

RATIONING BOARD FOR TIRES NOW ACTIVE

Interpretation Of Eligibility Reviewed By James L. Luke

Newark's tire rationing board went into action this week after receiving instructions from the federal program which became effective on Monday.

Members of the board are: Leon E. Ryan, Weldon C. Waples, and J. Irvin Dayett.

Headquarters have been established at the Council of Newark office, 26 Academy Street where application for tires may be made.

The plan will operate as follows: An applicant will secure from the office an application form and after careful reading, if he thinks he can qualify, the application should be filled in and presented to an inspector, who will complete the filling out of the card.

After this has been done, the application should be filed at the office for the action of the board which will notify the applicant whether or not his request has been granted.

A charge of fifty cents per tire will be made by the inspectors when it is necessary to take a tire off the rim to look at the tube or the inside of the casing.

His assistants are: Herman Leasure, Glass.

FIGARO TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY

Mozart's Popular Opera To Be Sung In English Here

Figaro for Americans. Not a pompous production overlaid with scenery, hiding its wit in a foreign tongue, but Figaro revealed as what it is—the sweet and most youthful of all operas.

This is the second program in a series of three which is being presented by the organization, supported by a membership of more than 600 drawn from music lovers from this section and nearby Pennsylvania and Maryland.

In operatic circles, the fact that the majority of Americans understand only English is usually passed off as an unhappy coincidence.

Not so at the United School of New York from which this troupe originates. In 1919, Augustus Willard, who was born a Frenchman but died an American, left the unprecedented sum of $20,000,000 to establish a musical foundation.

An acknowledged part of its program was to transplant opera to American soil. These opera in English has always been the rule rather than the exception in railroad productions.

Those who will take part in the production are: John Tyers, Figaro; Helen Van Loon, Susanna; Gertrude Gibson, the Countess; Vera Weikel, Cherubino; John McCann, the Count; Robert Stuart, Basilio; Walter Walmer, pianist; and David Otto, conductor.

Following the ceremonies, tea will be served in the parish house by the Young People's Fellowship.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 a. m.; church school will convene at 9:30 a. m., and the regular service will be conducted at 11 a. m.

Word from their son, Pvt. Charles R. Hollister, Jr. who is with the 14th Pursuit Squadron at Wheeler Field, Hawaii, was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Hollister, of near Newark.

In his letter, dated Dec. 10 and post-marked at Hawaii 16 days later, the local youth describes phases of the attack which caught American defenders off guard.

He writes: "Just a few minutes is about all I can take off to let you know I am O.K. We really had a hell of a time Sunday morning during the bombing, but we are more than ready now for them."

Registrations for Civilian Defense soared over the 100 mark yesterday, according to figures released by Harry L. Bonham, chairman of the local committee, who has succeeded D. A. McClintock as head of the Newark organization.

TWO-WAY RADIO IS DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL

Police Setup May Be Adopted By Town At Cost Of $1,045

Matters of local defense, including a two-way radio which would greatly facilitate police and service work, occupied members of the Council of Newark at the regular monthly meeting, Monday night.

If installed, the system would be hooked up from the council office with not only the police car, but town service trucks as well.

Immediate contact could be made with the cruising police car so that an obvious advantage to the radio setup would be speed in reaching the scene of trouble.

Mayor Frank Collins appointed a committee consisting of Councilmen C. Emerson Johnson, Herman Wollstone, and Charles C. Hubert to consider the matter.

In an effort to prevent sabotage, the group voted to place a guard on 24-hour duty at the water pumping station.

Two men are already working on eight-hour shifts, but it was decided to put another guard on the force as a precautionary measure.

In order to keep a force of eight men on duty at all times during the national emergency, the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company requested eight cots and mattresses for the volunteers who (Please Turn to Page 8)

VOLUNTEERS SIGN FOR DEFENSE

More Than 100 Register At Local Office

Registrations for Civilian Defense soared over the 100 mark yesterday, according to figures released by Harry L. Bonham, chairman of the local committee, who has succeeded D. A. McClintock as head of the Newark organization.

The latter has resigned his chairmanship but remains as a member of the board.

An enrollment of 2,500 has been set as the goal for this section and in order to facilitate registration, the Elliott Building will be kept open from 10 a. m. until 9 p. m. every evening next week.

The office has been active since last Friday, manned by several volunteer women who alternate their shifts.

Volunteers are registered under oath and are subject to penalty should they fail to answer a call in time of emergency.

The fine would be levied only in time of emergency, however, and then only if the order to perform a duty were given by someone in authority.

In other words, it was pointed out, the oath is necessary in order to give assurance that should an emergency arise, important tasks will be performed with necessary speed.

Mrs. J. W. O'Daniel, Miss Isabelle Ashbridge, and Mrs. Harold Sheaffer will begin a course in air raid precautions at the Medical Center, Union and Lovering Avenues, Wilmington, on Monday.

The sessions are sponsored by the Women's Voluntary Service Group and following the instructions, the three local women will conduct a course here. Those interested may sign up now.

Volunteer office workers are also needed for duty at the local office and may sign up immediately.

VITAMINS IN STORE FOR CHICKS NEXT YEAR

Health Routine Scheduled As Hens' Roosters Prepare For War

The chicks, grandchicks and great grandchicks of Delaware's 11,467,000 hens and roosters of 1940 are going on a health farm routine next year. They'll get vitamins, sunlamps, "activated" feeds, codliver extract and practically everything but castor oil.

They've got a job to do for a nation at war. Some of them have to grow big and tender and a lot of them will have to plump out eggs on a production-line basis—11,000,000 dozens of them in 1942.

That's the task the government has assigned Delaware hens with the pointed suggestion they sit down and go to work. At the same time, Delaware poultrymen are being urged to increase this year's flock of 12,843,000 broilers, fryers, roasters and fowl to 14,654,000 birds next year.

With America at war the nation's flocks will play an important part in furnishing the American diet with protective foods. The flocks will give—as well as get—the essential vitamins, and other nutrients that are important to the health of a nation at war. And consumption will keep pace with production if the nutritionists achieve what they have set out to do.

The United States Department of Agriculture wants the American hen to lay 4,000,000,000 dozens of eggs next year and the guardians of public health want Americans to eat at least 35 per cent more eggs for the sake of health and working efficiency.

Enlisted in both campaigns are the retailers and distributors of food who are placing more and more educational emphasis on vitamin-rich, protective and diet-balancing food. More emphasis, too, is being placed on the wider use of more efficient methods of food distribution so that more of these foods will be available to more people.

If savings resulting from "a wider use of more efficient methods of distribution" could be achieved for the entire Delaware poultry industry, says a report from Howard C. Pierce, poultry and egg expert for the A & P Tea Company, it "would be possible to save $788,000 annually for the producers and consumers of Delaware-grown poultry."

Cost of distribution ate up $3,938,000 of the $9,846,000 retail value of Delaware-grown chickens and turkeys in 1940, with farmers' cash income from these same birds only $5,908,000, the report said.

Department of Agriculture figures showed that, on an average, producers got but 35 cents of the consumer poultry dollar marketing through all channels. On the other hand, Mr. Pierce's report showed that through elimination of multiple-handling costs the A & P was able to reduce this price spread by eight cents, making possible returns to the producer an average of 63 cents of the retail poultry dollar.

"In the present emergency," he concluded, "more than ever before there is need for wider use of efficiency in getting food from the farm to tables of America and her allies."

Millions and millions of dozens of eggs will be shipped to Britain in 1942, and to meet wartime demand for strengthening foods, poultrymen are utilizing all means to increase the efficiency of their flocks.

Scientists have developed Vitamin D bearing feed concentrates. Sunlamps are installed in many feeding houses to provide the chickens with the sunshine vitamin. Birds are being bred for meat and egg laying capacity. Most chicken feeds are nutritionally balanced. And gigantic impetus has been provided for modern methods of poultry husbandry by the wartime emergency.

gow, and Joseph M. Brown, 158 East Main Street. Miss Harriet Ferguson has consented to act as secretary for the board.

Due to the rigidity of the specifications, Mr. Ryan has urged all motorists to refrain from making application unless they fall within the specifications listed below.

The following interpretation of the eligibility classifications was announced by James L. Luke, state tire rationing administrator, to clarify questions existing as to what classes of vehicles can obtain priority certificates for tires. The special classifications and the necessary qualifications are:

No certificate shall be issued unless the applicant for the certificate certifies that the tire, casing or tube, for which application is made, is to be mounted on a vehicle classified as follows:

Said certificate will be issued only to those in this classification who regularly make calls outside their offices and who use automobiles to make their calls.

1. To maintain fire fighting services. A certificate may be issued for any fire fighting apparatus including ladder trucks, chemical trucks and hose trucks; also for other kinds of cars and trucks, including trucks without special fire fighting equipment and passenger cars, if the local board is satisfied that the vehicle in question will be used only to fight fires or to perform some other duties included in this section.

2. To maintain necessary public police services. In issuing certificates under this sub-section, the local board shall be governed by the necessity of keeping the uniformed forces and essential non-uniformed personnel of any federal, state or local police force in a position to render efficient service in the prevention and detection of crime.

3. To enforce such laws as relate specifically to the protection of public health and safety. Certificates under this classification shall be issued only for law enforcing services which relate directly to the protection of the public from accident and disease.

4. To maintain garbage disposal and other sanitation services. Certificates may be issued for any vehicle essential to dispose of refuse of various kinds, to operate sewage systems and for similar purposes.

5. To maintain mail services. Certificates may be issued for vehicles to be used for the transportation of mail by or under a contract with the United States.

D-1. On a vehicle with a capacity of ten or more passengers operated exclusively for necessary transportation service along regular routes or with regular schedules from which the general public may obtain service upon payment of standard fare.

D-2. Transportation of students and teachers to and from school. Certificate shall be issued only for school buses.

Because of the importance of the public roads to the functioning of the industrial and military system, certificates may be issued for truck, snow plow and similar equipment to be used for the building and maintenance of public roads.

E-3. Transportation of material and equipment for the construction and maintenance of public utilities. Public utilities shall include gas, electric and water supply systems, telephone and telegraph systems, the facilities of which are available to the general public, railroad, air lines, street car lines, etc., and similar public service institutions, whether publicly or privately operated.

Certificates will be issued only for trucks to transport materials, supplies and equipment for the construction or maintenance of factories, mines and similar production establishments.

E-5. Transportation of material and equipment for the construction of defense housing facilities and military and naval establishments.

Certificates may be issued for trucks to be used in the construction of new housing facilities to be occupied principally by workers in defense plants and cantonments, navy yard docks and other military and naval establishments directly controlled by the armed forces of the United States.

E-6. Transportation essential to render roofing, plumbing, heating and electrical regular services. Certificate may be issued for trucks to be used in rendering such of these services as are essential.

E-7. Transportation by any common carrier, which shall include any carrier of freight by rail, motor or water (using trucks as part of its services) required by law to furnish services to the general public at standard rates fixed in advance. Common carrier shall not include any carrier which renders services only to persons whom it chooses as its customers or on terms separately arranged for each customer and for each service it renders.

E-8. Transportation of waste and scrap materials includes trucks which are to be used for transporting waste and scrap materials, including waste paper, scrap iron, scrap rubber and similar commodities which may be used in production.

E-9. Transportation of raw materials, semi-manufactured goods and finished products including farm products and foods.

LABOR LAW RECALLED

Attention of Delaware employers is called by the Labor Commission of Delaware to a new regulation governing the employment of minors under the age of 16 years in the operation of any type of vehicle.

In accordance with Section 12, Paragraph 3002, of the Revised Code of Delaware, the Labor Commission of Delaware, after careful investigation of complaints and reports that children even as young as 10 years of age had been employed in this type of work at any time during the day, held a public hearing in compliance with the provisions of the Child Labor Law for declaration of an occupation hazardous. The meeting was attended by interested persons.

The members gave due consideration to all phases of the situation and voted unanimously to define such employment as dangerous to the life and limb and injurious to the health of children.

The labor commission wishes especially to call to the attention of employers that violation of this regulation is a violation of the Child Labor Law of Delaware. Employers can protect themselves from unintentional violation of the child labor law by keeping on file certificates of age for all minors claiming to be over 16 years employed in occupations declared to be hazardous, and as certificates for all 16 and 17-year-old minors in occupations not declared hazardous, the commission said.

The employment and age certificates required by the State Labor Commission will be available on Tuesday of each week at the Legislative Hall, Dover, and on Wednesday and Friday of each week at the office of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, Marshallton, Jan. 7 — A large congregation attended the annual Christmas entertainment of the Cedars' Methodist Church School. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Robert Pepper and included recitations, poems, songs, exercises and carols by the primary department.

The children received candy and gifts were presented to the Rev. Richard M. Green, pastor, and Mrs. Green, Richard Enos, superintendent of the school, and Mrs. Enos, and George Perry, sexton. The annual Christmas party for children of the community was held by the Cranston Heights Fire Company, Monday night, at the fire hall.

Boy Scout Troop No. 53 of St. Barnabas P. E. Church, will entertain Troop No. 54 of the Brack-Ex Methodist Church on Friday, Jan. 9.

Mrs. Harrison Peoples and Mrs. Clarence Magargal will be co-hostesses at a meeting of the Happy Thought Bible Class of the Cedars Methodist Church on Thursday evening, Jan. 15.

Bitten by a stray dog in October, Edward Louis Clark, young year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clark of the Cedars, died Monday of the rabies.

Funeral services were held from the child's grandparents' home, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ainsworth, with whom he and his mother lived, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was in White Clay Creek Cemetery.

The child was bitten by the dog while playing in front of his house. He was treated at the time by a physician and appeared to recover. However, last Friday he became ill and feverish and was removed to the hospital on Saturday.

Weekly Sermon

By George S. Schuler, Member of Music Faculty Moody Bible Institute, Chicago
Text: "Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath; and, behold, a young lion roared against him. And the Spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand."—Judges 14:5,6.

Much is being said these days at home and abroad about "V" for victory. Socially, economically, politically, nationally, it's "all out for victory," lest the inevitable big "F," meaning failure, appears over the archway. Yet so little thought is given to the "V" for spiritual victory. Why? "Too busy with other matters," seems to be the answer.

Samson was occupied with a journey into a far country. He was not on an outing or on a journey for business reasons, but to obtain a bride—his all-consuming desire. On the way he encountered a young lion—which is synonymous with that which stands in the way of victory. A God-fearing man, Samson overcame the opposition by meeting it squarely, instead of fleeing from it or putting off the battle until some more convenient time. And he fought by the power of the Holy One—Jehovah—which enabled him to become master of the situation. Later his reward was honey from the lion's carcass. Surely, victory is sweet!

Are you longing for victory for your spiritual problems? Place yourself in the position similar to that of Samson. See to it that you are in possession of the same overcoming power—the Holy Spirit. Then you will be counted among the spiritual overcomers. The question is very important and pertinent: Are you availing yourself of the power of the Holy Spirit for the "V" of spiritual victory? If not, your condemnation will be in some measure like the rebuke given to the servant who possessed one talent and hid it. "Thou slothful servant" (Matt. 25:24-30). May the Lord help up to arise and possess that which is made available in the Holy Spirit—power from on high.

THE BLUE AND GOLD CAGERS return to the basketball wars on Saturday night when an old Delaware court nemesis, Washington College, invades the local gymnasium.

You can discard the Hens' poor showing against West Chester in the Wilmington Armory and look forward to a bang-up skirmish between two rivals who really hate to get licked. Unfortunately, the Shoremen have a disgusting habit of showing their superiority on the boards, but Emery Adkins is equipped with at least one quintet which should prove capable of giving the invaders plenty to worry about.

LAST YEAR, THE HENS, COACHED by Fluicc Stewart, managed to upset the Chestertown cagers in a nip-and-tuck battle which finally saw the home team emerge on the long end of a 46-41 count, but the Eastern Shore outfit came back in the second clash to walk off with an easy decision.

The large Wilmington Armory court contributed greatly to Delaware's downfall against the Teachers and the return to Taylor Gym's smaller floor will add much to the Hens' chances against the Sho' contingent.

Opening the 1942 campaign in brilliant style, the Blue and Gold, trailing 16-23 at the end of the first half, bounced back in the third quarter to dead-lock the score with Pennsylvania Military College at 32-32. Featured by the sharpshooting of Conrad Sadowski and Capt. Freddie Mitchell, the Hens really turned it on in the last half and succeeded in marching off with a 52-51 decision after five minutes of over-time playing.

THE VICTORY WAS TOO CLOSE for comfort, however, for the Hens, forced to bring long-range guns into action, scored more than 75 per cent of their action shots from a distance. It was the Cadets' zone defense that compelled the Blue and Gold to attack in this manner and fortunately, the long ones clicked. Unfortunately, they might not have another "hot" night like that all year.

Taylor Gym's small court is ideal for a zone defense, often employed by invaders, but seldom used by the Hens. Time after time, Delaware's forces have found themselves completely baffled by the zone setup. If they've enjoyed an "on" night, a close victory is usually recorded; if their eyes aren't sharp—it's usually too bad.

It's always been a mystery to us why the Blue and Gold team has never employed the type of defense so easily adapted to its floor which has proved so effective in stopping the Hens so conclusively time after time. A COUPLE OF NEWARK'S PLANE spotters, Neal Smyth and Alden Murray, expected the worst last Saturday night when they took over the Glasgow station at the height of the season's first storm and they got it—but not the way it was expected.

Thieves broke into the shelter while they were outside doing their duty and . . . well, here's the whole story. Afraid the storm would prevent their relief men from reaching the post, the duo went prepared to spend the night and included in their supplies were canned goods, breakfast food, milk, and sandwiches.

AT EXACTLY 11:30 P. M. THEIR day captain, J. H. (Sureshot) Rumer received a hurried telephone call from the men: "All hell's broke loose down here," Murray shouted, "we've been robbed."

Like a true captain, Rumer grabbed his hat and prepared to rush to their aid, but he was stopped by Murray's laugh.

The loot: A few crumbs of sandwich bread. The culprits: Two field mice. The casualties: None.

TEST PERIOD LOOMS NEXT WEEK FOR BLUE AND GOLD QUINTET

Four Tilts, Three On Home Boards, Slated For Delaware Basketball Representatives Prior To Mid-Year Exams; Sho'men Saturday

A quartet of formidable opponents, starting with Washington College on Saturday night, is scheduled for the University of Delaware cagers before the mightiest of foes, mid-year examinations, takes on the Blue Hens.

With the Shoremen, West Chester State Teachers' College, U. S. Naval Academy, and Western Maryland slated to take on Coach Emery Adkins' charges during the next week, the period is expected to prove a testing ground for the Blue and Gold cagers who have thus far emerged victorious in one of two starts.

Off to a bang-up start when they registered a 52-51 overtime victory over Pennsylvania Military College in the 1941-42 inaugural, the Hens fought their next battle at the Wilmington Armory where the large floor and a capable West Chester quintet chalked up a 39-30 conquest. The set back at the hands of the Teachers will be ignored, however, in view of the adverse conditions, and the Hens will be geared up to top spiritual strength for the invasion of the Shoremen on Saturday.

Always a prominent figure in the intercollegiate basketball circle in this section, the Chestertown contingent will seek to extend its long-founded superiority over the Blue and Gold. Last year, the Hens, tutored by Fluicc Stewart, knocked off the Maryland team on the local court but later in the season, under Joe Shields' tutelage, dropped a return decision.

Openly displeased at the showing made by the Hens in their first practice session following the Christmas holidays, Coach Adkins has been drilling his charges long and hard for the impending clash. Passing was ragged and shooting eyes were far from the mark as the Blue and Gold candidates staggered through a two-hour workout.

REVENGE IS SOUGHT BY JACKET PASSERS

Stronger Team Expected To Represent High School On Court

Coach Bill Gillespie's Newark High School basketball squad, 25 strong, will attempt to wipe out the stigma of many defeats suffered in recent years, during the 1942 campaign which opens Friday night on the P. S. duPont boards.

With a starting lineup of five letter-men forming the nucleus of the Jacket contingent, the local mentor is looking forward to the best season in six years which he admitted, "isn't saying much, but we should gain some small measure of revenge on the court during the coming campaign."

Expecting a victory over the Dynamiters, who handed the Jackets a pair of reverses in 1940, Coach Gillespie will call on his veterans to open hostilities against the strong Wilmington quintet. George Schaan will handle the pivot duties, while Wally Dunsmore and Lefty Riley will occupy the forward spots and Joe Moore and Harry Morrow the guards.

This team has been selected from a combination of two contingents, the "Runs" and the "Grunts." Spots on the former outfit are all handled by little men. Schaan, center; Dunsmore and Stump Catfald, forwards; and Moore and Herb Slack, guards. The latter combination is manned by five six-footers, Don Huston, center; Riley and Jim Davis, forwards; and Morrow and George Tate, guards. Bill Cothran and Andy Walp are the outstanding reserves.

The junior varsity combine will be made up of Jack Lewis, center; Cliff Lee and George Treut, forwards; and Wayne Pollari and Roger Kennard, guards.

Defeated in 17 of 20 starts last season, the Jackets unofficially opened the 1942 campaign recently by dropping an impromptu clash to an alumni team, but Coach Gillespie expects the locals to reach full stride Friday night.

FIELD IS LIMITED IN TRIAL

Cochran's Oakwood Emma Cops 13-Inch Division

Oakwood Emma, owned by John W. Cochran, of Newark, ran off with top honors in the 13-inch, all-age class of the regular monthly A.K.C.-sanctioned, Class B field trial staged Sunday by the Eastern Beagle Club on the S. Hallock duPont Estate, Milford Cross Roads.

First place in the 15-inch, all-age division was copped by Chesco Tony, owned by Arthur M. Brown, of Malvern, Pa. Game was scarce due to the recent snowfall and the entry list was kept down due to the inclement weather.

Other beagles which placed in the 13-inch class were: Second, Limestone Spunkie, owned by Clarence Humphreys, Marshallton; third, Char-Nol Tiny Nell, owned by Nolan Hutchins, Elkton, Md.; fourth, Oakwood Patsy Ann II, owned by Raymond Vansant Buckingham, Newark, and reserve, Brumblingman Patsy, owned by Clarence Whiteman.

Due to the limited registration in the 15-inch division, only three places were decided. While Clay Sagacious, owned by Charles Hopkins, of Newark, was awarded second place, while Arthur M. Brown's Bancock Queen, II walked off with third honors.

Jeff Freeland, of Easton, Md., and William Larimore, of Wilmington, judged the 13-inch class, while Robert Politt, of Wilmington, and John W. Cochran, of Newark, rated the 15-inch division. The next trial will be staged on February 1.

USES FOR STARFISH SOUGHT

Oyster Bed Pest May Be Utilized

To discover possible commercial uses for starfish, drills, mussels, and other pests of oyster beds is the purpose of a new project just begun by technologists of the Division of Fishery Industries, Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior.

Under a continuing annual Congressional appropriation of $10,000 two specially appointed Service chemists will undertake extensive chemical and other analyses of these hitherto waste products in an attempt to determine their possible medicinal or other new uses.

Starfish, for example, bitterest foe of the oystermen, are currently marketless, even as fertilizer. Some years ago, however, when they were worth up to $7.50 a ton for their plant food qualities, there were a few firms—notably one in Virginia—which crushed and sold the dried skeletons as commercial fertilizer. They contain about 20 percent mineral matter—mostly lime, but also potash, phosphoric acid, and nitrogen.

In France, Belgium, and Canada, starfish are, so far as is known, still made into fertilizer; and during World War I days they were made into a meal and used as a stock feed. Lately, however, in this country, they have been dragged and dredged from oyster beds and simply put upon the banks to dry and rot. Oyster growers have had to spend anywhere from $4 to $10,000 a year to destroy the pests.

New hope is now given these oystermen that they may at least partially recover on this loss. For it is believed that various valuable commercial products may be made from the starfish as well as the numerous other oyster bed

Second-place honors were taken by Art Bowlsby, Sr., of Continental Plant, who rolled a 26-game average of 173 while Dave Crowl, of Texaco, accounted for a 172-pin mark in 38 games.

Texaco finished the first half on top with 49 wins and 11 losses, while National Fibre was second with 39 victories against 21 defeats. Friendly Five closed in third place with 28 wins, 23 losses; Continental Plant was fourth with 27 conquests, 33 setbacks; Elkton was fifth with 19 wins, 41 losses, and Red Clay Creek brought up the rear with 18 victories, 42 defeats.

Individual averages were listed as follows:

Games Average
P. Whiteman, Texaco 8 190
Barrett, Elkton 26 177
Crowl, Texaco 38 172
Mote, Texaco 38 171
J. Beers, Cont. 38 168

At this time, the one commonly considered involved with defects of the eye, lack of which causes "night-blindness" may be a source of supply for various medicinal chemicals, or some new method may be found for utilizing them as plant food.

After field collection of samples, preliminary work will be started at the Milford (Conn.) laboratories of the Service. Actual final analyses and evaluation of results will be made at the Service's new College Park (Md.) biological laboratory. All work on the new project will be under supervision of James M. Lemon, in charge of Fisheries Technology.

47 STATES HAVE BIRDS

Louisiana Was First To Name Official Bird

Forty-seven States have State birds, 32 of them designated officially, according to a recent summary reported to Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes by the Fish and Wildlife Service. Connecticut is the only State without a State bird.

Louisiana, says the Service, was the first State to recognize a bird officially, putting the brown pelican on its seal in 1902. Virginia, the next, selected the robin in 1912.

Later the Division of Conservation of the General Federation of Women's Clubs promoted the Selection of State birds, and during the past ten years this promotional work has been continued by the American Nature Association. The State birds are as follows, those that are unofficial being in bold face: Alabama, flicker; Arizona, cactus wren; Arkansas, mockingbird; California, California quail; Colorado, belding's sparrow; Connecticut, none; Delaware, blue jay; Florida, sandhill crane; Georgia, wild turkey; Idaho, mountain bluebird; Illinois, cardinal; Indiana, turkey vulture; Iowa, goldfinch; Kansas, meadowlark; Kentucky, cardinal; Louisiana, none; Maine, moose; Massachusetts, bluebird; Michigan, robin; Minnesota, none; Missouri, bluebird; Montana, bronze grackle; Nebraska, junco; Nevada, sagehen; New Hampshire, none; New Jersey, none; New York, bluebird; North Carolina, bluebird; North Dakota, baldpate; Ohio, cardinal; Oklahoma, meadowlark; Oregon, robin; Pennsylvania, none; Rhode Island, none; South Carolina, palmetto quail; South Dakota, sharp-shinned hawk; Tennessee, robin; Texas, quail; Utah, sagehen; Vermont, none; Virginia, robin; Washington, none; West Virginia, none; Wisconsin, downy woodpecker; Wyoming, prairie falcon.

CIVILIAN FLYING STATUS IS SHIFTED

All Airports Must Receive Certificate

The status of civilian flying during wartime emergency shifted swiftly during the past week, with the announcement that all Delaware airports must receive certificates of approval from the Civil Air Administration.

Atty-Gen. James R. Morford, who is executive officer of the Civil Air Administration, is the highlight of the week's news.

The certificates will be issued when the various fields of the state demonstrate they are complying fully with the Aeronautics Authority regulations. It is noted that all fields must have a 24-hour armed guard, and all planes based at unguarded fields must be immobilized by removal of an essential part.

All planes based at airports not certified by the attorney-general will be grounded, a proclamation issued by Gov. Walter W. Bacon last Friday asserted.

Governor Bacon's proclamation was issued following a conference between the Civil Air Patrol staff members and state officials. The C.A.P., Wing Commander Holger Hoiris asserted, is not an armed force, and cannot be expected to handle the guarding of the airports.

As a temporary measure, he suggested local volunteers could be deputized as armed guards, and that the airports would be patrolled by them.

Meanwhile, machinery is moving to organize the fliers of the state, and to get the patrol "in the air" in Uncle Sam's service.

Volunteers are continuing to visit the A.P. office at 200 West Ninth Street, Wilmington, to pick up the application blanks which must be filed by each person wishing to join the patrol. The blanks should also be available at airports throughout the state.

When organized, the patrol will take over all types of duties through which it can assist the army and navy in the air. At present, the armed forces use first-line airplanes for many routine duties, such as transport of personnel, carrying mail, reconnaissance, conducting searches from the air, and so forth.

The civilians probably will work in close cooperation with the armed forces in such duties as towing target for anti-aircraft firing practice, and night flying search light drills, Commander Hoiris asserted.

However, that easy life is now over, for last week we ordnance men at this base were transferred to ordnance attached to the West Coast Training School for Bombardier Cadets. Now, we're ready to pitch in and deliver those practice bombs, so our future bombardiers can learn their "stuff." And we're anxious to get moving, too! Gentlemen and citizens of Newark:

May I express my profound appreciation for the package you sent me with all its attractive and useful articles? It is actions like this upon the part of our "constituents" that help us service men "keep our chins up" in these trying times. It was especially gratifying to receive the packages since I was unable to get home for this Christmas. Very sincerely yours,

To the Mayor's Committee:

I wish to extend to the Mayor's Committee and the citizens of Newark my hearty thanks for the very useful Christmas box which I received from the committee.

It is really difficult to really express in words my appreciation and thanks. Sincerely,

Temple F. Connolly
Fort Devens, Mass.

Dear Folks,

Thank you very much for sending me a lot of very nice gifts for Christmas. The articles I received are all very useful and I appreciate them very much.

It's nice to know that the folks back home are thinking of us boys when we are far away.

I didn't get home for Christmas but I was home for a few hours the previous weekend. It is 435 miles from Fort Bragg to Newark and takes about 12 hours traveling time each way, so that you don't have much time to visit out of 1 1/2 days that we can get off. Sincerely yours,

William S. Eastburn

Dear Sirs:

Upon my arrival from home I found your generous package waiting for me with all the boys here as interested in its contents as I was.

I certainly was pleased with the variety and the quantity of your gifts. Everything you packed will be of much use to me now and in the future also, particularly the cleaning materials.

With all the activity going on in Newark around the holiday season and the wide range of boys you have to send packages to, I certainly feel your kindness was the result of an extended effort.

Thanks so very much for your thoughtfulness and I can only say that we will all try to fulfill your faith in us. Sincerely,

Daniel V. Stoll

Gentlemen:

Many thanks to your great committee for its consideration and gesture of good will. Such thoughtfulness creates a feeling of well being and good cheer. More power to you and to all of you I say. "A good New Year and many of them."

John H. Watson, Jr.

Dear Newarkers,

Even though very busy, I am taking time to thank you for the gift box. The candy and articles are exactly what every boy in the service appreciates and can put to use, but more than the gift itself is the thought and gesture behind the gift. It's good to know we have a home town and friends thinking of us, and as soon as we finish this job, we'll be back on Main Street with you. Thanks,

LIVESTOCK DAY TO BE HELD

Program At Local Farm On Jan. 29

Delaware dairymen are being called upon to produce more milk as their part in this nation's effort to maintain the health and well-being of our people which is so necessary in this time of crisis.

Word from A. E. Tomhave, acting head of the department of animal and poultry industry of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, indicates that his department at its "Livestock Day" on Jan. 29, is planning to bring to the dairymen of Delaware the latest information which they may use in their all-out efforts to produce the foods needed by our people.

Heading the program will be G. L. Schuster, director of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station and Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, with words of welcome for the dairymen.

Especially timely will be a discussion of "Practical Pasture Management" by Claude Phillips of the Experiment Station's agronomy department, including information on fertilization, liming, rotation and clipping of pastures.

From the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be T. E. Woodward to discuss "Making and Use of Grass Silage."

Other subjects to be presented at Livestock Day are "Dairy Herd Improvement Records as a Basis for a Sound Breeding Program" and "Feeding and Management Problems Which Must Be Met in 1942."

In addition to hearing these talks, dairymen will visit the University Farm to observe work there and to discuss their problems informally with members of the University staff.

The following day, January 30, will be Poultry Day at the University.

SOLDIERS EXPRESS GRATITUDE

(More than 50 letters of appreciation have been received by the Mayor's Committee from local boys now in service who received either Christmas checks or packages last month. Following are a few of the letters written by members of Battery E and Newark youths who were drafted or volunteered for service.)

Jamaica, B. W. I.

My dear Mr. Steele,

I am taking this liberty of representing the boys in the service. Having received your Christmas Greetings and check of $2.50, we wish to extend our sincerest appreciation of your efforts in making this a happy Christmas. Newark's interest in our present role as soldiers in the United States Forces adds to our intense desire to carry on in this great struggle. Thanking you again, I am, sincerely yours,

Pvt. Leo Laskaris
East Hartford, Conn.

Dear Sir,

Being a volunteer in the army of the United States and being stationed with the Delaware National Guard in Battery E from Newark, Del., I wish to thank you and your committee and the people in the city and vicinity for the wonderful Christmas gifts. They are taken with very much appreciation. Thank you.

James Clark, Jr.

Friends:

I received your swell gift and I was very well pleased with it. It is wonderful to know that everybody thinks of you and are back of you when devoting this time to the army. Everything you sent was just what a soldier would need. Thank you very much.

Harry E. Downs
Albuquerque, New Mexico

Dear Sirs,

I am writing to acknowledge your Christmas packages which arrived here last Saturday. Everything came in good condition, despite a rather long journey. I certainly appreciated your gesture. The box, itself, was well-thought-up, containing everything a soldier would need.

Just before hostilities began I was granted a twenty-day furlough. I planned to leave here December 20th, which would have landed me in Wilmington on the 23rd. However, the L.Y.D.'s sort of spoiled plans. All furloughs in this area have been cancelled. Consequently we boys here are planning a lively holiday, to be celebrated right here in Albuquerque—even though we will no doubt work Christmas Day.

APIARISTS TO MEET

The fifth annual meeting of the Delaware State Beekeepers Association will be held at the Caesar Rodney High School at Camden on Saturday, January 17, reports John M. Amos, assistant entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Delaware, and secretary-treasurer of the barkeepers association.

At this all-day meeting, Delaware beekeepers will hear George J. Abrams, specialist in apiculture at the University of Maryland, speak on "Important Considerations in Using Bees for the Production of Crops."

Alfalfa beans as a crop and as a source of honey will be discussed by the group. Members of the association will also learn more of the curative effects of bee stings for human ailments when Amos presents a brief review of the book titled "Bee Venom Therapy."

All beekeepers of Delaware are invited to attend this annual meeting which will start at 10:30 Saturday morning and will continue until noon when lunch will be served in the school cafeteria. After lunch, the program will be continued until 4 p. m.

JUDGING CONTEST

One of the features of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association's meeting held on January 10 at the Caesar Rodney High School, Camden, will be the participation of Delaware 4-H club members in a corn judging contest.

According to C. E. McCauley, secretary-treasurer of the association and county 4-H club agent supervisor for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Delaware, this contest, sponsored annually by the Delaware Crop Improvement Association, is open to all 4-H club boys and girls in the State.

Club members will compete for state and county honors in judging 10-ear samples of yellow and white corn and single-ear samples of yellow and white corn.

Contestants receiving the highest scores in each country will be awarded trips to the annual Delaware 4-H club short course at the University of Delaware next June.

In addition to the individual judging, three-member teams from 4-H clubs over the state will compete for a silver trophy which will remain in the possession of their club for the year.

After saving 11,250 Jefferson nickels for two years to buy a new car, Adelaar Courtmanche of Windsor Locks, Conn., changed his mind and bought defense bonds instead.

PULLORUM DISEASE PROJECT REVIEWED

1,000 More Birds Tested This Season; 252,000 Free

The summary of the results of the Pullorum Disease Eradication Project for 1941-1942 and the official list of Delaware hatcheries and hatching egg producers is now being distributed.

Over one thousand more birds were blood-tested this season than last, according to Baker. The number of pullorum free flocks found this year was larger than any previous year. There were 316,463 birds tested in 666 breeding flocks and 511 of the flocks having 252,000 birds were found to be free of pullorum disease.

Hatcheries with eggs purchased only from "pullorum clean" flocks are officially recognized as "Pullorum Clean Hatcheries". The following hatcheries qualify for this classification:

Daisey & Tingle Hatchery, Dagsboro; Davis Hatchery, Millsboro; C. Norman Grove, Milford; Elton Hitch, Laurel; Indian River Poultry Farm, Ocean View; MacLucas Hatchery, Smyrna; Charles C. Marker, Dover; Mitchell's Hatchery, Millsboro; Newark F.F.A. Chapter Hatchery, Newark; O. A. Newton & Son Co., Bridgeville; John Pitkin, Dover; Steen's Hatchery, Dagsboro; Townsend's Hatchery, Millsboro.

Hatcheries which use eggs from "pullorum passed" or better flocks are called "Del. U. S. Pullorum Passed Hatcheries". The following hatcheries qualify for this classification:

Delaware flock owners experience very little difficulty in maintaining pullorum free flocks. The most common regulation which they do not observe is to purchase chickens from sources which are not officially pullorum free. Many times this is done unintentionally or through misrepresentation by hatcheries not free of pullorum disease.

Copies of the Delaware official list or information about the pullorum disease status of any out of state hatchery or breeding flock can always be obtained from the State Board of Agriculture.
