Reduce Sewer Tax 24c After Conference Of Phipps And Hartman

Council Concedes Three Items, Which Bring Assessment to $1.61; Other Items Still in Question May be Excluded and Cause Further Reduction

TO PAY REBATES

As a result of a meeting, held last Wednesday night in the Council rooms between George M. Phipps, a property owner in the newly annexed section of Newark, and A. H. Hartman, of the Consolidated Engineering Company, of Baltimore, supervising engineer for the town of Newark on the sewer and water improvements, the sewer assessment per front foot on property in the annexed territory was reduced from $1.85 to $1.61. This reduction was made after it was brought out that a number of items included in the accounting for the original assessment did not belong there according to the agreement made between the Council of Newark and a committee representing annex property owners, and which was incorporated in the bill which was passed by the last meeting of the General Assembly. There were further items questioned and protested, and it is possible that a further reduction in assessment made be approved by the Council of Newark. At a special meeting last Thursday night, the revised assessment of $1.61 was approved by the Council of Newark, and the secretary was instructed to mail rebate checks to property owners who had paid the assessment.

At a regular Council meeting, April 2, George M. Phipps appeared before the meeting and questioned items in the sewer accounting which amounted to $21,472.52. As the Council could not explain these items, a meeting was arranged between Mr. Phipps and Mr. Hartman, which took place last Wednesday night. Mr. Phipps stated that he was representing himself, only, so that the meeting was officially a private one between Mr. Phipps and Mr. Hartman, at which

Kiwanis Pilgrimage Here, Next Wednesday

Eighth Annual Visit To University Will Bring Large Crowd; Banquet at 6.30

Next Wednesday the Wilmington Kiwanis Club will make its eighth annual pilgrimage to the University of Delaware. It is expected that the members, their families and guests will number over 300. Some will arrive in the afternoon and inspect the buildings and grounds of the university. Others will arrive in time for the banquet, which will be held in Old College, at 6:30.

This custom was instituted eight years ago by Arthur G. Wilkinson, business administrator of the University. This year Mr. Wilkinson is president of the Wilmington Kiwanians.

Mr. Wilkinson will be chairman of the day and will preside at the banquet. The invocation will be given by the Reverend Disston W. Jacobs. Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University of Delaware, will make an address of welcome.

CLEANS UP LOTS

Mr. H. T. Maxwell, of New London, Pa., who owns the lots on the east side of South Academy street, has been helping with the general clean-up campaign by having these lots trimmed and cleaned up. It is two of these lots that Mr. Maxwell loaned to the Newark schools as athletic fields, while their field was under construction.

SHORT ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

Major Clarence A. Short, formerly of this town, now president of the Wesley Collegiate Institute, Dover, was the speaker of the meeting of the Georgetown Rotary Club on Friday evening. His subject was "Friendship."

Aetna Company Will Arrest Close Drivers

The Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, through its chief, E. J. Ellison, gives notice that it will cause the arrest and prosecution of any person who follows a fire engine within a distance of 500 feet, or who drives alongside or near a fire engine when it stops for a crossing or at the scene of a fire. Several narrow accidents have been barely averted by cars racing to fires directly behind fire engines, and by driving alongside fire engines as they pull up for a crossing or a fire. The Aetna Company intends to take vigorous measures to discourage this dangerous practice.

Local Women Attend Nat. D. A. R. Conference

Mrs. Cann and Mrs. Cooch, Retiring State Regent and State Regent Elect, at Annual Meeting in Washington

Mrs. John Pearce Cann, retiring Delaware State Regent, left last Saturday morning to attend the National Annual Conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which meets this week at Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Edward W. Cooch, the newly elected State Regent, left yesterday morning, to stay until the close of the conference, Tuesday of next week. Both Mrs. Cann and Mrs. Cooch are stopping at the New Willard, which is the headquarters for the national officers.

The convention opened on Friday and will last ten days, each day crowded with business sessions, luncheons and teas. Following the annual board meeting at 10 o'clock on Saturday, April 14, at 1 o'clock, the present State regents gave a luncheon in honor of the president-general. On Sunday afternoon, April 15, from four until six o'clock, Mrs. Jesse Shreve, State Regent from California, gave a tea at the Hotel Lafayette. On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Cann attended a tea given by Mrs. Josiah Van Orsdel, at the Washington Club; also, one given at the Mayflower Hotel by Mrs. William Sweeney, to meet Mrs. Eugene Chubbuck. On Tuesday the Delaware State Regent will hold a meeting of the Delaware delegates in the Delaware Room of Continental Hall.

Mrs. Cooch is the representative from the Cooch's Bridge Chapter, D. A. R., at the conference. She was also the State representative on a national committee for the preservation of historic spots, which committee met in Washington yesterday. The committee is undertaking to get out a national guide book which shall be of assistance to history students and tourists, in that it will indicate all the historic spots in each State.

Mrs. Cooch will be confirmed as the new Delaware State Regent on Saturday, April 21. There will be a board meeting of new officers on the following Monday.

TWO FIRES

On Sunday afternoon, the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company was called to the J. Wirt Willis Farm, Glasgow, to extinguish a fire on the roof of a tenant house occupied by a family by the name of Crewe. Mr. Crewe was fighting the fire with a garden hose when the firemen arrived, and it was extinguished with small damage. It had started from a chimney fire. While the firemen were there they cleaned the chimney.

Monday night, the Aetna Company was called to the house of William Bishop, colored, New London avenue, to extinguish a chimney fire.

NEW STUDENT HEAD

At a meeting of the student body, Miss Eleanor Edge, of Wilmington, of the class of 1929 of Women's College, was elected president of the Student Self-Government Association of Women's College. Miss Edge will succeed Miss Geneva Lobach, and will enter upon her new duties at the opening of school in September.

MR. DU PONT HOST TO EDITORS

The editors of Delaware newspapers will be the guests at an informal dinner which will be given at the du Pont-Biltmore Hotel tomorrow, Thursday, evening, by Pierre S. du Pont.

Confer With B. & O. Official Tomorrow

Council Will Demand Watchman; New Members Seated; Appoint Committees; Storm Sewer To Be Constructed

At an organization meeting of the Council of Newark, held last night, Mayor Eben B. Frazer swore in and seated the new members of Council. Officers were elected and committees appointed. At a special meeting called after the organization meeting, a telegram was read from F. G. Hoskins, chief engineer of this division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, asking a conference with the Council of Newark at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, relative to the crossing question. The Council will meet Mr. Hoskins and demand 24 hour watchman service at the North College avenue crossing.

At a special meeting Friday night, it was ordered to get bids on a storm sewer which will rectify the condition of collection of surface water at Kells avenue and Academy street, as well as other spots where water backs up.

The newly elected councilmen sworn and seated were: Charles C. Hubert, William J. Lovett, William P. Wollaston and O. W. Widdoes.

Mrs. Laura R. Hossinger was reelected secretary and treasurer of the town, Miss Alice G. Kerr was elected bookkeeper. Charles B. Evans was reelected attorney. Daniel Thompson was reelected alderman. Robert Motherall was reelected assessor.

Mayor Frazer appointed the collowing committees: Light and Water: E. C. Wilson, chairman, O. W. Widdoes, William P. Wollaston. Town and Sewer: A. L. Beals, chairman, C. C. Hubert and W. J. Lovett. Street: O. W. Widdoes, chairman, W. P. Wollaston and A. L. Beals.

The following appointments were made by Mayor Frazer and approved by the Council: Board of Health: Dr. J. R. Downs, Dr. Seth Hurdle, Paul Lovett, O. K. Strahorn and R. V. Townend. Milk Inspector: H. R. Baker. Superintendent of Streets: C. R. E. Lewis. Plumbing Inspector: W. R. Kennedy.

Carnegie Foundation Aids Newark School

Provides for 7 Year Study; Spelling Bee; Oratorical Contest

In response to a request made by Professor Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of Newark Schools, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teachers have included Newark in an appropriation which will be set aside for selected schools in Pennsylvania, to be used for a seven years' study of pupils in grades 6 to 12.

Professor Brinser was informed of this in a letter from W. S. Learned, director of research for the foundation. As far as it is known, Newark is the first school outside of the State of Pennsylvania to be included in the appropriation.

The ultimate purpose of the study is to determine the relation between the public school and the college. As many pupils as possible are to be studied to discover individual traits, mental, social and physical. These findings will be expressed in terms of standard measurement.

The Newark schools are, today, giving a test in essentials of English, sponsored in over 70 cities by the

AT NEW CASTLE PRESBYTERY

Reverend H. E. Hallman, pastor of the Newark Presbyterian Church; Reverend Samuel L. Irvine, pastor of the White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church, and Reverend John MacMurray, pastor of Head of Christiana and Pencader Churches, were among the delegates to the 421st stated meeting of the New Castle County Presbytery which convened this week in Olivet Presbyterian Church, Wilmington.

Reverend Irvine F. Wagner, pastor of the Elkton Presbyterian Church, ws selected as moderator.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING

There will be a meeting at Odd Fellows Hall, Newark, at 8 o'clock, Friday night, to elect delegates from White Clay Creek Hundred to the State Democratic Convention.

Traffic Trap Catches Drivers In Stanton

Over twenty motorists were arrested Sunday in Stanton by New Castle County Constable Tinsman, for failing to come to a dead stop at the point where the road leading from the Lincoln Highway goes into the main road through Stanton. Monday night they were arraigned before Magistrate Lister, in Richardson Park, and fined $10 and costs. Tinsman stationed himself in a car a little piece down the main road from the intersection and handed summons to every motorist who failed to observe the stop sign at the intersection. A short time after he left his post an accident occurred at the intersection.

Howard T. Ennis New Head Of State P. T. A.

Elected to Succeed Mrs. Lewis at Annual Meeting Saturday; Body Has 12,005 Members

Howard T. Ennis, superintendent of the Home for Feeble Minded, at Stockley, and formerly State Commander of the American Legion, was elected president of the State Parent-Teacher Association, at the annual convention, held in the Plaza Theatre, Milford, Saturday. He succeeded Mrs. Robert E. Lewis, of Dover. About 700 delegates attended the meeting.

Mrs. Lewis, the retiring president, in her report said that the state body had 256 associations, with a total membership of 12,005. She said that while there were fewer associations than last year, that it was caused by the smaller associations combining, a procedure which had strengthened the body.

Mrs. Lewis pointed out the change in the operation of the State office, which is now under the Delaware Citizens Association instead of the Service Citizens.

Mrs. John D. Cleaver, treasurer, reported receipts during the year of $2,052.01, and disbursements of $973.56.

At the morning meeting Mrs. Ella Emery, of Seaford, gave a talk on the Dover Apple Blossom Festival, and Dr. C. A. Sargent, of the State Board of Health gave an address, "Healthier Children for Delaware." A luncheon was served at noon, in Grange Hall.

The main speaker at the afternoon meeting was Charles J. Galpin, director of the Bureau of Rural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Others who gave addresses were: Bishop Philip Cook, of the Delaware Citizens Association, and George S. Williams, president of the State Board of Education.

START NEWARK POST OF AMERICAN LEGION

A Newark Post of the American Legion became a reality on Monday night, at a meeting held in the Newark Armory. Fifteen ex-service men of Newark signed the charter. Dr. P. K. Musselman was chosen temporary chairman and Orville Little was chosen temporary adjutant. There will be a meeting next Monday night, at 8 o'clock, in the Armory, at which officers will be elected. All ex-service men are urged to attend. It is planned to have the Bugle and Drum Corps of Delaware Post No. 1, present to furnish music, and refreshments will be served.

The signers of the charter were: Arthur E. Tomhave, T. A. Baker, William P. Rhodes, C. R. Runk, Dr. John R. Downs, Dr. P. K. Musselman, Gerald Gilligan, Ira S. Brinser, Frank E. Mote, Frances L. Hall, Claude E. Phillips, D. W. Marshall, Paul D. Lovett, Orville Little, and W. W. Dailey.

CREATE DISTURBANCE

Kinsey Boyles, colored, was fined $10 and costs, last night, by Magistrate Daniel Thompson, charging disorderly conduct. He pled guilty and paid the fine. Roland Wilson, another colored youth, for which there is a similar warrant, will be produced in Magistrate Thompson's court, tonight, by his father. It was charged that these two youths were of a group, who have been congregating on a corner of New London avenue and creating disturbances. On last Sunday night, they interfered with services in a nearby church, and it was at that time that the warrants were sworn to.

Flourishes Weapons

Paul Robinson, colored, who gave his address as 526 Lombard street, Wilmington, was committed to the New Castle County Workhouse, last night, by Magistrate Thompson, to be held for the Court of General Sessions on a charge of carrying deadly weapons. He was not able to raise a bail of $1000.

Robinson was arrested late Monday night by New Castle County Constable William Wideman, who was called to the house of Archie Brooks, colored, who appealed for aid, saying that Robinson was threatening to kill him. When Wideman arrived at Brook's house, which is on New London avenue, he subdued Robinson and took an open knife from his pocket. A revolver, which Robinson admitted was his, was found on the floor of the room, unloaded. A search of the room resulted in the finding of an unexploded shell of the same calibre as the revolver.

Brooks testified that when he went home Monday night he found Robinson there, drunk. He said that Robinson tried to pick a quarrel with him, and that he, Brooks, punched Robinson. It was then that Robinson threatened to kill him, flourishing both a knife and a revolver. Brooks said that he had complained to the authorities sometime previous because he had told Robinson to stop seeing his daughter, which Robinson refused to do. Robinson claimed that he had not threatened to kill Brooks.

Another charge of driving off in an automobile without the owners consent was brought against Robinson. This offense took place on November 13, 1927, when Robinson and Thomas Tolson drove away in a car belonging to Andrew Lang, colored. Robinson claimed that Tolson drove the car off. Tolson is in jail in New Jersey, so this charge was dropped.

Robinson admitted that he had served a previous jail sentence.

Gray Carter Honored By Hopkins Boards

Receives Coveted Appointment To Medical Staff; Stood Second In Class

At a joint meeting, Saturday, of the advisory board of medicine of Johns Hopkins University, and the medical George Gray Carter was recommended for appointment on the staff of Johns Hopinks Hopsital. This is considered a singular honor. Mr. Carter stood second in his class of 75 at Johns Hopkins, and was one of eight seniors recommended for appointment.

Mr. Carter is a graduate of the Wilmington High School, University of Delaware, Oxford University, and will graduate from Johns Hopkins University in June. He was graduated from the University of Delaware in 1922 with the degree of bachelor of science. He was awarded the degree of bachelor of arts at Balliol College, University of Oxford in 1926 after studying medicine there from 1923 to 1926 as a Rhodes scholar. His father is editor of The Wilmington Evening Journal.

His brother, Dr. F. Bayard Carter, two years his senior, and also a graduate from the Wilmington High School, the University of Delaware, Oxford University in England, and Johns Hopkins University, is now resident surgeon in charge of the department of gynecology and obstetrics in the New Haven Hospital, which is affiliated with Yale University. While he specializes in surgery, his younger brother is specializing in internal medicine.

AGNES FRAZER WINS RING

Miss Agnes Frazer, of Newark, won second place in the Personality Contest, conducted in connection with the Wilmington Lodge, B. P. O. E., which came to a close last Saturday night. She was awarded a handsome diamond ring. Miss Madeline Beste won first prize, a Nash cabriolet. The general prize of the Mardi Gras, a Nash sport roadster, was won by H. W. Hill of Wilmington.

Miss Frazer polled 276,725 votes in the personality contest. Miss Beste's total was 361,525.

AMBULANCE CALL

On Saturday, the Newark Ambulance was used to bring Johnny Whittemore, home from the Homeopathic Hospital. T. J. Sprogle and John Cunningham made the trip.

State Republicans Elect 9 Delegates To Nat. Convention

State Meeting Perfunctory, Only Contest in New Castle Caucus; Du Pont Heads Uninstructed Delegation; J. K. Johnston and William Saunders State Committeemen

PLATFORM

The State Republican Convention, held in Dover, yesterday, was very much of a cut and dried, perfunctory affair. The only contest of the meeting was in the New Castle county caucus. Nine delegates from Delaware, headed by Senator Coleman du Pont, will go to the National Convention at Kansas City, as an uninstructed delegation. John K. Johnston, and William Saunders, of Newark, were elected as members of the State Committe from New Castle county.

The New Castle county caucus was held in the Opera House. General J. Austin Ellison and former Lieutenant Governor John M. Mendinhall were placed in nomination for alternate to Mrs. William K. du Pont, the choice of the caucus for delegate to the National Convention. After the first ballot showed a vote of 26 to 9 in favor of General Ellison, Mr. Mendinhall withdrew. This was the only contest in the convention.

U. S. Senator Coleman du Pont was elected to head the Delaware delegation. He, and Governor Robert P. Robinson and Congressman Robert G. Houston were unanimously elected as delegates-at-large. The three men had been previously endorsed by the four district caucuses in the morning. Judge Daniel O. Hastings was elected as alternate to Senator du Pont and will also act as his proxy as National committeeman. Mrs. Martha J. Schofield was elected alternate to Governor Robinson, and Mrs. Lena Messick was elected as alternate to Congressman Houston.

The other delegates elected are: from New Castle county—Mrs. Wil-

LEO MONTGOMERY DIED SUDDENLY, YESTERDAY

Heart Attack Fatal to Prominent Wilmington Merchant and Collector

Many friends throughout Delaware were shocked this morning to hear of the death of Leo M. Montgomery, vice-president, treasurer, general manager and principal owner of the M. Megary and Son Company, of Wilmington. Mr. Montgomery, who would have passed his forty-first birthday tomorrow, was stricken with a heart attack at noon yesterday, which resulted fatally at 7:45 last night. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made, but it is probable that he will be buried Friday. He was a member of the new Christ Our King R. C. Church. Mr. Montgomery was at his home, 2702 Tatnall street, Wilmington, when he was stricken.

Mr. Montgomery was a graduate of the Wilmington High School, Goldey College and the University of Delaware. He was one of the most successful furniture merchants in this part of the country, and succeeded his father as head of the Megary store. He was particularly clever at writing advertising. His hobby was the collection of rare first editions and bindings, and he had an unusually fine library. Among his collection is a page from one of the Gutenburg Bibles.

He is survived by his wife and three children, Leo M., 9 years old; Ann, 7 years old, and James M., 2 years old. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Mulrooney and Mrs. Frances Loughrey.

The deceased was a Past Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus, a member of Wilmington Lodge of Elks and the Alhambkra Club, connected with the Knights of Columbus. He took an interest in all these organizations.

AT NATIONAL MEETING

Dean Dutton, Dean Robinson, and Miss Gertrude Sturges are attending the sessions of the conference of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars, which is being held in Cleveland from April 17 to 19.

Tells Century Club Of Italy And Fascism

Italian Consul Tells of Birth of Fasci and Its Work

In modern times the greatest problem is that of the respective position of capital and labor. It is hardly necessary to picture the century old battles that have developed in every modern nation; its costly strikes, lockouts, political wars and demogogic assaults on genuine democracy. I will only state that these conflicts existed in Italy in a more acute and dangerous form since Italy does not have a wealth of national resources with which other nations are blessed; conditions which tended to make the conflict between capital and labor more far-reaching in its consequences.

Fascism with one master stroke eliminated the struggle, placing capital and labor on an equality before the State. It affirms the totalitarian function of the state as the guardian of all the interests of all the citizens and in so doing it proclaims that capital and labor must work systematically and in friendly manner study their daily problems of changing conditions and that instead of conflicts they must work in harmony for their mutual benefit and for the nation's welfare. To the fulfillment of this purpose, fascism has created industrial courts, composed of eminent jurists who are aided by councils drawn from the labor organizations of each industry and which will decide in case of conflict, the solution of the problem. The decision of the court becomes the national policy binding both parties. By the proclamation that in any conflict between capital and labor the third interest, that of the public, must be considered first and the establishment of the labor courts, fascism has opened an era of good will and co-operation between the forces of capital and labor, the fruits of which Italy is already enjoying.

It does not take a great amount of meditation to see that this change could never have been brought about under the old parliamentary government as it existed in Italy. Only a triumphant revolution could bring it about and make it permanent by the demonstration of its incalculable value to the commonwealth.

If the genius of Benito Mussolini had inspired and carried to perfection no other reforms but this one, the history of Italy would still have to rank this accomplishment with the restoration of the soverignty of the state, accomplished by Augustus following the Civil War engendered by Brutus and Mark Anthony after the assassination of Julius Caesar. But the great keystone of fascsim's monumental greatness will come with the establishment of the new method of representation of the people in the state which will establish in Italy a genuine democracy, animated by the philosophic spirit a true aristocracy, instead of political parties contending with each other for power on the basis of empty formulas and artificial doctrines, as Italy had experienced in the last fifty years of national life. All the people and part of them will participate in the government.

This will be vouchsafed by each human activity being organized into a guild or corporation as we call them. No human activity will be left unorganized. Each one of these organizations will elect its representatives to the provincial assemblies. Each provincial organization of every craft or profession will elect its representatives to the national assembly. Thus the national assembly will be composed of the direct representatives of all the people in each of its activities instead of being composed of professional politicians, mostly lawyers, as was the case in Italy, who knew absolutely nothing of the needs of any class except the play of practical politics. With this assembly the government will not only have a deliberative body truly representative but it will be able to have expert opinion from the very best minds of each organized calling, to enable it to formulate its policies and guide its actions. Thus Italy will be assured a national consultive body of the best minds every craft or profession can offer. This is not said to discredit the legal fraternity but only to point out that modern life is very complex and that a government deals in many specialized fields and a direct representation of all classes is needed. This is genuine democracy in that every interest and every activity will be represented and will participate to form the state.

The modern world seems only to be acquainted with the old explanation of an artistocratic class enjoying prestige and privilege by right of wealth, inheritance and title.

This type of caste aristocracy is naturally foreign to the Italian spirit and Italy came to know it only after the fall of the Roman Empire as it was brought there by various barbarian invaders. It is a type of aristocracy which is not only contrary to the Italian nature but fundamentally different to the Roman conception which consists in the absolute participation of all the classes in the government but articulated in a hierarchy in which every man rises to higher distinction and authority according to his talents and on his actual achievements and services.

Let no one infer from the foregoing that the Italians with their 3,000 years of continued experience undervalue hereditary traits and assign no importance to their transmission. On the contrary it would be hard to find a race having a keener appreciation of these facts which modern biological science so distinctly emphasizes. But in full harmony with the findings of biological science, the Italians know very well that not all of the offspring of race horses are good racers. Some may, indeed, fall below the common horse, but the offspring of one of these may again show ancestral traits. So the Italian people assign to the hereditary nobility a full share of favorable presumption but no special privileges, every one having to prove his own mettle. The illustrious House of Savoia, notwithstanding its military history of devotion and heroic deeds in the nation's service, in full harmony with Italian aristocratic traditions strives every day to maintain by the achievements of superb service its earned pre-eminence which finds in our sage soldier King the most beautiful expression.

Equality of opportunity is absolutely necessary to human progress but the right to have one's merits recognized and constitute the right to preferment over inferiors is equally necessary to true progress. Men begin equal but end in unequal stations, as unequal as are their natural endowments, their willingness to serve, their detached devotion to duty. This is the aristocratic conception of fascism. It believes merit and qualification and ability to serve are the sole steps to power and distinction. In this sense fascism brings to realization in modern Italy that sense of philosophical aristocracy so beautifully described by Plato and which only the Romans have ever successfully applied.

Eminent authorities of political science in every land have ever expressed that a true aristocracy could only exist in a genuine democracy. This may also be very well reversed and with greater message of truth—a genuine democracy can only exist where a true aristocracy rules. Fascism believes that this is true and because of this belief, it has been willing to fight, it has been willing to suffer, and it has shattered a pot-bellied demagogy that was desecrating the name of true democracy. It has placed at the foot of August Mother Italy the body of thousands of its heroes and to the successful application of this vital principle it has obtained the daily dedication of the heart of the Italian people.

A revolution designed to call the nation to a new life would be building on quicksand if it failed to recognize that the lasting value of any reform may be ultimately based on a moral foundation.

The old regime had completely neglected this obligation and to flatter the communists, socialists who had allied themselves with the atheists, and other enemies of religion, it had abandoned all interest in the moral education of the people. Fascism recognizes the value of religion as the foundation of true moral progress and it has by example and by practice recalled the masses of true foundation of morality. Where the previous regime, in homage to the liberalistic formula, proclaimed the state as irreligious, which is to say atheistic, fascism proclaims God's government of creation and affirms that men's progress lies in learning His law. It may be opportune at this time to dispose of some other misinformation regarding the foreign policy of fascism. Mussolini's firm direction of Italy's foreign interest has been described in some quarters as imperialistic and as the possible source of future wars. In this connection it should be remembered that Mussolini has negotiated and concluded more treaties of friendship and arbitration providing for the peaceful solution of disputes to prevent war than any other statesman since the close of the Great War. The real fact is that certain powers were very much accustomed to a weak, suppliant Italian foreign policy and have not yet fully adjusted themselves to the awakening of a people conscious of its rights; conscious of its great past and fully confident of its future. Rather than the charge of imperialism and warlike tendencies of fascism, it is more rational to bear in mind that there has been no definite step taken in Europe to insure the permancy of peace that has not had the effective co-operation of Italy. In fact, every effective step has been promoted by efforts of England and Italy who have even undertaken the weighty obligation of guaranteeing their fulfillment. It is enough to point to the treaty of Locarno and the wondrous distillation of its spirit and point out that its accomplishment was only brought about by England and Italy jointly guaranteeing its observation.

It is worthwhile to mention also the true proportion of the apparent tension of Italian and French relations shorn of all journalistic exaggerations and freed of catastrophic prophecies of international speculators, it is well to remember that France and Italy are not separated by any conflict of interests, that as sister states they are likely to quarrel with a gusto only possible among sisters, but which certainly never means war. Since the fall of the Roman Empire, France as the first born of modern nations that

Suburban And Farm Home Automatic Water System

Everite Home Water System Works Automatically, Needs No Attention

WORKS AUTOMATICALLY—NEEDS NO ATTENTION

For the suburban or rural home which is not connected to a community water system the Everite Water System is recommended by the Wilmington Plumbing Supply Company, 219 West Fourth Street, Wilmington.

There are three main factors in the selection of such a system:

First: Ease of installation.

Second: Efficiency of operation.

Third: Low operating cost.

Not a machine on the market may be installed with as little trouble and expense as the Everite—any handy person can do the job by using the complete directions furnished with the equipment.

Once installed there are no service troubles, and it is a lifetime system. Every part is guaranteed against defects and any part found defective within a year will be replaced without charge. The Everite is automatic and needs no attention except the filling of the oil reservoir about every six months.

The cost of operation is trivial, lower than water rent in most localities.

The Everite Water Pump is on display at the showrooms of the company and anyone interested is invited to call and look over it, or further information will be gladly furnished by mail if desired.

The selection of a water supply for your pumping system calls for the exercise of common sense rather than science or skill. A brook, lake, spring or a well may be the source of supply, but the characteristics of the water of the surrounding district must be known before the selection is made. Care is necessary to insure against contamination from polluted water which may flow from farm buildings, cattle grazing land, or impurities from the cesspool.

COUNTRY ESTATES AND SMALL HOUSE GROUNDS

The Place of Your Dreams That May Be Made to Come True

It is not alone money that will bring to a realization your ideas of your dream home. So many of us have experienced the great disappointment of looking at the plans of a home, then changing them, and afterwards regretting the stand that we took in insisting on the change. It is really hard to visualize just what the finished thing is going to look like. Often times just the effect that you want can be had for a small expenditure, but it takes experience to obtain such results. There are now experts who will gladly confer with you, and landscaping, just the way you want it, can be obtained.

It may be that you only want a new fence, you have in mind just what you want it to look like, you order it and have it erected, then comes your disappointment for the finished job does not look like what you expected. Mr. Walter G. Tatnall, Jr., whose office and show room is located at 1609 Pennsylvania avenue, Wilmington, will be only too glad to give you an estimate on landscaping, grading, road building, tree moving, greenhouse construction and ornamental iron railings and gates. Mr. Tatnall has been and is working on practically all the large estates in the vicinity of Wilmington. He would welcome you to call at his show rooms, for then only can you appreciate the great service he is in position to render you.

Chandler Approaches Silent Auto Motor

Numerous Factors Contribute To Silent Operation Of The Car

"It was only a few years ago that automotive engineers exerted all their experience toward developing power and speed with various types of motors. Since then, these objectives have been achieved and now quietness is the paramount consideration. The public wants quiet power plants and the public usually gets what it wants."

Thus Kenneth A. Drake of Drake Motor Co., Chandler distributors in this State comments upon the present day trend in power plant construction.

"Chandler has established a standard of quietness with its high-compression motor principle (which it has used for years) that was not dreamed of a decade ago and which is the result of exhaustive research," says Mr. Drake.

"An important Chandler feature which leads to quiet operation is the honed cylinders of all Chandler motors. The cylinder bores are not just ground or reamed but are honed to a mirro-like finish. This eliminates the initial wear when the car is first run, and insures from the start better and more quiet performance for the entire life of the motor.

"The crankshafts of the three Chandler series of motors are statically and dynamically balanced with counter-balance weights, thus reducing vibration to the vanishing point.

"The new Chandler manifold was developed after an extensive study of mixtures and proper vaporization," Mr. Drake stated further, "and exerts a marked effect on the performance of all Chandler motors. It eliminates power noise and at the same time promotes quick starting.

"High pressure lubrication to all bearings makes the motor literally float on a film of oil. There is no metal to metal contact anywhere."

SHEAFFER REPAINTING LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

For the second successive year the job of repainting the Lincoln University, at Oxford, Pennsylvania, has been undertaken by the Sheaffer Paint Shop of this city. Both inside and outside of the buildings are going under the brushes of Mr. Sheaffer's men.

The force employed by the Paint Shop has been doubled since the opening of spring, to take care of the spurt in business. Fire Prevention and Clean-Up Week was responded to nobly by the people of Newark generally and Mr. Sheaffer did his share in making this city one of the cleanest and most beautiful in Delaware.

ADJUST CAR FOR SPRING

"Set your generators back" is the advise of Ted Krueger, of Krueger's Battery Service, 1305 French Street, Wilmington. "Longer days and easier starting have reduced the drain on the battery. If the generator is allowed to continue its high rate of output the result may be an overcharged battery. It is a unit which should be first in the car owners consideration with the early signs of spring."

"BLACK CAT" IS UNIQUE SPOT ON STATE HIGHWAY

For the caravan an oasis, and a seadrome for the Trans-Atlantic flier, but for the tourist on the Delaware State Highway it is the "Black Cat."

On the highways from coast to coast the automobile has evolved everything from hot dog stands and road houses to free camping grounds, but the Black Cat is in a class by itself. Gas station, dining-room, hot-dog stand, dancing pavilion, menagerie, playground, everything to please the wayfarer.

Each year the Black Cat grows in popularity and its fame is spreading from coast to coast. Often during the summer a tourist from Oshkosh or Kalamazoo will let it be known that he heard of the Black Cat even in those far distant lands.

A New Feature

Starting with this issue, The Post will conduct a new merchandising feature. Page 3 will be devoted to advertising and information relative to a group of advertisers, who, in most cases, have a service to render in addition to the merchandise which they handle. In the news columns of this page, we will take little journeys, each week, to the establishments of several of these concerns. We will give some interesting information about their personalities, the service they render, things they are doing, or ideas they have developed. We believe these stories will be not only interesting to our readers, but in many instances include information that will be of practical value. This page will be, in a sense, a classified directory of established and reputable sources of service, each in its own particular line.

Tree Planting at Stockley Colony

The interest of every one is solicited in Tree Planting Day at Delaware Colony at Stockley, Delaware. Not only clubs, but individuals, will find in this movement a worthy avenue of usefulness. Those who have never visited the colony will find April 21 a happy occasion on which to go.

Miss Lockwood's letter in the People's Column of this paper will give in detail the plans for the day and the kinds of gifts you may appropriately carry with you, or send, if you should be unable to go.

Reforestation

General reforestation, with the harvesting of timber under methods that insure continuous growth, will preserve and in many cases restore the attractiveness of rural landscapes, the native fish and game, and widely available opportunities for outdoor recreation. The economic benefits from timber use and general timber replacement are as one with the social benefits from forest perpetuation, and any course calculated to promote the former will to an equal degree conserve the latter. I believe that this relationship between commercial forestry whether on public or private lands, and the outdoor interests of the country will become more and more generally appreciated, especially as the manufacture of timber products loses the stigma of forest destruction and is clearly associated with forest renewal.—W. B. Greeley, U. S. Forester.

Golf

What is this Golf?

Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a man to enjoy it. It is physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 clubhouse.

Golf is what letter-carrying, ditch-digging and carpet-beating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by gentlemen who required a different implement for every mood.

Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up, and the toughest looking after you have been at it ten or twelve years.

It is probably the only known game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it was too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These little balls cost from 75 cents to $25, and it is possible to support a family of ten people (all adults) for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the center of a "green." A "green" is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade and usually located between a brook and a couple of apple trees, or a lot of unfinished excavation.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200 worth of curious-looking implements, especially designed to provoke the owner.

Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what that purpose is. They are the exceptions.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes. Then he substracts six and says, "Made that in five. That's one above par."—Better Advertising.

PROF. KIRKBRIDE RESTS WELL AFTER OPERATION

Word has been received by the University authorities, that Professor R. W. Kirkbride, who underwent an operation, last Friday, at Johns Hopkins Hospital, is resting comfortably. It is too early yet to determine the exact results of the operation.

Professor Kirkbride, who was the originator of the undergraduate foreign study idea and director, in France, of the Delaware Foreign Study Plan, had been ill for several months in a hospital in Paris. He returned to this country on April 7 and went to Baltimore immediately. He later left for his home near Pittsburgh, returning later last week for an operation. The operation, which was of an exploratory nature, was performed by Dr. William Frontz, of the Johns Hopkins staff.

"In moral matters, all of us know what is the right thing to do without calling a committee together."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

April 11, 1928.

To the Editor:

Can any of your readers give me any information about the "Underground Railroad" in Delaware and the Peninsula? I am collecting material on this phase of pre-civil war history, which is a difficult task, because the secret nature of its operations prohibit the keeping of anything in the nature of written records by the people engaged in it. Consequently any scrap of information, no matter how small, as to the persons who participated, houses which were "stations" on the "road," personal reminiscences, family or local traditions of any sort, throwing light on the escape of fugative slaves from or through the peninsula, will be welcome.

As is well known, the "Underground Railroad" was not a real railroad at all—slaves escaped from their masters in large numbers during the two decades before the Civil War, and were helped along in their flight north so mysteriously, so quickly, and so successfully that persons unacquainted with the system said facetiously that they must have traveled on an "underground railroad." As a matter of fact, there was more or less of an organization among some people of antislavery sentiments who transported or guided fugitives along definite routes, from one house on to the house of the next person interested, who in turn passed the slave on to some friend farther on, and in this way the fleeing negro finally reached free territory, usually Philadelphia, from where he was often sent on to Canada. The Quakers in Delaware as well as elsewhere were prominent in these activities, notably Thomas Garrett, of Wilmington, who is said to have aided 2700 negroes on to freedom. Many incidents concerning this traffic are found in Still's and in Smedley's books on the "Underground Railroad," chiefly relating to the upper part of the routes, in northern Delaware and southeastern Pennsylvania. Wilmington was an important station on routes from Baltimore, from the South by water, and by land up the Peninsula. South of Wilmington, however, very little is known as to the routes taken by the fugitives, the persons who helped them along, and the other multitudinous details of the traffic.

I should be very glad to hear from any of your readers who have any information, no matter how meager, on any part of this interesting, but now almost-forgotten side light on the slavery problem.

Yours very truly,
H. Clay Reed

TREE PLANTING AT STOCKLEY

My dear Mr. Editor:

Tree-planting Day, an annual event at the Delaware Colony, Stockley, Delaware, will be held on Saturday afternoon, April 21, at 1:30 o'clock. An invitation to attend is extended to every citizen of the State to what is believed to be the most interesting occasion at the colony. All are invited to attend.

Tree-planting and Garden Day comes at a most agreeable time to visit the most recently built institution for the care of the feeble-minded. The exercises of the day will be conducted in the Kate Deemer Building.

The largest piece of re-forestration will be at Delaware Colony this year.

More plants and hardy shrubs are needed, and it is hoped there will be generous donations of these as in previous years.

The program this year includes talks and answering of questions by two leading specialists who had knowledge of Delaware's problem before the building of the Stockley institution. They were employed in several instances by the Delaware Commissioners for the care of the feeble-minded. Dr. C. T. Jones, a New Jersey State employee, and Miss Elizabeth S. Kite, of Vineland.

The members of the commission are Mrs. Coleman du Pont, chairman; Thos. F. Gormely, Selden S. Deemer, former Governor John G. Townsend, Arley B. Magee, John B. Hutton, Mrs. James Pennewill and Mrs. Harrington Messick.

Very truly yours,
Blanche E. Lockwood,
Chairman of the Day.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

Editor Post:

May I use the columns of The Post to express my appreciation to the many people in Newark, who gave me such hearty support in the Elks' Personality Contest. Through their good efforts, I was awarded a very handsome diamond ring.

Very truly yours,
Agnes Frazer.

Local Spelling Bee

The local Spelling Bee, of the State Spelling Contest being sponsored by the Wilmington Every Evening, was held last night. William Meredith won first prize and Elizabeth Larimore, second prize. Doris Strahorn won the alternate position. These three will represent Newark in the County contest to be held Friday night, in the du Pont School. The contestants were all of the Junior High and Grammar schools.

Miss Irene Wilkinson was in charge of the contest. The judges were: Mrs. A. D. Cobb, Mrs. Thomas Malin and Mr. Robert Gallaher. Professor Ira S. Brinser pronounced the words.

The participants in the contest were: Elizabeth Larimore, William Meredith, Raymond Lenhoff, Charles Lewes, Betty Heiser, Doris Strahorn, Harlan Herdman, Margaret Grier, Donald Lenhoff, and Virginia Grier, Beatrice Jamison, Josephine Blake, Margaret Pié, Anna Smith, Camile Heiser, Orville Richardson, Martha Moore.

Oratorical Contest

The New Castle County Oratorical and Declamation Contests were held in the Newark School last Friday. Ruth Phelps, of Newark, won the alternate position in the Oratorical Contest with an essay, "World Peace." Margaret Wilkinson, of Newark, won the alternate position in the Declamation Contest with a declamation, "Jane." These two will compete in the State Contest, to be held in the Plaza Theatre, Middletown, on Friday, if either of the two principals default. Eileen Kelly, of du Pont School won the first prize in the oratorical contest, and Gertrude Maguire, of Claymont, was first prize winner in the Declamation Contest.

Baseball Game

The Newark High School baseball team will play Smyrna, here, Friday afternoon.

State Committee Named

Practically the entire State Committee was re-elected with the exception of Adjutant-General J. Austin Ellison and Charles H. Grantland, Secretary of State, both of whom declined to serve again on the committee. Mr. Grantland, it is understood, will continue to be secretary of the committee, however. Harry G. Little also was not re-elected to the committee. The three new members of the committee are Mayor G. W. K. Forest, of Wilmington; John K. Johnston, of Newark, and E. B. Griffenberg, of Brandywine hundred.

Former Governor William D. Denney, as chairman of the State Committee, opened the convention and introduced Governor Robinson as temporary chairman, after reading a lettter from Senator du Pont expressing his wish for a harmonious convention.

Platform

The platform adopted by the State Convention endorsed President Coolidge's statesmanship and administration, as well as the records of United States Senator Coleman du Pont, United States Representative Robert G. Houston and Governor Robert P. Robinson. It particularly commended the effort of the present administration to outlaw war and to promote a better international understanding. It urged a continuation of the protective tariff; frowned upon corruption in public affairs; approved the record of the Republican National Committee; and urged a greater interest by women in political and governmental affairs.

A GENUINE HONOR

A notable honor has come to George Gray Carter in his recommendation for appointment to the medical staff of Johns Hopkins Hospital. Only eight seniors from a class of sexenty-five have been so recommended.

This would be an important tribute in an ordinary hospital or college, but none ranks higher than Johns Hopkins, either as a medical college or as a hospital.

Hence the genuine importance of such an appointment may be fully realized. George Gray Carter is a graduate of the Wilmington High School, the University of Delaware and Oxford University, his brother, Bayard, a physician, having also had an appointment to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar.

This instance of two brothers receiving Rhodes appointments so closely together is, so far as we know, without parallel. We congratulate the young men upon their brilliant success in their early careers, and we congratulate Mr. and Mrs. George Carter also upon being the parents of two extraordinary sons.

It is also a tribute to the Delaware schools which prepared these young men for the higher institutions they attended with such conspicuous success.—Wilmington "Morning News."

"Neighborliness is not hemmed in by latitude or longitude or any other geographical lines."

Lodge Notes

WORKMEN VISIT WILMINGTON

About twenty members and friends of Anchor Lodge, No. 4, A. O. U. W. went to Wilmington last Thursday evening to attend the meeting and open house of Wilmington Lodge, No. 1. The main features of the evening were installation of officers by the Wilmington Lodge, and the opening of their new banquet hall. Prof. Christian Sanderson and his Oak Grove School orchestra furnished music for the evening. Mrs. Marguerite Ilalling the Master Workman of Anchor Lodge, made a short speech in reply to an address of welcome. The Newark Workmen made the trip in a Stilts bus.

Anchor Lodge will hold a regular meeting tomorrow evening, at 8.00 o'clock.

JR. O. U. A. M. NEWS

Great enthusiasm is being shown in the membership drive of the American Flag Council, No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M. Twenty-five candidates are lined up at present and it is hoped to double this number for the Diamond Jubilee on May 17. Juniorism of the entire country will rally on the anniversary night to initiate large classes. All members bringing in at least one new member will receive a reward.

The American Flag Council will sponsor a Junior Mechanic excursion this coming summer. All Councils of Wilmington and rural New Castle county will take part in the outing. Definite plans will be announced at a later date.

Upon completion of the new Presbyterian Sunday School building here, the Council will present the Sunday School with a large American flag for use on their platform. A committee has been named to confer with Reverend Hallman, the pastor, to arrange a fitting service and date for the occasion.

After the Council session Monday evening, quoit championship matches were played, resulting in Amos Scarborough and Warren Johnson defeating Raymond McMullen and George Morrison five straight games.

Amos Norton had high score in 500.

All members are urged to attend next Council session on Monday evening, April 23, at 7.30 p. m. A treat is in store for all those who attend.—A. Neal Smythe, Pub. Com.

Kiwanis Pilgrimage

The speaker of the evening will be Sir Frederick Magill, who is offered as a surprize. As this is United States-Canada Week with all Kiwanis Clubs, it is the supposition that Sir Frederick's talk will relate to the two countries.

The Canadian national anthem, "Old Canada," will be played by Miss Irene Wilkinson, Mr. Wilkinson's daughter.

Charles M. Banks, of Wilmington, will lead community singing.

After the banquet, there will be dancing in the main dining room, under direction of Harry P. Dunbar, Jr. The College Orchestra will furnish the music.

There will be bridge in the lower room under supervision of Dean C. A. McCue.

The committee for the occasion is composed of: Dr. J. F. Adams, chairman; J. Alex Crothers; H. P. Dunbar, Jr.; and Dean C. A. McCue.

Guests who have already accepted invitations to the banquet are Governor and Mrs. Robert P. Robinson and Dean Winifred Robinson, of the Women's College.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Marshallton

A reception in honor of Rev. Tilghman Smith and his family was held last evening in Marshallton M. E. Church. Rev. Mr. Smith was appointed pastor of the church for the ensuing conference year. A program of music and recitations was given and refreshments were served.

At the Delaware Hospital, the condition of Mrs. Mary Williams, of this town, is said to be good. Mrs. Williams last week fell at her home and suffered a cracked hip. She was removed to the hospital in the ambulance and much concern was felt about her condition due to her advanced age.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Broadbent, of Marshallton, with Mrs. R. W. Broadbent and Mrs. Anna Wright, of Union Park Gardens, motored to Washington, D. C., over the past week-end.

The 13-cent supper, held in the social hall Friday evening, proved very successful with several hundred persons attending. The supper, served at 5:13, was followed by an entertainment of 13 numbers, which began at 8:13.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

A dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Pike Creek, on Saturday last, April 14, in honor of the former's mother, Mrs. Sarah M. Clark, it being the 87th anniversary of her birthday.

Grandmother Clark enjoys splendid health and is very active; one of her great delights is spending hours working in her old fashion flower garden. Mrs. Clark is one of the oldest residents of the State and is a direct descendant of the D. A. R., being a great-granddaughter of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Her late husband, John H. Clark, was a veteran of the Civil War on the Union side.

Among those present were: Mrs. Sarah M. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Clark, Miss Ola Clark, of Newark; Mrs. George N Chambers of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Mr. Robert McKane, of Philadelphia.

Christiana

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Candee, former pastor of Westminster Church, Wilmington, preached at the Christiana Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Samuel L. Irvine. Mr. Irvine was serving as Moderator at a congregational meeting at the Lower Brandywine Church, of which he was pastor for several years.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church met last Wednesday evening at State Road Chapel, Mr. Wilkinson E. Cranston and Mr. Benj. H. Moor acting as hosts. Mrs. Harry C. Dance, chairman of the entertainment committee, furnished the following program: Songs by the society; recitations by Raymond Lewis and Harry Maclary; piano solos by Misses Katherine Dance and Marian Murray; reading by Mrs. Frank Moody; dialogue by Dorothea Rothwell and Ruth Phelps; song by a trio composed of Mrs. William H. McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Phelps; sketch, "The Bargain Hunter," by Miss Margaret Moor and Mr. Harry C. Dance; duet (in costume), "Reuben and Rachel," by Mrs. McCoy and Mr. Wm. T. Harrington; a sketch, "Good-bye," by Mrs. Harvey Maclary and Mrs. Phelps.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. H. A. Phelps; vice-president, Mrs. Oliver Rothwell; secretary, Ruth Phelps, and treasurer, Mrs. Harvey Maclary, the last two being re-elected.

For the past year or more the Christiana M. E. Church has been putting out a very helpful and attractive little weekly bulletin. With the last issue, it has been increased from four pages to six, carrying on the front page an excellent cut of the church. Besides all the church announcements, it gives notices of all the village activities, including the Improvement Association, Boy Scouts, Fire Company, and Knights of the Golden Eagle. The pastor, Rev. Preston W. Spence, Jr., is editor-in-chief.

The Christiana M. E. Social will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rickey.

Everybody is asked to bear in mind the date of "A Southern Cinderella," a play to be given at the Methodist Church on the evening of April 26. The cast is made up of members of the Union Sunday School class of Wilmington, by whom the play has been given with great success in other places.

The Epworth League of the Salem and Christiana M. E. Churches will give their play, "The Old District School," at Ebenezer Church this evening. It will be remembered that the same play was very successfully presented in teh local church a few weeks ago.

The standardized tests, given twice a year by the State Board of Education, were begun in the local schools today.

Mrs. Harry Talbott, of Smyrna, with her two sons, Robert and John, spent several days last week at the home of her borther, Mr. Frank Moody. Mrs. Talbott, who before her marriage was Miss Florence Moody, spent her girlhood days in this vicinity, where she has a host of friends. Thursday evening Mrs. Moody entertained a few friends in honor of her guest, three tables playing progressive 500 during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Maclary and their three children were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Maclary, at their home near Newport.

Miss Rebecca Anderson, for years a resident of this village, but now of Newark, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Reed.

Mrs. Oliver Rothwell, Mr. Oliver Rothwell, Jr., and Miss Dorothea Rothwell were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Rothwell's brother, Mr. Thomas Appleby, near New Castle.

Mr. and Mrs. Olan J. Cleaver and children were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Cleaver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leasure, of Glasgow.

Miss Florence M. Appleby spent Sunday afternoon and evening with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hance, of State Road.

Mrs. George W. Davis had as a guest on Sunday her sister, Miss Nellie Appleby, the popular and successful teacher of the Hare's Corner School.

Mrs. R. Earle Dickey is confined to her home with an attack of grippe.

The funeral of Mr. James M. Frost, who died very suddenly on Easter Sunday morning, was held at the Frost home Thursday morning at 11 o'clock and was largely attended. The services were in charge of Rev. Preston W. Spence, Jr., and burial was in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Warren, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eastburn, has also had a severe attack of grippe, but is now improving rapidly.

How Students Find Jobs

With hundreds of thousands of men and women out of work throughout the country and with no likelihood of their finding employment for some time to come, the question is raised of what chance the graduate leaving college in June will have of making a living. Aside from the large number of undergraduates of both sexes who will need summer employment to forfend themselves against next year's college expenses, it is estimated that there will be more than 40,000 graduates seeking an opportunity to test the worth of their four years' colege or university training.

Under the new system that is sometimes spoken of as systematic recruiting, it is estimated that a least 5,000 graduates, mostly men, are normally absorbed each year in our major industries. They are able to start on their jobs as soon as graduation exercises are over or as soon after that as they may wish. It is expected that about the normal proportion of men will be called for this year by the industries, despite the unemployment situation.

The Spring Recruiting

The work of recruiting these young men from the classes of 1928 has already begun and by the middle of May it will be almost completed. In prewar days the small number of men who desired to join the teaching profession might put themselves in line for selection as instructors or assistant professors by visiting college Presidents. But for the college man who wished to go into business, there was practically no agency outside his own initiative or the good will of friends.

The system developed since the war as a result of the needs of American industry, enables the college man who feels that he has an aptitude for some special line of business to obtain specific information as to the opportunities offered in that business and, generally speaking, to have a chance under the most favorable conditions to see whether he can make good in it.

Only the larger industrial organizations, whose normal rate of expansion permits the absorption of a given number of new workers each year, are able to offer openings at a time when there is obviously no special business expansion. Such organizations are the Bell Telephone System, the Westinghouse Company, General Electric Company, utility corporations, banking institutions such as the National City Bank of New York, department stores in the large cities, the beef packing industry and the larger manufacturing concerns, among them E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and the motor industries. The initial salary for recruits varies from $25 to $35 a week.

Helped in a Decision

Through the personnel departments of such companies representatives start out in March on a tour of colleges and technical schools. They are prepared to explain to interested students the business routine and the opportunities offered in their organizations. Contacts with the students are made through the college employment department, now usually called the bureau of appointments.

A student who is not certain of his choice of a career may be aided in making up his mind by listening to the explanatory talks of representatives of different industries. Some of the large industries have a well systematized routine for presenting information, such as the electric industry, whose information is complete and concisely formulated.

Organizations like the Bell Telephone System, General Electric and Westinghouse, which may employ about 1,500 college men and a few college women in the next few months, prepare pamphlets that set forth the various types of work they offer and these are distributed to interested students. Some of these pamphlets give statistics and charts of the rate of promotion, salary prospects and average age at which specific salaries accrue to their staff officials.

The experience of these companies has shown that the college man of today who plans a business career is taking into account all the factors that enter into his business future. He is asking himself whether he should enter a small business in which he may hope for partnership or ownership, or whether he would be more contented doing team work in a great business organization in which his chances for heading a department or branch are excellent, but in which the likelihood of becoming the chief executive is more remote owing to stiff competition.

It is becoming increasingly evident, personnel managers say, that the college man is demanding something more than a satisfactory livelihoood as the presumptive reward for business activity. He wants work that will interest him to the extent that he will feel joy in giving complete loyalty to the organization employing him. He is also looking for a business that offers reasonable promises of advancement and that will give him a position of respect in the community and satisfy his sense of personal achievement.

In fitting a man to the work he expects to make his life career the college officials have no small part. The head of a college bureau of appointments aims to acquaint himself with the natural equipment of the men who are looking for business openings, to know whether a student likes people and has administrative capacity, whether he is keener on planning a course of action or on executing it.

All Activities Considered

The class room record of the student furnishes a clue to his capacity; his fraternity and sports contacts give further light. Many of the students going into business are graduates from the technical schools; others are from the arts and sciences courses. High-grade men are demanded by the industries, for the men they take are expected to become, eventually, technical and administrative heads of departments.

The annual increase in the number of men who step from the colleges into American industry is regarded as the best proof that the men selected in the past have made good and given satisfaction to the organizations employing them.

There has been a movement in the last few years to interest college women in business careers and some of the larger women's colleges are now being visited by personnel managers from industries. Opportunities for satistical and research work and various supervisory posts are offered to them, some of them leading to high salaried positions as buyers in department stores. It is estimated that 400 to 500 women graduates will step into business life at the end of their college work in the summer as a result of this activity.—N. Y. Times.

THE PRESS AND PEACE

A very significant extension of interest in the part played by the press in the maintenance of good international understanding is becoming apparent. The subject is being discussed publicly in meetings of such organizations as the Foreign Policy Association and the Council on Foreign Relations. A painstaking inquiry into the nature and possible effect of international news is being conducted by the World Peace Foundation and the For ign Policy Association, and scholarly reviews and popular magazines are giving space to discussion of the topic from the pens of journalists of recognized international standing.

This all makes for the creation of a public sentiment which will assist the daily press in arriving at a recognition of its responsibility for the results of its treatment of international affairs. Too often this responsibility has been ignored. A zest for reading matter which will attract attention has led to not infrequent publication of irritating and provocative items of no importance whatsoever in themselves, but which tend to arouse antagonisms between the peoples involved. Too often, also, ill-informed journalists in this country or others will dignify by quotation and reiteration foolish or inammatory utterances published in papers which at home are known to be without influence or standing. Every American traveler abroad is amused and sometimes distressed by the grave attention paid in the foreign press to explosive and offensive comments on international affairs quoted from American papers of no importance in their own country.

It is natural that at a time when not merely statesmen but observers of international conditions are striving in every way to establish more harmonious world conditions, the part of the press should be attracting attention in increasing measure. In the current number of the Yale Review the veteran London journalist, Mr. J. A. Spender, commenting upon past conditions and future prospects, says:

"No one in looking back on past years in Europe can doubt that the press recriminations, which were chronic for long periods before the war, embittered the relations of otherwise friendly peoples; no one looking forward can doubt the importance of keeping this source of trouble within bounds. Journalists and newspaper proprietors who take themselves seriously have always to bear in mind that what is at stake in this sphere is not ordinary political controversy which will be settled by the ballot box, but veritably the lives of millions of human beings, not excepting women and children.

"We may plead, then, for a more careful study, both by politicians and by journalists, of the consequences of setting the press in motion, by means of the mass psychology which a large part of it more and more reflects. But as between Britain and America I would ask for something more. We are, through our use of a common language, an open book to each other as are no other two nations in the world. That may, and I hope will be, of great advantage for a common understanding, but it also entails the consequence that all the disagreeable things we say about each other obtain a far wider publicity than they would otherwise enjoy. Invective in a foreign language generally fails to penetrate, but in the vernacular it has formidable piercing qualities. Let us, so far as we can, be friendly and forbearing in the use of our common vernacular. And let us also, if we can, extend the range of our observations beyond the subjects called political, which are too often a pretext for recriminations, and endeavor to present to our readers a human and kindly picture of our respective countries and their ways of life."—Christian Science Monitor.

—and the whole place is more prosperous, too. Mr. Lloyd hasn't come into any money or struck oil. He is just reconditioning his soil with Warner's LIMOID.
There's not a plant that doesn't absorb some lime out of the soil. And unless the lime is put back—and crops rotated—each harvest becomes smaller instead of bigger.
LIMOID is pure hydrated lime so finely pulverized that much less is needed to cover a given area. LIMOID thoroughly penetrates the soil, neutralizes crop killing acids and speeds up the decay of necessary organic matter.
LIMOID is easy to spread and comes in handy 50-lb. paper bags. It will pay you to write for the name of the nearest LIMOID dealer and interesting, worth while information on liming the soil for extra profit. A post card will do.

Miss Katharine G. Ady, of the faculty of the Coatesville High School, was the week-end guest of Miss Ruth King, and attended the "Blue and Gold" Dance in Old College on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hartman, of Washington, D. C., were week-end guests of Professor and Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson. Misses Helen and Betty Hartman, who spent last week here as guests of Miss Margaret Wilkinson, returned home with their parents on Sunday.

Mrs. H. W. McNeal and Mrs. Mildred McNeal Lind are spending this week at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Badger, of Spring Lake, New Jersey, were week-end guests of Mr. Badger's sister, Mrs. Helen B. Wilson.

Mrs. T. A. Baker and young daughter, Melissa, left this week for Lynn Haven, Florida, where they will spend a month with Mrs. Baker's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Townsend entertained at three tables of bridge last Saturday evening.

Mrs. James Hutchison and her mother, Mrs. MacDonald, left on Saturday for a two weeks' stay at Atlantic City.

Mrs. R. E. Price entertained a few of her neighbors informally last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ross and son, Jack Ross, of Brooklyn, spent last week-end here with their aunt, Mrs. J. W. Cristadoro.

Miss Lina Kennedy entertained four tables of friends at bridge last Saturday evening at her home in Wilmington. Misses Alberta Heiser, Dora Law, Helen Steel, and Ethel Campbell from this town were among the guests at the party.

The Baracca Auxiliary supper was held at the Presbyterian Church last evening. It was in charge of Mrs. Tiffany's group including, Mrs. Charles Strahorn, Mrs. Orlando Strahorn, Mrs. Mary McKean, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Heim, Mrs. Paul Lovett, and Miss Mary Johnston. Professor Ellis, of the faculty of the University of Delaware, gave an address. James Challenger, a student at the University, sang several selections.

Mrs. Bessie Creswell is spending this week with Mrs. Fred Massicotte, of Brooklyn.

Miss Helen Gregg was soprano solist at a concert given by Comb's Conservatory, of Philadelphia, on Saturday.

Colonel and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Evans, Mrs. Armand Durant, Armand Durant, Jr., and Wallace Evans motored to New Brunswick, New Jersey, where Mrs. Evans visited Mrs. Rulon Dare. The rest of the party motored on to New York City, where Colonel and Mrs. Smith visited relatives. Mrs. Durant was the guest there of Miss Margaret Norris. They returned to Newark last evening.

Miss Leslie Blackwell and Clifford Calloway spent last week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Grant H. Code, at Hollyoak.

Miss Edwina Long entertained the Tuesday Evening Bridge Club at dinner and cards last evening at Women's College.

Mrs. A. D. Cobb, Mrs. R. W. Heim, and Mrs. J. Irvin Dayett attended an executive board meeting of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs in Dover last Thursday.

BIRTHS

Rittenhouse — To Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus E. Rittenhouse, a son, born Sunday, April 15, at Flower Hospital.

Rhodes—To Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rhodes, a son, William Paul Rhodes, born Wednesday, April 11.

THE SICK

Mrs. Daugherty, of Orchard road, went to Johns Hopkins Hospital on Monday, where she will remain this week under observation.

Mrs. HaHrry W. Davis, of Cooch's Bridge, underwent an operation this morning at the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, and is reported to be doing well.

Alonzo Messick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Messick, is ill at his home.

John, son of Captain and Mrs. Whittemore, was brought last Saturday in the Newark ambulance from the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington, to his home here. He is still confined to his bed. The trouble is an abscessed ear.

It was found necessary for the child to return to the hospital on Monday, as it was feared that an operation for mastoid trouble might be necessary. The report from the hospital this morning was that the child was improving and would probably not be obliged to undergo the operation.

Birthday Corner

Mrs. Rebecca Gilpin quietly observed her birthday anniversary Tuesday at her home on Main street.

A few friends helped Eddie Stickley observe his natal day, April 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dempsey entertained at their home, Corner Ketch, in honor of Mary Rebecca Williams, the occasion being Mary's eighteenth birthday. Guests were present from Philadelphia, Wilmington, Newark and the surrounding country. The young lady received many beautiful gifts. The evening was spend in dancing and playing game, and at a late hour refreshments were served.

CARD PARTY DATE CHANGED

The date for the Card Party which was to have been given by the Newark New Century Club at the Club House on the evening of April 25 has been changed to Tuesday evening, April 24, because of the Kiwanis dinner, which will be held on Wednesday evening.

New Century Club

The Newark New Century Club met on Monday for the regular bi-weekly business meeting, with Mrs. Cobb, the president, presiding.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Duffy. Dr. E. B. Crooks, of the University of Delaware, gave a most interesting talk on Brazil, giving a vivid description of the country, the people and their customs, together with personal incidents in his life while he lived in that country of South America.

Mrs. Barnes played a Brazilian selection and also sang two Portugese songs, the native music of Brazil.

The club house will not be open next Monday.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, April twenty-fifth. This will be an open meeting and club members are privileged to bring their friends. The meeting is at three o'clock and will be most entertaining. Miss Emilie Krider Norris, Principal of the Emilie Krider Norris School of Expression and Stage Art, will discuss Shakespeare and the Modern Drama and there will also be an elocutionist from Philadelphia. Mrs. Turumianz will play.

All club members are invited by the Stockley Colony to the tree planting, Saturday, April twenty-first, at one-thirty.

The report of the nominating committee was accepted and the club election will be held May 14.

The card party which was to have been held Wednesday, April 25, has been changed to Tuesday, April 24, at the club house at 8 o'clock.—Mrs. James C. Hastings, Sec.

SEED CORN AVAILABLE

As the time of spring seeding is almost here, every farmer should be thinking where he may secure good healthy, vigorous, disease-free seed corn. Some time ago about fifty farmers throughout New Castle county sent a sample of corn from their farms into the County Agricultural Extension Office to be tested for germination. These germination tests have been completed by G. M. Worrilow, Assistant County Agricultural Agent for New Castle county. From these tests it has been learned that in general the average percentage of germination has been low. Therefore as we know the condition of the seed corn, and also that it is poor economy to try to save on seed, as it costs as much to grow and harvest a poor crop as it does a good one, every corn grower in the county should take every precaution in selecting his seed corn this spring.

From these germination tests there has been compiled a record of several New Castle county farmers having seed corn showing a high percentage of germination and of a quality and type suitable for seed.

Anyone wishing to secure some of this good seed corn, may have a list of these farmers, from the County Extension Office of the University of Delaware, upon request.

LOCAL ACCIDENT VICTIM BURIED ON SATURDAY

The funeral of Bernard Lenhoff, of Roseville Park, who with three companions was drowned last Wednesday night, was held Saturday from the home of his grandfather, Adam Lenhoff, 1319 Dupont street, Wilmington. The Reverend Francis J. Connely officiated and interment was in Cathedral cemetery.

Lenhoff, with May Weaber, Etta Doughten and Ernest Scott, all Wilmington, was in a closed car which ran off the road into the race just below VanBuren street, in Brandywine Park, Wilmington. The car capsized, and the four young people pinned inside of it were all drowned. The accident was not discovered until Thursday morning.

The young man was born in Wilmington and had lived here until about a year ago when his parents, Barbara and John Lenhoff moved to Roseville Park. He went to the A. I. du Pont High School for about a year, and then attended the Wilmington High School for a year. He then secured a job as clerk in the order department of the Hercules Powder Company where he was employed at the time of his death. While working there, he had taken a night course in bookkeeping at Beacom College. Young Lenhoff was a member of the Hercules Club, and St. John's R. C. Church at Newark. He was interested in bowling, and last year was on one of the Hercules' teams. Last year he attended the Citizens' Military Training Camp, at Fort Hancock, N. Y., and was so well pleased with it that he was planning to enroll for this season, too. Besides his mother and father, who is a draftsman in the employ of the Pusey and Jones Company, he leaves six brothers, Vincent, aged 21 years; John, 16; Raymond, 14; Donald, 13; Clement, 6; and Gerald, 3 years; and three sisters, Marie, 19 years; Regina, 18, and Rose, 9 years.

WEDDINGS

JAMES—NIVIN

Miss Sophia Nivin, of near Landenberg, Pennsylvania, and Mr. Leroy S. James, of Chester Heights, Pennsylvania, were quietly married in St. Thomas' Episcopal Church at ten o'clock Saturday morning, April 14, by the rector, Dr. R. B. Mathews. The couple were unattended, and only a few friends and relatives were present at the wedding.

Mrs. James is well known here. She is the niece of the late Septimus Nivin, and for many years made her home with him at the Nivin homestead, near Landenberg. She is the only sister of Mrs. Harvey Whiteman, formerly of Wilmington, now living in Florida. Mrs. James' grandfather, Reverend Stone, was at one time rector of St. Thomas' Church.

Mr. and Mrs. James will live at Chester Heights.

Reduce Sewer Tax After Conference

Mr. Hartman explained the items in question. However, the Council members were present as well as a fairly large group of citizens. Mr. Phipps brought with him a stenographer who took down the discussion.

During the discussion between Phipps and Hartman, John K. Johnston, a property owner in the annex territory, came into the meeting and stated that he was a property owner in the annex and that he wanted it understood that he was not represented by Mr. Phipps. He wished to know who Phipps was. Mr. Phipps replied that he had made it clear at the first meeting with the Council that he was representing only himself. At that point Mayor Frazer observed that there was a large crowd of persons present, while he had only invited two to attend, Mr. J. Johnston and Mr. James H. Hutchison.

In his first question, Mr. Phipps tried to establish, just what connection Mr. Hartman bore to the Town of Newark and to the Consolidated Engineering Company. This point was not clearly determined by Mr. Hartman's answers. He stated that he was connected with the Consolidated Engineering Company, but that the town had known him only in connection with this work.

In answer to a question, Mr. Hartman then stated that he did not know that there was any agreement with the annex and the Town, other than that the annex was not to pay any of the cost of work on the disposal plant. He said he did not know that the return pipes were not to be charged to the annex.

Mr. Hartman explained how additions to the original system had increased the original contract price, which had been figured on a unit basis.

An item of $7,913.43 was questioned and Mr. Hartman stated that it was part of the return system. Mayor Frazer conceded that this be taken from the assessments account. Two other items for valves amounting to $35 and $31.36 were also conceded and taken from the accounts. The exclusion of these three items brought the assessment down to $1.61.

There was considerable discussion about a sewer of 266 feet, which runs through the Wilson property on East Main street. It was contended that this was a part of the return system and should be excluded from the account. It amounted to $997. Mr. Hartman said that while it was used as part of the return system, it was also part of the regular sewer system and that properties could connect to it. It was intimated by Mayor Frazer that certain concessions were made to the owners of the property through which this line of pipe was laid. The line is vitreous pipe and was extended to connect cast iron pipe. This item is still in dispute.

Mr. Phipps questioned an item of $4,300 for a collecting well. This was also unsettled. Mr. Hartman maintained that it was a separate unit from the return system and a necessary part of the whole system. However, Mr. Phipps insisted that it was a part of the return system as it was used to interrupt the flow of sewage so that it could be pumped to the disposal plant. It was brought out that at the previous meeting Mayor Frazer had stated that this well was not included in the annex assessment, but that it was shown that it was. Mayor Frazer said that he did not recall the statement.

There was a comparison made by Mr. Hartman between the cost of the old sewer, which was $1.45, and the present sewer. Mr. Phipps maintained that engineering methods should reduce the cost of sewer work, and Mr. Hartman stated that digging machines were used on the old sewer.

Extra work bills were questioned, and Mr. Hartman explained that these were for extra work that was not anticipated at the time that the contracts were figured.

Mr. Phipps asked why the man hole covers were not included in the general contract, and Mr. Hartman replied that he was able to purchase these covers, which he had designed himself, at the same price that the City of Baltimore paid for them. He stated that that price was $4 less than any contractor could get them for. Mr. Phipps said that he was gratified to know this.

Mr. Phipps questioned plans, surveys and specifications amounting to $1,750. Mr. Hartman said that these were the original plans and specifications all made for the extension sewer. Mr. Phipps asked where the plans, surveys and specifications were for the additional work for the disposal plant and the additional sewer and Mr. Hartman said that he made these himself and had made no charge for the work.

Mr. Phipps asked about the item of $4,972.38 for engineering and inspection. Mr. Hartman stated that this was for the salaries of the engineers. He further stated that this item had been reduced by including some of the water work in this contract.

Mr. Phipps asked who was paying for replacement sewers and Mayor Frazer stated that the town was assuming cost of these where property owners had already been assessed for the old sewer. Phipps then asked about the 975 feet of sewer that had been replaced on South Academy street and which the Maxwell property and the University of Delaware abutted on. It was explained by the Mayor that the University had paid for the old sewer and would not be assessed for this and that Mr. Maxwell had been assessed. Dr. Manns stated that Maxwells name had not appeared on the assessment book, and Miss Kerr answered that that was due to an oversight, but that he had been billed. Dr. Manns stated that the bill read "old sewer." Miss Kerr said that the assessment was for the new sewer. The point as to who was to pay for the other half of the assessment was not established and this item is still in question.

Mr. Phipps then said that he had no further questions to ask, but wished to thank Mr. Hartman and the Council for their courtesy in arranging the meeting and answering his questions.

The Mayor then stated that the items allowed would reduce the assessment to $1.61 per foot.

It is understood that various taxpayers of the annex are still unsatisfied with the assessment account as it stands and will probably ask the Council of Newark for further action on the questioned items.

Nobis Delaware State Backstroke Champion

State Championships Held in Delaware Pool; Hill Wins State Diving Title

Two Delaware Swimming championships were decided in the new University of Delaware pool, on Saturday night. Bernard Nobis, University star, won the 100-yard backstroke championship, with a time of 1.10 2-5. With it went the Leroy F. Sparks Silver Cup, a perpetual trophy. The diving championship went to William Hill, a Wilmington High School boy. He was awarded the Lion's Club Trophy, a silver loving cup.

There were five contestants for the Sparks cup which is competed for annually. In addition to the silver cup, gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded by the Wilmington Y. M. C. A. for first, second and third places. Sam Reese, of Wilmington, was second in 1.16-2, and Frank Travis, also of Wilmington, was third in 1.17-1. The other two contestants were Howard and Maguire, both of Wilmington.

Hill won the Lions' cup in the diving contest by scoring 89.2 points. The other contestants in this event were Jack Quinn, 76.5 points; Harry Moore, 71 points, and Al Foster, 60.1 points, all of Wilmington. Bobby Beeson, 12 years old, of Wilmington, did some exhibition diving.

Dr. George C. McElfactrick, president of the Wilmington Lions Club, witnessed the events and awarded the cup to Hill.

The dual meet scheduled between Wilmington Y. M. C. A. and the President's Club team of Atlantic City, had to be called off because of the latter team cancelling. In place of the dual meet several special events were conducted between Wilmington boys, most of them members of the Y. M. C. A. The result of these events follows:

200-yard relay—Won by team No. 2, composed of Lemmon S. Reese, Howard and Nobis. No. 1 team was composed of Yates, McConnell, Sheldon and Blankenburg. Time, 1.48.4.

50-yard breast stroke—Won by VanPelt; second Maguire; third, Jacobs. Time, 36.3.

50-yard free style—Won by S. Reese; second, Lemmon; third, Yates. Time, 28.3.

100-yard free style—Won by Blankenburg; second, Howard; third, McConnell. Time, 1.04 2-5.

200-yard free style—Won by Grady; second, McConnell; third, McKelvey. Time, 2.29.2.

The officials were: Referee, Frank White; timers, R. D. Sheldon, C. Walter Kadel and Alonzo Newlin; starter, Frank Newlin; judges at finish, Frank M. Heal and Frank White.

U. OF D. OPENS SEASON

The University of Delaware baseball team opened its season this afternoon, taking on the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy. The game was called at 4 o'clock, on Frazer Field.

Bad Weather Spoils Tennis Team Trip

Lose One Match, Cancel Another, Last One Called for Darkness

Unfortunate weather conditions partially spoiled the Southern trip, made last week by the University of Delaware tennis team. The team returned Monday with a record of one lost match, one cancelled and one called on account of darkness. Delaware lost to North Carolina State, cancelled the Washington and Lee match, and were trailing Hampden-Sidney, when the match was called.

The party, composed of Captain K. S. Whittemore, coach; John B. Derrickson, manager, and Captain Creamer, Taylor, Pyle, Hoffecker, Speakman and Moran, left Newark last Monday morning in two automobiles. The first match scheduled was with Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va., for Tuesday, but the rain caused that match to be called off. The Hampden match at Hampden-Sidney, Va., was scheduled for Thursday. Weather conditions made it impossible to play that day. On Friday Delaware was scheduled to play North Carolina at Capital Hill, N. C., and it was arranged to return to Hampden-Sidney Saturday to play.

Against North Carolina Delaware won but one match, the doubles played by Captain Creamer and Taylor against Merritt and Cone. The Delaware pair won in straight sets.

At Hampden-Sidney the score in matches was 4 to 2 when the meet had to be called off because of darkness. Hoffecker and Taylor won in the singles, the former by 6-8, 6-2, 6-2, and Taylor by 6-8, 3-6, 6-2. Taylor and Creamer were playing in the doubles when the meet was stopped with an excellent chance of winning, but even should they have won Hampden-Sidney would still have won the meet.

HOPKINS HOLDING DOWN FIRST FOR RUTGERS PREP

Marion "Biff" Hopkins, who is spending his second year at Rutgers Prep School, is adding another letter to the string he has already been awarded by Rutgers. "Biff" is holding down first sack on the Rutgers baseball team. He also starred during the basketball season and was outstanding star and captain of the football team. The three sacks of the Rutgers nine will be occupied by Delaware boys, Hopkins on the initial, with Bill Shellady and Johnny Roman, both of Wilmington, on second and third, respectively.

ELK MILLS OPENER

Elk Mills of the Susquehanna League will open the season on Saturday, April 21. They will have as their opponents Wilmington A. C. The game is scheduled to be played at Elk Mills at 3:00 p. m. This will be the first of several games which are likely to be played at Elk Mills before the regular league season which opens on May 12, when they will play Perryville at Elk Mills.

Bird Dogs Compete At Annual Field Meet

Delaware Setter and Pointer Club Holds Trials on Townsend Farm; N. Y. Dog Takes Feature

The Delaware Setter and Pointer Club held its annual field meet, Friday, on the farm of George L. Townsend, Jr., at Glasgow. The meet, which consisted of three classes, attracted a large number of sportsmen from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

Babblebrook Ben, owned by Raymond Hoagland, of New York, carried off the open all-age trials, the feature of the meet. The competition in this event was particularly keen and the judges had a close decision to figure. Second place went to Rock Manor Bib, the famous setter owned by Dr. William Harris, of Wilmington. Third honors went to Eagle Ferris, a dog recently purchased and handled by Ed Farrell, of Alabama. It is said that Farrell paid $5,000 for the dog.

Two local entries finished in a tie for third place in the Amateur all-age event when the judges could not decide between Devitry Joe, owned by M. D. Darrell, and Rock Manor Slick, owned by Dr. Harris. First and second places in this class were carried off by Raymond Hoagland with Rumson Farm's Cleo taking the first award and Rumson Farm's Bess the second prize.

In the open puppy class Mr. Hoagland scored his third first of the day with Rumson Farm's Rags, Nicodemus, owned by J. M. Valentine of Richmond, Va., was second and the Rumson Farm's Marx was third.

The judges of the meet were Dr. Park Longnecker, of Philadelphia, and O. H. Aylor, of Washington, D. C.

GOLF SEASON OPENS WITH EVENT ON MAY 5

The 1928 golf schedule has been announced by the match committee of the Newark Country Club. The first event, the qualifying round for the Classes of Eight, will be held on May 5. There will be silver spoons awarded again this year for low net scores on Saturday, and low gross scores on Sunday.

The handicaps this year have been changed, two strokes having been added to each players handicap. It is suggested that those who have no handicap posted hand in three scores during the month of April to establish a handicap before the season opens.

The match committee is composed of: Paul Pié, chairman; Dr. W. O. Sypherd, E. H. Vogt, F. C. Houghton, Prof. C. O. Houghton and H. A. Turner, Jr.

The associate match committee is composed of: Mrs. A. S. Eastman, chairman; Mrs. E. B. Wright; Mrs. J. S. Shaw.

High School Loses To Beacom College 10-5

Wilmington Team Too Mature For Local Boys

The Beacom College baseball team was a little too mature for the High School to digest, here, on Friday afternoon, and dumped the local boys to the tune of 10 to 5. Beacom hit Dayett for 14 safe ones, but Dayett kept them fairly well scattered. Newark made 8 hits off two Beacom pitchers. Score:

Del. Taxpayers' League Submits Conclusions

The Taxpayers' Research League of Delaware, of which Edward W. Cooch is president, has prepared a memorandum concerning the relative advantages of three proposals for treating the surplus in the State sinking-fund. The memorandum, which is typed and neatly bound, has been submitted to the Governor, the Secretary of State, the Auditor of Accounts, and the State Treasurer.

The conclusions of the study made by the League are as follows:

Conclusions

The surplus in the State sinking fund, demonstrated in the analysis and report issued by the Taxpayers' Research League of Delaware in April, 1927, has increased rapidly since that report was issued. On June 30, 1927, the surplus was $1,342,292, and is certain to continue to increase by leaps and bounds under present conditions.

Most of the elements involved in the question of how to treat the sinking-fund surplus are purely mathematical, or can be otherwise reduced to a fact basis on which there should be general agreement.

While the Highway Department has a strong moral claim to an equity in the surplus, it is purely a hazardous, moral claim. All chance of the Highway Department to benefit from it—if definite action is not taken now by the custodians of the sinking fund—may be wiped out by the action of any future legislature.

The proposal to "save the surplus for a rainy day" has three grave defects: (1) the surplus is not a cash surplus; (2) even if it were converted into cash, the custodians of the sinking fund have no power to transfer it to the Highway Department; and (3) it contemplates the unsound practice of using the sinking fund for other purposes than that of debt retirement.

There are better and more ample ways of meeting a "rainy day."

Under either of the plans (1) to cancel bonds in the sinking fund and (2) to redeem 4½ per cent bonds in the hands of private investors, approximately $3,400,000 can be saved to the revenues of the Highway Department. Both plans are equally sure.

The first plan is also very simple, while the second is complicated, and—if it is preferred to the first—should be adopted only if competent advisors, familiar with bond-market conditions, feel assured that it would not seriously affect the market for future State highway bonds.

The advantage of the total saving to the revenues of the State Highway Department and the advantage of extreme simplicity, are in favor of the proposal to cancel the bonds in the sinking fund.

Only the advantage of decreasing the future debt charges to be paid to private investors is in favor of the proposal to redeem 4½ per cent bonds held by private investors.

Each of these two methods of retiring bonds has very substantial advantages, and either would be infinitely preferable to no action at all. The important thing is that slight differences in the effect of the two plans should not result in inaction.

If it is considered that the choice of advantages between the proposal to cancel sinking-fund bonds and the proposal to redeem bonds held by private investors introduces an element of opinion as to which method is preferable; and if, for any reason, the custodians of the sinking-fund prefer the second method, and will adopt it, the Taxpayers' Research League of Delaware would be among the first to commend and applaud this action.

Tells Century Club Of Italy And Fascism

came out of it has enjoyed several centuries of hegemony in Europe and has been accustomed to look upon Italy as a younger sister needing direction and tender care from Paris. Now that reborn Italy—although loving the sister, scores her tutelage and shows signs of putting on her shoulders the mantle of Mother Rome. France is temporarily irritated and fretful. But be assured that nothing will happen—France and Italy are sisters and the word Rome at the right moment will always be the indissoluble cement that will blend their hearts.

It only remains now for us to review miraculous results of economic reconstruction that fascism has achieved for Italy under Mussolin's guidance. Italy that had never closed a fiscal year without a deficit, has under fascism balanced the budget and is piling up yearly an increasing surplus that in the last fiscal year exceeded 400 million lire. With the exception of England, Italy has funded and is paying her war debts without quibbling. Her industries are thriving, the economic status of her people surpasses that of richer nations in Europe. Everywhere there is order and law. The Italian currency which has long been bolstered against market fluctuations has now been definitely established on a gold basis of 19 lire for every dollar while currency of richer nations, with exception of England, is still without any sure footing.

All of these achievements would have been impossible in old parliamentary regime where everything was protected but national interests. These accomplishments would have been impossible with everyone free to do as he pleased and able to subordinate the interests of the nation to his own. Just as the surgeon has cut through healthy tissue to get at the gangrenous spot and excise it, Fascism has succeeded to save Italy by a noble revolution that like all other revolutions, has had to resort to some violence and to some temporary restrictions of civic liberties. But as a reward Italy is receiving a new liberty based on law and order—a new economic status resulting from co-operation of capital and labor and a new state sovereignty, based on co-operative representation of all people with genuine democratic spirit and opportunity and sublime aristocratic technique.

Keep your eyes on Italy—her future achievements will be worth her great past and her noble traditions!

"Economy merely is doing without the things you are better off for doing without."

Famous Rides of the West

In the days when the West was young, nearly all the settlers were horsemen. There are leaders in every class, and the West produced some men who stood head and shoulders above other horsemen. Two of these were Felix Xavier Aubrey and "Portugese" Phillips—skilled plainsmen who probably were supreme among equine riders.

Aubry (or Aubrey, as the name is sometimes spelled) once rode from Santa Fé, N. M., to Independence, Mo., a distance of 800 miles, on the old Santa Fé trail, in six days. For a long time that journey was the talk of the country, but it has been forgotten all too soon. Born a French-Canadian, Aubry went to St. Louis in the early '30s and worked as a clerk in a carpet store. He became restless and he used to go down to the riverfront and see boats chugging away for the jumping off place of the grand overland adventure—Independence, Mo., 400 miles up the Missouri River. One day he left comfort and security behind and took passage on one of the boats.

He found Independence a place of commotion—men hustling about to equip caravans, heavy oxen awaiting a journey of from two to three months, wiry horsemen resting before beginning their three to four weeks' trail to Santa Fé, and men of the military mail telling tales of how they sped across the route in about thirty days. All that quickened his imagination and inspired him for the three historical rides he was to make, the first in 1843.

He loaded his wagons when the first signs of Spring showed, and as soon as there was sufficient grazing for the oxen he set out for Santa Fé. It was a most propitious time for trading. He found boom conditions in the quaint old Southwestern city. Mexico had been defeated by the United States and had surrendered an immense tract that included Santa Fé. Having sold his goods at a profit of 100 per cent, Aubry decided to return to Independence. He remembered the long trek required by oxen, and his sporting blood was stirred to announce that he would ride the 800 miles in eight days.

The frontiersmen taunted him. Why, they laughed, that was twenty-two days faster than the time of the military mail. Impossible! Many wagers were laid on the ride.

Aubry rode into Independence eight days and ten hours after leaving Santa Fé. He had been detained by Indians and forced to walk part of the distance. His actual traveling time was about seven days.

In late Summer he returned to Santa Fé. The usual topic of conversation among the plainsmen was Aubry's unbelievable ride. He listened and then asserted: "I can do better. I'll bet $1,000 that I can make the ride within six days." It is obvious that he had plenty of takers.

He galloped out of Santa Fé on the morning of September 12. Halting neither to sleep or eat, he rode on. He bound himself to the saddle after the first day so he could doze and not be in danger of tumbling off. He ate while in the saddle. It was the rainy season and 600 miles of the route were muddy. At every stream his horse had to swim. But Aubry rode on and late on the night of September 17, 1848, his horse staggered into Independence.

"Portugese" Phillips made as strenuous a ride, although it has been less heralded. Racing in the piercing cold of a Wyoming blizzard, he rode like a demon to save men, women and children from death.

It was in late December of the cold Winter of 1866. At Fort Phil Kearney a little band of troops awaited the breaking of the weather. Besides the 119 men, there were women and children. Outside, deployed in a seemingly impenetrable circle of death, were 3,000 Sioux warriors under Red Cloud. They had recently slaughtered Feterman's detachment of eighty-one soldiers and now awaited their chance to wipe out Kearny.

There seemed no escape for the beleaguered garrison. The thermometer stood at 30 degrees below zero. Sentries could stand the intense cold no longer than fifteen minutes at a time. Only a desperate chance could save the garrison. Carrington, post commander, asked for a volunteer to carry the message of their predicament to the nearest help. This was at Fort Laramie, 236 miles down the lonely Bozeman trail.

"Portugese" Phillips answered. No man in the garrison knew the country better. He filled his pockets with dried meat and hardtack. Then, after a bag of grain had been tied on his horse, he struck out about midnight.

He could not ride out boldly. For hours he crawled, leading his horse, stopping at suspicious noises, listening. He felt his way cautiously. Finally he slipped through the cordon of Sioux, mounted his horse and headed for Laramie. From the Big Horn mountains the blizzard swept on with unslackened fury. Snow was from three to five feet deep. Phillips kept on with almost superhuman valor and strength and after four nights of riding, at dawn of Christmas Day, he arrived at Horseshoe station. That was forty miles from Laramie and 196 miles from Kearny. He telegraphed to Laramie, urging haste. Fortunately, he did not trust the telegraph and as darkness fell he rode on. He reached Laramie and saved the little band at Fort Phil Kearny.—N. Y. Times.

FORD IS SEVEN YEARS AVERAGE SPAN OF "T"

Production of Replacement Parts Takes One-Third Ford Capacity

The manufacture of replacement parts for the millions of Model "T" Ford cars still in daily use continues to demand nearly one-third the production capacity of Ford plants.

Ford officials estimate, from reports of dealers all over the country, that there are still approximately eight millions of the Model "T" cars in constant use in the United States. Some of these cars are many years old. Every now and then there are reports of Ford cars of the old brass-bound radiator types of twelve or fourteen years ago, still running after more than a hundred thousand miles of service.

The newest of the Model "T" Fords is now nearly a year old, for the production of assembled Model "T" cars was suspended in May, 1927, to make way for the new Model "A."

This suspension of assembled Model "T" cars did not affect the production schedule of Model "T" replacements parts, however. Throughout the past yer the manufacture of Model "T" parts continued to occupy about one-third the production capacity of the Ford plants.

A few days ago newspaper correspondents asked Henry Ford how long he expected to continue making parts for Model "T" cars.

"Until the last Model 'T' is off the roads," Mr. Ford replied promptly. Then he added: "That may be ten years, but we do not intend to allow any Ford car ever to become obsolete as long as it can be made useful with reasonable replacements."

Ford engineers, from tests and observations made over a long period of years, have estimated that the average useful life of a Model "T" Ford car is about seven years.

Seeing Beyond Driftwood

By Ethel Wilson

One day as I came into my classroom I began to recite,

"May is building her house. With apple blooms
She is roofing over the glimmering rooms;
Of the oak and the beech hath she builded its beams," et cetera.

You know those lines of Richard La Gallienne which make you see Apple Blossom Sundays and Peach and Apple Blossom Festivals, woodlands and lakes, Corots and Rousseaus, stirring you so that you wish you could sing an answer. I went on to the end of the poem and most of the boys and girls stopped their work to listen.

Later on that day, in the treasure box on my desk, I found this note from Anna: "Dear Miss W—, I would like to learn May is building her house."

I brought the Little Book of Modern Verse to school and she copied the poem in her beautiful hand, ending with those magical lines:

"From October's tossed and trodden gold
She is making the young year out of the old;
Yea: out of winter's flying sleet
She is making all the summer sweet,
And the brown leaves spurned of November's feet
She is changing back again to spring's."

Anna is a neat little Polish girl. Father Time has recorded her age as thirteen. She lives with her stone-deaf, harsh-voiced mother, her mite of a father and a younger brother and sister in a long-drawn-out house with broken window panes and scribbling on its bricks, close by the railroad and the marsh. The clock struck four the afternoon I called. Anna noticed it and as though introducing me to a member of the household who had just stepped into the room, she explained at once, "That clock hasn't any minutes."

On Saturdays Anna and her mother go with a cart to the marsh for driftwood. She wears her father's heavy boots. They fit exactly.

"Will you let me go with you to gather drift-wood one day?"

"There is no path where you can walk," she answered and smiled.

Anna knows the poem now and I like to think that May, in building, lets fall, now and then, a beam of an oak to go floating down to the marsh and Anna.

Much Interest Shown In Blossom Festival

To be Held on the Dover Green; $600 of $1,500 Subscribed For Much interest is being shown in Delaware's first Blossom Festival which is to be held either the last week of April or first week of May. To date a number of organizations have planned to provide floats, and under the able direction of Miss Robertson the pageant to be held on Dover Green will be both interesting and attractive.

Blossom Festivals are held in other states with great success and it is believed that the introduction of an annual festival in Delaware will prove an inspiration to the farmers and an education to the people of the cities and neighboring states. It is expected that a large number of visitors will come to Delaware for this occasion.

A budget of about $1,500 is needed to carry the project to a success and already about $600 of this has been contributed by the following: P. S. du Pont, Mrs. Ella C. Emery, Josiah Marvel, Otho Nowland, Joseph Bancroft, Frank A. McHugh, Mrs. A. D. Warner, Sr., Dr. Harry V. Holloway, A. D. Warner, Jr., Delaware Electric Power Co., Garrett Miller Co., Florence Burke, Charles Warner, Mrs. Henry B. Thompson, Alfred I. du Pont, Lammot du Pont, Helen Comstock, Henry Ridgely, F. G. Tallman, Farmers Bank of Dover, James Hall Anderson, W. H. Boyce, Wilmington Garden Club, W. L. Mifflin, R. C. Eeckett, Diamond Ice and Coal Co., New Century Club of Middletown, Irenee du Pont.

A number of letters have been sent to individuals and business concerns and it is hoped that a large number of citizens will send their contributions, however small, to the treasurer, Arthur G. Wilkinson, 704 West 22nd street, Wilmington.

A public meeting will be held at the State Capitol in Dover, on Thursday, April 19, at 2 o'clock, when the final plans will be presented.

Baby Chick Mortality Very High This Year

15% of Chicks Raised Under "Healthy Chick" Campaign Have Died

About fifteen per cent of the baby chicks raised under the "Delaware Grow Healthy Chicks" campaign perished in the first two weeks period. This campaign to grow better and healthier chicks in the entire State is under the supervision of H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman, who is cooperating with Acting County Agent Ed Willim, Jr.

Of the nineteen people who have replied to the report blank which was sent out at the end of the second week, it was found that 7,452 baby chicks were being raised by this group of poultrymen. Of this number, about 4500 are chicks of the heavy breeds, while the remaining chicks are ones of the lighter or egg-laying breeds.

When the campaign was started by Mr. Palmer several weeks ago, twenty poultrymen in New Castle county enrolled. They intend to start with about 10,500 baby chicks. While this is not a very large group of poultrymen in this campaign, it shows that the farmers of the county are interested and will no doubt give valuable results in the ways of how to raise more chicks, which should tend to increase the enrollment next year.

In commenting on the fifteen per cent mortality during the first two weeks, Mr. Palmer says: "This is a very high rate but is undoubtedly due to the prevalence of a disease, apparently brooder pneumonia, which is very serious in the northern part of the State this year." The treatment for this disease will be discussed in a letter written by Dr. Frank Hare, Poultry Pathologist of the State Board of Agriculture, and will go to the poultrymen of the State next week.

The Acting County Agent intends to visit every person who has sent in an enrollment in this campaign or who has kept a record of mortality during this period. More cards will be mailed to the poultrymen at the end of the first four weeks of the campaign. The total losses of baby chicks up to that time will be asked for on this card. It is hoped that more replies will be sent in to the County Agent's office on this next card.

LECTURE AND FREE MOVIES

Dr. Hurdle, of the State Board of Health, co-operating with the local Health Center and the Welfare Committee of the Newark New Century Club, will give a health lecture and free movies in the High School auditorium at 7.30 o'clock, Friday evening, April 27. Parents and children are urged to attend. The lecture will be intensely interesting for both young and old and will give more valuable information than may be gained in hours of reading.

The lecture will be repeated at the Colored School at the same hour on Friday evening, May 4.

OBITUARY

MRS. CLARA ALLCORN

Mrs. Clara Allcorn, aged 74 years, widow of the late Franklin Allcorn, died on April 15, at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lewis Whiteman, near Ebenezer Church. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence of her son, George Allcorn, near Christiana, with services in Ebenezer M. E. Church. Interment will be made in the adjoining cemetery.

Mrs. Allcorn was the daughter of the late Kinsey and Margaret Whiteman, and during her girlhood and many years of her married life, she lived in this vicinity. She is survived by one son, George Allcorn; three daughters, Mrs. Martha Longacre, of Wilmington, Mrs. Mary Kennedy and Mrs. Lydia Hartley of Boston; and three sisters, Mrs. Wm. Jester, Mrs. Florence Hendrickson and Mrs. Sara L. Worrall, all of Newark.

JOSEPH G. STEPHENSON

Joseph G. Stephenson, aged 33 years, died on April 12, at the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, following an operation. Reverend Blake, of Red Clay Creek Church, conducted the funeral services on Sunday, April 15, at the home of the deceased, at Oak Grove. Interment was made in Red Clay Creek Cemetery.

MARY H. SUPPI

Mary H. Suppi, aged 10 years, daughter of Henry and Josephine Suppi, died on April 14, at her home near Bear Station. The services were held on Tuesday morning, April 17, at the Catholic Church at Elkton. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

SAMUEL CHAMBERS

Samuel Chambers, aged 73 years, died on April 13, at the residence of his son-in-law, Fred E. Gebhart, at Hockessin, Delaware. The funeral services were held from Mr. Gebhart's home on Monday afternoon. Interment was made in Ebenezer Cemetery.

MRS. MARTHA RICARDS

Word was received here of the death early this morning of Mrs. Martha Ricards, aged 81 years, at her home on the Elk River. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

Mrs. Ricards was the daughter of the late Richard L. and Ruth McCracken Thomas, of North East, Maryland. She is survived by one son, P. Richard Ricards, of North East; two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Wylie, who lived with her mother, and Mrs. Albert Cramer, of Colora; three grand children: two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Blackwell, of this town, and Miss Emily Thomas, of North East.

When seeding a new lawn, its a good idea to put on about 4 bushels of well-rotted manure for each 100 square feet of ground. Work it into the soil well. Then—before sowing the seed—work from 2 to 3 pounds of some good garden commercial fertilizer into each 100 square feet of soil. If you can't get any manure, use about twice as much commercial fertilizer. This will speed up the growth of the grass and furnish plant food for several years.

An imperfect seal, or lack of sterilization will cause catsup to spoil. Bottles should be sterilized, and filled while they are boiling hot, with boiling catsup, and then processed in the water-bath canner for 30 minutes.
