Student Council Elects Robert Barab New Editor-In-Chief Of 'Blue Hen'

Also Allots "Humanist" Sum For Spring Issue; Spring Frolic Scheduled For April 24th

PROM CONTROL DISCUSSED

At the regular meeting of the Student Council Monday evening, Robert Barab was elected editor-in-chief of the Blue Hen for 1937, to succeed Joseph Perkins, who, because of the press of other activities, presented his resignation at that time. Joshua West, who was selected business manager of the publication, will continue in that capacity.

Barab will be in full charge of editing the yearbook and appointing subordinate editors. A member of the present Junior class, he is captain of the debating team, a member of the Apprentice Players, the literary board of The Humanist, the Humanist Society, and the Sigma Tau Phi fraternity. He is a graduate of Wilmington High School.

The Council also authorized the allotting of $200.00 to The Humanist for financing of a Spring issue. Edward Davidson, editor of the magazine, informed the Council that because of experience with the fall issue and discovery of new talent, he can assure the students

Dr. Sypherd To Present Music Poems Of Browning

Readings To Be Accompanied By Organ, Flute, and Piano Renditions

A most unusual program has been arranged for the evening of Monday, March 16, at the University of Delaware. So far as is known, no program of this nature has ever been given anywhere.

The program is entitled, "An Evening of Poetry and Music with Robert Browning," and has been arranged by Dr. W. O. Sypherd, head of the English Department, who has been teaching Browning for the last fifteen years, and has been a student of the Victorian poet for many more years. Dr. Sypherd has selected for this program Browning's music poems, including such famous ones as "A Toccata of Galuppi's," "Master Hugues of Saxe-Gotha," and "Abt Volger."

The uniqueness of the program

E 52 To Offer Dr. Kase's Version Of Ibsen's Peer Gynt

Extra Large Cast And Staffs Needed For This Production; Dancers And Singers Wanted

With the beginning of March, work begins officially on "Peer Gynt," that masterpiece of modern drama which has been selected by the E 52 Players at the University of Delaware for production on April 30 and May 1. Much work has already been done on the play. Gordon Chesser has most of his designs ready for the sets. Firmin Swinnen is working out the musical arrangements. C. R. Kase, who will direct the play, has completed cutting down the script to an actable version, especially for the use of the Players.

On Tuesday afternoon of this week the members of the Players met to discuss general plans for the organization of the production and promotion of the play. On Thursday try-outs for both cast and staff will be held. A larger staff and cast will be used for this presentation than was ever before used in any production at the University, with the exception of the Centenary Pageant. The organization in charge of the production will on the whole be the same as that which functioned so effectively in the presentation of "Hell Bent Fer Heaven" in December. Assisting the director will be Mary Loiuse Wolfenden and Bette McKelvey. Stage manager will be Gordon Chesser; Business Manager, Charlotte Stout; Costumes, Dorothy Ramsey; Scenery, Elizabeth Armstrong; Properties, Daniel

'Squaring The Circle' Success Thursday Night

E 52 Performers, Led By Mary Louise Wolfenden And Irvin Malcolm, Delight Audience

By J. H. P.

A successful attempt was made Thursday evening by the Footlights Club to perform a comedy, a type of drama too rarely produced by Delaware theatrical groups. The play, "Squaring the Circle," by Valentine Katayev, presented a humorously satirical interpretation of the modern Russian marriage

Coach Clark

Lack of facilities force him to disband plans for building up strong 1936 football machine.

Clark Cancels Spring Football Practice Plans

Lack Of Dressing And Field Space Forces Coach To Forego Announced Workouts; Signal Drill For Newcomers

SPRING TEAMS NEED LOCKERS

No Spring football practice will be held this year, according to Coach Lyal Clark.

Insufficient locker space to accommodate the extra-season grid-iron maneuvers was given by Clark as the chief reason for the cancellation of his plans. The track and baseball squads, occupying the locker room at the time for which Spring football workouts were scheduled, require all available space in the small basement of Taylor Gymnasium.

Coach Clark also stated that it would be extremely difficult to hold practice sessions on Frazer Field during the track and baseball season, because of the limited acreage of the sports area.

Several days of light signal drill may be given to new candidates for the grid team in the near future, Clark continued, but no intensive official practice of any sort will be held at Delaware this Spring.

The Athletic Council, in its original affirmation of Spring practice, stipulated that there was to

Phi Kappa Phi And Tau Beta Pi Make Fifty-Two Men And Women Members

Honorary Society Elects Twenty-Six New Members

Delaware And Women's College Students, Two Faculty Members, Join Phi Kappa Phi

Last week twenty-six students from the men's and women's colleges of the University of Delaware were elected to the Phi Kappa Phi, the honorary scholastic society. This figure included twelve from W. C. D., and fourteen from Delaware College.

Two members of the University faculty were also elected to the Phi Kappa Phi. They were Dean Robert L. Spencer, of the Engineering School, and Dr. Ned Bliss Allen, Associate Professor of English.

The formal initiation and banquet will take place in the near future. The officers of the local chapter are Dr. Q. C. Drake, president; Dr. A. S. Eastman, vice-president; Prof. R. W. Heim, secretary-treasurer; Prof. R. W. Jones, corresponding secretary.

The honored students, in order of their scholastic standing, from Delaware are: James J. Hallett, Jr., Francis H. Dineen, Joseph Stuart, Alvin I. Handloff, John A. Munroe, Robert E. Ledley, Earl D. Krapf, Harry M. First, John W. Beatty, William J. Mearns, Carl Bleiberg, Roger B. Thomas, Harry E. Algard, and William Baldwin.

From W. C. D. the honored students are: Harriett A. Nivin, Martha B. Mason, Adelaide A. Ford, Alice A. Breme, Rachel Phelps, Deborah A. Plummer, Hazel H. Darrell, Margaret E. James, Helen M. Dutter, Anne E. Wigglesworth, Louisa A. Hellen, and Erika M. Sammeth, who is the German foreign exchange student.

Debaters Meet Rutgers At Kearney High School

Scannell, Seitz, And Andre Uphold Negative Of "State Medicine;" Debate With Conventional Method

Three members of the debating team, Joseph Scannell, Jean André, and Collins Seitz, travelled to Kearney, N. J., for a debate with Rutgers University of New Brunswick, N. J., leaving Newark this morning (Wednesday) at 8.00. Delaware upheld the negative of the subject, "Resolved: that the several states should provide for uniform medical care at public expense." The group was accompanied by Robert Barab, captain of the team, and Robert Christie, assistant manager.

For the first time this season, the debate was conducted on the conventional system of three constructive speeches and one rebuttal for each team. Though this system is satisfactory, the remaining matches, with Vermont and California, will use the Oregon Plan, which has been found more interesting and exciting for both the debaters and the audience.

The teams will meet at Kearney rather than New Brunswick because Rutgers has been giving its home debates at surrounding High Schools in order to interest High

Engineering Fraternity Announces New Members

March 14th Set For Initiation Of Twenty-Five Outstanding Engineers Into Tau Beta Pi

The Delaware Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Pi, national engineering fraternity, has announced that it will initiate twenty-five new members on March 14. Included in this group are many of the more prominent engineers of the East, a student, and a member of the instruction staff of the Delaware University.

The Delaware Alpha Chapter is pursuing a policy of taking in Delaware graduates of each year preceding which ends with the same digit as does the present year. These men are those who would have fulfilled the requirements of Tau Beta Pi had there been a chapter here at that time. In addition, undergraduate Juniors from the upper eighth of the class, and Seniors from the upper quarter are taken in.

The following men are those selected for this honor:

George Spiller Elected 'Humanist' Business Head

Resignation Of Joseph Scannell Accepted; Council Allots Two Hundred Dollars

At the Monday, March 2, meeting of the Student Council, The Humanist, Delaware College literary magazine, was voted an appropriation of $200 for the publication of its Spring issue, which will appear on May 15.

On Tuesday, March 3, a committee composed of Dr. Day, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Publications, Jack Hartmann, president of the Student Council, Edward Davidson, present editor of The Humanist, and Joseph Scannell, resigned business manager of The Humanist, selected George Spiller to succeed Mr. Scannell. The selection of an assistant business manager was deferred to enable the committee to more carefully judge the qualities of the several applicants.

George Spiller is well qualified for the business managership of The Humanist, having held a similar position for the past year on THE REVIEW which showed a

Du Pont Engineer To Address A. S. M. E. Mar. 10

Mr. Bailey of the Du Pont Co., will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the A. S. M. E. to be held at 7.30 p. m, on March 10 in Room 308, Evans Hall.

His topic, which is of especial interest to Economics students, will be "Wage Incentive Application in the Process Industries." It has been particularly emphasized that all college students will be perfectly welcome to this meeting.

Jack Hartmann is program chairman of the Club, with Professor Blumberg as faculty adviser. Joseph Stuart, III, is the president of the organization.

Perkins Injured

Joseph H. Perkins, Jr., newly-elected Editor-in-Chief of THE REVIEW, was prevented from putting out the first issue of his regime when he was struck by an automobile late Tuesday afternoon. The editor was doing the chores of a lowly copy-boy in running some news stories down to Kells on his bicycle when he met with the accident. Perkins is confined to the Flower Hospital with minor bruises.

Former Managing Editor Carl Bleiberg came out of his retirement to edit this week's REVIEW.

'Military Court' 'Prosecuting' Jos. Tannen For Allowing 'War Prisoner' To Escape

"I'll send him to the chair," roared First Lieutenant Malcolm.

"It's an open and shut case—my client will go scot free," flung back Second Lieutenant Bleiberg.

These are the pre-trial forecasts given by the prosecuting attorney and defense counsel, respectively, of the court martial which is to start this Friday at Mechanical Hall in the fourth period. Joseph Tannen is the defendant, being charged with violating the 73rd Article of War, which implies that neglect while guarding a prisoner is a punishable offense. Tannen was supposed to have permitted a prisoner of war, Charles Gouert, to escape.

Malcolm, the prosecutor, is assisted by Daniel Medill, while Bleiberg, the defense counsel, is assisted by Pinkus Sandler. Charles Witsel is president of the court, and Albert Adams is law-member.

All of the members of the Senior Military class are taking part in the trial which will be held starting this Friday, and continuing the following Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The trial is open for students to sit in.

EDITORIALS

With this issue, a new administration takes charge of THE REVIEW. We intend to pursue the liberal and progressive policy so effectively followed by our predecessors in office and pledge ourselves sincerely to try to increase the great number of improvements for which previous administrations of THE REVIEW have been fundamentally responsible.

We shall endeavor at all times to crusade in a logical and educational manner, to present our arguments always in a cool, reasoned, and unbiased style; it will be our constant desire to offer facts and viewpoints with which we feel our readers might be unacquainted, and to present our opinions devoid of emotion or selfish interests.

REFORMS IN RUSHING

The Interfraternity Council has announced its intention of reforming the present system of rushing and pledging Freshmen. If it succeeds in its endeavor to give the Freshmen a fair deal, the Council will have rendered a valuable service to our college community.

By hastily joining a fraternity under the bewildering strain of high-pressure salesmanship, unsportsmanlike coercion, and misleading propaganda, all of which are possible at present, the Freshman is likely to select a house which, when he later becomes acquainted with it, he may regret having joined. He may, furthermore, discover that he would prefer being a member of another fraternity, instead of the one to which he has pledged.

The Freshman who joins a fraternity and, after finding out that he was misled during the turmoil of the brief rushing period, can do either of two things; he can resign, or he can grin and bear it. Once he has joined one fraternity, he cannot transfer his membership to another in which he thinks he would be more satisfied.

In 1928 a "delayed" system of rushing was introduced. It was designed to allow the Freshman a month after entering college to appraise the various fraternity groups, so that he might have already a foundation for final judgment in rushing week. But because, the Freshman is permitted neither to enter the houses nor to obtain information about them from members, the innovation cannot be termed a Utopian plan.

It has been suggested that the rushing period be extended; one week, many believe, is not nearly enough time for the Freshman to examine in a rational manner the comparative merits of the six fraternities. THE REVIEW is certain that the Interfraternity Council will make a serious error if it fails to give that suggestion scrupulous examination.

DEATH OF DECORUM AT THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

Down there, old Henry Harper, dean of the graduate school, for years has preserved his vigorous independence of thought and dress, despite the standardizing influence of the campus, which universally tends to make professors dress with decorum, behave quietly, write few letters-to-the-editor.

The dean has always worn a blood-red tie, which lies across his throat like a scarlet butterfly alight upon a cactus.

Recently the dean and his ties received national recognition when the dean sent one of them as a Christmas present to O. O. McIntyre, the New York columnist whose own sartorial aberrations are well known.

The color of the tie, said Odd, "is based on the oxyhemoglobin of the red blood cells in human arterial blood."

Students have many stories about the Dean and his tie. Some say he began wearing them in memory of a beautiful lady in red who flitted across his horizon some years ago. The dean, however, says he wears them just because he likes them.

Cheer note, to be read to your little brothers and sisters:

It's quite all right if they don't like to practice at the piano for their regular half hour a day.

Prof. Carlyle Scott, head of the music department at the University of Minnesota says it's quite all right. In fact, Mr. Scott broke down and confessed to a reporter that when he was a youngster he used to set the clock ahead and climb out the window.

"Of course, I don't intend to refuse the money when it comes, but I don't think I'm really entitled to it." Prof. Donald Gates of St. Thomas College offers original comment on the bonus payment.

"The compulsory loyalty oath for teachers is a symptom of 'national nervousness'." Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the Association of American Colleges, fondles the nation's pulse.

"At 17, many high school and preparatory school students are sufficiently mature to enter college." Harvard's Dean of Freshmen, Delmar Leighton, would lower the legal limit.

"People will learn better how to live, how to accomplish their purposes with less friction and more efficiency." Dr. William O. Hotchkiss of Rensselaer Polytech envisions happy days for the next generation.

Slim Says:

The "King of Swat" is Babe Ruth to nearly everyone except the Sig Ep Pledges; and to Carpenter, he is Dillon.

Leap Year Dates

Nine Seniors from Women's College reversed the usual situation last Saturday night when they escorted boys for an evening's entertainment.

The girls first made a date with a campus hero, then called for him at the various fraternity houses with a posie in their hands—boutonniere to you, Bleiberg. The whole crowd, eighteen strong, stopped at the Goodie Shop for refreshments before going to the Grill, the stopping-off place for the evening.

The entrance into the Hotel must have been funny: One girl escorting two boys into the lobby to sit and wait for the other girl who was parking the car. The girl walked on the outside (nearest the curb) and offered her arm for the boy.

At the Grill a couple of the boys took a long awaited-for advantage. One said, "Scotch and Soda" to the waiter whenever he passed the table; another compromised from imported champagne to the same dose of domestic vintage. Much fun!

The war debt was $34—a staggering sum for any nine cut-uppish men or women.

A You-Name-It-Yourself-Gesture

I was recently told of this story. A girl just out of high school got a job working in an office, and not with Alfred P. Sloan's salary. She worked for one month and got her first pay check. To her mother she gave one-fifth of that first pay check with a message that the money was to be spent only by, only for, and only on her mother. I wonder how many of us would have rather painted the town red?

The Innocent Victim

I was almost the victim of the Fossett Brothers Hoax. The sum and substance was that Jack and Len were to play a one hundred point pool match with immense bets on both sides. I had my money on Jack, the better player, who was going to lie down and let Len beat him, thus taking my money and another chump's. However, too many outside people got in on the bet and it had to be cancelled. I am not sorry.

I stopped in at the Fencing Meet for a short time the other day. I undoubtedly need education in the fine art of fencing because I found the exhibition none too interesting; while others present (mainly the fencers) seemed to be deeply engrossed in the goings-on.

A Prediction

Not only loyalty but also a premonition that the K. A. Team is in for a bit of tough sledding, enables me to predict that the S. P. E.'s are going to win the basketball trophy—the inspired playing of the O. X.'s notwithstanding.

Personal

I wish that Irv Malcolm would notice the spelling of Mr. Kiddoo's name . . . M. James and J. Hallett make Phi Kappa Phi—I always thought that opposites attracted each other . . . Nearly half of the Psy 204 class absent the morning after the Prom . . . and Dr. Crooks kept the only member of a class who showed up the morning after the Prom . . . J. Stuart, III, leads Dineen by one-hundredth of a point—too close to argue over . . . Ed Thompson in a rôle as student instructor of boxing really scared some of the boys who had to be in the ring on the defensive for one minute against him . . . What funny rumors around about a dancing latin not going to the Prom! . . . The Sigma Nu Formal with Doc Hyder this Friday night officially opens the social season.

By Harry T. Stutman

A year or so ago there was raised in this good land of ours a great furore over a Book. This Book, James Joyce's Ulysses, became the object of much discussion and persecution by various groups who would protect our morals. The usual charges were of course that the book was "vulgar, obscene, lewd, aphrodisiac, and bad for people." "People," in this case, meaning you and me, because, strangely enough, while the United States Post Office Department in 1922 burned five hundred copies, and did not permit it to enter the country until the ban was lifted in 1934, the manuscript itself was sold here in 1924 for $1975, and I, if memory serves, read it in 1933. True, the edition was relatively expensive, having set back the fellow who loaned it to me about forty dollars, which was quite reasonable, considering.

And there you have the whole point of censorship. Censorship as it exists today, is applicable only to the "masses," those of moderate means. There are numerous instances on record where expensive, foreign-language editions of Burton's Arabian Nights (incidentally the translation worth the time), were allowed entrance while cheaper, English versions of the same were kept out. Evidently the ability to read French must protect one from the evil influences which this vicious literature is supposed to create.

Ulysses is now required reading in many universities.

There is no time to go into this monumental work now, nor is this the place, but there'll come a day.

All this is a round-about way of getting to a Book, this time Banned Books, by A. L. Haight, a list of books compiled from an exhibition held at the Junior League of the City of New York, April 24, 1935. This exhibit included banned books all the way from Homer's Odyssey, first attacked in 387 B. C., down to Lady Macbeth of Mensk, the Soviet Opera which so shocked certain ladies at its Philadelphia opening.

It is interesting to note the remarks on the latter from different sources.

"Philadelphia Daily News, Saturday, April 6, 1935: Some obscene trombone notes so shocked certain ladies at the opening of Shostakoviteh's opera that a large number walked out. As the first trombone player refused to play the notes, a substitute did so."

"Russia-Moscow: A capacity audience, including Americans, made demonstrations on the rise of each curtain. . . . The opera seems destined to become the first Soviet classic. . . . The music is considered here rich in dramatic and social psychological content. The foreign audience was deeply impressed."

So there you are.

Blue & Gold Quintet Bows To St. Joseph's To Complete Season

Hens Crushed In Final Match By 57-40 Score After Fast Game

Superior Passing Attack Gains Win For Opposing Five On Newark Floor

The Blue Hen quintet closed the basketball season last night by going down to defeat at the hands of a superior St. Joseph's five, 57-40. Three wins mark Delaware's achievements for this year's campaign.

Delaware's squad was outclassed all of the way and was defeated by superior passing. McMenamin and Smale, forwards, were high scorers for the opposing team with 21 and 13 points respectively. Bruce Lindsay with 11 and Pennock with 10 markers led the scoring for the home team.

Guokas, star center of the St. Joseph's squad, was held to three field goals and two penalty conversions for a total of 8 points.

A 30-15 lead at half time assured St. Joseph's of a victory, although the Blue and Gold showed the fighting spirit in the latter period to evenly match the visiting team.

Blue And Gold Fencers Conquer St. Johns

Final Sweep In Sabre Matches Decides Outcome Of Close Match At Newark

In a closely contested meet, the University of Delaware fencing team defeated St. John's College of Annapolis last Friday afternoon by the score of 9½ to 7½. It was in the sabre events that the Delaware team came through to take the contest. All four of these bouts were taken—and needed—to give the winning margin.

In the foils, Emerson was the leading scorer for Delaware, winning two of his three bouts. Murray and Kozinski accounted for the other two Delaware wins. Levin was the leading scorer for the visitors, taking both of his foil bouts.

One of those rare tie scores again occurred during the epee events for the second time this season. Milstead and Vapaa made two double touches to end the bout at 3 to 3, after each had previously scored a point each.

It is interesting to note that scores of 5 to 4 decided the last three sabre matches. Owings, a new man this year, and Vapaa were the winners with this weapon.

Next Thursday afternoon, the Delaware team will fence Haverford away. The next home meet will be with Temple University at 2.00 p. m. on Saturday, March 14th.

Blue Hen Mermen Win Over Johns Hopkins

Meet Swarthmore Friday To Complete Successful And Record Breaking Season

Last Friday night the University of Delaware's swimming team again demonstrated its superiority by soundly trouncing Johns Hopkins' swimmers 52-16. Bardo's men annexed every first place with matchless ease. Co-Captain Croes romped off with the backstroke in the record time of 1:49.8.

Marty Howard, ace freestyle, was a double winner in the meet, taking firsts in the 50 and 100.

Next Saturday the team will meet Swarthmore in the home tank. The meet will probably result in a win for the Blue Hen Mermen. With such a fine season behind them they have a fine chance of showing up well in the Collegiates in New York, March 14. Pitt and F. & M. have been Delaware's only conquerors.

Summaries:

With The Blue And Gold

By D. L. Sloan

Early in the term, Spring football practice was the topic of conversation. It still is for that matter, but in a different light. Contrary to last week's comment the practice was planned to be less strenuous: eliminating scrimmages, tackling, and the possible practice game. The five-week season was cut to a two or three-week campaign. Why?

* * * *

A misunderstanding between the A. Council and Coach Clark seems to have caused the change in the program. To the A. C., Spring practice meant light workouts and a concentration on the details of plays. To Coach Clark it meant the real thing or perhaps we should say, the usual Spring grind undertaken by most colleges.

* * * *

The A. C., not wishing to undertake the cost of equipment and the expense of possible injuries, put its foot down and the program was cut down and finally . . . . . .

* * * *

Flash! Spring practice abolished! Coach Clark has decided to toss out the entire program and let it fly to the winds. Insufficient locker room is the chief reason for his rash decision—another first rate argument for the direly needed new gymnasium.

* * * *

New candidates will be given several days training on the new shift which Coach Clark is planning to use this coming season. Popular opinion points to the fact that these boys are "hot," but a thermometer in the practice room would indicate the real season.

* * * *

Bill Croes, the "backward" swimmer, came back with true form to capture first place and break his own backstroke record in 1:49.8. His previous record of 1:51 was made last year in the Lafayette meet.

* * * *

We were gazing upon the times made by Rutgers in a recent swimming meet and wondering if our boys could cut the water in a like manner for a grand final victory over Swarthmore College.

* * * *

We understand the boys of the A. C. are going dramatic on us. The play, which will have its premier sometime in March, has a beer parlor scene as well as a prison scene. At this rate we feel sure it will be "barred." Joe Flynn, recently discovered acter will have a leading rôle. He had the "roll" in "Squaring the Circle." Yeh! while the rest had beer.

Rifle Team Completes Unsuccessful Season

Geist Leads In Final Match Of 1936 Campaign; Elected To Captain 1937 Riflemen

Last week Captain Cunningham closed the doors of the rifle range and called a halt to the rifle season. This ended a very unsuccessful season as far as matches were concerned in as much as all were lost. There was, however, great promise shown for better work in the future, all of last year's records being broken. Standing records ending this year are as follows:

Leach—prone, 99; sitting, 94. Hoadley—kneeling, 99. Hoffecker—standing, 82.

Members of the team are making an effort to lengthen practice and the season in order to further the experience and aid in putting the team in the win column. It is not probable that such an extension will be made as it is necessary to have an instructor on the range during practice. Major Dutton has not and probably will not warrent such a thing for more than the usual three month period.

The results of the Randolph-Hearst trophy match have not been received, but the Blue Hen individual standings for the match are as follows:

	Prone	Sitting	Kneeling	Standing	Total
Geist	46	45	41	36	168
Leach	48	46	39	15	148
Hoadley	48	46	41	32	167
Page	45	47	39	27	158
Hoffecker	48	47	27	19	141

Geist was recently elected to captain next year's squad. His work and winning scores have warranted this election held last week.

"Assets in the making"

THE work of Bell Telephone Laboratories might well be called "assets in the making." It deals with many problems whose solution will be of great future value to telephone users.

The truth of this statement is indicated by improvements already developed and now in daily use. The convenient handset telephone, the dial system, new magnetic alloys, overseas and ship-to-shore radio telephony are just a few examples.

Today more than 4000 men and women are carrying on this work to make tomorrow's telephone service still better.

Why not telephone home at least once each week? For lowest rates to most points, call station-to-station after 7 P. M. daily, or any time Sunday.

The campus fairly buzzes with activities. Club meetings, swimming practices, plans for dances—the spring "season" has really begun. And every year it seems to get busier and busier with seemingly less time to do less things in. Spring fever is unheard of here—except maybe in the case of lessons. And the prospects of the coming dances, luncheons, teas, picnics and hikes make these grey days seem brighter for us all.

Matins were held in the Hilarium at 9.45 Sunday morning, March 1. Janet Grubb was the speaker.

On Monday at 12.30 Chapel was held in the chapel, Science Hall.

Glee Club met as usual at 4.10 Monday in the Music Building.

On Tuesday, March 3, at 11.35 there was a student meeting in the chapel. Directly after the general student meeting, there was a Senior meeting.

At 4.10 the E 52 Club held a meeting in Mitchell Hall to make plans for "Peer Gynt."

The Home Economics Club gave a Fashion Show in the Hilarium at 7.15.

Forum is planning a series of Cabinet meetings at which there will be discussions on neutrality. Dorothy Ramsey is chairman of these meetings and Lillian Spinken, Martha Trippe and Marion Ableman are assisting her.

The Freshmen are "simply agog" with hopes for good weather this week-end. And no wonder they do not want rain, snow, hail, or ice! Their real event of the year—the Freshman Formal—is this Saturday night, March 7. It will be held at Old College, as has been the custom at W. C. D. Sue Millen is chairman of the dance. Assisting her are:

Sue Wooten, chairman of favors; Madaline Pizor, Fern Wilson, Helen Gardes, Peg Hogan.

Myra Smith, chairman of orchestra; Alice Stubbs, Jeanne Williams, Jane Hall, Christine Powell.

Janet Grubb, chairman of decorations; M. Frances Thompson, Hester Smith, Barbara Morrell.

Louise Stayton, chairman of business; Jean Chambers, Martha Ziebutski.

Grace Kwick, chairman of invitation committee; Dot Crozier, Ann Boyce.

Horace Gross Creates Convenient Electric Valet To Ease Daily Burden

Horace Gross, a Philadelphia freshman student in the University of Delaware School of Engineering, believes in making his room in the dormitories as comfortable as possible.

He has made a device which has solved the problem of arising on a cold morning to close the window and turn on the heat. The apparatus not only does this, but also turns on the radio which serves as an alarm clock and he and his room mate are awakened to the strains of a phonograph recording. This device was created from an old electric motor and an alarm clock, picked up from a junk heap, and a mouse trap.

Clock Starts Device

When the clock reaches the time set, a contact is formed which starts an electric motor which turns on the heat. At the same time, an electric magnet, taken from an old door bell, causes the mouse trap to spring and releases a pin holding up the window from which the sash weights have been removed. The window can do nothing else except close. Simultaneously, as the window shuts and the heat is turned on, the radio begins playing. When the heat is turned on so far, a switch is automatically tripped which turns off everything except the radio.

He has also attached to his radio a device which will turn it on at any desired time. If he wishes to go to bed early and would like to hear a program that does not come on until 12 o'clock, he sets his time clock and is awakened by the desired orchestra. The radio shuts off automatically when the program is finished.

Among other of his interesting devices is one which will change the dial of his radio to any desired station simply by waving his hand. This is accomplished by means of a photo-electric cell across the top of the desk and a device attached to the radio. When the beam of light is cut, the dial turns to one of a series of stations which in turn may be reached by simply cutting the beam with the hand.

Horace, who is 19 years old, built his first radio when he was ten and since then electrical work has been his hobby.

Men's and Women's Glee Clubs To Give Joint Recital

Plans are being made to hold a joint concert of the Delaware College and Women's College Glee Clubs on May 20th. Dean Winifred Robinson of Women's College, Miss Helen Russell, head of the Women's College Music Department, Dr. George Ryden, head of the Department of History and Political Sciences, and Mr. Theodore Mylrea, director of the Glee Club, and head of the Civil Engineering School, will meet together to discuss the plans. It is also hoped that an operetta will be given by the two choruses sometime next spring.

All members who do not have enough interest to attend rehearsals of the Delaware Glee Club will be dropped from the organization.

P. M. C. Barely Noses Delaware, 31-28

Delaware's last minute rally fell short last week as the Pennsylvania Military College basketball team defeated the Blue Hens by a score of 31-28. P. M. C. led by six points at the half but this was gradually cut down to a one point lead. Just as the game ended, Malinski scored a field goal to put them in the lead by three points.

This was the second defeat at the hands of the cadets for the Delaware squad but both games have been very close.

Malinski of P. M. C. and Lew Carey of Delaware were deadlocked for scoring honors with nine points apiece.

Washington College Defeats Blue Hens, 47-31

Washington College defeated the Delaware five by a score of 49-32. In a game held last week, the Washington College team was defeated by the Blue Hens by a score of 47-31.

The game was very rough, being marked by a great number of fouls and three of the Delaware team were banished from the game with four personals.

The high scorer of the game was Zebrowski of Washington College, who had a total of 17 points. Carey and Pennock tied for high for Delaware with eight points apiece.

system, in which true love is dominated by the more rational elements of economics and political solidarity.

The entire cast displayed consistently agreeable talent throughout most of the performance, but Mary Louise Wolfenden, by merit of natural and appealing characterization of Tonya, was in the opinion of your reviewer considerably more worthy of prolonged applause than was any other individual participating in the production. Irvin Malcolm, our choice for the secondary honors, unfortunately was relegated to a relatively inferior position in the casting and in a few lines created doubt as to whether he was consistently in character. But his rendition of extemporaneous poetry and sympathetic portrayal of a peace-maker in matrimonial problems elicited from the audience well deserved waves of spontaneous applause.

The stage was fittingly arranged by Gordon Chesser and his staff. Delaware drama enthusiasts, including of course your commentator, were again pleasantly impressed by the maintenance of high standards in the construction of stage settings in the Mitchell Hall auditorium. T. Willey Keithley not only directed the production in its entirety, but also executed the rôle of Flavius, a subordinated Soviet official, with his usual commendable ability.

A comparatively inexperienced duo of masculine thespians, Jimmy Carpenter and Blair Ely, gave effective and sincere, if spasmodically spotty, characterizations of Vasya and Abram, respectively, two husbands around whose matrimonial misadventures the plot is woven. Though it was a minor defect, both players tended at times to express their lines with slightly less than a commendable degree of naturalness, but taken as complete performances, their acting was clearly undeserving of aught but praise.

Bette McKelvey, while obscured to a certain extent by the more auspicious rôle so notably performed by Miss Wolfenden, with whom she shared the feminine lead, presented a steady and confident characterization of Ludmilla, a coquettish and satiatingly babyish young lady with tastes and attitudes more suitable to an aristocrat than a Russian worker of the present era. The distinction between the two feminine characters, however, added a keynote to the subtle and by no means forceful satirical vein of the play.

E 52 To Offer Dr. Kase's Version of Ibsen's Peer Gynt

Medill; Lighting, Wilmer K. Benson; Make-up, Margaret Waples; Publicity, Mary Louise Wolfenden; Prompter, Marion Ableman.

This is the second and last call for the try-outs for cast and staff of "Peer Gynt" on Thursday, March 5, from 3 to 5.30 and from 7 to 8, in Mitchell Hall.

For this production the Players will need a larger staff and cast than they have ever needed for any previous production. There will be a greater opportunity than usual to obtain staff positions. Membership in the Players is awarded solely on the basis of work done on the cast or staff of plays by the E 52 Players. The heads of the various staffs are selected from the members of the committees who show the most promise.

Special opportunities will be offered in this production for dancers and singers, copy-writers, poster painters who can do lettering, artists, stage hands, and students capable of promoting the sale of tickets.

Things I Knew You Didn't

By D. K.

Most of us have been kicking about College Hours. Why not hold amateur shows at College Hour, with all of our talented students and profs participating? Think it over.

Everybody was so "het up" about the Junior Prom that they didn't bother about going to see the Footlighters' extremely ad-libbed play "Squaring the Circle."

Soon the track team will start practice and our Olympiad hero Joe Perkins, the man who broke about four records last season and who earned his letter seven-fold, will train to shatter all human records. (Personally we don't think he's so hot, but you know, we've got to keep our jobs. Don't tell him I said this.)

The fencing team should be given courses in law, and diplomatic ethics, before they face such strenuous verbal opposition of some of the invading fencers-lawyers, who really know how to judge.

The information obtained from certain college surveys includes the average number of hairs in a frat boy's eyebrow, and number of years it takes the average banker's son to graduate.

With McCord and Preston playing catch in front of the A. C. it looks like good old baseball season will soon be here.

George Washington was awarded a degree by Harvard because he rid Boston of the British.

History Teachers To Meet At Delaware University

Plans are being matured for the holding of the spring meeting of the Middle Atlantic Association of History Teachers at the University of Delaware on Friday, April 24, and at the Pierre S. du Pont High School, Wilmington, on Saturday, April 25.

The first session will be held on Friday afternoon at Mitchell Hall of the University. The second session will be held on Saturday morning in the Auditorium of the P. S. du Pont High School.

The committee on local arrangements is being formed of which Dr. George H. Ryden, head of the Department of History and Political Science at the University of Delaware, is the chairman. The meeting will be open to the general public, and invitations will be forwarded to all the teachers of History, or the Social Sciences, of all the secondary schools of Wilmington and the rest of the State. The program and the list of the members of the committee on arrangements will be published at a later date.

Harvard's Yesteryear Appetite Revealed

Cambridge, Mass. (ACP)—Discovery of ancient "buttery" ledgers of Harvard College shows the appetite of yesteryear.

For one meal, in August, 1729, the "butler" purchased milk, eggs, sugar, flour, nutmeg, "legg" of mutton, pork, squash, butter, "pigeons," bread, apple pie, and wine—all for $7.15.

Another dinner, this one in October, featured pork, cheese, "fowle", butter, "beafe", carrots, turnip, apple pie, and wine, and cost about $5.

To win a $3 bet, a former University of Minnesota swimming team captain swam 225 feet under water.

STANDARDIZED UNIFORMITY

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill—uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

be no expense involved. The withdrawing of uniforms from storage, as desired by Coach Clark, would have entailed an expenditure that the Council plans not to make until next Fall.

The Council also intended when approving the practice period to restrict the work to light signal drill and blocking, rather than permitting regular scrimmage and tackling that might create injuries for which the Council would be held responsible, according to G. P. Doherty, Jr., graduate member of Athletics and Athletic Council secretary.

Pudgy, preferring physical inertness, he once acted on Broadway in a play that required little effort beyond keeping from rolling off a divan. Yet, in the Great War, he became a sergeant in a hospital unit.

Had Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims been recruited in this century, they would certainly have taken Woollcott along, and some of Chaucer's nimblest tales would have begun this way: "Woollcott speaking."

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S Alumnus No. 1 is another man of huge bulk: Frank Crumit, radio network singer heard Sunday afternoons from coast to coast. A Phi Delta Theta, he once returned for a visit and gamely sang two of his own songs on a serenade program in front of Lindley Hall. To those who asked who Frank Crumit was, came the information: a jovial undergraduate with baseball and football ability, he left Ohio U. in 1912 to study music in Cincinnati. Thence, by way of vaudeville, he was featured in Broadway shows like Oh Kay, Betty Be Good, and No, No Nanette.

These were shows dedicated to girls, among them a stage star, Julia Sanderson, whom Frank married in 1927. They now co-star on the networks. To Ohio U., Frank Crumit, ex'12, has dedicated two songs. The Buckeye Battle Cry of Ohio State is also Frank's work, as is Gay Caballero. The latter is one of those things Frank can really deliver.

Although he was a post-graduate one year at Columbia, Alex has his fondest words and thoughts for Hamilton. In appreciation he received an honorary degree in 1924. Dramatic critic for the Times, Herald, and World in New York from 1914 to 1928, Woollcott has since puttered his way to a fortune as a writer and radio star. Pudgy, preferring physical inertness, he once acted on Broadway in a play that required little effort beyond keeping from rolling off a divan. Yet, in the Great War, he became a sergeant in a hospital unit.

Had Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims been recruited in this century, they would certainly have taken Woollcott along, and some of Chaucer's nimblest tales would have begun this way: "Woollcott speaking."

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S Alumnus No. 1 is another man of huge bulk. Frank Crumit, radio network singer heard Sunday afternoons from coast to coast. A Phi Delta Theta, he once returned for a visit and gamely sang two of his own songs on a serenade program in front of Lindley Hall. To those who asked who Frank Crumit was, came the information: a jovial undergraduate with baseball and football ability, he left Ohio U. in 1912 to study music in Cincinnati. Thence, by way of vaudeville, he was featured in Broadway shows like Oh Kay, Betty Be Good, and No, No Nanette.

These were shows dedicated to girls, among them a stage star, Julia Sanderson, whom Frank married in 1927. They now co-star on the networks. To Ohio U., Frank Crumit, ex'12, has dedicated two songs. The Buckeye Battle Cry of Ohio State is also Frank's work, as is Gay Caballero. The latter is one of those things Frank can really deliver.
