Del. Yacht Club To Hold Semi-Formal

Corsageless Damsels And Escorts to Dance Oct. 25

The University of Delaware Yacht Club is going to sponsor the first semi-formal of the year on Saturday, October 25, from 8 to 12 in the Field House. Following a trend in the nation's colleges and universities, this dance will be non-corsage; no orchids, gardenias, roses, sweetpeas, violets or poison ivy for the ladies. There seems to be quite a sentiment floating around in the lower campus in favor of this move. Perhaps it was just the males who kept the tradition going this long.

Because of this reduction in the total price of the date, the Yacht Club expects that it will be able to have the ticket prices a bit higher, $2.40 a couple, and provide a better dance for your money.

The dance will be high-lighted by the playing of the Royalists, well-known Wilmington orchestra.

One of the new features of the dance will be a coke concession, providing refreshments for those not lucky enough to have cars. And there will be no need to prop yourself against the wall to drink your cokes since tables and chairs will be provided.

Decorations will be in true nautical style. Strings of signal flags will provide color. In the center of the floor will be a dink from the Yacht Club. The boat will be fully rigged and ready to go.

'Whatchamacallit' Dance Nov. First

Have you ever been asked to pay one-half a dollar to witness a nightmare? Considering the price of nightmares today, the SGA's first dance of the year is a dead give-away. Yes, students, on Saturday evening, November 1, that big wood and concrete structure known as the Field House, will be the scene of an uproarious party with fun and entertainment for all.

The decorations are to be entirely new and novel for they will include everything imaginable. Does this sound enjoyable? Well, just come and see for yourself that it is not.

Here is a real opportunity to get acquainted with all your fellow students. This dance is to be STRICTLY STAG! Everyone is invited to attend. For you freshmen, this is the opportunity you have been waiting for to meet your classmates; and for you upper-classmen, here is your golden opportunity to see your friends let down their hair and have one of the most hilarious times ever had on the Delaware campus.

Informality is the keynote, and we mean informal. If you have a new tux or evening dress, wear it—or an old beat up sweater or T-shirt, wear it—or perhaps a nice pair of long johns with a blue ribbon tied at each knee; and if there's a bathing suit left over from last summer, don it once more, before you pack it away in moth balls for the long winter months, and come over to the Field House in it. Just make yourself comfortable and come on out to "Whatchamacallit." You'll have a grand time.

Univ. Represented At Tribune Forum

The University of Delaware was represented at the 16th Annual New York Herald Tribune Forum this week by IRC President Dolores Tondat and Review Editor Dick Kiddoo. In the sessions held in the Ball Room of the Waldorf-Astoria, the theme "Modern Man—Slave or Sovereign" was discussed by notables such as Carl Sandburg, John G. Winant, Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, UN Delegate John Foster Dulles, Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder, Dr. Karl Compton of MIT, Atomic Energy Committee Chairman David Lillenthal, former Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, Movie Czar Eric Johnston, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, author John Steinbeck, and Harold E. Stassen, GOP Presidential aspirant. Dorothy Maynor, negro soprano; the Robert Shaw Chorus, and the Margot Mayo Folk Singers provided the gathering with musical thoughts on the theme.

Intercollegiate discussions were held between formal Forum meetings at which delegates from various colleges and universities discussed the problems faced in their institution as well as national and international affairs.

ROTC Has First Formation Oct. 21

Tuesday, October 21, R. O. T. C. had its first formation of all student members.

It seems the manly stature of last year's freshman members of R. O. T. C. has so increased as to cause the officers in charge a lot of concern over outgrown uniforms.

Numerous phone calls have been received at the R. O. T. C. offices inquiring about the far-from-melodious sound of some sort of musical instrument. This is the result of ex-buglers attempting to display their dormant talents with newly-arrived bugles.

Veterans Have To Meet Requirements

Government-Paid Tuition Doesn't Mean Privileges

The Veterans Administration today cautioned veterans entering schools and colleges this fall under the G. I. Bill that they must comply with the regularly prescribed standards and practices of the educational institutions during their period of enrollment.

Government-paid tuition to an educational institution does not place a veteran in a special privilege class, VA said.

Student veterans must abide by all the rules and regulations of the institutions in which they are enrolled. They must maintain satisfactory academic marks. Willful misconduct or unsatisfactory progress are grounds for withdrawal of subsistence and tuition payments. In the past, cases of willful misconduct or unsatisfactory progress have been negligible and for the most part student veterans have attained academic marks

Parking Spaces Full Students' Aid Asked

To help alleviate the overtaxed parking facilities on the campus and adjacent streets, President William S. Carlson has asked that students and faculty members who live in Newark close enough to walk to their classes, refrain from driving.

Dr. Carlson said he believed that this gesture, as an act of consideration for the hundreds of students and staff members who are forced to commute, would relieve some of the burden on present inadequate accommodations for automobiles on and near the campus.

Pep Club Seeks To Bolster Univ. Spirit

Cheering Nucleus to Get Seats at 50-Yd. Marker

The Pep Club, a new organization under the sponsorship of the cheerleaders, has been formed in order to bolster up the seemingly low school spirit at the University. Serving as the nucleus of student cheering at football games and assisting the cheerleaders in developing new cheers and stunts, they hope to provide the shot in the arm which is needed to revive the old Delaware pre-war enthusiasm.

The Pep Club is still more or less in the formative stage. Members are needed for the successful carrying out of the plans made for it. Those who are interested, and this should include every member of the student body, are urged to come to Frazer Field on Wednesday afternoon between four and five.

And it is not going to be all work and no play for those who do participate. Seats on the 50-yard line are guaranteed for every member of this organized cheering section at all games. Those of you who remember standing in line for hours outside Wilmington Park in near-zero weather to get good seats will find this an inducement not to be valued too lightly. That is one of the tangible rewards, but there are others, which, though intangible, are just as important. There is a certain satisfaction in knowing that you are doing something that will make you a part of the University, and not just a silent observer viewing college life from the outside. So come out and join the Pep Club and help back the teams which have made Delaware famous in the past; and which, with your support, will continue to do so in the future.

Remember! 4:5 Wednesday at Frazer Field.

World Government Discussed by IRC

A discussion of one method of obtaining WORLD GOVERNMENT has occupied the International Relations Club at its last two meetings.

On October 13 the group, sponsored by Dr. John Munroe of the history department, held a general discussion aimed at finding out exactly what a world government would do, how it would be set up, and what obstacles stand in its way.

On October 7, a general meeting arranged by the club in the Chemistry Auditorium drew 100 persons to hear a talk on world government by Abe Bargman, a student at City College of New York.

Mr. Bargman urged his Delaware hearers to support the movement for an international regime with limited powers, sufficient to preserve peace but still keeping each nation's right to control its domestic affairs. He stressed the immediate need for action to win the race against World War III.

The weaknesses of the United Nations—from the veto power to its lack of proportional representation by population—were cited by the speaker to indicate that the

After a two-week layoff, the University of Delaware's football team will get back into action Saturday, as they face the Gettysburg Bullets at Wilmington Ball Park.

Of course, these two weeks have been anything but a vacation for the Hens. Coach Bill Murray has been sending his charges through daily drills in the attempt to strengthen both the offense and the defense. The big headache has been the pass defense, and Coach "Shack" Martin has been working overtime in the effort to perfect his boys in this department.

Trainer "Gus" Seaburg reports that the team will be in good shape physically, providing there are no further injuries this week during practice sessions. Ends Wray Hushbeck and Jack Gallagher, tackle Bob Campbell, center Bob Glisson, and quarterback Fred Sposato are back in shape and rarin' to go on Saturday. Coach Murray hopes to field his team in top shape for the first time this season.

The Delaware forces are hoping that "Doc" Doherty will continue his jinx over the Gettysburg squad. Last year "Doc" was the hero of the football game with three touch-down runs of 27, 67, and 87 yards respectively. Gerald gave the Bullets a rough time last baseball season when he stole three bases, including home. So the Gettysburg squad will be keeping a watchful eye on "Doc" in hopes that he won't break away again.

The Pennsylvania boys have won one and dropped two this season. They edged Western Maryland in their opening game by a 6-0 count. However, they dropped their next game to Lafayette 14-13 and last week they lost another close one to Lehigh by a 9-7 verdict.

Coach Hen Bream uses a single wing with an unbalanced line, a style which is entirely new for the Blue Hens this season. The visitors' attack will center around backfield stars Joe and Tony Cerveno, passer Ross Sacks, and triple-threat Charley Pambo.

The series stands at 3-2 in Gettysburg's favor so you can bet the Hens will be out to get even. Watta ya say we all show up to see them do it?

Junior Class Plans Big Feb. Weekend

This year the Junior Class is planning a big weekend including their Junior Prom. They are striving to obtain a name band from New York City; an agent has been assigned to pursue the necessary arrangements for the occasion. It is proposed that the dance be held in February consisting of a Valentine's Day theme. Thursday night, there will be a meeting of all Juniors interested in this affair. The all-out effort of all members of the class is encouraged.

The Juniors have planned to take over the campus the day before the dance and will be the hosts for the various festivities during the week. It is their earnest desire to make this dance even more successful than last year's magnificent dance.

The Juniors' attention is called to the fact that orders are now being taken for the official class rings. Balfour Jewelers will have a booth on the campus in the afternoons commencing October 27. They will

This Is It

We all know that the Delaware football will be trying to pull itself out of its first slump in seven years when they take the field of honor against the Gettysburg College Bulldogs on Saturday afternoon in Wilmington Park. We believe that each and every student of the school should personally rally behind the team which brought fame and national publicity to the Blue Hen college. In this interest, we beseech at least every resident student to assemble at 7:00 tomorrow night at the Women's College to begin what we hope will be an even greater show of spirit than that which preceded the Muhlenberg tilt last fall.

If each student who lives either on the campus or in Newark will spare an hour from the pressing duties which have kept him from previous rallies, and as many commuters who are physically able will make just one more excursion to Newark, we feel sure that we can make this one the biggest yet. Last fall when the Blue Hens were priming for their stiffest test of the 1946 season, they needed all the support they could muster. This week, after two successive defeats, they need it even more. It is our chance to show both the gridders and coaches that we appreciate all they've done to bring Delaware into national limelight, and that we're with them, win, lose or draw!

Let's all meet at the Women's Campus on Friday night and do a repeat on the snake dance and hullabaloo which made the Friday night before the Muhlenberg game last fall one of the most memorable in the long history of the University of Delaware. Show them all that we're good sports and good fans!! Get your fraternity house or dormitory out en masse—it's certainly worth an hour of anybody's time!!

Commuter Parking

One of the most timely problems brought to the attention of the Student-Faculty Council at their first fall meeting last week involved the inadequacy and proposals for the improvement of the commuter parking facilities.

It seemed to be the consensus of that group that more care on the part of the drivers in the utilization of the admittedly scanty area would go a long way toward solving the problem. It was brought out that a little courtesy and thought on the part of those who use the parking lots would be of untold benefit to all drivers. Such things as even alignment of cars, with room for each car to leave at any time are things which seem to take only a little more time and effort, which would result in far greater convenience.

A plan for the improvement of the facilities are underway, which will probably include resurfacing of the area behind Evans Hall, and marking off of regular parking lanes. However, time is necessary for these improvements, and we hope that each driver will think a little bit about the other fellow in an effort to improve the present situation.

RCK

TO EACH HIS OWN

By JACK BEACH

WOMEN: Remember last term, fellows? You had to ask for a date two weeks in advance before any social affair? A lot of us found that a little hard to get used to. Personally, we liked to roll in a place about eight o'clock and say "Let's go," but we found the hard way that this goes over around campus like a lead balloon.

This term we turned over a new leaf . . . you bet . . . we picked out a campus beaut and asked for a date over a week in advance. The next day she goes gooseberry hunting in the woods and picks herself a big bouquet of poison ivy. So what happens? . . . the big night rolls around . . . she sits on one end of the davenport and us on the other. Everytime we get within three feet of her we felt like grandpa with his woolles on.

Thanks to brothers Branner and Cavanaugh, we didn't catch it. Someone told them to use Octagon soap if you come in contact with poison ivy. So Sunday morning they stood us in the shower and scrubbed us down. Wonderful treatment. We admit we feel like a grated carrot and have very little skin left . . . but so far no poison.

Ah, women . . . wonderful though, aren't they? We always heard that they were made out of sugar and spice and everything nice, but this summer we read a legend that gave a little different recipe. Goes like this . . .

In the beginning of time, the God Twashti created the world. Out of the elements he created the sun and moon and stars, the hills and forests, and finally man himself.

All the solid elements were exhausted in the creation of man. When the time came to fashion a woman, none of them was available. So Twashti took the roundness of the moon, the undulation of the serpents, the entwining of climbing plants, the slenderness of the rose vine, the velvet of the flower, the lightness of the leaf, the quick glance of the fawn, the brightness of the sun's rays, the tears of the mist, the inconstancy of the wind, the timidity of the hare, the vanity of the peacock, the softness of the down, the hardness of the diamond, the sweet of honey, the cruelty of the tiger, the warmth of fire, the chill of snow, the chatter of the jay, and the cooing of the dove.

All these he combined to make woman.

Men . . . well, no one ever took the time to rewrite their recipe and as things stand they are still being whipped together with the same wierd concoctions . . . toads, snails, and puppy dog tails.

PEP-FEST: Know why I'm going to the pep-fest tomorrow night? Not because the editor told us off in an editorial last week. No, that's not why. I don't like to be told what to do. No, I'm going for a couple of personal reasons.

I'm going to go because you're going, and when you all go, there's going to be a big crowd. I like crowds, and I'm going to stand among you and let the light from the bon-fire dance on my face. I like that too. And I'm going to shout my head off just because Sally Heinel, Jane Gordon, and Jean Hemphill, and all the others want me to shout. Then I want it to get real quiet so you could hear a pin drop and have Jack Messick step out and say

"We let you down the past couple games. We tried, but we didn't win. It wasn't your fault. We know you were all behind us, hoping, praying . . . we didn't pull through . . . but we are tomorrow . . . we're going to win because you want us to, and that's good enough reason for the team. I'll not thank you now for the big turnout tonight, but wait and let the team show their thanks tomorrow. I know they can do it, and will."

Then I'm going to feel like a chump, but I'll even like that too, for when the band plays the next song, I'll feel like shouting all the more.

Then, as the fire dies down, I want to get in a big line and snake dance around the embers, then all the way across the field. And I want to fall down a couple times going up the embankment, then laugh and hurry to catch up, dance past the Sig Nu's and Sig Ep's, right across Main street. And I hope the line is so long that it holds up traffic half an hour. Then I want to follow the crowd down between Harter and Brown Halls and form in a mass facing the wall. I want to get down on my hands and knees with everyone else and observe a minute's silence, and then, with the blue hen standing up there on the wall looking down at me, I want to throw my arms and body back and forth three times, like Mohammed, and say to that bird, "Allah, Allah, Allah."

Then after I've paid that little homage to the blue hen I'll feel down deep inside—we're going to win—and I bet by golly we do!

FRATS: PLEASE NOTE: How did that old fable go the man told his sons? A twig alone is easy to break but a bundle can't be cracked. Something like that.

That's what a fraternity is. A bundle . . . a fellowship . . . a brotherhood. We took some low blows last spring. A lot of people couldn't see of what good a frat was to a campus. What say we show them at this pep rally? With five frats and an average of fifty men per house—fifty men who by being frat men show that they like the fellowship of working together—let's meet on Woman's Campus before the pep fest and when we come up campus let's have every girl from every dorm with us.

A.E.Pi think they have more contacts on lower campus than Phi Kappa Tau. Phi Kappa more than Sig Ep. Sig Ep more than Sig Nu. Sig Nu more than K. A. and . . . well, is it a challenge?

We'll meet down campus at 7 o'clock and when we come up it won't be two by two, but fifty by fifty.

Weather Angle

October 24 to 26th will be a cloudy and mild period with moderate to heavy rains on the 25th and 26th. However, it may turn clearer and cooler on the 26th with a severe drop in temperature on the morning of the 27th. The 27th to 30th will be a clear and cold period with minimum temperatures of freezing or below, and northwest winds. October 30th will be cloudy and cool with occasional light to moderate rains. November 1st will be rainy followed by cloudy and warmer weather in the afternoon as the wind changes from northeast to southeast.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ed Note: The views expressed in letters to the editor are those of the writer of the letter and do not necessarily reflect the policy of the REVIEW.

Dear Editor:

In the NEWS-JOURNAL of Tuesday night, October 21, the editorial printed in last week's REVIEW was reprinted in its entirety. It is a disgrace to the University of Delaware to permit such an article to appear in a paper which is read throughout the state. Need we air our dirty linen to the public? Let's keep our troubles to ourselves.

The majority of the students on this campus are veterans. The attitude of veterans toward collegiate spirit has received enough attention.

There is no necessity for laying the blame for lack of school spirit on the shoulders of newly-elected officers. If the students do not follow the officers THEY elect, there is little these officers can do.

The REVIEW should endeavor to build up student spirit, not to antagonize the whole student body. Your editorial was questioned by members of the REVIEW staff before it was printed. A certain amount of care and thought should be exercised before printing questionable material. May we ask who released this editorial for publication in the NEWS-JOURNAL?

Dear Editor:

It seems to us that instead of trying to help students work their way through college, the latest policy of the University of Delaware is to find excuses to keep us out of jobs on campus.

An example of this "New Deal" is the book store episode. All of the undergraduates received notice of a drastic cut in working hours, and also the understanding that after two weeks of this we would be laid off. This is a fine example of the encouragement offered by the University of Delaware, the only college we know of that does not provide jobs for those who have enough initiative and interest in their education to work for it!

Can't something be done!!!!???

The Poet's Corner

A MAIDEN'S OATH—

In response to the comments made on "Bachelor's Ode"

To Dorothy W. McNeal

I longed for fond affection
From love too cruel to care,
And now to my collection
I add one more despair.

I let my heart be broken
With foolish mens' conceit,
Who let their love be spoken
With lies that spelled deceit.

And so with haste I'm leaving
And going far away,
For men are too deceiving
And love for just a day.

And tho' I leave with gladness
To know you can't trust men,
I've paid the price with sadness
To learn it all again.

For I have lived with sorrow,
And drenched my heart with pain,
To let one more tomorrow
Change all the past in vain.

So here's the oath I'm taking
Within the eyes of men,
That they are all foresaking
So I'll not love again.

SPORT SHOTS

By DON B. REYNOLDS

A meeting of all prospective varsity basketball players will be held in the Field House October 27 at 4 p. m.

Yep, that's right. It's the middle of October and the basketball fever is beginning to strike. And why not? We have to admit that football is the big thing right now, but we should start preparing immediately for the biggest and best basketball schedule Delaware has ever had.

Several colleges, no bigger than Delaware, have been tops in the nation in this winter sport year after year. Small schools like Seton Hall, Bowling Green, Pepperdine, and Hamline, just to mention a few, have been whaling the day-lights out of some of the nation's biggest schools for some time now. Why not Delaware?

We've got some good material in this school, but in past years the complaint has always been that our schedule has not been worthy. That will hardly be true this year, as the Blue Hens tackle the powerful Temple University quintet for their opening contest, and follow that up with trips to Buffalo and Detroit.

Last year's stars, Gerry Bowlus, "Ace" Hoffstein, Bill Cole, Billy Nash, "Reds" McFadden, and Vic Wood will be back this season. These boys will get some help from newcomers Carroll Hauptle, Wray Husbeck, Barney Runcie, Bill Owen, and Skip MacGinnis.

We've got to get away from the idea that Delaware is just a one sport school. Basketball and the other sports should get some attention too, but they'll only amount to what the student body puts into them. Let's start getting behind our basketball team right now!

Soccer Team Loses To Bucknell, 6-0

Coach Max Kurman's soccer team journeyed all the way to Lewisburg to play Bucknell on Saturday only to lose their fourth straight of the season by a 6-0 score. The margin of defeat was not as bad as it sounds since the Hens trailed by 1-0 at halftime. That score came via a field goal by halfback Bob Mergo with only 15 seconds left to play in the first period. However, in the third period the Delaware squad, which was handicapped by injuries and resignations, began to weaken, and the Bisons pushed through again for two goals in the third period and for three more in the fourth period. The Hen booters refused to give up though, and in the last five minutes they came fighting back, only to miss on several near-scoring attempts.

Raynor and Weidenbacher starred in the scoring department for Bucknell, both men scoring twice. Mergo and Cookie got the other two tallies.

Delaware's dependables, goalie Ed Horney, and fullbacks Henry Walls and Gordon Van Sant, played a spectacular brand of ball for the booters.

This time the hard-running Lafayette fullback was stopped, but the Maroons went on to drub the Delaware yearlings, 25-0.

Credit goes to Helen Tierney who shivered in her goalie pads throughout the Blue Chicks vs. What-Not hockey game last Sunday after being beamed on the noggin in a pre-game practice. It takes a lot of nerve to watch between five to eight dashing girls stampede toward you, sticks flashing to drive for a goal. Despite her fear of being slugged again, Helen carried out a superb job and thwarted several of the opponent's prospective goals by her quick thinking and unorthodox system of playing goalie.

Few of the Blue Chicks' hockey squad realized they were playing opposite the famed basketeer Betty De Knight of the Wilmington Bomberettes until the game was all over. Manning the important center forward post, Betty was a potential scoring threat throughout the entire game, requiring several defense men to keep her in check.

Elected by their respective classes, these playing captains and managers were chosen for this hockey season:

Senior manager and captain—Polly Burford.
Junior manager—Betsy Rife.
Captain—Shirley Taylor.

Captain—"Mike" Phillips.
Freshman manager—Jeanie Van Uffel.

Captain—Ruth Clements.
Hockey manager for the four classes is Scotty Murdock.

Recreational swimming has begun in the pool at the women's gym with great improvement over last year as to the number of hours the pool will be open for use. If an adequate amount of swimmers don't attend these hours will be dropped. The hours are as follows:

Day	Hour
Tuesday	11:10-11:50
Wednesday	3:10-4:30 7:30-8:30
Thursday	11:10-11:50 7:30-8:30

In the evening hours, swimmers must be in the building by 7:30 p. m.

Ski Club Arranges Pre-Season Trip

The Wilmington Ski Club has arranged some pre-season activities to help get the club off to a flying start. The first of these will be a week-end trip on October 25 and 26 to Donnerskopf (near Wanamakers, Pa., north of Reading) to clear the slope, work on the trails, and get the shelter and woodpile ready for the week-ends this winter.

Those interested will leave Wilmington by car at 8:30 Saturday morning, wearing old clothes and bringing axes, hatchets, and other tools available, and a lunch for Saturday noon. Pennsylvania Dutch meals will be served Saturday evening and Sunday by Mrs. Billig, and limited sleeping accommodations will be available. Send reservations with $2 deposit to Carl Denison, 501 North Rodney St., Wilmington, or call Wilmington 4-7695. Anyone interested in skiing is welcome to join.

Another event offered by the Ski Club will be a Skiers' Rally, November 14, at Breck's Mill, with the aim of getting further acquainted and helping to introduce new skiers. The meeting, starting at 8 p. m., will include Kodachrome movies of skiing in the California Sierras.

Blue Chicks Tie What-Nots in Fray

A tight duel between the Blue Chicks, the hockey club made up of Delaware co-eds, and the What Nots, a heterogeneous group of nurses, secretaries and other professional people occurred last Sunday afternoon at the 18th and Monroe street field, resulting in a 1-1 tie.

Both teams, handicapped by an uneven, unmarked, scarred field, matched in the first half, each scoring a goal. Opening tally of the game was racked up by the What Nots squad on a high flying ball that swerved from the stick of Lucille Cornacchia, inner. Following this leading score by their opponents, the Blue Chicks hit the cage for a tying point pushed in by Kauffman, elusive center forward for the Blue and Gold.

Second half found both teams skirmishing strongly and threatening their respective goals, but

With the addition of gymnastics as a recognized sport, the University of Delaware has advanced another rung up the sports ladder. It can now boast of having one of the best rounded sports agenda of any of the smaller eastern colleges. After a season of informal exhibitions and never-ending practices, Roy Rylander's "Flying Blue Hen Titans" have come into their own.

Gymnastics is the only sport which requires the full college year to practice, as all the other sports are seasonal. In fact, the summer vacation finds the gymnast spending his spare time at the Y trying to stay in shape.

Here is a funny twist to gymnastics. Many gymnasts return to school in the fall and during their very first workout they look like a million dollars, but then it takes them over two months of constant practice to master those same stunts again.

It is one of the best (if not the best) body-building sports in existence. Why, Bob Downing, U. of D. star gymnast, was doing handstands 10 days after he had his appendix removed this summer.

Gymnastic stars in other sports here at Delaware are: Murray Campbell, Baudy Grier, and John Bishop, swimming; Bob Carter and Joe Coady, wrestling; Dick Ewing, soccer; "Scotty" Duncan and Dick Ewing, baseball, and Baudy Grier and Walt Bartoshesky, track.

The athletic policy at the University of Delaware is "Ever Onward," and this can only be achieved by the fullest support of the Blue Hen student body. Let us revive some of that former high school spirit here at the U. of D. If you are in Newark Friday, then don't forget the pre-game Pep Fest, led by Bruce Ayars. For those who won't have a chance to be there, the S.G.A. will sponsor a pep rally and bon fire at Canby Pool starting at 8 o'clock. It will be followed by a snake dance, and prizes will be offered for the best decorated automobile. So purchase all those blue and gold ribbons, girls, and bring the fellows along. Let us show Wilmington what kind of support we give our team. After all, we still have an undefeated streak to protect on our home grounds. We haven't lost since 1940; why start against Gettysburg? Why? We will let you, the student body supply the answer in the form of a gigantic Pep Rally and exuberant backing. But always remember—it must be in an orderly fashion.

Freshman Sailors Get Four Firsts

Four of Delaware's freshman sailors, Kinder Brown, "Dixie" Dickens, Don Marsh and Dick Melixell went to the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, New York, last Saturday where they got four firsts, a third, a fourth, and a last place. They qualified for the National Freshman Championships at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Yacht Club in Boston to be held October 25 and 26.

Marsh, skippering in the "A" division, won three firsts in the first three races and was disqualified on a foul while leading in the fourth. Dickens ran up a last, a first, a third, and a fourth place. The races were run over a triangular course in typical Long Island Sound weather, with light breezes constantly shifting.

Navy Honored On Monday, October 27

Civic Luncheon Is to Be Held at Hotel Du Pont

Monday, October 27, 1947, is officially set aside as Navy Day. On this day millions of Americans will honor the one hundred seventy-second birthday of the United States Navy. The official sponsor in this district is the Navy League Society of Delaware, headed by Captain Hudson D. Dravo, USNR.

Never before has the Navy faced such a monumental task so vital to the immediate and future national security of the United States. The theme of this Navy Day will emphasize recruiting since thousands of new recruits are needed to complete the number necessary to man the new peace-time Navy. The job is to present the Navy as we know it in such a manner as to enlist the full support of every organization, individual, and governmental or civil activity.

As many persons as are interested are invited to attend the civic luncheon which is to be held on Monday, October 27, at 12:15 p.m. at the Hotel DuPont. Admiral T. R. Robbins will be the principal speaker. Tickets will be $2.00 each.

A memorial service honoring the nation's heroic dead will be held on Sunday 26, October, on the USS PC-603 at the Wilmington Marine Terminal. Relatives and friends of naval personnel who sacrificed their lives in World War II are asked to send a flower (preferably wild or home grown) to the Administrative Officer, U.S. Naval Reserve Armory, so that it will arrive prior to midnight Saturday, October 25. Following the appropriate memorial service, the flowers will be taken out to sea and scattered on the water as a tribute to those men of the sea who died that freedom may live.

Lt. Commander Elmer E. Scull, Administrative Officer, extends a welcome to all those interested, to come to the Open House at the Delaware Battalion Headquarters of the U.S. Naval Reserve on Monday, October 27. The Naval Reserve Armory is located at the Foot of Madison street in the Dravo Shipyard, Wilmington. There will be on display accomplishments of the members of this Battalion.

Wilmington is one of the progressive Battalions in the Fourth Naval District. Anyone who has had previous service in the Naval branch is urged to join this active group. Any former member of the Armed Forces is also invited to join; their former rate being adjusted accordingly. The civilians are not left out, for they are also invited to join, working their rate up from Apprentice Seaman.

This Wilmington Battalion is extremely fortunate in that it has a great deal more equipment, with which to work and gain instruction than most Naval Reserve Armories.

The Naval Reserve is a growing organization. All hands are invited to lend their active participation. The U. S. Navy welcomes you aboard!

Hillel Advisory Meeting October 27

The first meeting of the Hillel Councilorship of the University of Delaware, originally scheduled for Tuesday, October 21, will be held instead on Monday, October 27, at 7:00 p.m., in the Old College Lounge.

The principal speaker at the meeting will be Dr. William S. Carlson, President of the University, Rabbi Herbert L. Dross of Wilmington, advisor to the Hillel Councilorship, will also speak. The talks will be followed by an election of officers to positions left vacant by students leaving the University. Following the elections, refreshments will be served.

Hillel is a nation-wide organization of Jewish college students; its purpose on the University of Delaware campus is to teach Judaism in its many aspects, and to maintain a cultural and social program, to be determined by the members of the organization. It is hoped that all Jewish students will turn out for this first meeting, and get the organization off to a good start.

Newman Club Is In Full Operation

The fall schedule of activities of the Newman Club was in full operation this week with the presentation of the first guest speaker of the term at a club meeting, and the publication of the season's first edition of the Cardinal.

The guest speaker, Rev. Edward J. Schlotterbach, O.S.F.S., a member of the staff of the Salesianum School, Wilmington, spoke on "The Church's Answer to the Modern World" at the Tuesday night meeting in the East Lounge of Old College. Father Schlotterbach was recently released from the Army Chaplain Corps, with which he served for more than three years.

More than 400 copies of the Cardinal were distributed to Catholic students on campus Saturday through the college mail facilities. The paper will be published bi-weekly, preceding the scheduled meetings of the club. The staff of the paper is comprised of Mary Agnes McDowell, Mary Grant, Edward Miller, James Reagon, and Martin Stewart.

The Newman Club is in charge of a special committee until the fall election of officers.

The membership cards were distributed for the first time at the Tuesday night meeting, and the club dues have been set at one dollar per term.

Music Department

The Master Class for Voice will be held Monday at 4:30 p. m. in Old College, immediately following the Piano Seminar for Accompanists. The Master Class for Vocalists will be directed by Miss Hilda Somers, new instructor in voice.

The Master Class for Piano will meet on Wednesday at 4:00 p. m. under the direction of Miss Grace Berry, piano instructor.

Concert Band Will Tour State Schools

Following the football season the University Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. John R. King, will begin its annual series of concerts. A number of these concerts will be presented on campus, and in addition, last year's successful tour among downstate high schools will be repeated.

Mr. King has indicated that the band will feature works written originally for band by contemporary composers, such as "Suite Francaise" by the French composer Darius Miland. Also to receive emphasis are the works of American composers, notably George Gershwin, Aaron Copland, and Morton Gould.

The woodwind quintet, woodwind quartet, and brass quartet, highly acclaimed last year will participate in the regular concert series.

The Newark Civic Orchestra, now in rehearsal under Mr. King, will open its concert series in about eight weeks. Works to be performed include the "Overture to Rosamunde" by Schubert, "Concerto Grosso" by Corelli, and the "Clock Symphony" of Haydn.

Although there has been some response to a previous plea, players of stringed instruments, especially the stringed bass, are urged to see Mr. King in Old College in regard to positions in the orchestra.

Dr. Kase Speaks At Alfred University

Dr. C. Robert Kase, director of dramatics at the University of Delaware and president of the American Educational Theatre Association, was the principal speaker last week-end at the New York State Theatre Conference, Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y.

Dr. Kase, who also is a member of the board of directors of the American National Theatre and Academy, was in charge of a round-table discussion on "What Should be the Objective of the School and College Theatre Program?"

The New York conference, sponsored by the National Theatre Conference, is similar to the Delaware Dramatic Conference.

Eleven Added To Engineering Dept.

Appointment of 11 new members to the staff of the School of Engineering was recently announced by Dean David L. Arm. These appointments include one department chairman, two professors, two associate professors, and three assistant professors. These new men are filling a number of key positions on the staff of the school and will greatly strengthen the offerings in engineering.

Dr. Robert L. Pigford was named Professor and Chairman of the Division of Chemical Engineering. He received his B.S. degree from the Mississippi State College and his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Illinois. Dr. Pigford was formerly in the Engineering Research Laboratory of the du Pont Co. in Wilmington.

Those named to professorships are George M. Dusinberre, who was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy and the Naval Academy's Post Graduate School, and received his M.S. in Mechanical Engineering from Columbia University; and Dr. Julian W. Shields, professor of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics, who received his degree of Civil Engineering from the University of South Carolina, master's and doctor's degrees in Civil Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and has been in charge of standardization and codification work for the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

New associate professors are Harry S. Bueche, holding degrees from the U. S. Naval Academy, Villanova College, and Iowa State College; and Frank Zozorra, graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology and Yale University, who has taught at University of Idaho, University of Wisconsin, Lafayette, and Purdue.

The three men named assistant professors are Salvatore A. Guerrieri, in the division of Chemical Engineering, Edward C. Lawson, Jr., Mechanical Engineering, and William E. Piper, also in Mechanical Engineering.

In addition, three instructors, Graham P. Mulligan, Charles D. Taylor, and Daniel F. Clements, and eight graduate assistants, Walter J. Dougherty, Milton W. Harper, Hugh Francis Hart, Richard K. Rathmell, Chan Hui Chou, Eugene Miller, Ellsworth K. Holden, and Alexander Sesonske, have been appointed.

both defenses held and the score remained tied 1-1.

Spared by Betty DeKnight, well-known Wilmington athlete, the What Nots ensemble gave the defensive Blue Chick backs considerable trouble but failed to score.

Stellar goalie, Helen Tierney, of the Delaware squad, blocked many "near" goals by her quick thinking and fast play on the defense.

Next week the Blue Chicks will meet the powerful Quaker Maids, alumni of Friends School, at 2:00 p. m. on the Friends field.

Theatre Workshop To Be Organized

There will be a meeting of faculty members, students, and townspeople Friday evening, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p. m. in Room 210, University Hall, for the purpose of discussing and organizing an Experimental Theatre on the Delaware campus. This will be a theatre workshop devoted primarily to the production of short plays of an experimental nature.

All interested students are invited to attend.

Methods of Meat Cookery to Be Seen

"Modern Meat Cookery," a demonstration showing the latest methods of meat cookery, will be presented by Miss Doris Keefe, on Monday, October 27, in Room 2, Robinson Hall, at 1:10 p. m. Miss Keefe is a member of the field staff of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, an educational and research organization which represents the entire live stock and meat industry.

The program will stress timely and practical information not only on the preparation of meat for the table, but also on the nutritive value of meat, and on easier and better meal planning.

An important point that will be stressed by Miss Keefe throughout the program is that meat should always be cooked at low temperature.

Homemakers present at this program will each receive a copy of the Board's meat recipe book "Modern Meat Cookery." This booklet has been prepared especially for the program and will contain recipes prepared in the demonstration and other valuable recipes and cookery rules. Miss Keefe will assist homemakers attending the program with their food problems.

NOTICE

There will be a short (15-20 minutes) organizational meeting of prospective students desiring Shorthand &/or Typing—Monday, October 27, at 7:15 P. M. All interested are urged to attend meeting in the Newark High School Auditorium.

The cost of the course will depend upon the number enrolled; i. e. (the more enrolled the less the cost).

Cat Badly Needed In E-52 Production

Has anyone seen a Felis libyca, male gender, running loose on the campus? If so, catch him and bring him to Mitchell Hall, October 24th at 4 p. m. No reward is offered. At that time, Punk, the family cat in the forthcoming E-52 production of "Years Ago" will be chosen. This role needs very little acting ability and a capacity for remembering dialogue is not absolutely essential; however, he must be capable of taking directions and reasonably affectionate to the other members of the cast with whom he must associate. One more important requisite: There must be no mouse hunts between acts! Don't forget, be here with your cat at 4:00 on Friday, October 24th.

This play by Ruth Gordon is an autobiographical account of life in Wollaston, Massachusetts, in 1912. The role of Punk completes the family circle, the chief characters in "Years Ago." Roscoe Smith has the role of Miss Gordon's father, Clinton Jones, a debt-ridden factory foreman eager for his daughter to choose a life of security. In the role of the peace-making Mrs. Jones, torn between her husband's beliefs and Ruth's ambitions is Sybil Levenson.

Taking the heroine's role is Margaret Guenveur, who hopes to have a stage career of her own rivaling that of Miss Gordon. Because the leading character of "Years Ago" became the famous actress of her youthful dreams, there are interesting comparisons to be found between the E-52 production and Miss Gordon's story. Also cast are: Carolyn Bullis, Florence Reynolds, Mae Singer, L. Robert Hopkins, William Whedbee, and Robert Levine. The play will be presented at Mitchell Hall on the evenings of November 6th and 7th, and students will be admitted with their Student Theatre ticket.

At their first meeting of the season, the E-52 players received the following staff assignments: Assistant director, Marilyn Greenberg; production manager, Marjorie Fothergill; stage manager, Frank Buck, Jr.; scene designer, William A. Wise, Jr.; scene painting, William Tawes; lighting, Spofford Beadle; sound effects, George Irving; properties, Amanda Abbott; costumes, Jane Booker (Acting); make-up, Marilyn Greenberg; prompting, Ann Frazier; business, Irene Short; publicity, Joseph McVey; photography, Anthony Fauerbach.

Send It to The Cauldron Editor

The other day while sitting in DeLuxe, a freshman hesitatingly told me that she was interested in writing. She was thinking of submitting something she'd written to The Cauldron, but she just wasn't quite sure about it.

"I know lots of students who have written stuff that might be good for the college magazine, but they're sort of afraid to send it in. That's the way I feel," she said.

"I don't know why," I told her, "because the magazine wants all sorts of material from as many different people as possible. The freshmen have just as good a chance as anyone else."

"Does it have to be a short story? I mean—can it be something I've written for composition class?"

"Sure it can," I told her. "It can be a character sketch, or a vignette, an essay, a poem, a scene from a play—or a short story. It doesn't matter what you write, but how you write it. What sort of thing did you write?"

"Well, I've written an essay—but I don't think it's good enough. I mean the ending doesn't seem right."

"I tell you what," I said to her. "You send it to The Cauldron, Box T, and the editors will read it very carefully. If it has any possibilities they'll get in touch with you and help you make any necessary changes. That's what editors are for, you know."

"That's what I needed—some encouragement," she said. "I think the other kids do, too."

"We'll be glad to help anyone. And tell them we'd appreciate it if they'd send in their material soon. The earlier the better. You know the deadline is November 17th."

Well, the freshman I met in DeLuxe that day, sent her essay in. The editors liked it; all it needed was a stronger ending. We talked to her—giving her what pointers we could think of, and the way she has revised it is really good. When November 17th rolls around we'll ask her for a brief biographical sketch to print with her essay and then she'll know she's made the grade.

Yacht Club Will Welcome Members

Meetings Held in Rec. Hall Wednesday Nights

For those of you who would like to sail, but do not know how, the Yacht Club offers courses in sailing for beginners. Included in the course are nomenclature rules of the road; marline-spike seamanship (can you tie a Matthew Walker, a Spanish masthead, make a long splice?) racing tactics (how to luff, blanket, backwind). All this and lots more, with practical courses in the Spring, are taught by Aubrey Smoot in Recitation Hall on Wednesday evenings at seven. Come up and see how easy all this complicated-sounding stuff really is. Remember—Recitation Hall, Wednesday evenings at seven.

Jingle bells may not seem strictly nautical, but Yule greetings are in order. Again this year, the Yacht Club is offering Christmas cards for sale. These cards, which feature a snow scene of Brown Hall and Old College, will go on sale during the first or second week of November.

Bright Delaware blue megaphones, with "Delaware" in blue and gold, will be on sale at the Pep Fest Friday and the game in Wilmington the next day.

If any of you who are members want to go sailing, call the First Lieutenant, Bill Osborne—Newark 2-1771. He has the sails, and would like to have advance information in order to avoid mix-ups.

Get in your sailing now, for the season is almost over, and the TWILIGHT must be stored for the winter. A boat trailer is needed for this, and the loan of same for a day would be greatly appreciated.

The Yacht Club will meet every first and third Thursday in the month in Old College Lounge or Recitation Hall.

265 Now Enrolled In School of Education

The University of Delaware's School of Education has announced the enrollment of 265 students, of whom 154 are registered in the School of Education and 111 in the School of Arts and Sciences and the School of Agriculture. Forty-three of these students are preparing to be elementary teachers, 154 are preparing to be high school teachers, and 68 are preparing to teach physical education.

This year's enrollment, in contrast to last year's enrollment of 149, has been doubled. Of the 149 students, 26 were preparing to teach elementary education, 83 secondary, and 40 physical education.

However, the increase is not noticeable in any particular field of education, but rather the increase is in the total number of persons enrolled in the School of Education.

With the exception of three new members the school's faculty remains the same as last year's. The new members include Mr. Paul Hodgson, part-time instructor in agricultural education; Dr. Glenn C. Dildine, instructor in Basic Human Development, and Dr. Milosh Muntyan, instructor in Community Understanding and Secondary Education.

Ag Club Holds First Meeting

To the pleasure and interest of all who attended, the first meeting of the Agricultural Club for the current semester got off to a good start. With President Frank Thomas at the helm for his initial try, a host of new and old business was presented to the members at large. Among the more interesting topics discussed and approved was plans for an Ag. newspaper to be known as the "Aggie News," two Ag. student bowling teams to compete in the Wolf Hall bowling league, and a discussion of a future Father and Son Banquet. At this point in the meeting the program chairman, Frank O'Day, introduced various members of the Agricultural Faculty and Research Department in order that they might briefly relate interesting details of their present work and projects of research. In the poultry field a nation-wide "Chicken of Tomorrow Contest" to be held in Delaware ($5000 prize) was announced along with informing facts concerning the control of diseases in Delaware's multi-million dollar poultry industry. The Entomology department also related an interesting control program of mosquitoes at Delaware's shore resorts as well as some details of the more recent Polio spray program. The modern expansion of the insecticide field as applied to old insect pests with remarkable results was brought out. Dr. Manns, a former and well-liked member of the Plant Pathology Department then concluded the meeting with advice on topics of wide interest to the student as well as the faculty members present.

House Manager Is Elected at Brown

At a general meeting of the residents of Brown Hall, the hall officers were elected for this term. Charles Poreh was chosen to be House Manager, and Bud Haines was picked to be Treasurer. After the general house meeting, each floor had an election of floor representatives, with the following being chosen: Warren Heaps, first floor; Bud Haines, Luke Selby, first floor; Bud Haines, Luke Selby, first floor; Jim Williams, second floor; Kurt Seligman, Louis Liarakos and Philip Williams, third floor; and Mahlon Schoff, fourth floor.

Sigma Nu Holds A Fete For Freshmen

Eighty-eight freshmen women were entertained at a party held in their honor on Friday, October 10, by the members of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. The party, which has become an annual pleasantry for that fraternity, was held in the chapter house at the north end of the campus and was under the special management of Bill Maloney, Frank DuBell, Jim Clements, and Bauduy Grier.

Members of the frat met the frosh girls on the lower end of the campus and after attending en masse the pre-Bucknell game pep-fest, proceeded to the house for an evening of dancing and a general insight as to the machinations of a fraternity chapter. Cookies, baked by the girls in the home economics department, and punch were served in the downstairs' den, which was recently remodeled and refinished by the members, and which almost got more attention than the refreshments.

Dancing was on a competitive basis (for the girls) with each visitor having the privilege of cutting in on a member, after which the member would sign the paper five-armed star pinned on the co-ed's breast. The girl having the most signatures at evening's end was awarded a handsome, strawberry lollypop.

The long-to-be-remembered evening wound up shortly before the 10 o'clock curfew with a rousing song-fest around the piano led by the popular Sigma Nu chorus and accompanied by Don McClelland.

equal to or above the non-veteran students.

Holders of lapsed term policies who have not yet reinstated have only a little more than two months in which to do so under the plan now available, VA said.

Until January 1, 1948, such veterans need only fill out a three-question application form and pay two monthly premiums—one for the 31-day grace period during which the insurance was continued without payment, and the other for the current month.

Questions and Answers
 Q—What books and equipment does Veterans Administration supply or pay for while a veteran is taking education or training under the G-I Bill?

A—VA pays for all books and equipment that the school requires of all students in the same course.

Q—May I change the course I am taking for another that I like better?

A—Yes. You may change your course providing you have VA's permission to do so. If the facts in your case indicate that a change will be to your best interest, VA will grant authorization for the change.

Theta Chi House Party Novel Affair

Can you remember when you were eight?

How did you look and what was your weight?

Your weight doesn't matter; that's immaterial to me.

But look in your album and what do you see?

Pigtails, perhaps, or long shining locks?

Torn dirty play-suits or dainty smocked frocks?

Whatever it was—come that way Saturday night.

We'll have a child's party and all look a sight.

The party will start at 8:30 on the dot.

So, come on, all dressed up—don't be a pot.

With Jean and Fred Sposato's novel invitations as a drawing card Theta Chi Fraternity opened its social season with a gala house party last Saturday night.

Pig-tails and short pants were the dress while such games as London Bridge and Skip-to-my-Lou offered entertainment in themselves.

The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rylander, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Steers.
