HOUSEWIVES—

While housecleaning this spring, why not check up on the stairs and steps both inside and outside the house? The Delaware Safety Council says that more people are killed as the result of falls on stairs than any other type of fall in the home. Make sure that stair treads are not broken, that carpeting and matting are not loose, and that railings are strong.

MOTORISTS—

Fall to stay in the proper lane while driving along a highway is one of the big reasons why 32,000 Americans are killed in traffic every year, the National Safety Council reported. Stay in line. Don't pass unless the road ahead is clear! Don't swerve from one lane to another on multi-lane highways. Keep in mind that the safest distance between two points is in a straight line.

I like to take DARES!

There are a lot of good cars this year. I've looked at them all, driven most of them, and I'll cheerfully grant that they're worth the money.

Every other good car is a challenge to me as a Ford dealer. Fine! I'll accept that challenge any day in the week. I'll take one of these new Fords of mine and show you more performance—more economy—more room and comfort than you'll find in any other car anywhere near the price!

I can't lose when I make that offer. Ford's V-8 engine beats them all for power, smoothness, gas and oil economy. And wait till you feel the sure, easy stops you get with those big hydraulic brakes!

But shucks! I couldn't begin to tell you the whole story here. Say—why don't you come in and try the car yourself? It's a dare!

"IN THE SHADE OF THE OLD APPLE TREE"

By Egbert Van Alstyne and Harry H. Williams

Egbert was born in Marengo, Ill., grandson of a Methodist Minister and son of the superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School. By the time he was seven, he played the organ, and at nine, he began to study music.

Van Alstyne got a job playing piano for a music publisher for $12.00 a week, on which both lived. Their first song hit, written in 1903, was "Navajo."

BIRTH OF A SONG

He sold newspapers in Rockford, Ill., and later got a free scholarship to the Chicago Musical College, under Flo Ziegfeld's father. Then he became a piano player and musical director of traveling musical shows.

They wrote over five hundred songs. "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" was written in the shadow of cafe lights, but typified the country boys' homesickness.

From Ascap Files

by Joseph R. Fliesler and Paul Carruth

They wrote and toured the West for a couple of years, and finally landed in New York on Broadway with $6.80 between them. That was in 1900.

Both are members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. Van Alstyne works at his music in Chicago; Gus Kahn is on the Coast doing songs for the movies.

Rain Fails To Spoil Appetites As More Than 250 Attend Barbecue

More than 250 persons were served at the Gypsy barbecue, a feature attraction of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association's annual May Mart, held Saturday and judged a financial success despite the rain which forced the celebration indoors.

A committee of men, headed by A Wesley Perry, was in charge of the dinner which was cooked outside and served in the cafeteria. Robert J. Boyd, who was in charge of the dining room, was assisted by Oliver Suddard, Hubert Guy, Daniel Stoll, Maurice Overly, Huey Morris, Herman Handloff, Edwin Shakespeare, J. Franklin Anderson, Kenneth Baker, The Rev. O. A. Bartley and Dr. John R. Downes served water and milk; Walter Powell and James Barnes were in charge of the coffee, and ice cream was served by Bowen Melburne. William G. Gillespie served the stew and rolls; Carleton E. Douglass carved, and Louis T. Staats served cakes and pies. Joseph McVey and Kenneth Kadow were cashiers, while the cooking was handled by William Eberhardt, Jacob Correll, and Mr. Gillespie.

Women in charge of collecting supplies from the various sections were: Mrs. Raymond B. Lynam and Mrs. Harold Little, Milford Cross Roads; Mrs. Frank Futcher and Mrs. Esmer Wilson, Elliott Heights; Mrs. James Barnes and Mrs. James E. FOOD for THOUGHT

Begin to Plan a Garden Now

Now is a good time to plan for summer gardens. This is the time of year when Delaware meals become mostly bread, potatoes, beans, pork, and dessert. Vegetables are conspicuous by their absence. Housewives begin to look ahead to an abundance of fresh vegetables from their gardens. Many of us resolve that a year from now will find our shelves better stocked with canned fruits and vegetables left from our summer abundance.

Rural school lunches profit greatly from gardens planned especially for them. Some schools plant gardens on the school grounds. Other communities find it easier to care for school gardens planted and tended by the children at home. Parent teacher associations and other community groups can provide by summer canning much of the food needed for nourishing winter lunches.

Leafy green vegetables rank next to milk and eggs in the list of protective foods. Collards, kale, turnip greens, chard, beet greens, and spinach offer such a variety that each family should find a few favorites.

Tomatoes occupy a special place because fresh or canned they can take the place nutritionally of the more expensive oranges and other citrus fruits.

The Extension Division of the University of Delaware has information about gardens. Write for some of these bulletins and begin planning now for summer gardens and winter meals. The bulletins available are, "The Farm Garden," "Home Gardens," and "4-H Vegetable Gardening." Address your requests to the Extension Division, University of Delaware or to your County Agent's office.

Some Rules For Kick-Back Time

This is the time of year that farmers and their workers become victims of backward-whirling tractor cranks with resulting broken and sprained arms, wrists and fingers. To the aid of those who must continually pit their strength against balking tractor engines, comes R. M. Ramp, University of Delaware agricultural mechanics instructor, with the following rules on what to do and what not to do when starting tractors.

Don't hook thumb around handle. Keep the thumb with the fingers on the same side of the handle.

Always pull up on crank. Avoid spinning crank because this means pushing down on crank. On tractor models having adjustable spark, the spark lever should be set about half-way from shut-off position before cranking.

When timing parts are worn or if the magneto has been taken off and not put back right, the spark may be advanced to much and the engine will frequently backfire. Have a good mechanic fix this trouble.

Ramp remarks, "This matter of tractors and trucks kicking can mean serious injury at a time when all hands are needed for work. People who start gasoline engines by hand can well afford to be careful. Some years ago I heard of one farmer whose arm was broken when trying to start his car. And when his wife was cranking the car to get it started so she could take him to a doctor in town, the engine back-fired and the crank broke her arm."
