SUMMER SCHOOL STUDENTS ARRIVE AT DELAWARE

Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday have been busy days at the State College, with two hundred seventy-five students from all parts of Delaware registering, finding homes, and making up their schedules for the work of the ten week's session. 'Buses and baggage trucks were at a premium all day Monday, with the headquarters of the Stiltz transfer service still heaped and piled with baggage until late at night. Regular classes, held in Recitation Hall, began on Tuesday. The students first assembled for chapel yesterday in Wolf Hall at 10.45, at which hour "get together" meetings will be held each day during the Summer School. Professor G. S. Counts, director, presided. Dr. S. C. Mitchell, in an opening adress sounded the keynote of the Session in the two words—Personality and Community.

"The first watchword, I would give you, on this opening morning," Dr. Mitchell declared, "is Personality. It is possible to develop personality. Of course, some people are so brimful of it that it oozes out at every point. Personality is the biggest word in the English language. It represents independence, clear thinking, and resourcefulness. The measure of a man is his soul; the radius of his life is his sympathy. We want big souled teachers in our schools. I therefore say, Personality is the main thing in the Summer School. Personality is never developed by cowing or repression. The Delaware College Summer School is not a Monologue School; a class of twenty-four should have in it twenty-four teachers—twenty-four from whom each may learn something of the subject of the lesson.

"The second watchword I would give you," Dr. Mitchell continued, "is Community. Let every teacher have in mind the community which he or she is to serve next winter. I should say that the growth of community life is the most striking social phenomenon of our time. We are beginning to think now of the community as of our home. As a result I hope we shall develop a bigger, broader personality with growing ideas and ideals. We must keep on growing and never stand still. If I should catch myself holding next year the exact opinions I have today, I shall be indeed ashamed of myself.

"Dr. Counts will probably tell you that you will have nothing to do in the afternoon. I am going to tell you that what you get from your association with each other is as important as anything that comes from the classroom. Make a friend wherever you can; be happy, be cheerful, be communicative and friendly, and let God be in it all."

The enrollment up to Tuesday evening was as follows: Sussex, 79; Kent, 74; Rural New Castle, 47; Wilmington, 34; Maryland, 24; Pennsylvania, 3; Virginia, 1. The students are G. Holton Aikens, of Wilmington; Miss Lillian M. Aker, of Wyomnig; Nevada B. Alricks, of Summit Bridge; Miss Annabel R. Angstadt, of Felton; Miss Bernice Williams Attix, of Kenton.

Miss Marion G. Bacon, of New Castle; Miss Mary Virginia Bincroft, of Liberty Grove, Md.; Miss Keturah Beidencan, of Milford; Mrs. Clara M. Bicking, of Wilmington; Miss Elva D. Blackson, of Newark; Miss Maude E. Blackstone, of Millsboro; Miss Freda Blumberg, of Wilmington; Miss Julia M. Boulden, of Wilmington; Miss Clara Wreatley Bayce, of Laurel; Miss Isadora A. GOVERNOR TOWNSEND APPEALS TO THE MEN OF DELAWARE

"To the Citizens of Delaware:

"In a crisis Delaware has never failed to respond. Her thoughts and deeds for the preservation of the ideals of this national life of ours, are not only records of history. They are facts today. Proud as we rightly are of her past we can, with truth, appreciate the work and interest of the present. Scarcely was the session of the General Assembly over before the President called on our citizens for aid and co-operation in this world crisis. That Delaware has responded nobly is only mild expression of appreciation. The call for volunteers for registration resulted in an exceptionally efficient registration without expense to the government. Our business men, professional men and farmers gave liberally of time and money in very definitely seeing to it that the State should measure up to the standards set by our fathers. The call for the Liberaty Loan met with similar result. Our wealth and small savings were given so that we did the share allotted us, and more. Then the Red Cross—our citizens are so contributing that the whole country is looking to Delaware with admiration.

"This spirit expressed in Delaware during the past few weeks, has been an inspiration. America still lives here in very fact. Our days of prosperity have not made us sordid. After all, representatives of wealth and of labor sit at the same council table harmoniously devising ways and means to do their bit according to their respective ability.

"Now another call has come. We have asked for time and money. To hold truly our place befitting our State we call to the manhood of our State.

"Delaware today has two incomplete battalions for military duty. In every way we have so responded that the State has offered for service a regiment—a complete unit. The record of this State in times of war is no idle boast. To be worthy descendants of those who gave us this heritage it behooves us that we again offer ourselves to this world strife. Sons of Delaware dare not fail.

DELAWARE'S PLACE AT THE FRONT

'In a fight for national life, as understood in America, Delaware rightfully belongs at the front. Judging from the history and my experience, my confidence is sadly misplaced if she is satisfied with less.

"Realizing this and responding to a Statewide expression of opinion, I went to Washington, and asked that Delaware be given recognition and permitted to raise a regiment. This was granted. With confidence in the manhood of this State, I pledged such support.

"It is with sadness, yet with a determined confidence, I make the appeal. Men of Delaware, we have responded in the demands for time and money. Let not Delaware fail to do her full bit. In the call for men by the selective draft, you have signed up. I ask that you maintain the Delaware unit by enlisting in your home regiment. By so doing you will be among friends, better cared for and further, you will uphold our record.

"As I have said before, we are at war, not by choice, not by excitement, not by subtle plans. We are at war, not for conquest, not for gain, not for display of force.

We are at war that this idea of national life of ours shall live. In such a war, for such a cause, Delaware must respond. Delaware will respond."

JOHN G. TOWNSEND, JR.,
Governor of Delaware.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE ON SUNDAY

Twilight Services On College Steps

In compliance with a ruling of the General Assembly next Sunday morning, July first, will be marked by patriotic services in the Presbyterian Churches throughout the land. Rev. W. J. Rowan, of the Newark church, announces special services at eleven o'clock. The same day has also been proclamed by Herbert Hoover, recently appointed leader of the food conservation movement, by President Wilson, as Food Saving Day. Letters have been mailed to all ministers whose address the national committee has been able to obtain, asking that the day be observed in all American churches. A crowded church should register the interest and loyalty of the community.

In the evening the regular church service has been suspended for the month of July. Instead there will be open air services on the Old College Hall steps, beginning promptly at six-thirty. An invitation is extended to the entire community.

ACCIDENT AT ELKTON CROSSING

Railroad Officials Charged With Manslaughter

Samuel Simmons, aged 45 years, tenant on the farm of Mrs. Ellen D. Booth, on the Frenchtown pike, south of Elkton, his wife, Mrs. Hannah Simmons, their eight-year-old son, Ward, and George Foster, who worked on the farm, were all killed about 8 o'clock on Monday evennig, when a Ford automobile in which they were riding was struck by a fast north-bound express on the Bridge Street, or Plank Road, Crossing in Elkton. A south-bound train had just passed and the watchman, John Lotman, Foster's uncle, raised the gates as the auto and a buggy reached the crossing, not noticing that the north-bound express, 12 minutes late, was rapidly approaching. The buggy cleared the tracks but the auto was struck by the engine and whirled in the air, landing a complete wreck partly under a tank car on the siding beyond the south-bound tack. The four occupants were killed instantly. The child's head was severed, and a bone from it was hurled into the buggy. Mrs. Simmons was badly mangled. Foster's body was caught on the cow-catcher, where it was found when the engineer brought the train to a stop on the jail curve. Coroner Litzenberg held an inquest on Friday, the jury finding that the victims owed their death to the neglegence of Lotman, the watchman, and holding the Pennsylvania Railroad management responsible for the danger incurred by the traveling public at the four grade crossings in Elkton. The Simmons family having been killed, the company is not liable to any one for damages. Lotman was arrested on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, based upon his negligence, and was placed in jail.

As a sequel to the accident of Thursday, States Attorney C. B. Finley on Tuesday issued a warrant charging A. J. Whitney, Superintendent of the Maryland division, J. R. English, General Supervisor of Track, and M. Rafferty, Track foreman, with manslaughter, on the ground of responsibility for the appointment of an incompetent gate tender.

DELAWARE RECRUITING FOR THIRD BATTALION

State Calls Upon Men To Measure Up To Past Record

The big drive for recruits for the third battalion which shall give to Delaware a full regiment, has been on since Monday, the recruits up tto last evening numbering 140. The clock on the old Court House, Wilmington, used last week in the Red Cross Campaign is being relettered to indicate the response of Delaware men in the call to the colors. Delaware has responded four-fold to the Red Cross fund; she has shamed larger states in the share subscribed to the Liberty Loan. It remains for the young men of the Commonwealth to hand out a third triumph—and send forth a full Delaware regiment to battle for Liberty. Wilmington is in a whirl of parades, public meetings, and patriotic speeches. Kent County, under the direction of Captain Le Fevre, has scheduled throughout the country two meetings for every evening. Rural New Castle and Sussex are being scoured by the recruiting officers for recruits.

Contrary to a recent report no orders have been received prohibiting recruiting after Saturday, June 30th. After this date, however, no credit is given the State in the general report relative to conscription.

UP TO OUR GENERATION

Every Delawarean should stand back of Governor Townsend in his insistence that the State shall send a full regiment into the great fight "to make the world safe for democracy." Humiliating, indeed, will be the record of our generation should the future reader of history search in vain for a Delaware unit in the present struggle. The writer has recently spent a day browsing around in two of our State libraries, and there, preserved in the reports of soldiers, stern in their requirement of duty; brief in recommendation and comment, we find the story of the Delaware regiments of the past—ever making up in excellence what they lacked in number, and earning a responsible position in every fight. Excerpts from the various reports follow:

"The gallant behaviour of the light infantry commanded by Captain Kirkwood * * * * highly merit the approbation of the General and the imitation of the rest of the troops."

General Greene in report of Battle of Guilford.

"Though few armies ever exhibited equal bravery with ours in general, yet the conduct and intrepidity of these Delaware troops were peculiarly conspicuous."

General Greene in report
to President of Congress

"The company of Delawares under Kirkwood (to whom none could be superior").

Memoirs of Henry Lee.

General Greene's especial eulogy of the Delaware soldiers made on the way north after the war:

'They exceed all soldiers I have ever seen; they can fight all day and dance all night.'"

"The light infantry under Captain Kirkwood were returned many thanks by General Greene for their gallant behavior."

William Seymour, sergeant major Delaware Regiment.

"The Delaware Regiment was reckoned the most effectient in the Continental army. It went into active service soon after the commencement of the contest with Great Britian and served through the whole of it. Courting danger wherever it was to be encountered, frequently forming part of a victorious army; but oftener the companions of their countrymen in disaster, * * * * they concluded their services with the glorious southern campaign."

United States.

OBSERVE FOOD SAVING DAY

Mobolize to prevent waste! is the call that goes out from Herbert Hoover, to every resident of the land. And Sunday, July first, has been named as a special "Food Saving Day." Every minister has been asked to refer to the need of conservation in his sermon; every churchman is asked to be in his pew to hear the patriotic message. The American people, collectively and individually, must face the duty of increasing the world's food supply with the same seriousness that they face the military situation. Farmers have already responded with increased acreage; hundreds of thousands of little plots, for years undisturbed by plow share, are under cultivation. Now the appeal comes to the consumer—the housewife, the family.

According to the Times Annalist the American people are in the habit of wasting $700,000,000 worth of food in a year. Nothing short of a rationing system, perhaps, like that of Germany, can wipe out this waste entirely, but much may be accomplished by such a campaign as that undertaken by Mr. Hoover. Every patiot will heed his message and lend the work his personal support.

ANNIVERSARY SALE NOW ON

Braunstein's Observe Third Birthday

It does not require a great stretch of the imagination for one to remember when the firm of Braunstein and Company first opened a store in Delaware. It was just three years ago that this infant prodigy was launched in Wilmington, and already it has grown into one of the largest stores in the community as well as one of the largest in the country dealing exclusively in women's and children's ready-made wearing apparel.

The firm of Braunstein and Company has shown what up-to-date and enterprising merchants may do in Wilmington. They opened a store at 612 Market Street. Soon the public learned that the display in the Braunstein window presented the most approved in feminine wearing apparel, and the store grew into popularity by leaps and bounds. Now it is a recognized fashion house, and one that feminine buyers in the entire Delmarvia peninsula would part with reluctantly. Each year has brought to the store increasing success and enlarged patronage. Recently the store has been remodeled and the enlarged store place makes the display doubly attractive.

This week Braunsteins are celebrating their third anniversary by a great sale which extends to every department of the store. While the Wilmington branch of the company is but three years old, the firm has back of it thirty years buying experience gained at their stores in Atlantic City, and Scranton. Perhaps no city the size of Wilmington has such a complete store as Braunstein's, and still the managers of the firm are not satisfied. They mean to grow and to branch out so that women shoppers will have no excuse for going elsewhere.

The anniversary sale now in progress is called an economy sale. Braunstein's are pleased with their success and they want the public to enjoy a certain share of it. Goods are marked at money-saving prices and early shoppers will find many money-saving values.

PRESSING BY STEAM

Interesting Operation At The Sol Wilson Quality Shop

Sol Wilson, Newark's up-to-date tailor, has this week installed a "Standard" pressing machine, which places the local shop in the ranks with best equipped shops in the country. The new machine brings a pressure of 700 to 800 pounds on the garment, and quickly converts a soiled and wrinkled coat into a neat and trim bit of wearing apparel. The article to be pressed is placed on a form probably four feet in length, covered with canvas. A lever is turned and steam comes up from underneath if desired; a second lever causes the steam to come from above; or again the dust and dirt may be drawn out by a vacium attachment. Always there is a uniform distribution of team before the huge iron clamps down and leaves the garment wrinkleless. The work, by the new method, is accomplished much more quickly, and is bound to please the most fastidious customer.

Card Of Thanks

The family of J. W. Chambers wishes to thank friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the recent illness of Mrs. Chambers, who is now convalescent after a serious case of pneumonia.

DELAWARE WOMEN PLEDGE SUPPORT

Federation Affiliates With Committee On National Defense

The annual meeting of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs, in session at Rehoboth last week, came to a close on Saturday. How woman may help in the national crisis was the theme of the big convention, speaker after speaker pledging support of the administration and the allegiance of the clubwomen of Delaware.

Mrs. A. D. Warner, representative on the General Federation Board, reported the meeting held in New Orleans, last April when the women from all parts of the United States put aside the usual order of business, and prepared a plan of service by which organized womanhood might best help the nation. The plan indorsed by the national body includes co-operation with the Red Cross; the organization of emergency service clubs which pledge members to a special effort to conserve all materials and waste nothing; a resolution urging national prohibition, and one appealing to the War Department to remove the moral dangers surrounding the military camps. A national defense league of women was also reported with Dr. Mary Shaw at the head of the movement. The following telegram from Dr. Shaw was read: "Mr. Hoover calls upon Women's Committee to get signers for food pledge on July first. Get a committee to get this pledge into the hands of every woman in the State." Ida M. Tarbell, the noted lecturer and journalist, upon her recent visit to Delaware, it was stated by Miss Bissell, urged every woman's organization to come under the Delaware division of Women's department of the National Defense League. Upon motion of Miss Bissell, the Delaware Federation of Women's Clubs voted to affiliate with the Delaware Division of the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense. Women's Part in the World War was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Victor duPont.

An interesting feature of the session was the conference on civics and health, led by Mrs. S. S. Deemer, of New Castle. Mrs. Deemer at this meeting paid tribute to J. B. Hutton, whose work on the bill for the feeble minded, resulted in the unanimous passage of the bill by the last Legislature.

Miss Bissell reported the progress of Red Cross work, referring to the splendid returns from Red Cross week. "Everywhere people are giving, in time and money," she said. Seaford factory girls have promised to make 300 pajamas free of charge. Over 1000 sweaters, scarfs, and mufflers have been knitted for the Navy League by Delaware women. Miss Bissell requested the women to knit old wool, with number 3 needles into squares 6 1-2 inches, for Red Cross blankets.

A conservation congress, under the direction of Mrs. R. T. Cann, was held in the M. E. church. Miss Elizabeth Jefferson, extension worker of the Women's College, spoke of saving food by avoiding a duplication of foods. "When using cheap foods," she said, "it is well to know food values, so as not to cheat the system of some needed nourishment which is supplied by a higher priced food. Cheese and cottage cheese are good food substitutes. A knowledge of cooking is necessary if we are to make the cheaper foods appetizing. Miss Jefferson urged a study of the use of left over food, and spoke of the importance of preserving the surplus of fruit and vegetables. "Can everything canable," she said, "even if in the smallest quantities.

Dean Robinson of the Women's College, reported for Miss Rich, of the Arts and Crafts, the success of the circulating picture library. The pictures have been catalogued and printed; a student is in charge of the collection. One thousand nine hundred and ninety-six have been circulated and used by sixty teachers. Geographical pictures are needed, it was reported and also descriptive geographical reading matter. Delaware is the only State in the Union that has a circulating picture library belonging to the Women's Clubs, and housed in a State College.

The treasurer of the Federation reported $1,211 for the Student's Loan Fund of the Women's College.

At an executive meeting held during the afternoon it was decided to set aside the election of officers in order to make it fall hereafter at the time of the General Federation election. The old officers were continued, the resignation of Mrs. William M. Field, of Wilmington, resulting in the election of the only new officer, Mrs. O. Curtis Purdy, as third vice-president. Miss M. V. Caudell, of the Women's College, was elected chairman of the home economics department; Miss Grace Baadenkoff, chairman of reciprocity; Mrs. W. A. Powell, president, delegate to the council of National Defense.

Resolutions were adopted pledging support to the President and to work for safeguarding the army, favoring prohibition, indorsing the college loan fund; recommending April 3, John Burroughs' birthday anniversary, as Bird Day; suggesting the mountain laurel as the national flower, and thanking Rehoboth for its entertainment.

Iron Hill Loses To Middletown

Middletown shut out the Iron Hill nine on Saturday by the score of 9 to 0. The large number of runs scored by Middletown was due to several serious errors on the part of some Iron Hill players. The work of the Iron Hill battery —Slack and Roach—was splendid. Neither one made a wild throw nor an error thruout the game. Joe Slack pitched one of the best games of his career, and if he had received good support from the other players, Middletown would have scored but few runs. While Iron Hill did not fail to connect with Lefty Finn's baffling delivery, the splendid fielding of the Middletown nine prevented any hits from being made.

A large number of Iron Hill fans went to Middletown in automobiles in order to witness the game.

Iron Hill will play Middletown again on July 7, when Captain Slack expects the locals to redeem themselves for their defeat on Saturday. The score:

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. Sarah Maria Barbon

On May 17, 1917, Mrs. Sarah Barbon, of Appleton, Md., was called from earth in her seventy-seventh year, after a brief illness from pneumonia. Mrs. Barbon, the youngest daughter of the late John and Elizabeth Graham, was born near Rowlandville, Md. In 1857 she became the wife of Mr. Thomas Barbon, of Mt. Vernon, Md., who departed this life in 1914. Of their six children, three survive: Mrs. Emery Krauss, of near Andora, Md., Mr. Frank Barbon, of Mt. Vernon, Md., and Mrs. Wm. T. Lofland, of Appleton, with whom Mrs. Barbon resided. Besides her children and grandchildren, to whom she was devoted, many relatives and friends realize a great loss "since she went Home."

In early life she united with West Nottingham Presbyterian Church, and her sterling Christian character has exerted a great influence for good. She was interested in everyone with whom she came in contact, and had a kind word for all. Even during her illness she thought of others rather than herself. Her life was an inspiration to young and old.

Her funeral on Sunday, May 20, was largely attended. Mrs. Barbon loved flowers and enjoyed caring for them; and the floral tributes to her memory were numerous and beautiful.

Services were conducted at her home at Appleton, and also at Harmony, M. P. Chapel, near Rowlandville. Interment was in the family lot there. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Robert Crow, Elwood Zebley, William Cavender, Ellis Brown, John Moore, and Albert Willis.

"Our loved ones, in the Homeland
Are waiting us to come,
Where neither death nor sorrow
Invades their holy Home;
O dear, dear native country;
O rest and peace above!
Christ bring us all to the Homeland
Of His eternal love."

Jubilee Gifts To Pastor

The three days' celebration of the silver jubilee or twenty-five years service in the priesthood of Rev. Father Thomas F. Waldron, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Wilmington, closed last Tuesday night with a parish reception in the Garrick Theatre. Senators Saulsbury and Wolcott delivered addresses, and Father Waldron was presented a purse of upwards of $6,000. The altar boys of the church gave him $25 in silver in honor of his silver jubilee and $25 in gold expressing their wish that he might live to celebrate his golden jubilee and complete 50 years service as a priest. The parochial school pupils gave him $1,000 which they had been collecting for more than a year past. At St. Paul's on Tuesday morning a requiem Mass was said for the repose of the souls of relatives and friends of the pastor who had died since his ordination.

Doesn't that sound refreshing at the end of a hot day? And in this day of conservation and economy who can think of a more economical dessert.
1 quart of cherries

STANDARDIZATION OF OUR RURAL SCHOOLS

State Board Announces Requirements

One of the first of the new schools law to be put into operation is that affecting the Standardization of Rural Schools, the new law providing for Meritorious Recognition and Awards to all schools, neither incorporated, nor consolidated, that attain a certain standard of excellence and efficiency. In compliance with the law, the State Board of Education has this week issued a bulletin setting forth the definite requirements by which the one teacher school may become a Standard School. The list as set forth includes the attainment of certain practical requirements concerning grounds, buildings, equipment, school term, attendance, curriculum, teachers, student and community activities.

Any school district, according to the ruling set forth, may either upon the iniative of the local committee or the teacher, make, once in every year, application to the State Board for recognition as a Standard School, basing their application upon a fulfillment of certain requirements which they believe to entitle them to the necessary number of credits. School districts receiving recognition shall receive as an award the sum of fifty dollars. The schools are also entitled to receive from the State Board of Education a Certificate of Recognition and such plate, banner, or other insignia as the Board shall prescribe.

WELSH LANE

An Invitation To Our Summer Guests

Summer school students who are "hikers" will be glad to know that Welsh Lane, passing their very doors, is the favorite walk of all local hikers. This road starts at the front door of the "Old Dorm" and leads past the Women's College, Red Men's Home, Kells printing shop, Pennsylvania R. R. Station, College Farm, down past the Little White School House to Cooch's Bridge.

No other road, in the short distance of three and a half miles passes so many interesting places in town and suburbs, traverses such an inviting open country, or skirts such pleasant woods along the Christiana Creek.

Surely, there will be no cases of shattered nerves, with this breezy, sunny, inviting road passing the students' doors and luring them on to a brisk or languid stroll—according to the weather.

Welsh Lane, vulgarly called Depot Road, is so named because it leads to and past the Welsh Tract, a grant of land taken up by a company of Welsh people about 1700. The Welsh Tract Meeting House, seen by hikers among its ancient oaks, just at the first curve in the road, was built by these early settlers in 1746. To students of history, the grave stone dated 1707 will be of interest because it marks the place where one of Cromwell's veterans is buried. What an adventurous spirit that was! As a young man he fought thru the Civil Wars in England, and then in his old age he undertook one last stirring adventure, and came to the new world. Here's for a "hike" down old Welsh Lane in sun or wind or rain—under the open sky!

TELEPHONE PRICES CHANGE

Due to a general revision of the toll rates throughout Pennsylvania, Delaware, and New Jersey, many changes have been announced by the Diamond State Telephone Company affecting the local exchange. The readjustment is the part of the leveling process contemplated for several years by the company. It has been brought to a climax, it is stated, by the recent action of the Public Service Commission in Pennsylvania, necessitating changes in the interstate rates. According to the new rulings the toll to Wilmington advances from .05 to .10; to Philadelphia from .25 to .30; it decreases from Newark to Kennett Square, from .15 to .10; to Landenburg from .10 to .05; to Middletown from .20 to .10. The new system, Mr. Bardo stated in an interview today, is based on the air line mileage between points.
