NEWARK, DELAWARE. THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1931

NUMBER 50

FIRE COMPANY ELECTS: HAD 101 CALLS IN 1930

Ellison Again Chief; Fire Loss During Past Year was $172,620

LOSS IN TOWN $10,105

The annual report of the Aetna Fire, Hook and Ladder Company of Newark, submitted last week at the meeting and election of the company, showed that the company answered 101 fire calls in 1930, and fought fires that did a total amount of damage of $172,620. Of this damage, an estimated total of $10,105 damage was caused by fires within the town, and $5,515 damage was caused by fires within the district of the fire company outside of town. The damage outside of this district amounted to $156,000, the biggest fire being the one at the Diamond State Fibre Company in Elsmere, on August 10, at which the fire loss was estimated at $125,000.

The election of officers was the most important action at the meeting. Ellison was again re-elected chief, and Charles Tasker and Edwin Shakespeare were elected first and second assistant chiefs. Walter Powell, Henry Gregg and Herbert Henning were named directors, and Charles Eisner as fire recorder. Ewell Buckingham was elected chief pipeman, and Waldo Lovett (Herbert Murphy, Clarence Richards and Leslie Jones were named assistant pipemen.

Brush, field and woods fires caused the largest number of runs last year. Thirty of these calls were answered. Defective flues and chimney fires accounted for 24 calls, while buildings in town and buildings out of town called for 10 and 6 runs respectively. Other causes of calls were: autos, garages, or both, 6; farm houses and barns, 5; straw stacks, 4; dumps, 4; miscellaneous, 7; false alarms, 5.

During the year, there were 50 fires in the town, 41 in the district out of town and 10 out of the district. Of the calls, 72 came between the hours of 6 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening and 29 calls occurred between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m.

The number of fires during the past three years have increased each year, the report showed, and the great majority of these fires can be directly attributed to carelessness. During 1928, there were 61 fires; during 1929, 70; and in 1930, 101. If a little thought and care is exercised by the public, the firemen point out, the number of fires would be greatly reduced, and the loss would be far less.

Mr. Short is well known throughout the East and the entire United States as a lecturer of ability and charm, and his address is expected to bring a real message to Newark. A few short addresses will be made by the officials of the club, and by some of the guests present.

The entertainment features of the evening are expected to be features that will be remembered for a long time after the dinner is over. NEWARK B. & L. TO ISSUE A NEW STOCK SERIES

Is Oldest Building and Loan Association in Delaware MEETING CALLED

A meeting of the directors of the Newark Building and Loan Association was held last night in the Newark Trust Company building, and it was decided at the meeting that a new issue of stock will be placed on the market, to be known as the New Series No. 50 stock. No limit to the subscription will be made, and the stock will be issued as of April 1, 1931.

The directors also issued a call for a special meeting of the stockholders for February 3, at which time an amendment will be voted upon to change the date of the regular monthly meeting of the directors from the first Tuesday of the month to the first Wednesday night.

The Newark Building and Loan Association is the oldest association in the state, being now in its 64th year. At a meeting in Wilmington last Saturday night of the Delaware League of Building and Loan Associations, Warren A. Singles, treasurer of the Newark Building and Loan Association, made an address on "The Oldest Building and Loan Association in Delaware." Mr. Singles' remarks were reminiscent of the early efforts of this first organization of its kind, and of some of the ways it attracted attention. The association was formed on February 19, 1867.

Paul D. Lovett, of Newark, formerly bank examiner for the State, also addressed the meeting last Saturday.

CLEAN-UP DAY JANUARY 21

MEDICAL AND DENTAL CLINIC TO BE STARTED

Town Council Provides Room, Light, Heat and Water for Project

DOCTORS GIVE SERVICES

Through the cooperation of the Town Council, a medical and dental clinic for school children will be established within a few days in the large room on the second floor of the Town Council building.

At the meeting Monday night of the Town Council, a delegation of physicians and dentists from the town met with the council and discussed the plan to establish the clinic. That such a project is of merit, and that it is needed here, is without question, and the members of the council not only agreed to cooperate with such a plan, but also agreed to provide the room, light, heat and water for the clinic.

The work will be carried on by local doctors. It is planned for every school child who is in need of medical or dental attention to be treated and cared for at the clinic. The dental work will consist of examination, treatment of teeth and gums, extraction of diseased teeth, and general treatment to improve the health of the children through oral hygiene. The medical clinic will limit its activities to examinations, minor treatments and general health work.

Some time ago a clinic was established at the old Flower Hospital. This clinic failed to continue on account of the lack of available funds for expenses. It is believed now by the doctors that these necessary funds can be obtained. The doctors, both dentists and physicians, give their services to the clinics free of charge.

L. HANDLOFF HAS SOLD STORE TO NEW COMPANY

Firm of Sperling and Miller to Close Out Stock this Month RETAINS THEATER

Louis Handloff, for many years engaged in the mercantile business here, and owner of the Louis Handloff Department Store, announced Tuesday that he has sold his large store to the Philadelphia business concern of Sperling and Miller, and that the new owners have taken charge of the store. Mr. Handloff still retains the ownership of the building in which the store is located, but has closed out his entire stock to the new owners.

Mr. Handloff came to Newark a number of years ago and started a small business here. Under his management his business interests have grown to be quite large, and besides his department-store, he has a number of valuable real estate properties in Newark and also the State Theatre. The State Theatre replaced the old Hanark Theatre, founded by Mr. Handloff some years ago.

The firm of Sperling and Miller will dispose of the stock of the department store within the next few weeks, and expect to have the building vacant by the first part of February. Mr. Handloff has not as yet announced to what use the building will be placed after the present leases finish their work, but it is expected that some announcement will be made soon.

REHEARSALS OF CHORUS TO BE RESUMED MONDAY

The rehearsals of the Choral Club of Newark, conducted and directed by Firmin Swinnen, will be resumed next Monday night following the organ recital which will be given in Mitchell Hall by Mr. Swinnen. The club, composed of about 80 residents of the town, members of the faculty and students of the University of Delaware, is now preparing for a concert which will be given sometime this spring. The last concert, given this winter, was a very pleasing one, and the club is now studying several new numbers in anticipation of the next concert.

NEW OFFICIALS OF COUNTY ARE PUT IN OFFICE

Sheriff and Coroner Assumed New Duties of Office on Tuesday GOULD IS DEPUTY

A new sheriff and a new coroner for New Castle County took office Tuesday.

I. J. Hollingsworth took over the sheriff's office, relieving William N. Lank, whom he was elected to succeed at last November's election.

H. P. Ahern took over the coroner's office succeeding Thomas White who was defeated for re-election. Register of Wills J. Gilpin Highfield and Recorder of Deeds Albert Stetser started new terms. They were re-elected last November.

Sheriff Hollingsworth announced there would be but one change in his office force, Joseph H. Gould, former sheriff being selected as chief deputy to succeed Eugene Scarborough who was chief deputy under Sheriff Lank.

Mr. Scarborough may be appointed to a clerkship in Mr. Stetser's office. Recently Coroner Ahern appointed H. Herbert Hirtzel as his deputy. Mr. Hirtzel has opened the county morgue at 1402 Market street which replaces the morgue on Girard street near Orange used by James T. Chandler, Jr., deputy coroner under Coroner White.

Deputy Coroner Hirtzel has selected J. Paul Gropp and Peyton Price as his assistants. William E. Gunby, colored, has been named by Coroner Ahern as a deputy to serve with Hirtzel.

Shortly after taking office Mr. Hirtzel was called to Townsend for his first case, that of Florence Frazier, colored, 4 years old. The child's death was attributed to malnutrition.

New equipment has been installed in the store, including new ice boxes in the meat department, new iceboxes for green vegetables, new shelving for display purposes, and new tables and counters for display and sales.

Several new ideas in retail grocery sales will be introduced in the store. Along with the alterations to the store, a number of new lines of merchandise have been installed by Mr. Richards, with the purpose in mind of providing a complete choice of quality goods to the large and growing community in the western portion of the town.

BOY, SHOOTING AT BIRD, KILLS AGED RECLUSE

Bullet Misses Target and Strikes Man on Other Side of Bushes

DIDN'T SEE MAN

Daniel Dennison, age 63, of near North East, is dead because a 16-year-old boy failed to hit a bird with his small rifle bullet and also failed to see the aged man who was walking on the other side of a patch of bushes.

Frank Bostwick, age 16, the boy who fired the fatal shot, says he neither heard Dennison nor saw him when he shot at the bird.

Dennison who lives in a little shack along the edge of a woods near North East, was taking a stroll Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock with V. L. Sweet. They were walking some distance from Dennison's home, when a shot was fired from the other side of the bushes. Dennison dropped to the ground, a bullet wound in the middle of his chest.

Bostwick and his companions, Robert C. Rudy, John Shallcross, and George McKenny, all sons of respectable parents of North East, hearing the cry of the aged victim, went to Sweet's assistance. Dr. H. Arthur Cantwell, of North East, who examined the aged man after he was taken to his office, pronounced him dead.

Dennison lived alone. His relatives have been notified of his death.

FOREIGN STUDY PLAN OF U.O.F.D. TO BE EXTENDED TO GERMANY

President Hullihen, Addressing Alumni of Foreign Study Group, Tells of Plan to Widen Scope of Work TO PATTERN AFTER FRENCH SYSTEM

Seventy graduates representing 32 different colleges and universities who had spent their junior year in France in connection with the University of Delaware Plan for Foreign Study were addressed by leading educators at the annual dinner of the Alumni Association at the Hotel Brevoort, New York, Monday night.

During the past eight years, more than 300 American students from 80 colleges and universities have taken courses of study offered by the University of Delaware in France, the major object of which is the development of a better understanding between France and the United States. The students are quartered in the homes of residents in Nancy where the Summer courses are given and in Paris where the students are given special work at the Sorbonne. The courses cover history, literature, philosophy, art, drama, government, and the customs of the French people.

The principal addresses at the dinner were given by Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University of Delaware, and Dr. Fortunat Strowski, professor of French literature at the Sorbonne, and who this year is the visiting professor from France at Columbia University lecturing on contemporary literature.

A feature of the evening was the statement by Dr. Hullihen that the plan of sending students to France had worked out so successfully that it is now proposed to perfect arrangements with Germany through their universities covering practically the same courses of study which are now being given at the Sorbonne in Paris.

"With the foundations of our work firmly laid in France, the attention of other countries has been drawn to this plan and during the past five years many inquiries have come from Spain, Italy, Switzerland and Germany asking us if we could not institute in these countries similar organizations," said Dr. Hullihen. "In recent months still further inquiries have come from educational officials in Germany and in a very recent interview with the German Ambassador in Washington he expressed his warm admiration of the plan as carried out in France and assured us of the very great interest he and the educational leaders in Germany will take in giving every assistance possible to see such a program inaugurated in that country. We will, therefore, at once address ourselves to the task of finding the necessary resources for de-

SIMONTON, COY CHOSEN TO LEAD LEGISLATURE

Apparent Deadlock Broken When Sussex Man is Chosen Speaker

APPOINT OFFICES

Order prevailed over factional fights among the groups in the State Legislature at Dover yesterday after Representative Bud Coy, of Georgetown, was chosen late Tuesday afternoon as the caucus selection for Speaker over Representative William E. Virden, of Wilmington. Mr. Coy received 13 votes, and Mr. Virden 8, to break what seemed to be a deadlock. The Senate organized earlier in the week by electing Senator William A. Simonton, of Wilmington, president pro-tem.

After the election of the Speaker, the caucus reached an agreement on the various clerkships, stenographers, attorneys, etc. In a short time a large number of offices were allotted by the caucus, and along with name men to fill offices created in past years, a number of new offices were also created and filled. Both houses completely disregarded the economic suggestions made by Governor Buck to reduce the number of offices.

There are 21 Republican members of the House and 21 officers of various ranks from attorney to page were named. In addition there will be one more officers, secretary to the speaker. It is reported that Speaker Coy will probably name John E. Anderson, of Wilmington, to that position.

Not only was there an appointment for every office on the list two years ago but several new offices were created, including assistant bill clerk and assistant document clerk. (Continued on Page 8.)

POST OFFICE REVENUE GAINS OVER 1929, EVANS FINDS

An increase of revenue in the Newark Post Office of 7.6 per cent during 1930 was announced by Postmaster William H. Evans today. So far as it is known, the post office here is the only post office in the State to increase its revenue and amount of business this year. A decrease of 3 per cent was reported in Wilmington. Each quarter of 1930 was a larger quarter than in 1929, Mr. Evans stated, and it is expected that 1931 will be even a large year for the local post office than 1930.

BUILDING PERMITS ARE REQUIRED BY COUNCIL

Building permits for the erection, alteration, or changing or any building of any kind within the town limits of Newark, will be required from now on, Town Council decreed at its meeting Monday night. These permits may be obtained from City Engineer M. H. Sigmund. There is no charge for the issuing of the permits, but, in order to facilitate the keeping of the town records, it has been decided to require a permit for any building.

SCHOOL BUILDING COMMISSION MEETS WITH ENGINEER

Members of the Newark School Building Commission met in the Newark School Wednesday afternoon with the architect and engineer in charge of the building of the new wing to the present school building to consider general problems of the progress of the work, in addition to a general survey of what has already been done. Work on the new wing is progressing rapidly, and the excavating is practically completed.

INFORMATION ON GROWING PEAS FOR CANNING IS GIVEN

As a number of farmers in this section have contracted with canning companies to grow peas for canning, the following suggestions are given in the hope that they will be of use to the growers.

Soils for Peas

"Peas are grown on a great variety of soils, both light and heavy types. The main essential is good drainage. Peas will not do well in soggy or poorly drained land. A light to medium loam soil is usually preferred, because it is earlier, well-drained and less subject to disease; however, excellent crops of peas are also produced on the heavier types."

"Fall plowing is practical and desirable with all soil except the light types that leach or blow badly. Light soils should be plowed in late winter or very early spring."

Thorough preparation to a depth of three to four inches is important, as the seed is usually drilled in narrow rows and later cultivation is not practiced. Outstanding differences in yields have been secured in favor of well-prepared land, under experimental conditions."

Lime

"Soil to be in best condition for peas should be nearly neutral. All soils showing by test a lime requirement considerably in excess of 1000 pounds per acre should be limed before being planted to peas. Very acid soils having a lime requirement of 5000 to 6000 pounds, show a very marked response to lime, but it is generally agreed that in the case of land of at least fair fertility showing by test of lime requirement of more than one thousand pounds of ground limestone per acre, liming for peas is of little or no value."

"Lime may be applied before sowing the peas, or at some previous time during the rotation. No one form of lime is considered better than another. Use the form that is most economical from the standpoint of cost for available oxides."

Fertilization

"According to tests conducted in Maryland, the humus content of the soil is the most important, single factor influencing the yield of peas. The reasons for this are apparent in that soil having a high humus content can retain and make more efficient use of the commercial fertilizers applied, as well as being more retentive of moisture. Therefore, it is important to maintain the humus content of soils to be planted to peas, by means of either stable manures or green manure crops in the rotation."

"Application of commercial fertilizer in relatively liberal quantities is found to be profitable. The general practice with Maryland growers is to use 350 to 700 pounds per acre of a 4-8-4 or 5-8-5. Experimental results indicate that a higher percentage of nitrogen can be used to advantage on the proper soils."

"Fertilizer is drilled broadcast before sowing the seed. It is the consensus of opinion that amounts of fertilizer in excess of 300 pounds to the acre have harmful effect on germination of the seed when applied with the seed at time of sowing."

Varieties

"The early, smooth-seeded variety known as Alaska is by far the most important variety grown for canning in Maryland; in fact it is the leading variety in the United States from the standpoint of acreage and total production."

Inoculation

"Seed peas should be inoculated with some form of commercial culture secured from a reputable source, unless the land to be planted to peas has very recently been planted to peas that showed good nodule formation on the roots or has been recently planted to vetch."

"Studies recently reported by Dr. C. R. Boswell, in Maryland Experiment Station Bulletin No. 306, in which the relative importance of factors affecting growth of peas were considered, showed that soil organic matter was the most important factor in determining plant growth, yield, and nodule formation. The better nodule growth occurred in the better soils. Thus it appears that soil fertility is of importance, even in the matter of securing satisfactory response from inoculation."

"It has been found that it is best to delay inoculating, or application of the culture to the seed, until immediately before planting."

Seeding

"Experiments recently completed by the Maryland Experiment Station have shown that the time of planting peas has a very direct influence on yield. Successive planting of peas made from the earliest practicable date at about ten day intervals in five different seasons showed that in any one season each planting matured in less time than the preceding one, and, in general, the successively later plantings gave successively lower yields. Decreasing yields were apparently the result of increasingly high temperatures encountered by the successively later plantings. Harmful effects of late plantings were most pronounced in seasons in which very warm weather occurred early."

"Early planted peas remain in good canning condition at harvesting for a longer time than late planted peas."

"The usual rate of seeding peas in Maryland is four bushels per acre, although there has been a tendency in recent years on the part of some growers to use four and one-half bushels per acre. Results obtained by the Maryland Station, in tests conducted at Ridgely, found four bushels to be the most profitable rate."

"The seed is usually sown with an ordinary drill, designed for the sowing of grain and other field-crop seeds including peas."

"After drilling the seed, the drill marks should be smoothed down by means of a light harrow or roller, so that the surface of the ground will be smooth for harvesting."

Harvesting

"Harvesting is done with a regular mowing machine equipped with special devices that lift the vines so that they can be cut close to the ground. Finger-like devices for lifting the vines are placed on the cutting bar."

P. T. A. JANUARY PROGRAM TO BE BASED ON NEW BOOK

The historical sketch planned by the State Program Committee for use in January meetings of the Parent-Teacher Associations is based on "The Dutch and the Swedes on the Delaware, 1609-1664," a new book by Christopher Ward of Wilmington. As colonists both Dutch and Swedes followed the early habits and practices of their homelands rather than adapt themselves to meet new conditions. The sketch suggests the importance of giving children opportunities to meet changing conditions since they live in a changing world.

Those who have been following the year's program will think at once of the first point made: "Don't think for your children. In every day situations give them a chance to think for themselves."

The second point emphasized was equally important: "Let your children work with raw materials. They gain poise and control from the mastery of simple processes."

Children who have been allowed to solve their own problems and to gain a sense of power by handling raw materials will be better prepared to meet new situations successfully. Local associations are invited to list ways by which children may gain practice in meeting new situations.

P. T. A. HELPS NEEDY

Mrs. Edward Phillips is chairman of a committee of the Oak Grove, No. 130, Parent-Teacher Association which has visited all needy families in the district and distributed food, clothing, stoves, coal, toys, etc. All funds raised at parties held by this association will be used to carry on this good work during the winter. A bingo party is planned for January 9th, and a pound party for January 16th. Each teacher and every member of the Parent-Teacher Association contributed to the fund for this work before Christmas.

Facts for Farmfolks

AGRICULTURAL AUTHORITIES

EXCESSIVE AMOUNTS OF ROUGHAGE NOT NECESSARY
By Prof. W. B. Krueck

In some sections where good roughage is extremely high in price, dairymen may welcome the idea that the amount of dry roughage for dairy cows can be reduced to some extent without materially affecting the condition of the cows.

Where silage is available and the feeder has been in the habit of feeding ten or twelve pounds of dry roughage along with silage, no ill effects should be obtained and milk production should be maintained even though the dry roughage be reduced to five or six pounds, provided a reasonable amount of silage is fed.

It seems that a certain amount of dry roughage is quite essential where silage is being used. However, bovine animals were kept on feed without any difficulty where silage was used as the principal roughage, providing a small quantity of dry roughage was fed continuously.

Furthermore, some interesting experimental work that has been conducted in England, seems to have demonstrated that the period of usefulness of a dairy cow is somewhat prolonged by limited feeding of roughage.

The feeder, however, should keep in mind the physical effect of the roughage upon the animal's system. If dry roughages are fed that are inclined to be similar to straw or timothy hay and not laxative in their effect upon the digestive tract of the animal, the grain ration should be adjusted accordingly.

Where silage is being fed, however, normally no adjustment is necessary, due to the fact that the silage is normally sufficiently laxative to keep the animals in good condition.

It is more important, however, that dairymen check up carefully on their herds and see that they come into winter conditions in good flesh. The hot summers and dry pastures have had a tendency to lower the reserve of the average dairy cow in a great many sections.

If these cows go into winter quarters in a lowered condition, it is going to require more feed to maintain them and obtain the milk production which is essential for maximum profit.

Mr. Advertiser

There has been a number of arguments regarding When and How to advertise. Some people say "consistently"--others say "spasmodically." But, regardless of all arguments, it Pays to Advertise.

The Philadelphia merchants and manufacturers due to intensive advertising, greatly increased their business during the past few months.

It is a well known fact that there is more time spent reading newspaper advertisements than ever before. This surely is proof that you should advertise, and advertise RIGHT NOW.

THE NEWARK POST will carry your message to more homes in Newark and this immediate vicinity than any other paper published in New Castle County. Tell the public by advertising what you have to sell, and the public will buy.

JANUARY 8, 1931

On Entering the New Year

Every American should be ambitious to make 1931 a prosperous and progressive year.

Never have our resources, from the standpoint of capital, men or machines, been so great. Never have we possessed such an abundance of potentialities for future achievement.

The nation is beginning to emerge from the “depression wave” which engulfed us more than a year ago. There is nothing fundamentally wrong with America, and our ills are of the most transitory sort. One of the most hopeful signs for future national stability and progress is the vast amount of effort now being given by leaders in all fields of endeavor to find workable solutions of our social and economic problems.

It is trite to say that future prosperity will be largely the result of industrial development. The electric industry, railroad, automobile, telephone, mining, oil—progress in any one of them is connected with progress for all other business.

Industry's great future problems will be mainly those arising from governmental policies toward business. There is a strong, politically-backed trend toward socialism in this country. Men in high official positions are seeking—some sincerely, some for the sake of the political capital it makes for them—to put the government into various lines of business and pass unnecessarily restrictive laws.

Socialism in the United States will succeed only if the American public fails to recognize that it is a violation of the spirit of our constitution, and a denial of those social and economic rights and liberties laid down by the founders of the nation.

In the same category must be included efforts to control the habits and personal affairs of our citizens through sumptuary legislation. There is no greater menace facing our people than the growth in scope and increase in power of an organized bureaucracy. Its ultimate result will be to establish a dictatorship of officeholder, which can be prevented only by unceasing vigilance on the part of voters.

If the sole achievement of 1931 is a start toward a return to fundamentals in the relation between government and industry, and government and the individual, it will be remembered as one of the greatest years in our history.

From the purely material standpoint, there is no reason why the new year should not be the beginning of a new and greater epoch. The machine age has become firmly established. Industrial and agricultural mechanization is now an accepted fact. Domestic life, aided by labor saving devices and modern conveniences has reached new standards of comfort. Commodities and services that were once only possessed by the wealthy are now in reach of all. The American workman, commanding record horsepower, leads the world in wages and production.

All that preceding generations discovered, evolved and perfected is ours to use. No other nation ever had so firm a foundation on which to build.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that the modern world is a cooperative world in which no nation can stand alone and remote from the rest. A broad and tolerant international spirit is supplanting the insular nationalism of an earlier day. Friendly diplomatic and commercial relations between nations are the surest guarantees of world peace and progress. The volume of our foreign trade may, in coming years, mean the difference between prosperity and depression in the United States. Local prosperity depends on buying and selling between individuals and industries—world prosperity depends on buying and selling between nations.

Political bickerings, sectional jealousies, local prejudices, industrial depressions—all must be conquered and forgotten in the work of accomplishing the greatest possible good for the greatest possible number of people.

DR. HAROLDE. TIFFANY BUILDING NEW RESEARCH LABORATORY

Newark Man, with Chemical Laboratory in Wilmington, Conducting Important Experiments

Dr. Harold E. Tiffany, a resident of Newark, and city chemist for Wilmington, is enlarging the quarters of the Wilmington Testing and Research Laboratories, his establishment for research and commercial work in Wilmington, and is installing some new equipment which will make the laboratory one of the most complete in this section of the country.

Dr. Tiffany carries on extensive research and investigation work for private concerns, as to the chemical contents of various foodstuffs, fuels and other products for industrial and manufacturing concerns in the city.

The new space secured for the laboratories is well lighted and more spacious than the former quarters. One big room has been prepared by Dr. Tiffany for the general laboratory. There are smaller rooms for special research work and for analysis of liquor, water and drugs.

There is also a special weighing room with electrical equipment. Later an outside room, directly connected to the weighing laboratory will be added for the specific purpose of carrying on bacteriological work. It will be surrounded on four sides with glass windows so that the daylight facilities will be of the best. Dr. Tiffany will add new equipment for carrying on micro-photography also.

The most important branch of Dr. Tiffany's work is carrying on research and control work for manufacturers of Wilmington and vicinity. Careful analyses are conducted in raw materials sold under specification, water used for industrial purposes and for the home and foodstuffs. Analyses are carried on in the matter of raw materials, such as coal, oil, and manufacturing materials. Finished products are also checked up at the laboratory to see that they conform to standards.

The new laboratories will be completed within two weeks, Dr. Tiffany said. As a hint of the value of the equipment carried for making tests and carrying on research work, Dr. Tiffany said that there is more than $1,200 worth in one small room. The various rooms include the “tink” room, or room where toxicological examinations are conducted, such as analysis of contents of stomachs to determine the possible presence of poison, a room for the exclusive purpose of analyzing liquor, water and drugs, and the weighing room. The vault will be retained in the cellar as before, for storing important samples and liquor for evidence in court.

Speaking of the unusually large amount of dope secured at the home of Martin F. Cottingham, in Wilmington, at the time of his arrest, Dr. Tiffany said that there was enough to last one dope addict, if he took normal doses, more than six years. There was enough dope in the four ounces of heroin seized to administer about 4800 doses, Dr. Tiffany asserted. Cottingham was sentenced to four years at Atlanta in Federal Court.

At present Dr. Tiffany is working out a formula for synthetic rubber, one of the problems which has been the subject of almost as much experimentation in modern times as the creation of gold by alchemists in former days. Dr. Tiffany has also worked out a new formula for furniture polish.

Among the added equipment is a refractometer, for testing small amounts of liquor and liquor with an alcoholic content close to the legal limit.

CECIL FARMERS AT CONVENTION

Maryland Agricultural Society Holds Meeting in Baltimore

Several hundred Cecil County farmers are attending the 15th annual convention of the Maryland Agricultural Society, and the Maryland Farm Bureau, which convened for a three-day session, at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

The opening session was held Wednesday afternoon with E. Thomas Massey, of Kent County, vice-president of the Agricultural Society, in the chair. James W. Davis, president of the Federation, addressed the group.

Two addresses, one by Dr. Raymond A. Pierson, president of the University of Maryland, and one by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau and vice-president of the national organization, were heard.

The session this afternoon was presided over by Walter S. Spencer, president of the Harford County Farm Bureau and the speakers will include C. R. White, president of the New York Farm Bureau, who will tell how New York solved the tax question for the farmer. He will be followed by Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, director of the home and community department.

This evening the annual banquet will be held with former Senator Thomas Parran, of Southern Maryland fame, as toastmaster.

The final session will be held Friday with E. P. Cahill, the first president of the Farm Federation and Dr. Thomas B. Symons, director of the Maryland Extension Service, as its speakers.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETEERS TO PLAY TOMORROW NIGHT

The first D. I. A. A. league basketball game of the season for the Newark High teams will be played Friday evening at Claymont, when the local boys and girls meet the strong Claymont teams in that town. The Claymont team is greatly improved this year, and a hard game is expected by the local basketeers. The Newark boys' team is made up almost entirely this year of new material, and the team has been a little slow in getting started, but it is expected that by the time of the game tomorrow night they will be in good condition, and will make Claymont hustle to keep up a fast pace.

On Wednesday night the Newark teams will play the boys' and girls' teams from Beacom College of Wilmington, in the armory here. The game will begin at 7.30 o'clock. Mrs. Louise Duffy is the coach of the girls' team, and W. K. Gillespie is coaching the boys.

I. O. R. M.

Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23, Improved Order of Red Men, are having largely attended meetings now and those who fail to attend are missing a whole lot. The entertainment committee promises to have the baseball board on hand soon, possibly next week, and then some of the crack teams from Wilmington will be on the schedule.

Plans are also being made for a membership drive and all those who have not been attending are urged to come out next Tuesday night.

CUT IN LICENSE FEE DISCUSSED

Delaware Auto Association Wants Gas Tax Cut Also

A reduction of operators' fees, and a proportionate reduction of automobile license fees, was discussed Tuesday night at the monthly board of directors' meeting of the Delaware Automobile Association in Wilmington.

A committee was appointed to investigate existing conditions, and action will be taken at the next meeting.

At the present time highway bonds are being retired at a much faster rate than anticipated, which would show that more money is being received from the tax receipts than necessary for a progressive road building campaign and for the maintenance of the present roads system.

It was said. It was felt that the future generation should pay for the good roads which they will enjoy, and that the expenses should not be settled on the motorists during the next three or four years. It was decided to submit a bill to the Legislature asking for this reduction after a careful survey, so as not to interfere with the present good roads program.

The executive secretary, L. L. Hoopes, was instructed to write to all official agencies of the association, also to the oil companies, asking them when a motorist purchased gasoline from them to have their attendants ask the driver to switch on the lights so as to check up on the car's lighting equipment, seeing that the lights are in proper working order, thus helping do away with “one-eyed” cars.

Alban P. Shaw, county engineer, asked the association to back a bill in the Legislature giving the county the right to demand that tractors and threshing equipment be compelled to remove cleats, or place blocks between them, while using county roads. He cited the case of the Fieldsboro Road, which the county had just completed last Summer, when a threshing machine with spuds six inches long, hauling a long line of threshing equipment went over it, damaging it to the extent of several hundred dollars. Another case was the Pike Creek Road, where one of the farmers living along the road had used a thrasher from tearing the road up further. Mr. Shaw had to inform him that the tractor operator could not be prevented from using the road. This certainly is to the interest of all motorists to write to the Representatives and Senators of their districts and ask them to approve this bill, it was stated.

It was announced by Mr. Hoopes that the association feels there should be a reduction in indirect taxes. Gasoline production and consumption in the past five years have been enormous. The gas tax in 1929 equalled the combined gasoline tax, operators' fees, and license fees for 1925, he stated.

DANCE AT ELKTON JAN. 16 WILL ATTRACT MANY

Local dance enthusiasts will probably flock to Elkton Friday evening, January 16, for the midwinter ball of the Company “E” Club in the State Armory, from nine until two o'clock. Bobby Bennett and his International Orchestra will furnish the foot-warming tunes for the occasion which will be semi-formal.

Decorations will follow a wintry motif of white, the Armory floor being bordered with streamers outside of which will be a row of red balloons to add color to the festive scene.

The central portion, however, will furnish the most impressive portion of the motif. A group of evergreen trees covered with artificial snow or icicles will be outside an inverted cone of white streamers in which will be floating numerous multi-colored balloons buoyed up by the breeze of a powerful electric fan.

CARD PARTY BENEFIT

A benefit card party will be held Thursday night, January 15, at the Rectory of St. John's Catholic Church, Bridge, five hundred and euehre will be played, games beginning promptly at 8 o'clock. A door prize will be given.

INVITE PUPILS, TEACHERS, TO POULTRY SHOW

Fourth Annual Exhibit Starts Today in Wilmington Armory 1000 BIRDS IN SHOW

The Delaware State Poultry Association has invited teachers of the public and private schools in Wilmington and vicinity and their pupils to the fourth annual poultry show in the Armory, Tenth and du Pont streets, the last three days of this week.

Pupils accompanied by their teachers will be admitted free of charge. The courtesy has been extended to the schools by the sponsors of the show, the Delaware State Poultry Association, with whom the Delaware Fanciers' and Breeders' Association is co-operating.

The show, which will include exhibitions from all parts of the State, will open each morning at 9, and will be continued until 5 in the evening. Classes are provided for production, exhibition, record of performance, vocational agriculture, 4-H Club, broilers, baby chicks, and commercial displays of supplies and equipment. Exhibits will include chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks, pheasants, pigeons, and rabbits.

One hundred and nine poultrymen will participate in the show, displaying 1000 birds. Thirty-eight vocational agricultural students and thirty-one 4-H Club boys and girls will be represented in the show. All the entries of the latter two groups were grown by the boys and girls exhibiting them as a part of the farm project. There will be seventeen commercial exhibitors represented, featuring the feed, equipment and supplies for poultry raising.

During the show, judging contests for the 4-H Club and vocational agriculture students will be held. Three participants in the 4-H contest making the highest grades will be sent by the Delaware State Poultry Association to represent Delaware in the poultry judging contests which will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on January 17.

MANY PRIZES TO BE GIVEN AT SEAFORD SHOW

4-H Club Members Looking Forward to Show January 14, 15, 16

Delaware 4-H Club members are looking forward to the Annual Grain and Forage Show of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association at Seaford on January 14, 15 and 16, with unusual anticipation this year. The annual 4-H Club Corn Judging Contest held in connection with this show has always been an important event as the honor of being named the champion 4-H club corn judge of Delaware, with the privilege of holding the Association's silver trophy cup for a year has been eagerly contested for by these youthful farmers.

Interest this year is more pronounced than ever because of the new awards which are to be offered for the first time. The trophy cup which has been in competition since 1919 has been withdrawn by the Executive Committee of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association, and will be placed in the office of A. D. Cobb, Assistant Director of Extension, in charge of 4-H Club Work at the University of Delaware. In its place the Association will present the winning 4-H corn judge with a beautiful bronze shield bearing the 4-H club emblem of the four-leaf clover with its 4-H's representing the development of Head, Heart, Hands and Health. The winner's name will be engraved on the shield and will retain permanent possession of the trophy. In addition the winners of first, second and third place in the contest will receive handsome medals suitable for watch fobs or lockets. These will be gold, silver and bronze for first, second and third place respectively.

The contest will be held in the show room in Mechanic's Hall in Seaford, on the last day of the show, January 16, at 1:30 p. m., with Mr. Cobb in charge.

GIRL HURT IN CRASH NEAR PORT DEPOSIT

Miss Ruth Hopkins, prominent in the social circles of Cecil county and in Elkton, is confined to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. C. Hopkins, of Port Deposit, suffering injuries received in an automobile accident.

Miss Hopkins, with a college friend, was enroute to a dance in the machine of Marion Arthur, skidded on the road near St. James House, and crashed into a tree. Miss Hopkins sustained severe cuts on the face and head, and had the misfortune to have part of her front teeth knocked out. The other occupants in the spill escaped with minor cuts and bruises. The machine was badly damaged.

STATE SOLONS FIGHT EXTRA CONGRESS TERM

Hastings, Townsend and Houston Oppose Idea of Extra Session SESSION UNNEEDED

Not only is Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware opposed to an extra session of Congress, which threatens, but he cherishes a conviction of mature thought that it would be well if there existed an organization whose sole object would be to prevent the passage of new legislation for which there was no need.

He said yesterday that he is convinced that the country is opposed to an extra session. Very few Senators, he said, appeared to approve the idea advanced by Senators Borah, Norris and others. For that reason, Senator Hastings is optimistic enough to believe that there will be no extra session.

Senator Boarab, it will be recalled, listed six bills as in his judgment, justifying an extra session for their consideration.

Commenting, Senator Hastings said: “If every member of Congress, including both branches, were to pick out of the 22,000 bills offered and not acted upon six bills that they considered important enough to warrant a special session, the chances are that we would have six times as many bills as there are members, which of course would mean continuous sessions of Congress.”

“With all the various organizations that are being created these days, it seems to me that one that would be most helpful to the nation and to all the states would be an anti-legislation organization, the object of which would be to prevent the passage of needless new laws.”

Both Senator Townsend and Representative Houston are in agreement with Senator Hastings in opposing an extra session of Congress.

BLUE HEN FIVE LOSE FAST GAME TO ARMY TEAM

Cadets Hand Delaware First Defeat of Season; Score 48 to 28

KEMSKE, LEAHY, STAR

The Army scored its third basketball victory yesterday defeating the University of Delaware five by a tally of 48 to 28. The Cadets were on top from the opening whistle, but owed their commanding advantage at the end of two spurts, one at the beginning of the game and the other in the second half which netted more than half of the Army's total points.

Ray Stocker was again the outstanding scorer for the Cadets with six goals from the floor, but Epler, the Army's yearling center played a brilliant game and his work in following up shots and feeding the ball to Stecker enabled the latter to score several of his baskets. “Doc” Strother, co-captain of the Cadet five, played for a short time in the second half and tallied a pair of spectacular shots.

Delaware was slow in getting started, but once under way gave the Army a real battle. Kemske at center and Leahy, at right forward, broke through the Army defense repeatedly and each scored five baskets.

They were especially alert at following up Army tries for goals and quickly transformed Cadet attacks on their own goal line into falls of the Army basket. Lineup:

Table with columns: ARMY, Field, Goal, Pts. Rows include Stecker, Mansfield, Clark, Krueger, Besson, Powell, Epler, Blanning, Malloy, Herb, Strother, Messinger, Abell, Adams, and Totals.

Table with columns: DELAWARE, Goals, Field, Pts. Rows include Roman, Leahy, Kemske, Kaufman, Donoghue, Orth, Haggerty, Haney, and Totals.

FOREIGN STUDY IN GERMANY TO BE STARTED

first organized group in Germany will become a reality not later than 1932-1933, possibly sooner.

"It is, of course, our intention to continue our work in France with the same zeal and effectiveness. It is our hope that this year may, despite adverse economic conditions in this country, see a reasonable increase in numbers and in the tenth year of the existence of our work in France, we hope that our group may reach such a size and number as to compel us once more to move to larger quarters as we have had to do twice in the past."

The plan of sending college men and women to Germany was heartily endorsed by Professor Strowski, who said in the course of his address:

"And now that the success of your organization has been great enough to enlarge the scope of your work far beyond France, passing from Havre to Paris, the American youth will initiate itself into the methods of the German University and in the culture of our neighbors of the East. Then there will naturally be relations of friendship, of mutual confidence, the same conception of humanity throughout the universe, and the same altruism. But it is extremely good that these relations make swifter progress than prudent diplomacy, which is after all a tortoise."

Addresses were made by students representing each of the eight years that the plan has been in operation.

During the first year the plan was inaugurated only eight students were enrolled in the courses of study given in France. This year there were 60 students, it was stated by President Hüllihen. Instruction is given by some of the foremost French teachers, and a wide choice of subjects is available, full credit for the year abroad being given by their respective colleges.

BUDGET SHOWS SURPLUS WILL BE $15,371,695

Bill Presented General Assembly by Gov. Buck Shows Amount CUT SCHOOL REQUESTS

Governor C. Douglass Buck presented to the General Assembly Tuesday, his biennial budget bill, which not only shows the surplus for the current year, but also indicates the estimated available cash surplus for the end of the biennial, July 1, 1933, as $15,371,695.04.

The Governor, in the budget, said: "This is based on his recommendations for General Fund Appropriations and existing laws, which control existing special accounts."

The report says: "If all requests were granted available cash surplus would be $15,114,309.39 as of July 1, 1933."

At July 1, 1933, the General Fund, available cash surplus is estimated at $5,768,711.98, based on my recommendations which are $2,964,365.81 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, and $2,583,369.86 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933. If all requests were allowed the available cash surplus would be $4,951,326.33 as of July 1, 1933."

Further, the report says: "The State Board of Education requests were $3,832,000 annually for the ensuing biennium. My recommendation is $3,412,000 annually for the ensuing biennium, which includes $20,000 annually to be set aside in a special account, known as the Smith-Hughes Special Account, to match Federal aid."

"According to my recommendation the school fund, as estimated, will have a balance as of July 1, 1933, of $9,014,710.87, available cash surplus."

"Your attention is called to the fact that approximately at this time, two-thirds of the available cash surplus of the State will be in the school fund under present conditions."

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S WEDDING

When the Young Virginian Met and Won Martha Custis

So much has been written on the more spectacular phases of George Washington's life that it is sometimes difficult to appreciate the really human qualities of the man. One of the finest stories ever told of Washington is that of his courtship of Martha Custis and their subsequent marriage. In this story are revealed some of the best and most attractive qualities of America's greatest hero. The firm, strong-willed leader of men who unflinchingly would face death on the battlefield found that he needed the companionship and helpful counsel of a woman. Fortunately, he met the sort of woman he wanted to reside in his home, and they were married on January 6, 1759.

The story of George Washington's marriage to Martha Custis is told by the Division of Information and Publication of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, in a statement intended to call attention to the 172nd anniversary of this notable event.

George Washington first met the Widow Custis at the home of Major Chamberlayne in May, 1758. The lady had then been a widow for about a year. She had married Colonel Daniel Parke Custis when she was seventeen years old, and was left at his death eight years later, with two small children and a considerable fortune. Although it is said that Washington was formally presented to Mrs. Custis for the first time by Chamberlayne, it is almost certain that the famous soldier and the charming widow had at least heard of each other before that time.

Fate must have taken a hand in the events of that day in May when Colonel Washington was detained at Williamsburg by the Pamunkey by his friend, Major Chamberlayne, who earnestly pressed upon the young man an invitation to stay his journey and enjoy the hospitality of the plantation. But Washington was hastening to Williamsburg where he intended to ask the Governor in person for men and supplies for the frontier, which previous urgent letters had failed to obtain. Chamberlayne was insistent, however, and when it appeared that all his importunities must fail to alter the plans of the Colonel, he informed the latter that he was then entertaining the charming Mrs. Custis. This argument, apparently, was potent enough to convince the young warrior where all others had been vain, and Washington consented to remain only long enough to partake of the meal which was then being prepared.

Bishop, the personal servant of Washington, who had served under Braddock, was instructed to hold the Colonels horse in readiness for a speedy departure as soon as dinner was over. The old soldier knew very well his masters reputation for punctuality, and since the business at Williamsburg was important, he fully expected that this wait would be a brief one. But the dinner passed, the sun sank lower into the west, the faithful Bishop received orders to stable the horses for the night and the journey was postponed until the next day.

There is something amusing in this scene of budding romance, although it is no wonder that Washington married Martha Custis was beautiful, attractive and accomplished. She has been described as being short, slightly plump and of engaging personality. Certainly the Colonels interest in the lady was matched by her own interest in the renowned young soldier, and such mutual agreeableness was surely sufficient to crowd prosaic business into the background.

However, the Governor had to be visited, so the next day found Washington on his way to Williamsburg. But as soon as the business which took him there was taken care of, the now fully smitten Colonel proceeded to the White House, the Custis home of the Pamunkey, where it appears Mrs. Custis expected him. When he left there he must have been in high spirits, for he took with him the lady's promise to marry him as soon as he could finish his military service on the Ohio.

Washington did not see his betrothed again for several months, for it was December before he returned from this expedition. His duties fulfilled, the Colonel resigned from the army and hastened plans for the wedding. It was during Washington's absence on the frontier that he wrote the only letter to Martha which alone remains of his pre-nuptial correspondence with her. This dignified and gravely tender note is dated Fort Cumberland, July 20, 1758:

"We have begun our march to the Ohio. A courier is starting for Williamsburg, and I embrace the opportunity to send a few words to one whose life is now inseparable from mine. Since that happy hour when we made our pledges to each other, my thoughts have been continually going to you as to another self. That All-powerful Providence may keep us both in safety, is the prayer of your faithful and ever affectionate friend, G. Washington."

It still is uncertain whether the marriage occurred in Saint Peter's Church or at the bride's home, the White House. At any rate, the Reverend Mr. Mossom, rector of Saint Peter's, officiate at the ceremony. Jared Sparks, one of Washington's earliest biographers, is the authority for the date of the wedding which he established as January 6. But no matter whether the wedding took place at the White or in the Church, it was a notable event and was attended by a great number of Virginia's prominent people. The Governor himself was there with civil and military authorities, and many of the socially elite. Only a traditional account of the festivities on that occasion exists today, but certainly the celebration left nothing lacking.

Martha's wedding gown has been thus described by one writer: "... a satin quilt, over which a heavy white silk, inter-woven with threads of silver, was looped back with white satin ribbons, richly brocaded in a leaf pattern. Her bodice was of plain satin, and the brocade was fastened on the bust with a stiff butterfly bow of the ribbon. Delicate lace finished the low, square neck. There were close elbow sleeves revealing a puff and frill of lace. Strings of pearls were woven in and out of her powdered hair. Her high heeled slippers were of white satin, with brilliant buckles."

The attractive appearance of the bride was equalled by that of the tall, well-built bridegroom. Always particular over his dress, Washington, on this occasion was elegantly arrayed and, according to all accounts, was the most gallantly magnificent figure in all that assemblage.

At last Mount Vernon had a mistress, but months elapsed after the wedding before the young bride saw her future home. Washington had just been elected to the House of Burgesses so the young couple remained in Williamsburg while that Chamber remained in session until May. When Washington did return with his wife to his beautiful estate on the Potomac, the place became home to both of them for the remainder of their lives.

Washington's marriage was a singularly happy one. In Martha he found all those womanly qualities which were needed to supplement those of his own character. Who can measure the value of the encouragement she must have given him during the weary days of the Revolution. Certainly she was always a faithful and devoted wife, and the Father of his Country owed a great deal to her for the measure of success he attained. Among the anniversaries of the many important dates in the life of George Washington, this one of his wedding holds an element of human interest which no doubt is appreciated by all his countrymen.

WAR DEPARTMENT ALLOTS $828,500 TO DELAWARE

The War Department's annual supply bill introduced Monday in the House at Washington, carries $828,500 for rivers and harbor improvements in Delaware.

Based on allotments in previous years, the government is scheduled to contribute from the total appropriations approximately $122,410 to the support of the Delaware National Guard.

The amounts for rivers and harbors includes: Wilmington Harbor, $100,000; Murderkill River, $13,500; Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, $715,000. Recommendation for the expenditures on the Wilmington Harbor (Christiana River) was made in the report of Lieutenant Colonel R. P. Howell, U. S. Engineer for the Wilmington District, that a part of the river channel be dredged to a mean depth of 35 feet.

The bill in the House carries $4,635,500 for rivers and harbors improvements in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

At the regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary on Monday evening, the chairman of the Welfare Committee was glad to report that her unit had had a unique part in helping to provide for all of the Delaware ex-service men in the different hospitals at Christmas time. Through the State Department Auxiliary, of which each unit in the State paid an equal amount, a new sweater was provided for each Delaware man at Farnhurst and Perry Point; also one gift was made to a man at the Brandywine Sanatorium. A new tie was also sent to each man in ward six at Perry Point Hospital. This, in a small measure, shows how the needs of the men are at times taken care of by the American Legion and its Auxiliary.

The American Legion Auxiliary unit here is at the present time supplying a family in its vicinity with three quarts of milk daily.

Loved Old-Fashioned Flower Girls

By SIDNEY BLAIR

(Copyright.)

"MAKE it orchids as usual—yes, the same; Miss Millicent Graves. You have the address? All right."

John Anstee snatched the telephone receiver into its place and leaned back in his desk chair. "Orchids as usual." He told himself that that described Millicent and the other girls to whom he sent flowers so frequently in order partly to repay his social debts. And he wondered if there weren't any girls in New York who were not like orchids, but like—well, marigolds, for instance! Old-fashioned girls, who knew how to cook dinner instead of merely telling the housekeeper to speak to the chef about it, girls who liked to work in gardens, instead of merely opening florists' boxes.

"Mr. Anstee, Miss Graves is here." His secretary spoke respectfully from the doorway.

"Very well, show her in." Anstee stifled a sigh as he rose.

He was halfway to the door when Millicent Graves entered, exquisite in pale gray with her orchids of the day before pinned to her scarf of summer ermine.

"Oh, John, you're ready to leave this old office now, aren't you? I came down to see further, and thought I'd drop in and get you to take me somewhere to tea and have a dance or two. Now, don't say 'No!'"

As he left with her a few moments later, his secretary turned to the girl whose desk stood next to hers in the outer office.

"You mark my words, Nancy Porter, that Graves girl will land Mr. Anstee before he knows what's happened to him."

"He's not the kind of man to marry a girl he doesn't love," Nancy Porter told her quietly. "He—oh, my gosh!"

The window washer, who had just arrived was opening one of the big windows; Nancy reached his side just in time to rescue a piece of folded felt, a foot long and six inches wide, that he was about to hurl into a waste basket.

"Hub! Funny garden," grunted the man, but he let it alone.

"Just wait and see it in a week from now," she said.

And a week later the "garden" was worth seeing. Nancy had kept it watered, and placed it where the sun shone on it every afternoon; tiny green shoots appeared all over its dark surface. She was bending over it late one afternoon, when the others had gone home, and hearing a step behind her, said rather loudly without turning:

"Look, Miss Curtis—my garden's big enough to help out my luncheon tomorrow. The watercress and mustard seeds are awfully big."

"What's this—a garden?" It was not Miss Curtis' voice, but John Anstee's, that answered her.

"Oh—oh, I thought it was your secretary instead of you," faltered Nancy, blushing hotly.

"But how did you do it?" he demanded, with a smile that reassured her.

"Just folded the felt and kept it wet, after I'd scattered the seeds on it," she answered.

Two weeks later Miss Curtis left quite suddenly to take a better position and John Anstee arranged to have "that little Porter girl" take her place as his secretary. The day she made the change he suggested that she plant a "garden" for him in his window.

"I like to have a bit of green around," he explained to her.

A few weeks later when, as she was eating her luncheon in his office after he had gone out—he had urged her to feel free to do so—Millicent Graves came in.

"I'll wait for Mr. Anstee," she told Nancy, and Nancy, wretchedly conscious of her frugal luncheon, finished her bread and butter in one gulp and surreptitiously threw her cake—a fresh baked one—into the waste basket.

John Anstee returned to find Miss Graves still there. He abruptly refused to take her to luncheon, telling her that he had already lunched and could not take more time from his work. Half an hour later, glancing into the waste basket he caught sight of the little cake which Nancy had thrown there; it had half escaped from its old paper wrapping.

Ten minutes later his buzzer summoned Nancy.

"I'm going to suggest that you get a new position," he told her, more severely than he had ever spoken to her before.

"Oh, I'm sorry—it's because I was having luncheon in here when Miss Graves came, isn't it?" she said miserably.

"Nonsense; I told you you could eat your luncheon here," he answered. "I don't think you ought to be doing secretarial work at all." He rose and came over to her side. "What I'm going to suggest is this—that you take a new job which will involve changing your name as well. I want you to become Mrs. John Anstee—how about it, Nancy?"

And as he took her into his arms Nancy laughed softly, though the tears in her eyes made the "garden" in the window in front of her strangely misty.

Country Press Indispensable Branch of General Educational System

From the Manufacture and Industrial News Bureau Bulletin

No branch of general education which reaches the masses of the American people can point to greater achievements than country journalism. Country papers stand in the front line of defense against schemes that rob the people. They work to encourage industries and payrolls, build up small communities and make more business for everybody.

According to N. W. Ayer & Son's Newspaper Directory for 1930, 9,261 daily and weekly newspapers in towns of 25,000 and under, report 18,383,736 subscribers. As the directory lists over 12,500 of these papers in the 48 states, it is evident that a most conservative estimate for those not giving circulation figures the rural press must have in excess of 20,000,000 subscribers. Practically none of this subscription list is duplicated; it is seldom that the same person takes two country newspapers. Any way it can be figured, these 20,000,000 subscriptions reach many more than that number of readers, for there is at least a man and a woman in nearly every home where a paper is delivered.

It is a great mistake to overlook or exclude the country newspaper in general advertising campaigns. We believe that these newspapers reach a greater potential buying market in a more direct manner than probably any other medium.

When national advertisers contemplate the expenditure of money for general advertising, it would be in the interest of the most uniform distribution of products and business to divide advertising appropriations so that a fair portion of them would be used in the country press. The small publishers advocate policies which tend to maintain sound conditions in this country but, too often, when there is any business to be passed around by large industries, it goes only to the big fellows in the publishing business.

In its contact with industrial leaders The Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau has always preached the advertising value of the smaller city dailies and country weeklies, believing that they are entitled to a share of the advertising appropriations made by large industries. It has pointed out that an advertisement in the home town paper presents the merits of a product to the intimate fireside circle of the home. It emphasizes the fact that a newspaper in a small community is as necessary to the life of that community as the school or the bank. There is no means of reaching these home owners and buyers with a description of the merits of a product or service as directly as through the columns of the local paper, which is intimately connected with all matters affecting the daily life of local citizens, who all read it.

Country weeklies and smaller city dailies make themselves more and more community builders in the true sense of the word. At the intersections of the main highways and paved streets they attract payrolls and industries, where such enterprises are not yet overdone as they are in many of the over-crowded half-million and multi-million populated world centers. The national development tendency is away from the mastodonic metropolises where free play of individualism is reduced to a minimum.

In the great open spaces there are still thousands of weeklies and small dailies owned and edited by individuals who alone dictate their own policies—men and women with their own money and their own plants and many of them still actual practical printers.

The country press is helping create prosperous smaller industrial cities and country places. It is helping to give employment to thousands of families, men, women and young people. It furnishes the United States with a newspaper service in every small city and town that is not equalled elsewhere in the world.

The smaller newspapers published in country communities and cities can become successful community builders, leaders for industrial development and multipliers of payrolls, which, in turn, furnish subscribers and advertisers.

The paper that makes itself the exponent of payrolls and industries helps found the prosperous community and shares in the community prosperity.

MISSION PLAY IN PHILA. JAN. 19

The Metropolitan Opera House, will be the Most Impressive Thing Seen in a Philadelphia Theatre

The magnificent presentation of the Passion Play, coming to the Metropolitan Opera House for two weeks only, beginning January 19. In a short time the transformed of the theatre into a medieval temple, and mounted the sacred drama from the Black Forest with a reverential which will win the awesome admiration of the Philadelphia audi-

Whatever one's religious belief, or whether one has any or not, if one has imagination or appreciation of the sublime, he must be impressed by the writing forth on the stage of the earnest and simple folk of Freiburg. Necessarily theatricalized somewhat for indoor performance with a profusion of costume and the radiance of artificial lights, nevertheless the mission of the tragedy which has inspired the lives of more human beings than any other either lived or acted, is a moving, stirring spectacle. Unless the audience be entirely indifferent and impervious to the beauty of the idea of personal sacrifice for the good of humanity, it cannot fail to respond to the spiritual appeal of the setting forth of the final days and the agency of the Man of Galilee.

This Freiburg version of "The Passion Play" was first acted in 1254, when the liturgical mysteries were common everywhere on the Continent. Through various interesting transformations it has developed into the full story of Christ's entrance into Jerusalem, the expulsion of the money changers from the temple, the Last Supper, His betrayal, the faltering judgment of Pilate, the grim march to the hill, the rude gaming of the soldiers at the cross, the claiming of the body, the resurrection and the ascension. Such mystery plays the monks of old acted in the cathedrals to teach the laity, and in the course of time the plays came out of the cathedrals to the squares, where the village craftsmen acted them. At Freiburg, at Oberammergau, for that matter, and in other places they are still kept in existence, chiefly for outdoor playing.

So they come down to us burdened with the long history of the common people—relics of common aspiration; they are bursting and stained with humanity. Since 1700 the Freiburg "Passion Play" has been not only a tradition of that Black Forest town, but of the Fasnacht family, one of whom now plays the Christ, another Jesus, and four others play minor parts. Every three years they perform it in Freiburg. Since August the company has been mounting the "Passion Play" throughout the Middle West, augmenting the Freiburg group everywhere with great bodies of the local people, and training the local choirs. Inasmuch as the modern theatre has developed consistently from the life of the common people, this relic of 700 years ago—as sacred as the blessed relics of the church—should move us, if only by its picture of the common aspirations of mankind.

Staged in the tremendous spaces of the Metropolitan Opera House with a lavish hand. On the platforms running out from either end of the stage the courts of the High Priests and of Pontius Pilate hold their ceremonies. Across the stage trudge endless processions of centurions, priests and Pharisees, and huge crowds follow at the heels of the apostles and the soldiers; camels, sheep and asses stride through the mobs.

Treated as spectacles, the great scenes are tremendously impressive. After the dumb show on the steps of the temple, the entrance of Christ, heralded by the cries of the mob and the waving of palms, is a scene of great force, reaching a beautiful climax with the arrival of Adolph Fasnacht as the Christ seated upon a lowly ass. Tableaux of the Last Supper, following closely the Cenacole of Da Vinci; the scene in the Sanhedrin, in which Judas repents of his betrayal; the spacious skyline scene, in which Pilate lets the howling mob choose between Barabbas and Christ; that in which Christ moves off wearily with His cross, and the crucifixion scene, are deliberately wrought and finely impressive. Well staged, well lighted, they have visualized enduring moments without over-elaboration.

Adult Fasnacht plays with simple conviction the Man of Sorrows, even though he seems to fall into the attitudes of some of the great paintings, and the well-known representation of Christ in Gethsemane of Hoffman. The crucifixion is impressively handled and also the descent from the cross. Will Ehrhardt Fasnacht as Judas acts with more histrionism than any of his fellows, being particularly effective in the betrayer's remorse before the Sanhedrin. Pontius Pilate Calaphas, the High Priest, are authoritative and convincing.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for January 11 THE CHILDHOOD OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52. GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man. PRIMARY TOPIC—Ideal Childhood. JUNIOR TOPIC—Growing up for God. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Responsibility of Youth. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Being about the Father's Business.

I. Jesus Growing (v. 40).

While Jesus was as to his personality, God, yet his deity did not interfere with his development as a human being. The processes of his physical, mental, and spiritual growth were the same as those of any normal human being. 1. "Grow and waxed strong." It was necessary for his body to develop. His brain, nerves, and muscles must not only attain unto the proper size but must come to act in unison, become correlated. 2. "Filled with wisdom." As with most children his training was largely in the hands of his mother. She, no doubt, taught him to commit to memory Bible verses and taught him the great stories of the Old Testament, from the creation down through the patriarchs and prophets. It seems that it was customary among the Jews to send the child at the age of six years to the synagogue school, where the Old Testament was the textbook.

3. "And the grace of God was upon him." By the grace of God doubtless, is meant God's loving favor and tender care. II. Jesus Tarrying Behind at Jerusalem (vv. 41-43).

At the age of twelve years the Jewish child took his place as a worshiper in the temple. He was then considered "a child of the law." Being thoroughly conscious of his mission, Jesus tarried behind and inquired into the meaning of the ordinances of God's house. His heart yearned for his Father.

III. Jesus Found in the Temple (vv. 44-47).

When his mother and Joseph had gone some distance on the homeward journey, they perceived that Jesus was not with them and sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances. Not finding him, they returned to Jerusalem and found him in the temple.

1. He was sitting (v. 46). He was perfectly at home in his Father's house.

2. He was hearing the teachers of God's Word (v. 46), and was eager to learn God's will.

3. He asked questions (v. 46). His growing mind was inquisitive; it inquired after—reached out after—truth.

4. He answered questions (v. 47). His answers showed such great wisdom that he astonished those who heard him. It was the expression of the workings of a perfect human mind suffused by the Holy Spirit.

IV. Mary's Complaint (vv. 48-50).

1. Her question (v. 48). "Why hast thou dealt thus with us?" She reproached with him for his behavior.

2. Jesus' reply (v. 49). He replied to her question in a dignified yet tender manner, but made no apology, thus indicating that he was more than merely the son of Mary. God was his Father.

3. Mary acquiesced in his revelation of himself (v. 51). She did not understand all these things, but she kept them in her heart.

V. Jesus' Obedience (v. 51).

Though he was fully conscious of his divine being and mission, he lived a life of filial obedience, thus teaching us that obedience to parents is pleasing to God, and a duty which will be discharged faithfully by those who have the spirit of Jesus Christ.

VI. Jesus' Development (v. 52).

1. Mental. "Increased in wisdom." Although the divine nature was united with the human, his mind was left free to develop normally.

2. Physical. He increased in stature. His body developed according to the laws of a normal human being.

3. Spiritual. He increased in favor with God and man. As his mind developed, and his apprehension of God became more comprehensive, the Divine Being could be more fully expressed through him, and as the perfect life was lived, men could recognize his superior qualities, and therefore, their hearts would open to him.

"Quick, Snoop, the needle!" Above are "Snoop and Peep," the National Broadcasting Company's master mind "dee-tec-tives," shown as they unearth another bit of startling evidence in one of their mysterious radio programs. Snoop (left) is played by Charles Finnan, and Peep by Paul Winkopf. Both boys are native New Yorkers, and attended Columbia University, where they received their first theatrical experience. They program is heard each Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock over the NBC-WEAF network.

HERD OF WILSON PRICE HEADS COUNTY COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

With the highest average of 47.5 pounds of butterfat per cow, ever produced by any herd in the New Castle County Cow Testing Association, the pure bred Jersey herd owned by Wilson Price, of Glasgow, led the organization for December, 1930. Mr. Price's herd was first in November and only one-tenth of a pound under the leader in the October testing. These figures are presented in the monthly report to the 21 association members by County Agent, Ed Willim, Jr.

Other high points in the monthly summary show that the ten highest cows in milk production for the month were all over 1750 pounds of milk each with the highest cow, a Holstein owned by George Danby, of Bear, producing 2180 pounds of milk and making 79 pounds of butterfat. Eighty-three cows made over 1,000 pounds of milk each, and 48 produced over 50 pounds of butterfat each during the 31-day testing period. Four hundred and eighty-eight cows were on the farms of the members of the association. A Jersey cow in the J. Howard Mitchell herd at Hockessin carried off the highest individual butterfat honors with 81.6 pounds to her credit, while the seven Holsteins belonging to Wallace Cook, of Newark, had the highest average of 1297 pounds of milk per cow.

For December, the ten highest herds in butter fat were: (1) Wilson Price, Glasgow, Jerseys, 47.5 pounds average per cow; (2) Wallace Cook, Newark, Holsteins, 45.3 lbs.; (3) Frederick Stafford, Montchanin, Holsteins, 44.5 lbs.; (4) Granogue Farm, Guyencourt, mixed, 34.0 lbs.; (5) J. H. Mitchell and Sons, Hockessin, Jerseys, 33.7 lbs.; (6) George Danby, Newark, Holsteins, 33.7 lbs.; (7) Robert Walker, Hockessin, Holsteins, 32.6 lbs.; (8) McVaugh & Lenderman, Hockessin, Guernseys, 30.1 lbs.; (9) J. Wirt Willis, Glasgow, Jerseys, 30.0 lbs; and (10) Pusey Passmore, Wilmington, mixed, 29.7 lbs.

RURAL FIREMEN SAVE HOME AT CHRISTIANA

Prompt work on the part of firemen from Newark, Christiana, Newport and Richardson Park saved the property of Mrs. May Burge, at Christiansa, from destruction by fire shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The firemen drew a plentiful supply of water from the Christiana river.

A two-story addition to the property was destroyed, but the main building was saved. The loss was estimated at $1500, partly covered by insurance.

The fire was caused by a defective flue, the flames being discovered by members of the family of Benjamin Cleaves, tenant of the building. Cleaves notified the firemen, and calls were sent to the other companies. Within a short time five lines of water were playing on the flames, which had eaten through the roof of the rear addition.

OLL
the Metropolitan Opera House, will be the Most Impressive Thing Seen in a Philadelphia Theatre
The magnificent presentation of the Passion Play, coming to the Metropolitan Opera House for two weeks only, beginning January 19. In short time the transformed of the theatre into a medieval temple, and mounted the sacred drama from the Black Forest with a reverential which will win the awesome admiration of the Philadelphia audi-
Whatever one's religious belief, or whether one has any or not, if one has imagination or appreciation of the sublime, he must be impressed by the writing forth on the stage of the earnest and simple folk of Freiburg. Necessarily theatricalized somewhat for indoor performance with a profusion of costume and the radiance of artificial lights, nevertheless the mission of the tragedy which has inspired the lives of more human beings than any other either lived or acted, is a moving, stirring spectacle. Unless the audience be entirely indifferent and impervious to the beauty of the idea of personal sacrifice for the good of humanity, it cannot fail to respond to the spiritual appeal of the setting forth of the final days and the agency of the Man of Galilee.
This Freiburg version of "The Passion Play" was first acted in 1254, when the liturgical mysteries were common everywhere on the Continent.
Through various interesting transformations it has developed into the full story of Christ's entrance into Jerusalem, the expulsion of the money changers from the temple, the Last Supper, His betrayal, the faltering judgment of Pilate, the grim march to the hill, the rude gaming of the soldiers at the cross, the claiming of the body, the resurrection and the ascension. Such mystery plays the monks of old acted in the cathedrals to teach the laity, and in the course of time the plays came out of the cathedrals to the squares, where the village craftsmen acted them. At Freiburg, at Oberammergau, for that matter, and in other places they are still kept in existence, chiefly for outdoor playing.
So they come down to us burdened with the long history of the common people—relics of common aspiration; they are bursting and stained with humanity. Since 1700 the Freiburg "Passion Play" has been not only a tradition of that Black Forest town, but of the Fasnacht family, one of whom now plays the Christ, another Jesus, and four others play minor parts. Every three years they perform it in Freiburg. Since August the company has been mounting the "Passion Play" throughout the Middle West, augmenting the Freiburg group everywhere with great bodies of the local people, and training the local choirs. Inasmuch as the modern theatre has developed consistently from the life of the common people, this relic of 700 years ago—as sacred as the blessed relics of the church—should move us, if only by its picture of the common aspirations of mankind.
Staged in the tremendous spaces of the Metropolitan Opera House with a lavish hand. On the platforms running out from either end of the stage the courts of the High Priests and of Pontius Pilate hold their ceremonies. Across the stage trudge endless processions of centurions, priests and Pharisees, and huge crowds follow at the heels of the apostles and the soldiers; camels, sheep and asses stride through the mobs.
Treated as spectacles, the great scenes are tremendously impressive.
After the dumb show on the steps of the temple, the entrance of Christ, heralded by the cries of the mob and the waving of palms, is a scene of great force, reaching a beautiful climax with the arrival of Adolph Fasnacht as the Christ seated upon a lowly ass. Tableaux of the Last Supper, following closely the Cenacole of Da Vinci; the scene in the Sanhedrin, in which Judas repents of his betrayal; the spacious skyline scene, in which Pilate lets the howling mob choose between Barabbas and Christ;
that in which Christ moves off wearily with His cross, and the crucifixion scene, are deliberately wrought and finely impressive. Well staged, well lighted, they have visualized enduring moments without over-elaboration.
Adult Fasnacht plays with simple conviction the Man of Sorrows, even though he seems to fall into the attitudes of some of the great paintings, and the well-known representation of Christ in Gethsemane of Hoffman.
The crucifixion is impressively handled and also the descent from the cross. Will Ehrhardt Fasnacht as Judas acts with more histrionism than any of his fellows, being particularly effective in the betrayer's remorse before the Sanhedrin. Pontius Pilate Calaphas, the High Priest, are authoritative and convincing.

AUTO QUIZ MADE BY SAFETY BODY

Examine Driver Training and Safety Work of Fleet Owners

The Delaware Safety Council is conducting a survey of the kind and amount of driver training safety work that is being promoted by local fleet owners. The Council's belief is that much more is being done than the public realizes to develop habits of safety and courtesy on the part of motor truck drivers and is undertaking to learn how extensively and intensively driver training is being done by our fleet owners.

A questionnaire was mailed to more than fifty fleet owners who control more than 600 vehicles and includes some of the following questions:

Do you have a systematic plan for driver training? If not, do you make any effort to encourage better driving?

Do you provide instructions for new drivers?

Are good drivers rewarded by bonuses, salary increases or other means?

Is poor driving penalized by suspension, dismissal or other means?

Is each driver provided with a set of safety rules?

Do you believe increased driver training will increase your business by building good will?

Do you know that a well trained driver is a person of good manners, ready to see and appreciate the problems of others; to make proper allowances for them and to exercise even a little more care and caution than is actually called for by the Letter of the Law?

JAMES KEENAN ELECTED HEAD OF LEVY COURT

First district; Joseph H. Martine, Third district; Delaware S. Wright, Fourth district; Frank B. MacFarland, Fifth district; John W. Carrow, Jr., Sixth district; and Royden Caulk, Seventh district.

Following the election of president, Frank L. Speakman was elected attorney when the latter resigned. Mr. Speakman, however, was a former attorney for the Levy Court. Mr. Speakman about a year and one-half ago succeeded Philip L. Garrett as attorney for the court. His name was placed in nomination by Commissioner Wright and was seconded by Mr. Martine.

A committee composed of Commissioners MacFarland, Martine and Caulk examined the certificates of office of the new members of the court and pronounced them to be in good order.

Prior to the regular meeting of the Levy Court Tuesday, the Republican members of the court held a caucus lasting for nearly an hour. Following this Mr. Keenan was elected temporary chairman of the meeting and then was elected permanent president. The meeting was called to order by John L. Wright, Clerk of the Peace.

Mr. Keenan announced the various committees of the court. They are: Bonds Committee, Commissioners Frank B. MacFarland, Charles E. Anderson and Delaware S. Wright; Coroner and Physicians, MacFarland, Anderson and John W. Carrow, Jr.; Overpaid Taxes, Joseph Martine, Wright and Anderson; Industrial School, Wright, MacFarland and Anderson; Hope Farm, Martine, Anderson and Royden Caulk; Printing, Martine, Wright and MacFarland; County Hospital, Anderson, MacFarland and Wright.

Magistrates and Constables, Wright, Anderson and Carrow; Public Building, Anderson, Martine and MacFarland; Wilmington bridges, Anderson, Keenan and Carrow; Legislative, MacFarland, Wright, Martine and Carrow; Rules, Martine, MacFarland and Caulk; Finance, Wright, Keenan, Anderson, Martine and MacFarland; Attorney, Clerks and Sheriff, MacFarland and Anderson and Martine; Assessors and Inspectors, Wright and Carrow; County workhouse, Anderson, Martine and Wright.

SCHOOL BUSES TO LEAVE EARLIER DURING WINTER

In order that pupils in the Newark Schools who reside in the country near Newark may arrive at their homes earlier during the winter months, the school buses will leave the school building at 3:25 o'clock daily instead of at 3:40 o'clock. It is believed that this extra fifteen minutes will serve a good purpose in that every pupil will then be able to arrive at home before darkness sets in.

PLUNDER FROM HARTLY BANK IS FOUND IN RIVER

Denney, of Earlville, Md. With them, however, at the time were Charles Roadway and William Dodd, of Hartly, and Sergeant Ingram, of the State highway police who had gone there to assist in the search for the valuables.

The Earlville men grappled in the river to find the articles. The liberty bonds and mortgages and commercial paper were turned over to Sergeant Ingram who delivered them to E. C. Daly, of Hartly, president of the Trust Company. They were dried out safely.

The officers who have been working on the case say the "yeggs," no doubt, used two acetylene tanks with torches to burn through the front door of the bank safe. It is now supposed that the robbers left the bank in a hurry as one of the tanks was left in the building and the other one was thrown into the river from the bridge with the valuables.

The "yeggs" no doubt threw the package containing the bonds into the river not knowing that it also contained $2,215 in cash in a separate envelope.

As far as can be learned the bank has now recovered practically everything of value taken by the "yeggs" with the exception of nearly $3,000 in cash taken from the safe.

The police are hoping they will be able to trace the robbers by the two acetylene tanks.

BOILER INSURANCE IS TAKEN OUT ON SCHOOLS

In order to more fully protect the property and lives of occupants of school buildings the Board of Education has purchased additional insurance against loss caused by damage done by boilers in school buildings to either school property or lives. The Newark School has been fortunate up to this time in not having accidents due to boilers. This added insurance gives not only protection in case of accidents, but gives the additional protection of careful inspection of heating plants and boilers a number of times during the school year. These certificates of inspection are kept in the boiler rooms of each heating plant at all times. Recommendations made by these inspections has been of much value in the matter of safety.

One complaint heard around the corridors after the Senate and House had elected the long list of officers was that this action held the employed much more than it did the unemployed. It is claimed that in many instances the persons elected to office already have a job, and consequently the unemployment situation was not greatly aided.

The Democratic House members supported Representative William T. Hollett, of Clayton, for speaker. The vote for each office was 21 to 14, the latter Democrats, but for those offices for which they made no nominations the Democratic members replied "not voting" to the roll call.

The officers elected by the House Republicans in addition to speaker follow:

Chief clerk, David Hollett, of Wilmington; assistant clerk, Duane Lynn, of Milford; reading clerk, John D. Reynolds, of Middletown; assistant reading clerk, George W. Gunning, of Smyrna; chaplain, the Rev. Alfred L. White, of Dover; sergeant at arms, Frank Day, of Georgetown; assistant sergeant at arms, Lewis Latchbury, of Baltimore Hundred; cloak room attendant, Herbert McDonald, of Elmer; telephone messenger, Freeman Camile, of Kenton; attorney, Julian C. Walker, of Wilmington; page, Charles E. Clifton, of Rehoboth; stenographers, Mrs. Lillian V. Hulise, of Wilmington; Americus Betts, of Millsboro, and Mrs. Virginia Walton, of Wilmington; document clerk, Irwin Spanish, of Greenwood; assistant document clerk, William D. Dean, of Newark; floor messenger, Kendall A. Warrington, of Millsboro; mail clerk, Horace Guthrie, of Marshallton; doorkeeper, T. H. Dunn, of Penrose, Brandywine Hundred; bill clerk, Mrs. Vera G. Davis, of Dover; assistant bill clerk, Fred B. Nelson, of St. Georges.

The officers elected by the Republicans in the Senate early Tuesday afternoon to complete organization of that body after Senator William A. Simonton, of Wilmington, had been elected president pro-tem, were as follows:

Secretary, Mark L. Davis, of Milford; assistant secretary, Louis H. Green, of Wilmington; reading clerk, Paul Van Dyke; reading clerk, Arthur J. P. Clark; bill clerk, Verner Van Fleet; assistant bill clerk, Frank Corsano; attorneys, William Bramhall and James F. Allee, Jr., chaplain, the Rev. William Cantwell; sergeants-at-arms, Glenn Newton, John T. Tomlinson; document clerk, John W. Dickerson; stenographers, Mrs. Beasie Weaver, Anna M. Jones and Helen Griffin; floor messenger, Marshall B. Hazzard; telephone messenger, William Saunders; cloak room attendant, G. E. Fleetwood; page, Clifford Lingo.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS

At 6:45 p. m., Sunday, the Newark Christian Endeavor Society will discuss the topic, "My Idea of What a Young Man Ought to Be." This meeting should prove especially interesting to visitors, and all will be heartily welcomed. The society's new president, Colbert Wood, will lead.

Last Sunday the Society elected its officers, and this Sunday (in conjunction with the regular topic-discussion) it will hold a candle-light installation service. At this meeting Henry Gass—City-County Union C. E. president will appear, and Dr. Harvey Ewing, well beloved locally, will take charge of the installation. In addition to the president, the following new officers and committee chairmen have been chosen: Vice-president, Doris Strahorn; secretary, Ann Chalmers; treasurer, Elizabeth Tiffany; prayer meeting chairman, Mae Malcom; music, Bessie Jones; social, Kent Preston, Jr.; dramatics, Blanche Malcom; and publicity, Van S. Jackson.

On Monday evening, January 5, members of the Newark Christian Endeavor Society dared the rain in an unsuccessful attempt to capture the banner for the highest percentage attendance at the monthly meeting of the City-County C. E. Union. This was held at the First United Presbyterian Church (3rd and Broome streets). Mr. Arthur Eastman drove to Wilmington the following Newark C. E. members: Mae Malcom, Blanche Malcom, Betty Wood, Kent Preston, Jr., Colbert Wood and Van S. Jackson.

MANY SEE PAGEANT AT CLAY CREEK CHURCH

At the White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church on last Tuesday evening, a full house witnessed the pageant "The King From Glory-Land," presented by the Young People of the church. Much talent was evident, and for the success of the pageant much credit is due Miss Madeline Johnston, the director.

At the regular service of worship at 11 o'clock Sunday morning the pastor, Clyde E. Rickabaugh, preached on the subject, "A Distinctive Messenger." A cordial welcome is extended to all to attend this church.

OSCEOLA OFFICERS INSTALLED

Grand Chancellor Lawrence H. Kirby, assisted by Grand Prelate Albert S. Boyce, Grand Master at Arms, Albert T. Abernathy, and Grand Outer Guard Howard J. Maguigan, installed the officers of Osceola Lodge, No. 5, Knights of Pythias, Monday night. There were members of the several lodges of the State present beside those belonging to the entertaining lodge.

Supreme Representatives Harry E. Keen, and Edward L. Beesen, were among the visitors. At the close of the installation a social hour was enjoyed during which several talks on the good of the order were given. Refreshments were served.

The officers installed were: Harry Grant, chancellor commander; T. R. Jacobs, vice-chancellor; E. R. Loweth, prelate; Arthur Walther, master of work; H. G. Mitchell, keeper of records and seal; G. I. Durnell, master of finance; C. D. Grant, master of exchequer; Charles Baylis, master of arms; Samuel McFarlin, inner guard, and Harry Wollaston, outer guard.

The meeting on next Monday evening will be dispensed with, as the lodge will pay a visit to Washington, D. C., to celebrate their anniversary. Members wishing to attend are requested to be at the hall as early as possible.
