Red Cross Membership Campaign Ends Today

Quota for This District Not Yet Complete

Public Spirited Citizens Aid by Substantial Cash Contributions

In view of the change of plans yesterday when it was hoped to close the Red Cross Membership campaign during the course of the exercises, the time was extended until today. Reports this morning showed that the quota for this district has not been reached. When this fact was made known to a public spirited citizen yesterday, he presented the chairman with a check for $25. It was the hope of the committee this morning that others would do likewise. Early in the drive the Women's College reported 100 per cent membership. Numbers of private homes are displaying the 100 per cent membership certificates, and it is hoped that the quota for the district will be complete.

Visiting Clergyman

Lectures on "Ireland and the Irish"

Last Sunday morning Rev. Frank Herson preached a special sermon to the Heptasophs who attended the service in a body. His text was, "Behold the Man." In the evening the church was crowded to hear about "The man who drove hard."

James H. Hastings who returned a few months ago from service overseas has been engaged to lead the singing in the church.

On Monday evening Rev. Joseph T. Herson of Salisbury, Md., a brother of the pastor delivered a particularly interesting lecture on "Ireland and the Irish." He showed 90 stereotyped views of scenes in the Emerald Isle. The historic old castles, the memorable Celtic crosses the lakes of Killarney, the beautiful mountains and principal cities, Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, and Cork.

His lecture and comment on the news were interspersed with pathos and real Irish wit which delighted the appreciative audience and threw interesting sidelights on this much misunderstood country.

Delaware Ledger Printing Plant Sold

The printing plant of the Delaware Ledger has been purchased by Bowen Bros. and incorporated in the Delaware Ledger Publishing Co. by E. M. Davis president of the Non-Partisan League, Wilmington, Julian Morgan and Harrie T. Rice of the Morning News.

While their plans have not yet been announced it is understood that they will operate here one of a chain of newspapers extending throughout the state.

WEDDINGS

Strickland-Slack

On Saturday afternoon at 4:30 P. M. G. Strickland and Helen G. Slack of Elkton Ave. were married at the residence of Rev. Joel S. Gillan, 2402 Van Buren St., Wilmington. Miss Slack was attended by her sister Miss Hettie Slack and Lee Lewis was best man.

Lusby-Little

Miss Florence Little formerly of Newark was married in Wilmington at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon to C. Newton Lusby son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Lusby of Washington, D. C. formerly of Annapolis, Md. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joel S. Gillan. The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Little as maid of honor and Miss Mabel Work as bridesmaid. Clarence B. Dean of this city was best man.

The bride wore a coat suit of blue with hat to match and carriage bouquet of sweetheart

After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Lusby will live at 3305 Virginia Avenue N. W., Washington, D. C.

Members of the immediate family witnessed the ceremony.

RAIN PREVENTS ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

Leaders Deemed Indoor Meeting Unwise and Abandoned All Plans

The weather man at St. Martin or somebody played a scurvy trick on the populace yesterday. With plans all made for the biggest day in her history, with every body working hard to make the Armistice Day celebration a grand success, and everything ready for the parade which was to have started at 2 o'clock, along comes a persistent, hateful drizzle that gave no sign of abating. If the weather man had sent a good healthy down pour and let it go at that, the enthusiastic marchers would have been willing to endure wet streets and would have risked a bit of discomfort in order to carry out the well-laid plans—but the hopelessness of the situation was apparent before 9 o'clock. Those whose duties make it incumbent upon them to arise in the cold, gray dawn these mornings, read a menace yesterday morning in the glowing bars of red which adorned the eastern sky, for the mariner's couplet,

"Red sky in the morning
Is the sailor's warning"

suggested itself immediately. "Hope spring eternal—" however, and the common fallacy that "such a thing might happen to others but surely not to us," quieted the fears of the townsfolk until after breakfast anyway. Then the sky began to assume that relentless, menacing appearance that means rain all day and then some.

Chairman Eben B. Frazer and chief marshal E. C. Wilson were besieged all morning with calls from those who hoped against hope that something might be done—if not a parade then perhaps a memorial service in the Armory. This latter plan was considered but in the opinion of the leaders in the movement, it could not be made a satisfactory celebration and was abandoned. When it became evident that nothing short of the original celebration would satisfy the people, Mayor Frazer informed the committee that they would be called together within a day or two to determine whether or not it will be wise to have the parade at some later date.

On Monday night, everybody was optimistic. The day had been profitably spent in preparing floats, putting the finishing touches on costumes and doing the hundred and one things that are necessary in order that the day might be given over to whole-hearted participation in the big event. Not a discordant note had been sounded anywhere. The positions had been assigned to the various organizations and industries and had been cheerfully accepted. The town's three bands had been secured and the cooperation of all had been pledged to make the celebration an epoch making event.

The leaders in the Red Cross campaign had planned to make the celebration a means of securing a full quota in their membership drive and Mayor Frazer had asked 20 young women in addition to the regular solicitors to don the distinctive Red Cross costume and secure from the assembled crowds as many subscriptions as possible. The change of plans took the wind out of the whirl-wind finish which had been intended to close the membership campaign. With the characteristic adaptability of the level headed American however, the town executed a swift right about face, went to work Tuesday afternoon more or less cheerfully and things settled back into the old grind, leaving each with just a little better feeling perhaps toward the other fellow for his cheerful cooperation in the celebration plans and his evident desire to do honor to those who at home and abroad made such a spirit possible.

Missionary Society

Meets Tomorrow

The Woman's Home Missionary Society will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the residence of Mrs. H. E. Tiffany.

NEW CENTURY CLUB ENJOYS "MOVIES"

Have Word Pictures of Notable Men, Women and Events

A trip to the movies with Mrs. S. C. Mitchell as hostess was an enjoyable feature of the New Century Club program on Monday afternoon. On account of the proposed Armistice Day celebration the meeting was held a day earlier than usual.

Some famous Delaware pictures were described vividly with clever running comment. Some living pictures of men and women whose achievements in their native state have made them famous were included in the word pictures. Miss Geneva Burnite gave an instrumental solo, "Gondolier" from Nevin's Venetian Suite.

Miss Mary Houston sang "Because" and "My Ain Folk" to accompaniment by Miss Elsie Wright.

Miss Dora Wilcox sang "Sylvia" and "Expectancy" and Mrs. Wm. Barnard read two poems by Robert W. "Service" Over the Parapet and Jean Despreux.

Mrs. Ernest Frazer reported that the library rooms had been painted and cleaned and that new books had been added. An invitation was received from the New Castle Club to attend their meeting next Friday afternoon at 2:30. It is expected that a great many club members will accept the invitation.

A joint meeting of the Executive Board and the Board of Directors will be held next Tuesday afternoon following the regular club meeting.

The Choral Club will hold a meeting next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Next week Rev. Frank Herson will lecture on Ireland. Music, current events and poetry will comprise the rest of the program.

Twelve Accessions to Membership in Presbyterian Church

As a result of the Evangelistic services held recently at the Presbyterian church, 12 accessions to church membership were made on Sunday morning. Reports from churches in the outlying districts prove that the influence of these special services was felt there too and the church membership increased. The financial obligations attending the service were satisfactorily met.

Special music was provided last Sunday by Mrs. William Hagans of Kennett Square, Pa. who sang several selections to her own accompaniment on the autoharp.

Next Friday evening a supper will be given by the Baraca class and Mrs. Hagans will sing.

Next Sunday is set apart by the Executive Commission of the Home Mission Council for special service and prayer for the Indians.

Appointed to Board of Examiners

E. Clifford Wilson was yesterday appointed a member of the Board of Examiners for Undertakers. The term of office is for 3 years.

Depot Road Sidewalk

Soon to be a Reality

Work preliminary to the laying of a pavement along Depot road is progressing rapidly under the supervision of D. Lee Rose. Hedges and trees have been moved back with great care in an effort to save them if possible. The ground has been cleared in front of the Infirmary, and the properties occupied by Dean Cullimore and George Carter.

Some of the college students are aiding Mr. Wilber Wilson in making the survey. It is understood that the walk will be of hard cinders.

William S. Horn of Rehoboth Beach who has recently returned from a trip to Sierra Leone, Africa. Miss Nettie Tappan and Charles Hqn, Jr., also of Rehoboth visited the family of Levi K. Bowen over the week end.

Mrs. William Francis of Wilmington is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi K. Bowen.

OPEN SEASON FOR RABBIT AND QUAIL BEGINS SATURDAY

Laws Fixes 6 As Daily Limit For Former, 12 For Latter

Next Saturday, November 15, will mark the beginning of the open season for the killing of quail and rabbits in Delaware. Huntsmen who have familiarized themselves with the situation say that game is particularly plentiful owing to last winter's being unusually mild. Maryland gunners report plenty of game over the line. The open season began there on Monday.

The rabbit and quail season will close on December 31.

Quail will be limited to 12 bags daily and rabbits to six. The open seasons for foxes, opossums and raccoons began October 1, and the first will end April 30 and the last two January 1. The mink, skunk and other seasons will begin December 1 and end March 10, and the frog season, which began July 1, will end December 31.

No game birds, game animals or game fish can be sold or bought. Rabbits may be sold in the county of his residence by any person who lawfully killed or trapped them provided he does not sell more than 20 during the open season. No migratory birds can be sold at any time.

Thieves Make Way With Cash and Jewelry

Sneak thieves robbed the Washington House on Monday evening and made a fairly good haul. Some valuable jewelry and about $35 in money belonging to employees were missed. Inquiry was immediately instituted and two lodgers were suspected. They, however, had made a get-away before the theft was discovered. Officer Apsley was notified and he communicated with the Wilmington police to ask that the pawnshops be watched for attempts to turn the jewelry into cash.

No clue to the thieves has yet been found.

This is the second robbery within the past two weeks, a number of automobile tires having been stolen from the B. & O. Station a short time ago.

One Session of Chautauqua Program in New Century Club

This year the Chautauqua will be held in Wolf Hall on Wednesday afternoon Nov. 19 and Thursday afternoon, Nov. 20 at the hours stated on the tickets.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 20, the session will be held in the New Century Club. On Friday afternoon and evening Nov. 21, the program will be given in Wolf Hall. This was decided last night at a committee meeting to avoid conflict with a college entertainment.

Recital to Be Given at New Century Club

Mary Miller Mount, whose brilliant piano playing at the concert given recently by Mr. Helfenstein Mason, will be heard to better advantage in a recital to be given at the New Century Club the evening of November 25. Mrs. Mount will be assisted by Mary Rose Collins, reader, who has done such splendid work in the Y. M. C. A. during the war. She has collected a series of entertaining trench ballads which she uses to relieve the more serious work, and which have proved most interesting, especially to those who have had boys in the service. The complete program will include selections from Edward McDowell, Cycil Scott, Faure, Pugno Amani and Frank LaForge, by Mrs. Mount; and readings from Eric Dawson, Robert W. Service, Amerlia Josephine Barr, Joyce Kilmer Alfred Noyes, Richard Burton and Rosamond Hoyt, by Mrs. Collins.

The two artists will give "Hiawatha's Wooing" from Longfellow. Music by Rossetter G. Cole.

WOULD MAKE SCHOOL PAPER PAY FOR ITSELF

Grammar Grade Children Have Valuable Lesson In Real Business

The second issue of the Grammar School News appeared on Friday and is a better, newsier issue than its predecessors. This little bulletin, the only paper published and edited exclusively by grammar school students anywhere in the East, as far as can be learned, has excited much favorable comment from educators and others who have been privileged to see the good work done by the contributors.

That much thought is given to the publication as a business proposition is evident from the editorial written by Samuel Handloff, editor. He reviews the financial status of the paper last year and states that the end of the term showed a deficit of only 20 cents. He analyzes the increased cost of labor and of stock shows why the cost of the paper has increased from 12 or 15 dollars per issue to 34 dollars and explains how this increased cost may be met.

Following the suggestions of the editor and his associates, the price per copy has been raised one cent, the advertising rates have been raised, and a drive made for subscriptions and sales. Recent reports show that these young people have met the issue as good business men and women should and are determined to make the paper pay for itself. They are determined that it shall not be a losing proposition.

Three Arrested For Speeding

A determination on the part of the town authorities to put an end to speeding within the town limits, was evidenced during the past week when three drivers were arrested for indulging in this dangerous practice.

Officer Apsley also arrested on Sunday evening, three young men who were driving recklessly on Main Street and abusing the horse. Mrs. Walter Haupt narrowly escaped serious injury when near the turn from Elkton Ave. to Main Street the same young men drove the horse up on the pavement. All were intoxicated and were fined by Squire Lovett.

Degrees Conferred Upon Grangers

The first and second degrees were conferred upon several candidates at the meeting of the Newark Grange held in the chapel room, Old College Hall at 8 p. m., last night.

OBITUARY

Lydia B. Davis

Mrs. Lydia B. Davis, widow of Eli Davis died at the home of her son-in-law Leslie Hall, East Main Street on Friday, Nov. 7.

Funeral services were held at her late residence on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 11 by Rev. W. H. Cumming of Ebenezer church. Interment was made at Ebenezer cemetery. She leaves two sons and three daughters. Harvey and George Davis, Mrs. George Dempsey, Mrs. Leslie Hall and Mrs. Fred Strahorn of Boston, Mass.

Anna Elizabeth Porter

Anna Elizabeth Porter, daughter of Mrs. Fred Porter aged 6 years died on Thursday, November 6 at the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Wilmington of pneumonia. The body was brought to the home of her uncle, George Porter, Choate Street, and funeral services held there on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made at Newark cemetery. The parents of the little girl formerly lived in Newark and after the death of the father a year or so ago, the mother and children moved to Wilmington. The little girl was sick only a few days.

William Taylor

"Billy" Taylor, a respectable colored man, employed for many years by S. M. Donnell, died at Kelly Hospital, Farnhurst yesterday of cancer of the throat. Arrangements for burial have not yet been made.

Suffrage Association Elects Strong State Ticket

Convention at Dover Proves Great Success

Eight Local Representatives Attend Notable Gathering at Capital

Eight members of the Newark Auxiliary of the Delaware Equal Suffrage Association attended the state convention in Dover on Monday and Tuesday. Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mrs. R. A. Whittingham, and Misses Eleanor Todd, Lena Evans, Elizabeth Wilson, Sara Churchman, Gertrude Blodgett, and Dean Winifred J. Robinson were the representatives from this section. According to reports of the delegates the meeting was especially interesting. Thirty beautiful decorated automobiles met the train on which the distinguished speaker, Mrs. Raymond Brown, who was sent by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt arrived. After a parade through Dover, the delegates were received at the State House by Governor John G. Townsend, Jr. who welcomed them in a brief but happily phased speech.

Mrs. Raymond Brown, vice-president of the National Association, was then introduced by Mrs. Albert Robin, president of the Delaware Association. Mrs. Brown is here in the place of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who was to be present, but had to be in the West at this time. She spoke briefly, commending to Gov. Townsend the necessity for women in politics, especially since the war. It was difficult for her, she said, to realize the attitude of a suppliant, as she came from a State where women had the right to vote. The nation cannot afford to wait a day longer than is necessary on ratifying the Susan B. Anthony amendment. Twenty States have already ratified, she said, and Delaware women are only asking for what belongs to them.

Governor Townsend then replied, evidencing his entire sympathy with the suffrage cause. "I am already convinced," he said, "and I will do everything that I can, in a practical way, to help the issue."

Following the reception a large luncheon was served at the Hotel Richardson, beginning at 1:30. Among the guests were Governor Townsend, Secretary of State Johnson, Robert Houston of Georgetown.

The feeling at the opening of the convention seemed to be that sentiment in behalf of the franchise for women has crystallized to such an extent in Delaware that real results are in sight and ought to be accomplished very soon.

The afternoon and evening meetings brought together representative women from all over the State. Many men were present also to hear Mrs. Brown who is a forceful eloquent speaker of charming personality.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of the following:

- President, Mrs. Henry Ridgely, Dover.
- 1st Vice-President, Miss Agnes Downey, Wilmington.
- 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Willard F. Morse, Seaford.
- 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. Harmon Reynolds, Townsend.
- Corresponding Secretary, Miss Winifred Robinson, Dover.
- Recording Secretary, Mrs. J. W. Pennewill.
- Treasurer, Mrs. John Eskridge, Seaford.
- Auditors, Mrs. A. D. Warner, Wilmington and Miss Willa Shurter, Elsmere.

St. Thomas' Guild Holds Interesting Meeting

The St. Thomas' Guild held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening November 4. There was an unusually large attendance. Mrs. Haupt added to the evening's pleasure by giving a reading entitled "The Other Wise Man" by Henry Van Dyke, after which refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

PROVISIONS FOR FIRE PREVENTION ESSENTIAL NOW

Danger From Conflagration Increases With Coming of Winter

This is the time of year when danger from fire is greater than at any other time. With the coming of colder days, quick fires are started in stoves and furnaces that are in need of repair or that open into flues which have become clogged. Matches are used in greater numbers and that increases the chance of accidental fires. Kerosene is used in greater quantities for starting fires and for filling lamps. Gasoline has become a menace through careless handling. It is highly important that every precaution be taken to store the gasoline in properly constructed reservoirs and that those curious to learn how much remains in the tank refrain from seeking that information with the aid of a lighted match and unprotected candle.

Every householder should provide some fire-fighting equipment, even if the fire company is prompt and efficient. Of course, a pail of water is the oldest, simplest and cheapest of fire-extinguishers. There is no reason why every household should not be provided with such equipment for use in such emergencies. The buckets should be painted a special color, preferably red or labeled conspicuously to prevent use for other purposes and to insure perpetual preparedness.

The chemical extinguisher has come into quite general use on automobiles and in many private homes and has many advantages over the water-bucket. It can be employed, for example, among oils where water is of no value. When an extinguisher is not available in such fires, sand is effective where the fire is on the floor or in the shallow container. Sawdust, strange as it may seem, is always effective if scattered quickly over the entire surface of a burning liquid in a container, so as to smother the flames. Salt is also effective in small fires and is nearly always available.

For The Homemaker's Eye

The humble potato which inevitably forms a part of nearly every dinner, suffers much at the hands of inexperienced cooks.

To cook a potato properly one must understand something of its composition. Starch is the chief property of this vegetable, and each little starchy particle is encased in a wall of cellulose. To break this cellulose or woody wall quickly the potato must be placed in boiling water, which will burst the covering of the starch particles and cause the starch itself to cook so rapidly that it will become soupy and white. If allowed to soak in cold or even hot water, the cellulose becomes filled with water and the starch soggy and heavy. It is much the same when potatoes are baked; they should be placed in a very hot oven always.

Again, never add salt to potatoes while they are boiling; wait until you have drained the water from them, then sprinkle with salt, and shake the kettle well for a moment. Salt has a tendency to draw the minerals from the vegetable, and it is our purpose to retain in the potato every good quality which it possesses.

Scrub the potatoes before cooking them till the skins are nearly white, cook in rapidly boiling water till tender, drain and sprinkle with salt. Shake over the fire for a moment or two to make them flourey, then cut a cross in the side of each potato, raise the skin slightly and place a piece of butter in the opening. Serve on a folded napkin in a hot dish.

Baked Potatoes With Cheese.

Scrub the potatoes, which should be large, and rub them over with a little lard or dripping, place in a very hot oven and bake till tender. Then cut away the tops and scoop out the potato pulp, mash this with butter, pepper, salt, paprika and a little milk, and add a teaspoonful of grated cheese for each potato. Refill the skins with the mixture; place in the oven again to heat. Then serve on a folded napkin in a hot dish.

Potato Roses.

These are very pretty for garnishing and make delicious eating as well. Boil and mash the potatoes as usual, adding salt, pepper and butter to taste with hot milk to moisten well. To each pint of potato add the yolk of one egg and whip well, then fold in the stiffly beaten white of the egg and turn the mixture into a pastry bag in which a star or rose tube has been inserted. Holding the bag in a vertical position over a greased pan, force a little of the potato mixture through the tube until a disk about one inch in diameter has been formed. Then sharply press the tube into the center of the disk and lift it quickly from it. This will form a quaint little figure, resembling a Tador rose. When a number of these little roses have been forced, place the pan containing them at the top of a very hot oven or under the flame of the gas broiler, until they take on a delicate brown tint. Lift them from the pan with a spatula or pancake turner and decorate the meat or fish together with a spray of parsley or watercress.

Potatoes With Cream.

Small potatoes commonly known as "seconds" may be served like new potatoes and make a very attractive winter dish when one tire of mashed potatoes. Pare the potatoes, drop into boiling water and boil briskly until done, but no longer. In a saucepan have ready some butter and cream, hot, but not boiling, a little chopped parsley, pepper and salt. Drain the potatoes, add the mixture, put over the fire for a minute or two, shaking slightly and serve.

Baked Potatoes With Bacon.

Choose long, smooth potatoes, wash carefully and split lengthwise. On the cut portions place strips of salt pork or bacon, place in a shallow pan and bake in a quick oven for about a half hour.

Potatoes and Spinach.

When a small quantity of these vegetables remains from dinner, try this very good "left-over" dish for luncheon. Mix equal quantities of cold mashed potatoes and spinach to a paste and add a tablespoonful of melted butter, with paprika, pepper and salt to taste. Spread on a buttered pie tin and sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Dot with butter and bake a light brown. Cut in pie-shaped pieces when serving.

To Mend Buttonholes

For mending buttonholes in the neckbands of shirts, stitch pieces of tape flat along each edge of the buttonhole, bringing them together at its ends. The tape on each side should be just wide enough to extend to the edge of the neckband, where it should also be stitched. This new buttonhole will outlast the rest of the shirt.

HELPFUL HINTS.

A tablecloth is not the simplest thing in the world to iron and yet if it is not well ironed, it detracts from the appearance of the table, however perfectly appointed the table may be in its several details. Here are some hints on this ironing day task that may prove helpful when the table linen needs one's attention.

Tablecloths are ironed on the right side only. They should be folded down the center, with the right side out, then each selvedge turned back toward the center fold on either side. The cloth should be pulled by two persons till the ends meet evenly, and then, if possible, mangled.

To iron a tablecloth, lay it flat on the table in its fold, and iron in this way, taking care to iron between each fold, and passing with the iron over each side of the cloth. This must be continued until the cloth is quite dry. When a tablecloth is taken off a table after use, it should always be folded into the same folds.

If tray cloths have fringes shake the fringe out against the edge of the table before ironing, and then comb it out. Iron the linen center on both sides until it is dry and then dry the fringe with the iron.

Always fill a milk bottle with water the moment it is emptied; it is much easier to wash afterward.

Hard-boiled eggs are good served sliced with coiled codfish. A little dry mustard may be sprinkled on the fish.

If you are growing bulbs for winter bloomers, remember that they must have five to eight weeks to get their roots well started.

When you rip an old garment, first cut a few stitches with the scissors; then pin the material to your knee and rip with a razor.

Tuberculin Test Given Free to Dairy Herds

The State Department of Agriculture is cooperating with the United States Bureau of Animal Industry in giving the tuberculin test free of charge to all dairy herds in the state whose owners desire to have their herds tested. On November 1, two men were placed in the field and are devoting their time to this work. All the owner is required to do is to make a simple agreement that he will dispose of all reactors as directed by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry. Application should be made to the State Board of Agriculture, Dover, for tests and the form of agreement will be furnished to the applicant.

By this cooperation owners of purebred stock in Delaware may have accredited herds, and all dairymen may have certificates of disease free herds that will enable them to secure better prices for their dairy products.

MIDDLE-AGED WOMEN DIVIDED INTO TWO CLASSES

One Has "Set Aside" Look; Other Retains Vital Interest

Make a little study of women who are middle-aged or past the meridian. Observe them as you come in contact with them. Become interested in the pictures you see of them in the papers and magazines. If you do this with wide-awake mind you will find that they will fall into two classes—one with a faded, set-aside look, the other with an appearance that radiates charm, finish, magnetism.

Which class do you want to belong to through the span of life that stretches over so much of life? Surely to the latter. Then, if you do not belong to it try right off to see what are the characteristics that go to make up its fascinating quality—and straightway set about beginning to cultivate them.

No one who has a splendidly firm grip upon life ever looks faded or set aside. Life, if lived deeply, is always so intensely interesting, full of opportunity, profound in significance, thrilling—how can anyone with strong, constant grip upon it fail to be animated by its zest? This zest keeps eyes bright and manner enthusiastic.

Have you lost your hold upon life simply because youth with its natural power to keep in tune with life, has deserted you? This quality of keeping in tune, natural to youth because of youth's buoyancy and vigor, can be maintained through all the older years—only then it must become a matter of character. So start in to develop your character along this line. It is not the life itself that sets you aside after that special charm of first youth has departed from it; it is your own point of view of life. You are your own enemy. Make yourself see that you have a right to happiness—that the beauty of life is just as deeply meant for you now as it was for you in halcyon days.

Cultivate the vivifying quality of interest! Do not let it be an affected, make-believe interest—but a real one. Throw yourself heart and soul into some work that appeals to you. Do your routine duties in the spirit of their importance to prevent their becoming a humdrum burden. Keep yourself in touch with what is going on in the world. Follow what women are doing in it. This is a wonderful age in the development of women. You cannot keep abreast with their activities and not be ashamed of your sighs and tendency to be forlorn and discouraged. That sort of thing is all out of date.

The capacity for enjoyment never dies in us, though in our morbid perversity of mental vision we insist to ourselves that it has left us.

Stop short in the laziness of spirit and body that makes us not want to make the effort necessary to get at a good time. A pleasure, if recognized for its value in stimulating spirits, health and courage, surely is worth great effort to obtain.

Interest in life means also interest in people. Stop the habits of mind that make you shrink from meeting people—self-pity, self-absorption, brooding over troubles, etc. Meet people graciously half way, with mind open in interest in what they are doing and in what they have to say to you, and be your age what it may in the older years, you will be met half way as graciously by people. Try it and see if you be incredulous.

Keep in touch with children and young people, but not as one barred from their estates. Be really interested in them and they will with loving eagerness let down the gates for you to enter. They need you and you need them. Older people who keep their interest in young ones who do not permit their charm to become dimmed because of the weight of years have wonderful fascination for young people.

Carry yourself well. Cultivate sureness. Life demands of you that charming authoritative that the older women, you surely admit, who are in the more attractive class have. It is an authority born of knowledge, experience; it is a charming authority because these women's instinct for charm will not permit it to deteriorate into brusqueness or forbidding severity.

Be gentle to the senators. Do not annoy them by poking them with Parisian umbrellas.

Do not feed them with foreign substitutes or South American nuts.

Remember that too close confinement in patriotic air has made them peevish. They are not used to the freedom of the seas or that larger, more cosmopolitan idea of making the world safe for hypocrisy.

Pat them gently on the back and rub their fur the right way. Take them out for a little run occasionally. And keep away from their hind legs.—Life.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE BOOSTS EGG PRODUCTION

Offers Prizes For Best Managed Flocks of Farm Poultry

Much interest has been aroused by the offer made by the State Board of Agriculture of prizes for the best managed flocks of farm poultry. The farmers appreciate the fact that they can go on with their poultry keeping just as usual, using eggs and fowls for their table and keeping account of them and receiving the same credit for the eggs used as for eggs sold. A careful account must be kept of all operations and at the end of the period affidavits will be made as to the accuracy of the records. At the end of six months the prizes for six months records will be awarded and at the end of the year prizes for the yearly records will be awarded.

Inspectors will be sent around from time to time to make careful note of the appearance of the birds, the general conditions of the flock and the management. Attention is called to the fact that fresh, clean eggs gathered twice a day enjoy a highly profitable market and command a premium above the current prices. The prizes are offered to induce poultrymen to practice the best methods as well as to keep the best breeds of hens. Blanks will be furnished to applicants for keeping daily records.

It is the small man with a small mind who loves to hate and continually quarrels and fights.

Country Boys and Girls No Longer Wholly Dependent

The days of penury for the boy or girl who lives in the country is a thing of the past. No more is Johnnie Jones a restless young man, dependent on his father's generosity for spending money and with seldom a cent in his pocket. Wide-awake Johnnie belongs today to a club organized by the Department of Agriculture and the State college and is a young man of financial standing who owns property and has money in the bank.

The amount of money which a boy or girl yet in school can make through club work is surprising to those unacquainted with the results. At the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., in September, was a club camp to which came 222 boys and girls. These youngsters were the champions in the ten Eastern States and the trip to Springfield was one of the awards they had won by superior work in their local clubs.

At the camp were 55 who had been in the club for a year, 67 for two years, 34 for three years, 39 for four years, 10 for five years, 5 for 6 years, 1 for seven years, and 1 for nine years. Eighty-nine of the group owned $9,350 worth of Liberty bonds. War savings stamps to the amount of $6,266 were in the possession of 172 of the boys and girls. Savings banks 137 have accounts which have a total valuation of $13,736.54. The average amount of money invested and deposited by the club members was $132.21.

Seven of these young business men owned 10 colts, 54 owned 97 pigs, 95 calves, 9 owned 54 sheep, and 41 owned cows or baby beeves. Poultry is a favorite project, 53 members owning 3,400 birds. One young lad owned a town lot and six others owned farm land valued at $7,110. Ten owned $267 worth of furniture or kitchen equipment and four owned automobiles valued at $1,810.

That club work makes for more and better school work is testified by the educational record of the 222 at Camp Vail. Fifty-two are in grammar school, 144 in high school, 6 are in college, and only 20 are not in any school.

Figures bear out the fact that club work develops the learning power through self-help in a boy or girl, and encourages business ability, thrift, and a love of farm life.

The Toast

Now here's a toast to woman
As high we lift the cup.
In every national crisis
'Tis she who "measured up."

When Mars his bugle sounded
The call from overseas,
'Twas she responded promptly
Defending Liberty.

She gave of service freely,
Her money and her sons,
Then took the office desk and shop
Her "boys" had swapped for guns.

'Twas she who fought for suffrage,
And won in many a State,
When next came Prohibition
Her zeal did not abate.

Now here's a toast for Woman
And what be her reward
Who proved herself as great as he
Who bore the gun and sword?

A world's acclaim shall be her meed
And loud her praise we sing,
Her prize—? (Oh, just the same old thing),
A narrow wedding ring!

ENTHUSIASM A MOTIVE FORCE WHICH MAKES THE WORLD BETTER

Every Sort of Business Demands a Leader Who Really Cares About It

The key word "enthusiasm" is likely to suggest precipitate action, on an impulse, heedless of the consequences. It conveys also the idea of the profuse expression of an exaggerated sentiment. It hints at exuberant language which in the cold blood of the next day's retrospect would seem as if it should have been tamed and tempered.

Yet enthusiasm, if it does not begin and end in mere ecstasies, is a motive force that has made lives great and the earth better, and nearly every sort of business that the world wants done demands one who really cares a lot about it to start it and keep it going.

The world depends on the enthusiasts—the sane, clear-eyed and rational ones—to get its work done. It laughs at the initiator; it points out that he is on the wrong track; it pulls down the books and cites precedents against him.

Those who have influenced their time and subsequent times never loafed easily through the perfunctory motions of the day's routine; they never evaded hard things, sharp corners and strange problems; but they met and strangled lions in the way.

Government Injunction No New Thing

Never before has the writ of injunction been so freely and frequently resorted to in the affairs of the United States as now. Theoretically it is a device to prevent a wrong resulting in injury which could not adequately be redressed by an action for damages after the performance of the act.

Today the federal government has invoked the injunction to prevent the bituminous coal miners from conducting an organized strike. In this city officials of the federal government have invoked the injunction to prevent the violation of the war-time prohibition law, while private interests antagonistic to the law have invoked the injunction to prevent officers of the federal government from enforcing the same law. These are but a few recent instances of resort to injunction.

The injunction against the United Mine Workers asked for by the government, and granted temporarily by Judge Anderson, is based not on the criminal clauses of the so-called Lever act, which can be invoked only after violation of the law, but on the theory that the railroads of the country, if deprived of coal, will be unable, under government management, to meet the terms of their contracts.

The right of the government to come into a court of equity to seek the protection of the court in the enforcement of its own laws has long been established.—N. Y. Herald.

Scope of Fourteenth Census Is Extended

That the fourteenth Decennial Census, on which the actual enumeration work will begin January 2, 1920, is to be the most important ever taken is shown by the fact that the Act of Congress providing for this census expressly increased the scope of the inquiries so as to include forestry and forest products, two subjects never covered specifically by any preceding census.

The inquiries to be made relating to population, manufactures, mines, quarries and agriculture were also extended to their scope by Congress, the keenest interest over the forthcoming census having been shown by the members of the census committees of both the House and Senate while the law was under consideration.

The statistics gathered on mining will include all oil and gas wells. Many startling developments in this important branch of the Nation's resources are looked for by census officials. The figures gathered in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas will no doubt prove to be those most eagerly sought for, as shown by inquiries already received by the Census Bureau.

The compilation and gathering of forestry and forest products statistics will be in charge of a special force of experts. The accurate and comprehensive figures gathered concerning this vital natural resource will be much in demand, and the comparisons made with conditions existing before the war will be of great interest.

Agricultural statistics will likewise be the subject of special effort on the part of the Census Bureau as the importance of farming is being realized by the average citizen far more than ever before.

The modern slogan seems to be, "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we'll get an increase in wages."—Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

Make Surplus Sweet Potatoes Into Syrup

Suppose that the grocer is unable to sell you enough sugar to amount to anything—which is not a suppositionous case. And then suppose that the sweet potatoes, because of extra cold weather or lack of proper storage facilities are about to rot—which, as any grower of sweet potatoes will admit, does sometimes happen. Something is wrong in both cases.

"Sugar supplies only one substance of value, carbohydrates, to the living tissues of which our bodies are composed," says an expert, "while sweet potato sirup, in addition to the carbohydrates it contains, furnishes soluble and suspended proteins and a number of mineral salts, often in very rich supplies. It represents, to a greater or less degree, the concentrated essence of the vegetable and has a much less marked tendency to unbalance the diet—if, for the sake of brevity, one may be allowed so crude an expression—than do the pure sugars, starches and fats."

The making of sweet potato sirup is essentially a home industry. The Bureau of Chemistry has issued instructions as to the making of the sirup, and the States Relation Service has prepared a number of recipes in which sweet potato sirup is said to be superior to many other kinds of sirup and, in some cases, to sugar of any kind.

Would Make Nov. 11 New Year's Day of Thrift Year

A new answer to the question "How shall we commemorate Armistice Day, November 11th?" is contained in a proclamation formally issued yesterday by E. Pusey Passmore, Governor of the Third Federal Reserve District.

Realizing that there is right, both on the side of those who contend that America is already overburdened with "legal holidays" which keep the nation away from work and throttle production, and of those who hold that the day marking the crumbling of militaristic autocracy before militant democracy is too significant to be passed by heedlessly, Governor Passmore proposes a method of commemoration, which, he points out, at once marks the day apart from others, and adds to, instead of subtracting from, the wealth of the nation.

His proposition is that November 11th be looked upon as New Year's Day of the Thrift Year, a day on which good resolutions of economy and thrift be made, these resolutions to be sealed with a Savings Stamp.

Governor Passmore's proclamation follows.

"November 11th, the first anniversary of the successful ending of the world's greatest struggle for political freedom, finds America still in the heat of economic battle, a struggle for freedom from the autocracy of extravagance. High Living Costs are being as bitterly assailed today as Hohenzollerns were one year ago.

"Many are the claims as to what 'won the war' against Germany. But it is agreed that only one thing can win the war for financial freedom against economic madness. That thing is Thrift.

"Let us on this day highly resolve to combat the tyrannical cost of existence by the daily application of sensible saving. A resolution is but thin air without a practical application just as soon as it is voiced. Let every citizen apply to himself a principle he knows is right, and seal his resolve with the safest, surest guarantee of financial good faith in the world—a purchase of Thrift Stamps, Savings Certificates, the tiny bonds of this great nation, which yield liberal interest on the money so invested.

"As an expression of genuine thankfulness for the ending of the war; as a bit of practical patriotism for our own personal gain, let each of us make it a point to buy at least one Savings Stamp on Tuesday; Armistice Day."

HOG CHOLERA ALMOST WIPED OUT IN THE STATE

Live Stock Sanitary Board Shows Value of Preventive Measures

The State Live Stock Sanitary Board has made a remarkable demonstration in Delaware in the control of hog cholera. In this work it has been assisted by Dr. M. L. Zurkow, a special representative of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, who has been in Delaware nearly two years and has given constant attention to outbreaks and to diagnosis of the disease and has established a uniform method of administering serum and virus.

There were so many outbreaks of the disease in all parts of the State that after consultation with Governor Townsend, the Attorney General and the State Treasurer, it was decided to use the emergency fund for the purpose of controlling this disease. In nearly every small settlement, especially where farm hands and colored people lived, all the hogs were vaccinated to prevent the spread of the disease and as soon as an outbreak was reported anywhere the prevention measures were applied.

It is true that in many cases the outbreaks were not reported until too late to save the hogs, but even in those cases hogs near the infected farms have been vaccinated and in this way the spread of the disease has been checked.

The fund for the free distribution of serum has now been exhausted and farmers must pay for the serum as well as for the services of the veterinarian, but the demonstration that has been made has clearly shown them the advantage of using preventive methods and farmers can well afford to pay this additional cost rather than lose their hogs. The campaign will be pushed with vigor. Dr. Zurkow will attend many farmers' meetings and explain fully the methods used and the necessity for prompt action.

FIRST TEACHERS' INSTITUTE HELD HERE SATURDAY

Representatives of State and County Boards Attend Conference

A conference of all principals and teachers of rural New Castle county to discuss professional matters, was held at Wolf Hall on Saturday morning. A luncheon served at "The Commons" followed at 1 o'clock, when matters of general educational interest were discussed informally and a get-together spirit manifested through informal speeches from George B. Miller, president of the State Board of Education, A. R. Spaid, State Commissioner, George L. Medill and Eugene Shalleross of the County Board, Wilbur H. Jump, County Superintendent, Mr. W. K. Yeager, Superintendent of the duPont School and Phineas Morris, Superintendent of the Newark schools.

At the morning meeting superintendent Jump presided. Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell welcomed the teachers, Miss Ruth Jones county attendance officer explained the provisions of the compulsory law and Francis H. Green of West Chester gave his famous address on wit and humor. A. R. Spaid, State Commissioner of Education also addressed the teachers and Miss Agnes Snyder chairman of the organization committee for the State Teachers' Association explained the aims and purposes of the proposed organization.

Sectional meeting of the high school, grammar school, and primary school groups were held. These were presided over by the respective county supervisors. Miss Mary E. Rich addressed the primary teachers on the subject of reading. She reviewed the purposes of reading and the physiological phenomena attendant thereto. She showed why the teaching of phrases was the logical method, not the teaching of words; discussed the methods of correcting lip movement; and stressed the importance of making the reading lesson a pleasurable affair. Children will be anxious to repeat a joyous experience and thus form good life habits.

She advocated permitting small children to move about for research has proved that children from 5 to 10 years of age can not keep still for more than 1 1/2 minutes consecutively. She urged vigilance in watching for evidence of physical defect and immediate attention to eye or ear trouble since practically all of the life's knowledge is acquired through the ocular and auditory organs.

County Superintendent Jump addressed the grammar school section. To the high school section Dr. F. M. K. Foster presented the subject of "Teaching Poetry to High School Students." He dwelt upon the necessity of preparing a background for any poetry studied, advised the teacher to acquaint herself several days previous to the lesson with the words, classical allusions, or historical facts that may be unfamiliar to the student, and to drill on these entirely apart from the poem and previous to its presentation or study. He cited as instances of such necessary preparation, "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and Milton's, "L'Allegro."

Miss Ruby A. Miller presided over the primary section and Miss Warburton over the grammar school section.

Following the general meeting which was addressed by Commissioner Spaid and Dr. Green, the conference was adjourned.

The farmer believes in the eight-hour day, only he works eight in the forenoon and eight in the afternoon. — Flint (Mich.) Journal.

At 12:45 all of those present proceeded to the Commons where a platter luncheon was served. At the conclusion of this Superintendent Jump presented George L. Medill, president of the County Board, who acted as emcee. He explained briefly the duties of the Board and their responsibilities as custodians of the school moneys, their sincere efforts to pay fair with the teachers and with the taxpayers. He told of the difficulties encountered in preparing the budget for this year and stated that they would be able next year to use the present budget as a basis and to plan more intelligently for the financial needs of the schools.

George B. Miller, president of the State Board of Education was next introduced. He stated that one purpose of his coming to the meeting was to permit the teachers to see for themselves if the State Board is as terrible and as formidable a body as some reports would indicate. He assured them of the sympathetic attitude of the Board toward the teachers, their intention to make every sacrifice necessary to give the new system a fair trial, and their vital personal interest in the things which are being done by the individual teachers. He urged that they communicate freely with him and with the other members of the Board concerning their work and their difficulties. He urged that they give publicity to their achievements through the papers and told what pleasure it gave him to see accounts of good work in the papers. He cited an instance of such a report from the Yorklyn school and of his writing a commendatory letter to the teachers of that school.

In enclosure he assured them that personal and prompt attention would be given to any problem laid before the Board or sent to the Delaware School News, the monthly bulletin of the State Board which will be sent regularly to every teacher. He congratulated the teachers upon their efforts to establish a teachers' organization and hoped that all of the teachers present would attend the Dover meeting on November 21 and 22.

Commissioner Spaid called attention to the unfortunate circumstance of the new school system's going into effect at a time when the storms had wrought such destruction, and the burden of the war debt must also be met. In spite of these things, however, the people will make every sacrifice to see that the little tots who tomorrow will be taking over the work of the world, be given a square deal. If democracy is the best form of government, if the people should rule, then it behooves the government to see to it that it produce an educated citizenship, for the greatest foe of a democracy is ignorance. He commended the efforts of the teachers in forming an organization and prophesied greater educational progress when a body of teachers speaks as a unit.

KENNARD & CO.

Women's Distinctive Autumn Apparel

A comprehensive array of individualized creations, from the ultra conservative to the extreme type; interesting fabrics, bright, glowing colors and the loveliness of line characterize the Kennard Co.'s cleverly chosen models.

The garment season is now at its height and stock is at the high water mark of excellence. These two facts combined should gain for us a share of your garment business.

COATS—We invite the most severe test as to quality of fabrics, workmanship and price value. New models are shown in plain and fur-trimmed cloth and plush models, together with short sport models.

SUITS—Every one viewing our Suits this season has commented on the price fairness manifested in every one we offered. Our price quotations of $39.50 and upwards express the moderation in price. Qualities in every instance are up to the high standard required here.

DRESSES—A dress for every occasion required can be supplied from our very large stock of carefully selected models. Street, dinner, evening and general utility gowns are shown in a profusion of styles. Prices range from $17.95 to $125 each, with every inbetween price.

Handkerchiefs—-for the Holidays

A notably large collection of exquisite imported novelties and fine linen handkerchiefs, particularly desirable for Christmas gifts, is now ready for the early holiday shopper. It includes real lace handkerchiefs in Rose Point, Duchess, Valenciennes, Point d'Espagne, fine spun linens from Ireland, handkerchiefs from the Philippines, and exclusive ideas not found elsewhere—a full assortment for advance selection by those who plan to purchase handkerchiefs as gifts.

We solicit charge accounts from those of established credit, and prepay delivery charges on all purchases within a reasonable distance.

A Word to Women Folks

the nation's purse strings.
It is said that women hold certainly a large proportion of man's income is expended by the woman who presides over the home.

It is logical, though none too common, to give the women folks every opportunity to learn the ways of investment. Also to encourage her to administer home finances so that a fund may result which will endow her with an investment income.

There are many men who, if acquainted with the "Equitable Trust Plan" for creating and enlarging an estate, would see great possibilities for their women folks in the plan; they would willingly add stated sums to women's savings to a fund established by this method. For, besides providing in time a separate income, it would give their women folks contact with investment specialists; and, should the time come when a death thrusts heavy financial responsibilities upon them, they will know to whom to turn for dependable aid.

We suggest to women folks that they ask for our booklet, the "Equitable Trust Plan," read it and discuss its suggestions with their husbands.

CHAUTAUQUA THE LEAGUE OF NEIGHBORS A "PEACE AND RECONSTRUCTION" PROGRAM Newark, Nov. 19-20-21

OUTLINE PROGRAM

1st DAY

NOON Series Lecture, Chautauqua Superintendent.
6 o'clock Concert---The Revue Company. This talented company has just completed an unusually successful season. They bring a program composed of the very latest musical successes. They will open Chautauqua with the enthusiasm of the usual climax.
7 o'clock Concert---The Revue Company.
8 o'clock Lecture---Carlton Chamberlayne, "To-Morrow," a lecturer of unusual ability as an orator and wide experience in practical affairs. Mr. Chamberlayne comes to you breathing the spirit of the new day.

2nd DAY

NOON Series Lecture, Chautauqua Superintendent.
6 o'clock Concert---The Four Artists. Miss Melicent Melrose, soprano; Miss Dorothea Fitch, reader; Miss Georgia Price, harpist, and Miss Winifred Caverly, pianist. This versatile quartette will present a varied program of musical numbers, instrumental and vocal; reading and dramatic sketches.
7 o'clock Concert---The Four Artists.
8 o'clock Lecture---Chancellor George H. Bradford "Suncrowned Manhood." Chancellor Bradford was a feature speaker on the first Australian Chautauqua. His ability as an orator was one of the factors in the success of that new venture. His lecture will lift you from the man you are to the man you ought to be.

3rd DAY

NOON Series Lecture, Chautauqua Superintendent.
6 o'clock Concert---Vierra's Hawaiians. A distinct musical novelty. There are many companies of Hawaiian musicians, but George W. Vierra's group of talented artists sets the standard for all. Their steel guitar numbers are unequalled for their faithful interpretation of the true Hawaiian music. Hear them on the last day.
7 o'clock Concert---Vierra's Hawaiians.
8 o'clock Dramatic Recital---Miss Elizabeth B. Oliver. Miss Oliver will read one of the popular modern dramatic successes, such as Winchell Smith's "Turn to the Right" or "Bayard Veiller's "Within the Law." Miss Oliver is instructor of Public Speaking at Swarthmore College, and the successful director of numerous stage successes in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

COOPERATIVE BUYING PROVES EMINENT SUCCESS

Was Initiated 70 Years Ago in Effort to Lower Living Costs

The cooperative store movement, which has been agitated for several months by Newark residents under the leadership of William Tierney, as a means of combatting the present high cost of living, is by no means an untried experiment, but has in the past in this country and in England proved to be a conspicuous success.

While in this country most of the cooperative activity is in the Middle West and the Far West there are some splendid examples of big success in the East, notably that of the Into Cooperative Society of Fitchburg, Massachusetts. In 1910 this society opened a grocery store which did a business of $20,000 a year. Now the society operates four grocery stores, a men's furnishings and shoe store, and a bakery, all of whose sales combined during the past year amounted to over a half million dollars.

The real origin of the cooperative movement dates back 70 years or more when two dozen or more flannel weavers of Rochdale, England, in an effort to stretch their wages over the high cost of living and to better their condition, evolved a scheme whereby they banded themselves into a society, rented a store room, stocked it with a small wholesale order of staple provisions. On two evenings every week one of the members volunteered to act as storekeeper, and dole out to fellow members provisions at the regular market prices asked by other storekeepers.

Each member was asked to contribute five dollars to the working capital of the grocery business and as it grew and prospered the profits became greater until the business finally developed into one of the biggest mercantile establishments in England. It remained, however, the property of the society members and subject to their democratic control on the basis of one vote to every member, man or woman. The news of this remarkable success spread with marvelous rapidity and in less than 20 years there were a sufficient number of these societies to form a powerful federation which could pool purchases and control a sufficiently large trade to command the respect of the great merchants and manufacturers.

The jealousy and rage of the smaller dealers against the cooperative stores resulted eventually in a boycott of manufacturers and wholesalers which drove the "Cooperatives" to do their own manufacturing, a step made possible by the gradual expansion of the sinking fund. These productive enterprises still further cheapened the cost of living and the movement grew rapidly until the outbreak of the war they were operating the biggest manufacturing plants in Great Britain.

Other countries followed England's example and Belgium went one better under the leadership of Anseele, who instead of dividing the profits, turned them to community benefits—a club house, sick benefits, aid for the unfortunate and death benefits. The club house has developed along its own lines and is now fitted up as one of the most complete recreation centers in the world. This association survived the wreckage wrought by the war and is today stronger than ever.

prices, coal miners in Southern Illinois, who had worked in British collieries where cooperation is strong, agitated it among their American fellows and soon buying clubs were formed, which later developed into cooperative stores. They have all prospered and the movement has spread rapidly through the West. There is scarcely one of them which does not return at least an 8 per cent rebate to its purchasing members and some make as high as 12 per cent.

Recently in Western Pennsylvania miners, some of whom had seen the system worked in Belgium, started the movement among their fellow workers of all nationalities and their store does a business aggregating $200,000 a year and practically dominates the trade of the community. In Wisconsin, Minnesota and the two Dakotas, Washington, California and practically all of the Western States the experiment has proved successful.

Think Courage and Rout the Fear Bug

The fear bug—how to get rid of it. In physics we are taught that two things cannot occupy the same place at the same time. Let us apply it to the realm of thought. As fear and courage cannot occupy the same place at the same time. Let us apply it to the realm of thought. As fear and courage cannot occupy the same place at the same time, remove fear (which is a negative element) by substituting courage. It is a mere matter of will power and mental attitude. Say, "I fear nothing." Then live up to your affirmation. This is an auto-suggestion to your subjective mind. Remember, you cannot think courage and entertain fear at the same time. Whatever thought you hold objectively and deeply impress on the subjective mind no external power can prevent. You observe I say impress. The mere telling the subjective mind is not sufficient. An impression must be made through feeling it must be so. Mere words are often caught in the mental machinery and never get any farther.

The following quotation may be an aid to you in fixing more firmly in your mind the necessity of assuming the proper attitude regarding fear: "Flee from fear, and still the faster Fear comes on. Turn, assert yourself the master. Fear is gone."

Spiritual Mindedness Necessary to Being Right

One thing that makes so much wrong in the world is that every fellow thinks he is right and acts upon that idea. Now, the fact is, that when a person is absolutely sure he is right he is most certain to be wrong. That is one reason the world is in such turmoil today. There are several million people thinking they are right, and constantly acting upon that belief, they are constantly engaged in doing wrong things. The trouble is that they depend upon their mentality, rather than their spirituality.

Now, mentality offers abundant room for debate, sentiment, distrust and hate, and so when mentality reaches what it calls right, it brings all these phases of thought and attitudes of opinion that take the place of right. This is the psychology of the whole subject. It is all a matter of the soul and not of the intellect. Love does not belong to the intellect; and love is the only thing that will put men right. That is what the gospel is for. Not to argue with, but to love with. You cannot hate a man and agree with him. A person cannot be right unless he has full measure of love.

There is no necessity for claiming to be right unless we are spiritually minded. The world is not being educated aright. Education and religion is all tipping over to the materialistic side.—Ohio State Journal.

Salvaging Trench Hose Pipe For Tin

An interesting side line of war salvage is being carried on at Hayes, Middlesex, England, where some hundreds of miles of trench hose pipe are being disintegrated and the various products recovered for sale. This type of hose contains a large amount of iron wire and canvas impregnated with a small proportion of rubber. A special machine has been designed for treating the hose, and the stripped wire is stated to be worth about $65 a ton at present prices. The rubber is being reclaimed, and the canvas ultimately finds an application as cellulose. The work is being done on a part of the premises of a detinning works, where considerable quantities of scrap tin are now being treated by the electrolytic process with satisfactory results. Tin metal of a particularly high standard of purity is being obtained from the scrap, containing as much as 99.5 per cent of pure tin.

Clear Cut-Over Land During the Fair Weather

The fair-weather days of the autumn afford the farmer an opportunity to undertake the clearing of land for which he has no time in the busy summer months, and which can not be done while the land is wet in the spring. On thousands of farms there are cut-over tracts which should be converted into revenue producers as soon as possible. If the owner decides that the land in question is better suited to crop production than to forest growth, a careful study of the most economical method of removing stumps and small growths should be made. Most cut-over land passes through three stages before reaching its greatest agricultural value. The waste and small growth is disposed of first, then it is allowed to remain in stumps for a few seasons, until the smaller stumps are dead and decayed, during which time it is used for pasture or may be cultivated. Finally, all the stumps are removed.

Generally it is best to cut brush as close as possible to the ground and avoid leaving sharp points that might injure stock. However, if the wood is of no value and the ground is not to be cultivated before the stumps are removed, it may be best to cut the trees rather high above the ground. If the stumps are left 3 feet high there will be less sprouting than if cut low down, and such stumps are more easily pulled.

The most successful method of keeping down sprout growth is by heavy pasturing by goats, sheep, or cattle, in the order named. Any sprouts not killed by pasturing should be cut or knocked off with the head of an ax.

There are a great variety of methods used in removing stumps, by means of burning, pullers and dynamite.

The two friends met on the street as they were hurrying to their respective offices one morning. "Hello, Linder, old man!" cried one, as he grasped the other's hand. "Congratulations. I hear you have a new youngster at your home." The new father glanced around apprehensively. "For heaven's sake, you can't hear him way up here, can you?"

Churches to Start Advertising Campaign

A national publicity campaign, involving newspaper and outdoor advertising, will be commenced next spring by the Inter-Church World Movement of North America.

It will be a part of an intensive national educational campaign to explain to the country the purposes and program of the inter-church world movement, in which more than a dozen of the leading Protestant churches are associated for co-operation in religious, social and economic work.

The educational campaign will begin next Monday, November 17, when the first of the Christian University extension courses, which the Inter-Church World Movement will conduct in every State, will open in Burlington, Vt.

RECENT ACCESSIONS TO COLLEGE LIBRARY

The following books have recently been added to the general College library. The books form a valuable, though small, addition, covering many fields of knowledge and including several volumes of great interest and value.

Dec. 1 Set For Murder Trial

Judge Harlan of the Circuit Court for Harford county has set Monday, December 1, as the date for the trial of Clarence Corkran who, with his young wife, Grace Corkran, are alleged to have murdered and robbed John T. Weldon, of Pailadelphia, near Charlestown, on the afternoon of July 9 last. The Corkrans are kept under special guard in the Elkton jail.

Governor Opens Highway.

Governor Sproul, of Pennsylvania, yesterday formally opened a State highway the Baltimore pike between Wawa, Delaware county, and Sylmar, on the Maryland line.

He headed a procession of more than 100 automobiles filled with state officials and road enthusiasts over the 25 mile strip of new road. The party looped back to Oxford for dinner at the Oxford Hotel.

The chairman of the committee in charge was A. P. Irwin, of Chadd's Ford Junction. Others taking part were Pennsylvania State Highway Commissioner Lewis S. Sadler and State Senator T. Larry Eyre.

A doctor came up to a patient in a lunatic asylum, slapped him on the back and said: "Well, old man, you're all right. You can fan along and write your folks that you'll be back home in two weeks as good as new."

The patient went off gayly to write his letter. He had it finished and sealed, but as he was about to affix the stamp the letter slipped through his fingers to the floor, alighted on the back of a cockroach that was passing and stuck. The patient hadn't seen the cockroach. What he did see was his escaped postage stamp zig-zagging aimlessly across the floor and following a crooked trail up the wall and across the ceiling. In deep silence he tore up the letter pressed it to the floor and dropped the pieces on the floor. "Two weeks!" he said. "I won't be out of here in three years."

PATRIOTISM

By DANIEL WEBSTER

A true lover of virtuous patriotism delights to contemplate its purest models; and that love of country may well be suspected which affects to soar so high into the regions of sentiment as to be lost and absorbed in the abstract feeling, and becomes too elevated or too refined to glow with fervor in the commendation or the love of individual benefactors. All this is unnatural. It is as if one should be so enthusiastic a lover of poetry as to care nothing for Homer or Milton; so passionately attached to eloquence as to be indifferent to Tully and Chatham; or such a devotee to the arts, in such an ecstasy with the elements of beauty, proportion, and expression, as to regard the masterpieces of Raphael and Michael Angelo with coldness or contempt. We may be assured that he who really loves the thing itself loves its finest exhibitions. A true friend of his country loves her friends and benefactors, and thinks it no degradation to commend and commemorate them.

To Reduce the High Cost of Walking

To reduce the high cost of walking, the United States Department of Agriculture has become a doctor to old shoes - not a general practitioner, but a consulting specialist both in diagnosis and treatment. One of its most recent prescriptions, evolved by the Bureau of Chemistry, has to do with the pair of last winter's shoes that, about this time of the year, are pulled out of the closet all full of mildew and looking hopelessly done for. The prognosis is that the shoes are good for a month or two anyhow. The treatment is: Brush or rub, applied externally; castor oil, small quantity vigorously rubbed in; sunshine, one or two days.

HEALTH PROGRAM AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Speakers Gratified to Find Work Already Inaugurated Here

Miss Marie Lockwood, State Supervisor of Nurses in charge of Child Health Centers in the State, and Mrs. Ina J. A. Perkins, director of Child Welfare for the Reconstruction Commission, met with the teachers of the grammar school and the students in the teacher-training class at Women's College on Thursday afternoon at the Grammar School building.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss and map out a health program for the year. Mrs. Perkins urged that the initial step be the weighing and measuring of the children, since the weight and measurement records are the subject index of the general condition, mark a starting point for constructive measures and form a basis of comparison for future development.

Work in hygiene, with special reference to health problems—care of the teeth, benefits of fresh air, cleanliness, disease prevention, first aid, and the everyday problems of living, have largely displaced the former work in physiology which dealt almost solely with the memorizing of scientific facts with no particular reference to their application to health problems.

Nearly Half of Delaware College Fund Subscribed

Up, to date, only $34,000 has been promised towards the $100,000 fund. The men who are canvassing the State are still hard at work, however, and soon it is hoped that the fund will go over with over 100 per cent.

OLD ENGLISH PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED

On Thursday evening, November 20, the Sophomore English class of the Women's College will present two plays in the Wolf Hall Auditorium. The admission charge will be fixed at twenty-five cents, including war tax.

The plays selected for presentation are the two great masterpieces of old English drama, "Everyman" and "Abraham and Isaac." "Everyman" was for several years successfully revived on the stage by professional companies, but "Abraham and Isaac" has been less frequently presented in modern times. Both plays were written at some time before 1600 A. D., but they will be presented in modernized English.

The cast for "Everyman" will be: Messenger, Mildred Jefferis; God, Alice Ferguson; Death, Elizabeth Taylor; Everyman, Dorothy Ford; Fellowship, Vivien Porter; Cousin, Marguerite Mitchell; Goods, Mrs. M. O. Pence; Good Deeds, Helen Groves; Knowledge, Elsie Wooleyhan; Confession, Eleanor Cannon; Beauty, Cardelle Williams; Strength, Margaret Moffett; Discretion, Eleanor Marshall; Five-Wits, Ruth Weihe; Angel, Mildred Haley; Doctor, Grace Marvel.

The plays are being produced under the personal direction of Dr. John Robert Moore, with the assistance of Miss Florence Hubbard, of the Art Department of the Women's College, and an Executive Staff including the following: Stage Manager, Helen Groves; Costumes, Louise Francis, Alice Ferguson; Music, Marian Rodney; Business Management, Elizabeth Taylor; Publicity, Mildred Jefferis, Dorothy Ford; Properties, Margaret Finck.

Corinne Griffith in "The Climbers"

Link the names of CORINNE GRIFFITH, "the prettiest girl on the screen," and CLYDE FITCH, one of the best known playwrights of the age, and you have an impregnable attraction.

"THE CLIMBERS" is a society drama dealing with the mystery of the age—the way of a woman—the way of a woman who loves. CORINNE GRIFFITH, as Blanche Sterling, a child of the gods in wealth and beauty, marries the man of her dreams, in her teens. A financial crash brings out the real mettle of her husband. He hasn't the right stuff in his make-up. But the magnificent, dormant, womanhood in the erstwhile girl asserts itself. And things happen. Big things. Gripping things. Things that play on the emotions and touch the heart strings. But through it all there is a gracious strain of comedy that leaves a happy taste. Because the girl finds happiness and love triumphs.

Admission to this big attraction, 22 cents.

THE M. MEGARY & SON CO. New Dinner Sets are Here! Just arrived and in time to serve the Thanksgiving dinner on. These sets are mostly of domestic porcelain and some imported. They were ordered long ago and we consider ourselves fortunate to be able to offer them at these prices. The sets are all of one hundred pieces and in a number of attractive decorations and, better still, at a price range to suit most pocketbooks. There are, for example, four sets in domestic porcelain from one of the best factories. They come with either a pink or green spray decoration, a pink spray relieved by an unusual black decoration and a blue conventional border. The price of any of these sets, one hundred pieces, is $25.00. An excellent value. At $35.00 the set these are four other patterns to choose from. One with blue bands and tiny roses, one with red rose border, another with a delicate gray band with roses. Then there are two patterns—one with a gold band decoration and burnt gold handles, at $45.00 the set—the other with a pink and buff border and burnt gold handles at $55.00 for the one hundred pieces. For those who do not need a complete set there are four patterns in domestic porcelain in open stock. The decorations are conventional and the price for the complete sets, $36.00 and $38.00. Being open stock, however, any number of prices or combination can be had. And then there are the beautiful imported china Dinner Sets. The war stopped the importation of these sets and it was but recently that these long delayed sets arrived. They are truly beautiful, a delight to the housewife who takes pride in her table fittings. Practically all these sets have burnt gold handles. One conventional design is marked or one hundred pieces, $82.35. A dainty green border decoration is $95.25 the set, and one with a heavy pink border is marked $106.00. And three other patterns, rich, dignified and exclusive, the kind of set you have long dreamed of seeing on your table, with gold band decorations and gold borders, are marked $135.00, $174.00 and $181.00 the set. These imported Dinner Sets are open stock, and you can start your set now with as many or as few pieces as you want. New Linen for the Thanksgiving Table You know the added pleasure and zest that comes to a Thanksgiving dinner when your table is properly dressed in its glittering, snowy linen. It is no time for worn out table cloths or hole ridden napkins—it is the one meal in a year that you want to taste right and serve right. Here are Table Cloths in all sizes to fit most any table, and at a wide range. Mercerized Table Cloths, 72x72, in stripe and blocks, are $375. Another pattern in rose design at $4.50. Mercerized Napkins, hemmed ready for use, 22-inch are $2.50, $3.00, $4.00, $5.75 the dozen. Napkins in real Irish linen, and real linen is scarce today, are marked at the moderate price of $8.00, $10.00 and $12.50 the dozen. Napkins in Union Damask (part linen and part cotton) are $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00 the dozen. Irish linen Damask, all Irish linen, 78 inches wide, in floral patterns, ready to be made into cloths of various sizes, is $2.65, $3.25, $3.75 and $4.25 the yard. Union Damask, 72 inches wide, conventional designs, is $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 the yard. Mercerized Damask, 72 inches wide, conventional designs, is $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 the yard. The McKay cellular Table Pad, ventilated, liquid proof joints, washable surface, with ventilated air chambers, is an absolute protection for your table top and will prevent many unsightly scars and burns. In 45-inch, 48-inch and 54-inch widths, round. They are marked $9.00 and $10.00 each. Leaves are $2.00 each, additional. These pads can be made to fit any shape or size table. They are a necessary part of your dining-room furnishings and save the frequent refinishing of your table. Colonial Reproductions in Fire Place Fittings Quaint and sombre, reminiscent of cold New England winter and stormy, snowy nights are these new Andirons, just arrived. They are hand-made and of wrought (not cast) iron and are big and little and slim and fat. There is a size for nearly every fireplace and a size and pattern to harmonize with any room. They are correct reproductions of patterns popular in colonial days and just as popular now. One set is 14 inches high and especially suited for a small fireplace. Priced at $10.50 the pair. Large Andirons, some with rings and hooks, 24 inches high and in wrought iron, are priced from $12.00 to $29.00 the pair. Fire Sets—consisting of stand, shovel, tongs and log lifter, are marked from $9.00 to $23.00. Some of these sets have in addition, hearth brushes. Guard Rails or Fenders in wrought iron, 48 inches long, with poker, are $18.00. Spark Screens, a needed protection from fire, in several sizes to fit the different size fire places, are marked from $6.50 to $13.00. In brass, folding, $25.00. Brass Andirons, shiny and glittering, are marked $12.00, $18.00, $19.00 and $24.00 the pair. Fire Sets, $14.00 to $24.00. Wood Baskets in wrought iron are $13.00. Cape Cod Fire Lighters, a real convenience that enables you to light your fireplace quickly and without kindling, are marked complete with tray, in brass, copper and wrought iron, $5.00, $8.00 and $10.00.
