ANNUAL RED CROSS MEETING ON JUNE 22

Directors And Officers To Be Elected For Coming Year

The Newark Branch of the Red Cross will hold its annual meeting Thursday, June 22, at 3:30 P. M. in the New Century Club. Annual reports of all committee chairmen will be heard, and the election of officers and directors for the coming year will take place. All those who have made donations of at least $1 to the Red Cross are members and are urged to attend this meeting of the local branch.

The May report of the Newark Red Cross shows that during the month a total of 581 hours was given to the work by 75 volunteers.

Mrs. J. Fenton Dougherty, Home Service Chairman, reported 4 workers active with 7 cases accepted. Service men and their families, by calling on her, can be given information on emergency furloughs, foreign mail, prisoner-of-war packages, and various other forms of assistance.

Surgical dressing production for the month was limited by lack of gauze to 500 of the 4x4 size, made in 25 hours by 20 workers. More material is now available and work will be done every Tuesday from 10 to 4, and from 7 to 9 in the evening.

Miss Carolyn J. Chalmers, chairman of knitting, sent in to Chapter headquarters 27 articles representing 325 hours of knitting by 25 women.

The sewing chairman, Mrs. Frank Ragway, reported 147 convalescent kits, 9 girls' dresses, 29 skirts, 2 lined children's coats, 7 snowsuits, and 4 slips. These were made by 16 workers in approximately 181 hours.

PERSONAL AFFAIRS OFFICE AT COLLEGE

Will Assist Servicemen, Ex-Servicemen And Dependents

To aid in solving personal problems, and to render assistance by giving information on personal affairs to servicemen and ex-servicemen and their dependents, and the dependents of those who have given their lives, the Army has established a Personal Affairs Office at Purnell Hall, Main Street, Newark, Headquarters of 3216 SCSU, Army Specialized Training Unit, University of Delaware.

The Personal Affairs Division, ASF, was established to serve as a "clearing house" for information for Army personnel and their dependents. Although the Army Air Forces have an organization of their own, our facilities are available to Air Force personnel at their request.

The new Personal Affairs Office, under the direction of Lt. Alan T. Schuchter, will help with such personal problems as family allowances, arrears, pay, war bonds, Government and commercial insurance, pensions, legal assistance, hospitalization, local housing facilities, and the many other matters concerning the personal affairs of Army personnel and their dependents.

The Division will give all information and advice possible without assuming any of the administrative or operating functions of existing agencies. Close contact will be maintained with all Army, Government, both Federal and State, and private agencies set up to minister to the needs of servicemen and their families.

Women's Volunteer Committee, made up of women of Army families, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Donald Ashbridge, will serve with the Personal Affairs Officer. In cooperation with local facilities their services will include the helping with the many special adjustments created by Army service.

OPA Sets 9,000 Quota For New Autos In June

June's quota of new automobiles available under rationing, OPA said today, will be just 9,000 less than a normal one-day sale before the war.

OPA said the original stock of 530,000 cars on hand on Feb. 1, 1942, was a 53-day supply in normal times. It has been stretched over two years by rationing so that on May 1 of this year only 47,000 vehicles were left.

"Rationing of cars will become stricter as the supply dwindles," OPA said. Such users as doctors, police departments and the bureaus of public health and safety get preference.

CLUB WOMEN JOIN GROUP HOSPITAL SERVICE

Mrs. Dougherty Sponsors Plan For Women Of County

As a part of the program at all Home Demonstration Clubs in New Castle County during the month of May, there was a discussion of the Blue Cross Group Hospitalization plan such as is being followed in industrial, commercial, and educational groups throughout the State and Nation states Mrs. Kate Henley Dougherty, County Home Demonstration Agent for the Extension Service of the University of Delaware.

Mr. E. R. Dick of the Group Hospital Service, Wilmington, was the speaker, who explained the benefits of group hospitalization to each of the Clubs, which is an important thing to farm families now when Doctors and medical services are hard to obtain due to the War Emergency.

All of the twelve Clubs in the County began enrolling their members in order that they would have their groups formed for active participation in the plan by July 1st.

Mrs. Dougherty explained that four Clubs have already completed the enrollment in their groups and the hospitalization service will become effective to them on June 1st. They are Port Penn, Townsend, Clayton, and Friendly Neighbors (Blackbird, Taylor's Bridge) Clubs.

SPOTTING POSTS ARE CLOSED

Observers To Receive Army Discharges

Chief Airplane Observers F. Allyn Couch, Jr., and Dr. Carl J. Rees, in command of Newark's two spotting posts at Chestnut Hill and Possum Park have received word that their posts were to be closed, the order to take effect at midnight on Sunday.

The order takes in the more than sixty-five airplane spotting posts throughout the State of Delaware which are now permanently closed and the spotters' corps in this state which once had a maximum membership of 9,000 passes out of existence.

From December 7, 1943, the posts were operated on a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day a week basis. After that date, the spotters were merely on the alert and the posts in Delaware operated only one day a week.

The War Department has issued a directive permanently closing the posts because the danger of German or Japanese air attacks on the American coasts has become so remote.

Each spotter in Delaware will receive an honorable discharge from the Army under whose direction and authority the spotting posts were operated since Pearl Harbor.

The disposition of the spotting posts, which varied from elaborate towers to humble shacks, remains up to the members of the various districts. The chief observers at the two local posts have not commented on what will be done with the posts at Chestnut Hill and Possum Park.

The full year's $5 stamp will remain on sale at first and second class offices for the year, and at the third and fourth class offices to the end of July.

The fractional stamps, sold at less for each month after July, will be sold only at the Bureau of Internal Revenue offices.

COMMUNITY HONOR ROLL DEDICATED SUNDAY

Senator Buck Says Citizens Duty to Provide War Material

A jury composed of Gold Star mothers and war widows was described as a "fitting" group to mete out justice to those persons or groups causing unnecessary delay in the production of vital war supplies by U. S. Senator C. Douglass Buck Sunday in a talk in front of the old Academy building at a Memorial Day ceremony dedicating an honor roll of Newark residents serving in the armed forces.

The group, who paid tribute to more than 850 residents of the Newark area serving in the war, also heard U. S. Rep. Earle D. Willey outline provisions of the national Veterans Bill now before Congress to aid returning service men. Both speakers were introduced by Mayor Charles C. Hubert, who also made a short address.

Senator Buck pointed out that it has now become the "duty of every citizen regardless of his or her profession or occupation to help provide the necessary materials to win this war at the earliest possible hour. Any person or persons, group or groups, who by their action cause unnecessary delay in the production of vital war supplies are gambling with the lives of our soldiers. They should be held accountable before the bar of justice and the punishment made severe," he recommended.

The ceremonies were opened with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Newark High School band led by Miss Doris Bell and directed by Mrs. Marguerite Stander, director of music at the school. C. Harold Sheaffer was chairman of the Newark Memorial Committee.

Representative Willey spoke about the effort being put forth by the veterans organizations to have the veterans bill passed for the benefit of those in the present war. He said that these veterans groups were doing a fine job in making their communities a better place to live in.

The Rev. Andrew W. Mayer, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church delivered the dedication address.

The Rev. Dr. A. J. Jackson, pastor of the Newark Methodist Church, asked the invocation and the Rev. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, asked the benediction.

The American Legion conducted the annual ceremony by placing a wreath on the Memorial Plaque in the University of Delaware library. The wreath was carried in by members of the Junior Legion Auxiliary assisted by Boy Scouts.

LAUBACH WINS K. OF P. PRIZE FOR BEST ESSAY

N. H. S. Senior Writes Winning Theme On Youth Problems

Gerald Laubach's theme, "Youth Problems in Connection With Democracy," has been awarded first prize of $10.00 in the annual contest conducted by the Knights of Pythias at the Newark High School.

An outstanding student, Laubach will be presented the winning award at the class graduation exercises to be held in the school auditorium next week. Judges of the contest were F. M. Durnall and Albert Clark. Laubach's winning composition follows:

"In proportion as the structure of government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened."

G. Washington Farewell Address

At first inspection, this famous axiom may appear completely disconnected from any modern day youth problem. It so happens, however, that this concise observation strikes nearer to the solution of more world problems today than any other workable plan yet produced.

Consider some of the basic problems that have become vital during the last three decades—two wars, a peace that failed, class and race hatred, crime, delinquency, divorce, depression, labor war, a huge debt. These are common facts in our lives; they are widely discussed and are subject to myriad plans devised for their solution. But in all the study applied to these questions, there is one factor that is too often neglected, the fact that the majority of these problems are problems because for generations the American People have entered adult life incompletely prepared for the problems of their times, because my parents and yours have not been enlightened in proportion as the responsibility of government has been given them. In too many cases the citizens of the greatest democracy in the world have been just what they were trained to be—prejudiced, narrow, mechanical, and sadly lacking in understanding.

For this reason, then, I believe that the surest solution to the world's ills lies not in force or complex theories, but in the education and natural evolution of the peoples of the world—a campaign which must be started in our own backyards. This change will be difficult, but the only weapon needed is at hand; not the home, for parents can hardly produce children superior to the parents themselves, nor the church, for its field is far too small, but the school, the one institution which brings every child into contact with what should be elevating, study and educated, enlightened teachers. Remember that Hitler's schools, used for an evil purpose, have in a few years, produced an almost unbelievably hardened German youth. It seems quite logical then that schools could be made to act just as efficiently for good.

Why then, have not the American people been more greatly changed by this force?

A pertinent and logical question, with only one reasonable answer—the school has failed. I firmly believe that the education of youth, the most vital responsibility of mankind, has been tragically neglected. Since time out of mind the school has been under-financed, the pawn of industry, politics, and money power, and certainly a depreciated place for men of ability to seek an occupation. Even today, while American youth is being reminded repeatedly that they are to be the builders of the new world—even now the school is quietly dispensing the same prejudice and consummate ignorance that has done so much to bring on the world conditions of today. We have not yet realized that it is impossible to pour new wine into old bottles and have a successful result.

The time has come for these shameful conditions to be changed. The school first, must be freed from the power of politics and industrialized intellects, and must become the object of intense public interest and inspection. Secondly, teachers and supervisors must be chosen from among the artists, those rare men who are not only lovers of youth and their painstaking tasks, but also of the poetry and music of life in its essence. The teacher is the supreme factor in any school system; he must be capable of passing on knowledge dramatically, forcefully, and unforgettably. To seek and employ men of genius such as these will require capital, but it is an investment of supreme value. Finally, the purpose of the school must change. It must cease to be simply a mill for turning out lifelike robots for college or industry, but must strive to produce men and women with a purpose and foundation within themselves, with the love and understanding and unconquerable strength that make real people.

To reach this ideal will not be easy. It will be costly and tedious, and in many cases will require years of struggle in the muck and slime of party politics. But if a few are willing to dedicate themselves to the improvement of their own school, I am certain that the movement will spread surprisingly to its natural conclusion. This is a debt man owes to future generations;

It is worthy of being fought for. Today the whole world stands in misery before the locked door that opens into peace and progress. The strength of the youth to come is the key. The school must give them that strength!

NEWARK OFFICER SKIPPER OF LCI BOAT

Lieut. J. A. Pie Is Expected Home; Graduate Of Delaware College

Lieut. (j. g.) John A. Pie, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Pie, 313 West Main Street, Newark, is commander of an LCI which was the first United States warship to enter the lagoon inside Ebon atoll in the Marshall Islands in more than 25 years, the Navy Department has announced.

A few days later he led the way through the pass at Likiep, another Marshall's atoll and put ashore a Marine landing party. These experiences were not new to the lieutenant, however, for he and his crew were among the first landing craft to beach on Kiska last summer, and again at Kwajalein, he was one of the first through the northern pass.

After months of action in the Pacific, his parents have received a telegram that he is in this country and will be home sometime this week. His next assignment will probably be in LCI construction work.

Even when not participating in landings, he found some excitement. When visiting the natives on an island, the chief took a liking to him and gave him a number of presents.

And only three weeks ago he was having dinner aboard an admiral's

The details of the Ebon atoll landing are described by a Marine Corps combat correspondent, Staff Sergt. Dick Gordon in a dispatch that reads: "As skipper of an LCI, Lieutenant Pie nosed the bow of his landing craft through the narrow pass fully expecting to suffer plunging fire from the land on either side. There was none."

Lieutenant Pie was graduated from the University of Delaware in 1942, and after training in the Naval Reserve at Notre Dame, was commissioned an ensign at Columbia University in December, 1942.

A total of 1,701,269,000 cigarettes were purchased last year to be distributed as gifts to American troops.

Stanton, June 1st—Friendship Lodge No. 4, Shepherds of Bethlehem of Stanton had a visitation this week from Supreme Commander, Mrs. Margaret Munn of Haddonfield, N. J., and Mrs. Sarah Sawdon, Supreme Aid-to-Commander, of Wilmington. CARE OF CURTAINS SUGGESTED

War Creates Scarcity Of New Material

The machines that used to make curtain fabrics are now busy turning out camouflage materials and mosquito netting for the armed forces. There are many new curtain materials available, so the old ones must be made to last. Curtain care is especially important during the summer, according to Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, home management specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. Sunlight, heat, humidity, dust, and frequent handling all weaken fabric, she says.

Since sunlight is one of the causes of deterioration of cotton curtain materials, Miss Whitcomb suggests shifting them occasionally around the room so that the same curtains will be at the more exposed windows at the time, or turning them top to bottom to give the fabric a more even exposure. Cotton curtains made of coarse hard twisted yarns withstand effects of sunlight better than curtains of the soft twisted yarn, and mercerized rayons have proved more durable than unmercerized. Bleach and dye also affect the lasting qualities of curtains. Unbleached goods last longer than bleached, and dark colored fabric is better able to stand effects of light weather than light colored fabric.

Laundering has proved more damaging to rayon curtains than sunlight, because rayon becomes weak when washed, wringing, ironing, stretching. Investigators say that cotton fabrics are stronger when dry, and give better service for curtains. Fine weave rayon curtains last longer, ironed rather than pulled on stretchers, but should be thoroughly damp and the iron should be warm but not hot.

This is no time to lose your memory!

IN NEARLY ALL Americans there's a streak of natural optimism. We know the war won't be over tomorrow. We know there may be a long hard fight ahead. But we can't help looking forward to the beautiful and wonderful-seeming days of Peace. This is all right unless... Unless it makes you relax your efforts to win the war... Unless it makes you lose your memory of what happened after the last war was won.

Don't lose that memory now. Don't forget the depression... the poverty that hit the farmers... the breadlines in the cities... the soldiers looking, looking, looking for jobs, and not finding them. Remember that Peace brought difficult economic problems, economic stresses. And this time, we must be ready to meet them. This time we must make sure of having a real financial cushion... to ease the transfer to normal peacetime business, peacetime employment, peacetime living. That's one big reason why you should buy War Bonds... and hold on to them.

Every War Bond you buy, every one you hold to maturity will keep bringing you $4 for every $3 you invest today. And that steady flow of buying power will make jobs. It will create markets for peacetime goods. It will do a lot to insure an America that's prosperous and sound... the kind of America we all want when this war is won. So let's not forget the lesson of World War I. Keep buying Bonds. Keep hanging on to them. They're your security... your Country's security... for the days of Peace!

SOIL DISTRICT

Many New Castle County farmers have signed a petition for the formation of a Soil District in the County. Already such Districts exist in Sussex and Kent Counties. The petition has been sent to the State Soil District Commission at Dover, Delaware. If a Soil District is formed in New Castle County, any farmer may use the services made available by the District Supervisors. In the lower part of the County, soil drainage is the greatest problem while the northern part of the County has a soil erosion problem. Both of these problems can be attacked and any others, such as soil conservation, or wild-life conservation when the Soil District gets fully organized. Technical advice and information will be supplied by the Federal Soil Conservation Department free of charge. For the actual drainage work on a farm or the prevention of erosion such as terracing, the individual farmer will be held responsible for the work done. The entire program is a voluntary one with no farmer having to participate unless he desires to do so.

T. R. DEAD 25 YEARS

When the tempestuous spirit that was Theodore Roosevelt began its long rest on January 6, 1919, twenty-five years ago, many of his friends felt an inexpressible loss and the whole nation was saddened by the death of a great man and patriot.

This many-sided man, scholar, writer, naturalist, explorer, politician and statesman, "walked with kings nor lost the common touch." Born an aristocrat he knew, liked and trusted the common people—and they, liked and trusted him. It is told how late at night, once when on his private train crossing the continent, members of his party saw farm house after farm house lighted. The People had remained up just to catch a glimpse of their hero's train as it sped through the night carrying him.

This regard for him still lives. It is revealed by the fact that more than 25,000 people, in normal times, annually visit the little country cemetery at Oyster Bay where he rests in the grandeur of simplicity.

New Deals come and go but his "square deal" will live as long as justice lives in the heart of men, justice for rich and poor alike, a justice which seeks equality of economic opportunity, a justice which enables every individual to maintain God's most precious gift to man, his sense of self-respect.

Whatever his faults, and he had them, no one ever questioned the purity of Theodore Roosevelt's patriotism, his fearless courage or his quick, lasting interest in the finest things of the spirit. Truly he was the nation's civic conscience during his generation.

And he was our great administrator in the White House; great because he picked big men for his cabinet and other important posts, gave them authority, responsibility and credit. "Yes" men had no place in his administration.

The public believed Theodore Roosevelt to have been bull-headed and opinionated. And yet men who worked closest with him and knew him intimately insist that, if one had the facts, he was the easiest man to convince they ever knew. This the great public did not know. But it did know of his wholesome family life, of his instinctive courtesy—the surest of all marks of true greatness—and his Jove-like wrath over injustice or dishonesty in public life.

DISGRACEFUL ABUSE OF POWER

Seizure of the Montgomery Ward store in Chicago at the point of a bayonet, was a disgraceful example of the use of military power.

Hatred of the Nazi regime has been engendered by military "seizures" of nations, private property and individuals. The Nazis offered the same general excuse for their acts—war necessity. It has never before been claimed in this country that a private retail store is a war industry; it has been treated in exactly the opposite manner from the standpoint of priorities for both goods and labor.

One of the reasons given by our government for forcibly dispossessing owners of private property in the present case, is that the chairman of Montgomery Ward refused to comply with orders of the War Labor Board and the President, in a labor controversy, although there was good reason for believing that the facts justified his refusal.

During the recent disastrous coal strike which most seriously affected war production, John L. Lewis refused to comply with decisions of the War Labor Board and the President. But, instead of throwing Lewis bodily out of his office and occupying his quarters, at the point of a bayonet, his defiance was rewarded with higher wages. Now, the opposite course is taken with the operator of a non-war business.

This time it was a big store, next time a little store may feel the mailed fist. Also, bayonets can be turned on labor as well as on business executives.

Nationally and internationally, this latest example of bureaucratic ruthlessness may awaken the people to the dangers involved in delegating unrestrained authority to officials to make, interpret and enforce rulings having the force of laws. As a people, we can be thankful that we still have a free Congress with the power to correct such abuses.

IS ICKES TOO TIGHT?

A recent statement issued by Petroleum Administrator Ickes declared that "contrary to the impression held in some quarters, there is no possibility at this time of increasing gasoline supplies for civilian motorists in any section of the country."

When the oil situation first became serious the oil producers stepped up production and the railroads carried as much oil as the Government asked for. Even now the Standard Oil Company tells the country as definitely as though they were divulging a "military secret" that there is plenty of oil now for a thousand years, for military and civilian needs. Ickes says "it ain't so!"

O'DANIEL IN ROME FIGHT

General O'Daniel Confers With Gen. Mark Clark

A former University of Delaware athlete—Brig.-Gen. John W. O'Daniel of Newark—is one of the American leaders in the Fifth Army that is pushing on toward Rome.

Signal Corps radiophones sent yesterday from the front show him conferring with Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark on the progress of the drive.

General O'Daniel is formation commander and had been on the Anzio Beachhead.

For some months the War Department declined to reveal the whereabouts of General O'Daniel and his letters home gave no indication of his assignment. His most recent letter, however, told of a lull in activities and he added, "But my men are rarin' to go." General O'Daniel is a veteran of the Delaware National Guard, Mexican border campaign and World War I.

His aunts, Misses Nellie B. and Etta J. Wilson, live in Newark and his father, Amos H. O'Daniel, lives in Oxford. General O'Daniel is married and has a daughter and a son who is in the paratroopers.

LESSON-SERMON

"God, The Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon of First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Park Place and Van Buren Street, Wilmington on Sunday, June 4, 1944.

HOME EDUCATION

Aunt Sally Jane Morris looked on in amazement as her great-niece listened calmly to her small son's account of a "big long snake" he had seen on the lawn. Junior measured off on his small arm just how long the snake had been, and his little sister supported him in the assertion. They had watched it for sometime and they knew. Before they could tell what became of the long snake the telephone rang, so no longer having a sympathetic listener, they ran out to play.

"Mary Josephine, I'm amazed at you," said the prim old lady as the young mother returned to her sewing. "The idea of letting those children tell you such a downright falsehood. There couldn't be a snake on your lawn!"

"Well, Auntie, it is just a case of galloping imagination. Probably the snake was a crooked twig that the rake didn't get yesterday, or it might have been one of those short pieces of black cord that Edith and I were using. No harm is done if they thought what they saw was a snake."

The old lady sniffed. "I have no patience with the newfangled notions in rearing children," she said. "I can remember a day in my childhood," said the young mother serenely, "when I ran home and told Mother that the whole grove, near the schoolhouse, was on fire. Really, it was only the wind rolling and twisting the smoke from a little trash fire."

Aunt Sally Jane was not convinced, but she held her peace. When Uncle Lucas returned from a stroll downtown she told him what had happened, and was surprised to find her husband taking Mary Josephine's side in the case. "We all suffer from a 'galloping imagination' occasionally, Mother," he said mildly.

"Maybe you do, Lucas, but I do not, I weigh my words well before I speak." That evening Uncle Lucas was relating incidents connected with the recent visit he and his wife had made to New Orleans. They had been fascinated with the shipping at the wharves. Being from an inland town it was wonderful to them to see the great vessels discharging their cargoes of fruit or sugar or whatever they had brought to the big city. "I had had no idea," said the old gentleman, "that the people of one city could use so many bananas. Once, the harbor master found a cargo of fruit that had been delayed by a storm. It was too ripe to sell and he made the captain pull away and dump the fruit into the river. Of course it was a total loss."

"And once we saw a man fall overboard from a small boat," added Aunt Sally Jane. "When they first drew him out of the water we were afraid he was dead, but he soon revived." In the privacy of their room that night Uncle Lucas, with a perfectly sober face, reminded his wife that she hadn't seen the man fall overboard in New Orleans. It had happened the morning their daughter had wanted her to go shopping, so Uncle had been obliged to go alone to his favorite post on the wharf.

"This isn't the first time I've heard you tell that story as though you were there," said her husband. "What you did see, one day, was a box dropped overboard, and you've heard me describe the other scene so often that you just think you saw it. Where are you going?"

"I'm going right down to tell Mary Josephine what you have just told me," said the honest old lady. "Why, I can see in my mind's eye just what I said I did, and yet I know you are right."

They all had a good laugh about the whole thing.

"After this, I ought to be more tolerant of the newfangled teaching," Aunt Sally said, smiling to Mary Josephine.

SHOTS

by
J. H. (Sureshot) Rumer

Anything appearing in this column is purely the opinion of the writer and does not express the views or policy of the paper. Any exceptions should be taken up with the writer.

Well, here goes for another column and another chance for Sureshot to shoot off. You know folks, there are a lot of people in this town who will make the balls and get me to throw them. A certain party the other day asked me to put something in this column about something. I asked that person why not send me a letter to print about that certain something and that person replied—Do you want me to get run out of town? They don't seem to care what happens to Sureshot. Why don't some of you folks send in letters to Sureshot. Your name won't appear in the paper but ALL LETTERS TO SURESHOT MUST BE SIGNED.

Say folks, I will let you in on a secret—Sergeant LeRoy C. Hill of the Newark Police force is off sick. He is reported to have the MUMPS. With the force already crippled by the induction of Smilin Samuel Howard Tibbitt into the Navy, then Sergeant LeRoy had to get, of all things, the MUMPS. Anyone wishing to send flowers to the Sergeant are requested to send them while he can still smell them.

Sureshot also wants it to be remembered, little Barbara Boyce, is also recovering from the Mumps. Brandon Davis should have his name in the column this week. What has he done now? Well, the other day at the baseball game at the high school, the bases were loaded and his team was 2 runs behind and it was the last inning. Brandon stepped up to the plate and socked the old apple for a HOME RUN and the team Brandon is captain of, won the ball game.

Quite a few people have requested that I suggest that the lawn in front of the Old Academy on Main Street be turned into a park with benches for some of the older folks of the town so that they could sit in the shade of the spreading oak trees (they may be maple or any old kind of trees) and watch the crowds go by on these hot summer afternoons. It was also suggested that mothers could bring their young children in the baby coach and let the children play with the squirrels. Now, inasmuch as I don't know who to contact for this request, someone may see this and do something about it.

Newark had a Memorial Day celebration last Sunday when the town Honor Roll was dedicated. The speeches were something to remember, but the pitiful part of the whole affair was that with about 850 names on the board only about 150 persons turned out for the exercises.

It just goes to show that there are a lot of people in this world who just don't seem to care for anything. Where were the parents and relatives of those fine boys who are in the Ships, the Airplanes, in the camps, on the beachheads, in the jungles and spread all over the world giving everything they have to make this world a safe place for the members of labor organizations.

As Rev. Mayer said last Sunday, we have not sacrificed anything. We still have our cars and we go almost as much as we did before. We might gripe about the ration board but anyway we go about our business. Our market baskets are well filled. We have more red tokens that we can spend. Some of us are making more money than we ever seen before—(Not Me). Sure we are doing real well—at the expense of the boys in the service.

An Associated Press story in the Wilmington paper dated May 23, states, "Labor Chief Sees U. S. Unprepared for Peace". How does he get that way? The parents of those boys who are fighting are ready for peace at any time. But, the Labor Chief, no, He don't want peace, when peace comes, and the boys come back home there won't be so many suckers ready to join his Union Racket.

We hear a lot about the closed shop. That is the most un-American thing in existence. What right has anyone to say that I have to join a union if I want to work. Anyone who tells Sureshot that he has to join a union can expect a bust in the nose.

Among the letters received this week was one from Delaware Reed who is in the Amphibious Force. Del states that having been away so long he hardly remembers any of the names that get in this column every week. Well, Del, some of these boys at home just live to see their names in the paper. They don't really do anything. Del Reed wants to be remembered to all the boys who were in the old Battery "E" of the Delaware National Guard and those old chaps that used to be in Phil Cornog's Athletic Club.

Samuel Howard Tibbitt, the former policeman who has been installed as a fixture in the U. S. Navy writes to us and says that they are treating him very good. Sam, the old police department will never be the same without you. Anyone who wants Sam's address will please call Sureshot.

Town Supervisor George E. Ramsey stated that the town water tanks had been cleaned out and the only thing that was found in the tanks was one Golf Ball. Possibly some golfer made "a hole in one".

Last week there was an article in this column about the town water supply. As usual Sureshot was wrong. We were told that it was the local board of health that was doing the fixing. Then again we were told that those young fellows at the college who came from the Bronx or Brooklyn or some place just did not like our water. Well, anyway the tanks were cleaned out and they were found to be CLEAN.

Well, it is time to be thinking about forming a softball league or something for the boys and young men of the town. Or should we say those fellows who are too young and too old. Paul Griffith is willing to coach the teams and form the leagues. Come on all you baseball stars, get your names in to Paul or Sureshot. Also how about the town swimming hole. What is going to be done about a place to take a bath with a bathing suit on.

According to Raymond Vansant Buckingham, secretary of the club and a member of the show committee, there are more entries this year than ever before and hounds have been entered from all parts of the Eastern coast and even from the middle west.

Luncheon will be served in the club house at noon under the direction of Mrs. John W. Cochran and Mrs. R. V. Buckingham.

CULLING ESSENTIAL FOR PROFIT ON POULTRY

Best Layers Only Will Be Profitable This Summer

The present unfavorable price relationship between the return for eggs and the price of food is complicated by the fact that a serious feed shortage exists throughout the Nation. This means, says Edmund Hoffmann, assistant research poultryman for the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, that poultrymen must reduce their flocks by removing the low producers, because only the best layers can make a profit under present conditions.

Some poultrymen are complaining that they are losing money and under the circumstances this is undoubtedly true. They threaten to sell out their laying flocks completely. But carefully selected flocks of layers will produce eggs at a profit this summer. Therefore, a sound program would be to cull drastically at once and to continue weekly or bi-weekly culling throughout the summer so that the laying flock is maintained at the maximum number of eggs per bird from now until fall, and so that the poultryman has at least some income.

A drastic culling means removing not only the nonproducers, but all of the occasional and once-a-week layers as well. Skilled poultrymen will have no difficulty following this program, but others should contact their county agricultural agent for advice on the mechanics of culling.

It need hardly be added that a drastic culling of laying flocks is imperative from the food conservation standpoint alone. Poultrymen have been confused for sometime by uncertainty of the feed situation and by conflicting statements as to what may be done about it. The shortage is already upon us and no relief is in sight until the new crops are harvested. It is seldom possible to make a profit while landing a hand toward solving one of the Nation's problems, but in this case the poultryman can do both by culling drastically now.

HOME RUN BY DAVIS WINS GAME

Juniors Win Over Sophs By 8-7 Score

Brandon Davis' home run in the seventh inning with the bases loaded gave the Junior class softball team the championship title over the sophomore class team at the Newark High School.

The Junior team opened up in the first inning with four runs to lead the sophs who failed to tally until the fourth frame when they crossed the plate with five tallies to take a one-point lead. The Sophs increased their lead by two runs in the next inning to lead 7 to 4, and the Juniors annexed one run to make their score 5.

In the seventh the Juniors opened up with Gilston going to first on a single, Murphy and Pie each followed with singles loading the bases and Brandon Davis the next batter up connected with the ball for a home run driving in the three runners and his own to win the ball game. Davis accounted for three runs during the game.

OPA RULES FOR AUTOS AT RACES CLARIFIED

Occupational Driving To Race Tracks Is Defined

Regulations governing permissible use of automobiles for attending the race meet at Delaware Park were clarified by Charles W. Hardesty, Delaware district OPA director, as a result of scores of phone calls to the district OPA office.

"Every person who operates an automobile and who makes proper application, is automatically entitled to an A ration card and, under the present rules and regulations, there is no restriction on the use of these coupons," Mr. Hardesty said.

"In the A book are eight coupons for each quarter, good for three gallons each or a total of 24 gallons for the three-month period. A person may use all his coupons to attend the races or for whatever trips he desires so there is no objection if the person wishes to travel to the track.

"However, it is to be remembered," Mr. Hardesty continued, "the average car would not provide a mileage in excess of 400 miles on the full quarter's allotment, and all persons visiting the track should be sure that they are using A coupons only for this purpose.

"Coupons of B and C designation cannot be legally used for travel to the track unless the owner is traveling on business, which, from a rationing standpoint, is known as occupational mileage.

"It is to be understood that persons who normally pass the track on the way to or from work are privileged to visit the track as often as they desire.

"All persons who have official or legitimate business connection with the track are requested to immediately file their names and car license numbers with Edward L. Hobbs, secretary, Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association, so our office may have knowledge of those persons who are authorized to visit the track regularly," Mr. Hardesty said, "Such action on their part may eliminate confusion and possible embarrassment."

Such persons would include officials and employees of the track and those providing such supplies as feed. Wagering is not considered "business" in this sense.

Many persons from more distant points as well as local residents, are taking turns in using their cars and sharing them to further save gasoline and tires.

4-H CLUBS OBSERVED RURAL LIFE

230 Members From 15 Clubs In Attendance

Fifteen 4-H clubs in New Castle County observed Rural Life Sunday either May 14 or May 21, with a total club attendance of 230 members according to Mrs. Clara B. Shook, New Castle County Club Agent. The club members participated in the exercises.

Pencader 4-H Club of Gatesville, the Point Breeze 4-H Club of Talbotville made cosponsor for their club to wear to their services on Monday, Day, The Friendship 4-H Club provided a service flag, purchased with money received by the club in the paper drive, to the Friendship 4-H Club members. The Stronghold 4-H Club of St. Georges invited six other 4-H clubs as guests at their service in the Methodist Church, Oxford.

Several of the men had already had farm experience, but before they went to the individual farms last Sunday, they were given a four-day training course at the University of Delaware under the direction of agricultural specialists, with practice at the University Farm at Newark and at Breidablick Farm near Wilmington. The training included milking and feeding, washing utensils, grinding and mixing feed, tractor operation, and various other phases of dairy and general farm work to prepare the men to give efficient aid on whatever jobs they may be called upon to do.

This first allotment of workers has been divided among the three counties, ten going to New Castle, eight to Kent, and seven to Sussex. Another group of twenty-five is expected a little later in the summer. Contracts for the workers cover the rest of this year, but it is hoped that they will prove satisfactory and can continue to work on the dairy farms for the duration.

Newfoundlanders are not subject to compulsory military service, and though a larger percentage of their population than of our own is enlisted in the allied forces, their lack of war industries and curtailment of their normal industries by the war result in surplus labor there.

DAIRY FARM LABOR GETS SOME RELIEF

Newfoundland Workers Divided In 3 Counties

Urgent need for full-time year-round workers on Delaware dairy farms has been relieved somewhat during the past week through the importation of twenty-five Newfoundlanders. The men were recruited by the War Food Administration's Office of Labor, and placement was arranged by the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service through its emergency farm labor program. All workers were contacted for in advance, contracts going wherever it appeared that the workers might make the greatest contribution to the war effort.

WARNING ISSUED ON DANGER OF TICK FEVER

Carriers More Prevalent In Wooded And Grassy Areas

Several cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever reported in Delaware last week, health officials in June, leads the State Board of Health to issue warning against this dangerous disease which is carried by wood ticks. Already prevalent in roads, underbrush, tall grass and wooded areas in many parts of the state.

First reported in Delaware in 1932, Rocky Mountain spotted fever has attacked from one to 6 persons in the state each summer until 1943 when the cases reported rose to 18 persons, two of whom died of it in Kent County. There was statewide distribution of the cases last year, however, indicating that the ticks which carry the disease were widely scattered. There were 4 cases in White Clay Creek Hundred and 2 in Red Lion Hundred of New Castle County; 2 in West Dover and 1 in Duck Creek Hundred of Kent County; while Sussex County's cases were located in Seaford, Cedar Creek, Little Creek Daysboro and Cambridge.

Wilmington reported no cases last year though 2 persons in the city contracted Rocky Mountain spotted fever in 1941 and 2 in 1938, while 1 case of it was reported in 1940.

Since many persons picnic or go on jaunts to the country this time of year, the State Board of Health warns everyone to watch out for ticks and to examine the body closely when returning from such a trip. The principal danger of the tick is, of course, his bite and even though only 1 tick in many hundreds may carry the Rocky Mountain fever virus, that 1 tick (which cannot be recognized from the rest) may cause fatal infection.

Ticks may also be found in towns where the grass and weeds are allowed to grow wild. Keep these cut closely around houses, schools and parks, advises the State Board of Health.

Where ticks are picked up out of doors it is usually from grass or weeds close to the ground. Boots laced over trousers legs, or even sox pulled up over the bottom of trousers, helps to keep the ticks from crawling beneath the clothing.

Ticks often work their way upward before attaching themselves. The back of the neck and head of human beings are favorite feeding places. Careful examination of heads, especially of children—at least twice a day—may reveal a tick in time to prevent a fatal bite. (The bite of a tick is seldom felt.)

People are advised not to become unduly excited if they do find a tick because it must be attached 5 or 6 hours and must be infected with the spotted fever in order to give a person the disease. Remove an attached tick with forceps, tweezers or wearing gloves in order to keep the tick blood off the hands. If these things are not available, BE SURE to scrub the hands well afterwards, warns the State Board of Health.

If the tick is not easily removed, consult a doctor at once. Should there be any illness after an attached tick has been removed, the doctor should be also called, for it could be the beginning of the disease. The ill person should rest quietly until he comes.

A vaccine is now available for the prevention of Rocky Mountain spotted fever and persons whose work takes them into tick-infested areas are advised by the Board to have this immunizing treatment.

Ticks often feed on dogs, and sometimes on cats, making it necessary to watch for these dangerous insects on household pets as well as on people. Dogs which pick up many ticks should be dusted every other day with derris powder to discourage the insects from engorging. If there are only a few ticks, use tweezers or rubber gloves and follow precautions listed above. Drop the tick in kerosene or boiling water to destroy them.

These seemingly bothersome precautions are important, says the State Board of Health for out of the 45 persons having Rocky Mountain spotted fever since it was first reported in Delaware in 1932, 5 persons have died because they were bitten by the disease-carrying ticks—which were not removed in time.

Weekly Sermon

The First Picture of the Church

In Exodus 12 we read the instructions given to Israel concerning the first Passover. It is here the idea of the Church first appears. It was a house entered through a door which had the blood of an unblemished lamb sprinkled on the lintel and on the two side posts.

The hyssop of repentance and faith had applied the blood. There is no condemnation to those who are in such a house, sheltered by the blood.

What was inside this house? First, the roasted lamb. It was an unbroken lamb. This means the Church needs the whole Christ—divine, yet human; human, yet divine. The lamb was roasted with fire, which typified Christ passing through the holy fire of the wrath of God against our sin. The blood of Christ is over the door for protection. The person of Christ is the feast for those inside.

Second, unleavened bread was there. This means separation from all evil, in doctrine, in behavior, and in one's associations.

Third, bitter herbs were there. This refers to self-judgment; no self-admiration or self-adulation, but a humble estimate of oneself.

How did those inside the house appear? First, their loins were girded, their pilgrim staff was in their hand. They ate the Passover in haste. They were ready at any moment to leave Egypt, to be pilgrims in the wilderness. Their feet had shoes on; that is, they were not runaway slaves. They were consciously sons of God. Only free men went about shod; servants were barefooted.

All the household, representing in type local churches, formed together "the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel" (v.6). There are many churches, but all those "under the blood" and gathered around Christ as their center, form one Church.

Here we have a lovely picture of the Church. Do we today answer to this description?

No Increase In Fuel Oil Ceilings Effective May 31

Tank wagon ceiling prices to consumers for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 distillate fuel oil in Delaware have been listed by cents per gallon, Charles W. Hardesty, State Administrator of OPA, said today.

These specific ceilings, which become effective May 31, 1944, reflect with two exceptions the general ceiling prices prevalent in this area heretofore, which were determined in line with market leader prices. Thus, no increase occurs at the retail level in the general cost of these oils, which are used for the heating of homes, schools, apartment houses, and other buildings of this type.

For single lot deliveries of less than 100 gallons, the ceiling is uniformly established as half a cent a gallon over the ceiling listed for 100 gallons or more.

The new ceilings for 100 gallons or more, which are an extension of OPA's program of spelling out maximum prices for petroleum products wherever possible, follow:

State of Delaware: 9.0 cents a gallon north of the Chesapeake & Delaware Canal, and 9.3 cents a gallon south of the Chesapeake & Delaware Canal.

Local Boards Determine Conversion Applications

Considerable confusion seems to exist in the minds of some persons relative to the proper procedure in making application for conversion or re-conversion from coal to oil, said Charles W. Hardesty, State Director of OPA, today.

All applications for this permission must be filed with the local boards, who process the same, and if it is approved by them, forward the application, together with their recommendation, to the State Director. Assuming the application may be filed on the basis of hardships, lack of storage space, or other physical reasons, the matter then becomes one for the decision of the Petroleum Administrator for War and is transmitted to him in New York.

Under the present rules and regulations, if the application is one based on the inability to secure sufficient coal, then the State Director is authorized to decide the question, giving proper consideration to the recommendations of the Local Board.

CEILINGS ON CHEESES SET

New Prices Are Effective Monday

OPA issued new dollars-and-cents price ceilings on nine different types of cheese today and established specific maximum canners prices for fish flakes to bring this commodity back to the market after a year's absence.

The new cheese ceilings are effective next Monday and are designed to save customers more than two million dollars annually.

Also effective Monday are the new canners' dollars and cents per case maximums for fish flakes which are set at levels above those of March, 1942, to cover the increased costs of raw material.

Cheeses covered by the action include Gorgonzola, Blue, Monterey, California Jack, Provolone, Paresman, Monte & Modena, soft Asiago and Romano.

Officials said the step removes these cheeses from the current "freeze" prices established at the Sept. 28-Dec. 2, 1942, level, and brings them into balance with cheddar cheese prices and the prices of other manufactured dairy products essential to the war effort.

Newark Grange Takes Straw Ride

About 60 members of the Newark Grange in four straw-laden wagons started early out last night for a frolic to a destination known only to a few of the initiated.

The spacious barn at the home of Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy was the objective. Having arrived after much bumping and general hilarity, the guests entertained themselves by dancing the old-fashioned reels and square dances, playing games and having such a good time that the spectacular fire could not prove a counter attraction.

Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

Fire Destroys Packing House

A brilliant illumination to the south of Newark caused much speculation and excitement last night about 9:45. The news spread quickly that the property of the Jadel Corporation was afire and hundreds of people in every sort of conveyance set out for the fire, lured by the rumors that quantities of explosive materials used in the manufacture of fireworks was stored there and that explosions would inevitably result.

The Aetna Fire Company sped quickly to the scene of the fire which had gained such headway before the alarm was given that any attempt to save the packing plant in which the fire originated was futile. The firemen, employees of the corporation and volunteer helpers from the vicinity bent their efforts toward saving the adjoining buildings, several of which were in immediate danger and one of which, a small building, was already on fire.

The Jadel Corporation employs many girls from Newark and the vicinity of the factory. It is not believed that the fire will interfere with the operations of the company, other than the temporary shutting down of the packing room.

Sham Battle on Street

A novel feature of the Victory Loan Campaign has been planned by Major DuVall who will stage a street fight on Saturday to be carried out under regular war conditions. This will take place in the morning from 9 to 12 with the Delaware College battalion participating. One whole square is to be set aside for the maneuvers and the battalion divided into an attacking and a defending party. Blank cartridges will be used and everything done to make the fighting realistic.

To Celebrate St. Taming Day

Minnehaha Tribe No. 23, Improved Order of Red Men will attend divine worship service at St. Thomas' P. E. Church on Sunday morning, May 11. All members of the Order are cordially invited to attend. Meet at the Wigwam, Opera House building at 10 o'clock.

Will Operate Ice Plant

James W. and Samuel H. Ewing have recently purchased a plot of ground consisting of three acres, a portion of the old Dean property, containing a warehouse and siding.

Ewing Brothers on Wednesday filed a charter for the Economy Ice and Coal Company, with a capital of $50,000 to manufacture, sell and deal in and with ice.

May Fete Next Wednesday

A May Festival will be held on the Women's College Campus by the students for the benefit of the Y.W.C.A. Eaglesmere fund on Wednesday, June 14 from 7 to 9. Ice cream and cake will be on sale.

Local Engineer Gets New Position

Walter Robinson, of this town, was recently appointed engineer for Delaware College. He will have charge of all the machinery in the college plant, look after plumbing and engineering work.

The appointment, made at the instigation of Business Administrator A. G. Wilkinson, will, it is believed, prove to be an economical arrangement, for it is felt that much money will be saved through constant care of machinery and plumbing.

Secures Contract for Improvement

Local contractor L. W. Lovett has been awarded the contract for making Tavia street improvements in the town of Smyrna, which will cost over $20,000.

DELAWARE FARM FRONT THIS WEEK

Home Canning Sugar Program Is Modified

The Office of Price Administration has modified its sugar for home canning program by directing its district offices to set up two periods in which consumers may apply for their 1944 home canning allotment. The change limits the amount consumers may obtain in the first period to 10 pounds per person, but the maximum amount of home canning ration for the season remains unchanged at 25 pounds, five pounds of which are available by use of Sugar Stamp 40 from War Ration Book 4.

The War Production Board has announced amendments to priorities regulations to aid farmers in obtaining available supplies necessary for farm operation. Under the terms of the amended regulation, dealers are required to give farmers preference in the purchase of all listed items, upon written certification by the farmer that the supplies covered by the order "are needed now and will be used for other than household purposes in operation of a farm." Such a certification will carry a priority of AA-2X. The list of approximately 300 items of farm supplies includes hay stacker cables, fire extinguishers, flashlights, funnels, grinders for sharpening tools, harness repair tools, concrete mixers, metal fence posts, tire pumps, fly screens, building blocks, Portland cement, insulating materials, lumber substitutes, roofing and siding, field drain tile, truck and machinery jacks, and tire pressure gauges.

Asparagus prices to growers have been increased one-half cent per pound by the OPA, as recommended by the WFA. Maximum prices for canned or frozen asparagus of the 1944 pack will reflect this advance in price to growers.

Delaware tomatoes and other canning crops will have a priority on motor trucks during the harvest season, says C. E. Ocheltree, chairman of the State AAA Committee, in urging farmers who want AAA conservation materials for summer and early fall uses to order now when trucks are available for farm delivery.

The War Food Administration has announced that wheat loans averaging nationally $1.28 per bushel at the farm will be made by the Commodity Credit Corporation on the 1944 crop. Last year the average was $1.23. Loans will be made on a note and chattel mortgage basis for wheat stored on farm and on note and loan agreement for wheat stored in approved warehouses. Wheat produced in 1944 grading U. S. No. 3 or better, or grading U. S. No. 4 or U. S. No. 5 because of test weight only, will be eligible for loan. Loans will vary from the basic rate to take into account location, grade, and quality. Seven cents per bushel storage allowance will be advanced at the time of the loan on all farm-stored wheat. Loans on both farm-stored and warehouse-stored wheat will mature on demand but not later than April 30, 1945.

The War Food Administration has amplified its commitment to support prices of 1944 crop soybeans, giving a base support price of $2.04 per bushel as compared with $1.80 for 1943, for green and yellow soybeans grading U. S. No. 2 with moisture content of 14 per cent delivered by farmers to a country elevator, processing plant, or other delivery point.

Some proposed electrical utility connections which were "in the mill" when War Production Board tightened requirements on April 6 will be permitted after all. Extensions which would have been permitted by the Supplementary Utilities Order U-1-c prior to its amendment April 6 may be made or connected if both of the following conditions are satisfied: (1) Prospective consumer's request for certification by County Agricultural Conservation Committee was filed with such committee on or before April 20; and (2) certification in form required prior to amendment of April 6 has been issued by the County Agricultural Conservation Committee to prospective consumer on or before June 1. All requests which were not filed with county committees before April 21 are subject to provisions of the amendment of April 6.

PAUL RICE SPEAKER AT MEETING OF ROTARIANS

Entomologist Talks On Tick And Japanese Control Work

Rotary President E. Newman Rose conducted the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club held in the Deer Park Hotel on Monday evening, May 29th. New member Paul T. Griffith of the Newark Trust Co., was introduced by Secretary Wm. S. Hamilton, presented with a Rotary Pin and welcomed by President Rose.

Vincent L. Mayer made a short talk on Soil Conservation in which he pointed out that 53,000,000 acres of ground had been planted in different crops as part of the Federal Government Soil Conservation program.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Paul L. Rice, head of the department of Entomology of Delaware Experimental Station, U. of D. Dr. Rice talked on the Japanese Beetle and the common Wood Tick. He pointed out that the Japanese Beetle is definitely on the wane, and that the latest control method of inoculating the soil with a bacteria that attacks the grub had been completed for the entire state of Delaware and was showing definite results.

On the Wood Tick Dr. Rice said it was dangerous on the increase and a greater percentage of ticks were infested with the Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever virus. He said control and probably reduction of the tick could be accomplished by keeping all weeds cut down so that the presence of rodents, carriers of the tick in its early stages of development, would be discouraged. To infect a person the tick must be attached more than 6 hours, so an examination of the body twice a day and a removal of the ticks found is a desirable precaution.

A meeting of the Directors of the Club will be held at the home of President Rose Thursday evening, June 1st at 8:30 P.M. Next Monday's meeting will be a business meeting and will be at the Deer Park Hotel as usual.
