LEGISLATORS HEAR COLLEGE NEEDS; BUDGET CUT CALLED "GREAT MISTAKE"

35 Members of Assembly Meet With University Heads Here This Afternoon—Situation Outlined by Ex-Gov. Miller

VISITORS SEEM IMPRESSED BY HANDICAPS

Speaking to about 35 members of the General Assembly and invited guests this afternoon, in the Commons of the University here, Former Governor Charles R. Miller, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Trustees, declared that if the present cut in the University budget, made recently by ex-Governor Denney, be allowed by the Legislature, at least one department and probably two must be stricken from the curriculum.

"It is very discouraging to the officials of the Legislature," said Governor Miller, "to have somebody come along and tell us that this far inferior sum is all that we can have, and in so doing almost put us out of business, and certainly seriously embarrass our standing."

The speaker was aided in his explanation by a chart especially prepared for the occasion, through which the visitors were given the meat of the financial situation in a nutshell.

Continuing, Governor Miller said, "This State has always supported the college application for appropriation upon careful consideration until 1923, when a severe cut was made without the knowledge of the trustees."

In explaining the cut of $54,000 in the 1925-26 budget of the college, the speaker declared that it all came off the actual maintenance of the plant. He predicted that such a cut will surely mean the dropping of the Teacher Training Course through which two-fifths of the college girls are receiving training for school work, and possibly a severe curtailment in the Summer School.

About seventy members of the Legislature and invited guests were present when the luncheon began at 1.20 this afternoon.

Hon. Charles R. Miller, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, presided at the luncheon. Seated with him at the speakers' table were the following:

Hon. Charles R. Miller, Chairman, Financial Committee
Governor R. P. Robinson
President Hullahen
Secretary of State Taylor
Speaker Downward, of the House of Representatives
Mrs. Florence M. Hanby
Mayor E. B. Frazer, of Newark
Representative James C. Hastings
Everett C. Johnson
Thomas Davis

During the speeches by Messrs. Thompson, Robinson and Miller, the legislators listened intently and frequently interrupted the talks by applause when a point was driven home. They gave the college authorities a most respectful hearing.

Dr. Walter Hullahen closed the speaking program by supplementing ex-Governor Miller's address, and pointing out, by means of a blackboard, additional handicaps under which the college is running. He called attention to the dire need of a dormitory, dining-room and kitchen at the Women's College, declaring that they must be had if Delaware is to take in more girls and train more teachers.

The usual informal discussion after the speech making this year was noticeable by its absence. There was no hint of criticism given, and Speaker Downward of the House was the only legislator to offer remarks. He paid a compliment to the college for running things as well as they are. Shortly afterward the meeting adjourned.

Inspect Men's College
Just prior to the luncheon at 1.20, the visitors were escorted through the new Library, Wolf Hall, Recitation Hall, the Engineering Department and Old College.

Charles M. Curtis, representing the Board of Trustees, President Truitt, of the Senate, and Lt. Governor J. Hall Anderson were unable to be present at the luncheon.

Mr. Thompson opened the speaking program by welcoming the members of the Legislature and asking them to consider carefully the remarks to be made by former Governor Miller. Mr. Thompson said that the University has been running in a financial strait-jacket during the past six years, although the average of American Colleges during the past six years shows a general financial increase of 60 per cent. He concluded his remarks with a tribute to Dr. Hullahen and members of the University Faculty for their economical administration of the University affairs. He then introduced Governor Robinson.

In a short but effective talk, the Governor said that he was fully aware of the needs of the University and hoped that the Legislature would give careful consideration to the issues. He declared that it would be a very serious mistake to cut the University appropriation. Governor Robinson was accorded a rising welcome by the diners when he arose to speak.

Members of the General Assembly arrived here about 11 o'clock, some coming by car from Wilmington. The down-state members came via Porters, arriving at the Pennsylvania Station here at 11.10. It is estimated that 75 per cent, or about 40 out of 52 members, are in Newark.

The delegation was met by President Hullahen, Deans Dutton, McCue and Smith, Representative Hastings, chairman of the Joint Committee on Arrangements for the trip, Business Administrator Wilkinson, Dr. W. O. Sypher, Mayor Eben B. Frazer and members of the Faculty.

Inspect College Farm

From the station the delegation went to the Experimental Farm in busses and cars provided for their comfort. It was raining steadily when the trip of inspection began.

Members of the agricultural staff showed the visitors about the barns and outbuildings. It was entirely too wet for inspection of the experimental farm plots, the hog yards and other outlying sections. Interest centered in the dairy barn.

Representative Drexler, a marked man in the group from point of interest, carefully inspected every detail of the farm he could see. Mrs. Florence M. Hanby, only woman legislator in the State, braved the bad weather and appeared interested in every thing.

Women's College Next

The rain had nearly ceased when the legislators were conducted in cars to the Women's College. They arrived at Residence Hall fifteen minutes ahead of schedule.

Dean W. J. Robinson personally met the Assemblymen.

Senators Frank R. Pool and Richard T. Cann, of New Castle County, had not arrived when the party reached the Women's College. It is believed several Assemblymen, who have already inspected the colleges, will be present at the luncheon.

The visitors were taken in tow by a group of girls at Residence Hall and conducted through the Dining Hall, Sussex Hall, a small dormitory, and Science Hall.

During the process of finding their particular charge, the girls entertained the group in the entrance hallway with college songs.

Governor Arrives

Governor Robert P. Robinson, accompanied by Secretary of State William G. Taylor, arrived in the Governor's car at the Women's College, shortly before the inspecting delegation came up from the farm. They motored down from Wilmington.

The Governor showed keen interest in the affairs of the Women's College, and carefully inspected every building. He stopped several times during the rounds to chat with members of the faculty, Miss King, dietitian and others.

Strictly on time, the party then proceeded to Delaware College.

The rain dampened considerably the plans for the inspection trip. Legislators, clad in galoshes, rubbers and rain coats, carrying umbrellas, waded across soggy campus ground, across lots and driveways, however, with great good cheer. They seemed to enjoy the visit immensely. College officials hovered around the edges of the party, and mingled with the visitors, offering any information which was asked of them.

Coupe Destroyed By Queer Fire in Garage

Walter Powell Loses Perfectly Good Ford; Firemen Stop Blaze

Main street was again in the throes of wild excitement last Thursday evening, when a stout blaze was discovered in one of Walter Powell's garages in the rear of his restaurant here.

William Morgan, who is rapidly assuming the role of Chief Fire Detector, in addition to Demon Mail Carrier, again rose to the occasion, and notified Walter of his misfortune, while the latter was eating dinner. Bill has an unenviable nose for smoke.

In a jiffy, Aetna firemen were on hand and had a reel of hose and chemicals unlimbered in a few minutes. The fire was found to be in Mr. Powell's own private garage, and his Ford coupe was in dire straits when found by firemen.

In some manner, according to reports, a blaze had broken out about the car shortly after it was put away Thursday evening, and must have burned fiercely for some time, for the ceiling of the garage was badly charred and the entire body of the car twisted and broken by the intense heat. According to several spectators during the blaze, the fire may have been started from short-circuited wires.

Firemen broke through the roof of the building and poured chemicals and water on the blazing Ford, soon extinguishing the flames. Had it not been for the concrete block construction of the row of garages more damage would undoubtedly have been done.

The presence of the engine and the hardworking firemen on Main street drew a great crowd of people, and traffic was jammed for a time.

SAFETY MEETING TO BE HELD HERE SOON

Plans are being formulated to hold a community safety meeting in the town of Newark, Friday evening, March 6. Arrangements are being made by the Delaware Safety Council through a local committee comprising Mayor E. B. Frazer, D. J. McClintock, Major Clarence A. Short, Robert Lewis, Howard Leak and Dr. G. W. Rhodes.

W. H. Forbes and W. D. Smith representing the Delaware Safety Council have conferred with the local committee in Newark on two occasions and a tentative program has been arranged.

FIRE SIREN, NOT GABRIEL

Residents Relieved That It Was Only A Chicken House
Newark lay quaking under the covers early Saturday morning.

Precious hours spent in digesting the endless columns of a well press-agented Millenium, combined with an honest-to-goodness wail of a siren about 3 a. m.—well, it wasn't the most comfortable feeling.

She blew and blew, and blew again,—did the siren atop the fire house here. Everybody was awake, but none saw a fire.

Later it developed that the firemen rushed down to Stony Brae, at the foot of Iron Hill, where a chicken house was ablaze.

Pertinent Questions Answered By Mr. Du Pont

State Board of Education and A Building Commission to Have Charge of Proposed Program, He Says

At a number of the meetings held recently to discuss the school building program suggested by Pierre S. du Pont, people in the audience have asked Mr. du Pont who would decide what schools were to be built, the kind to be built and whether a school district could be compelled to erect a new building if it did not desire to do so.

In each case Mr. du Pont has replied that the State Board of Education, outside of Wilmington, would decide what schools were to be built and that the State Board of Education would also require the schools to be built under plans and specifications approved by that body. No district could get a school until it had provided twenty per centum of the total cost by a bond issue and no bond issue can be made without it is approved by a majority of the people of a district at an election held for the purpose.

The question was no doubt prompted by the fact that there is a bill in the Legislature to create a non-partisan commission to erect the school houses under the plan. It was only intended, however, that this commission should have charge of the actual building and thus leave the State Board of Education free to look after school administration. The commission could only build schools after the plans, the site and other necessary matters had been approved by the State School Board and the districts had provided for their share of the money. Those interested in the matter have always understood this, but judging from the questions asked some of the general public did not. Those who asked the questions appeared pleased with the answers of Mr. du Pont.

Other questions which have been asked at times appear to indicate that there may also be a misunderstanding in some places over the matter of the districts issuing school bonds. The proposed plan is that the school districts shall furnish twenty per centum, or one-fifth, of the cost of the buildings and the state shall furnish the remainder. A portion of the present law provides that the bond issue shall not exceed in amount five per centum of the assessed value of the district real estate. There appeared to be an impression that if a district desired a new school house it would be necessary to issue bonds to the amount of five per centum of the assessed value of the real estate in order to raise twenty per centum, or one-fifth, of the cost of the building.

"JIMMY" BROWN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Life Long Resident, Crippled In Past Years, Succumbs At Home

James W. "Jimmy" Brown, beloved by all Newarkers for his valiant fight against crippled oblivion, his cheery disposition and firm belief in his ability to make a go of Life, lost his Great Battle last night at his home on East Main Street, when he died, following a long illness. He was 61 years of age.

Since young manhood, when he was stricken down by inflammatory rheumatism, leaving him a physical wreck, and hopelessly crippled, Jimmy carried on in his cheerful friendly way, making friends wherever he went, a respected resident—a good man.

He was the son of William and Susan Brown and one of several children by this union. His entire life had been spent in and near Newark, and perhaps no man was better known.

During his late years, he sold books, clothing and novelties throughout the county and nearby towns, never fearing for his safety in crowded streets and cars.

A severe attack suffered a month or more ago left him very ill, and he gradually weakened through the passing weeks. In his room on East Main Street, he was carefully attended by his sister, Mrs. Mollie Crow, and was constantly visited by his host of friends and neighbors. Death came quietly.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow from the Methodist Church here, of which he was a loyal and devoted attendant. Rev. Frank Herson will have charge of the service.

Deceased is survived by two sisters and one brother, Mrs. Mollie Crow, of Newark, Miss Sue Brown, of Wilmington, and Joseph Brown, of Lancaster, Pa.

STARS ON SCHOOL TEAM

Misses Frances Hullahen, Margaret Vinsinger and Aileen Shaw, three Newark girls, are creating enviable records in athletics at Friends School Wilmington. All three girls take part in several sports, and Miss Hullahen is acclaimed as one of the best forwards ever to lay on a Friends School basketball sextette. Miss Shaw and Miss Vinsinger are members of the team and all three are outplaying their opponents. Misses Vinsinger and Shaw were stars in former Newark High School teams.

Bill Offered In Senate To Widen Depot Road Here

Senator L. Heisler Ball, on February 3rd, last offered the following bill to the United States Senate:

A BILL
To provide for the exchange of certain lands now owned by the United States, in the town of Newark, Delaware, for other lands

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to convey to the town of Newark, Delaware, land facing on Depot Road in said town, not more than fifteen feet deep, for the purpose of widening said road, in exchange for the same depth of land in the rear of said lot.

The land in question lies along the east boundary of Depot Road between Delaware avenue and Main street. The street will be widened at this point, providing the bill goes through, to conform with the balance of the street line. Since the Treasury Department owns a part of this frontage, held for a possible Federal Building here, such a bill is necessary to effect the change.

Senator Ball's bill was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Marshall Threatens Action In Courts Over Removal Of Animals

"Marshall Farms of Maryland, Inc.," Oppose Action of Local Police

ELLISON WELCOMES SUIT

An interesting sequel to the action taken last week by local police officers and S. P. C. A. authorities in removing from a dilapidated stable near Iron Hill two mules and a horse, alleged to be in a starving condition, was uncovered this week in a letter received by Magistrate Thompson from John Marshall, president of "Marshall Farms of Maryland, Inc."

The letter, released for publication yesterday by Mr. Thompson, follows:

Iron Hill, Maryland,
February 4, 1925.
Daniel Thompson, Esq.,
Justice of the Peace,
Newark, Delaware.
Dear Sir:

We have been very much surprised to hear of the summary action of your Constable, Mr. Ellison, in forcibly removing a mare and two mules belonging to this Corporation, a corporation of the State of Maryland, from a barn at Rambo Crossing, and forcibly retaining the same on the premises of W. T. David; the story being circulated that such summary action was because of alleged neglect to feed and water the animals.

I do not intend, in this letter, to go into the question of our care of the animals in question, beyond a denial that the animals have suffered any such alleged neglect. But irrespective of such question, entirely, we demand to know by what process or authority of Law your Constable or any person had to enter the premises and forcibly remove our live stock, depriving us of their possession and use without any notice, hearing, or the service of any writ or process of Law upon us, merely upon circumstantial evidence, or at the instigation of some party or parties who may expect to personally profit by their libellous testimony.

Mr. David has informed me that we could not get the animals back until we go to Newark and pay fifty dollars ($50.00) fine and costs, and that it will be cheaper in the end to leave the animals where they are. He advised me against carrying the case to court, and threatened that if we did so the S. P. C. A. would be called into the case and it would go all the harder with us. In this connection, I will state that we have no reason to fear from such investigation, and will ourselves invite the co-operation of the S. P. C. A. if our two mules are kept any longer in the open shed that we are informed has been their only shelter.

We do not believe, in the circumstances, that our animals are held on the premises of Mr. David by authority of any law, and demand that they be returned to us at our Iron Hill barn, or to the Rambo Crossing farm from which they were removed, within twenty-four (24) hours; or else we shall take such steps at Law as we may find necessary to place our losses and damages upon whomever may be found responsible.

Yours very truly,
Marshall Farms of Md., Inc.
John Marshall, President.

Contrary to the possible expectations of Marshall, the letter had little effect on the Newark officers. In fact, Mr. Ellison, who led the party of officers to the Rambo Crossing farm on February 3rd last, welcomes any action which Marshall might bring in the case.

According to information received here yesterday, the "Marshall Farms of Maryland" is a new wrinkle in this section. The corporation is said to own two farms, one at Rambo Crossings, where the animals were found in an open shed, and the other, a 15 acre tract, located near Iron Hill Station.

John Marshall and William Marshall are the two names so far connected with the corporation.

It was pointed out at the Magistrate's office that due authority was given the officers for the rescue of the animals, and the next move on the part of Marshall will be awaited with real interest.

The twenty-four hours ultimatum mentioned in the letter expired on Friday last. To date there has been no notice served on Mr. Ellison or his associates of any claim for damages from Marshall.

Recent Farm Survey Shows Great Need of Better Dairy Pasturage

County Agent's Report Points To High Cost of Producing Milk in State

20% SOY BEAN SHORTAGE

The monthly report of R. O. Bauman, County Agent for New Castle County, read before the executive meeting of the County Farm Bureau in Wilmington, Saturday, pointed out clearly that dairymen of the county are facing a real problem in producing milk on a paying basis.

In his report, Mr. Bauman mentions the recent Farm Management Survey conducted late in December, from which he obtained valuable data concerning the various problems of the county. Lack of good pasturage, high dairy feed prices and general high production costs are given as obstacles to be overcome.

The County Agent's report follows: "Since the resignation of M. O. Pence, County Agent Leader, the County Agent has been given charge of the farm management survey conducted in the Middletown community this year. The survey proper was conducted the week of December 8 to 13. We were assisted by M. O. Pence, County Agent Leader; H. W. Hawthorne, farm management specialist, U. S. Department of Agriculture; A. D. Cobb, State Club Leader; M. C. Vaughn, County Agent of Sussex County. During the week records were taken on 72 farms.

"Briefly stated, the purpose of this survey is to convey to the farmers of the community the fact that some farms pay better than others of like nature. In the analyses of these records I am being assisted by Mr. Hawthorne of the Federal Department. We are aggregating those farms which produce the higher labor incomes as well as those with the lower incomes. We will then determine the practices in the systems of management on these farms which resulted in these higher labor incomes. Through a publication and through meetings, as well as personal contacts we will set before the farmers of the community these practices in management, which have demonstrated their value in their community.

"Even at this early stage in the analyses of the records several striking facts are evident. The cost of commercial dairy feed on the different farms varies from 25 to 60 per cent of the total milk receipts. It is evident that some of these farmers are producing 100 pounds of milk at less cost than others. It is also a striking fact that some farmers are tilling the same acreage with 25 to 50 per cent less horses than others. Due to the high cost of feed during the last few years it is evident that some farmers are eliminating a heavy item of expense in better management of their horse power.

"Among other problems which we hope this survey will throw some light on is practices in management which will reduce the high cost of man labor and practices in herd management and crop rotation which will reduce the high cost of producing milk.

Sweet Clover Demonstration

"As stated above, the farm management survey has shown the high cost of producing milk. It is obvious that our poor pastures is one of the contributing causes. On those farms in the State where sweet clover has been grown, it has given promise of being a satisfactory pasture crop. It not only provides pasture for the entire season, but it will carry approximately twice the live stock per acre as will our rotation pasture. We have arranged a sweet clover for pasture demonstration on the farm of J. D. Reynolds of Middletown. This demonstration will be carried out under actual farm conditions. I am also arranging for similar demonstrations on the farms of Dr. W. E. Cann of Glasgow and H. C. Milliken of Cooch's.

"During August of the coming season we expect to conduct a legume crops tour, beginning at Newark and extending down through Middletown, we will have demonstrations in the growing of soy beans for seed under way, and we will observe several fields of alfalfa during the tour.

Soy Bean Pool

"The County Agent consulted with the Farm Bureau in regard to forming a soy bean pool for New Castle County in December. Forecasts show that there is a 20 per cent shortage in the soy bean crop for 1924. Although it is impossible to know definitely, yet all indications point towards high soy bean prices next year. The purpose of forming the pool in December was, of course, to get the beans at a lower price. An option at $3.30 per bushel was secured on a carload of beans. However, the committee found that the farmers of the County were not yet ready to think about buying their soy bean seed. It is probable that if there is a request for it that the committee will make up the pool in the spring.

Milk Producers' Association

"The County Agent attended the annual meeting of the Interstate Milk Producers' Association, held in Philadelphia in December. After hearing reports from the officers of the association and comments from the members of the association, it seems evident that the association is rendering the farmers in the Philadelphia district a valuable service in the marketing of milk. Figures were submitted that farmers in the Philadelphia district were getting a higher price for milk than were the farmers in the New York district. It would seem that the work that the association has done is deserving of a stronger support through Delaware than it is receiving. In this regard it is interesting to note that the Board of Health of Baltimore has issued the statement that beginning January 1, 1926, that all milk coming to Baltimore must be from tuberculin tested herds. The city of Washington, of course, has had this ruling for some years. Just how soon Philadelphia will issue a similar regulation is a question, but such a ruling seems inevitable, according to dairy authorities."

W. C. D. STARTED ON SECOND SEMESTER

The second semester is well under way at the Women's College. From figures compiled recently, it is shown that two girls, one Sophomore and one Freshman withdrew in view of scholastic difficulties encountered as a result of the Mid-Year exams. Six more were placed on the probation list and 25 were warned by the faculty.

Of those warned, nine were Sophomores and sixteen were Freshmen.

A number of excellent scholastic records were made during the past semester, conspicuous among which were the achievements of Miss Dorothy Nunn, a Senior and Miss Louise Harris, a Junior. Both of these girls received A grades in every subject which they took during the term.

Registration for the new term took place before the mid-year vacation.

Voice of Lincoln

Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty.

That is the voice of the Past and that Master Man of yesterday is speaking. It is the spirit of American Institutions and the words are those of Abraham Lincoln. Not always do the words and deeds of History apply today, but as we approach the anniversary of his birth, America can always find in some expression of his principles, the ideas and ideals of our national life. Upon our adherence to those principles rests the safety of our Institutions today. So we can well listen to him, even yet. No one man so represents the American idea of American institutions as does he whose birth we are about to honor. No phrase nor epigram, no eulogy nor description can depict our national life as can the one name, Abraham Lincoln. More than ever before he stands, today, at home and abroad, the undisputed representative of the ideas and ideals of our life and government.

A study of his life and words will reveal no stronger love than that for the Founders of the Republic with their Constitution, and no stronger passion than that for the strict observance of the law. It seems to us that his warning is seriously pertinent today and we can well pause a moment in patriotic reflection.

If America, with her ideals and Institutions, is in danger, we may be assured that these dangers are not from a foreign foe. The facts of History verify our boasted confidence in being able to defend ourselves from foreign jealousies, based either on national misunderstanding or economic ambition. America is the World Leader in very fact. She is so admitted by the Nations of the earth, by her Ideals expressed and her Services rendered. No, her danger, if danger there be, is not from outside influence nor interference. Nor need she fear those who come to our shores, yearning for rights and privileges so generously shared and enjoyed.

Her danger lies within her own borders, in the daily lives of her own citizens. Upon our reverence of our past, our respect and strict observance of the law, rest the future and safety of our government.

That there is a growing disregard for the law and its observance is admitted. And in many instances laughingly so. Nor is this so alone in rural sections or among the uneducated or with those by force of circumstances not so responsible. There is a disregard for the statutes in the high places. That's where the great danger lies. In big business, in professional circles, in high social life, in educational institutions, the law with its integrity is often sneered at. These men scoff at law-makers and will take no part in their work and then boldly violate the statute enacted if not in conformity with their interests, desires or opinions. Circumvention of Law by those in high places, in American fact, is only polite bootlegging. The example set by these men, who by virtue of advantage of training and circumstance are our leaders will be followed by the rank and file. Upon our Captains of Industry, our Teachers of our Youth rests the safety of America. When they sneer at History and scoff at authority, they lose respect of those who follow them. And when that confidence is lost Liberty with its restrictions becomes Personal Freedom with Law, an expression of Desire acquired by Force. We care not whether it be Prohibition, Income Tax, Filing Fee or statute provisions for public expenditures, the Law is supreme. We hold no brief either for or against any of these—the great point at issue is their observance while in force.

Macaulay predicted that American civilization would be destroyed by lawlessness engendered within her own institutions. And the voice of Lincoln is heard today—and well may we pause.

Harmony Grange

The Grange held its regular meeting Monday night despite the bad roads. A good attendance was noted.

After transacting usual business, Dr. R. W. Cooper explained to the members the proposed P. S. duPont School Plan. After Dr. Cooper's remarks, considerable discussion was indulged in by the audience.

The Lecturer's Hour was opened by a song. "The Harmony Grange Journal" was then read by Madeline Johnson.

Following other entertainment, refreshments consisting of cakes and home made candy were served.

Next Monday night will be "Valentine Night" at Harmony, according to announcements made.

MERMAID

Mrs. Elizabeth Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitehead and daughter Betsy, of Wilmington, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dennison.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Miller, of Avondale, were also callers at the Dennison home Sunday.

Mrs. Kate Richardson spent the past week-end with Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Pennington.

The Peach family spent Sunday last in Baltimore with their daughter, Mrs. Shermer Garrison. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison are proud parents of a baby girl, who has been christened Barbara Jean.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS READY WITH THE PLAY

The Seniors of Newark High School are at last ready with their play, "Come Out of the Kitchen," to be given on the evening of February 12th. From the start, things seemed just right; the Seniors had the help of Mrs. Tyson, which was indispensable; Miss Houston and Miss Heiser have also been a wonderful help, one or the other being at every practice; the students themselves have aided by selling tickets; the parents seem willing to turn over their entire belongings to help the cast; and last, but not least, the merchants have contributed so willingly with advertisements for the program that all the expenses have already been paid for the play. The whole town has entered into the spirit.

The college also has done its part. Johnny Ash and his Collegians have kindly offered to play between Acts. This is an added attraction.

Miss Maxwell, the business manager, has worked untiringly in assembling the program and doing other work which the students were unable to do. Miss Gallaher has done fine work in assembling the property.

On Business Trip

Frank Mackey of Newark left last week for a visit of ten days to fibre and paper mills in and near Providence, R. I.

ANECDOTE OF LINCOLN

(This original story of Lincoln was written for THE POST by the late L. Irving Handy back in 1910. In re-reading it today, we catch a glimpse of Lincoln and recall the voice and smile of that good friend Irving Handy.—Ed.)

Some ten years ago I was spending an evening in Washington with my uncle, Gen. Joseph C. Breckenridge. He was in reminiscent mood and delighted me with anecdotes of a former generation in Kentucky. I knew all of the people he was talking about by reputation. Some of them, indeed, bore names known to everybody.

In the course of conversation, he talked about the group of blue grass orators whose gifts had made Kentucky eloquence famous in his youth. Remarking that he was old enough to have heard Henry Clay speak, I asked him whether he had ever heard Clay, and what he could recall of Clay's method of speaking.

"Yes," he said, "I heard Clay speak several times in his old age when I was a mere boy. He spoke in a high tenor voice of great carrying power. It was pleasant to the ear—musical, of course, but not so melodious as a flute, as some people say it was. When he spoke, Mr. Clay had the habit of throwing up his head, sticking out his chest, and talking with such assurance and earnestness that a listener was sure to think Mr. Clay's side of the argument the only reasonable one.

"I remember a particular speech Mr. Clay made in the old Market House at Lexington. It must have been but a few years before his death, and it must have been considered an important political utterance, for public men came from a distance to hear it. Some, I know, came from other States.

"The speech was to be given in the afternoon, and my father had a table full of out-of-town guests for the mid-day dinner. About three o'clock they said it was time to go down to the meeting if they were to hear Mr. Clay; and the whole party walked down, two by two. I went with them, walking with one of the guests, for whom I had a personal fancy. There was a large crowd in the market house and we got there just as the chairman of the meeting had introduced the speaker of the occasion. Mr. Clay stood with his head up and his chest stuck out, while hand-clapping and applause swept over the audience. I stood alongside of the man I had walked down with, the two of us standing just inside of the market house.

"When the applause ceased and intense silence had spread over the assemblage, Mr. Clay's tenor voice began: 'My friends and fellow citizens, there is something pathetic in the situation in which I find myself today. You are expecting from me the flowers of May, while I am in the late Autumn of life and the frosts of the years have destroyed the blossoms and perfume of youth. My friends, you must never expect again the flowers of rhetoric from Henry Clay.'

"Just then my companion put his hand on my shoulder and said, 'Joe, what a smart speech that would be if Mr. Clay only had sense enough to quit right there.' The man who made that remark was Abraham Lincoln.

"Uncle Joe," I asked, "did Henry Clay quite there?" "Not by any means, my boy," he replied: "Mr. Clay went on cutting flowers and squirting perfume for two hours."

You have in this anecdote an authentic story which brings together Clay and Lincoln—the great Whig at the end of his illustrious career, and the great Republican before his famous day began, although Lincoln, at the time was an ex-member of Congress. The anecdote has never been printed, and is worth more than anything I could write about Abraham Lincoln.

—L. I. HANDY.

We here in America need a deeper understanding of Americanism and a firm practice of it. . . . It is the Americanism of the American Constitution, the belief that our Government should fulfil the guaranties of our Declaration of Independence, that life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness should be as much in the minds of modern statesmen as they were in the minds of the pioneers of American liberty. There is but one ark upon which our national faith may rest secure. It is our Constitution.—President Coolidge.

SMYRNA MAY FORM A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Banquet on 20th Planned To Give Impetus To New Movement

A movement has been started to organize a Chamber of Commerce or a Merchant Association in Smyrna. Most all the merchants are falling in line with the idea.

It has long been felt by some of the wide-awake merchants that Smyrna should make a concerted bid for trade, solicit more out of town business of which Smyrna is the center and to encourage home industries to locate here. The natural advantages to Smyrna being near railroad, boulevard, and Smyrna River navigation should make it a much more attractive centre. That Smyrna is up and doing is noted by the building boom now on. With two handsome bank buildings going up, a new Fire Hall, newly remodeled stores and residences going up here and there, especially on the Boulevard, there is no doubt Smyrna is on the map. Now the merchants want to get together.

P. T. MEETINGS

Eight Square

Regular monthly meetings were held on Friday evening, January 30th, at both Eight Square school, by the P. T. A. of the district, where a committee was appointed to plan for a Box Social to be held February 17th; and at Yorklyn school, when the Community Association enjoyed an interesting program and discussion on the topic—"Schools." The Executive Committee of the association is to obtain prices of playground equipment, for which money is already on hand in the treasury.

Christiana
Christiana Improvement Association

tion met in the schoolhouse on Tuesday evening, February third. The School Committee reported that the doors of the schoolhouse had been changed to swing outward. It was decided to have the school desks renovated, and a committee was appointed to arrange for an entertainment to raise funds to pay for them. A Legislative Committee, consisting of R. Earle Dickey, George E. Davis, Charles E. Barrett, Alfred H. Vincent, and John Hanna, was appointed, who are to arrange for a public meeting at some time in the near future when the du Pont Building Plan may be explained to people of the community.

MANY P. T. GROUPS AID NEW SCHOOL PLAN

Resolutions Have Been Adopted Throughout County Recently

The subject assigned for consideration in Parent-Teacher meetings this month, has received the earnest attention of hundreds of people throughout the State this week. Following the discussion of conditions as they are revealed at the meetings, association after association has put itself on record to urge the Legislature to take some action to provide for better school building during this session of the General Assembly.

February 3rd, the regular Parent-Teacher meeting at Seaford was addressed by George S. Williams, of Millsboro. After a lengthy discussion on the subject of schools, a committee composed of Mr. White, Mr. Robinson and Mr. Stein was named, with instructions to draw up the resolutions, urging the adoption of some plan to finance a building program by the General Assembly.

The Glasgow Parent-Teacher Association at a recent meeting adopted the following resolution: Whereas, the Parent-Teacher Association of Glasgow School, District No. 56, has studied the proposed school plan as outlined by Mr. Pierre S. du Pont and has had that plan explained to them; Be it resolved that this Association express its feeling that the plan is a good one, and urges the Legislature to adopt it. Signed: Mrs. Ella M. Brown, president, May Brown, vice-president, Dorothy Churchman, secretary.

The Pine Hill Parent-Teacher Association in Sussex County has gone on record in the following fashion: Resolved, that it is the sentiment of the Parent-Teacher Association of Pine Hill, District No. 130, that the time has arrived when the General Assembly of Delaware should take action to provide for the rebuilding of Delaware schools. Signed: Mrs. Linden Isaacs, president.

Other associations that have adopted resolutions of a similar nature, and that have reported that they have forwarded these to the committees in the State Senate and House, are:

Arden, Newark, New Castle, Marshallton, in New Castle County; Blackiston's, Dover, and Houston, in Kent County; and Concord, Hall's, Harbeson, Millsboro, Redman, Rehoboth, Salem, and Stockley, in Sussex County.

NOTED ENGINEER IS INSPECTING OLD LIGHT

Efforts Started To Save Henlopen Beacon This Spring

Charles W. Stanniford, of New York, an engineer of national prominence, made an inspection of the historic Henlopen lighthouse at Lewes Thursday to determine what could be done toward preserving the light.

At Lewes he was met by Dr. Hiram R. Butron, Captain Harry V. Lyons and Thomas R. Ingram, who escorted him to the old lighthouse where he made a thorough investigation.

Mr. Stanniford's investigation did not end, however, with his inspection, for this week he is making a study of plans and maps at Washington with the view of obtaining information as to the best way of permanently preserving the old light.

That Floyd Collins, nationally known as the man who is trapped in a cave passage in the mountains of Kentucky, was formerly a resident of Delaware City, is the conviction of Walter T. O'Connor, of South Smedley Street, Philadelphia.

O'Connor told a reporter for the Philadelphia "Public Ledger" last Saturday of a friendship he maintained with Collins when they were buddies together at Fort Du Pont. In speaking of the incident, O'Connor said:

"Collins was in the Forty-fifth Company at that time with me," O'Connor said. "We were both stationed at Fort Du Pont. He was a recruit, a fine chap of about 19 or 20, and we all liked him.

"He was a typical mountaineer and he won all of us with his quaint old Southern ways. When spring came he would talk wistfully of the folks back home and the flowers blooming on the mountains.

"Collins was brave, too. I remember one day in 1909 several of us were on the ferryboat Dolly Spanker, in the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. Suddenly one of the fellows fell overboard, Collins dived after him and saved his life."

High Boys Sweep On Toward State Title

Keep Slate Clean By Downing New Castle In Tight Game Thursday Night

GIRLS TEAM ALSO WINS

Newark High School girls and boys, and a host of loyal rooters invaded the highly temperamental town of New Castle last Thursday night, won two basketball games, talked right back to the hostile throngs and got home without a scratch.

It was a bitter pill for "Benny" Leach and his mates to swallow, when Captain Doyle's team mowed and practically clinched the upper half title in the D. I. A. A. League.

Captain Benny of New Castle almost wrecked the party however, when his eye found the basket and long looping shots found the net on several occasions. His spectacular shooting was the one comforting thing for New Castle fans. Finally, Captain Doyle was put on his trail, and held him down a little better.

For Newark, Chalmers and Jaquette fought it out for high honors in scoring, both boys played handsome games, and kept their club out in front most of the time. The game started softly, but three two-pointers at the five minute mark placed Newark in the lead, and she stayed there. The first half ended 14-13 in Newark's favor.

The last half saw Newark keeping comfortably in front, and playing good, sensible basketball. Leach, New Castle's bright little star, couldn't keep the fast pace, and his long shots began to miss now and then. His performance, however, stamps him as one of the best basketeers in the river town.

Girls' Game

An astonishing game was played as a preliminary between New Castle and the coming champs, Newark, wherein only 13 points were scored. Close guarding, a prim and critical referee who called 'em all, and nervousness on both teams is given as the causes for the low score. Of the 13 points, Newark lassies gathered in 8, and the game.

Miss Frazier was off her game Thursday night and missed several of her favorite shots. Miss King got the only field goal for New Castle. Newark and New Castle guards did heroic work throughout the game and deserve the greater share of the credit. The scores:

"SUSKY" LEAGUE STILL ON THE DOWN GRADE

Talk of Forming New League Heard About Elkton Recently

In commenting on the baseball situation in Cecil County, the Cecil Democrat of Elkton says in a current issue:

"From all appearances the Susquehanna Base Ball League, whose affairs have been in bad condition for some months past, has gone on the rocks, although President Jewell still maintains that everything will be straightened out in plenty of time for the opening of the season on scheduled time. Several of the clubs in Cecil county are more inclined towards the proposed new league, which is being talked of, which would take in Newark, Del., Oxford, Pa., Rising Sun, Elk Mills, Elkton and possibly Perryville. This would eliminate all the Harford county teams, as well as President Jewell, whose decisions have on several occasions not been pleasant to the Cecil county teams. Three years ago, the Perryville team withdrew from the league on account of certain decisions handed down by Mr. Jewell, and last year the Rising Sun club was not in the circuit on similar grounds. The base ball fans here are almost unanimous in their belief that the proposed new circuit would create a much greater interest in the national game than the Susquehanna League circuit, as it is now made up. Former State Senator Henry M. McCullough, who is President of the Elkton Club, and Thomas Kay, head of the Elk Mills club, are quite active in laying plans for the organization of the proposed new league, which would be known as the Tri-County League or Del-Mar League."

Wilmington Passers Too Speedy for Delaware Five; Win 27-24 Victory

Y. M. C. A. Team Hits Fast Pace in Game With Blue and Gold Thursday Night in Gymn Here

SPEAKMAN, JACKSON, AND FRANCE STAR

Delaware's first encounter with a non-collegiate basketball outfit in many years, resulted disastrously from a local standpoint, when the Blue and Gold was forced to bow to the superior speed and uncanny shooting of the Wilmington Y. M. C. A. team here Thursday night, 27-24. At no time were McAvoy's proteges out of the running, but few indeed were the times when they outplayed the city team. The game was nip and tuck all the way, and kept a large crowd intensely interested throughout.

Too Much Speakman

To "Bud" Speakman, veteran Wilmington basketeer, product of the rough and ready Eastern League school, and a veritable streak under the basket, goes a majority of the credit for the "Y" victory. He was everywhere. Some of his shots from seemingly impossible angles and positions brought loud applause from the galleries. The chief Delaware thrill came on shots by Jackson and Ralph France; the latter tossing one in clean from mid-court.

Aiding and abetting Speakman with great gusto were Longacre, a fighting, hardworking guard, and Walt Green, burly center man. Both these boys did wonderful work. "Sank" McCaughn, one time idol of fans here during the reign of the famous "Big Five," comprising Alexander, the Carter boys, McCaughn, and Willis, showed the effects of the long layoff. His usual deadliness within the scoring zone was nill Thursday night. His experience and good judgment, however, made him a valuable man in "working the floor."

Although one report of the game held that Delaware "rushed the visitors off their feet" to overcome a six-point lead in the first half, such a procedure was certainly not visible from where this writer sat.

There was no "rushing off their feet" in the entire game. Both teams hit a fast pace and kept it going throughout. Five or six points was the largest margin ever to separate the five. Delaware's warriors appeared to be in slightly better physical shape and were fresher at the end.

The first half ended with the Blue and Gold holding a 15-12 lead over the visitors.

In the second frame, Speakman, Green and Garvine relentlessly attacked the Delaware goal and had the ball the greater part of the time. Gravine and Speakman were taken out for a rest but soon re-entered the fray, and clinched the victory. Ralph France's guarding, the steady work of McKelvie, and Jackson's clever shooting stood out as the bright spots in Delaware's play. Lichenstein, former high scorer in past games this year, was completely smothered by Longacre, only getting one field toss. The Delaware attack looked aimless most of the game. Plays, if there were any, went wrong, and except for occasional flashes, the offensive passing was anything but accurate. Failure to follow up shots was another fault that showed up at many times.

Gibson Lost To Team

"Choc" Gibson, clever Delaware guard will be lost to the team for at least two weeks, perhaps longer, as he suffered a badly wrenched knee during the early minutes of the game Thursday. The knee was first injured last Fall at football, and was considerably weakened. His absence was felt Thursday, for his old teammate, Speakman, immediately ran wild, without Gibson to hold him down. Of the substitutes sent in by Coach McAvoy, Jacobson and Prettyman looked the best.

All in all it was a dandy contest from a spectator's viewpoint.

But it doesn't set well to be beaten by a team which had never before played together. The score:

ELKTON HIGH SCHOOL WINS EIGHTH STRAIGHT

Down Maryland U. Frat Team In One-Sided Game Saturday Last, 32-15

Elkton High School's fast moving quintet added another scalp last Saturday afternoon when they down the Delta Mu Frat team from the University of Maryland in the Elkton Armory, 32-15. It was their eighth straight victory of the current season.

The visiting collegians presented a lineup which included several Elkton boys, and they put up a hard game. The superior teamwork and fast passing of the High School boys, however, made the going rather one-sided after the first few minutes.

Captain Jake Minster led his team with four field goals, closely followed by Foster, A. Kay, and Crothers. The entire Elkton team played splendid basketball. For the visitors Cole and Melchoir were best.

The Frat team played two games in Elkton Saturday, the High School in the afternoon and Company E in the evening. The score:

DELIGHTFUL PARTY GIVEN LAST NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Layfield, formerly of near Newark, and now of Wilmington, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn L. Lafferty, were hosts to over one hundred friends from Newark and immediate vicinity at a Valentine dance in the New Century Club last evening.

It was one of the most delightful parties of recent years, and was tastefully carried through in every particular.

Decorations in St. Valentine motif, consisting of long crepe streamers from the lights, panels on the walls and hearts and arrows dangling from the girders, formed a most attractive setting for the dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Layfield and Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty received the guests as they arrived, and shortly after nine, dancing began to music furnished by George Kelly and the Original Six orchestra. The music seemed to suit every taste. Throughout the evening, several enlivening features, including a Paul Jones and an elimination dance, featured the party. Miss Nora B. Keely and Warren A. Singles won prizes in the latter novelty. Dancing continued until well past midnight.

The party was attended almost wholly by Newark people. From the first to the last dance, the pep stayed at an even keel, and everyone appeared to be having a right royal time.

For the non-dancers, tables were arranged in the balcony of the club for the bridge followers.

During intermission, a delicious supper of chicken salad, olives, rolls, baked ham, ice cream, assorted cakes and coffee was served by a caterer in the basement of the building.

Gowns worn by Mrs. Layfield, Mrs. Lafferty, and their guests formed stunning color contrasts and lent a most colorful effect to the party.

CADILLAC MOTOR RUNNING FERRYBOAT

The latest proof that "Cadillac engines never die" is furnished by the new chain-drive passenger ferryboat, "Comet," now running between New Rochelle, fashionable suburb of New York City, and Glen Island, a resort just outside the limits of the eastern metropolis.

The sole motive power in the vessel is an old-four-cylinder Cadillac engine built in 1913 to carry seven passengers and now hauling as many as 500 per trip.

The power plant is what remained of a Cadillac car which had been wrecked. It was discovered at the garage of one Melvin Hayes in New Rochelle. The chassis was cut loose from the wheels, and set up amidships on a wooden base in the boat which provided the new service.

Glen Island, twenty years ago a famous resort at the entrance to Long Island Sound, was recently purchased as a part of the New York State public park system by the Westchester County Park Commission. It is about two hundred yards from the mainland in New Rochelle and plans are out for a bridge to span the distance. As construction will take several years and there was popular demand for immediate use of the beautiful Glen Island part of the park system, the Commission decided to operate a ferry until the bridge was built.

The steam ferryboat "Comet" was purchased and stripped of her power plant which had formerly operated two propellers, and H. D. Southwick, Jr., a mechanical engineer of New Rochelle, was commissioned to devise new motive power to operate the boat on a chain. After tests of other available engines, comparing their costs and fuel consumption, Southwick, knowing the sturdiness and durability of old Cadillac engines, bought the abandoned chassis and set it up in the boat.

He added to it a second set of transmission gears, which were locked so that only the first speed forward and the reverse could be used, and the second gears he coupled a "wild-cat" or chain-cog part of a submarine chaser's anchor windlass. This rig gives about one revolution of the chain-cog to ten of the main engine and runs like a sewing machine. The fuel consumption is from five to eight gallons of gasoline per day, according to how many trips are made, which in turn is based on the traffic. The maximum consumption is usually on Sundays when as high as one hundred trips are made by the one boat.

Elkton Auto Show's Success Assured; Hundreds Will View New Car Models

Frank Hurn and Associates Ready for Opening Night—Visiting Legionnaires Will Feature Closing Night

With every car in place, decorations being changed and touched up, and the Army, truck and span in every way ready in readiness for the opening night of Cecil County's first Automobile Show.

From a Post No. 15, American Legion, under whose direction and auspices the show is being held, is actively assisting the show, and members of the legion, under the leadership of Frank Hurn, spent Monday and Tuesday of this week arranging the exhibits to give the most interesting display to the visitors.

The work of placing the cars was assisted by wide doors and rubber mats to the building, so that they could be driven into position without a scratch. Every inch of available space was understood to be taken up by the cars, although there remains a great deal of space for the crowds.

Expect Large Attendance

The Legionnaires and exhibitors from the vicinity and Wilmington look forward to large crowds each night of the show. The latest models are on hand. No admission will be charged, and no effort made to collect money in any way. It is just a plan through which the County auto dealers may get acquainted with the buying public and the Legion to make a little money to keep the Post active.

From every section of the surrounding country, favorable comment is heard. Newarkers will be frequent visitors to the show. Several parties are already being arranged wherein whole families are planning to attend.

The four Elkton dealers, Boulden, McKenney, Mallin and Giles have large exhibits on hand, as do the Wilmington firms, particularly the Delaware Motor Sales Company, exclusive Cadillac dealers in this section.

On Saturday night, the closing night, a visiting delegation from Frankford Post, Philadelphia, will be present, together with their 45-piece bugle corps, and a large parade will be held early in the evening. The visitors will also furnish an orchestra for the show that evening. Music will be a feature each night of the week.

From all accounts the show will be the biggest automobile event in Cecil County in many years.

There is grave doubt whether or not the raising of hogs and beef cattle in Delaware is economically sound.

	For year 1925	Delaware	Illinois
Value 20 bu. corn	$26.00	$22.00
Value 200 lbs. hog	23.20	21.00
Loss	$2.80	$1.00

According to calculations by feeding his corn to hogs the Delaware farmer loses $2.80 for every hog produced, while an Illinois farmer loses $1.00. Criticism may be justly made, however, that this calculation is not fair in that the price of corn at this time is unusually high. The committee, therefore, made a similar calculation for the year 1914 when the price of hogs and corn was normal:

	For year 1914	Delaware	Illinois
Value 20 bu. corn	$15.60	$10.20
Value 200 lb. hog	14.20	12.90
Loss	1.40	Gain 2.70

In 1914, then, the Delaware farmer loses $1.40 for each hog produced, whereas, the Illinois farmer makes a gain of $2.70 for each hog produced.

The explanation for this situation follows:

Freight charge from Illinois to point of consumption in East:
20 bu. corn, 19.5c per bu. $3.89
150 lb. dressed hog 96.5c cwt. 1.44

$2.42

The Illinois farmer saves $2.42 in freight by feeding his corn to hogs and shipping the product in the form of dressed pork to the eastern markets. If the Illinois farmer shipped corn he would be paying freight on 1120 pounds. He solves this problem by turning this 1120 pounds of corn into 150 pounds of dressed pork. The freight charge to the Delaware farmer who is close to the eastern market, is a comparatively small item of cost. Therefore, it is to the advantage of the Delaware farmer to market his corn as corn rather than feed it to hogs. The Delaware farmer, however, markets only a small portion of his corn, but feeds it generally to dairy cattle. The production of milk gives him a wider margin of profit than does the production of hogs. The same principle applies to the production of beef cattle.

The foregoing is not an argument, but simply an explanation of why Delaware farmers are not producing hogs and beef cattle for commercial purposes, but instead are keeping dairy herds and producing market milk. Observations over the country at large indicate that the farm practice in the various sections carried on by the farmers as a group is the practice that is bringing the best results. Generally speaking, these practices are the results of years of trial and error on the part of the farmers of that section. The Executive Committee wish to make it clear, however, that it does not wish to be misunderstood in saying that there is not room for improvement in the type of farming carried on in Delaware. It does say, however, that the type of farming is, in a general way, the correct one. The Executive Committee also wish to make it clear that their opinion covers only the producing of hogs for commercial purposes as a permanent business. There are cases where Delaware farmers do produce hogs and are justified in it. If a farmer has some waste feed on the farm which can be economically fed to a limited number of hogs, these hogs are generally butchered for home use. There is a place in the state for a limited number of pure bred herds of hogs. In case the farmer has a special market for pork, getting a price above market price, the production of hogs would be justified in a limited way.

At a meeting of the New Castle County Farm Bureau Executive Committee held Saturday afternoon, in the Security Trust and Safe Deposit Building, Wilmington, the following committee was appointed in charge of the pool: Frank F. Heretofore the potatoes have been secured through the New York Potato Producers' Association. Director McCue was present at the meeting of the Executive Committee and discussed briefly several agricultural topics of current interest. He introduced Mr. Ed. Wilkin, Jr., recently appointed Boys' and Girls' Club Agent in New Castle County. Mr. Wilkin is a son of Mr. Ed Wilkin, Sr., of Dover, President of the Kent County Farm Bureau. He has recently completed a four-year course in agriculture at Cornell University. The committee approved the Purcell Bill which provides annual federal funds for research work in agriculture through state experiment stations. Telegrams were sent to Senator Ball, Senator Bayard, and Congressman Boyce, asking their support of this bill.

Better than Golf

—this game of building a Home.

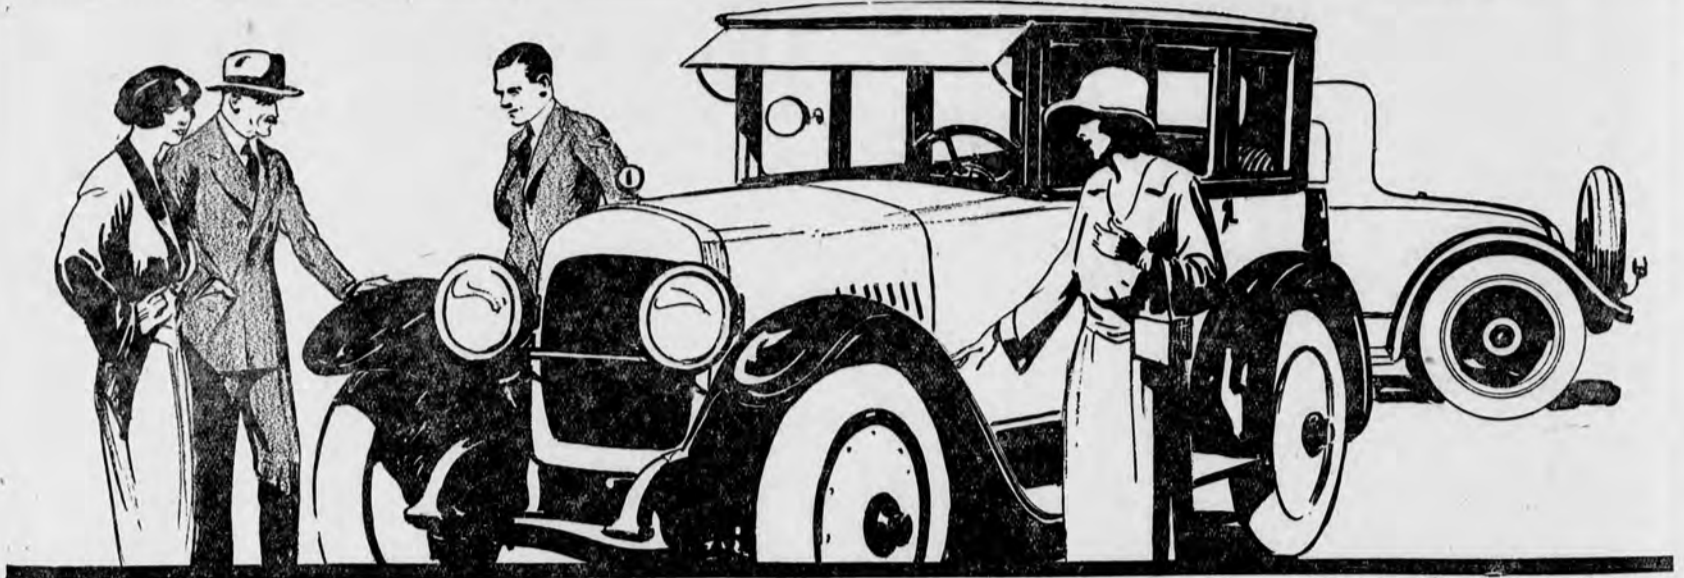

Start tonight!

Put down your cross-word puzzle and start digging your cellar. In a few minutes you'll have the roof on, and be wondering where to put the sun-parlor. When that's settled, you've only to plan the color of the bath room linoleum, and the game's over.

When you add up the score, you'll find that Good Heating and Plumbing count for sound value, whether you borrow, sell or rent. What's more—they both Improve Your Game.
