Carnival Receipts Exceed Five Thousand

Big Crowd Expected This Evening

That the Newark Carnival has gained a reputation both favorable and widespread was attested last Saturday night when between five and six thousand persons, crowded the grounds. Visitors found parking places at a premium, machines lining Main street in solid file, from the B. and O. to Wright's Corner, and extending on into Choate street and Delaware avenue.

One of the most popular features during the evening proved to be the shooting gallery, where hundreds of persons tried out their marksmanship. The duPont Powder Company has offered a solid silver watch fob for the man and a silver spoon for the woman who hits the bull's eye the largest number of consecutive shots. The Hercules Company also has offered a silver watch fob for the man making the highest number of shots.

Practically all the booths on Saturday night sold out completely, and special trips to the city were necessary on Monday to restock for the three nights of this week. A number of articles have been chanced off at the fancy table, as follows: the mahogany serving tray, won by Mr. Leslie Hill; the cut glass basket, by Mrs. C. W. Jester; the china teapot, by Mrs. Hance, of State Road; the sofa pillow, by Miss Helen Harrington; the cut glass compote, by Mrs. Ray Jacobs; the cut glass dish, by Miss Florence Poole.

The receipts to Tuesday night exceeded $5,000. Tonight a record crowd is expected. All the articles advertised will be chanced off, including the Oakland Six automobile.

Work On West Main Progressing

Work on permanent improvement on West Main street is being pushed as rapidly as possible. With the completion of this section, the main street of the town will be what can be called a modern town thoroughfare. Some criticism is heard relating to the sewer connections in that end of town. The point made is that connections should be made before permanent street is completed.

Scalds Employer In Bed

State Detective Frank McCoy and Rural Constable William Tinsman were called on Friday by Justice Lee Sparks of Odessa, to search for Samuel Ponzio, colored, who about 2 a. m. entered the room of his employer, Harry C. Harrison, tenant on one of Leonard Vandegriff's farms, on the Augustine-Macdonough road, and poured a kettle of boiling water over him while he was asleep. Despite his pain, he grappled with the negro, who broke away, and following him down stairs gave him a terrible mauling with his fist and ordered him from the house. Mrs. Harrison found her husband scalded from his neck to his waist and after applying remedies called a neighbor. Search for Ponzio was continued on Saturday in the neighborhood and also in the Port Penn, Odessa and St. Georges sections. Late on Saturday night he was found by Constable E. B. Dulin of Odessa, hiding in an abandoned creamery, about a mile from the Harrison home. Justice Sparks gave him a hearing on Sunday and committed him in default of $5,000 bail to the Workhouse for the action of the Grand Jury. His face was badly swollen from the punishment he had received from Harrison, who is reported as likely to recover from his injuries. Ponzio and he had had no previous trouble, and it is supposed that the negro grew mentally unbalanced. Mrs. Harrison, who was sleeping beside her husband was slightly scalded on one of her hands. Their young child occupied a crib in one corner of the room.

THURSDAY BIG DAY AT STATE FARM

Speeches, Demonstrations And Picnic Lunch Feature Occasion

Plans are complete for Farmers' Day to be held at the College Farm, all day tomorrow, August third. In addition to the speakers announced in last week's issue, there will be the demonstration of a small farm tractor in the morning by the Jerry I. Case Company, and also a demonstration of plowing and working plowed ground with an International Harvester Company tractor. "Farmers' Day Guides" have been prepared by the agricultural department which tell in detail the experiments under way on the various plats, in the orchards, etc. The day promises to be a busy and an interesting one. A large crowd is anticipated.

Sentman, Newark, gave their friends a surprise last week when announcement was made of their marriage at Elkton on Sunday evening, July 23rd, by the Rev. Geo. P. Jones, the groom, a member of Class of 1919, Delaware, is now with Company E, in Deming, New Mexico. Mrs. Marshall is at her home in Newark.

RECEPTION OF TROOPS A CORDIAL ONE

People Of Deming Turn Out To Greet Delaware Men

The following dispatch from Deming, New Mexico, was received by the Evening, Wilmington, on Monday, July 31st: "The Delaware State Militia, comprising two battalions of fine looking troops, in command of Major J. Warner Reed, arrived here at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, in good shape, with everybody well, and they at once pitched their camp about four blocks from the town limits.

During the day they were greeted by hundreds of citizens, as well as the Red Cross, which served luncheon at noon to all of the Delaware soldiers, and the Red Cross Band, composed of young women, gave a concert in their honor. The Delaware boys are the only troops here.

Last night the officers of the battalions were given a reception at the Harvey House by the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Lane of Deming, who gave a dinner in their honor, a tempting menu being served and the greatest hospitality shown. The reception accorded the officers and men by the people of the town has been truly hospitable and open hearted, and the soldiers are showing their appreciation.

The camp site is excellent, with perfect sanitation. There are new hospital buildings, which are commodious and well appointed.

The Delaware camp was fully located, with all tents pitched, by mess last night. Major Streitlinger, U. S. A., is the commanding officer. Thirty-four auto trucks have been attached to the camp and are now here.

Major Reed is pleased with the camp. "All facilities have been provided," he told Every Evening's correspondent last night, "and everything is adequate."

The citizens of Deming are much impressed with the personnel and discipline of the Delaware troops.

NOTICE FROM BOARD OF HEALTH

On account of the increased number of typhoid fever cases in the town, as a matter of precaution, we have thought it best to chlorinate the entire water system. Drinking water should be boiled for a few days to get rid of the chlorine.

Signed

BOARD OF HEALTH

(NOTE.—This work is being done at the present time).

Interview With Dr. Kollock

A word of explanation of the above notice is probably needed. There is absolutely no need for any one to become unduly alarmed. The whole fact is this:

Frequent tests of the water supply is made by Dr. Watson at the State Board of Health laboratory. His being on the ground gives Newark an exceptional safeguard in this respect. Yesterday he found a slight contamination of one of the tests. Immediately he got busy and fortunately the source was found. In recaulking the water main above the B. & O. the pipes had been left open, allowing surface drainage to enter the system. Water in the tank and in other sections of the town according to severe tests is found absolutely pure. In order that every precaution be taken, it was decided this morning to chlorinate the system which will rid any possible contamination. The people are asked by the Board to be in no wise alarmed. The water is all right except this surface water which was thoughtlessly permitted to enter the supply. Forty-eight hours will relieve all danger. Contrary to rumors, the water supply in the reservoir is "pure," according to test this morning. The reservoir has been personally inspected by Dr. Watson and reported secure from birds or similar contamination.

Kitchen Shower In Honor Of Bride

Miss Margaret Cook was the hostess on Tuesday evening, at a watermelon party and kitchen shower, given in honor of Mrs. Orville Richardson. The guests were entertained on the lawn which was attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns. The good wishes of the many friends of the bride were substantially expressed in a shower of cooking utensils—pots and pans of every description. Watermelon was a conspicuous feature of the refreshments. Five girls gave a jolly minstrel show for the entertainment of all present.

BANDITS APPEAR ON THE BORDER

Delaware Men Fire Volley At Mexicans

According to a dispatch received by the Evening Journal of Wilmington last Monday, the first battalion of Delaware troops saw signs of active service just before reaching Deming, New Mexico. The trouble, it is reported, started at Soccer, where the train containing the two Delaware battalions was stoned. Rocks were hurled at the train and orders were issued to stop and give chase. No shots were fired, however, as the bandits hastily sought cover.

Probably reinforced by additions to their forces, the bandits took new positions along the railroad and as the train passed Finlay, a volley of rifle shots rang out. Orders to return the fire were given and a volley flashed from the rifles of the American troops. The rifles of the bandits did no damage to the Americans, but it is not known whether any of the Mexicans were killed or wounded or not.

COMPANY E REACHES BORDER

Intimate Sidelights On The Trip

A telegram received Sunday from Deming, New Mexico, announced the arrival of the Second Battalion, First Delaware Infantry, at their post along the border that morning at 7.30 a. m. The trip has been pronounced by officers and men one of unusual interest. Everyone speaks of the comfort of the accommodations, which for troopers, were indeed exceptional, and the excellence of the food. One letter recently received reports the statement of a passenger agent who accompanied the train from Texarkana: "I have crossed the state with eleven troop trains, and can say you have them all beat for comfort and convenience."

The troop train which pulled out of New Castle at five-ten on Tuesday, July twenty-fifth, first stopped at a station at Dennison, Ohio. The route merely touched the outskirts of Pittsburgh, the train passing through the freight yards. Three men had been assigned to each section in the company cars; each captain had a section to himself. Sergeant Shellender, Quartermaster Foster, H. Sergeant and Brower of Company E, were assigned to a stateroom. Early on the trip the smoking compartment on the officers' car was fitted up as an office, with field desk, typewriter, etc.

The train reached Columbus at 12.30 on Wednesday, where the men were allowed to rest and exercise for an hour and a half. During the stop the officers of the battalion called on the commanding officer of the Ohio State Militia, Indianapolis was reached at ten p. m. Here the train halted for fifteen minutes, and members of the Women's National Preparedness League distributed tobacco, candy, green glasses, witch hazel, and lead pencils. One letter states that the thermometer registered 112 at Indianapolis, the surrounding country looking as though there had been no rain for a month.

Dorothea A. Houchin

Dorothea A. Houchin, wife of Dr. A. R. Houchin, died at her home, West Main street on Monday, July 31st. Death was due to typhoid fever. Mrs. Houchin was a prominent member of St. Thomas' P. E. Church and the New Century Club of Newark. Many friends mourn her death.

Funeral services will be held in St. Thomas P. E. Church on Thursday at two o'clock. Interment in the adjoining cemetery. Messrs. Daniel Thompson, L. K. Bowen, John Press, Professors C. O. Houghton, and E. Conover, and Dr. R. C. Reed, will act as bearers.

A husband and one son survive.

James B. Street

James B. Street, for the last twenty-five years superintendent of the warehouse at the paper mill of Curtis and Bro., Inc., was fatally injured last Friday, when struck by a falling case of paper weighing seven hundred pounds. The heavy box was on a truck to be loaded on a wagon, which it is believed struck an iron rod, causing the accident. The injured man received the force of the blow at the base of the brain. At first he did not seem entirely unconscious, and was able to move a short distance. A report of the accident was phoned to the mill and the man removed to his home. The skull was found to be fractured and recovery hopeless. Mr. Street died six hours later. He was fifty-six years of age.

Funeral services, at which the Red Men and Odd Fellows officiated, were held from the late residence on Tuesday afternoon. Interment in Head of Christiana Cemetery. A wife, and four daughters, Mrs. Compton of Philadelphia, Mrs. H. N. Reed and Mrs. G. E. Knuss, and Miss Naomi Street, of Newark, survive.

All Normal Children Can Sing

Proper Instruction is the One Essential

Miss Kellog, director of music at the Delaware College Summer School, addressed those interested in the introduction of music in the Newark schools, last Friday afternoon, following her talk with charming selections, suitable for children's voices. Miss Kellog has had four years' special training for the work of supervising the instruction of children as well as six years' experience in teaching. She emphasized the fact that children should sing in light, flute-like head tones, rather than the low guttural singing of untaught children. Miss Kellog described the methods of teaching used with very little children. "Probably ninety per cent of children six years of age are 'monotones,'" she said, "that is, children who cannot carry a tune. The teacher first divide the children, seating the little 'singers' on one side, and the monotones or 'listeners' on the other. She devotes the greater part of her attention to the 'listeners,' working with these children until they on a by one gain a place among the singers. At the end of the first term there are usually only three or four left, and the cause in practically every instance of failure, can be traced directly to adenoids or some abnormal condition.

"Every normal child can be taught to sing," the speaker stated, "a fact both encouraging and alarming, alarming when we feel how much we are withholding from the children of Newark in failing to provide a capable singing teacher.

Miss Kellog's illustration of the high, simple, and charming little tunes, with words that would delight any child, could not but make the listeners feel conscious of all our little ones are missing, and strengthen the wish that this subject may soon be added to the curriculum.

"So many people consider music a frill, or non-essential," Miss Kellog said. "But few subjects have greater practical value. Perhaps the commonest cause of failure on the part of children to make their grades, is inattention. They have not been taught to listen. Musical dictation develops the power of listening to a remarkable degree; it demands close attention, alertness and rapid thinking. Sight singing is found to have a direct effect on the child's progress in drawing and writing, so closely are all the faculties related.

Miss Kellog closed insisting on the necessity of supplying a good instructor in case the subject is introduced in the schools. Many good musicians have not studied children's voices, and such instructors oftentimes prove a positive menace to the children.

Recruiting Stations Established

Men wishing to go to Deming, N. M., to join the Delaware troops doing service there, may do so by enlisting at the Armory in Wilmington, a recruiting office having been opened, and it is hoped the able-bodied young men of the city and state will not hesitate to join the colors.

There are now two militia recruiting stations in the state, the one in Wilmington, and a second in Dover. Captain Joseph C. Lawson is in charge of both stations at the present time, but each station will have its own individual recruiting squad. Sergeant George Sousa, of the U. S. Marine Corps, a nephew of the famous bandmaster, Corporal Jones and Private McCracken are at the Wilmington station while Sergeant Thomas, Corporal Gell and Private Leighton, are at Dover.

All candidates for enlistment will be given a preliminary examination at the local station, and if this preliminary test is passed the men will be sent to Fort du Pont for the regular examination and soldiers' equipment.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION TO THE PUBLIC

Reconstruction If Method Of Taxation Needed In Delaware

The present plan of school taxes dates practically from the establishment of the system in 1829. For school purposes it assesses the "clear rental value of lands," the value of personal property (as horses, cattle, etc.), and a certain assessment as a head or capitation assessment. On these several forms of assessment the rate is uniform. Since the assessment of farms thus yields only a very low total assessment for a school district is must necessarily be true that the tax rate will be relatively high; therefore, at the high rate, the amount of taxes paid by the personal property owner and by the capitation assessment will be very high in comparison with what it would be, at the same rate, if land were assessed at its real value. For instance, one school district in New Castle County, now raises its school taxes on a total valuation for the district of $13,655, and must fix its rate at $1.33 per hundred. For the same territory and for the same persons the county assessments total $45,300. The school tax assessment would have required a rate of .33 on the hundred dollars of assessment. This shows clearly that the high rate on the school assessment bears very hard on the personal property owners and capitation tax payers, and very lightly on the payers on "rental values." When all tax-payers see this state of affairs and feel its injustice, and are given a chance to express their preference, it does seem as if the sense of fairness and of spirit of equal rights to all must produce power and impetus to abandon the present system for one that shall be fairer, squarer and more essentially democratic, that is, more fully based on an utter disregard of class distinctions in society.

To the question which must have arisen often in the mind of any reader who has carefully followed the Board's series of statements about proposed changes, the question "Where is the money to come from to pay for all the contemplated increases of expenditure?" there are two replies. First, most of the additional expenditures proposed are to be paid out of state funds. The state collects no local taxes. Therefore expenditure of state moneys cannot impose increased burdens on local tax-payers. Of course, it is recognized that if more is appropriated for education, less can be appropriated for other purposes. However, it is known that the state's revenues have increased considerably. Therefore the question will be, shall a larger part of the increase go for education or for other purposes? It is for the citizens to make up their minds, then to inform their representative, then to keep the representative in mind of their desires. If the increase is not appropriated partly for education, it is almost sure to go for something else; citizens must decide and must see to it that their representatives are advised and kept advised of their constituents' desires. That is truly "triumphant democracy." The second reply to the source of revenue for school purposes, is contained in the statement already made, namely, if all values are properly taxed for school purposes, the entire valuation will be so largely increased that the tax rate can be everywhere lowered, and yet a largely increased revenue can be secured. Higher school taxes are not generally opposed, but higher school taxes under conditions where the biggest part of the burden falls on one class, this is bitterly opposed when there is a rankling sense of injustice felt toward the system. Given a tax system that is regarded as fair and just, bearing equally on every class of citizen, and increases of amounts of taxes levied are not only probable but very certain. In the forms of sociables and other money raising plans, it has been shown that parents are willing to contribute to school betterment with an unsparing and unstinted readiness. By far the most forcible single objection urged to Consolidation roots itself in the tax system. Thus, Consolidation demands new school buildings; new school buildings require increased taxes; the present tax system imposes an unfair and an unduly large part of the tax on the personal property owners and capitation tax-payer. These persons are often renters, and will not be in that particular district very long. Hence, why should they agree to help pay for an expensive school building in the present district, then move in a year or two and there again find themselves similarly burdened, especially when the benefits of new school buildings add to the value of neighboring farms? Practically all school betterments that cost money will be very slow in coming until this tax system is changed, but certainly Consolidation of schools upon any large and significant scale cannot be hoped for while one class of citizens are forced to pay the bill and a different class of citizens reap the benefits of increase in the value of their property. When this was written the State Board of Education had not fully decided to propose a change in the tax laws to the next legislature. Many citizens in all parts of the state have unhesitatingly and unequivocally expressed their belief that reform should begin with that feature, since that is fundamental. The Commissioner of Education believes that if the tax system were put on a basis of equity, disregarding class ideas and distinctions, and incorporating fairly and fully the recognized principles of taxation in a democracy, the most important improvements now desired would follow logically or would be easily obtainable. More and better teachers, more and better supervision, more consolidation, more club work and more home project work, each and all of these will be attainable with a more abundant supply of school revenues. No Delawarean can possibly feel proud of his state, one of the richest in the Union, yet paying almost half of its teachers less than $25 per month the year round!

CHARLES A. WAGNER, Secretary of the State Board of Education.

While a party of young women were posing for pictures on a second story porch of the Y. W. C. A. building at Rehoboth Beach on Thursday afternoon a section of it gave way and a number of the group standing along the outer rail fell upon the cement pavement below. Two of the party, Miss Mildred Comlyn and Miss Amelia Stauffer, both of Baltimore, were seriously injured, one sustaining fractures of a hip and an arm, and the other, it is feared a fracture of the skull.

Death Of A Noted Preacher
Rev. Dr. Albert W. Lightbourne, the founder of the People's Christian Church in Dover, and formerly a leading member of Wilmington M. E. Conference, died on Saturday morning of heart trouble, at his cottage at Kitt's Hammock, aged 60 years. He was born on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and was a son of Rev. James H. Lightbourne, a member of Wilmington Conference. He first became a member of the Primitive Methodist Church and in 1880 joined Wilmington Conference. In 1885 he quit the ministry and became secretary to the Wood Exchange in New York. Later he engaged in journalism on the New York Mail and Express, and the San Francisco Argonaut. Later he joined the Congregational ministry and finally rejoined Wilmington Conference and was pastor of Wesley Church, Dover, when his credentials were challenged. He and about 250 members of the congregation then organized the People's Church.

VOTES FOR WOMEN
Meeting In Hose House Next Friday
At 3.30 p. m. on Friday, August 4, there will be a suffrage meeting in the hose house. There is every chance for a strong organization here in Newark, if the women will only rally to the support of the cause. Let no woman sit back and say, "Well, I'd like to help but I can't do anything." She can. You can. Come! 3.30 p. m. at the Hose House, on Friday, August 4.

Great encouragement is felt by all connected with the suffrage meetings of Wednesday last. Although the attendance in the afternoon was small, Mrs. Hilles' talk on that occasion was exactly as forceful as at the street meeting in the evening.

A round of the mills was made at noon, where literature was distributed. (And let me say parenthetically that Mrs. Hilles cannot speak too enthusiastically of the support given the cause by the laboring-man.)

Quotations from the talk of Mrs. Hilles follow:
"A woman of the west with voting privilege, immediately loses that right upon coming east."

"We women are classed with idiots, aliens and insane people."
"Altho I have been paying taxes for 16 years, the man at my gate, who owns not one foot of property, votes, while this right is absolutely denied me."

"Why should there be an educational test in order to be able to vote? Shall a man or woman who is a good, moral, upright citizen, be denied the right to say what the laws shall be, under which he or she lives, simply because he or she never had a chance to get an education? A mental test is quite a different thing from an educational test."

Cards bearing these words, were signed by great numbers of people at the street meeting—"I believe in giving women the right to vote."

I must speak of the courteous treatment tendered Mrs. Hilles, Miss Sapovits, and myself, while we were distributing cards and while the two former were speaking, all this, at the time, too, when the "Carnival Spirit" was in the air. When people who differ absolutely in their views from a speaker, still are open to conviction and evidence this fact by all lack of hostile demonstration, there is great hope, not only for the suffrage cause, but for all progressive and humanitarian movements in Delaware.

is nearly over and a hard year it has been. Scarcely a days rest, before the fall plowing will begin. The best farmers like to start early so that the ground can get settled as much as possible before seeding time. The Wiard and Syracuse are the big words when the farmer thinks of plowing. If you have to have a new plow this fall, inquire of the best farmers you know. Invariably, then you will come to us for one of these makes. Repeated tests, wear and tear, light working---all decide on the Wiard or Syracuse. We keep a full line of parts ready. You don't have to wait the delay of ordering.

WHAT AMERICANISM IS

We are unreservedly, devotedly, wholeheartedly, for the United States. That is the rallying point for all Americans. That is my position. I stand for the unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea.

We desire that the Republican Party as a great liberal party shall be the agency of national achievement, the organ of the effective expression of dominant Americanism. And what do I mean by that? I mean America conscious of power, awake to obligation, erect in self-respect, prepared for every emergency, devoted to the ideals of peace, instinct with the spirit of human brotherhood, safeguarding both individual opportunity and the public interest, maintaining a well-ordered constitutional system adapted to local self-government without the sacrifice of essential national authority, appreciating the necessity of stability, expert knowledge and thorough organization as the indispensable conditions of security and progress; a country loved by its citizens with a patriotic fervor permitting no division in their allegiance and no rivals in their affection—I mean America first and America efficient. It is in this spirit that I respond to your summons.

We live in a fateful hour. In a true sense, the contest for the preservation of the nation is never ended. We must still be imbued with the spirit of heroic sacrifice which gave us our country and brought us safely through the days of civil war. We renew our pledge to the ancient ideals of individual liberty, of opportunity denied to none because of race or creed, of unswerving loyalty. We have a vision of America prepared and secure; strong and just; equal to her tasks; an exemplar of the capacity and efficiency of a free people. I endorse the platform adopted by the convention and accept its nomination.
—Hughes Speech of Acceptance.

REGISTRATION DAY

Saturday, August 5th is the second registration day. Make it a point to get registered so that you may take part in the primaries. At no election of recent years have the issues been so sharply drawn. Never in recent years has the call been so clear to every citizen. Let every vote make it a point to get registered and thereby be enabled to take an active part in directing the party affairs.

HEALTH SURVEY

Growth, development and increasing importance of a town bring pride and satisfaction. With this come just as strongly, new duties and responsibilities. During the past fifteen years the development of this town has been remarkable, surpassing every town on the peninsula. Of still more pride, the growth has not been confined to any one activity. Manufacturing plants, banks, business houses, College interests,—all have developed, attracting the merited attention and interest of the whole state. With this growth the civic interests have developed. Light, Commercial Power, Fire Protection, better streets, and sewer are all items of pride.

This year again, there is another boom. Aside from the college development additions of big proportions are being made to some of our manufacturing plants and other industries being started. Labor is scarce and a demand for homes is being made. The present boom has all the appearance of being permanent.

These are all matters for congratulation. But with it come duties on Council, organizations and individual citizens. One of the most important, in fact vital duties, is that of more effective supervision of sanitary conditions. The growth of the town has been such that the present Health Administration does not meet the needs and demands of the community. Many towns of similar size and development have been faced with a situation, now presented to Newark. Success in many instances has been accomplished by having a health survey made. After this, the town authorities adopt the recommendations without question. The result is always satisfactory. Some towns, where social relationship and business associations are close, have given this authority to some stranger, who can more easily hew to the line.

This Health Survey is an immediate demand unless powers that be can suggest other means. To say Newark is as healthy as the general run of towns is probably true but nevertheless absurd. It can be made so that the summer filth diseases would be unheard of.

Council can do no greater work than some such movement as is offered. The article in our People's Column gives our satisfaction a genuine jolt.

Let's make sickness in Newark a disgrace and a sensation.

AUF WIEDERSEHEN

Auf wiedersehen, Capt. Koenig. Good luck. We in our very heart wish your safe return. Your smile, your determination, your faith, your ability and success have won the admiration of us all. What has heretofore been vague dreaming, you have made a fact. The Fatherland, home and friends await your return with prayerful interest. Our best goes with you. Surely the God of Battles will fail to molest. The world needs the man, the men and the nation who make possible the execution of the Deutschland. Capt. Koenig—auf wiedersehen.

PEOPLES' COLUMN
Is Newark Awake

To the Editor of the Post

I often notice in issues of your paper that you claim Newark to be the best town in the state. I'm from Missouri—and I can't see it. Typhoid has been rampant in Newark for about seven or eight years, and the cause is still unknown. The situation reminds one of the spectacle of 2500 people drawn up in a row in the face of 2500 guns. All the people know that six or eight of those guns will go off and strike as many of them, yet they sit still and stupidly wonder if the particular gun pointing at them will be the one, and if it will kill or merely wound them.

The cause of typhoid can be located and the necessary steps should be taken at once to do so. The local board of health has proved by results that it is not competent to handle the problem. In a number of instances overflowing cesspools have been pointed out to them, but they seem very reluctant to take action, and even after the cess pools are abandoned they are allowed to remain as they were left. Where the cess pools have overflowed would it not be well to treat the ground in the vicinity and thus destroy the germs, rather than allow them to be spread by the winds in the form of dust? There are now two places near the center of town where the stench is worse than that from any slaughter house or glue factory in the middle of August.

If trouble develops in an engine or a generator in your mill or factory do you continue to operate it in this condition? No, you do not,—nor do you patch it up in a makeshift manner. If the local engineer cannot repair it properly, an expert is sent for, and the apparatus is put in first class condition.

The science of health has advanced as rapidly as the other branches of science, and there are men who can locate the source of typhoid fever. If Newark does not contain the men with the necessary ability let a number of men who value their lives and health and that of those dependent upon them, get together and bring in a man who can get results. But don't tie the man's hands. Give him full authority and see that his demands are complied with.

Where cess pools are still in use they should be gauged every twenty-four hours, and should be entirely done away with, within six months.

Telltale barriers should be erected at different points, these barriers to act in such a way as to strain the air or take samples of air, and the screen then be examined for germs. These barriers should be so placed that air would pass through in one direction only, and complete data should be kept of air currents, etc. in order to find out if the germs are being transmitted through the air. The source could then probably be located by judicious placing of these screens.

The stand pipe at the upper end of town should be drained every three months, and thoroughly cleaned.—I wonder when it was cleaned last, and I wonder if there isn't water in the tank that has been there for a year or longer. The tank should be emptied and the sides scrubbed with a solution of acid, then rinsed with pure water, after which it should be given a coat of coal tar. I understand the town water is tested daily. From where are the samples taken, and at what time of the day? Is the pump always running when the sample is taken, or is the sample a representative one—one that is taken in various parts of the town and at all hours of the day and night?

The milk supply should be thoroughly investigated and tested. Refrigerators should be investigated and examined. Everyone in town should be broad-minded enough to help in all possible ways.

The epidemic has injured the town in many ways, and will surely do the college harm. Since there are a number of scientific men at the college, why could they not locate and eliminate the scourge? They have the means and all the facilities for such work. The town authorities, however, must give them the necessary power and co-operate in every way. This would mean Service to the town, to the college, and to humanity in general. Every man, woman, and child should be ashamed of Newark until the typhoid scourge is permanently removed.

—Interested.

(The above article is contributed, not in the spirit of knocking but as constructive criticism. The usual reply that Newark is as healthy as most towns is not the point at issue. This town can rid itself of all the so-called summer filth diseases. The accusations above apply to no one section of the town. The big bank depositors are as guilty as the rest of us. To say the town cannot rid itself of these pests is to admit a gross ignorance of what Scientific Town Cleaning can accomplish. When pest holes, such as Havana and Panama and Jacksonville can be made practically health resorts surely Newark lying in the center of the health belt, can make conditions much better. The practical suggestions made by our contributor are worthy of the consideration of every resident in Newark. —Editor)

Looking Ahead To A
Real City Hall

Editor of the Post,
Sir:—With the wonderful success of this year's Carnival it seems that the Firemen's new building on Main street is assured within the course of a year or two if a site can be purchased. True, it has not seemed to many that it was necessary or desirable with Main street land held at such high valuation, for the engine house to be on that thoroughfare, but the firemen seem to have their hearts set on it, and they have been such valiant fire fighters.—(continued on page 8) of water and ice. This point marked the terminus of the "Penny" and the men entered upon the rougher end of their journey. In order to avoid the Ozark mountains, a necessity owing to the mixed train, the special did not cross the Mississippi at this point, but followed the east bank to Thebes, where they crossed on a bridge resembling that over the Susquehanna at Havre de Grace. Here the train stopped for thirty minutes, for the men to take a dip in the "Fathers of Waters." A Polander, one of the late recruits in Company E, was caught in the current, and nearly drowned before rescued by two Dover men. One man writes: "We are getting a taste of the weather promised us in New Mexico. The wind is hot and dust, six inches deep, is everywhere. This is some state! We haven't seen anything yet but brush and swamp. The train rocks like a little boat on the ocean. So far only one boy shows signs of being homesick."

"The town of Newport," another writes, "is the first nice-looking town we have seen. It looks something like New England, and has a population of five thousand."

Letters coming from farther on, give impressions of tediousness and monotony. "I am using typewriter," one officer writes, "the road is so rough. The country today has been perfectly flat and will continue so nearly to El Paso." Another writes, "Heat, dust, rough roads and cotton are about all we have at present. We stopped for an hour at Little Rock running into quantities of cantaloupes and watermelons. What the men did to them was a plenty, you may imagine." A stop of an hour and a half was made at Fort

A card received today and written Saturday, bears the heading "3000 feet above sea level, somewhere near El Paso." The writer states, "We are passing through the prettiest country we have yet seen. We have seen first the prairies and famous prairie dogs, Jack rabbits, Mexicans and cactus, and an occasional cowboy. Then we passed for one hundred mile along a desert, all of a sudden coming again into a fertile section. We are now going up a fifteen mile grade. There are mountains, mountains everywhere; some of the ones we can see are in Mexico."

The uniform they wear assured for the men, all along their way, many comforts and unexpected courtesies. Crowds at every stop, filled the stations, the girls at times relieving the monotony by a laughing exchange of names and addresses. One of Company E's handsome men on Thursday received the following encouraging missive: "Have a heart. I'm single. — Big Sandy, Texas."

Friends are awaiting with interest a first hand account of the experience of the First Battalion along the border. Townsman wishing to communicate with members of the local company should address all letters care of Captain L. B. Jacobs, Company E, First Delaware Infantry, Deming, New Mexico.

PARENT-TEACHERS' DAY OBSERVED

Interesting Speeches And Helpful Suggestions

Parent-Teachers' Day, defined by President S. C. Mitchell, who presided, as a Civic and Moral Preparedness Meeting, was observed at the Delaware College Summer School last Thursday and proved to be one of the most interesting sessions of the summer's program. All the leading educators of Delaware were present, and the conference was a helpful one. The program opened with a selection by the Glee Club, followed by talks by Superintendent Hardesty of Sussex, and Superintendent Carrol of Kent.

A strong paper defining the work of the local organization, prepared by Mrs. Garrett Harrington, president of the Delaware Parent-Teachers' Association, was read by Miss Hulda Brust. "The place of parents as educators has not been considered," Mrs. Harrington says, "in the educational system, yet it is true that the home has the largest work to do in the education of children. From birth until the child enters school, parents are the sole teachers of the child, and even when school days begin, the home still has the larger responsibility, for the school has the care of the child about 800 hours in the year while the home has the care 7460 hours each year. The relative importance of home and school education is clearly shown by the comparison of the time each is given for its educational work."

"Teachers are well provided with opportunities for preparation for their educational work, and each year higher standards of preparation are demanded. Most parents are plunged into their great educational work with ut preparation, without knowledge concerning health, infant hygiene, mental development, or the formation of moral habits, and with nowhere to turn in order to learn the fundamental principles of successful child-nurture—yet without such information the lives and future well-being of their children are jeopardized.

"To provide opportunity for parents to understand a baby's requirements means at least seventy per cent of babies' lives saved. To provide opportunity to understand methods of guidance of little children during the habit forming years of their lives, to meet the thousands of questions the children ask, to understand the great transition period between childhood and youth, to make the home a constructive educational force, means the building of character on a firm moral foundation, and the prevention of crime."

Mrs. Harrington's paper defined the aims of the state organizations and gave many practical and helpful suggestions.

Professor Mary E. Rich, of the Women's College, Dean of Women at the Summer School, introduced as "the one indispensable person" was greeted by the students with prolonged applause. Miss Rich talked enthusiastically of the relation of the teacher to the association. "The teacher must furnish the personality, the power behind the association," she said. "She must get as many to work as she can, plan to do a definite piece of work, and have an abundance of enthusiasm if she would attain success.

"The teacher must first of all be enthusiastic," the speaker declared. "She must believe in the idea, be willing to work for it, in other words be the cheer leader of the association. She must create a greater interest in the health of the community, for she cannot safeguard the health of one little child without looking to the welfare of all. She must remember the range of the sympathy determines one's personality, and she must strive to stir a sympathy in all child life.

"In most communities the teacher is an outsider. That means the teacher can come in and size up—not size down—the community. She can stand off and look and seize upon what is good. The successful teacher will steadfastly avoid the petty differences that keep the people apart. As a stranger she knows nothing of them and refuses to learn about them. She concerns herself with the great human interests that weld us together." The speaker advised the teachers whom she was addressing to be a part yet not a part of their community in order not to lose their greatest value—their perspective.

Superintendent Cross told of the accomplishments of a number of associations which had been made a success by the tact, enthusiasm, and good judgment of the teachers.

Pertinent Remarks At The Parent-Teachers' Meeting

Where children are associated in school parents should not fear contact.

Dr. Emerson in speaking of the control of infantile paralysis in New York City recently said, "The best disinfectant is sunshine mixed with soap and water."

At the recent biennial meeting of the Women's Clubs, held in New York City the statement was made that at the present time twenty million people are daily attending the "movies" in the United States.

How To Protect

Cows From Flies

(From Indiana Extension Leaflet No. 45)

1. As all flies breed in filth, allow as little as possible to accumulate around the stable.
2. Remove manure daily to the field or an enclosed pit, not less than every two or three days, thus preventing the full development of the larva.
3. Keep the stable dark during the daytime and the windows screened.
4. The use of the commercial or hand-made fly trap will help lessen the number of flies. . . .
5. A successful fly poison is made as follows: prepare a mixture of skim milk and formalin in the proportion of 10 to 1. Fill several small tin pans, six or eight inches in diameter, two inches deep with the mixture and place same in portions of the barn where flies are thickest.

CAUTION. Keep this away from cats, dogs, poultry, etc., as formalin is poisonous.

6. Spray cows with some proprietary fly repellent, or use one of the following home-made preparations:

- |                        |   |                            |

VALUE OF EDUCATION TO THE FARMER

Some Striking Facts Revealed By Statistics

"Work equally significant with that of Corporation Schools is needed if the world's demand for foodstuffs is to be met," is the statement made by F. C. Henderschoot, the executive secretary of the National Association of Corporation Schools, in a reply to the criticism of Mr. Clarence Sears Kates, which declares that the writer in a recent article published in the Public Ledger, failed to stress the educational needs of the nation's farms. Mr. Henderschoot's reply is interesting:

"The reason my article developed the educational needs of the factory rather than of the farm is found in the fact that the factory, through corporate management and ownership, lends itself to corrective educational systems more readily than does the farm.

"However, we have but to realize the conditions which exist at the present time in our country to understand the importance of more education on behalf of those who are to go into agricultural pursuits.

"Reliable statistics just compiled by the National Institute of Agriculture show that the world's crops this year will be less abundant than last year. The total wheat crop is estimated at 25 per cent less than last year. The total yields of barley, oats and rye will be less than last year. Why this condition prevails in a year when the season has not been especially unfavorable to growing cereals can be accounted for only through universal lack of scientific knowledge of how to grow crops.

"Our State agricultural colleges possess much helpful knowledge, and their efforts to disseminate this knowledge among the farmers are to be commended. Yet only a relatively small proportion of those who are making agriculture their lives' work are advised at all as to the best methods in stock breeding, soil fertilizing, crop rotation, soil physics, and the many other problems which underlie scientific farming and by the application of which the welfare of practically every citizen of the United States is affected, at least in some degree.

"The Wicks Investigating Committee, which has been holding sessions at the College of Agriculture at Cornell University, recently issued a report from which we learn that only one-third of the farmers in this country are making money; an additional third would be better off financially if they would place what money they have at 5 per cent interest and hire out as farm laborers, while the other third is just about breaking even. Statistics placed at the disposal of this committee reveal that the high-school graduate makes his acres pay twice as well as the man who went only through grammar school, while the college graduate makes his acres pay three times as much. In other words, the college graduate, generally speaking, is the only man who is making money through agricultural pursuits.

"The problem of how to correct this condition is not so easily solved as the problem which confronts the manufacturer.

"As every citizen, without regard to his profession or pursuits, is affected by the cost of living, and as agricultural conditions enter most into the cost of living, for the rank and file at least, the seriousness of the present condition is easily understood.

"The present price of farm products should have insured a greater yield this year than was produced last year, but the fact remains that the net yield this year of our staple cereal crops will fall materially below what it was last year. This condition may be charged directly to lack of knowledge among the farmers—knowledge which is basic and must be applied to our agriculture before we can hope to secure from the fertile fields of America the returns which our acres could be made to yield if scientifically cultivated.

"The township high school, with its agricultural courses for the men and boys and its home-making and domestic science courses for the women and girls, is a long step in the right direction. There are many other helpful movements, such as the girls' canning clubs and the boys' corn-raising clubs; but what is most needed is some organized educational movement which will guarantee to the farmers and their wives and their sons and daughters complete and adequate knowledge of all that is basic in scientific farming, and, in addition, general knowledge which is broad enough in scope to make farming life pleasant and desirable. The problem, however, is one for the nation, the state, the county and the township.

Preparedness & Fundamental Planning

WHAT will the telephone system be in 1930? To what will it have grown? How will it differ from that of to-day?

All this is seemingly beyond conception. But the Bell engineers do not so regard it.

On carefully pursued development studies are determined complete fundamental telephone plans for the future. Estimations are based on precise computations and analyses; and, so, there exists to-day a "picture" of the fifteen years hence—the population, the distribution of that population, the building development and the property values in the cities of the country. So, too, the telephone cable plant of the future is plotted out, the switchboard sizes and locations anticipated.

These development studies, checked against each year's results, permit thorough preparation for the morrow, always.

The past twenty months have supremely tested the readiness of the Bell System. The traffic has increased as never before. That this could not be foreseen is obvious; yet in preventing the over-taxing of facilities nothing has contributed more than this policy of being ahead of the requirements of the hour.

 ers and so tireless in their money raising efforts—first for a fire engine and now for a new home for it that no one can begrudge them the satisfaction that will come to them when their new home becomes an accomplished fact.

But what in that case will become of the Town House on Academy street, their present headquarters? This house is owned by the town and has been occupied, rent free of course, by the company, the town merely using the firemen's assembly room for Council meetings once or twice a month. Connected with the Town House in the rear is the lockup, consisting of four cells, which are neither modern nor safe, and which must eventually be rebuilt.

This brings up the question, should not Newark, with 2500 inhabitants now and a likelihood of 3500 in the next eight years, be thinking of a new "city hall"? And in that case could not the town and the firemen together erect a building for their joint use that would be a real credit to the town? There could be room on the first floor for the fire apparatus and prison cells, with quarters upstairs for the firemen, the Mayor and Council, Chief of Police, and the town magistrate. This would render unnecessary the marching of prisoners through the streets from the lockup to a magistrate's office. By concentrating everything in one building it would be possible to have some one on duty—say a night police officer—to sound the fire alarm and save valuable time. The time is coming when we should have a police station with some one always on hand for an emergency, and what better place than in a building housing the firemen, the mayor, the magistrate, prisoners' cells, tax collector, water and light offices, etc.

The plan, ambitious as it may be, seems quite feasible from every point of view if only the town and the fire company show a proper spirit of co-operation.
 H. C.

Save Main Street If Possible

Editor of the Post.
 Sir:—It has occurred to me, and doubtless to many others that our fine new Main street—the pride of the town—could, during the next few months be saved much unnecessary wear and tear if the teams hauling building material from the brick yard and the Center Station to the new Wolf Hall and the Dormitory soon to be started would use Delaware avenue as far as possible. This street is a dirt road but in excellent condition now and its use from South Chapel street eastward to the new buildings would relieve the traffic on Main and help to preserve the street surface in the present fine condition. In many places where new roads are made heavy traffic of all kinds is diverted by rigid regulations to other thoroughfares in the interest of public economy. Why not Newark? Can't Council take up this question?
 Citizen.

Town Without Protection After Midnight

Mr. Editor:
 No doubt the town folks are not aware they have no protection in the streets after midnight. It's this way. The town pays an officer $70 per month, pays $30 per year for telephone in officer's house, which makes $72.50 per month. The officer is not supposed to stay on duty after midnight. Of course we here are very fortunate; we have no murders, robberies or fires, after midnight. A few years ago we paid our officer $35 per month, and he was supposed to be on duty all night (no telephone). Any person waylaid on the streets after midnight he would be found and cared for, robbery would likely be seen, or a house on fire could be seen. The $35 night man might save your life. Locking the stable after the horse is stolen is no good. On the other hand we find the town receives some $70 per month for fines. Our expense then is reduced to $30 a year for telephone. I would suggest that we have another officer from midnight until 4 o'clock, at $35 per month. The town to furnish a bicycle to patrol not only Main street but other streets. This will not be adding any expense to our town, but certainly should be satisfactory to our business people and citizens. Our present officer subject to telephone call after midnight.
