Large Squad To Maintain
Aircraft Watch At Milford Crossroad

Forty-four volunteers have enrolled to man Newark's newly organized ground observation post, which will be part of the civil defense system of the eastern seaboard.

All aircraft spotted by the observers will be reported to the nearest Air Force Filter Center where reports from neighboring posts will be correlated until a "track" of the aircraft is determined.

The nation's vast network of ground observation posts will serve as a supplement to the country's radar defenses. Except for training alerts, the post is not planning to maintain a round-the-clock watch until an emergency develops.

Chief Dehorty announced this week that his assistant chief is Edward C. Pierson, Jr., Newark RD 2.

Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church

This 228 year old church was filled Sunday for the dedication of the John D. Blake memorial chancel and the other memorial gifts including chimes. There were 455 persons present, according to the count of the ushers. This is the largest group ever to assemble in this edifice. The sanctuary has been enlarged, redecorated, and restored to its simple colonial design. A unique feature of this building program was that Robert M. Walker drew the plans for this chancel and it cost $6,000. In 1771, almost 200 years before, Mr. Walker was allowed 20¢ to build the pulpit and clerk's seat in the first church erected in 1761. That history repeats itself is proven in this case. The services on Sunday were in charge of Rev. George Teaz Jamieson, pastor, assisted by Fred Trimble, a student at Princeton Theological Seminary and a local church youth. Tribute was paid to the late John D. Blake, pastor for 55 years, for whom the chancel was named. Mr. Blake had dreamed of this improvement and it has been carried out in simplicity of design as would have been his desire.

The Aid Society will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trimble on Old Wilmington Road.

isn't good enough for you or for us!

If you knew the answer to one question . . . you'd have no problem when you consider buying a car.

The question is, of course, which car at your price gives you the most for your money?

The one true way to find out is a part by part analysis of the cars that interest you.

You would find it very revealing to watch Chrysler Corporation engineers and production men make such an analysis. It is part of their job every year to take all makes of cars apart—strip them down part by part for careful study.

These men examine the way each part is made, how it functions, and how it compares in design and quality to the most advanced engineering and manufacturing practices.

What would impress you is the fact that over and over again, Chrysler Corporation engineers and production men reject the idea of compromise of quality, reject the cutting of corners in workmanship.

"As good as" . . . isn't good enough for them.

Once you learn from experience how well Chrysler-built cars are made, you'll understand why we keep on designing to exceed the industry's going standards.

We invite you to take a good look at what's behind the best liked Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars in history. When you see and drive these cars . . . and talk to your friends who own them . . . you will find dollar's worth that stands alone today.

Dollar's worth that means more than you get when you buy the car that's known for one thing alone—a engine—a transmission—or something else!

Dollar's worth that comes from the sum of superior working parts! Whole car value in greater durability, greater comfort, convenience! Whole car value in performance and all the satisfactions that only the car which is good and sound all the way through can give.

There's an able dealer near you—carefully selected for his integrity, his experience, his reputation for fair dealing, and his ability to serve you well. His name is listed below. You can count on him for the best in service and square dealing. Look him up. Come in. He'll be glad to see you—glad to answer your questions—glad to demonstrate and prove . . . part by part . . . what customer satisfaction Chrysler Corporation cars are designed to give.

Journalism Class Visits Newark Printing Co.

Members of the high school journalism class visited the Newark Printing Co. Monday, October 16. The visit was taken there by the class under the auspices of the Journalism Club. The printer explained the various processes of printing and the operation of the printing press. The class was shown various pieces of machinery and the operation of each machine. The printer also explained the various processes of printing and the operation of the printing press. The class was shown various pieces of machinery and the operation of each machine.

After a successful year in "49," Ernest Lloyd, a junior, is taking it upon himself to train fifteen students in drumming. Last year Ernest had a class of six from which he developed three drummers that he could put into the band.

This year Ernie and Mr. Wilder will take a class of fifteen youngsters ranging from grades five to eight and teach them to play snare and bass drums, cymbals, and bells.

Mr. Wilder believes at least one year of apprenticeship in drumming is required before one is eligible to enter the band. From these Mr. Wilder expects to get at least five good drummers.

Miss Kirk's homeroom presented three plays last Wednesday in the high school auditorium during assembly program.

The first play was "Give Me A Ring." Those who participated were Mary J. Chalmers, Dolores Abrams, Arthur Boulden, Bill Carrow, James Clancy, Susan Butler, Margaret Brierley, Betty Lou Butler, Peggy Cunane, and Paul Blansfield.

The second was "Immortal Lovers." The characters were John Craig, Alys Rae Carter, Leonard Allitt, Eleanor Davis, and John Bellanca.

The third play was "Cemetery Moon." Those participating were Jackie Barrett, and Thomas Burke.

Peggy Cunane read the Bible and Janice Olson was director of the plays. Rodney Dann acted as chairman for the assembly.

N-A Homeroom Presents Three Short Plays

Newark Conquers Wm. Penn by 39-13 Newark's college-town boys defeated the Colonials from New Castle by the tune of 39 to 13. The game was played on the Yellowjackets field last Friday night.

Bunny Blaney, the ace scatback of the Yellowjackets, scored 4 touchdowns. Blaney went 30, 60, 30 and 40 yards for the touchdowns. Dave George, the Jackets' quarterback, added two more, and Earl Schaan, the fullback, kicked 3 extra points. Jack Klusella, the Colonials right end, scored on a pass play. Dick Kleckner, another wingman, galloped for a touchdown on a pass play. Ray Elliott, the Colonials back, made the conversion. Donnie Sharpe, the Yellowjackets defense lineman, played great ball against the New Castilians. Everybody on the Newark squad saw action.

Clipping dairy cows now that they are spending more time in the barn is a good management practice, says Delmar J. Young, extension dairy specialist at the University of Delaware.

Mental Ills Based On Failure To Face Reality, AAUW Hears

Dr. Gerald Gordon, speaker at the AAUW monthly meeting Monday night, said this country lacks a normal degree of mental health and that an unawareness of this lack makes it doubly dangerous.

According to him, good mental health is a birthright. Blaming heredity is just one of the many excuses used. He believes that mental illness is a failure of men to adjust to reality. He developed this thought through all the social and economic phases of modern living, saying that poor mental health is a result of accepting delusions in place of reality and dependence in place of self reliance.

Dr. Gordon used his wide experience in the field of psychiatry to illustrate his points. He did his medical training in Louisville, Kentucky, then took his psychiatric training in England, working with the Red Cross and the Army. He has been in private practice, and is at present with the DuPont Company. His talk was followed by a lively question period.

At a business meeting held after the program, Mrs. T. D. Mylre, chairman of the membership committee, announced that 37 new members have joined the Newark Branch of AAUW. Mrs. Samuel Handloff and Miss A. Jeanette Thoroughgood attended some of the sessions of the Herald Tribune Forum this week in New York City. Miss Jane Gardner announced that a study group for jewelry making is being formed. Meetings dates will be announced. The next meeting of the branch will be held Dec. 4 when Mrs. George W. Rigby will show movies and slides of her recent trip to Europe.

E-52 To Stage 1-Act Plays Tuesday Nite

On Tuesday, Oct. 31, the University of Delaware E-52 Players will present in Mitchell Hall at 8:15 a Laboratory Theatre program which will include the performance of two one-act plays. They are Jack Jacobs' "Bride-Ship" and Norman Holland's "Day Before Yesterday." Both plays have appeared in recent issues of "Ten Best One-Act Plays of the Year."

"Bride-Ship" will be directed by Adele Nurock and has a 10-girl cast. Parts will be played by Jeannette Taylor, Geraldine Weiss, Virginia Wells, Gertrude Tierney, Frances Evens, Sarah Bluestone, Norma Levine, Mae Singer, Madolyn Borna, and Jessie Burks.

This is the first of three laboratory theatres to be conducted by the E-52 players during the year. The purpose is to try out new talent, plays, and staging techniques, and to give students experience in directing. Miss Nurock and Miss Singer are both dramatic majors and members of the E-52 Players.

AAUW Study Group Meetings Scheduled

The music study group of the American Association of University Women will meet Wednesday, Nov. 1, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Mosher, 56 West Delaware Avenue at 8 p.m. The group, led by Mrs. Jack Gerster, will start a short study of contemporary music and also plans to do some singing for fun.

A formative meeting for a book group will also be held Nov. 1 at the home of Miss A. Jeannette Thoroughgood, 38 West Delaware Avenue, at 8 p.m. At this time plans will be made for the type of reading desired, and the schedule of meetings.

The next session of the International Relations Study Group will be held Wednesday, Nov. 15, with Mrs. C. M. Olson, 801 Orchard Road. This meeting will start promptly at 8 p.m. Mrs. Samuel Handloff will give a 10 minute report on a current topic. This will be followed by a discussion on the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations led by Mrs. F. B. Kutz, and a report on Peru by Miss A. Jeannette Thoroughgood.

All members of AAUW interested in any of these groups are urged to attend. Anyone else who cannot belong to AAUW is also welcome to join any of the study groups.

The Newark Post, Newark, Delaware, Thursday, October 26, 1950

FILLIN' IN

It was with a fine feeling of being caught up in important affairs of state that we stepped last Friday night into the high school auditorium, bedecked with flags of the United Nations, to hear two members of the U. S. State Department tell us something about their jobs with the UN.

On the stage, flanked by the familiar faces of the local civic and church leaders, were the two guests, looking unimpressively human. One was a courtly, genial old gentleman, who sat as if waiting for someone to bring him his slippers. The other was an earnest, bright-looking, overly poised young man, the kind one invariably hears described as "sure to go far."

They had been billed as political experts of wide experience, the older one an ambassador of long service and the younger a Harvard Law School graduate and promising governmental careerist.

They were lesser statesmen, possibly, but we wanted to hear what they had to say because, in their jobs, they are on speaking terms with the men who will eventually decide whether or not we shall have to make a down payment on a backyard A-bomb shelter.

We were a bit shocked to find they did not measure up to the picture of bureaucrats which we had drawn from the daily press and weekly news magazines. Neither looked the slightest bit depraved, irresponsible or muddle-headed. Nor did they appear to be inept bunglers, callously allowing the country to drift into chaos.

This impression of their basic sincerity and competence was heightened when they began to talk. They appeared eager for an opportunity to speak directly to a group of plain citizens. Both were earnest in the manner of men who have something urgent to say and are afraid words are not equal to the task.

Don't get us wrong. We have never been a UN booster. We've always been inclined to regard that organization as a pointless duplication of the League of Nations, decked out with new verbiage and a new set of palatial buildings but with no more sincerity of purpose. We have always thought the problem of world peace to be a simple one. Merely a matter of enough men, especially enough leaders of men, wanting peace badly enough. Until the desire is there, all the charters, covenants and palatial buildings are a waste of time.

But we found out Friday night that it may not be quite so simple as all that. One of the things we hadn't thought much about was mentioned by Dr. Corrigan, the elderly gent.

At one point, he described the UN not as an organization but as a hodge-podge of individuals, each with different backgrounds, irreconcilable attitudes and even different modes of logic. They all think differently, and they are going to go right on thinking that way. What seems a reasonable stand to one appears as sheer bull-headedness to another. "Tolerance is not enough," Dr. Corrigan claimed, if you are going to get anywhere in a group like this. Eventually you reach a point, he said, where you realize the important thing is not to change another man's thinking but to attempt to understand his point of view. When you start doing that, you have begun to grow up politically. And that, he indicated, is what the UN is doing for the men who work in it.

As for the Russians, whom the speakers referred to unhesitatingly as the "Sovjets," they simply require more "growing up" than the other UN members.

We came away from Friday night's meeting with the feeling that even though the UN may prove to be no more than the kindergarten stage in the development of a world organization, it nevertheless is a bona fide start, a necessary phase in the maturing of right-thinking men.

This is the third, and we hope final, installment on that burning question—who owned Newark's first automobile. Anyone foolish enough to have worried along with us on this will recall that the last candidate for the honor was the late Samuel Donnell, who around 1904 owned an International high wheeler with a double chain drive. Now, up steps octogenarian W. R. Kennedy, of 85 North College Avenue, to tell us in quavering tones but no uncertain terms that we are once again all wet. Not only did he own a car before this upstart Donnell, but he knows of two other Newarkers who owned autos before he (Kennedy) did.

Mr. Kennedy called on us personally to tell us this, and, what's more, he brought along documented proof in the form of his original license tag (D119) of leather with brass numerals. "Made 'em yourself in those days," he said, and we found no difficulty at all in maintaining a nonplussed silence.

Mr. Kennedy went on to explain that the first car he bought was an electric buggy with a tiller steering gear, which he promptly named "Old Never Start." He doesn't remember the exact year, but he knows it was before the Donnell era. He showed us a picture of it (the car, not the era, wise guy) and it looked, as far as we could tell, exactly like an electric buggy with a tiller steering gear.

The two who owned cars before Kennedy, according to Kennedy, were Dick Warpole and Bill Curtis. Both bought Stanley Steamers, and, in case you're interested, Warpole later converted his to gasoline.

Delaware To Invade Allentown Saturday For Game With Mules

Safety Spells Defeat For Hens In 9-7 Loss To Lafayette; Guthridge And Carmichael Expected Back In Action For Muhlenberg Test

In comparative scores mean anything, Bill Murray's University of Delaware Blue Hens will be in for another rough evening this weekend. After losing a 9-7 game to Lafayette on Saturday, the Hens face Howard Baughman's high-flying Muhlenberg eleven this weekend in Allentown, and after the ease with which the Mules disposed of the Leopards two weeks ago, it appears that they'll be definite favorites this weekend.

The Murray-men came out of the bitter fracas on Saturday with their second loss of the season and one injury. Joe Lank, crack defensive halfback, needed seven stitches to close a facial laceration, but the big Milford boy is expected to be ready for the Mule clash this weekend. There's a good chance that the Hens might once again be at full strength for their eleventh meeting with the Cardinal and Gray. Quarterback Frank Guthridge, out since the opener, and halfback John DeGasperi, missing for two weeks, both might be back in harness.

Saturday's battle, a defensive melee throughout that saw neither team able to muster 100 yards on the ground, found the Hens scoring quickly on a 40 yard pass play, Bill Shockley to Marvel McWilliams. A safety on a blocked punt and a one yard scoring punch by big Gordon Fleming gave the Leopards their nine points and their first victory of the season, and neither team could do more in the offensive column.

Muhlenberg has taken six of the ten games in their series with Delaware, but Murray has good luck against them. The first five games resulted in shut out wins for the Pennsylvanians before Delaware could win, 6-0, in 1923. Since the resumption of the series in 1946, Delaware has captured three of the four games, with last year's class going to the Hens by a 25-13 score. Muhlenberg has stopped Bucknell, Lafayette, and Gettysburg and lost an upset decision to Lebanon Valley. Delaware has lost to Lehigh and Lafayette and topped West Chester and P.M.C.

Clippers Extend 3 Year String To 18

The Newark Clippers triumphed in their second league grid game last Sunday at Eden Park where they downed Madison A.C., 23-6. Newark has run its string of successive wins over a three year period to 18.

Newark, led by the pitching arm of Tom Burke, scored twice in the first half on long passes to Seydell and Baker. In the last period of play George Martin, the Clippers' tailback, smashed over from the one yard line. Madison was trapped behind their goal line, by Burt Schean for a Newark safety.

Football Squad Celebrates NHS Victory By Dressing Up

N.H.S. football squad donned Sunday-go-meeting clothes on Monday, October 16 in celebration of the WHS victory, October 13. White shirts, ties, and coats were included in the dress of the football team.

Friday, the day before the game, they wore the oldest clothes they could find. Instead of wearing old sloppy clothes they would much rather wear their football jerseys which would look much neater. However, the coach and teachers disagree with this idea.

After winning their game Friday night they thought they would shock the teachers by really getting dressed up. Monday morning they all had on ties and coats. No wonder it's been cloudy and foggy this week!

Jackets Again Favorites In Clash Tomorrow At Claymont

Overwhelming, 39-13, Victory Over William Penn Week Keeps Newark On Shrinking List Of State's Unbeaten Schoolboy Teams

After boosting their grid stock with another overwhelming victory Friday when they scuttled William Penn, 39-13, Newark's Hawks will again be the odds-on favorites when they meet the Claymont team tomorrow on the latter's gridiron. The kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

The contest, originally scheduled for Saturday, was moved up at the request of Claymont.

The Jackets, with four victories under their belts against one of the few unbeaten schoolboy eleven in the state, and everything in an easy victory over the Indians, who are having a mediocre season, will be pointing forward to the contest of Saturday, which is the always possible upset.

The Jackets showed class and polish in brushing aside William Penn here last week. The offensive big-gun was Bunny Blaney, who personally provided four of Newark's six scores, all on long spectacular runs. Dave George accounted for the other two. Earl Schaen booted three extra points.

A major factor in each score was the devastating downfield blocking. Blaney's running mates swept a wide path for him through the Colonial's secondary.

Another reason for the lopsided margin was the Jacket line which outcharged the visitors throughout the game. The forward wall has been a mainstay all season, as is shown by the statistics. In the last three games, the Jacket linemen have yielded a total of only 200 yards to their opponents.

The Jackets came through the fracas in fairly good physical shape. Quarterback Andy Murphy suffered a shoulder injury, and Al Sparks hurt a toe, but both are likely to be back in the thick of things tomorrow at Claymont.

HOW TO "CLICK" as a Party-Line Neighbor

1. When you start to make a telephone call and find your party line in use, hang up gently and give the other person a few minutes to finish his call.

2. When, while talking, you realize that your neighbor is waiting to make a call, hang up reasonably soon and free the line.

These little courtesies are returned again and again—with dividends in good telephone service. When party-line neighbors cooperate courteously, everybody benefits!

Anna Folwell are planning to spend the Penn State Homecoming at the College.

and Roy Heath have that they gleam over the prospects of the Penn-Navy game at Philadelphia Saturday.

guests at the George Kalb will include Miss Doris Casanova of New York City, and Lieutenant Mrs. Calvin Wright of Chicago, who have been spending a couple of days in New York, and are taking advantage of the opportunity for the reunion of school friends.

and Mrs. James Clower attendants at the Navy-Southern California football game at Baltimore last Saturday. On November 28 will bring a theater party sponsored by the George Kalbs, and other guests, the Calvin Wrights and the Russells Casacelli, the Richard and the Russell Eatons, and the Nesses. The group will have pleasure of seeing "A Streetcar Named Desire" at the Playhouse in New York, and will be entertained by the Kalbs following the play.

we add our hearty congratulations to those being received by Mr. Smith, well known member of the community, on the occasion of his birthday last Thursday? (Incidentally, Bob McVey is eligible for the same day also his "Happy Birthday") We understand that Mr. McVey's day was made complete by a call from his son who is in charge of the weather division on the field near Mobile, Alabama. An anniversary birthday wishes, came the news that said son Smith will be present to the family circle at a post Christmas season.

The Louis Losces spent a pleasant day October 22 in calling on several friends. First stop was at New Square, where they visited Bill and the Rice family, and the Kerns family too.

This is a sad tale about a ride through the woods the other Sunday. "Hen" McVey took Bobby and the horse on this ride, and everything was fine until they stopped to water the horse, when Rowdy, a very favorite, developed a terrific nosebleed. The little horse had seemingly recovered to care and rest after a minor nosebleed necessitated attention, but this was usually a "nosebleed to end all nosebleeds." After stationing the boys on the way out of harm's way, the pony stopped, "Hen" hurried for help, struggling against hope to get back in time. However, Rowdy and the little boys took out for a run. There was no reason for thinking the going was really tough, the way they had come was through a thick tangle of woods and growth that had not been cleared out for years and years, and it makes anyone acquainted with that location give a shudder of relief that these two boys one day, and one severe, spring just seen a pet die so violently had what it took to keep their heads and find their way home, around a safe out.

You can imagine Mrs. McVey's feelings and those of her father, Mr. Smith, when they returned to find the pony dead and the little boys gone. "Hen" McVey returned home from town after the adults had gone to the pony, and when he saw his two boys come up the driveway, hand in hand with sober faces, he inquired with astonishment as to "where mother was." Needless to say, there were some sad people, big and little, around the Smiths and McVeys. Jimmie has another pony, now, "Kitten" is the name. Poor "Dinny," a lovely big collie, is no more. He meant to be good, and was the most obedient, affectionate, well-behaved aristocrat one could imagine in all but that one collie weakness—he just would pursue an automobile occasionally. Well, we suppose he gave a last gasp, challenging, bark for a race, this time, for someone evidently really hit the big dog hard, and sped on with no attempt to rouse the occupants of the house or to call a veterinarian.

Miller Nelson, who bowls with a New London Grange team in Newark, bowled three successive games over 200 Friday, Oct. 13. I guess they put him on the wrong team or something.

Butchering should be postponed until you're sure near-freezing weather is here to stay. It requires near-freezing temperatures to cool down the 100 degree meat of a freshly slaughtered carcass to below 40 degrees in 24 hours. Most spoilage starts during the first day if carcasses have not been properly hung, split, and cooled.

REPUBLICAN PARTY INCREASED PENSIONS — to embrace voluntary contributions by teachers. Monthly pensions, state tax-exempt, to be raised from the present minimum of $50.00 to a new minimum of $100.00. Present maximum of $150.00 raised to $250.00. Plan would include a provision for disability retirement after 15 years' service. SABBATICAL LEAVES — support of a system, for teachers and members of supervisory staffs of Delaware Schools, entitling them to one full school year of leave, after seven years of service in Delaware. . . five of them consecutive in the school from which they earn such leave. Pay granted for leave would be the difference, if any, between teacher's regular salary and that paid the substitute. State Board of Education and Wilmington Board of Education to approve leave for such purposes as: study, travel or restoration of health. Leave would not eliminate benefits to which teacher was previously entitled. But, teacher would be obligated to return, following leave, to former position. Number of leaves granted any one year, limited to ten per cent of total teaching staffs. SALARY INCREASES — as they are needed to meet spiraling living costs. JOB TENURE — support of legislation which would clearly define the possible causes of dismissal; and which would provide for appeal from a local school board to the State Board of Education. Junior Red Cross To Launch Membership Drive On Wednesday

School Students To Be Enrolled In 2-Week Campaign Here

The Newark Junior Red Cross will join in a state-wide "enrollment for service" campaign, starting next Wednesday and continuing through Nov. 15.

The Junior Red Cross, composed of elementary and secondary school students, is part of the Red Cross' organized humanitarian program and offers the pupils an opportunity to help others through channels that are correlated with school activities.

The Newark drive will be conducted through homeworks in the schools of the district.

Mr. Lamont duPont, Jr., chairman of the Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross, in a letter sent recently to the Junior Red Cross area chairmen said, "The Enrollment for Service campaign is a membership campaign and funds, over and above the subscription fees for the Junior Red Cross magazines, are restricted to the purchase of materials for the many Junior Red Cross projects. As junior members of the American National Red Cross, pupils in enrolled schools share in the total local, national and international resources of the organization."

Mr. duPont expressed pride in the part the Delaware schools have played in the Junior Red Cross activities and called for continued interest, support, and faith in this program of service to others, which is so very important at this time. Mrs. Milton L. Draper, Junior Red Cross chairman for Area I, announced that posters and supplies necessary for the campaign would be received for use in the local schools shortly.

Supt. Shue Will Attend Safety Education Parley

Wilmer E. Shue, superintendent of the Newark School District, will attend a national meeting of safety education Friday, Feb. 16, in Atlantic City.

The session, which will consider urgent problems in safety education, will precede the annual conference of the American Association of School Administrators, which Mr. Shue will also attend.

Patterson Ends Merchant Marine Training Cruise

Cadet-Midshipman Marvin H. Patterson, son of Mrs. Patterson, of Newark was among the group of 265 men who returned recently to the United States Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, Long Island, N.Y., after completion of a practical training period at sea aboard various types of vessels of the American Merchant Marine. While at sea, Cadet-Midshipman Patterson gained in valuable experience serving under qualified ship's officers; using the ship's engine room for his classroom. In addition, he had to complete a sea project equivalent to a year of college academic work.

At the academy, Cadet-Midshipman Patterson will continue his studies for two more years; taking advanced subjects in preparation for his final license examination. He will graduate in September, 1952, with a license as Third Assistant Engineer, a Bachelor of Science Degree, and concurrent commissions as Ensign, United States Naval Reserve and United States Maritime Service.

Girl Scout Exhibit To Open On Oct. 26

An exhibit of girl scout equipment and craft work will be held in the Newark Department Store windows, Oct. 26 to Nov. 2, as the local feature of National Girl Scout Week, opening Oct. 29.

Against a background of flags, uniforms of girl and marine scouts and Brownies will be displayed. In the foreground will be a campfire representing the "Outing in Scouting," along with examples of girl scout handicraft. Many service projects completed by the troops cannot be exhibited.

The week's observance honors the birthday of Juliette Low, who in 1912 organized the first girl scout troop at her home in Savannah, Ga. She developed a program to meet the needs of American girls and started an organization which includes over a million girls in all parts of the world.

County Dairymen Touring Farms In Nearby States

Thirty-five New Castle County dairy farmers and their wives left Newark on October 26th to tour dairies in Virginia and Maryland. Features of the two-day trip, according to County Agent Edward H. Schabinger, are six outstanding milk-producing farms.

FORD is nimble

Fleet of foot is the fine '50 Ford with its pick of nimble power, V-8 or Six. You get extra safe, sure-footed stops, too, with 35% less pedal pressure, thanks to Ford's big King-Size Brakes. And you'll find Ford's "Finger-Tip" Steering makes Ford a honey to handle on the highway—a plaything to park.

FORD is slick

Slick as a whistle is your ride in a '50 Ford. Bumps are sponged up by Ford's "Hydra-Coil" and "Para-Flex" Springs, giving you the feel of pavement smoothness even on rutted dirt roads.

with 2 Great Engines

V-8 or Six—whichever you pick, you'll find no other engines in the low-price field that can live up to Ford's get-up-and-go and savings. For Ford features like "Power-Dome" combustion and Loadomatic ignition give both Ford power plants high compression performance with regular gas. Ford's V-8 engine sells for hundreds less than most sixes—and Ford's Six is priced even lower.
