Radium Poisoning Case Centers Attention on Falsely

Advertised Remedies, Causing Federal Board To Take Action

Eben M. Byers, millionaire and sportsman, is the second known victim of a nationally advertised "radium water." The first victim died in September, 1931. There have been other deaths but these were in industrial plants where workers were posioned through

As a result of hearings held by the Federal Trade Commission, the "radium water" in question is no longer on the market.

More than 100 persons who have drunk radio-active waters are believed to be afflicted with the ailment.

The death of Byers was due to the same disease which took the lives of girls employed as radium dial painters in a New Jersey factory. These cases attracted world-wide attention.

The Federal Trade Commission's case concerned misrepresenta-tion. There was no question that the product contained a small amount of radium. Its producers erroneously advertised it as a cure for more than 160 specific diseases or unhealthy conditions ranging from anemia to wrinkles.

Commander Stevens, who at 35 years old, is one of the youngest commanders in the history of the American Legion, is accounted an extremely interesting speaker. He has an exceptional grasp of current affairs, particularly in their relation to the large organization he represents.

During the World War, Commander Stevens served as second lieutenant of a machine gun company of the 81st Division. At the end of the war, it was stated that he was personally acquainted with more men than any other individual in his division.

An extremely ingratiating personality and the ability to remember names are regarded as two of the outstanding qualities that have won for him his present position. In private life, he is an attorney in Warsaw,

Johnston, In First District

Contests in all three districts of White Clay Creek Hundred will enliven the Republican primaries here Saturday. Interest is somewhat centern section of town, where William Saunders, a negro, has filed against John K. Johnston, a vice-president of the National Vulcanized Fibre Company and a director of the Newark Trust Company.

In the first district, which usually comprises about 800 voters, there is a large negro population. The number of negroes residing there, however, is not thought sufficiently large to endanger Mr. Johnston's election.

Mr. Johnston has been a delegate on previous occasions. He is a member of the State Central Republicant Committee.

In the second district, comprising the middle section of town, Irvin Durnall is opposed by Charles W. Colmary for delegate to the convention. There is no contest in the third district also. Harry W. Tyndall is named for delegate and Richard A. Neal, alternate.

Farmers To Hear How To Increase Farm Profits

All farmers of New Castle county are invited to attend a meeting which will be held at Harmony Grange Hall on the Limestone Road. Thursday evening, April 21, at which time 'Power Farming' will be discussed by L. R. Russell, Field Representative of the Case Farm Machinery Company. The meeting is being sponsored by Frank Dennison, local representative of this organization.

Illustrated talks and movies on uses and construction of the latest type of farm machines will be given. "Come to the meeting and learn how modern equipment saves labor, cuts production costs and increases farm profits," says Mr. Russell. "We believe," he continues, "that the farmers of New Castle county can cut their costs of production very materially by using up-todate power outfits."

Byers Took "Two and Three Bottles A Day"

Byers testified that he had taken "two and three bottles a day" over a period of two years beginning in 1928. He began it, he said, at the suggestion of a physio-therapist in Pittsburgh. The total amount he consumed was more than 1,400 bottles, and aubsequent testimony showed a bottle of "Radithor" to contain two micrograms of radium—one five hundred-thousandth of a gram.

Experts testifying before the Federal Trade Commission said the accumulation of radium in his bones as shown by a test made while Byers was undergoing treatment amounted to about 33½ millionths of a gram, worth about $2.31.

A minor pain in the arm troubled Mr. Byers about two years ago and he was in a generally run-down condition. He asked for a tonic and a physician recommended "Radithor." At first he liked its stimulating effect, grew enthusiastic about it, and tolk in friends about it.

Apart from its action in the Bailey predning five cases involving alleged radio-active products. In three cases in formal complaints have already been it issued. Two of them grew enthusiastic noout it, and told his friends about it.

Explaining this tonic effect, Dr. Frederic B. Flinn of Columbia University, testifying before the Federal Trade Commission's examiner, said that when radium is taken internally, it is attracted immediately to the bone structures, which are largely calcium. Once imbedded in the bone, it begins to throw out alpha particles with such force that the bone structure is broken down. This at first usually increases the activity of the red corpuseles of the blood, thus deceiving the victim into believing that his circulation has improved and he is feeling better. Soon, however, the coring better. Soon, however, the cor-puscles become fatigued through ex-cessive activity, and the patient be-gins to feel a let-down.

Malady Affects Victim's Teeth and Pacial Bones

The let-down came to Mr. Byers about a year and a half ago, so his physicians told the Federal Trade Commission. He lost weight and had severe headaches. He felt pain especially in his jaw and after awhile suffered the loss of several teeth. The effects of the malady were most noticeable in the mouth and facial bones.

noticeable in the mouth and facial bones.

The case at first was diagnosed as progressive necrosis of the bones. Dr. Harold Steiner, New York X-ray specialist and a witness for the Commission, suggested the similarity of the case to those of the girls who contract with radium in their work of painting the dials of watches in a New Jersey factory.

Dr. Flinn made an electroscopic examination of Mr. Byers, finding the 33½ micrograms of radium, and began trying to eliminate it with the new viosterol treatment. By September, 1931, he had succeeded in reducing the accumulation to 15 micrograms, but, apparently, the destruction of bone had gone too far to save the victim's life.

Smith, the Sleuth
Chapter 2
Smith, all his faculties alert, merely said, "Scram."
Smith looked about him furtively, but saw only a nurse wheeling her charge about the pack for its daily outing. He settled down on the bench, thinking all the while of the girl who had just left. A smile lifted the corners of his mouth, which he immediately erased from his countenance for neither a detective nor any part of him is allowed to lift anything, not even his hat. He was roused from his lethargy by the approach of a man who covered the distance that separated him from Smith at great speed.

"I say, what's the hurry!" asked Smith.
The man stopped in front of Smith and, as he looked Smith over, sadly shook his head. "Poor fellow," he consoled, "I am trying to catch a train; and immediately set off across the park.

"Well I'll be—"
"Woll I'll be—"
"Who are you?" inquired Smith, "I might be Abe Lincoln, but I'm not; I might be President Hoover, but I'm not; I might be President Hoover, but I'm not; I am only Henry Sneed, of Soo Falls, Iowa. Who are you?"
"We?"
"Yes, you."

"No, I never heard tell of him be cher, truching the knows that darn Kraut in might, Shorty mumbled, "Something tells me he knows that darn Kraut in the pellow ship!" But soon afterward he dismissed the thought from his man A guy as nice as Albie couldn't be a friend of that dirty Kraut!

Then followed a month of thrills, do grant a mule litter than the pellow ship!" But soon afterward he dismissed the thought from his more than a mind. A guy as nice as Albie couldn't be a friend of that dirty Kraut!

Then followed a month of thrills, do from his drome, Jagdstaffel to troit of the tells of the thought from his drome, Jagdstaffel to the carb, the carb,

After informal greetings were over, Baron von Liebmann began.

"Karl, as you know, the Fatherland has suffered great losses the last month or two. Right now, we are expecting a big drive by the verdammt Amerikaners, but we don't know where it is coming off. . . . We need someone who can go right into the Amerikan lines and find out where this drive is to be launched. We desire other important information, also.

"Now the one to do this service for the Vaterland must be one who can work in safety, without arousing sus-picion. . . Our stupid agents have failed. I am asking you to be the one."

High School assembly
The Junior High School assembled in the old cafeteria Monday, April 11, to the march of "Our Boys." Ruth Sinclair gave a declamation called "Little Brother Vin." This was a story of how a girl at the age of 18 is called on by a boy friend was treated by her brother 13 while her parents were away. The following morning she told her mother of all the disturbing tricks of her brother and said that if it happened again she would leave home. Her brother thought that this meant an elopement and told her that he would surely be there the next time Charlie called.

HERE TO ADOUT HARD . He learned about COAL from us

He knew some things about coal . . The number of pounds to the ton ... how much he burned every year ... and how much it cost!

But he didn't know that coal varied! He didn't know he could get more heat from less coal by burning Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite!

He didn't know that his heater could use coal of a more economical size! That slight changes in heater operation could bring increased comfort and greater convenience.

We advised him. He learned about coal from us. He's saving money he never expected to save never knew he could save . . . And we have another

TO PLANT TREE

The Blue Hen's Chickens Chapter of the Children of the American Revolution will hold a special observance of the Washington Bi-Centennial tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, when they will plant a tree at Union street and Park drive, Wilmington, in commemoration of the nation's founder.

Virginia Cooch, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooch, of Newark, will plant the tree. Miss Cooch is a student at Friends' School, Wilmington. She is a member of the family for whom the historic Cooch's Bridge near here was named and which traces its lineage to before the War for Independence, some of its members having fought in the cause of American freedom.

DOES NEWARK NEED A NEW TOWN CHARTER?

Never before in past years has the necessity for a new town charter been brought so forcibly to the attention of the property owners and citizens of Newark than at this last election. There was a very small vote cast in comparison to that cast in contests heretofore, and no doubt this condition was very likely brought about by a number of people in town being unable, due to general conditions, to pay their taxes.

The present practice, which has been carried on for a number of years by the Council at elections, is that all property owners being in arrears with their taxes must pay in full all taxes owed the town before they are given the privilege of voting, whether this was one year's or several years' taxes, is unfair.

CHRISTIANA

Mrs. Mary J. Mahan died last Sun Mrs. Mary J. Mahan died last Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. D. Jester, on the Newark road Mrs. Mahan had been ill for some time from complications, due to her advanced age. The funeral services were held at the home Wednesday afternoon, April 18, followed by interment in St. James Cemetery at Newport.

Claudia M., wife of Alfred H. Vincent, of Christiana, died at the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, last Monday evening, following an operation performed last week. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, A. Durrell, her mother, Mrs. Hannah Chambers, and a sister, Mrs. R. Earle Dickey, all of Christiana. Mrs. Vincent, a life-long resident of Christiana, will be sadly missed by a host of friends. She took a keen interest and an active part in all church and community affairs until the beginning of her illness a number of weeks ago.

Funeral services in charge of Rev. Kichard M. Green, pastor of Christiana M. E. Church, was held at her home this (Thursday) afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, with burial in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Christiana. Claudia M., wife of Alfred H. Vin-

PARENTS HAVE A RE-SPONSIBILITY TO TRAIN CHILDTEN FOR SAFETY

"Safety Sally" representing the Delaware Safety Council, says: "Parents have a responsibility to train their children to—look left, then right before crossing streets; to obey traffic police and signals and to play in safe places—not in the streets."

places—not in the streets."

If parents would instruct their children that heedless running or walking in the street is to blame for more street accidents than all other causes combined and impress upon the minds of their children that it is of the greatest importance for every boy and girl not only to know the rule of safety in crossing the street, but it is more necessary always to keep this rule in mind.

Andrew Mitchell and Son, contractors, of New Castle, have just completed about seventeen hundred linear feet of concrete sidewalk in Christiana. From what is known locally as the "Back Lane" up to the Four Corners the sidewalk is laid on both sides of the street, while from the corner up past the Methodist Church, it extends on only one side of the street, while from the corner there being houses only on one side. It is not only a great convenience and safety-aid to all pedestrians, but also adds greatly to the general appearance of the village. The work was done under a State contract, and afforded employment to a number of local men.

boys and girls, men and women—do not observe this simple little rule when they cross the street.

When you cross the street look first to the left before you step from the curb because traffic comes from that direction. Then when you reach the middle of the street look to the right—that is the direction traffic will then come. Never step into the street without thinking of danger and always keep your mind on what you are doing while in the street. Cross quickly when you know the way is clear. Do not loiter in the street.

The time for some people to start the dangerous practice of burning off fields and marshes is at hand. This is school teacher. The application in addition to showing the name the parent or guardian and their post-office address, should also give the approximate location of the farm.

With the approach of Spring and the return of our birds, a recent article by the Iowa State Fish and Game Commission is very appropriate.

"Not information of the farm and marshes is at hand, This is not only a dangerous practice which often results in forest fires and the destruction of buildings, but it also destroys the cover and protection for birds and game, these birds and animals and their eggs or young. Think of this before you start any fires, weigh the matter carefully and see if the results justify the loss to our wild life and possibly your own personal property.

Game Commission is very appropriate.

"Not infrequently we learn of some one, who through thoughtlessness or wanton disregard for bird life, deliberately shoots our song birds. In act one such case was prosecuted by the state fish and game department recently and a fine imposed for shooting robins. There are reasons for the protection of our birds aside from the consideration that they keep down the insects which destroy plants.
