BROWN AND HOLLOWAY HEADS OF STATE EDUCATION

STATE BOARD ORGANIZES AND NAMES OFFICIALS

BUDGET CONSIDERED---QUESTION WHETHER SUPERVISORS CAN BE PROVIDED

Due to the preliminary meeting, reported in the Post last week, the new State Board of Education was able to perfect a speedy working organization on July 1st. The Board met at Dover, and after adopting officially the preliminary choice of officers, with Dr. Brown as president, proceeded to elect its executive staff. As State Superintendent, the Board appointed H. V. Holloway, of Dover, former superintendent of Kent county. His salary will be $5,000, the same as the salary of the former State Commissioner, Mr. Spaid.

Superintendent Holloway was a Sussex county boy from Baltimore hundred who set out to make good in the Educational field. He received his early education at Selbyville public schools and later attended Washington College, Maryland. He holds a Ph. D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania and has had very practical experience as a teacher and administrator. He was Principal of schools at Bordentown, New Jersey, for 8 years, the balance of his experience having been gained within this State. He has been a principal at New Castle and at Felton. His work as Superintendent of Kent County Schools won him the very hearty support of the people and particularly of Educators.

As assistants, Superintendent Holloway will have former superintendent of New Castle County Wilbur H. Jump, who will be in charge of the elementary schools of the State; and John Shilling, former assistant commissioner, in charge of high schools. Both of these men have excellent records in local work and are thoroughly familiar with the work they will undertake this year. The salary of assistants to the State Superintendent was fixed at $3,600. Roger L. Totten, who has been statistician for the outgoing board, was reappointed to the same position with the new board.

The new board adopted the salary schedule for teachers which has been in effect during the past year and endorsed the Federal appointees for vocational education. R. W. Heim will continue as director of vocational education; L. C. Armstrong as superintendent of agriculture and Miss Jennie Bear, of home economics. Benjamin W. Johnson will be superintendent of trades and industries.

ALMOST BURNED TO DEATH

Little Girl of Elkton in Critical Condition

With her father standing behind a barred door gazing on but unable to get to her assistance, six-year-old Margaret Seth, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Lewis Seth, of Elkton, had all the clothing burned from her at noon today. She is in a critical condition.

Her brother Andrew, two years her elder, who rushed to her aid, was burned about the hands and arms in trying to beat out the flames that enveloped his sister.

Little Margaret found some firecrackers that had been overlooked on the Fourth, and was standing on the steps of the jail residence, on North street, at noon, exploding them. In striking a match to light a firecracker she accidentally set fire to her flimsy dress.

Flames enveloped her from head to foot. Her screams attracted her brother, Andrew, who was nearby, and also Sheriff Seth, who was inside the jail. While little Andrew beat the flames that imperiled his sister in an effort to extinguish them, Sheriff Seth ran down the corridor only to find the steel-barred front door of the jail residence locked.

No keys to that door were nearby and he stood at the door gazing through the bars at his little daughter as she writhed in agony while every stitch of clothing on her was burned away. By that time some persons from along North Street dashed to her aid. She was carried into the jail residence, where physicians early this afternoon were ministering to her in an endeavor to bring about her recovery. Her body was horribly seared and blistered, and it is feared she inhaled flames.

President Hullihen Addresses Summer School

President Hullihen addressed the Summer School students yesterday in chapel. In his speech, President Hullihen emphasized the fact that the University is a part of the public school system, and simply a continuation of the public school. Both the University and the public school have the same aims.

Stiltz Has Purchased Huge New Bus

Mr. Alfred Stiltz has purchased a huge, new Clydesdale motor bus. The car body was specially built at Paterson, New Jersey. The car is nineteen feet long and ten feet wide, and will accommodate comfortably 28 persons. The limit of its capacity is 45 persons. The inside of the car is arranged like a trolley car with cane covered seats arranged in two rows and facing the driver.

Mr. Stiltz will run the bus ordinarily on his Newark-Wilmington route, and will also take special parties.

Two Graham busses Mr. Stiltz had ordered have not yet arrived, as they were wrecked while on their way here. These cars were being shipped by rail from Indiana. A tracer sent out two weeks after they were due to arrive in Newark found them to have been wrecked in a train collision in Pennsylvania. Mr. Stiltz immediately notified the company from which the cars were ordered, and new ones are now being sent.

The Clydesdale car is the largest passenger bus ever operated in Newark. With the addition of these cars to those already run between here and Wilmington, Newark people are insured prompt and comfortable service between Newark and Wilmington.

Festival at Appleton Tonight

The Appleton Baseball Club will hold a festival this evening for the benefit of the team. Everyone is invited to come out for a good time and to help the club. If it should rain the affair will be held tomorrow evening.

Clark Property Purchased

Mr. Robert C. Levis, manager of the Curtis Paper Mills, has recently purchased the property known as the Clark house, on Main Street. Repairs will be made and the property improved. Mr. Levis expects to take up his residence there some time in the fall.

Damage at McDonough

Lightning struck the barn on the farm of Albert Kumpel, east of McDonough last Wednesday night. The fire destroyed the barn and considerable harness and grain. All the livestock was saved. The loss of the barn was estimated at $2,000.

Lightning also struck and destroyed a number of wheat shocks in the fields around Back Bridge.

GREAT SPORT EVENT

LOCAL GIRL PLAYS PART OF BABE RUTH BENEFIT BASEBALL FOR CARNIVAL

The most interesting news of the season's sporting world is the announcement of the baseball game to be played in Newark on Saturday, July 16th.

The ladies of the Accounting Department will play the ladies of the Sales Department of the du Pont Company on the local grounds. The game will be a benefit to the Newark Carnival Fund.

Miss Emma Willis of Newark plays the part of Babe Ruth on one of the teams.

Details of the event will be given next week. Arrangements are being made to handle the crowd. It promises to be the event and feature of a Decade. International Polo, Golf, Congress, Yacht Racing, Dempsey and Carpentier and Delaware Politics fade into insignificance compared to the coming event.

Parent-Teachers Association to Meet

State Organization to Hold Convention in Newark

Interesting Program Arranged

Representatives of Parent-Teacher Associations will assemble on Thursday at the University of Delaware to meet with teachers and discuss the program for the coming year. An executive session which it is believed will be attended by perhaps fifty presidents from local organizations, will be held in Wolf Hall at eleven-thirty. Luncheon will be served to the visitors at "the commons" following the morning meeting.

At two p. m. a joint meeting of the executive committee and teachers from the summer school, to which the public is invited, will be held in the Wolf Hall auditorium. Mrs. John B. Cleaver, State president of the parent-teacher Association, will preside at the meeting.

The session will open with a song recital arranged by Mrs. Frances de Witt Babcock, soprano, assisted by J. Wales Davis, tenor. Miss Margery Hamilton Hill will be the accompanist. All of the artists are from Wilmington. The following program will be given:

Songs, (a) June Time, by Speaks, and (b) Will 'O the Wisp, by Spross, Mrs. Babcock;

Songs (a) The Pipes of Gordon's Men, by Hammond, (b) I know a Hill by Whelpey, Mr. Davis; Bird Songs, Wood Pigeon and Yellow Hammer, by Liza Lehmann, Mrs. Babcock;

Duet, I Know a Rosebud Shining, from "The Rose Maiden," by Cowen, Mrs. Babcock and Mr. Davis.

Addresses will be given by Dr. R. W. Cooper, director of the Bureau of Education, Service Citizens of Delaware, and Miss Louise Connelley, who is in charge of Library Work in the public schools of Newark, N. J. Miss Connelley will talk on "The Child and the Book." Teachers from the schools will give informally short accounts of their experiences in Parent-Teacher work last winter.

Everybody Ready for Carnival

The Carnival will start Saturday evening. The street electric sign is up, the plans of the various committees are about complete and every one is eager for the send off. The details have been given publicity in previous issues and there is no new word to add except the slogan of Chairman Wilson—The Greatest Ever and the Muehst Time Newark ever had.

A new feature for this year will be the open air tent for movies. The old style roofed in is too hot for Newark. This attraction with an exceptional program will probably add to the popularity and receipts of this feature.

Farm Bureau Probes Farm Economics

"What's the Matter with Agriculture?" to be Discussed

Local Farmers to Discuss National Problem

The New Castle County Farm Bureau is going to help answer the question, "what is the matter with agriculture?" Next Saturday, July 9, at 1.30 p. m., standard time, an open hearing will be held in the Federal Building, Sixth and King Streets, Wilmington at which representative farmers will testify relative to the causes of the present agricultural situation. Frank F. Yearsley, President of the New Castle Farm Bureau, has appointed the following representatives to make reports: "The Wheat Market," Lee Hofferker of Bear and H. C. Milliken of Porter; "Corn Market," J. T. Shallcross, Middletown, and H. L. Dilworth, Centerville; "Dairy Situation," P. E. Pleasanton, Odessa, William Munday, Hockessin, and J. D. Reynolds of Middletown.

The hearing has been prompted by the hearing which begins at Washington, of the Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry appointed by Congress to investigate the cause of the present agricultural situation. The Commission will report to Congress how agriculture can be put on a stable and permanent basis. A stenographic report of the county hearing will be communicated to this Joint Commission.

The following is the outline which the Commission has instructed the Farm Bureau to follow:

1. The causes of the present condition of agriculture.
2. The cause of the difference between the prices of agricultural products paid to the producer and the ultimate cost to the consumer.
3. The comparative condition of industries other than agriculture.
4. The relation of prices of commodities other than agricultural products to such products.
5. The banking and financial resources and credits of the country especially as effecting agricultural credits.
6. The marketing and transportation facilities of the country.

Service at the Presbyterian Church

Chancellor Wolcott assumed his new duties at the Court of Chancery yesterday morning in Wilmington. He was met at the parlors of the court by his predecessor Chancellor Curtis, who presented the details pending, to the new official. ## New Drug Store and "Jim" Hastings

A new up-to-date Drug Store for Newark is the latest announcement. James C. Hastings popularly known here, there and everywhere as Jim Hastings, will open a drug store some time during September in the Opera House Building in part of the space now occupied by the Continental Store.

"Jim" Hastings is known in Newark as a student, as a soldier, as Musical Director, Cheer Leader, or anything that requires hustle. He is a gentleman of the hail-fellow-well-met type.

All Newark will welcome him. He knows the business, knows the needs of the town, knows the opportunity and he is here after it.

Aside from the Drug Store, the usual soda fountain, cigar stand and novelties will attract the trade for his graceful consideration and attention.

This is not a Post boost announcement but a town sentiment expressed before they hear of it.

Cecil County Tax Rate Cut 20 Cents

The Board of Commissioners of Cecil County have fixed the tax rate at $1.50 on the hundred dollars. This is a reduction of 20 cents and is welcomed by all property owners.

MARYLAND SUPERINTENDENT ADDRESSES SUMMER SCHOOLS

MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR TRAINED TEACHERS

CONGRATULATES DELAWARE'S TRAINING COURSE

Dr. Albert S. Cook, Superintendent of Maryland Public Schools, gave the first lecture of the Summer School Lecture Course series provided by the Service Citizens of Delaware, Wednesday night, June 29. Dr. Cook's lecture was of particular interest to teachers.

Dr. Cooper introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Cook, whose subject was "Training Teachers for Service." "You cannot improve the schools without first improving the teachers," said Dr. Cook. "I have seen poor teaching in a room as beautiful as this, and some of the best teaching I have ever seen was in a room no better than a stable. Equipment is not all. The teacher is the school. Maryland has taken the following motto quoted from the National Education Association, 'I should like to see a competent well trained teacher in hearty accord with American ideals in every public school position in the United States.'"

The speaker compared the situation of the elementary schools in Delaware to that in Maryland, saying that the conditions are practically identical in both states. In reference to teacher training, he stated that Maryland ranks just above the average of the United States, so that what applies to the situation in Maryland applies to teacher training in most schools in the country and particularly to the schools of Delaware.

In speaking of the causes of lack of training, he cited the fact that high schools are lacking in Maryland, forty-one being opened in the last ten months. In some of the mountainous districts of Maryland elementary schools have been closed within the last three years. Dr. Cook believes that any teacher is better than no teacher at all. And in Maryland where the law authorizes a school board to select the best qualified person in the community to teach, whether she has completed the normal, high or elementary school, there were thirty-one schools in one county closed for lack of teachers. "Schools taught by fine American young girls without anything but a common school education," the speaker said, "are better than no school at all. But this means that it takes two years for the child to learn to read while in a good city system it takes five months. Untrained teachers mean simply that the child spends more time in learning."

Dr. Cook outlined the situation of teacher training in Maryland. "One third of the teaching force of the elementary schools have no professional or secondary school training—nothing but an elementary schooling. One third have a fairly good preparation, that is, one third are high school graduates with no professional training except one or two sessions of summer school. One third are well trained, that is they are high school graduates with two years professional training. This means that one child in five is taught by a teacher with no academic or professional training."

"Why is it that two-thirds of our teachers are practically untrained?" Dr. Cook did not criticize the personnel of the teaching force—on the contrary, he congratulated the personnel. "Many girls can not afford to travel to the high schools when these are at a distance from their homes, so that these girls have no opportunity for attending the high schools. A girl, after graduating from a high school, and taking a six months business course, can earn in two years more than a Normal school graduate will ever earn. The reason that teachers are not trained is that they are not paid. We have never, as a nation, sold education to ourselves in the way of being willing to pay for it.

"Parent-Teachers' organizations, farmers, and taxpayers say that you always want more money for the schools. We pay twice as much now as we paid ten years ago and then do not have better trained teachers. But all expenses and salaries are doubling also, and by doubling, the salary remains only the same. We are struggling along.

"In considering the expenditures of the government for war, and of the people for luxuries, we gain confidence to ask for increased appropriations for teachers' salaries. More money was spent by our government in two years of war than has been spent for education since the founding of the Republic. The tobacco bill for a year is two times the amount spent on teachers' salaries.

"Why is there always a quarrel over school taxes? The reason is because the school tax is direct, and when we pay a school tax we know it. When we pay the tax on luxuries, cigars, soda, soft drinks, chewing gum, we do not feel it. The direct tax in Maryland is four and one-half million dollars. The total tax is fifteen million dollars, and no indirect tax is spent on education. It is up to the voters to study the situation to know whether or not a just proportion of our tax goes for education." Dr. Cook believes that the people would be just as willing to pay school taxes if they paid a little at a time. "We pay twenty-two times as much luxury tax as tax for education, but we don't know when we are giving it. When we pay our school tax all at once it looks as big as a mountain."

"Politicians say that we can get all the money we want for education if they can get a higher grade of teaching—a fair business proposition. We should meet it in a fair way. How are we to provide better trained teachers? It would take every high school graduate of this past year to fill the vacant teaching positions. Only a small percent of these will go to Normal school. We must get our trained teachers, then, by training those already in the service through summer schools, through extension courses and through competent, adequate, expert supervision.

"Educational authorities everywhere recognize the importance of the summer schools. They give credit for thirty-six weeks college work for doing twenty-four weeks of summer school.

"The second method of training teachers in service is by extension work. In Maryland they propose to press the idea of taking the school to the teacher. The state owes a debt to the community and the teacher. The extension course is given without expense to the teacher, so that the Normal school is taken to the teacher during the school year.

The third method of training, competent supervision, the speaker emphasized particularly. "A Normal school graduate," he said, "is no more a finished product than a medical school graduate. If teaching is a profession, we cannot expect to take a high school graduate, give her two years training, and turn her out a finished product. But she is an apprentice teacher. The very fact that she is well trained makes it important that we have some one to guide her." Dr. Cook compared the conditions of the practice teacher in the Normal school to the conditions of teaching in the field. "The Normal school teacher teaches for not more than two hours a day, is not paid, is responsible only to her teachers; the teacher in the field teaches all day, is paid, and is responsible to the community. The Normal school graduate is more worth while taking care of than the teacher without any training. She will deteriorate in the one-room rural school without competent, careful supervision. In Maryland the State Department has made a concrete study of groups of schools working with and without supervision. One group, where careful supervision had been in effect for eight years showed after scientific tests that the children measured up to the standard for town and village schools; a second group of exactly the same type, where the teachers were unsupervised revealed the fact that the children were two years behind the same standard."

Dr. Cook lectured under the difficult conditions of a hot night and severe electrical storm, and finished his talk in total darkness. He congratulated his audience on their attention under the trying circumstances.

After the lecture, the Summer School girls, at the suggestion of Miss Mary E. Rich, dean of the Summer School, bravely sang familiar songs until the lights came on, and buses arrived to take them to the dormitories.

Dr. Cook lectured under the difficult conditions of a hot night and severe electrical storm, and finished his talk in total darkness. He congratulated his audience on their attention under the trying circumstances.

Twenty Princeton Students Share the Wage-Earners Life

If jobs can be found, twenty undergraduates of Princeton University expect to live this summer by the pay envelope alone. For the purpose of studying industry at first hand and of bringing experience rather than theory to the problems of relationship between employers and wage-earners, they will work and live under the conditions made necessary by the kind of employment they secure. Week end meetings are planned for, when the student wage-earners will discuss their varied experiences and prepare reports for future use. Looking forward to these meetings will doubtless help in getting through the grind of the week end by the end of the summer the hard work should be richly compensated for, by experience and associations which may or may not be productive of important industrial improvements.

HELP WANTED

A motorist came upon another whose machine had broken down on the road. In the disabled car sat a woman.

"Need any assistance?" inquired the newcomer courteously.

The other man lifted his flushed and grimy face from under the hood. "Yes," he replied, "I wish you'd answer my wife's questions while I'm fixing this infernal engine."—Boston Transcript.

Women on the Farm

Farm women are more and more taking advantage of opportunities, not open to city women to earn their own spending money in the various enterprises it is possible to conduct on the farm. Ways of doing this are taught by the home demonstration agents, whose special duties it is to establish helpful contact with families in their respective districts. Some of the stories told by the home demonstration agents in their reports to the United States Agriculture Board are interesting.

There probably is no busier woman than a certain Mrs. Vallentine, living on a farm in Jackson county, Ark. Mrs. Vallentine raised two acres of garlic at 30 cents a pound and 15,000 pounds of seeds, or top sets. In addition, this woman manages several rice plantations in another county.

Farm women have all kinds of money-making plans, every one of them involving work and patience and determination. A Mrs. Hilliard, near Athens, Ga., sold $855 worth of pork in 1920, the result of her own labor, and now has several milk cows with which she expects to earn more money. A woman near Hobart, Okla., chose sheep as her particular activity. From five head, her start, she raised eleven in 1918. Six rams were sold for $49 and wool brought $24. The second year, 1919, her wool sold for $49 and her sheep for $49. In 1920 this woman sold $100 worth of wool and had sixty sheep in her flock. Her sheep are worth about $500. She always has a little money coming in, and does very little work to earn it.

A farmer's wife living near Manchester, Tenn., has a flock of 135 Rhode Island Red fowls that produced $345 worth of products last year at a cost of about $160.

Mrs. Mary Pettiger, near Fairview, Okla., went into the poultry business with a real vim. In 1919 she set 2500 eggs and sold 1015 chicks, 200 pullets, 2313 dozen eggs and 700 eggs for hatching. She reports net returns of $1,943 in the year. Her principal expense besides feed was $75 for an incubator and $23 for a brooder. Feed some of which she had to buy, was charged at market price.—New York Times.

Menus for the Housewife to be Prepared at College

A new department is being established at Leland Stanford University for the purpose of teaching the American public how the live economically and to get the proper food values for health and strength. The Carnegie Foundation has appropriated sufficient money to organize and conduct the new food research institute at Leland Stanford on a scale that will permit the sending of food budgets and bulletins throughout the country.

We Carry a Gamp

In a recent English story we found the word gamp, used apparently without suspicion that it might not be the usual word in the reader's vocabulary for a large umbrella. Upon looking up the word in the dictionary we found that it is supposed to have originated from a character in Charles Dickens' novel "Martin Chuzzlewit"—Mrs. Sairy Gamp. Whether the story writer was aware of the origin or not, it is our conclusion that he hated umbrellas, those he lent and lost, those he borrowed and lost, in fact any umbrella at all, even when it saved his new summer headgear from ruin. It is so much more satisfying to say, where is that confounded gamp?—than to make a similarly impatient inquiry about an umbrella. Henceforth we carry a gamp—when we carry one.

TWICE GUILTY

"Did the traffic cop arrest you?" "Twice," replied Mr. Chuggins. "When I couldn't stop he arrested me for speeding, and when I finally stopped and couldn't start, he arrested me for blocking traffic."—Washington Star.

Wilmington to Hold Peninsula Sales Week

The Mercantile Section of the Chamber of Commerce of Wilmington has arranged for a special shopping event to be held on July 11, 12 and 13, for the benefit of customers throughout the Peninsula. Every store in the business section of the city will have on sale a wide range of timely goods, so priced that they will be particularly attractive to buyers everywhere.

The experience of shoppers at the Dollar Day sales conducted by the members of the Mercantile Section is the strongest possible guarantee that buyers will receive real, economical bargains at this sale.

Local Ik Walton Club Gets a Bite

Members of the local Ik Walton Club are getting out rod and reel and slipping away from the heat, gossip and turmoil of business and study. Dean Smith and Dr. Dutton were caught by a Post observer on the Fourth down at Chesapeake City. Luck reported bad but fishing good.

Ben Eubanks and Willard Bradley tell the best stories of the season and produce fishermen's evidence of their veracity. Last Thursday at Lake Como, Smyrna, they captured 11 bass. The weight naturally is a matter of speculation—but they were truly fine.

ORIGINAL IDEA

A Japanese "boy" came to the home of a minister in Los Angeles recently and applied for a position. Now it happened that the house was already well supplied with servants, so the minister's wife said, "I am sorry, but we really haven't enough work to keep another boy busy." "Madame," said the Oriental politely, "I am sure that you must have. You may not know what a little bit of work it takes to keep me employed."—Christian Register.

the public schools in 1916. In other words, Delaware spent $34.69 on each pupil, while 24 other states paid $50 or more per pupil."

The Case Stated bluntly
These figures are carried along to support the argument until one is struck by a paragraph which states the equation bluntly:

"No one knows how many persons in Delaware pay an income tax to the State, but some one has estimated that ten persons pay more than one-half the income tax which goes to the support of the elementary schools, and that 115 persons in the State pay three-fourths of the entire income tax. If this is anywhere near the truth, why should men, many of them paying no income tax at all, object if the State out of its abundance should appropriate an additional sum to help educate their children and their neighbor's children, when the present appropriation for public schools amounts to only 42.2 per cent. of the State's income?"

The report, which is from the press of The Star Publishing Company, is particularly replete, covering no less than 238 pages. To give the index alone would fill nearly three-quarters of a newspaper column.

Mention should be made of sections devoted to Americanization work and to vocational education. These provide compendiums useful not alone to instructors in Delaware but to those of other states because of the advanced point to which both have been carried. Excellent full-page illustrations tend to visualize the work that is being carried on.—From the Star.

N. Y. State Secures Two Eminent Educators

As State Commissioner of Education, New York is to have Dr. Frank Pierrpont Graves, Dean of the School of Education of the University of Pennsylvania, who has just accepted the appointment. Dr. Graves is one of the best known educators in the country with a wide and successful experience in important administration and teaching positions. During his time at the University of Pennsylvania he has been offered the presidency of six colleges and universities. He is a writer and speaker of note on modern educational aims, methods and practical attainment. The friends of education in New York have expressed a very hearty satisfaction at the selection of so able a man. Dr. Graves will succeed Dr. John H. Finley, whose resignation after his distinguished service in New York State, presented a difficult task in the choice of a successor.

A second prominent educator, Dr. Livingston Farrand, will go to New York as the president of Cornell University, which is partly supported by the State and generally regarded as a state institution.
New York has acted in these two cases upon the truth that should guide the choice of all educators: nothing but the best is ever good enough for the education of a State's future citizens.

DELAWARE'S SCHOOLS IN LINE FOR ADVANCE

Report of State Board of Education for 1920 Shows Foundation Laid

The annual report of the State Board of Education showing the condition of the public schools of Delaware for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, just issued, is of particular pertinence at present because it shall have to serve very largely as a guide-mark for the new State Board until the report for 1921 is printed.

There are two chapters of special interest. One is entitled "School Finances," the other "Why Delaware Ranks so Low in Education." In some respects it is better to consider the latter first, as it represents rather the defects while the former suggests the remedies.

The point is accentuated that in the rating given Delaware by Dr. Leonard P. Ayres, one of the foremost experts on school statistics in the Union, average attendance and average expenditure per school child form highly important factors. Dr. Ayres found that Delaware ranked 38th among her sister States in point of average days attended by each child of school age, and 30th in the average number of days the schools were kept open, based upon figures covering a period of 30 years up to April, 1920.

In this connection point is made by the report just issued that while "Delaware's index number has been increasing through the years, the increase has been slower than that of the other states, which have outstripped the Diamond State. In rank the State has gone back from 27th (in 1900) to 38th (in 1918) until not one northern state except West Virginia, was lower in rank than Delaware."

It is added, however, that "the increase in the State's index in the last two years (1920 and 1921) warrants the prediction that Delaware will not rank much below the middle when the figures for 1920 for the other states come in, certainly not below the 30th."

State, in Reality, Rich

As to school finances it is remarked that "if a state is too poor to extend sufficient state aid to local districts, the children must necessarily suffer." Here enters a digression as to the wealth, or resources, of Delaware.

Based on the census for 1920, the report points out that there are 228,003 persons in the State; that allowing 4 1/2 persons to a family, there are 49,556 families in the commonwealth. Yet for the year 1920, 18,350 automobile licenses were issued, which means that every third family in the State owns an automobile.

"If the average cost of these cars is placed at $1,000 each, the people of Delaware have invested in automobiles $18,350,000," the report concludes.

Again: Delaware's expenditures for roads and its assessed valuation of over $200,000,000 "would indicate that the State is far from being a poverty-stricken commonwealth." But the fact that the state "ranks first in wealth on a basis of the amount of income and profits tax paid by its citizens to the Federal Government for the past three or four years," further is cited as self-evident proof of Delaware's dereliction with regard to its support of its common schools.

Says the report: "In spite of the fact that Delaware stood first in this rating (Federal income tax) it ranked only thirty-second as to the amount paid per pupil on average daily attendance in

Wilmington and the Farmer

If Wilmington wants Farm Produce direct from the Farm, it is approaching the time when she must seriously consider accommodations for the farmer. Most up-to-date cities are inviting the farmer to town with his produce and making conditions attractive in the way of Market Houses, Refrigerating Plants and Storage Houses.

This was called to our attention this week in conversation with a farmer who has attended King Street market for years. In discussing his business, he said,

"Good roads are changing market conditions very seriously. Wilmington dealers and truckers are beginning to run auto trucks out here and buy up our produce. They offer good prices and save us the hard day's trip. The absence from the farm two days a week, the wear and tear on equipment and the conditions of a street market make the life of a King Street Market man a hard one. To stand there exposed to the weather is a serious consideration. Unless a market house is provided and storage accommodations made possible, the day of the Farmers' Market is almost gone."

This does represent the trend. The farmer will get almost as much for his produce and be left free at home, to devote all his time to work. Wilmington, on the other hand will pay the cost of hauling plus the profit of the middle man which will be greater than that now charged by the farmer. Another disadvantage, the consumer will not be so assured of fresh products as he is under the present regime. Again, Wilmington merchants will certainly feel the loss of trade now given twice a week.

For some reason or another, Wilmington has not at all times given the farmer a cordial reception. Officially, he is permitted rather than invited to come. This attitude is not the fault of Wilmington alone. Farmers (so-called) have and do take advantage and do not cooperate. But the bona-fide farmer is an advantage to the city consumer and most of those on King Street are bona-fide. If they are not, it is the fault of the city.

Wilmington newspapers, merchants and the various organizations can serve well by making the farmer welcome and comfortable. A market house and storage plant would do much toward establishing closer relations between Wilmington and rural Delaware. And nothing would so insure the development of trade than some such plan.

Newark's Opportunity

Newark is indeed fortunate in its opportunity to hear the country's best in thought and music. During the College year, we had a series of lectures and musical events that could not be surpassed by any college town in the country. Now by virtue of the Summer School and courtesy of the Service Citizens we have another series open and free to the public that challenges more than ordinary attention. Such names as Glenn Frank, Mary Antin, Herbert Miller, Mrs. Cunningham, Eleanor Patterson, Dr. Peck, are national in prominence and significance. They are leaders in American thought and this community is given the exceptional opportunity to hear them under such favorable circumstances. Aside from these are the musical events which seem especially attractive. Then again, Mrs. Friedewald, Dr. Mitchell, Bishop Cook and Dr. Odell, well known here, always draw crowds of interested friends.

Newark is so often and happily blessed with such visitors that sometimes, the very custom and frequency causes an oversight of a great lecture or musical event. So this is just to call attention to the exceptional program before you. It reads like a National Chautauqua and is worthy of our note and attention.

Mayor Taylor

Mayor Taylor of Wilmington went into office after a campaign of factional sneers and insinuations. He comes out of office with the admiration and respect of every citizen in the State. Those who did not agree with him in policy or appointment recognized always the gentleman and respected the honesty of purpose. He leaves the office with a host of friends. He gave of his time without stint and gave ungrudgingly his best—and in return has received the admiration of all parties and factions.

Congratulations to Mayor Harvey

In a civic sense, Wilmington is just another name for opportunity. And that opportunity is yours, if you accept it in the spirit of the times. Wilmington is a great city but its real greatness is forecasted by present opportunities and responsibilities.

It has location, about to be realized in the harbor development. It has a park system unsurpassed, needing only appreciation. It is a city of homes, but more are needed; a city of beautiful streets, only to be improved; a city of great educational opportunities, about to be recognized. A city of big business with opportunities not yet realized. It needs a system of government in keeping with modern business methods.

All these you realize as does all Wilmington and all Delaware. It needs most of all a leader and you are in position to assume such role.

Just now in these days of readjustment, public opinion is ready for crystallization. The attitude of Wilmington's mind seems to us receptive to any worthy and worth-while plan. You can serve well by leading this into practical movements for a Greater Wilmington.

Wilmington IS a great city, with great business, great architecture, great churches, great generosity and a people of great ability and patriotism. A city of great opportunity—and you are its Mayor.

Rural Delaware offers congratulations.

England Salutes Washington

England has a growing recognition for American Heroes. A few weeks ago, a tablet was placed at the ancestral home of Lincoln and now, by gift of the State of Virginia, the statue of Washington has been unveiled in the heart of London. For years, she has preserved Sulgrave, the English home of the Washingtons. Now the flag of the Stars and Stripes fly in Trafalgar.

Of good omen, this. And if the Statue of Washington convinces the Britisher with the same power as the Original, England will begin to understand more clearly, respect more openly and honor more generously, that "Experiment in Democracy" known as America.

When Washington, Lafayette and Cornwallis hold conference and announce to the world that the Decision was unanimous—then, indeed, the Peace of the World is at hand.

An American Salesman Dies

With the death of the Honorable Charles J. Bonaparte at Baltimore on June 28th, America loses another of her most distinguished citizens and statesmen, and also a link with one of the three greatest figures in history. Mr. Bonaparte was the grand-nephew of the great Napoleon. His grandfather was Jerome Bonaparte, the Emperor's brother, who became King of Westphalia. Jerome Bonaparte in his young days, as a French officer in command of a frigate, landed in New York in 1803. While visiting Baltimore, he fell in love with the daughter of a prominent American merchant, Edward Patterson. Miss Betsy Patterson's hand was won and the two were married in Baltimore in December, 1803. After living a year in this country, Bonaparte with his wife embarked for Europe. Upon arriving at Lisbon, they were met by the refusal of the Emperor Napoleon to allow the bride to land. The Emperor had planned for his brother a more ambitious marriage which would advance the interests of the French Empire. Jerome parted with his wife, never to see her again, and later, by the arrangement of his powerful brother, married the Princess of Wurtemberg. The oldest son of Jerome Bonaparte, also named Jerome, was the father of the distinguished American citizen who has just died, Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore. The latter was born in Baltimore in 1851. He was a lawyer, and a close friend of the late President Roosevelt, serving as Secretary of the Navy in 1905 and 1906, and as Attorney General through the remainder of Roosevelt's administration. Charles J. Bonaparte leaves behind him an enviable record of public service, and of work for social and educational welfare, and also to those who knew him, the memory of a delightful personality. Mr. Bonaparte was an eloquent speaker; his learning and wit combined with an integrity of mind and action gave him the power to influence his fellow men and to get from life a wide experience and enjoyment. In his later years he spoke smilingly of his "Somewhat protracted and misspent career," which only brought the more urgent wish from his friends that these "misspent" years might continue for the service and inspiration of a present and coming generation.

Trip Tickets Influence Trade

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce could attract buyers to their city by making some arrangement whereby residents of nearby towns could secure reduced railroad rates. Philadelphia does well when she secures the 10-trip ticket for Wilmingtonians. A similar plan for Newark would attract buyers to stop off rather than go to Philadelphia. A ten-trip ticket from Newark, with transferable privileges, to Wilmington, would increase sales in that city. The Chamber of Commerce of Wilmington can probably bring this to pass. There is entirely too much trade going from Newark to Philadelphia that rightfully belongs to our own city. A ten-trip ticket will help stop it.

A LOG IN THE DAM

My little girl received a picture puzzle the other day, from a friend who had been visiting her. Last night after the household was asleep, I was sitting at my desk trying to work. In reviewing the old year, things didn't seem to come out right—every thing dead wrong. They had been wrong all day. Little worries of details had formed a conspiracy, seemingly, against me. Honest opinions had been challenged, motives questioned,—in their solid alignment even the evening lamp and favorite book failed to dispel the fears, resulting from a too hard day.

Impossible—What's the Use—Misunderstood—that Trinity of Defeat, stood before me and demanded my surrender. In the language of the street—or better, the country road—I had the blues. Seeing the picture puzzle before me, where "Boots" had left it, I began, almost unconsciously, to put the fantastic pieces together. I experienced no difficulty in matching the cards. Then came a card, rather jig-saw in shape, apparently of little importance, yet it puzzled me to find its place. Not until that card was used could I find place for the others. My curiosity was aroused. I wanted to see the complete picture. Forgetting thoughts of self of a few moments before, I set to work in earnest. Finding the position for my little insignificant, fantastically cut card, the picture was soon complete.

There on the desk before me was a beautiful scene of peaceful nature, a wooded stream. In the distance was the old mill, with its poetic wheel. Painted, I guessed, by one who had played there in boyhood, it had the technique showing the touch of an artist. Yet these touches were so blended that in admiration of the picture, one lost sight of the minute details that made it great.

I looked at it long. I could almost hear the splash of the moss covered paddles, the whirring moan of the grist stones. Watching the sun sinking there in the west back of the old mill hole, I forgot the worries of the day and boyishly prided myself on my success with this simple little picture puzzle.

But the jig-saw card—so insignificant in itself, yet necessary to the picture! Why, that's myself! Perhaps I have a place, after all. The New Year means a new day, another opportunity. I'll try again.

I tore up the picture reluctantly and found the card representing my mental state of the hour previous. It was an old log in the dam. I smiled to myself—I am a part of the world's old dam and here I was resenting the accusation.

Yet the dam was necessary. The old log was necessary to the picture, to the mill and to the grist of the neighborhood.

So I'll take, again, my part tomorrow—a log in the dam.—Reprint from Newark Post.

Boulden, of Elkton. Mr. Boulden is well known in Elkton and vicinity as the keeper of an up-to-date garage in that city. During the war, Mr. Boulden served in the United States Naval Reserves.

Dance for Newark Visitor

Among those present were the Misses Hochwald and Wagner of Philadelphia, Frank Balling of Wilmington, Dan Finkbone of Reading, and Bond Brown.

Mr. Hochwald was formerly Assistant Sales Agent of the Lorraine Steel Company of Philadelphia and has just recently been transferred to the general office at Johnstown. He was much interested in Newark and its prospective development. He visited the various plants and institutions in town.

Presbyterian Minister

The Rev. H. Everett Hallman, of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of Newark. Mr. Hallman is a native of New York State. He graduated from Hamilton College, New York, and later from the Princeton Theological Seminary. His first charge was at Frankford, Delaware. His second charge was the one he was holding when he was called to the Newark church, at Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He served in this place nine years.

The Newark church has been without a regular minister since May, 1920, and the congregation has had some difficulty in securing a candidate favorable to every one. Mr. Hallman was called by a unanimous vote, and every member of the congregation is sincerely glad that he has accepted. The pulpit has been filled by supplies, the church never but once or twice being without a minister to conduct a Sunday service. Mr. Hallman will come to Newark some time before July 17, when he is assured a hearty welcome by the entire congregation.

Variety Shower to Bride

Mrs. Harry H. Cleaves of Providence, was the surprised recipient last Wednesday evening of many beautiful and useful gifts. The occasion was a variety shower, given Mrs. Cleaves by Miss Marion Strickland at her home in Elkton, where between thirty and forty guests had gathered. And a real variety shower it proved to be. From cut glass bowls and linen to floor mops and pots and pans, gifts poured upon the surprised bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleaves, who were married in April, have been making their home in Providence until their bungalow, which they are building on Kells Avenue here, is completed. They expect to move into their new home some time during the latter part of this month.

Peninsula Sales Week

By arrangement of the Mercantile Section of the Chamber of Commerce of Wilmington, a special shopping event will be held on July 11, 12, and 13. The reason for this particular occasion is the determination of Wilmington merchants to show the Peninsula that Delaware is the place to buy.

Chapel Speech Tomorrow

Miss Olive Hartlove, trained nurse, who is in charge of the Red Cross Work in the Summer School is to speak tomorrow in chapel on "Health."

President's Reception

President and Mrs. Hullihen entertain the Summer School this evening at The Knoll. The reception is to be held immediately after the Glenn Frank lecture.

University Graduate Elected to Faculty

Alexander Blair, of Wilmington, has been made Instructor in English and History at the University of Delaware. Mr. Blair will be remembered in Newark as a student, graduating from the institution in 1920. He received his early education at the Wilmington High School. Last year he was instructor in History at the High School of Wilmington, where he attracted the attention of the University authorities.

Mr. Blair left this week for Columbia University where he will take the Summer Course of six weeks in his special work. He will assume his new duties at the opening of the next term.

House Party Over the Fourth

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wilson entertained at their bungalow on the Northeast river over the Fourth. Those in the party were: Mrs. A. W. Moore, Misses Margaret Anderson, Nellie Wilson, Leta Waters, Winnie Fader, Lydia Fader, Eleanor Fader, Sarah Steele and Violet Fader, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Steele, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Reed, Misses Betty Ewald of Philadelphia, and Dorothy Murrey, James Conner of Baltimore, Maryland, and Miss Helen Fader, of Washington, D. C.

Rev. Frank Herson Gives Address in Cecilton

Cecilton Community held a patriotic meeting there on Monday, July 4th. A number of the children gave appropriate drills and one young lady gave several good readings. The Cecilton Band which was organized by Prof. Edwards at the same time as the Continental Band, rendered some very good music, directed by Prof. Edwards. Rev. Frank Herson of Newark gave an interesting address on "Have We Discovered America?" which was received with out of the ordinary enthusiasm.

After the address, a supper was held on the lawn of one of the homes, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Cecilton Methodist Church and the Cecilton Band, the proceeds of which were to be divided equally between them.

Last year they held a similar supper and netted a profit of $400. The crowd was much larger on Monday evening and no doubt the proceeds will be higher. Many Newark people attended both the patriotic meeting and the supper.

Dairy Judging Team Picked this Week

Who is the best judge of dairy cattle among the members of the New Castle County Boys' and Girls' Pure Bred Dairy Cattle Clubs? This is the question that will be determined Thursday, July 14, when the members of the Club will take an auto tour through New Castle county inspecting several of the club heifers and four or five of the better dairy herds.

The tour will enable the members to learn the methods used by the other members of the club in caring for their heifers. However, the dominant purpose of the tour is to determine the team that will represent New Castle county in the dairy cattle judging contest at the State Fair. Dairy cattle judging contests will be held on these four or five farms, and the three members standing highest will constitute the team that is to be sent to the fair.

The judging contest at the State Fair is of special importance as the winning team will represent Delaware at the Eastern States Exposition held this fall at Springfield, Mass.

Picnic Over the Fourth

A merry party from Newark picniced over the Fourth at Ott's Shore on the Elk River. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson and little daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Heim, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Samuels, Miss Gladys Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bausman, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Whitler, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Manns and family, Mr. M. O. Pence and Mr. Lambert Ent.

A cool breeze blew from the river and the party spent a most enjoyable day in the gypsy fashion. They took a packed lunch with them, and in the evening set off numerous fireworks.

INTERESTING OBSERVATIONS

Written specially for The Post

What the Peace Resolution Is

The peace resolution signed by President Harding on July 2d was a legislative declaration that the state of war between the German Government and the United States is at an end. This new declaration, while not a repeal in form, has the effect of repealing the war declaration between the United States and Germany, made by Congress in 1917, and ends a technical state of war.

The resolution contains provisions reserving to the United States all property and other interests and rights in connection with Germany, secured during the war and by the armistice agreement and the treaty of Versailles. The resolution is by no means a treaty, however, and does not change the terms of Germany's present relation to the United States or create new terms. These must be left to a treaty between the two countries.

A question has been raised as to whether this declaration of peace will logically result in the withdrawal from Germany of United States troops placed there to safeguard the terms of the armistice.

Lost Ships Start

Rumors of Pirates

The lover of pirate stories has been scanning his morning paper during the past few weeks in search of a modern tale of daring and dark adventure on the sea. The Carroll A. Deering, an American schooner, was reported lost on February 1. The American steamer Hewitt was last heard from on January 20. Three British schooners, an Italian steamer, a Spanish steamer, a Norwegian bark and a Brazilian steamer are among the vessels which have disappeared during the past year, without trace. The Carroll A. Deering has since been found wrecked, but nothing has been discovered regarding the disappearance of the whole crew, and the lifeboat and dory which were carried by the ship.

Various theories have been advanced as to the fate of the ten vessels lost within a year. The popular cry of pirates has been pretty generally scorned by the shipping authorities who suggest that floating mines and natural accidents are the more plausible causes. The United States weather bureau reports a severe storm in February, which the officials of that bureau believe could easily be responsible for the sinking of several of the ships. Mutiny in the case of the Deering is another theory.

So far the tale of lost ships for 1920 and 1921 has got no nearer a revival of the thrilling and blood curdling classics in piracy, than the bare admission by some ship-owners and sea-faring men, that of course there is still piracy on the seas; but nothing can induce them apparently, even with the present opportunity for head lines, to tell a single story of the modern sea-bandits.

Delaware Boys at Plattsburg

About forty students of the University of Delaware are at Camp Plattsburg, New York, taking advantage of the month of military training offered by the Government. Preliminary examinations, records, and vaccinations are over, and the Delaware Unit is taking to regular work and play under the direction of major W. J. Morrissey, of Syracuse University.

Reports of the first athletic trials indicate that the Delaware boys will make an excellent record, and are already striving hopefully for the cup which is offered to the college or university winning the most points in the final field day events.

Rifle practice, the use of machine guns, camp sanitation, field engineering and service, as well as physical training and conduct of officers, are some of the subjects of the condensed military course provided at Camp Plattsburg and at all of the military camps open for vacation training.

The government has appropriated $1,000,000 for citizens' camps this summer. Camp Meade which opens August 1, has a long list of applications.

Preparing a Budget Begins at Washington

If General Dawes, Director of the National Budget, carries out his present program, the Federal government is soon to become a business corporation, with its expenditures authorized and accounted for on the basis of carefully prepared estimates and reports. Director Dawes has taken, without doubt or question, the word of the Administration and of Congress, that economy and efficiency are demanded in the expenditure of national funds. The new budget law became operative July first. In the short time since his appointment General Dawes has let the country know that he is on the job by the immediate organization of his department and by what was one of the most unique conferences ever held at Washington. With the consent of the President, all the administrative officers of the government from cabinet members to bureau clerks in the various subordinate bureaus, were called to a mass meeting on June 29, to hear the program for preparing an economical budget, and to be told the part they were to play. President Harding presided. He emphasized the seriousness of wasteful governmental methods of expenditure today, in a world weakened industrially and financially by war. General Dawes made the most of his opportunity to press home the responsibility and the remedy to those who actually are the spenders; and more than that, they knew when he had finished that the time to act was now. Easy-going methods, padded pay-rolls and inefficient department and office organization are to go. The painful process of readjustment is to be sweetened however, by close contact with an able and understanding director, whose enthusiasm is contagious and who can keep before the eyes of every administrative officer a definite aim and result of his public service in governmental economy, which will test his mettle.

The country has given its support to General Dawes and is watching for daily news of the progress of the budget.

Some Hope for Editors

A charge of criminal libel was recently brought against the Editor of The National Financial News, by a Wall Street broker, who objected to being called a "bear" and a "spreader of pessimism." The editor who warned the public by using these descriptive terms in connection with the broker had the satisfaction of hearing the judge of the General Sessions Court declare that such terms did not constitute grounds for a charge of criminal libel. The indictment was dismissed. This doubtless suggests to editors that all libel laws should reserve for the editorial pen, out of what constitutes grounds for libel, and exempt from all penalty, a selected list of expressive terms by which they might bring hardened sinners to account. Of course, a committee of editors should select the terms.

Number of Indians in America Increasing

Full-blooded Indians and those of mixed blood are increasing in the United States, according to Dr. Elmer E. Higley, who has recently been appointed superintendent of Indian work for the Methodist Episcopal Church. He estimates the present number of all Indians at about one-third of a million and counts fifty-seven different languages now in use. Dr. Higley's program is to see that the Indians have better homes, medical attention and better care for Indian babies. In other words, he believes that the gospel of "soap, sanitation and salvation" will permanently check the decline which the Indian population has suffered.

The present death rate of Indians is very high. Three out of every five Indian children die before the age of five years. Thirteen per cent of the whole race is said to be afflicted with tuberculosis and 80,000 with trachoma. As two-thirds of the Indians cannot understand the English language, the process of education in health matters is very slow.

Compared with other appeals to the sympathy of Americans, these native red men have had few friends. It is a woefully tardy conscience which prods the present-day American citizens to the physical and educational salvation of the race. Both our official policy and volunteers effort have fallen far short of humane responsibility for a conquered native race.

ROPING HANKINSON

Mark Twain once sat in the smoking room of a steamer and listened to some remarkable stories. Then he drawled: "Boys, these feats of yours that you've been telling about recall an adventure of my own in Hannibal. Old Man Hankinson got caught in the fourth story of the burning house. It looked as if he was a goner. None of the ladders was long enough to reach him. The crowd stared at one another with awed eyes. Then all of a sudden, boys, an idea occurred to me. 'Fetch a rope,' I yelled. Somebody fetched a rope and with great presence of mind I flung the end of it to the old man. 'Tie her around your waist!' I yelled. Old Man Hankinson did so, and I pulled him down." — Ladies' Home Journal. Article 52

New Republican National Leader

John T. Adams, the recently elected chairman of the Republican National Committee, like many other national leaders, is a self-made man.

In 1881 "Johnny" Adams, as he was then known, started to work for a Dubuque door and sash company at $3 a week. His promotion was rapid, and since 1900 he has been president of the company, which is now regarded as one of the largest of the kind in the country.

Since early manhood Adams has taken an unusual interest in community affairs. One of the first community projects to attract his attention was a city mission organized by the Dubuque Congregational Church. Later, for several years, he was president of the city's general hospital.

School affairs at Dubuque always have attracted the attention of Mr. Adams. He served several terms as a member of the local school board. During the war he was a member of the State Council of Defense and was active in Red Cross and other drives for funds.

His interest in American politics is believed to have been inherited from his father, who was an American of old stock. The father practiced law in Massachusetts and was a member of the Legislature of that state at the time Daniel Webster was a member of the State Senate. His ancestors on his mother's side came from New Hampshire, where they lived for several generations.

The family mover to Dubuque in 1862. John T. Adams graduated from the Dubuque High School in 1881. His education since then has been acquired by constant reading. His private library at his beautiful home there is regarded as one of the most complete in Iowa. Mr. Adams is a student of modern languages and reads French and German almost as fluently as English.

Mr. Adams first attracted attention in politics in 1908 when he was selected to conduct the primary campaign in Iowa. In 1892 he managed the Taft campaign in that state. In the same year he was elected national committeeman from Iowa. He was re-elected national committeeman in 1916 and again in 1920. During Mr. Harding's campaign Mr. Adams was in charge of the Western Republican headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Adams is married and is the father of three children, Elizabeth, 17; Susan, 13, and Paul, aged 9. —New York Tribune.

INTERESTING SERIES OF LECTURES

SUMMER SCHOOL COURSE OPEN TO PUBLIC

SPEAKERS OF NATIONAL PROMINENCE TO ATTEND

A series of lectures and musical events rivalling those to be found in any intellectual center in the United States, will begin this evening in connection with the University of Delaware Summer School, and once again all Newark has the privilege of sharing in them. Planned primarily to bring to the Delaware teachers an opportunity to come into contact with men and women who are "doing things" in the world of today, all the events are open to the public, and the management is eager for as many as Wolf Hall, where the lectures will be held, will accommodate, to share in the joy of these occasions. The meetings are scheduled for seven thirty and will be limited to one hour on all week nights.

Glenn Frank

This evening, July 6th, Glenn Frank, editor of the Century Magazine, will discuss, "The New Order Versus the New Disorder." Mr. Frank is a young man of striking personality who in 1919 won the attention of the country by a series of brilliant articles on the underlying issues of the post-war period in the Century Magazine. In 1920 he became the Century's editor. Since then he has conducted the department "The Tide of Affairs" and increased by thousands the circle of readers who each month turn to his keen summary of events and interpretations of fact.

Mr. Frank has traveled extensively and interviewed scores of men and women leaders in the big movements of this generation. Working at maximum capacity at the very heart of war preparations, he knows intimately the problems which the country faces in the era of reconstruction.

For two years Glenn Frank was prominently identified with the work of the League to Enforce Peace. On a committee with Wm. Howard Taft, A. Lawrence Lowell, Oscar Straus, and Theodore Marburg he had an important share in the drafting of a formal constitution which contained many features that were incorporated in the official covenant of the League as drawn up at Paris.

Mrs. Friedewald

On Friday evening, Mrs. Augusta Friedewald, who has made many friends in Delaware in past seasons, will give a reading of J. M. Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella." Mrs. Friedewald's interpretative readings have

Railroad Rates Cut

Railroads are reducing their freight rates, reports the Association of Railway Executives. The rates are cut from ten to fifty percent in efforts to stimulate shipping by equalizing the rates in all parts of the country. The reductions are being made on the basic commodities, like grain, hides, lumber, and building materials, live stock, coal, meats, fruit and vegetables.

been a joy to summer school students for two sessions and her re-appearance at the University is certain to be marked by a large audience. On Saturday evening she will read informally for the students of the Summer School, "Deburau," by Sacha Guitry, and on Sunday evening, "The Hour Glass" by William Butler Yeates.

Sunday Evening Service

The first of a series of four Sunday evening services, in which the churches of the town will participate, will be held on Sunday evening, July 10th, at seven-thirty. Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, of Richmond, Va., former president of the University of Delaware, will be the speaker. The service will be preceded by a musical program rendered by a community chorus made up of twenty voices selected from the Summer School students and twenty from the choirs of Newark churches. Solo parts will be sung by singers from Philadelphia. The chorus is under the direction of Miss Dora Wilcox, musical director of the Summer School.

Concert on Tuesday

On Tuesday, July 12th, the first concert of the series will be given by artists secured through the co-operation of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore. On the program will be Vivienne Cordero and J. C. Van Hulsteyn, violinists; Oscar H. Lehmann, tenor, and Audrey Cordero, pianist.

Mr. Van Hulsteyn is the head of the violin department at the Conservatory and the concert-master of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Cordero has won exceptional honors in the violin department and has been awarded a scholarship by the Conservatory.

Mr. Lehmann is one of the leading tenors of the city and for many years was connected with the Skidmore School of Arts at Saratoga. He has sung many of the title roles in the performances of the Peabody Opera Class, and will be heard in recital at Peabody on Friday, July 22nd.

On Friday, July 15th, Mary Antin will tell of "Life in the Russian Pale"; on Sunday, July 17th, Dr. George Clarke Peck of Baltimore, will speak at the union service. A musical program will be furnished on this evening by the Baltimore & Ohio Gee Club of thirty-five male voices.

the North River at New York this week. The Pennsylvania, Nevada and Arizona, with ten destroyers, are already anchored in the river. The assembling of part of the fleet has been the occasion of a transfer of commanding officers. Admiral Hilary P. Jones has taken command of the Atlantic Fleet to succeed Admiral H. B. Wilson, who has taken command of the Naval Academy.

Delaware Alumnus Married

Gordon McMillan, graduate of the University of Delaware in the class of 1920, was married July 1, to Miss Miriam Fell. Both bride and groom are residents of Wilmington, where Mr. McMillan is in business.

Child Run Over by Auto

Howard, five year old son of Mr. Charles Porter, Chapel street, was run over by an automobile, Monday afternoon. The child had been playing across the street from his home. When another child was sent to bring him home, Howard ran directly across the street. He just missed being knocked down by one car, only to run in front of another. The first car probably kept the driver of the other car from seeing the child in time to stop.

The car which ran over the child was a Ford, belonging to Grover Henderson, and was going at a moderate rate when the accident occurred. When the driver saw the child, he applied the brakes, but too late to stop the car. One wheel ran over the boy.

Dr. Kollick, who was called immediately, found that the child was injured internally. The extent of the boy's injury is not yet determined, but he is now able to be dressed and out of doors, although not able to walk.

Newark A. C. Defeated

Yorklyn walked away with the big end of the score on last Saturday when they defeated the Newark A. C. by the score of 7 to 3. The inability of the local boys to connect with the pill in the crises spelt their defeat.

Newark continued its losing streak on Monday by giving both ends of a double header to Oxford by overwhelming scores. The local boys were completely outclassed, as Oxford had the best there was to be had in Chester county. Newark was crippled by the loss of three regular players. The scores were: First game, Newark A. C. 3, Oxford A. C. 14; second game, Newark A. C. 0, Oxford 8.

The Young Men's Catholic Club

of this town defeated the Clover Athletic Club of Avondale, Pa., last Saturday, by a score of 7 to 4. Newark held their opponents to one run until the ninth inning when Avondale rallied and scored three runs.

Newark Fishermen Have Good Luck

Along the bay is the only place to fish. There the water is salt and the fish are fresh. A party from Newark last week end fished at Little Creek, on the Delaware Bay. They made a catch of about one hundred fish, which totaled about a hundred pounds in weight. Croaker, trout, sharks and skate fell victim to the hook and line. Most of the trout caught weighed three and four pounds each.

The party cruised out into the bay by motor boat, and had excellent luck. The six doughty fishermen were: C. R. Runk, Robert Hancock, Mr. Phillips, Lambert Ent, M. O. Pence and J. F. McDonald.

Birthday Party for Dorothy Freeman

Mrs. W. Owen Kendall gave a party recently for her little daughter, Dorothy P. Freeman, in honor of her seventh birthday anniversary, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Kendall. The evening was joyfully spent in playing games. About eight o'clock the little ones were invited in to refreshments. The table was attractively decorated with pink and white sweet peas and goodies, and a large birthday cake trimmed with seven pink and white candles.

Among those present were, Dorothy and Daniel Stoll, Marie Gregg, Helen and Margaret Anderson, Grover Surratt, Lucile Morgan, Edith Molenberg, Francis Crowe, Olive Stiltz, Philip Kendall, Dorothy P. Freeman, Mrs. W. Owen Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Kendall, Mrs. Willett Anderson, Mrs. George McBride, Miss Jennie Coleman and Mr. Henry Scheine.

Serenade and Reception for Bride and Groom

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ottey were given a rousing serenade and variety shower at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evan L. Robinson, near Newark, recently.

Over one hundred friends and relatives of the young couple gathered and stormed the house with noises of all kinds. After the noise ceased the bride and groom came forward to receive congratulations and best wishes. Mrs. Ottey received a number of useful gifts. Refreshments of lemonade and cakes were served at a late hour.

On the evening following the serenade Mr. and Mrs. Ottey were given a reception at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ottey, of Strickersville, Pa.
