High School Football Team to Compete for State Championship

Sussex County Team to be Antagonist

Decisive Game will be Played on Frazer Field Saturday Morning at 10.30

What promises to be one of the most spirited and closely contested high school football games which Delaware has enjoyed in some time will be played next Saturday, at 10.30 a. m. on Joe Frazer Field, Newark. Bridgeville High School, the Sussex county Interscholastic Association champions, will bring her strongest team, well backed with confident rosters, to prove that the football crown of the State belongs in Sussex; while Newark, playing on a local field, and fresh from victories outside, as well as within the State, has the honor of New Castle to uphold. Both teams will battle the harder, as from pre-season forecasts, neither one will be a strong factor in the decision of the coming championship in basketball and base ball.

The Delaware Interscholastic Athletic Association has been formed with the idea of making all high school sports absolutely clean, and helping to bring athletic sports forward as a valuable factor in education and a support to the more traditional type of school work. All students allow to compete in the Association contests, both preliminaries and county and state championships, must be in good scholastic standing according to a strict set of eligibility rules adopted by the Association at its organization last year, and endorsed unreservedly at the recent meeting of the Association.

As both Newark and Bridgeville have teams which are light, but speedy, and play the new style of thrilling open game as well as smashing the line, a close tussle is expected, and the crowd which wends its way to Joe Frazer Field next Saturday morning will be well repaid for attending. Bridgeville has made a good record this season and for the material available, Coach Dodge, former Penn State player, has developed a fast and aggressive team. The Athletic Association is depending on gate receipts to pay the expenses of the game and are therefore anxious that all persons interested in the High School, or in the betterment of high school athletics, lend their support to the Association and to the home team.

After this game, both teams will witness the Dickinson-Delaware game as the guests of Delaware College.

LADIES OF ST. JOHN'S SEWING CIRCLE TO HOLD BAKE

The ladies of St. John's Sewing Circle are making preparations for a bake which they will hold at Breyer's store on Saturday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. They will make every effort to provide ready cooked food of excellent quality for those whose time over the week-end will be taken up by the many social events scheduled at this busy time; and for visitors who will attend the two ball games to be held on Frazer Field that day.

They will have large cakes, cookies and other small cakes, doughnuts, sandwiches, pie, bread, rusk, rolls, quick biscuits, potato salad, cottage cheese, cold baked ham, pickles, jellies, candy and fruit, all prepared by experts at good home cooking.

For the convenience of visitors and others, cocoa and coffee will probably also be provided.

MISSION CIRCLE REALIZES NEAT SUM ON RUMMAGE SALE

The Young Ladies Mission Circle of the Presbyterian Church realized more than $50 at a rummage sale held in the lecture room of the church the latter part of last week.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Will be Held on Wednesday Evening; Rev. Frank Herson to Preach

Services at the First Presbyterian Church next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. will be in charge of Rev. R. F. Hittinger of Bethlehem, Pa. Every member and interested friend of the church is expected to be present. This will probably be the last candidate for the vacant pastorate to be heard.

On Tuesday evening of next week an important congregational meeting will be held in the church and a large attendance is urged.

Union Service Wednesday Evening

On Wednesday evening, November 24, according to a plan inaugurated last year, a union service with the Methodist congregation will be held at the Presbyterian Church, with special music.

Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the M. E. Church, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH THURSDAY

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will hold a meeting in the lecture room of the church next Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. At 3 o'clock Miss Mary Johnston, a missionary who has done valiant work in India, will tell of the work there. The Society extends a cordial invitation to the public to hear this interesting story.

MANY EVENTS TO TAKE PLACE THIS WEEK-END

The sedate old town will be a lively place this week-end. The number of social and other events will tax the endurance of those whose aim in life is to miss nothing of interest.

On Thursday evening a dance will be given in the Armory by the Junior Order American Mechanics. Professor Edwards' orchestra will furnish the music.

On Friday evening a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hulihan will be held at Women's College.

On the same evening Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wright will entertain at a dance in the New Century Club in honor of Miss Elizabeth Wright.

Saturday morning the Newark High School football team will play the Bridgeville team for the championship of the secondary schools of the State. Saturday afternoon Delaware will meet her old rival, Dickinson, on Frazer Field.

On Saturday evening the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Wright to Benjamin Proud will take place. A reception at the New Century Club will follow.

LODGE MEMBERS ATTEND CHURCH

The Junior Order American Mechanics will attend service at the Methodist Episcopal Church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Members of the order will meet at Odd Fellows' Hall at 10.45.

A large delegation from Ivy Castle, K. G. E., attended service at St. Thomas' P. E. Church last Sunday morning. A special sermon was preached in their honor and special music provided.

GUILD POSTPONES MASQUERADE SOCIAL

Because of the severe storm last night, the Guild of St. Thomas' Church postponed the masquerade social until Saturday evening. They have secured the services of the Minnehaha Band to provide music for dancing and anticipate a successful affair.

RESURFACING NEWARK-COOCH ROAD

A portion of the road between Newark and Cooch has been resurfaced under the supervision of the county. The section south of the Pennsylvania Railroad is almost completed; that to the northward will doubtless be finished within the next few days. The crushed stone has been delivered and the arrival of the tarvia is daily expected.

RESPONSE TO RED CROSS CALL GENEROUS

Chairman Frazer and Solicitors Set 1000 as Membership Goal

The solicitors for the Red Cross in the campaign for membership which began last Thursday report a ready response and hope by speedy action to attain their goal, 1000 membership. Mayor E. B. Frazer, chairman for this district, is encouraged over the results of the canvass so far and confident of a good showing before the close of the campaign, Thanksgiving Day.

The work of enrolling members in the Junior Red Cross is also proceeding satisfactorily under the leadership of Miss Frances Medill, chairman. Already the majority of the rooms have attained 100 per cent membership and others are lining up in the 100 column daily.

The colored schools under the direction of Miss C. L. Waddleton, was among the first in the State to report 100 per cent membership.

WILL HOLD SECOND ANNUAL THANKSGIVING DINNER

In accordance with a custom established last year, a Thanksgiving dinner will be given at Old College next Tuesday evening to students and faculty. To the former who take their meals at the college no charge will be made; to the faculty, a nominal sum will be charged. The College Orchestra and the Student Council are preparing programs for the occasion.

PROMINENT ENGINEER TO DISCUSS INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATION

Tomorrow evening in The Lounge at Old College at 6.45, H. A. Piper, of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., will speak to the local chapter of the American Association of Engineers on the subject, "Some Points in Industrial Organization."

WILL BUILD IN THE SPRING

David C. Rose has sold during the past week 4 lots, each 50 feet front, on Cleveland Avenue, to George V. Wagner. Mr. Wagner purposes erecting thereon in the Spring, houses of concrete block construction.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for His manifold goodness.

This is an old observance of the American people, deeply imbedded in our thought and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lesions of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men, which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war, now happily passing.

In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties, the strength, both of hand and resolve, to discharge them and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those of service.

In a spirit, then, of devotion and stewardship, we should give thanks in our hearts and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purposes to His children.

Wherefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from their ordinary tasks and avocations upon that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and His blessings, and their dutiful and grateful acknowledgment.

WOODROW WILSON.
Washington, Nov. 12, 1920.

LOCAL DEALERS EXPECT COAL NEXT WEEK

Disagreeable Weather Increases Demands and Exhausts Supply

The sudden drop in temperature and the raw disagreeable weather prevailing this week has put a heavy burden on the local coal dealers and exhausted their supply. Neither H. Warner McNeal nor Edward L. Richards have any hard coal. Mr. McNeal has on hand about 200 tons of soft coal. Both dealers have encouraging reports from the shippers that plenty of coal will be available within a week. They are informed that shipping via the Lake route to the New England States will probably cease this week. After that larger shipments will be diverted to the Middle Atlantic and other states.

The local dealers have been especially active and particularly fortunate in being able to furnish a limited supply to many of their customers.

WILL HEAR GALLI CURCI

Many music lovers here will attend the concert to be given at the Auditorium, Wilmington, tomorrow, by Mme. Amelita Galli Curci, the famous coloratura soprano, and the reception in her honor.

Tomorrow marks the fourth anniversary of her American debut. On the same day in 1916 Mme. Galli Curci's name first appeared on a program in this country, the then unknown singer taking the role of Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto." On that occasion she took the audience by storm. Her popularity and fame have been spreading by leaps and bounds until today she is recognized as the premier woman musical artist in the United States, if not in the world.

Although Delaware's many music lovers have made repeated attempts to bring Mme. Galli Curci to Wilmington, this will be her first appearance there. While the Auditorium will seat 2000 persons, it seems likely "standing room only" will be the rule, as it has been in Baltimore and Washington prior to the concerts. Hundreds were turned away from a concert of the singer in Washington last Wednesday.

MANY GUNNERS OUT LAST MONDAY

Report Game Plentiful and Bring Home Full Bags

Not for several years have so many sportsmen and others taken advantage of the opportunity to gun for "bunny cotton tail" as did last Monday. Before daylight those of better vision than the ordinary mortal were blazing away at something, maybe for the sheer delight of hearing the gun go off; for surely it took unusual vision to see a rabbit at 6 a. m. As early as that, however, gunshots were heard in the fields adjoining South Academy Street.

Rumors of plentiful game, the result of an unusual year, brought out many veterans who had not gunned for years. Firearms of the period as far back as the flintlock and the blunderbuss were taken down from the place of honor on the wall. Charges therefor were secured from those whose stock turnover antedates even that period and "granddad" sallied forth "to show 'em that his eyesight is just as good as it used to was." The amateur with his first real gun, the successor of the air rifle with which he potted blackbirds last year, was out in force doing more than his share of mischief with his promiscuous shooting. The veteran of the world war who last year vowed he never wanted to handle a gun again, experienced a change of heart this year and sallied forth seeking what he might slay.

All day long the sound of the guns were heard even in the sections of country adjacent to the towns, and all day long the gunners kept returning, all as far as could be learned with a good bag. Fewer trespass signs were in evidence than in previous years according to gunners.

A slump in the price of scrapple and other delicacies was evident to Monday shoppers, the first real and tangible evidence they have noticed outside of the newspaper records. On that day it was possible to buy a loaf of bread for seven cents and a pound of scrapple for fourteen and fifteen cents. Other meats were proportionately reduced due probably to the addition of rabbit to the family bill of fare and the corresponding reduction in meat sales.

The weather man after threatening rain or snow, sent in joking mood, a handful or so of hail and let it go at that. The weather all day was cold but not to the extent of making it uncomfortable. Those who put off the going until the second day, and they were numerous when the success of Monday's venture became known fared badly indeed. St. Martin would have fared badly indeed should he have ventured cloakless to journey yesterday. "Bunny" was the only one who had reason to be thankful.

DELAWARE COLLEGE FRESHMEN TO PARADE

Next Friday evening the members of the Freshman Class at Delaware College purpose having a parade of which the Review has the following to report:

Probably in the minds of some, the Passing Show of 1920 is a most superb spectacle, but if the tentative plans of the Freshmen for Friday night are successful, Newark will be presented with a stupendous revue far surpassing any yet shown. One hundred members of the class of 1924 will form the all-star cast of super excellence and we feel safe to prophesy that we are to have a whale of a parade with a laugh every minute.

No doubt there will be among those present, many beautiful, alluring, enticing, baby-vamps (?) in company with singers (?), comedians, and last but not the most unpopular, "Rhodes Scholars," the hoboes.

The parade will form in front of Old College Hall, and after marching through Newark and the W. C. D. village, everyone will gather in the Commons for the Dickinson smoker. During the smoker the actors will show their wares and to at least the best five, cash prizes will be awarded by the judges.

"Last minute skits" are not often prize winners so get busy.

Delegation from Smyrna New Century Club Here Next Week

Will be Reciprocity Day with Local Club

Regular Meeting Cancelled This Week Because of Storm

Every member of the New Century Club is looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to next Tuesday which will be Reciprocity Day with Smyrna. The neighbor club is a progressive, wide-awake organization whose program will be well worth while.

The visiting club will be entertained after the regular meeting which will begin promptly at 2.30. Members of the resident club are urged therefore to be prompt, and to notify Mrs. C. A. Short, club hostess, if unable to attend.

On account of the severe storm yesterday, the regular meeting of the club was cancelled.

PIE SOCIAL AT THOMPSON STATION SCHOOL HOUSE

A pie social will be held at the school house near Thompson Station next Tuesday evening, November 23. Ice cream and cake will also be on sale. Everybody is invited.

BARACA CLASS ENJOYS THANKSGIVING SUPPER

Many Attend Despite Unpleasant Weather

One of the most enjoyable affairs given lately in the Presbyterian Church was the monthly Baraca Supper given by the Ladies' Auxiliary last night in the lecture room. Despite the extremely stormy weather, about eighty persons sat down to an appetizing supper. The color scheme was yellow. The decorations of the room and of the tables were in keeping with Thanksgiving. One decidedly pleasant feature of the evening was the entertainment given by the Minnehaha Band. Several speeches were made, games were played and a general good social time enjoyed by all.

The menu cards were printed by Mrs. Geo. Wood and decorated with the Thanksgiving emblem, a turkey, in water colors on the cover page. The menu was as follows: Mock roast stuffed turkey, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, corn, rolls and butter, celery, cold slaw, pickles, pumpkin pie, coffee.

ENTERTAINS LITTLE FOLKS

Miss Rosalie Pie entertained a number of little folks of the neighborhood very delightfully last Saturday afternoon.

SUGGESTED CHANGE IN STATUS OF DELAWARE COLLEGE

According to stories appearing in the Evening Journal and the Morning News, President Walter Hulihan of Delaware College, some of the alumni and prominent educators of the State have given their approval to a movement which proposes a change of status of the college to that of university.

In his inaugural address and in an address subsequently made before a body of Delaware alumni in Philadelphia, reference was made to parallel cases in the South, particularly to that of the University of Virginia. Attention was called to the similarity of origin as a college of Arts and Science and subsequent expansion to include Engineering, Education and other courses or schools.

A representative of the Post interviewed Dr. Hulihan this afternoon and he asserted that he had made no statement for publication and would make none since the matter had not been submitted to the Trustees or the Alumni.

THE WEAVER OF RUGS

Beatrice Reynolds in N. Y. Herald

The Weaver of Rugs has dreamed a dream And brooded the summer through; With tender love he's plotted his theme And now His dream's come true. He's spread His carpet over the hills, Soft is its silken sheen Of red and the color of daffodils, Of rose and orange and green. And a patch of blue reflecting there The color of autumn skies; The pattern vague, but beyond compare Are these clear, mysterious dyes, dyes. Its knotted warp in the ground below Holds close its shimmering pile. The Weaver of Rugs has dreamed it so, And this is its Maker's smile. The Weaver of Rugs has dreamed a dream And brooded the summer through Over the forest, field and stream And now His dream's come true!

For The Homemaker's Eye

Stuffed Lamb Chops

Soak one cupful of bread-crumbs in one-half cupful of milk and add one can of spinach drained, and two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley and other seasonings to taste. Trim as many lamb chops as are required and make a pocket in each chop close to the bone and stuff with the mixture. Place the chops in a baking dish and bake until tender, basting occasionally. When they are about half done sprinkle with salt and pepper and a little fat if there is not enough on the meat. Stuffed with tomatoes instead of spinach these are delicious also.

Potato Croquettes

Two cups hot riced potatoes, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, few grains cayenne, few drops onion juice, yolk one egg, one teaspoon finely chopped parsley. Mix ingredients in order given and beat thoroughly. Shape, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, fry one minute in deep fat and drain on brown paper. For variety the two cups of hot riced potato may have added to it one-fourth cup finely chopped spinach or one-third cup chopped nuts or one chopped pimento or one-third cup grated cheese.

Scrambled Lamb

Chop about two cupfuls of cold lamb, mix with three tablespoonfuls of hot water and two tablespoonfuls of fat. Place on stove, and, when hot, break in three eggs and stir constantly until the eggs begin to stiffen. Salt and pepper to taste and serve hot.

Date Pudding

Make the usual rule for cottage pudding and to this add one cup of dates, stewed and put through the sieve, beating them in a little at a time. Steam instead of baking and serve with foamy sauce.

Lemon Jelly and Fruit

Lemon jelly and fruit salad is made as follows: Soak half a package of gelatine in one cupful of lemon juice and two cupfuls of boiling water. Pour into a mold when cold, or into small individual molds, and when set scoop out the center of the jelly with a warm spoon and fill in with a mixture of oranges, apples and celery. Cover with liquid jelly again.

Apple Normandy Pudding

Pare, core and chop six small cooking apples and mix with six ounces of sugar, six ounces of bread crumbs, half a teaspoonful of ground cinnamon, one salt-spoonful of ground cloves, the juice of one lemon and half a cupful of grape juice. Place the mixture in a well-greased mold and steam for three hours. Serve with a foamy or hard sauce. Cider may be used in place of grape juice.

LADIES OF ROCK CHURCH TO HAVE POULTRY SUPPER

The ladies of Rock Church will have a poultry supper in the "Session House" Thursday evening, November 18th. Supper will be served from 5.30 until 9 o'clock. Home made cakes and candy will also be on sale. If stormy the supper will be held the next evening.

THE LESSON TAUGHT BY THE RUMMAGE SALE

Did you ever attend one? Here on a table is Brown's silk hat that he wore to church many years and now that he's gone it has been sent by his family to the rummage sale to be disposed of for the benefit of the church.

And there on the counter is an old china pug dog that used to guard the mantelpiece in somebody's house. And on a rack hangs the Prince Albert coat that some fellow wore when he was married and which his wife kept as a treasured thing through the years; now she has given it away because the sentiment that attached to it is dead and has fluttered away like last year's leaf.

They are handy institutions, these rummage sales, enabling one, as they do, to give away for good purposes what he no longer needs or wants or cares for. He holds on to such things a long time and then one day he gets tired seeing them around and away they go to the rummage sale, the second-hand store and the rag shop.

But the rummage of minds and characters most people hold on to and cherish forever. To their dying days they keep old and wornout prejudices and fight hard for them.

They hold and feed cankered hates and envies as things of great value, worth treasuring in their hearts.

They keep fast to habits, knowing they are bad, but lacking the will or the courage to throw them off.

They cast off only good resolutions and intentions because they interfere too much with comfort.

The next time you gather together your old clothes for the rummage sale and you have packed it all in one bundle, suppose you say to yourself: "Let's see, what have I left out? What else is there that I ought to get rid of? What passions, prejudices and habits are littering up my mind and character?"

You will not be able to get rid of this rummage as easily as you can dispose of your old clothes, but once having taken stock of it you will know yourself better. The first step of self-improvement is to become acquainted with your defects.

"I know everything except myself," said the celebrated vagabond, Villon.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER

On Armistice Day a British soldier, one of those buried unidentified on the field of honor and sacrifice, was reinterred with fit pomp in Westminster Abbey among the great of centuries. On the same day the body of one of the nameless heroes who at Verdun made good with his life the pledge, "They shall not pass!" was taken to Paris in a special train and similarly reburied, that his grave may be forever in the City of Light a shrine of patriotism.

When Collins wrote his matchless ode, "How sleep the brave," he had no recent heroisms to record save those of Culloden against Scots or Fontenoy against Frenchmen. In a better cause, "Freedom shall awhile repair" to the Abbey grave of an unknown soldier who fought side by side with Scots and Frenchmen that there should be an end of war lords. Nor has the lofty mausoleum that Paris calls simply "The Tomb"—that of Napoleon—such austere beauty of significance as will surround this later sepulchre of an unnamed Frenchman.

The Unknown Soldier is of every land and race. He is the American who swore to a residence in Canada to enlist. He is the Brazilian who went to fight for France. He is the Pole or Czech or Alsatian who slipped across the frontier to take up eager arms against the tyrant. He is the volunteer Greek of Venzelos, the Gurkha from the East, the New Zealand Mairo, the American Indian. A plain man and lowly, he died to make the world better for plain people like himself and his loved ones. It is well that a shrine shall be reared in his memory. Better yet will it be if the statesmen of the world do not forget the end for which he paid so dear.—New York World.

"What's at th' op'ry house to-night, 'Squire?"

"Th' billboards say it's one o' them Broadway shows," replied 'Squire Witherbee, "that came direct from New York to Chiggersville. I know that ain't so."

"It may be true." "It can't be true. In th' first place th' company'd have to change cars at Hickory Junction to get here."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

STATISTICS SHOW GROWING APPRECIATION OF EDUCATION

The statistics of education show that in the year 1890 only 9120 teachers were employed in the high schools of the United States. Today high school teachers number more than 81,000.

The difference between 9120 and 81,000 high school teachers, graphically measures America's material and spiritual expansion during the past generation.

The figures are an accurate index of the prosperity that is lifting more and more families to that state of middle-class well-being wherein the labor of the child is not required for the support of the family. These figures indicate, too, a fast-growing appreciation on the part of parents of the value of education and recalls the vanishing type of old-fashioned father who liked to say: "What was good enough for me is good enough for my children."

But, above all else, the statistics reflect the democratic trend of educational methods and programs in America.

It doesn't take an old man to remember the time when high schools were regarded largely as institutions for children of the well-to-do. And indeed, high school courses had restrictive and aristocratic tendencies. Their mission, largely, was to prepare a limited number of boys and girls to pass college entrance examinations.

Today the newest high schools are great workshops where hand and mind are being trained simultaneously. Their tools are machines as well as books. The machine shop instructor and the dress-making teacher rank with the teacher of Greek and Latin.

Small wonder the number of high school teachers has increased 800 per cent in a generation—and still there are not enough of them.

THE SOUL AND THE SONG

What though the summer's faded, and winter's bleak and long. Any time is song time if the soul be in the song! The rivers ripply music where where water lilies throng— Any time for singin' if the soul be in the song!

Any time for singin'—the thunder of the strife— Or the love dreams of the valleys, if the song's the breath of life!

The angels lean an' listen from the windows of the blue, an' they'll shout in happy chorus, an' they'll kiss their hands to you!—Atlanta Constitution.

EXCELLENCE ALWAYS COMMANDS ATTENTION

A young woman went to a large city to obtain a position. She had a letter of introduction to a prominent man and after she had gained admission to his presence, she attempted to recall herself to his memory. "Probably you don't remember me, Mr. M.—, but three years ago I was one of a party who spent the night in an old farmhouse, because the rain rendered it impossible for us to go on. And half an hour after we had taken shelter there, you and your party arrived."

The big man remembered the incident, but he did not remember his interviewer. His face told her that. She made one or two more efforts to recall herself to him and suddenly he started. "Now I know," he said. "I know perfectly. You're the girl who made the biscuits."

The girl blushed. "Yes, I made biscuits then," she replied, "but I don't want to make them now. I want something very different."

"Very likely, very likely. But at the same time, they were the best biscuits I ever tasted. Now tell me what I can do for you." All the formality in his manner was gone. He was interested. And it was due to his influence that the girl was given a chance to realize her ambitions.

Excellence makes an impression. In this world where mediocrity is so common, where half-hearted effort produces inferior results, one who can do anything admirable is sure of attention. It is not necessary to do big things, for the little things are needed, too. The world wants skyscrapers, but it also wants mousetraps. It needs ocean liners, and it needs biscuits. It demands art galleries and it demands flower beds.

"What become of your new girl clerk?"

"We had to let her go," said the head of the firm. "She had no head for business."

"Too bad." "Yes, she parked her gum on the adding machine and her powder puff in the cash register."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

UNNOTED HEROES

There are heroes who have never Heard the fearful din of battle, Heroes who, unknown forever Labor where the sabres rattle; There are heroes who are giving Joy to others day by day, Who are making life worth living Just by earning honest pay.

There are heroes uncomplaining, Who are striving daily, yearly So the goals we would be gaining May each morning shine more clearly;

There are heroes unrewarded, Who by toiling late and long In surroundings which are sordid Help the luckless to be strong.

There are heroes, with wan faces, Who uplift their fallen brothers; Heroes who in lowly places, Labor for the love of others. Why not pause sometimes to cheer them

For the courage they reveal? Why not willingly revere them For their patience and their zeal? —S. E. Kiser in Leslie's.

THE BIBLE A TEXTBOOK OF MODERN BUSINESS

Bruce Barton writing in Printer's Ink says: "The Bible is the greatest one-volume textbook ever written. For two centuries a sentence lay buried in the pages of that great business manual. We passed it by as merely a bit of rhetoric. It reads thus: 'And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant.' A very pretty sentiment, men thought, but wholly impractical in a hard, pretical world. Impractical? Turn over the pages of any national magazine today and what do you find? Every simple advertisement, almost, is written about that thought. We have all come at last to understand that nothing but honesty pays. To endure, an institution must rest upon the solid foundation of justice to customer and employe alike; of service and of vision that can look beyond this year's material rewards."

A TON OF WHAT

One of the incidents of an American hospital unit's minstrel performance was a poker game between black-faced comedians supposed to be on duty in England.

One glanced at his three aces and announced:

"Ah bets a pound." Private Rastus grunted and let his eye rove lovingly over his beautiful lil' king full. "A pound, huh!" he grunted scornfully. "Nigger, Ah raises you est one ton."

There were numerous Americans in the audience and the laughter was considerable. When it died down a British "Red Tab" leaned over to an American officer in the next seat and whispered:

"Very comical expressions—but, I say, I don't just get his ideas about a 'ton.' A ton of what?"—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE NEW FARM LINE RATES

SOME of our subscribers do not understand the new rates for country telephone service.

The diagram above represents any central office and the surrounding territory.

The darkened portion in the center represents the "Base Rate Area." By this is meant the area immediately surrounding the central office, where "City" service—individual and four-party line—is given, but no farm line service.

Within the circle marked "A," which is two miles outside the "City" service area, farm line service is given at the base rate quoted in the rate schedules.

If a subscriber lives outside the circle "A" (and is more than two miles outside the "City" area), he is charged 25 cents per month for each two miles or fraction thereof, air line distance.

For instance, if he lives between "B" and "C" he will pay the base rate plus 50 cents per month.

Here is just what this means:

The farther a telephone is located from the central office, the greater our investment in poles and wires.

And the greater the cost of keeping those poles and wires in repair.

Therefore the greater the cost of providing the service.

Isn't it perfectly fair that the rate for such telephones should be slightly higher in proportion to the distance?

Isn't that reasonable?

PRACTICALLY ALL WAR VETERANS ABSORBED BY INDUSTRY

Through Government Agencies More than 4,000,000 Were Placed

Reports in the possession of the War Department show that practically every man enrolled in the United States Army at the time of the armistice has been absorbed by industry between the dates of November 11, 1918, and today.

This conclusion is approximated to a certain extent, for the department has figures only concerning those men who made application for placements by the War Department to find positions for them. This number is only a small proportion of the men who were in the army. Generalizations of reports, however, indicate that every man who wanted a job procured one, and that the absorption by industry of America's great army was accomplished without great economic disturbance or without material distress.

The magnitude of this accomplishment may be gathered from the fact that on November 11, 1918, the day of the armistice, the United States Army had enrolled a total of 3,703,273 officers and men. Of these 189,436 were officers, while 3,513,837 were in the ranks. Today the total of officers and men in the United States Army is 212,067.

A large portion of the men in the army now have been enlisted since the armistice, but, assuming that the total number of men in the army today represents what is left of the wartime force, it follows that 3,491,206 men were taken out of the army and given over to industry.

Following the armistice the War Department built up an industrial service under the leadership of Col. Arthur Woods, who had the title of Assistant to the Secretary of War. The records of the office of the chief of the bureau of information of the War Department, Major Matthews, show that from December 1, 1918, to June 19, 1920, 1,482,861 discharged soldiers registered for employment, and that of these 1,062,046 were placed.

From September 20, 1919, to January 19, 1920, the figures were 488,105 registered and 364,657 placed. Major Matthews said they were unable to record figures showing the number of unemployed. In the State of New York those who registered for employment were 244,957, while those placed totalled 151,998.

The task of the government in re-absorbing its military forces into industry included sailors as well as soldiers, so that the problem represented the reabsorption of more than 4,000,000 men from both branches of the service.

The armistice meant not only the demobilization of the fighting forces but also the change to peace time production of wartime industry. It was under these difficult industrial conditions and with the demobilization proceeding at an unprecedented speed that the men were to be returned to peace time occupations.

The War Department's agency for placing men in industry was assisted by various State and private welfare organizations. In addition to the instrumentalities built up by States and cities, organizations like the American Legion, the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C., the Y. M. H. A. and the W. C. C. S. rendered valuable assistance, while the commercial clubs, newspapers, business concerns and individuals all rendered help.

One of the difficulties found in the reabsorption of these men into industry was the wartime psychology which the soldiers and sailors had acquired. Many of them were disinclined to leave the cities where they were demobilized, while the life and adventure and excitement through which they had gone during the time of their service made it difficult for them to reacquire the peace time attitude toward industry and work.

The result was that in the larger cities there developed a number of men who did not want to work at all or who were disinclined to accept the kind of work offered them. In spite of these conditions the work of demobilization and of industrial absorption continued at a rate that has never been equalled before in any country.

The achievement is regarded as one of the greatest American triumphs of the war and is looked upon as a clear indication of the complete soundness of heart of America. So far as the War Department knows, there are no idle soldiers to day except those who are disinclined to work or who may have been recently rendered idle by the slowing up of industrial occupation.

TREE SURGERY DESERVES WIDER RECOGNITION

Prompt Treatment of Freshly Made Wounds Prevents Future Loss

At present tree-repair work has not received the recognition and approval from tree owners that it deserves. This may be due at times to unfavorable experiences with dishonest or ignorant tree surgeons, at other times to the reluctance of the owners to spend much money in preserving their trees, or from their ignorance of the benefits that may result when tree-repair work is properly done.

Educating the Public
Reliable tree surgeons are doing much in a practical way to educate the public as to the benefits of tree-repair work. A few States have laws regulating tree-repair work on a commercial basis.

The United States Department of Agriculture invites correspondence concerning methods of tree-repair work and is prepared to advise for or against any particular method so far as experience and the results of experiments permit. Farmers' Bulletin 1178 on tree surgery will be sent free on application.

Tree owners are urged to remember that the necessity for tree-repair work 15 or 20 years hence may be reduced materially by promptly attending to the fresh injuries of today.

Most persons can, at least with a very little preliminary practice on the simpler types of work, undertake ordinary tree surgery provided they are familiar with the use of a gouge and mallet, a saw and a paint brush. A steady hand and ability to climb will be necessary for work in the top of the tree.

A badly diseased or injured tree should be removed and replaced by a healthy one unless there is some very special reason for trying to preserve the tree.

Two axioms of tree-repair work that should be borne in mind constantly are: That prompt treatment of freshly made wounds is the surest and most economical method of preventing disease and decay in the future, and that all wounds made in tree surgery should be cleaned, sterilized and protected from infection just as thoroughly as in animal surgery, and for the same reasons.

THE MAYFLOWER PASSENGERS

"The official record of names in the cabin of the Mayflower in 1620 was as follows," says an article in the November issue of "Boy's Life":

Arithmetic, according to the average small boy, was simply invented in order to give teachers a good excuse for punishing their unhappy pupils. And, certainly, little Tommy Smith found it the unpleasant feature of his young life.

"Now, Tommy Smith," said the school teacher one morning during the usual hours of torture, "what is the half of eight?"

"Which way, teacher?" asked the youngster cautiously.

"Which way!" replied the astonished lady. "What do you mean?"

"Well, on top or sideways, teacher?" said Tommy.

"What difference does that make?"

"Why," Tommy explained, with a pitying air, "half off the top of eight is nought but half of it sideways is three." — Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegram.

HARDING'S INAUGURATION TO BE ELABORATE

Will Revert to Pre-War Splendor is the Plan at Present

A Washington special of recent date says: "Warren G. Harding is to be inaugurated twenty-ninth President of the United States on March 4, 1921, amid festivities and ceremonials commensurate with his record-breaking election. Washington has not known a real rip-snorting inauguration since William Howard Taft became President in 1909. Woodrow Wilson frowned upon the idea of an inaugural ball—the piece de resistance of inauguration festivities from the popular standpoint—when he took office in 1913, and in 1917, when his second term began, the war cloud hanging over the United States banished all thought of a function of any kind.

Formal arrangements will be taken in hand almost at once. They await the arrival in Washington, momentarily expected, of Will H. Hays. As national chairman of the triumphant party, it is his prerogative to appoint the committee on inauguration.

The nation at large may not know that Uncle Sam, plutocratic as he is, does not contribute one cent to the considerable expense of inaugurating his Presidents. The bill is footed by the residents of the District of Columbia. It costs from $200,000 to $250,000 to install a chief magistrate of the republic. At least that has been approximately the cost. Like everything else under the sun, inaugurations, too, have probably grown more expensive. It is likely therefore, that patriots who want to attend the inaugural ball will have to pay $10 a person for their dancing and supper tickets instead of $10 a couple as in the past.

Mr. Hays, in accordance with tradition, will appoint a Washingtonian as chairman of the committee on actual arrangements for the inauguration, for upon the shoulders of that unfortunate official will fall the burden of raising the financial wind.

Festivities, reverting to custom, will extend over March 3, 4 and 5. On the days before and after the actual inauguration there are to be numberless receptions and gala entertainments for distinguished visitors.

NEGROES RETURNING TO THE SOUTHLAND

Thousands of negroes, who flocked North by trainloads during the summer are returning South. Disappointed by failure to find the higher wages and better conditions about which employment agents glibly talked, their old employers say, they are eagerly seeking to return to the work they left.

With business slackening in many Northern industrial centers, the negroes found that they were usually the first to be laid off the job. Country negroes declare their higher pay was more than counterbalanced by increased living costs in industrial cities. City negroes often found their wages in Northern cities did not equal their pay in Southern cities.

Lack of adequate housing facilities, strange conditions, homesickness; failure to find the improved social treatment for which some had hoped, more rigorous climates, race rioting, harder work—these are some of the things which are sending the Negroes back South in a steady stream.

Reports received by local employment bureaus show that 250,000 negroes went north during June, July and August this year. There was considerable negro migration almost from start of the war.

SAYING THINGS WE DO NOT MEAN

"Beautiful, isn't it?" said Lora, as she took from the Victrola the record she had played several times that evening. "I love his voice. Oh, I'd give anything to hear him sing! Wouldn't you?" But when a month later, advertisements appeared in the paper, announcing that the singer in question would appear in concert in a city only ten miles away, Lora did not draw enough money from the savings bank to buy a ticket.

"Did you ever hear of such preposterous prices?" she asked the family indignantly. "Three dollars a seat! No, thank you! Of course, I'd like to hear him sing, but I can have lots more fun from three dollars." And while this decision undoubtedly indicated Lora's good sense, it was rather funny to remember how ardently she declared that she would give anything in order to hear the famous baritone.

"I thought I would die." How often we hear that said and in a tone indicating the utmost conviction. And if we make anxious inquiries as to the symptoms responsible for such an impression, we often find it was occasioned by extreme amusement. It was not heart-failure or anything like that, but, "I laughed till I thought I would die." A little boy once remarked thoughtfully that he thought the very nicest way to die would be to be drowned in maple syrup, and possibly next to that, would come laughing one's self to death. But fortunately, though this presentiment is a common one, it is seldom realized. In fact, it is questionable whether a single case is recorded of a girl whose enjoyment of a good joke resulted in her untimely death.

The railroad official invited the stern citizen to communicate his troubles.

"I want you to give orders," demanded the visitor, "that the engineer of the express which passes through Elm Grove at 11:55 be restrained from blowing his whistle on Sunday mornings."

"Impossible!" exploded the official. "What prompts you to make such a ridiculous request?"

"Well, you see," explained the citizen, in an undertone, "our pastor preaches until he hears the whistle blow and that confounded express was twenty minutes late last Sunday." — New York Central Magazine.

MANY ATTEND MEETING OF STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Progressive Recommendations In Resolutions Adopted

A large local delegation comprising nearly all of the teachers in the public schools and many members of the College faculty attended the annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association at Dover on Thursday evening, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Much enthusiasm was manifested and the attendance was larger than that of last year. It is estimated that about 400 were in attendance. Many of these took part in the sectional meetings and discussions which took place on Friday.

One of the features of the meeting was the presence of Dr. George S. Counts, formerly head of the department of education at Delaware College and director of the Summer School. The strictly social feature, the luncheon at Wesley College Institute on Friday evening, was very much enjoyed. A musical and literary program was provided.

The final session was held in the high school, where there was a meeting of the representatives assembled, at which minor matters were discussed. The business session and closing addresses were held in the Peoples' Christian Church.

At the business session the election of officers resulted as follows: H. E. Stahl, Seaford, president; Miss L. Maude Lodge, Dover, vice-president; secretary, Miss Agnes Snyder, Newark; treasurer, Miss Lillian Sudler, Bridgeville; member of board of directors, M. L. Hydorn, Frederica.

The time and place of next meeting was left with the executive committee. The retiring president, W. B. Thornburg, principal of Dover public schools, on behalf of Mayor Magee, Dover, extended an invitation for the association to meet there next year. Delaware College's newly-elected president, Dr. Walter Hüllihen, extended greetings to the association, making a plea for a united cooperation and effort to help Delaware College and thus materially aid in the educational system of the state. He said that the one mission of the college was that of service to the state and its people.

"The Small Town in Relation to Farm Life" was presented by R. G. Bressler, of Penn State College. "The Project Method Applied" was presented by Miss Corrine Brown, Tower Hill School, Wilmington.

Committees were announced as follows: Legislative (revised)—Henry E. Snively, W. A. Wilkinson, C. J. Scott, Miss Agnes Snyder, R. W. Heim, Miss Phyllis Mason, all of New Castle county; W. B. Thornburg, M. L. Hydorn, Miss Anna Beckett, Kent county; D. A. Petry, Ethel B. Gibson, M. E. Stein, Miss Katie Burtelle, Sussex county. The committee selected Mr. Wilkinson as chairman and H. E. Snively as secretary. Committee on necrology—Miss Anna Beckett, chairman; Mrs. Frances McCoy, Miss Lida Kay.

Resolutions Adopted

The committee on resolutions and state program H. V. Holloway, W. A. Wilkinson and H. S. Rausch, submitted the following which were adopted:

"The Delaware State Teachers' Association in its second annual meeting, assembled at Dover, November 13, 1920, hereby declares itself committed to a program of service—service to the teachers, service to the profession, service to the State. Its supreme purpose is the welfare of the childhood of Delaware. For the accomplishment of this program it affirms its allegiance to the following principles:

"1. That to have a competent, well-trained teacher is the right of every child in the State.

"2. That it is the business of the State to provide adequate facilities for the training of her teachers.

"3. That it is the business of the State and local community and their solemn duty in a democracy such as ours to provide such financial support for the schools as shall guarantee to every child in the state equal educational opportunity regardless of his place or residence.

"4. That the importance of the work of teaching justifies the highest effort on the part of those engaged therein to so increase the standards of their efficiency as to make this profession as such throughout the State.

"5. That ability to work with the hands as well as to think with the head is so desirable we commend the efforts toward pre-vocational work that have been instituted in this State.

"6. That the first consideration of every program of education should be the conservation of health. We therefore pledge our support to the efforts now being put forward by the Red Cross and other agencies in providing medical inspection and nursing service for school children.

"7. That the consolidation of rural schools is indispensable to their efficiency.

"8. That it is the business of the State after having provided schools for her children to see that the children avail themselves of the opportunities furnished.

"9. That it is the duty of every community to see that its teachers are provided with comfortable homes.

"10. That ample provision should be made for the care of teachers who have spent their lives in the service by the provision on the part of the State of a retirement fund based on sound actuarial principles.

"11. That maintenance of membership in the State Teachers' Association is a professional duty of every teacher in the State.

"12. That the salaries of teachers should be such as not only to provide them with the necessities of life and enable them to take advantage of all possible means of professional improvement, not the least of which is the attendance upon meetings of this kind, and that such attendance should be compulsory.

"13. That a large place in educational interests of the nation should be taken by the Federal Government and a large support be granted from this source for the education of all the people. To this end we recommend the passage of the Smith-Towner bill now pending in Congress and hereby request our Senators and Representative to give this measure the careful consideration which its importance justly merits.

"14. That affiliation with the National Educational Association on the part of State associations is so necessary to unite the educational interests of the nation, that we hereby strongly urge such affiliation for the organization.

"15. We believe that the establishment of a code of professional ethics for the teachers of this State will contribute to the harmonious working of our educational system, and therefore recommend that the President of this association appoint a committee for the drafting of such a code to be presented at our next annual meeting.

"16. That we heartily commend the movement for the organization of Home and School Association in the State and pledge our support to the same.

"17. In the light of the above principles this association notes with approval and gratitude the interest in education which has been manifested by the social, business and civic organizations of this State, particularly the Service Citizens of Delaware and the Delaware School Auxiliary Association. It commends the efforts of the General Assembly and other individuals in bringing about the enactment of such legislation as shall give to the State an adequate and effective system of public education comparable with that of other states, and we hereby pledge our support to any and all measures designed to accomplish this end.

"We desire to express our appreciation and gratitude to the citizens of Dover for opening their homes for our accommodation; to the Dover Board of Education for the use of public schools; to the trustees and members of the Peoples' Church in allowing us the free use of their whole building for meetings and exhibits; to Dr. Budd and the authorities of the Wesley College Institute for the splendid entertainment furnished our members by them on Friday evening; and particularly to Prof. Thornburg and the officers of this association whose untiring efforts have made this meeting such a splendid success.

"Whereas this association has been inexpressibly saddened by the unfortunate accident which resulted in the death of one and injury of two more of our co-laborers; therefore be it

"Resolved, That we hereby extend to Superintendent and Mrs. Jump our sincerest wishes for their speedy recovery and to the relatives of Miss Amelia Carmine our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of bereavement.

"Resolved, That the secretary of this association be instructed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the newspapers in Middletown and to the heart-broken mother of Miss Carmine."

PHILADELPHIA ORCHESTRA TO BEGIN CONCERT SERIES NOVEMBER 22

The Philadelphia Orchestra begins this season the sixteenth year of its Wilmington concerts. These orchestral performances, five in number, will be given as usual at the Playhouse on Monday evenings—November 22, December 6, January 10, February 14 and March 21. With the exception of the January concert, the performances will be conducted by Leopold Stokowski.

Ossip Gabrilowitch, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and world-renowned pianist, will wield the baton on January 10, the Wilmington concert of that date being part of a contract made with him to conduct two pairs of concerts in Philadelphia and a week's tour.

Brilliant Concert Monday

The series promises to open brilliantly next Monday evening, with the appearance of Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, called the world's greatest contralto, as the soloist. This great singer, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, excelling in dramatic roles and famous both in Europe and in America for her Wagnerian interpretations, will be heard in two numbers which, when sung in Philadelphia recently, called forth a storm of applause. They are the letter scene from Tchaikovsky's opera, "Eugene Onegin," and the poignantly beautiful love-death of Isolde from Wagner's immortal masterpiece of Tristan and Isolde. The orchestra will play the prelude to this latter opera.

To Play Fifth Symphony

The first number on the program is the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven of which Berlioz said: "It appears to me to be the direct and unmixed product of the genius of its author, the development of his most individual mind. His secret sorrows, his fits of rage or depression, his visions by night, and his dreams of enthusiasm by day form the subjects of the work, while the forms both of melody and harmony, of rhythm and instrumentation, are as essentially new and original as they are powerful and noble."

SIXTY-THREE COMMITTEES STUDY CHILD WELFARE

State Conference in December to Discuss Results of This Work

The State Conference to be held in Dover on December 3rd and 4th under the auspices of the Reconstruction Commission, is the climax of a State-wide Child Welfare study that has been made in Delaware during the past few months by some fifty local Child Welfare Committees. The plan and results of the study have attracted favorable comment from the U. S. Children's Bureau and from several National organizations doing Child Welfare work.

The study was drawn up to get and give information on conditions and desirable measures in the various branches of Child Welfare. By an arrangement of sections grouped under the general head of "Child Welfare," a comprehensive idea was given of what subjects must be considered in relation to Child Welfare. The relationships of public health, general social welfare, child health, education, employment of women and children, moral influence, recreation, and of the needs of the dependent, defective and delinquent children were clearly shown. Emphasis was given to the fact that no one phase of the Child Welfare problem should be treated as a separate thing, and that proper development of any branch helps all the other branches. Questionnaire form was used for the study. It was drawn up by the following agencies, Reconstruction Commission, State Board of Health, Wilmington Board of Health, State Board of Charities, State Board of Education, State Labor Commission, the Consumers' League, the Community Service, the Juvenile Court of Wilmington and the Children's Bureau. The questions were non-technical, and required no canvass. They simply suggested inquiry and expression of opinion on points that are of general concern to everyone desiring Child Welfare.

Although most communities realize the necessity of proper measures for some of the needs of children, there are still many who are only beginning really to understand the necessity for pre-natal care for mothers, adequate recreational opportunities for children, properly controlled milk supply, increased protection for employed women and children, different handling of juvenile delinquency problems and safeguards on many other points brought out by the study, if the children of the State are to have their due in protection and opportunity. All communities do not have exactly the same problems in the same degree, but in some form and to some degree every community has all the problems. In addition, all have a state citizenship responsibility that makes it an obligation for every locality to recognize the problems as common to all. The obligation can be fulfilled only by forming an intelligent and helpful point of view about the questions that depend upon state-wide action for improvement.

The interest taken by local committees formed to answer the questionnaire has been very gratifying. At first it was thought the project would be satisfactory if thirty-five committees would undertake the study. The number secured was sixty-three, and filled-in questionnaires have been received from fifty-three of that number.

One of the worth-while results of the study has been that several of the committees have decided to form permanent bodies to promote Child Welfare in their communities. Two have opened Child Health centres under a cooperative plan with the Reconstruction Commission.

The significant findings in the Child Welfare study will be reported and discussed at the Conference. Other features of the programs will be addresses by two of the most notable and unusually interesting speakers in the Child Welfare world—Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, and Wiley H. Swift, an expert in laws relating to Child Welfare.

CHURCH TO CELEBRATE 200TH ANNIVERSARY

On next Thursday afternoon and evening the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Lower Brandywine Presbyterian Church, located on the Kennett Pike, near Centerville, will take place with interesting exercises, beginning at 2 o'clock with special singers and appropriate music by the choir. The former pastors, Rev. Thomas McDowell, of Elkview, Pa.; Rev. J. T. Marshall, of Washington, D. C.; Rev. S. L. Irvine, of Street, Md.; and Rev. Newton Kugler, of Camden, N. J., will speak in the afternoon. The Presbytery of New Castle will be represented by Rev. Joseph Brown Turner, and Rev. J. D. Blake. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock.

In the evening a history of the church will be read by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Kugler will speak on the "Spiritual Life of the Church," and Rev. Alexander Alison, formerly of West Church, Wilmington, will make the formal address of the evening.

This church was organized in 1720, near Birmingham, on the west side of the Brandywine, but the location was moved to the present site in 1774, because most of the members lived on this side, there being no bridge to cross above Wilmington. The present brick edifice was erected in 1859 and 1860. The present pastor came to the church on April 25, 1909.

CHILDREN ENROLLING AS RED CROSS MEMBERS

Efforts to enroll the 40,000 school children of Delaware as Junior members of Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross are proceeding more successfully during the present Fourth Roll Call than any other campaign that has ever been waged in this State for Junior members. This is due largely to the fact that while in the past the dues for Juniors has been 25c per child, whereas in this campaign, there are no individual memberships, but in place of them forty-five cents per school room, whether there be 10 or 60 children. Each child contributes a penny or two and all money above the 45c per room is kept by the teacher, and held in use in case of emergency, the teacher reporting, however the excess money contributed.

KIPLING IN MOVIES A TRIUMPH FOR PATHE PEOPLE

Author's Powerful Visualization Ideal for Picturization

To capture Kipling for the movies must be regarded a triumph for the Pathe people. Others of equal distinction, perhaps, have already been garnered; but somehow he suggests difficulties. Possibly the impression comes from the way he guards his copyrights. It is a feather in the cap of an American firm that he has been secured over the heads of the English companies. Kipling is needed as a writer for the picture screen, says "The Moving-Picture World," (New York). "In his capacity both as a poet and a story-teller, Kipling powerfully visualizes and he contributes that power to his readers," says this writer, going on:

"In their mind's eye they see his character in action. Thus his creations are naturally and easily translated into terms of a motion-picture. This scarcely could have been more evident had he adopted the picture medium in the first instance. But he chose the printed word, and to that he has adhered until finally convinced that both his art and his public would benefit from an excursion into the world of pictures.

"Up to the present the works of Rudyard Kipling are represented in motion-pictures by two examples only. These were Pathe productions, the novel 'The Light That Failed' and the 'Naulahka.' Kipling took no personal part in their picturization. But the adaptations were faithfully made, and public reception of the result more than equaled anticipation. In the three years that have elapsed since the making of these productions many improvements, both mechanical and in the technique of picturization, have been made. A definite technique applied to writing for the screen now has been established, and many distinguished novelists have become masters of it.

"Although Kipling is not ignorant of the art of original composition for picture-production, he welcomes expert suggestions. He is especially interested in the vastly enlarged resources of the motion-picture camera during recent years, and the screen's ability to avail itself of the art advantages of control of all degrees of light and natural atmospheric effects. In his original writing and adapting from his published works for motion-pictures, he will have the assistance of Randolph Lewis, who is considered one of the most capable continuity writers in this country. He is well known as a pioneer of picture-writing in this country, and his services as scenario editor have gained especial value from his intimate knowledge of details, mechanical and otherwise, which enter into picture productions."

Kipling is under contract to write seven features, we are told, and his first script is expected to arrive in November.—November Literary Digest.

URGES SUPPORT OF DR. HULLIHEN

Dr. Walter Hullihen, the new president of Delaware College and the Women's College of Delaware, is making a quiet but effective survey of the financial and other needs of the two institutions.

When he has completed that survey we have no doubt he will make a series of constructive recommendations which will meet with public approval.

Everyone knows that both colleges are in imperative need of funds with which to meet present and prospective requirements. Every dollar of that money that the Legislature possibly can spare should be appropriated to the furtherance of higher education in our State.

If Dr. Hullihen is to succeed as president of the colleges, his administration must be featured by advancement on substantially all lines laid down by Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, his predecessor, and also on lines laid down by himself.

Dr. Hullihen is here. He stands ready and eager to do things. The people of our commonwealth should get back of him and extend the full measure of their moral and financial support.—Evening Journal.

LIMESTONE TO BE USED IN DEMONSTRATION WORK

Farmers Will Determine Relative Merits of Raw and Burned Stone

A car load of raw ground limestone will arrive at Middletown this week to be used for demonstration purposes according to County Agent R. O. Bausman's report made before the Executive Committee of the New Castle County Farm Bureau at its monthly meeting held in the Security Trust Building last Saturday. This limestone will be distributed among fifteen or twenty farmers and the only cost entailed will be a nominal sum covering the freight. The purpose of these demonstrations is to determine as to whether the raw ground limestone is a more practical and cheaper form of limestone than the burned or hydrated.

Mr. Bausman continued his report by stating that the boys' dairy cattle judging team which represented Delaware at the National Dairy Show held in Chicago in October, was awarded twelfth place. Fifteen teams contested. High honors were awarded the Missouri team. The Delaware boys accepted their defeat like men and came back home determined to capitalize their experience and go back next year and bring home the banner. The Farm Bureau has arranged a series of community corn shows through the county this fall. In cooperation with granges or agricultural schools, shows are scheduled to be held at Middletown, Stanton, Newport, Hockessin, Talleyville, Centerville and Harmony.

Mr. Frank Yearsley, President of the New Castle County Farm Bureau, announced that the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau would be held in Wilmington on Tuesday, November 30. The following committees were appointed: Place and program of meeting, C. P. Dickey and R. O. Bausman; Nominations and program of work, J. D. Reynolds, R. G. Buckingham, Fred Snyder, Phillip Pierson and Howard Jones.

NEIGHBOR MARY-LAND COMMENDED FOR ROAD POLICY

Constant Patrol and Speedy Repair Keep Highways
In Good Condition

It is better to build a cheap road and keep it in good condition by adequate maintenance than to build the most expensive highway and permit it to deteriorate for want of care, says officials of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Maryland, which has one of the finest systems of improved highways in the United States, if not the best, has consistently followed this practice. The originally improved roads in Maryland were comparatively inexpensive, costing only what the taxpayers were willing to pay for. The first few years the average cost was less than $10,000 a mile. In some cases the work entailed considerable grading and drainage, but in others it amounted simply to resurfacing the old turnpikes, which had already been graded and drained.

Generally the roads built at that time were macadam, 12 feet wide and 6 inches thick. Soon the width was increased to 14 feet. Later many were widened still farther, some very successfully, by adding concrete shoulders on each side of the existing macadam. This method of improving roads makes it possible for traffic to continue unimpeded on the road while the work is going on.

The macadam roads in Maryland have given very good satisfaction, but continuous care has been largely responsible for their success. The roads are constantly patrolled and no hole of any size is allowed to go unrepaired. Material for patching is kept at convenient points along the road for the use of the patrolman. From a relatively small investment in admittedly low-type road it builds up a better one from year to year, always conserving the bulk of the previous investment.

DOESN'T PAY FARMER TO TAN LEATHER

Apparently it doesn't pay the farmer to tan his own leather. The Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, is conducting leather-making experiments upon the scale to which the average farmer would have to adjust his work, and specialists say that the results obtained thus far do not warrant general practice. Good leather can be made in individual tanneries, but the results are too uncertain to give reliable profits.

The work was taken up by the department when it became evident that the farmers were feeling the injustice of a transaction wherein they sold a whole cowhide for less than they paid out for a pair of work shoes—an occurrence not at all unusual. Investigation shows that the leather dealer is not entirely to blame for the low prices that the farmer receives for his hides. Too often the hide from the farm cow is taken off in a careless manner that leaves the skin full of cuts and holes—farm hides are never as uniform as those bought from the packing houses, where the animals are carefully graded and the skins removed by expert skinners. For that reason the hide buyer is always willing to pay more for the packer's product than he can offer the farmer.

Then, too, the farmer sells his cowhide to the junk dealer, who deducts his profit from the price he pays. Whenever it is possible to collect a number of hides and skins it will pay the owner to deal directly with a large dealer, the specialists say.

"AIN'T IT THE TRUTH!"

A child is born in the neighborhood; the editor gives the loud lunged youngster and the "happy parents" a send off and gets $00. It is christened and the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $00. The editor pushes and tells a dozen lies about the "beautiful and accomplished" bride. The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake and the editor gets $00. In the course of time she dies; the doctor gets from $15 to $100, the minister perhaps gets another $5, the undertaker gets from $75 to $150, the editor publishes a notice of the death, an obituary two columns long and a card of thanks and gets $0.00. No wonder so many country editors get rich. Have you paid your subscription?—Gibsonburg (O.) Derrick.

APPOINTS NEW ADJUTANT-GENERAL

Governor Townsend has appointed Lieutenant-Colonel J. Austin Ellison, of Wilmington, Adjutant-General of our State to succeed General I. Pusey Wickersham, who resigned recently because of ill health. The appointment became effective at once.

Adjutant-General Ellison has figured in the military affairs of our State for twenty-four years. He was only 17 years old when he enlisted as a private in Company K, First Delaware Infantry.

Since then, as a result of his interest, he has advanced steadily until today he occupies the highest military office in the gift of the State.

The records he made in the Spanish-American War and the World War were good. The long experience he has had in the State militia and in those two wars should enable him to do much of a beneficial nature for the military establishment of our commonwealth.

"CATCH-AS-CATCH-CAN"
METHODS OF FARMING
ARE DISCOURAGED

Catch-as-catch-can methods of conducting the farming business are being discouraged through the efforts of the county agent in Madison county, Ala. Farmers were first encouraged to keep expense on labor accounts on the growing of a single crop. Standard record books were furnished for this purpose. The practice has been a great assistance in the planning of a subsequent year's work and has resulted in the saving of expenses, the seriousness of which had not been realized when no accounts were kept. A number of farmers who started keeping accounts have learned the advantage of having a deposit at the bank and have acquired habits of thrift.

APPRECIATION ONE SECRET OF GOOD SERVICE

A young woman was in the market one day when a neighbor came in. The neighbor is a famous housekeeper. People are always envying her the charm and order of her house, and even the excellence of her table. "It does seem," a lady told the girl once, "as if nobody got such fruit and vegetables as Mrs. Patton."

Well, the little lady nodded as she went by the young woman up to the butcher, who was trimming a roast for a very particular customer. "No, I don't want anything this morning, Mr. Dell," the young woman heard the neighbor say. "I just stopped to tell you how delicious those spring chickens were that you sent me yesterday. I had guests for luncheon, and I wanted everything particularly nice. Thank you very much."

That was all. The butcher beamed, and Mrs. Patton went on her way, but the listening young woman was suddenly convinced that she had discovered a secret worth knowing. "People say that Mrs. Patton always gets the best of everything. Maybe that's because she gives the best appreciation in return," she thought. "There are a dozen people who will scold the butcher over the phone because the meat is tough, but not many who think to mention the fact that the chickens that he sent were fine."

It is not safe to pass over too many failures, for fear the conclusion should be reached that we don't care. But the secret of getting the best is often nothing more than the ready appreciation which meets every honest effort halfway.

"BIRD PROOF" CORN ON THE EASTERN SHORE

"Bird Proof" corn is the latest agricultural talk of the Eastern Shore of Maryland and recent exhibits in schools, granges and general stores have demonstrated that it is a coming popular specie in the field of agronomy. The corn was grown by Robert N. Boston, of near Chestertown, Md. Mr. Boston is the originator of this breed of corn, which is attracting wide attention among the farmers, because of its producing qualities and its safety from attack by birds, all the ears growing downward on the stalks instead of in the usual manner.

Announcement is also made that 1921 license tags may be used five days in the month of December, beginning with December 27, 1920.

MAY GET SPECIAL
AUTOMOBILE LICENSE NUMBERS THIS MONTH

According to a statement issued from the office of Secretary of State, automobile registration numbers held by the owners during the year 1920 will be issued for 1921 during the month of November. Beginning with December 1, registrations will be issued to all applicants but no special numbers granted.

Disease Prevention

Through its Health Service the American Red Cross has begun a nationwide concentrated effort in co-operation with established organizations to reduce greatly the amount of preventable disease and physical defects faced among the country's 106,000,000 population. Education is its most powerful tool. Special attention is devoted to children, and this picture shows a typical Red Cross welfare clinic where little ones are treated and mothers instructed in the proper care of them.

First of Community Corn Shows at Middletown

A Community Corn Show will be held here on Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20, under the auspices of the New Castle Farm Bureau and the Agricultural Department of the Middletown High School. In the office of the Eastern States Land Co., in the Opera House building. The town business men have donated prizes in merchandise and cash for the best exhibits. The prizes are now on display in the window of the Eastern States Land Co.

This will be one of a series of corn shows being held in the State, so that the corn growers will have their appetites whetted to a keen edge and be ready for the big Delaware Corn Show at Newark on December 28, 29 and 30. Two classes are provided in the local show so that the boy farmers may compete with their sires under equal conditions.

Cherry Hill Woman Hurt

Mrs. W. F. Grant, wife of Walter F. Grant, formerly of Cherry Hill, met with a serious accident at their home in Plattsburg, N. Y. She was standing on a second story back porch pinning clothes to a pulley line, when the line broke, causing her to lose her balance and fall about 12 feet to the ground. Her right ankle and wrist were broken and back injured.

Will Raise Peach and Orange Trees

Pierre du Pont is having three large glass houses built on his Longwood estate, near Kennett Square. Two of the houses will be used to raise peach and orange trees and are twenty-five feet to the square, and the roofs slant twenty-five feet higher, so they will shelter trees should they grow fifty feet high. The other house will be used as an opera house, and will be large enough to seat 400 or 500 persons.

DR. HULLIHEN'S SPEECH FEATURE OF ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

Recommends Five Articles for American Legion
Creed

Addressing the public meeting Thursday night, which concluded the Armistice Day celebration, Dr. Walter E. Hullihen, new president of Delaware College, urged the American Legion, of which he is a member, to add five additional articles to its creed providing for:

Adequate military preparedness.

Insistence that Americanism means American patriotism and ideals.

Demand for full compensation for those who suffered in the war.

To keep faith with the post and with their war comrades who did not come back by taking part in a definite plan to eliminate war.

To keep bright the record of the American Legion for loyalty and service.

Mayor Taylor presided over the meeting which was held in the Auditorium, Eleventh and Madison streets, Wilmington. Everett C. Johnson, Secretary of State, also spoke, and Miss Lydia Harris and Frederick Jordan sang solos. Dancing followed until midnight.

Dr. Hullihen, who enlisted as a private at an officers' training camp and came out of the war with rank of major, opened his address by extending greetings from the American Legion of Tennessee to the Legion of Delaware. His own membership now is being transferred from the Tennessee to the Delaware department.

"I think it is a great satisfaction and a source of pride to us," he said, "looking back over the history of those dark days leading up to the signing of the armistice, to recall how slowly and with what forethought the American people went into that grand conflict. Many of you, like myself, felt very anxious in the early years of the European war, lest this nation might not go in. Looking back now it is a satisfaction to know that we went in slowly, that we measured the situation, that the events of the war gradually molded our opinions and determined our final decision."

"All of that time we were deciding whether a free, democratic people had any business mixing in an European quarrel."

He praised the President's message which resulted in a declaration of war, in which Mr. Wilson declared the United States was not entering the war for selfish purposes, but as champion of the rights of mankind.

Opera House Offerings

Pearl White Makes Bellhop Blush

A keen sense of humor is one of the many appealing qualities of Pearl White, the William Fox star, who comes to the Opera House on Monday in a picturization of George Goodchild's famous story "Tiger's Cub."

Rooms had been engaged for her in a small hotel in the town where she went to make exteriors for this picture. Accosting the clerk she asked:

"Are there any rooms for me here?"

"Yes, suite sixteen," replied the clerk, smiling.

"Guess again, my boy; you have missed it by a couple of years," laughed the star as she took the key.

And the unsophisticated clerk blushed.

"Challenge of the Law" Coming
At the Opera House next Tuesday "The Challenge of the Law," a William Fox production, will be shown. The popular William Russell is the star, and E. Lloyd Sheldon wrote the story.

"The Challenge of the Law" is described as a smashing dramatic production, filled to the brim with suspense and heart interest which holds the spectator until the very end.

As a Captain of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, Russel cleans up a fur smuggling exchange single-handed, pursues a band of desperadoes across the desert, runs down the murderer of his pal, and of course wins the girl he loves.

This picture can be recommended as one of the really worthwhile productions of the season, because of the clean and wholesome atmosphere throughout, and because it is a vivid story interestingly told, with plenty of thrills and action.

CONGRESS PLANS REORGANIZATION OF EXECUTIVE DEPT'S

Bureaus of Public Works and Public Welfare May Supplant Interior

Complete reorganization of the Government executive departments is contemplated by the incoming Republican administration as among its first moves for betterment.

Among the chief moves in bringing this about are the abolition of the Department of the Interior and the creation of a Department of Public Works and a Department of Public Welfare, with the head of each in the cabinet.

For this great change Senator Medill McCormick, of Illinois, will introduce a bill at the beginning of the final session of the present Congress next month. He has worked out a comprehensive plan. The functions of the Interior Department have become somewhat minimized if not obsolete. With the development of the West, the General Land Office is not what it used to be. Nor is the Office of Indian Affairs. The Bureau of Pensions has been somewhat superseded by the War Risk.

It is believed by McCormick that the Geological Survey, the Reclamation Service and the Bureau of Mines should be transferred to a Department of Public Works. To this he would add the river and harbor work now done by the War Department, and such other bureaus as would fit in.

To the Department of Public Welfare he would give the Bureau of Education, the functions of which would be greatly enlarged; the Women's Bureau in the Department of Labor, all units which touch upon the condition of women and children, and other and newer functions.

While it is true that all bureaus and departments of the Federal Government are supposed to subservise the public welfare, and while the suggested name of Department of Public Welfare may be different when the law is finally enacted by Congress, this Department will take over all the social work of the Government, including the Bureau of War Risk.

It is the idea of the Republican party leaders to develop good roads as much as possible, and this would be one of the chief duties of the Department of Public Works. The department which Senator Harry New, of Indiana, had in mind for the development of aircraft, would probably be carried out in the Public Works end, though probably reduced to a bureau.

Budget Bill Also a Possibility
With full power in the House, Senate and presidency, the Republicans in Congress are looking forward to a constructive program. During the past year and a half they have been handicapped by a majority of only two in the Senate, and by a President and cabinet wholly at variance with them. But after the 4th of March they will be able to carry their views into full effect. Thus one of the first measures to go through, and probably without change, will be the budget bill. This was vetoed by President Wilson because it slightly diminished his power; that is it made subject to the will of Congress the taxing and appropriating power of the Government, the auditor general who would see to the prevention of waste through overlapping estimates.

It is likely, too, that now that the Republicans are coming into full power they will see that there will be an entire reclassification of the Government departmental clerks, and in fact of all employees of the Government. Some of the salaries paid are at the same rate as in 1860. Then, too, the departments are notoriously out of date in many of their methods. This fact, together with the incompetency, waste and high-handedness of the Wilson administration from top to bottom, has made necessary a complete reorganization, which will be forthcoming after March 4.

Complete reorganization of the Government executive departments is contemplated by the incoming Republican administration as among its first moves for betterment.

CORN SHOW TO BE HELD AT HOCKESSIN

Many Premiums Offered;
Much Interest Manifested

"This is going to be the biggest Corn Show ever held in Hockessin," said Fred Trimble when discussing the Corn Show which will be held in the Grange Hall at Hockessin, Monday evening, November 22, under the direction of the Hockessin Grange and the New Castle County Farm Bureau.

Mr. Trimble and County Agent Bausman are assisting the farmers in preparing the samples of corn, and in the words of Mr. Bausman, some of the samples are going to make them take notice when they go to the State Show at Newark.

Mr. M. O. Pence, County Agent Leader, will judge the corn and vegetables and address the meeting.

The premium list follows: Best single ear of each white, yellow and white cap or mixed corn; best ten ears of each white, yellow and white cap or mixed corn; best one-half peck of white potatoes; best plate of five apples of following varieties, Stayman wine sap, York Imperial, Roman Beauty and Paragon; best pie of the following kinds, apple, pumpkin, lemon meringue and raisin; best cake of the following kinds, coconut, chocolate, devil's food and loaf; best rusks and best loaf of bread.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY TO MEET EARLIER THIS YEAR

Sessions to be Held at Hotel du Pont Soon After Thanksgiving

Farmers and others in the community interested in agriculture are glad of the fact that the Peninsula Horticultural Society is holding its annual meeting this year in the Hotel du Pont, Wilmington, November 30, December 1 and 2—a month earlier than usual. The program will include the discussion of practical matters connected with fruit growing by the best practical growers; a full discussion of the use of fertilizers by Dr. W. D. Hurd, of Washington, Dr. W. C. Rhode, of Baltimore, and Professor Anthony of the Pennsylvania State College; a full discussion of marketing problems, and the selling and distribution of farm products; the control of such diseases as apple scab, and such pests as codling moth and other insects, and many other topics.

Both Governor Townsend, of Delaware; and Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, are expected to make addresses. John H. Barclay, of Cranbury, N. J., will discuss apple growing. Mr. Barclay has been drawing the big prizes at fruit shows. G. Hale Harrison, of Maryland and A. N. Brown, of Delaware, will discuss orchard problems. Professor Droman, of New York, will talk on the home fruit and vegetable garden. Dr. Thomas J. Headlee, a very popular and very forceful speaker, a man of wide experience and close observation, will give up-to-date information on the control of orchard insects. Dr. Manns, of Delaware College, will take up the subject of fungus diseases and will give a special paper on "Control of Sweet Potato Diseases." Professor Detjen, of Delaware College, will give a very interesting paper on "A Lesson From an American Prune." Mr. Arthur W. Rounds, of Newark, Del., and Professor Thomas H. White, of Maryland, will discuss tomato growing; Professor Ernest N. Croy, State Entomologist of Maryland, will give a lantern slide lecture on insects; Professor C. A. McCue, Dean of the Delaware Agricultural College, will give a paper on "Some Agricultural Problems in Delaware." These are not all.

In a word the three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be taken up with the most lively and interesting discussion of the live problems connected with the production and distribution of fruit and vegetables. "It will be worth any man's while to take off three days to attend this meeting. The fruit and vegetable show itself will be too valuable for anyone to miss" is the verdict of those who know the excellence of the program to be presented.

COMMITTEE FOR SCHOOL LAW CHANGE MEETS AT DOVER

Nineteen Attend; Appoint Sub-
Committees and Plan Work

The committee of 35 appointed by the holdover State Senators about a month ago for the purpose of drafting a new school law to take the place of the present School Code, met at Dover on Friday. Only 13, however, were present. The morning session was spent mainly in discussing the best methods of getting at a revision of the present Code or the drafting of a new law altogether. Before the noon adjournment, it was suggested that a committee be appointed to appoint sub-committees to take up the various phases of the Code and consider changes. The suggestion was favorably acted upon and a committee consisting of Chairman Robert H. Houston, Harry L. Cannon, Mrs. H. P. Scott and William Tharp was appointed.

At the noon recess the above committee met and selected the following committees:

Taxation—George L. Townsend, Jean Shallcross, Thomas Weldin, Robert G. Houston, J. Morris Harrington, James H. Hughes, David S. Clark, Eben Townsend, Mrs. Virginia T. Adkins, J. Stanley Short.

Administration—H. L. Dilworth, H. H. Ward, Dr. R. W. Cooper, Mrs. Harmon Reynolds, Elmer Bowdle, Mrs. C. E. Speakman, Mrs. Etta Gray Jones, Dr. Robert B. Hopkins, Daniel J. Layton, William B. Tharp.

Consolidation and Transportation—George Medill, Chairman; William S. Hilles, Charles Simon, Mrs. H. P. Scott, Elijah Melvin, Mrs. Mary L. Marshall, Henry Ridgely, Elmer Tindal, V. M. Murray, Dr. Robert B. Hopkins, Robert G. Houston.

An executive committee also was appointed, to which the sub-committees are to report the data they compile. This committee consists of Dr. R. W. Cooper, William S. Hilles, James H. Hughes, Dr. Robert B. Hopkins, Robert G. Houston.

It was further agreed that the various sub-committees meet in their respective counties and consider the different phases of the School Code, or a new law, so that when called in general committee they may have something definite upon which to work.

Expresses Regret at Lack of Interest

Chairman Robert G. Houston in calling the meeting to order admitted his disappointment at the small attendance and expressed a belief that the committee was too large in itself to prepare a draft of a school law, believing that a smaller committee should be appointed for such purpose. He expressed the view that something must be done to safeguard the welfare of the child, hence some change may be necessary in the present school laws. Several suggestions were made as to how to go about apparent needed changes in the law, among which were the dividing up of the committee to consider several phases, including taxation and transportation. A question was raised as to whether all of the machinery as provided for in the code, including the State Board of Education, truant officers, attendance officers, supervisors and county superintendents was necessary, the opinion being that many of these things were too burdensome. Dr. R. W. Cooper explained the taxation question and other phases of the school law.

Frequent expressions were made that something must be done in the way of changing the present school code.

David S. Clark, of Kenton, expressed the idea that unless something was done eventually the entire code might be wiped out.

After considerable discussion as to the best method of getting down to something definite on the suggestion of George L. Townsend it was decided that the chairman appoint a committee on committees.

Three resignations from the original committee were reported. They included William M. Hope, Dover; George B. Miller, Wilmington; William Rothwell, New Castle.

Expressions from members of the committee at the meeting showed a disappointment at the interest taken in the school question, some freely admitting that they thought the appointment of the committee was useless, as the incoming Legislature would in no way be bound by action of the committee in framing any draft of a school law.

But two members of the school commissions in the State were present.
