Confidential

Dear Mr. Carr:

I am transmitting herewith a copy of my letter of December 5 to the Acting Secretary, which I think you will find of interest. I have been sending you the copies of my letters regularly, and I hope that they have been reaching you. I would appreciate just a word from you as to whether these letters are reaching you. If you should find that with your many burdens you do not have time to read these letters, I would be glad to have you let me know, but if you continue interested in them I shall be only too happy to keep on sending you a copy.

Marion and I, on account of all sorts of things, have been late getting out our Christmas cards and have just got to it. We may not be able to get them out to reach our friends before Christmas. This is just a word to say that if our usual card does not reach you; we both join in wishing you and Mrs. Carr a very happy Christmas and a New Year filled with every good thing. Marion was delighted to have Mrs. Carr's letter and will be writing her.

Cordially and faithfully yours,

George S. Messersmith

The Honorable
Wilbur J. Carr,
Assistant Secretary of State,
Washington, D. C.
