns if given care and feed. The day is rapidly passing when the cow will be kept for the manure produced and to furnish labor during the few slack winter months. With this progress of the dairy industry, the silo is finding its proper place. There is no sound business reason why a man with ten cows or more should not have a silo. Over the line in Maryland, during the past year, the Dairy Extension Department has assisted in constructing a number of home-made stave silos at a reasonable cost, which are given excellent satisfaction. A number of men in this State have lumber out for stave silos and a few others plan to build concrete silos.

The dairy farmer with the silo, will tell you that his only regret is that he did not have a silo long ago. The successful business man does not put off until tomorrow what he should do today and the dairy farmer without a silo cannot afford to put off until next year the building of a silo.

The Agricultural Extension Department, Delaware College, Newark, Delaware will furnish, on request, free of charge, a bill of materials and specifications for the size and kind of a home-made stave or concrete silo a man may desire. We will gladly give personal assistance to as many as possible.

For further information write to F. A. Carroll, Agent in Dairy-ing, Newark, Delaware.

expired. Mr. Cross notified them that in case this was done the appropriation would be withheld next year.

The speaker commended the teachers of the school for planning such a splendid rally, but warned the people of the danger of depending upon means of this kind to raise money that ought to be collected through taxes.

Rather use the proceeds from a rally to gain added efficiency for the school. "If you who are men save the money that is spent for tobacco and rum," Mr. Cross said, "we can keep the schools open 180 days, which will mean better homes, better trained children, better citizenship."

The closing talk was by Miss Slowe, superintendent of the colored schools of Cecil County. Miss Slowe's address is given in another column of this paper. A letter from Dr. Mitchell, expressing his interest in the school, and extending best wishes, was read at the meeting.

FEDERAL BUILDING APPROPRIATION BILL

Representative Miller Files Petition For Newark

Representative Thomas W. Miller of Delaware has introduced a bill for a Federal building and post office at Newark, Delaware.

In the 1913 Public Building bill, former Representative Head obtained an appropriation by which a site was purchased at Newark. The chairman of the committee will probably bring out a Public Building bill in the near future. As Newark is the only town in the State in which the Government has already purchased a site, a bill for a public building in that town would have the best chances of passing. Therefore Representative Miller has introduced his bill for Newark rather than for another town where no site has already been purchased. One of the rules of the committee governing the Public Buildings bill is that the town must show a certain amount of postal receipts or else other very strong reasons why a building should be erected. The Bill Provides

That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to contract for the erection and completion of a suitable building, on the site now owned by the Government, including fireproof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus and approaches, for the use and accommodation of the United States post office and other Government offices in the town of Newark, State of Delaware, the cost of said building, including said vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus and approaches, complete, not to exceed the sum of $40,000.

board, and grease on the floor. It is not our ideal to acquire knowledge, unless it will make our lives better. The foundation of all things is obedience to God's laws, and the worthiest ambition any man can have is to do some useful thing well."

In closing Mrs. Hayward described a picture which she asked every parent to hold up before himself and his children—the picture of a little community in which every workman shall own his own comfortable home, surrounded by a little garden and a little patch of flowers; a community where there will be cement sidewalks, and well-kept streets; homes, clean and neat, in which the children shall be well-clothed and well-fed; a community in which there will be schools, fitting the boys and girls for useful trades; and where drunkenness will be so unusual that everyone will recoil in disgust.

Professor E. L. Cross superintendent of the public schools of New Castle county, was present, and congratulated the community upon the interest they are showing in education. "In a number of respects," the speaker declared, "the Newark school is the best in the colored system of New Castle County. It shows the best attendance record, it is the best disciplined, and the most efficient school. Too many teachers are satisfied to teach the 140 days required by law, and the interest here in prolonging the term is indeed encouraging." One other school in the county has more teachers than the local school. This school, however, recently notified the superintendent that they had found it necessary to close the school twenty days before the 140 required by law, had
