Burglars Enter Two Places On Week-End

Ransack Thompson Home Saturday Night; Take $500 Worth of Merchandise from Marritz Department Store Sunday

Burglars were bold and active in Newark over the week-end, entering the home of Elmer Thompson on Saturday night and the Main street department store of Isaac Marritz on Sunday night. In both cases the thieves worked boldly and leisurely taking what they wanted and leaving other articles which were laying in plain sight. The local police are cooperating with State Detective Messick in working on both robberies.

When Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thompson returned to their home here about nine o'clock Sunday evening they found that thieves had ransacked their house from cellar to garret, taking Mr. Thompson's best clothing, eight dollars in money, quantities of food and groceries, and even the ice from the refrigerator. The house was left in great disorder, bureau drawers opened, grass from the newly-mown lawn tracked all over the house, and a window and door left open. Entrance had been forced through a back door.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson had driven to Dilworthtown, Pennsylvania, on Saturday to attend the sesqui-centennial observance of the Battle of Brandywine, after which they went to Kennett Square to attend a banquet and to visit relatives, returning Sunday evening. Mrs. James Wilson and Lucy May Williams, colored, employed at the cannery, was committed to the Workhouse last night by Magistrate Thompson on a charge of larceny, to await meeting of the Court of General Sessions. The Williams woman was detected in stealng 10 pairs of stockings from the store of Isaac Marritz on Tuesday afternoon.

SHOPLIFTER CAUGHT

Mrs. Marritz saw her take the stockings and put them in a bag she was carrying. Following her to the street, Mrs. Marritz took the stockings from her, but did not detain the woman. Chief of Police Keeley later arrested her at the cannery.

A bake will be given Saturday, September 17th, by Miss Willis' class of the Methodist Church. The bake will be held in front of the church.

High Local Interest In Audition Contest

Local Committee To Hold First Trials On September 24; Rules Of Contest

The local committee for the Atwater Kent Foundation Audition held a meeting at the home of the chairman, Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, last Friday afternoon, and it was reported that the news of the contest has aroused a great deal of interest in this community and that members of the committee are daily receiving inquiries concerning the contest.

The committee includes Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, chairman; Mrs. George E. Dutton, Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy, Miss Eleanora Duffy, Miss Elsie Wright, Mrs. W. E. Holton, Miss Nell Wilson, Mrs. S. J. Smith, and Johnson Rowan. The first audition will be held in the New Century Club, September 24, at 2 o'clock, daylight saving time. Any one in the town or community who qualifies for entrance will be heard at that time. Each one may bring five songs of his or her own selection and each contestant may choose his accompanist.

The principal rules for entering the contest are as follows:

The contestant must be between the ages of 18 and 25 years, inclusive; must never have been associated with a professional, theatrical, or operatic company; must never have been a paid principal in any concert outside of his own State; must declare an intention to follow a musical career; must be free from theatrical or musical contracts. This limitation permits choir singers to enter the competition even though they have received financial return for singing in churches.

Already seven towns in the State have entered the contest and are arranging for local auditions. They are Newark, Mrs. J. P. Cann, chairman; Wilmington, Mrs. Clarence Underwood and T. Leslie Carpenter, chairmen; Middletown, Mrs. Frank Biggs; Dover, Mrs. Hall Anderson; Smyrna, Mrs. Howard Jones; Milford, Miss

Exercises At Cooch's Bridge Open Battle Field Pilgrimage

Scene of First Engagement Start of Three-Day Program Commemorating Battle of Brandywine

NIELDS TELLS OF BATTLE

A caravan of 60 cars with about 200 people, on Friday made Cooch's Bridge the first stop in a patriotic pilgrimage that opened a three day sesqui-centennial of the Battle of the Brandywine. The cars were from Delaware, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The pilgrimage embraced the entire typographical scope of the battle in which Washington met Lord Howe and was defeated by the superior numbers of the British forces, Howe going on to take possession of Philadelphia. At Cooch's Bridge the American forces, under General Maxwell, met the British in a skirmish, which was preliminary to the Battle of the Brandywine, fought at Chadd's Ford. There are well founded claims that it was at this skirmish that the Stars and Stripes were first unfurled in battle.

The caravan was welcomed at the old Cooch homstead by Mrs. Edward Cooch. The porch of the house was used as a speakers' stand. Garrish Gassaway, manager of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies and introduced the speaker, John P. Nields, prominent Wilmington attorney. Mr. Nields traced the history of the battlefield over which the caravan was traversing and told of what had happened on

Local Campaign For Delaware Citizens

Local Committee Met Monday; Will Enroll Members; Two Primary Objects

Members of a committee named by Mayor Frazer met in the Council Chamber, Monday evening, to discuss means of arousing local interest in the Delaware Citizens' Association.

The association is the outgrowth of the deliberations of a committee which was appointed last May to ascertain means by which the constructive work which had been started by the Service Citizens might be continued. The executive committee hopes through the new association to establish an agency for helping the State in those things which may not be undertaken by the State government,—in other words the desire is to organize the civic-minded men and women of the State in a body that shall discuss public problems and be in a position to finance projects which shall be deemed worthy of support.

Officers of the new association include former Judge William H. Boyce, of Dover, President; Harry T. Graham vice-president for Wilmington; Hon. Herbert L. Rice, vice-president for rural New Castle county; Hon. John B. Hutton, of Dover, vice-president

The music will be varied and a number of well known soloists will appear in each program.

Production Poultry Show On October 1

First Of Its Kind In State To Be Held In Milford By Delaware Poultry Association And Milford Grange

The farmers who are making their living from egg producing hens will welcome the news that Delaware is about to have her first strictly Production Poultry Show. This show will be held at the Milford Grange Hall, September 30th and October 1st, under the supervision of the Milford Grange and the Delaware State Poultry Association.

The objects of the show are to give Delaware breeders an opportunity to show the progress they are making, to meet and compare birds with other breeders, and to promote the keeping of better production bred stock in the State.

The major consideration in judging will be capacity for egg production, strong constitutional vigor to stand up under heavy laying, and freedom from disqualifications as described in the "American Standard of Perfection."

Cash prizes will be offered as follows:

Pens—First prize, $5; Second prize, $3; Third prize, $2.

Single Birds—First prize, $3; second prize, $2; Third prize, $1.

Only the following breeds will be admitted to the show: Single Comb White Leghorns, Barred Plymouth Rocks, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds, and White Wyandottes. For each breed the following classes will be made: Cock, hen, cockerel, pullet, old pen, young pen. Pens to consist of four females and one male of the same variety.

The show is limited tot he four breeds above because they comprise the majority of the production flocks in the state, and because of lack of prize money for other breeds. Next year a few other worth while production breeds should be admitted to the show.

The show is being handled by a special committee appointed by the Milford Grange and the Delaware State Poultry Association: Charles Groves, chairman, Milford; Gus Swanson, secretary, Milford; Byron Pepper, Georgetown; Fred Smith, Milford; Clarence Bunting, Selbyville; E. W. Palmer, Delmar; S. E. Evans, Millville; Denny Pleasanton, Dover.

Further information about the show can be had from any of these men. For catalogue and rules of show, write to the Secretary, Gus Swanson, Milford.

1000 Even Register In Newark Schools

Professor Brinser Gives Dinner To Staff; Dr. Holloway Talks To Teachers; School To Have 1-4 Mile Track

The Newark Public Schools opened on a full schedule Monday morning, with a total enrollment of exactly one thousand. Last year's enrollment on the first day was 929. There are 43 in this year's senior class as compared with 31 enrolled last year; 94 freshmen started High School Monday morning, while there were only 67 in last year's class. As a result of the splendid cooperation of parents in registration previous to the opening day, only 20 had to be registered Monday.

Last week was devoted to faculty conferences. At the final conference, Friday morning, Dr. H. V. Holloway, state superintendent of public instruction, addressed the teachers; speaking of the tremendous value of cooperation between the school and the home, the teacher and the parent. He also pointed out the importance of the teachers adopting a scientific attitude in attacking the classroom problems

Colonel Bradley's Circus Party To 400 Children A Rousing Success

When Colonel Walter T. Bradley, of Philadelphia, expressed a desire to act as host to two hundred Newark children at the afternoon performance of Downie Brothers' circus last Thursday, there were those who wondered if two hundred children under twelve years of age would respond to the invitation. The committee in charge of rounding up the children stated days and hours had places where application for tickets might be made. The very day that the announcement appeared, calls began to come in. Set days or hours meant nothing to the enthusiastic youngsters. Letters came from the country: "Save me a ticket, please; I'll come for it tomorrow," and over the telephone and at every door of the houses of members of the committee, childish voices made appeal.

It soon became evident that if only two hundred tickets were given out, the disappointment would be harrowing. Colonel Bradley sensed the situation and made his offer more elastic, with the result that four hundred tickets were given out, when it was thought to call a halt. About one hundred children were too late in line, but it is thought that kind parents saw to it that they were also at the circus.

The second fear in the minds of older folk was, "Would it rain?" But it did not rain. The skies were cloudy, but the weather was more pleasant than as if the sun had shone on the big tent.

The circus was scheduled to start at two o'clock and by one o'clock the gates were besieged by happy children. Colonel and Mrs. Bradley, with Colonel Bradley's secretary, Miss Bassett, were on the scene early and distributed lollipops and American flags to the kiddies.

Soon shouts of laughter and shrieks of delight among the youngsters attested to their enjoyment. The third question, "Would the circus be any good?" was soon forgotten, for Downie Brothers put on a very good show, one which could be enjoyed by young and old.

The gentlemen from the Red Men's Fraternal Home were also the guests of Colonel and Mrs. Bradley at the circus. Friends took them to and from the tent in automobiles.

Colonel and Mrs. Bradley were most gracious in their hospitality, assuring the children that they had done them a favor in accepting their invitation. Miss M. Pennington, Colonel Bradley's teacher when he attended school here in Newark, was unable to accept an invitation to join the happy circus party. She was presented with a box of candy by the host of the day, as were Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Wilkinson, committee on arrangements here.

The day and the unusual treat will long be remembered by the Newark children. "Circus" was in the air. The treat for the children put the stamp of approval on the show. Old and young were there. Parents and older children accompanied the little ones; others went frankly to watch the crowd of children enjoy themselves. It was a noisy, yet orderly crowd, everyone entering into the spirit of the occasion and glad of a chance or for an excuse to attend.

"Our Sunbeam," Delaware College Paper Of 1855, Tells Of Old Newark And Old College

An old Delaware College student paper has brought to this office by Miss Elsie Wright, who found the sheet among the papers belonging to her father, the late Samuel J. Wright. It evidently had once been the possession of the late Dr. Haines, whose name is written in pencil at the top of the front page.

The name of the paper is Our Sunbeam; Or, The Light of College Days. The issue is Number 3, Volume 1, and bears the date December, 1855. It was edited by Hal Howard and printed by Henry B. Ashmead, George St., above 11th, Philadelphia. The size of the paper is 9 by 11½ inches and there are four pages.

The foreword states that "'Our Sunbeam' will be published the first part of each month, at Fifty Cents a year in advance.

It will consist of original pieces written by the students, either those now present, or those who have been educated here; but communications from any one feeling an interest in our institution or paper, will be welcomed, and if accompanied by the real name of the writer, will receive immediate attention. All communications must be addressed to Hal Howard, Delaware College, Newark, Delaware."

The first page contains four stanzas, entitled "Our Sunbeam," and signed "Waanataa"; an "Epigram on a Snuff-box, shaped like a pocket-pistol", contributed by J. D. B., and an article on "College Times", written by "Joggles". In the last-mentioned article we learn that "College is a microcosm. There is work to be done, and there is fun to be done. Study on and study ever through the long, long, weary day. Dive deep into the gushing fonts of Horace and Homer, and bring up from the poetic abyss the hidden beauties, the noble, patriotic glowing thought, clothed now with all the melting pathos of Scio's bard and now stirring each heart with thrilling emotion, unfolding the mighty deeds of men and arms. the spot on which they now stood. Governor Robinson, Mayor Forest of Wilmington, Mrs. Cooch, Mrs. J. Pearce Cann regent of the Delaware State D. A. R., Lieutenant Albert Rothacker, Governor Robinson's aide for the day.

The members of the caravan grouped themselves around the stone monument in front of the Cooch home, which was erected to mark the spot where the Stars and Stripes were first unfurled in battle.

A wreath was placed on the monument by Miss Arvilla Adele Gilpin, a member of the Caesar Rodney Chapter, D. A. R., in member of her ancestors who figured in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and the Civil War.

The wreath was inscribed to the memory of George Washington, Colonel Joseph Gilpin, Colonel Henry Hollingsworth, Colonel Samuel Gilpin, Colonel Francis Maudlin, Colonel Banjamin Ricketts, Colonel Adam Whann, General Judson Kilpatrick.

Miss Gilpin, who lives in Elkton, claims descent from all these men, particularly from the family of George Washington on his mother's side.

After leaving Cooch's Bridge, the caravan went to Elk Landing, Elkton, where Lord Howe landed his troops for his march to Philadelphia that was interrupted by the Battle of the Brandywine. After the Elkton exercises the caravan proceeded to Chester, Pa., where, after a trip of inspection of historic places, a meeting was held in the evening.

On Saturday the Battle of the Brandywine was re-enacted on the battle field at Chadd's Ford. Regulars and militia fought the actual battle and troops dressed in Continental blue and British scarlet were grouped about the battle field to give color to the engagement. The Los Angeles, accompanied by other dirigibles and other aircraft, hovered overhead to lend a modern note.

On Saturday night a banquet was held in the Gold Ballroom of the Du Pont-Biltmore, at which speakers from several states recalled the ideals for which the Colonials were fighting. The most significant address of the evening was given by Colonel R. Pope-Hennessey, military attache of the British embassy at Washington. He represented the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, whose health would not permit him to attend the dinner.

On Sunday afternoon there was a commemorative meeting at the Birmingham Meeting House; held under the auspices of the Chester County Historical Society, the Delaware County Historical Society, and the Historical Society of Delaware. Addresses were given by Dr. Charles W. Heathcote and William I. Schaffer.

Nield's Address

Mr. Nield's address, delivered at the Cooch's Bridge exercises, Friday, were rich in historical data and anecdote. Portions of the speech dealing most specifically with the events leading to the engagement at Cooch's, and the engagement itself, are as follows:

"A true Virginian whether in war or in the chase," says Trevelyan, "Washington went fearlessly wherever a good horse could carry him, and on more than one occasion Howe's skirmishes had a very near bay charger, gho did not shirk his fences, and was closely attended everywhere by an aide-de-camp in a rich foreign uniform." On Tuesday, August 26, the day after reaching Wilmington, General Washington had Jacob Broom the town burgess and surveyor, draft him a road map of New Castle county, and with Green and Lafayette rode through Christiana, White Clay Greek and Pencader hundreds to reconnoiter the country between his own headquarters and Howe's outposts—at great risk to himself and his companions. They rode forward to two hills—Iron Hill and Gray's Hill—about 15 miles south of Wilmington and 6 miles from Howe's camp. Night fell upon the little party as they turned their horses' heads homeward, together with a great tempest of wind and rain. Washington sought the shelter of a neighboring farmhouse at the foot of Chestnut Hill near Welsh Tract Baptist Church in Pencader hundred. The party with drenched clothes crowded the little rooms and feared that the enemy might capture Washington as they had General Charles Lee not twelve months before. There was in fact great peril, but the Delaware farmer was a patriot.

Having escaped capture, General Washington, a week later, suggested to General Maxwell the exploit of capturing a Hessian general, who may have been Knyhausen. In a letter from Wilmington he writes: "Several persons have mentioned that there is a Hessian general quartered at one Fishers, covered only by a small guard. This is well worth your attention and may afford a glorious opportunity for a partisan exploit. Any of the country people can direct you, I suppose, where Fisher's is." And later on the same day General Washington writes: "Let me know by the bearer whether you have received such information as to enable you to make the attempt tonight (or rather in the morning)—if you have the parson will be an excellent hand to accompany you." The "parson" may refer to the Rev. Thomas Read, minister at Old Drawyers, who is known to have served at this time as a guide for Washington.

Greene Examined Ground

General Washington ordered General Greene to examine the ground further and select a position upon which the army could be advantageously posted. Two days later, on August 28, General Greene accompanied by Brigadier-General Weedon, after careful examination, selected the "cross roads near six miles distance from the Royal army" and close to Iron Hill. From an examination of old road maps, it is apparent that the only "cross roads near six miles distance from the Royal army" is the cross roads at Cooch's Bridge, and that the ground on which we are now standing is the post selected by a very great American general from which to battle with Howe. Greene's idea was to fight as close as possible to the landing place, so as to give Howe no room for developing his army. He thought the cross roads furnished an open country behind from which to draw assistance and good skirmishing ground in front to harass and annoy the enemy before they were organized and provided with horses, provisions, etc. General Greene wrote to the commander-in-chief acquainting him with the spot he had chosen, but the information was received too late. The same day, probably Thursday, August 28, a council of war held at Wilmington determined to take a position upon Red Clay Creek near Stanton upon the Kings highway, about half way between Wilmington and Christiana. Had Greene's report been accepted, one of the great battles of liberty would have been fought on Delaware soil.

Battle at Cooch's

It is quite possible General Maxwell marched his corps to this spot where we stand, which had been selected by General Greene for the army. In a letter to General Maxwell, dated "Headquarters, Wilmington, 2 Sept. 1777, 8.30 p. m." Washington wrote: "I do not know where the Sign of Buck is, I therefore cannot say whether it will be proper for you to leave your present post to go and attack the party that is said to be thereabouts. If it is upon your left as I suppose it is, it will be by no means proper, because while you were gone down, the enemy might advance from Gray's Hill to Christeen and cut you off from us."

Washington reported the skirmish to Congress as follows:

"Wilmington, 8 p. m., September 3:

"This morning the enemy came out with considerable force and three pieces of artillery against our light advanced corps, and after some pretty smart skirmishing, being far superior in numbers, obliged them to retreat. The loss on either side not yet ascertained; ours though not exactly known, is not very considerable. Theirs, we have reason to believe, was much greater, as some of our parties, composed of expert marksmen, had opportunity of giving them several close, well-directed fires, more particularly in one instance when a body of riflemen formed a kind of ambuscade.

"They advanced about two miles this side of Iron Hill, and then withdrew to that place, leaving a picket at Cooch's Mill about a mile in front."

Stars and Stripes Carried

On yonder stone are inscribed the words: "The Stars and Stripes were first unfurled in battle at Cooch's Bridge, September 3, 1777." We are reasonably certain that the Stars and Stripes were carried by Maxwell's corps in the engagement here on September 3. Certain facts are definitely known: (1) On June 14, 1777 the Congress resolved "That the flag of the thirteen United States shall be 13 stripes, alternate red and white. That the union be 13 stars, white, in a blue field, representing a new constellation." (2) On July 24 the Stars and Stripes were carried by Washington's army when it paraded through Philadelphia. (3) That Maxwell's corps was formed by Washington to replace Morgan's regiment of 500 riflemen. It consisted of 1100 men drawn from each brigade, equal in number to one-tenth of the entire army or to any one of its brigades, and was commanded by a brigadier-general. (4) That Maxwell's brigade was ordered to engage the enemy 15 miles below the camp of the army. (5) That on September 3 Maxwell's corps had taken a definite post at this place. (6) That in such an engagement it was appropriate that a standard with colors be carried.

British at Glasgow

Montresor, chief engineer of Howe's army, notes in his journal that at daybreak on September 3, the whole British army was under march to Christiana by way of Aikin's Tavern (Glasgow). About 9 o'clock the skirmish at Cooch's Bridge began. Thereafter for five days the British army was encamped with its right wing near Glasgow and the left wing extending towards Newark. Washington was certain that Philadelphia was Howe's objective and assumed he would take the Kings road leading from Cooch's Bridge through Christiana, Stanton, Newport and Wilmington to Philadelphia. Accordingly he chose the heights of the east bank of the Red Clay Creek to entrench his army and "to repel the invader." With the center of his army at Stanton, he extended his left wing at Newport and his right wing towards Marshallton. Apparently Washington was right about the road that Howe originally intended to take. Howe changed his plans and pursued his accustomed strategy and flanked his opponent. On September 8 he moved certain forces to Mill Town as though to attack, but in reality to cover the movement of his main army through Newark to Kennett Square.

Mrs. Irene Sykes of Elkton through her attorney, Harold Cobourn, has entered suit in the Cecil County Court against Miss Margaret Anderson, for $10,000 for the alienation of the affection of her husband, Leroy Sykes, who deserted his wife over a year ago and has been, it is alleged, making his home with Miss Anderson. The case will be listed for trial at the September term of court.

Those who claim to know, predict that the winter of 1927-28 will be mild and balmy because the hornets are building their nests near the ground. At the home of C. H. Kalb, a nest is only a few inches above the ground and Mr. Kalb who has kept records of the weather for many years claims it is a good sign for a mild winter.

It is reported a number of Cecil county business and professional men are busy on plans for a new newspaper to be published in Elkton and it is expected to appear about October 15. The promoters are planning to have the paper well established in time for the Christmas advertising. The paper will be printed by the Cleaves Printing Company. It is said the paper will be independent in politics.

About 1000 Red Men and Degree of Pocahontas were in line. One hundred and forty dollars were cleared from the affair.

Four Men Injured When Car Upsets

Four men were badly injured when the car in which they were riding overturned into a ditch near Cecilton. The men were all from York, Pa., and had been on a trip down the Eastern Shore and were returning home when the car went off the concrete road and into the ditch.

The injured are: Charles Miller, 45 years old, leg broken, nose broken, skull fractured and may have internal injuries.

Paul K. Stangler, 31 years old, several broken ribs and cuts about the face and head.

Peter Zorburgh, 42, bad cut in back of head and may have internal injuries.

Charles Feigley, 34, cut about the head.

All the men were picked up and cared for near Cecilton until an ambulance arrived and brought them to Union Hospital, Elkton. All the men are married.

Feighley was the first to regain consciousness and tell how the accident occurred. According to the story of Feighley he was driving the car and Miller was sitting beside him on the front seat. The car suddenly went off the concrete road and went into the ditch before he could get it back on the concrete.

At the meeting of the Harmony Grange on Monday evening, plans were discussed for the country fair and festival which will be held on the evenings of September 16 and 17 on the grounds between the homes of A. F. Klair and Norman Klair, west of Marshallton, on the Capitol Trail. The proceeds of the fair will be for the benefit of the building fund of Harmony Grange.

This is the third annual fair held by the members of the Grange and they are looking forward to the event not only for the help to the fund, but for the jollity and friendliness found there. It's not always an economy to get along with a worn-out heating boiler, even if you are willing to put up with the extra bother of coaxing the heat out of it.

Keep that coal pile from melting so fast with new and up-to-date equipment, and the saving in time and temper will be so much "velvet."

Let us look over your heating plant now, and see what you need. Then you can take it easy this winter.

"Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air, Sunshine and Work for Everybody."—OUR MOTTO.

SEPTEMBER 14, 1927

The Constitution

Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of "seventy-six" did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and the Laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor; let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling-books, and in almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation.—Abraham Lincoln.

The Delaware Citizens Association

Newark's ambition to have one hundred or more members enrolled in the Delaware Citizens Association will undoubtedly be fulfilled. There are many times that number of people in our town who answer to the terms "civic-minded" and "forward-looking," which is the type of persons who will make up the new organization, which will attempt to carry on at least a part of the good work that has been started by the Service Citizens. Lack of funds will be the only restraining reason for not joining the movement.

Newark's Fighting Chance

The sad grade crossing fatality of a week ago again drove home the fact that the frail safety percautions at the two dangerous B. and O. crossings in this town offer but small protection against the fallability of human judgment, and as substitutes to the gates that were formerly in operation, have been an appalling failure. The Town Council should at once demand that the gates be replaced, as the death record at these two crossings has proven conclusively that the gates are the most effective devices; but the demand should not stop short at gates. There is only one measure that will cut short the rapidly growing list of grade crossing victims. That is the elimination of the crossings.

The fight in the State of New York to abolish grade crossings has developed the fact that the law should and does recognize the value of the human life as of greater importance than the dollar, and in a recent court action, a decision was handed down that a State commission could order a railroad to abolish a crossing, even though the order might mean bankruptcy. In the light of this attitude, the railroad companies can scarcely adopt other than a co-operative spirit toward State suggestions on complete elimination of the crossing problem.

The time is ripe and the evidence fresh to start an immediate fight to eliminate all crossings in the State. The Town of Newark has had more than its quota of crossing accidents, and if for no other reason than the protection of its own citizens, it should fire the opening gun in a fight, that should become state-wide, to make the grade crossing as extinct in Delaware as the Dodo.

The Krebs School

We can think of no more appropriate manner by which to dispose of one's wealth than in giving a school-building where a school-building was so desperately needed as was one in Newport. That town is to be congratulated on its citizens and Mr. and Mrs. Henrik J. Krebs are to be congratulated on their "golden" vision.

of Euclid, seeking to unravel the magic knots. Revel in the charms of Logic clear, and Rhetoric easy as a gliding brook. Toil on, brave toiler; toil . . . till your footsteps of the Argus-eyed Professor shall have died in the quiet distance and the breathless silence of shady night reigns around. . . . The door is opened and half a dozen merry Juniors enter. They crowd around the glowing fire, and in counsel cool concoct the mischief for the night. . . . The Freshmen are to be ducked. No sooner said than done. Each Junior seizes the ready pail, and slowly and carefully wends his way to the well. Without a creak the well-oiled pump pours forth its sparkling crystal stream. A moment more and the 'weird spirits of the night' stand at the Freshman's door. The unconscious victim lies sweetly reposing from the toils of the day, wrapped in the gentle arms of Morpheus. . . . Without a flash, without a peal, the icy torrent burst upon his head."

The story goes on to tell of the drenched freshman seeking revenge, of the professor seeking the guilty parties from room to room, and of the latter's flight when he finally creeps wearily into his bed, only to find himself in a "sea" of molasses, with which the students have filled his vacant bed. "Toil on . . . another day of toil".

There follows on page two an article called "Forethought", the substance of which seems to be a warning to vain followers of fashion. Especially sarcastic does the writer become when he pictures the woman "doing all things a la mode". He writes: "Here she is a model balloon; floating along in model style. (It is not fashionable for model balloons to sail more than ankle high now; but sometimes when a heavy atmosphere hangs around the muddy earth, the balloon will, despite the exertions or non-exertions of the operator, rise to a prodigious height.) When she turns a corner, all the world must give way, or be knocked down. When she enters a store, the 'spring' must be touched, and she is admitted. Thus she sails along,— . . . What would a man do with such a wife?"

A short history of Newark follows and will bear reprinting:

A FEW WORDS ABOUT NEWARK

Can anything new be said concerning Newark! More perhaps, dear reader, than you may be aware of, and yet not very much. We all know it is a thriving little borough, situated on the Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore Railroad, about a mile from the depot; celebrated for its being the seat of Delaware College, besides sundry other institutions of learning. And Newark has always been noted for its being a seat of learning, before and during the Revolutionary war. But let us tell some of the new residenters; something of the old building that once stood here. Who of the brow-furrowed and careworn housekeepers, looking in vain for meat-wagons and vegetable hucksters, are aware that this town once boasted a market-house? Yea verily, thee don't speak the truth, surely! And yet it stood near the old stone academy, which occupied the site on which are now the present academical buildings.

During the Revolutionary war, Newark boasted about five dwelling-houses; and the old stone academy bore the mark of a foreign foe in the western wall, cracked from chimney to the foundation-stone, by a cannon-ball. That old academy has turned out many who have served their country well; and when the British troops were centering upon Philadelphia, the Academy boys armed themselves to resist their march. Too strong, however, the English drove the students out and bivouacked around and in the old building; but hastily next morning, having understood that the "hardy sons of toil" were arming to fight them, they pushed on to Chadd's Ford and took part in the memorable battle of Brandywine.

Upon the rising ground, in front of the College, on the Macbeth property, stood a Presbyterian meeting-house, and to the left was a burying-ground. Ploughing there a few years since, the ploughshare turned up the bones of some departed forefather resting there, awaiting the last trump.

Where the brick-kiln now is, was once a morass, thick set with bushes and stinted trees. Many a 'possum and 'coon has breathed his last on that spot, amid the barking of dogs and yelling of boys.

This was when Newark was small; and though not yet very large, it has stretched its length over the old hunting-ground and concealed it beneath the mansions and lawns of its inhabitants.

The town improved, and house after house arose, neighbor like, beside each other. In the College Campus, before the classic halls were dreamt of, stood a blacksmith's shop, and the chamberlain, as he wielded his hammer, little thought that on the mound behind his forge, should rise an institution of which his sons would be trustees, and his grandsons beloved and distinguished students; the influence of which would extend over the community, increase their intellectual knowledge, and give to Newark a name and a distinction.

Newark boasts of its handsome buildings, both within its boundaries and in its environs. On Sundays, the united prayers and praises of four congregations, ascend as incense to the throne of Jehovah. There are two female seminaries (and did you ever see a college and not a neighboring female school?), an Odd Fellows' Hall, four stores, three hotels,—and, would you believe it?—two 'squires.

As we have looked in the town, let us for a while look around it and see what is to be seen.

There is a paper-mill, where, if we go in we can see old shirts and other articles "gone to rags" slowly become pulp; which passing in at one end of the room becomes at the other, fine white book-paper, cut and ready for packing. It was here, at Curtis & Brother's mill, that the paper was made, on which Lippincott & Co.'s celebrated edition of Waverly novels is printed. There is also a woollen-mill very near; and two miles below, a cotton factory, which, however, at present is not in working order—being but four walls, the rest having been food for fire. To the south of the village stands old Iron Hill. From this high ground can be seen the Delaware River, fifteen miles off, bearing on its bosom the snowy-winged barks. Old Iron Hill, rising so suddenly from the level plain, has been more than it now is. At its base are rocks which are volcanic; and who knows but the primeval forests have echoed the voices of this roaring crater, and have beheld the flames rushing from the furnaces of interior earth? It is quiet now; voices have been heard upon its summit, but they are the whispering of the trees to the zephyrs as, Adonis-like, they flee from their embraces.

To the north of Newark, is a spa spring. The bubbling water is covered by a shed, on which name no one thinks now of the once well-known spring—like other things, it has seen its day, and yet its waters are far better than the well-known Brandywine Springs.

But I must be brief; the college-bell tells me, evening has come and I must home. Old Newark! there is something new about thee, though few have the interest to search for it. We love the past, but in these days of progress we must anticipate the future. It is not, what has been; but, what shall we make it. Our fellows strive to deceive us, but boys are boys though in long-tailed coats;—but forgive me if I have reminded you of the past. Farewell!

U. O. J.

In the editorial corner we are told that the article "Our Times" by Joggles, was written a year before by a member of the college for the Smyrna-times and "now reappears by particular request." There follows a sad, reminiscent story, entitled "An Old Man's Tale," some college items, squibbs and verses.

Delaware College is advertised in much detail in what would now-a-days be called a "reader." The beauty and geographical advantages of Newark are given in detail. Three distinct college courses are mentioned; the four-year classical course; a three-year scientific course, and an engineering course "occupying one year." It is stated that "candidates for admission must be at least fourteen years of age, must give satisfactory evidence of good moral character and must sustain an examination in the following studies, viz.: Arithmetic, Elements of Algebra, Latin and Greek Grammar, Greek Reader and the first two books of Zenaphon's Anabasis, Latin Reader, Sallust or Cæsar, Cicero's Select Orations, and Virgil."

The assurance is also given that "the college is provided with a complete Philosophical apparatus, that furnishes ample means of experimental illustration in all the different branches of Natural Philosophy. It possesses, also, an extensive cabinet of Natural History, and a large Library." And that "the students can obtain board in the college, at a table with the Professors, or in the village." The session is announced as opening August 29, and the advertisement is signed by Daniel Kirkwood, President.

The only other advertisement in the student paper is that of the Newark Female Seminary, conducted by Miss H. Chamberlain. The teachers were Mrs. J. Merriman, Miss J. G. Bierce, Miss M. Chamberlain and Professor Coleman. The object of the institution was "to prepare young ladies for the active duties of subsequent life by the highest cultivation of the moral, intellectual, and physical nature." It is announced that each young lady would be required to take daily exercise in the open air when the weather would permit. And the young ladies, accompanied by their teachers, would have the advantage of attending the literary and scientific lectures at Delaware College.

High Local Interest

Ida Rosa. The chairman of the State committee is Mrs. Josiah Bacon, of Claymont.

According to the plans of the Delaware State Committee in this contest, there will be one young man and one young woman certified from each local audition to the State audition, which will be broadcast from Station W. P. G. at Atlantic City. The best two singers in the State contest will be certified to the district audition. Delaware is in the district which includes also the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia. The United States will be divided into five of these districts.

The Atwater-Kent Foundation is a corporate institution established in 1919 for philanthropic, scientific and educational purposes. Its president is Atwater Kent, of Philadelphia. The foundation is conducting a National Radio Audition for young men and young women, to find by competition the best undiscovered voices in the United States and to provide opportunity for recognition to every young singer in every community, no matter how isolated. Awards aggregating $17,500 in cash, with one and two years tuition in a leading conservatory of music for six of the ten winnings, has been offered as an incentive to young people to enter the contest.

Judging in the State and district audition will be done by joint vote of the radio audience and a special jury of musical authorities. The radio vote will count sixty per cent and the jury vote forty per cent of the total decision. The identity of the singers will not be disclosed. They will be numbered and the order of their appearance before the microphone will not be known even to themselves until they enter the studio. The jury of musical experts wisl hear the auditors over the radio and not in the studio.

Local selection may be made by a vote taken in a public auditorium by the committee selected. All local competitions will be held in September and all State auditions will be broadcast before October 20. The district auditions, of which there will be five in the United States will be held before November 30. The final audition will be held in New York City in December over the Atwater Kent network of associated stations during the Atwater Kent hour. All State and district auditions will be broadcast as will possibly be some local auditions, including Newark.

The final judging will be done entirely by a jury of musical leaders of national and international reputation. No radio will enter into it. All expenses of contestants who qualify for the district and national auditions will be paid by the Foundation. This will include railway fare, hotel bills, and entertainment while on the trip to the district center or to the national contest in New York City.

NEW BOOKS IN LIBRARY

The Newark Town Library Committee announces the addition of two new books to the library shelves: "We", by Charles A. Lindbergh, and "Revolt in the Desert", by Colonel T. E. Lawrence.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

We quote from a recent editorial in The Rural-New-Yorker:

In 1757 Benjamin Franklin sailed from New York in a sailing ship bound for England. The vessel was noted for its speed, but somehow it proved slow and was being left behind by other ships. The captain, disappointed, studied his ship and one morning called all his passengers and told them to stand close together in the stern of the ship. They did, and almost immediately the ship increased her speed. Then they found that the ballast had been distributed so that the ship's bow was too deep in the water. By moving it back the speed was increased. Franklin spent 32 days in crossing, and it was considered a quick passage. What would the great philosopher have thought could he have been in New York when the new radio telephone between New York and London was opened? One hundred and sixty years ago more than a month was required to cross the sea with a human message. The other day Mayor Walker of New York talked with the Lord Mayor of London as you would talk to your friend across the table.

A. & P. Company Plans Unusual Expansion

It has been announced by Mr. T. A. Ford, manager of the local Atlantic and Pacific Company store that arrangements have been made with Louis Handloff to occupy the Hanark Theatre building. Although extensive alterations will be necessary, it is expected that the A. & P. will be able to occupy their new quarters by December 1. When they do, Newark will have the largest and best epuipped food store south of New York City.

The new store, which will have a 26-foot front and a depth of 110 feet, will enable the A. & P. Company to render a much more diverse service than its present quarters have allowed them. A rear entrance and large store room will increase the amount and variety of stock; the meat department will be twice its present size; an oyster and fish department will be added; the produce department will be separate, and all produce will be kept and displayed inside. The sales force will be largely increased at the opening of the new establishment.

Mr. Ford, in behalf of the Company, expresses appreciation to the community for the patronage that has enabled this unusual expansion.

The old plant at Fifth and Shipley, which has housed Every Evening for 44 years, is not only inadequate for expansion, but is not large enough for the paper's present needs. It is expected that the new plant will be ready for occupancy by next May.

Turner Yields Golf Crown In First Round

Loses To Armstrong In Club Championship Match; Paul Pie, Jr., Takes Prize With Low Score

On Sunday afternoon the accurate stroking of J. P. Armstrong toppled the crown from the brow of "Ike" Turner, reigning champ of the Newark Country Club, in the first round of match play for the Club Championship when he beat Turner 1 up. Turner had, however, won his golfing honors for the week when he took the prize Saturday for the 3rd sixteen in the annual Spring Haven Invitation Tournament; no mean feat as the Spring Haven affair always attracts a classy field.

On Saturday, Paul Pié, Jr., won the silver spoon with a low net of 68. R. L. Spurgeon was the winner of the low gross prize on Sunday with a 97.

Other results in the first round of the Club Championship were as follows:

F. C. Houghton defeated C. A. McCue, 6 and 3.

E. W. Steedle defeated C. O. Houghton, 5 and 3.

In the second sixteen H. Souder defeated Major Underwood, 5 and 4, and J. M. Terrell defeated Dr. A. S. Eastman, 5 and 4.

Tyson Wins Big Part of Harness Purses

Last Thursday at the Fair might have been called Tyson Day, as far as the harness racing was concerned, for Herman Tyson, driving Hal and Bee and Johnny B, won two races in straight heats and Golden Direct, from his stable took second money in one of them. Johnny B took the 2:16 trot with ease from a high class field, while Hal Bee won the free-for-all, getting her only challenge from Golden Direct.

On Friday, Tyson harnessed Hugh Watts for the 2:14 trot, but placed second in the three heats, which were won by Susie Prince, a Virginia entry.

Sheaffer Cuts Swath In Pugulistic Ranks

Dick Sheaffer, local middleweight, whose ruggedness and hitting power have earned him considerable recognition in the rings in this section won two bouts last week and was on hand to take part in another fray.

On Wednesday, at Rehoboth, he tendered a sweet lacing to K. O. Fanson in 4 rounds.

Thursday evening, at the opening bill of the Elam Athletic Club, he took on Pat Harrison, Wilmington lightheavy, and knocked him out of the ring four times, winning the decision by a large margin. This was the second meeting between the two men. Two weeks ago, Sheaffer won a four round decision from Harrison at Bower's Beach and Harrison immediately challenged Sheaffer to a return bout over a longer route. Harrison is considered one of the toughest propositions in these parts and outweighs Sheaffer by 10 pounds. The return bout was for six stanzas and Sheaffer taking everything Harrison had to offer threw it back at him with added interest.

Friday night Dick went to Harrington but his opponent failed to materialize and Sheaffer issued a challenge to the crowd. However his reputation had preceded him and there was on one who wanted any part of his game.

Sheaffer incidentally has issued a challenge to any middleweight in the State.

H. S. Grid Prospects Appear Promising

With the opening of school, Monday, the coaching authorities had their first look at this year's High School football squad and it was an encouraging sight. There are six letter men back and a number of other good prospects.

Since the middle of August, last year's veterans have been practicing on Frazer Field under the direction of Captain Jack Dayett, so that they are handling the ball with snap and precision and they have developed wind and stamina.

The letter men who have reported are: Dayett (captain), center; Vincent Mayer, end; Vansant, tackle; McDowell, guard; Cook, guard, and Smith, halfback.

There are three good backfield prospects in Frank Mayer, Zabenko, and Newcomb. Leading candidates for the line are: Holloway, Jaquette, Crooks, Murray and Johnson.

The backfield will probably be fairly light, but fast, and the line will be heavy but not ponderous.

CENTENARY EXHIBITION AND PAGEANT OF TRANSPORTATION CELEBRATING 100 YEARS OF RAILROADING

A miniature World's Fair covering more than 25 acres—a great pageant that presents thrill after thrill! See the rocking, creaking stage coach, the pioneers in their lumbering Conestoga Wagons; see tiny "Tom Thumb", the first American locomotive, puff valiantly by, followed by the curious "grasshoppers" and "camels" of later decades, through the progress of the years up to the majestic "President" engines that haul Baltimore & Ohio trains of today; and the huge, modern express locomotives of British and American Railroads.

Pageant will move daily except Sunday and Monday at 2.15 P.M. Ample room for 50,000 visitors. Grandstand seats 12,000.

Also many exhibits to fill an interesting day; music, entertainment, refreshment facilities.

NO ADMISSION CHARGE. For reserved seat tickets, write to The Centenary Director, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Md., and specify the day you want to come.

Exhibition open Weekdays 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Sundays 2 P.M. to 5 P.M.

Special round trip fare $3.35. Tickets sold daily, except Sundays. Good going and returning on all regular trains. For details apply to Ticket Agent.

The Most Important Point!

The most important point of dress, like everything else, is at the foundation, the feet. Shabby shoes make the whole person shabby.

Start the children off to school with a good understanding in a pair of our School Shoes; built to stand the hard knocks of play; smartly fashioned to wear for dress.

Most important, they are designed to fit the natural formation of the foot and aid in the healthy growth of young feet.

BOOTLEG FEUD BLAMED FOR CECIL SHOOTING

As the result, it is alleged, of a feud between alleged bootleggers in the Rowlandsville district in the county, Jacob Miller, 35 years old, is in the Maryland General Hospital with a bullet wound in his head which physicians believe will prove fatal, and Sheriff Logan's deputies are scouring the county for James Roarke, who is alleged to have done the shooting.

According to the story secured by the authorities, Miller was driving along the road near Porter's Bridge Monday morning when he passed Roarke. When the machine had passed it is alleged that Roarke drew a revolver and fired at Miller.

The bullet passed through the automobile in which Miller was riding and struck him in the back of the head.

APPLETON WOMEN'S CLUB

The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening, September 21, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Robert Mathias.

Hostesses: Mrs. Ayers, Mrs. Baus, Mrs. C. Blackson, Mrs. G. Blackson, Mrs. E. Brown.—Mrs. W. T. Lofland, Reporter.

Del-Mar-Va Vote To Close On October 5

of the replies received the committee will prepare a statement embodying the practical results of the vote which will be published for the information of the public and it will also prepare a summary for the guidance of the Association and its officers.

Those receiving the ballot will be asked to answer three questions, accompanying their answers with such general suggestions as they may care to make. They will be asked first, to voice their individual view, second, to give the view of the business interests with which they are associated, and third, to summarize what they believe to be the prevailing opinion in their community.

In addition to the three direct inquiries, answers are requested on two general propositions. First: those who may vote in favor of continuing the Association will be asked to make their suggestions regarding additions or revisions to its working program. Second: those who may vote to discontinue the Association will be asked to suggest what other organization or form of organization "or what other provision of any sort should be made by Peninsula business in substitution of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association."

"The Referendum ballots," says Dr. G. Layton Grier, President of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, "will go out as rapidly as possible. We hope all those receiving the ballot will co-operate with the committee and send in their replies as promptly as possible. The committee is acting as a neutral body and we are indebted to the men who have consented to serve on it. Those who receive the ballots can lighten the labors of this committee by making prompt reply thus obviating a rush of ballots at the end of the Referendum period. The committee will of course, analyze the voting and this task will be much easier ift he replies come in promptly."

B. & O. CENTENARY

By way of celebrating one hundred years of public service and progress, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is planning a transportation show that will exceed in scope and detail any spectacle of its kind ever placed before the public. It is called the "Fair of the Iron Horse," Centenary Exhibition and Pageant of the historic railroad, to be held at Halethorpe, Baltimore, Maryland, from September 24 to October 8.

The Baltimore and Ohio has the distinction of being the first railroad in the United States operated for the public handling of passengers and freight. In all the century of its eventful career, it has changed neither its corporate name, its charter nor its fundamental organization.

Completeness in every device and associated service known to railroading is the primary goal of the "Fair of the Iron Horse." But along with this, and just as interesting, is the fact that the exhibition will go to elaborate lengths to present the many hidden features of railroading, not only in pictures and print, but in a huge succession of actual physical objects, arranged in an understandable way, so that the fascinating romance inherent in the story of the twin track trail may be made strikingly real and potent to every visitor who comes to Baltimore.

Most people take the railroad for granted, but at this exhibition the fact will be driven home once more that in the history of nations the railroad opened up new territory, bringing in populations, creating centers of industry and developing natural resources, has proven to be one of the largest single factors in the world contributing to the welfare and happiness of people.

Admission to the Exhibition is free as well as are the reserved seats in the grandstand for the Pageant, which may be secured upon application to the Centenary Director. The comfortable and convenient accommodations planned to take care of 50,000 people include ample restaurant and lunch-room facilities, numerous drinking fountains, specially laid-out groves for picnic parties and parking space for 3,000 automobiles so arranged as to permit each car to come and go at any time. The parking space will be guarded by Baltimore and Ohio Railroad policemen. The Baltimore and Ohio Centenary band, composed of 60 pieces, will furnish appropriate music for occasion from a bandstand in the center of the Court of Honor opposite the grandstand, while an official announcer will broadcast a vivid word picture of the Pageant telling the story of progress of the railroad as the audience witnesses its unfolding.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

The Scotch Pine, a native of and widely distributed in western Europe, has been widely planted in the United States. It can be distinguished from other pines by its reddish bark on the upper third of the mature stems, and its bluish-green needles. This tree is easy to plant, grows rapidly, yields good wood, and is often used as a Christmas tree.

Local Campaign

for Kent county; J. E. Gosslee, of Stockley, vice-president for Sussex county; Harry E. Speakman, of Wilmington, secretary; Henry Ridgely, of Dover, treasurer.

These, with eight additional members, Right Rev. Philip Cook, Mrs. A. D. Warner, Sr., of Wilmington; Josiah Marvel, Greenville; Mrs. Francis DeH. Janvier, New Castle; Mrs. Alden B. Richardson, Dover; Dr. Roscoe Elliott, Laurel; Miss Laura Richards, Georgetown, make up the executive committee of the Association. Offices, in charge of Miss Etta J. Wilson, Executive Secretary, were opened last week in the Old Capitol Hotel building, State street, Dover.

"The Association plans to base its activties upon the interest and co-operation of the citizens of Delaware," Judge Boyce announces in his letter. "Every member is to be given the opportunity of suggesting subjects which should be included in the Association's program."

Two projects, however, have been adopted as the immediate undertaking of the association: the further development of Parent-Teacher Associations, already existing in over three hundred school districts which bring together each month, in the school buildings of the State thousands of people, for the discussion of public problems; and the continuance of an organized effort to increase regular school attendance on the part of the State's children.

The invitation to join the Delaware Citizens Association has been extended to the heads of families, in the hope of reaching every resident in Delaware. Any citizen of Delaware may become a member of the Association upon the payment of dues of not less than five dollars per annum. It is the hope of the committee that citizens able to contribute large sums will do so, in order to build up at once a budget sufficient in size to finance a broadly constructive program.

The committee meeting which was held on Monday evening in the town Council Chamber was attended by Mayor Frazer, Miss Etta J. Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Ingham, Miss Winifred J. Robinson, Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, Mrs. J. F. Hossinger, Mrs. Everett C. Johnson, E. L. Richards, G. W. Griffin, J. K. Johnston, W. E. Hayes, Warren Singles, D. A. McClintock, and Professor Ira Brinser. Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson was elected chairman of the meeting and Miss Etta Wilson, secretary and treasurer.

The purpose of the organization was discussed and the advisability of a personal canvass for members decided upon. Every man and woman who is interested is invited to join and the committee is anxious that Newark shall make a good showing in the list of members of the new association, which shall endeavor to replace indifference in worth-while State movements with keen and active interest.

Burglars Enter Two Places

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Philadelphia, came to Newark on Sunday to call on the Thompson's and were the first ones to discover that the house had been entered by thieves.

No clue to the guilty parties has been found.

The thieves who robbed Marritz Department Store gained ingress by going through an alley east of the store through the office. The stolen merchandise was taken out through the window and apparently carried through the alley to a machine waiting at the curb. Some of the goods were dropped in the alley.

The robbers showed experience in that they selected unerringly only the most expensive of the articles they took. They stole watches, dress goods, pants, sweaters and hosiery at the estimated value of $500. Marritz carried no burglary insurance.

Neighbors heard a noise and saw lights in the store about 3.30, standard time, Monday morning, but thought that Mr. Marritz was working there himself. The Marritz family were asleep in their house adjoining the store and heard nothing. The robbery was discovered in the morning by a neighbor who discovered the goods that the thieves had dropped in the alley. This is the fourth time Marritz has been robbed in eight years.

T. J. GREEN BURIED SATURDAY; STORES CLOSE DURING SERVICE HOUR

Several hundred townspeople and farm neighbors paid tribute to the memory of Thomas J. Green at the funeral services, which were conducted at his late home by Dr. H. E. Hallman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, last Saturday afternoon. The house was crowded with relatives and friends and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. During the service A. D. Cobb sang "Abide With Me," and "Lead, Kindly Light." The pall-bearers were J. Irvin Dayett, J. E. Dougherty, Boyd McCoy, A. G. Stroud, Frank Collins, Daniel Thompson and Professor George Koerber. Interment was made in White Clay Creek Cemetery.

The merchants in the town closed their stores during the hour of the funeral.

Roosevelt's Reasons for Attending Church

I. In this actual world, a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned and scoffed at or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down grade.
II. Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the habit of feeling some responsibility for others.
III. There are enough holidays for most of us. Sundays differ from other holidays in the fact that there are fifty-two of them every year—Therefore on Sundays go to church.
IV. Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees, or by a running brook, or in a man's own house just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship.
V. He may not hear a good sermon at church. He will hear a sermon by a good man, who with his good wife, is engaged all the week in making hard lives a little easier.
VI. He will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if he is not familiar with the Bible, he has suffered a loss.
VII. He will take part in singing some good hymns.
VIII. He will meet and nod or speak to good, quiet neighbors. He will come away feeling a little more charitably toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.
IX. I advocate a man's joining in church work for the sake of showing his faith by his work.

AN AD STORY

The highly successful advertising convention just held in London brought out the inevitable crop of stories, of which the following amusing tale is one. A persistent advertising canvasser called upon a retail merchant, who declared that no one bothered to read advertisements. At last the canvasser offered him a free advertisement just as a test. "You can say what you like about me. Nobody will read it," said the obdurate man. The canvasser arranged a three-line notice in an obscure column to the effect that the merchant in question wanted to buy a cat. Four hours after publication an urgent message was received at the office of the paper, asking that the notice be withdrawn at once, as 117 cats had arrived in that time. After recovering from his natural annoyance, the merchant saw the moral and joined the select company who have learned what the printed word will do for their enterprises.—Ex.

Kolster Radio

Come and Hear It!

We could tell you that Kolster Radio sets are extra selective and super-sensitive. But we prefer to make no claims.

We say, "Come and hear a Kolster Radio, or let us give you a demonstration at home if you prefer."

Kolster Radio appeals to the eye but its main appeal is to the ear.

Musical experts while they seek beautiful cabinets and advanced engineering, choose their radios chiefly by comparison. Their critical ears demand the utmost in reproduction.

That is why Kolster Radio has become known as the "musician's radio." It is preferred by famous orchestral conductors, singers, composers and musicians.

Without obligating you, without costing you one cent, let us give you a demonstration. We abide by your decision.
