School Registration

The Newark Board of Education has issued a second notice to parents and guardians relative to the registration of children for entrance in local public schools in September. Early registration is being urged.

It is particularly important, states the notice, that children entering the first grade be registered without delay so that school officials can complete arrangements for handling new students.

It is necessary for all pupils who have not attended public schools in Newark to register before entering. This rule applies in particular to children who have just become of school age and to children who have recently been brought to Newark, but have not attended school here.

Children entering from feeder schools—District 37, Milford Cross Roads; District 40, McClellandville; District 42, Ogletown; District 44, Christiansburg; District 54, Welsh Tract; District 56, Glasgow, and District 92, Pleasant Valley, need not register, however.

Cooperative To Elect Local Advisory Board

Farmers and members of their families have been invited to attend the annual meeting of patrons of the Southern States Cooperative to be held in Wolfe Hall, University of Delaware, Tuesday evening at eight o'clock.

The cooperative program and what it means to farmers will be discussed at length by R. M. Kincaid, Elkton; Senator D. G. Harry, president of the Southern organization, of Pylesville, Md.; and M. D. Crowl, manager of the Newark warehouse.

McDowell To Preside

Members of the present board are: John Mayer, Sr., Newark; Ralph Klair, Marshallton; Thomas Danby, Toughkenamon, Pa.; T. K. McDowell, Lincoln, Pa.; Harry Rhodes, Oxford, Pa.; and John Holloway, Newark.

Music will be furnished by Joe Maxwell's orchestra, while Harry P. Brown, Downingtown, Pa., magician, will supply the entertainment. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

State Highway Body To Hold Hearing Wednesday

Official notice has been posted by the State Highway Department to the effect that a hearing will be held on Wednesday at the department headquarters in Dover to hear complaints concerning the closing of South Chapel Street crossing over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

At the meeting of the department on July 27, the decision was reached to close the crossing while plans were introduced for the building of an improved highway south of and parallel with the tracks to run from the dirt road that connects with South Chapel Street at the present time to the South College Avenue bridge.

The hearing on Wednesday is scheduled for one o'clock, E. S. T.

New Poultry Bulletin Deals With Pullorum Disease And Its Results

Questions about pullorum disease which causes the loss of thousands of baby chicks annually, together with authoritative answers make up the contents of a new bulletin published by the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service and now available for distribution.

Written by H. L. Richardson, extension poultry specialist, and H. R. Baker, state poultry pathologist for the Delaware State Board of Agriculture, the new publication raises nineteen pertinent questions about pullorum disease and answers them in a concise, easily understood manner.

According to Richardson, the senior author, "Pullorum is unquestionably one of the most common diseases of poultry in the state. There is no doubt that at least three-

SWIMMING COSTS ARE PONDERED

Pool Committee Faces Deficit; Donations Down

The problem of finances, embracing income and operating expenses, was the principal item discussed at a special meeting of the Newark Swimming Pool Committee Tuesday evening. The session was held at the residence of Dr. J. S. Gould, president of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association and chairman of the committee.

Members present were Mrs. Milton L. Draper, representing the New Century Club; George Danby, Chamber of Commerce; Charles H. Rutledge, Lions Club; and Ralph O'Connell, instructor.

With increased operating expenses and donations from organizations far under the 1937 figure, the committee faces an approximate deficit of $100 at the end of the season on August 27.

Receipts Total $503

With a balance of $49 left from last year, donations from organizations amounted to $245.45, bringing the total amount of cash on hand at the start of the present season to $294.45.

Donations were made as follows: P-T. A., $50; New Century Club, $25; Lions Club (motion picture benefit at State Theatre), $140.45; Business and Professional Women's Club, $5; and the Chamber of Commerce, $25. Numerous lodges and organizations that contributed to the fund last year have not responded in 1938, however.

Total receipts for the season from admissions to the pool, including $129.05 received to date and an estimated return of $80 in August, brings the total income figure to $503.50.

Additional Filtration

A general increase in operating expenses has taken place through various causes. In the first place, the pool will be open for nine weeks this year instead of eight weeks as in 1937. Expenses of a janitor and instructor increase for the season in proportion to the additional time the pool is open, plus the cost of extra water, filtration, and power for the same period.

Due to a new system of filtration innovated at the University of Delaware during the 1937-38 school year, whereby filters are now operated twenty-four hours daily with more frequent changes of water in the pool, the cost to the local committee for the present summer is approximately at $275 against $181 in 1937.

Last year filters were only operated for periods of twelve hours out of every twenty-four, with considerably less water being used.

As a result of the new plan for operating the pool, sanitation is measurably increased with possibilities of contamination being reduced to a minimum.

According to the committee's estimate and finances at the present time, however, the cost of this increased sanitation and the cost of operating the pool for nine weeks instead of eight, combined with the shrinkage in donations from organizations, will leave a deficit of almost $100 at the end of the season.

Dr. F. S. Lagassé To Take Up New Work In Florida

Dr. Felix S. Lagassé, 346 S. College Avenue, is resigning his position as research horticulturist at the University of Delaware to act as a special agent in the horticultural division of the United States Bureau of Plant Industry at Gainesville, Fla.

Research work will be carried on by the government to find the possibilities of growing tung-oil trees in the United States. At the present time, most of this product is imported from China. Dr. Lagassé will take up his new work about September 15.

Carpenter Overcome By Heat; Condition Improved

Charles Currinder, 65-year-old Ogletown carpenter employed by W. S. Hawthorne and Sons, was overcome by heat yesterday afternoon about 2:45 o'clock while working on a new home on Briar Lane.

He was treated by Dr. Arthur S. Mencher and then removed to the Wilmington General Hospital in the Newark ambulance. Currinder is reported to be in an improved condition.

Aetna Firemen To Parade At Oxford Next Friday

Failing to reach an agreement with the Continental Diamond Fibre Company's band, members of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company will march in the parade at Oxford, Pa., on the night of August 12 to tunes furnished by the Boys Junior American Legion Band of Wilmington.

The parade will open the annual carnival sponsored by the Oxford Fire Company.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET

J. Harvey Dickey

Chairman of the White Clay Creek Democratic Committee, Mr. Dickey has announced a meeting of the group to be held in Odd Fellows Hall on Monday evening at eight o'clock, daylight time. The purpose of the session is to name six delegates, two from each district, to represent the hundred at the state convention to be held in Dover on August 23.

TWO MEN ARRESTED THIS WEEK

Accused Of Car Thefts; Local Boy Injured

Local officers, with the cooperation of State Police, succeeded in arresting two men accused of car thefts this week.

It is alleged that the pair stole an automobile Sunday morning belonging to Carl Swanson, Marshallton, which they abandoned on South Chapel Street, then took another car, the property of Claude McFarlin, 76 Delaware Avenue, which was found demolished at Childs, Md. Investigation by Chief of Police William H. Cunningham and Officer Leroy C. Hill, of the local force, and Sgt. Elliott Hitchens and Pte. Aubrey Reed, of the State Police, resulted in the arrest of Charles Simpson, 23, and William Scarborough, 25, both of Childs.

Fighting Extradition

Simpson, according to reports, confessed to the thefts yesterday morning. He was arraigned before Magistrate Daniel Thompson and held under bond for the Court of General Sessions, but Scarborough, reported to be on parole, is fighting extradition.

Both men are said to be suffering with severe cuts and bruises, believed to have been sustained when the McFarlin car was wrecked.

Benjamin Braune, 13, of near Newark, was seriously injured Monday night during a heavy rain when he was struck by an automobile driven by Carl Connell, of Newark, on the Newark-Milford Cross Roads highway.

The boy is reported to have jumped from the back of a truck into the path of Connell's machine which was driving toward Newark. He was removed to the office of Dr. E. Hughes Nutter, W. Main Street, and then to the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, where he was found to be suffering with a cerebral concussion, fractured right leg and broken collarbone.

Officer Hill investigated the accident and then turned it over to Private Stevens, of the State Police.

Merchants Satisfied With Sale

Pilnick Holds "Returns Good" Following Event

Following a survey of Main Street business houses that participated in the Tuesday and Wednesday "Dollar Days" sales event, Meyer Pilnick, chairman of the mercantile section of the Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the affair, expressed satisfaction this morning on the part of participants and buyers in kind.

"We had wonderful returns," stated Mr. Pilnick, "with results going far beyond our greatest hopes. Our initial affair last August was an all round success, but we suffered a let-down on the occasion of the mid-winter sale."

"Profiting by our mistakes," he added, "we started out this summer to really test the idea of 'Dollar Days' and we find results more than pleasing."

Offers Prediction
Mr. Pilnick voiced the prediction that future events will be even more satisfying as additional merchants and business houses become educated to the possibilities contained in cooperative sales.

The next and final counting of votes in the contest will take place this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This final count will be under supervision of the Official Advisory Board which consists of C. S. Crompton, Assistant Postmaster; Dr. John R. Downes, State Board of Health Office in charge of Newark unit, and Chief of Police, William H. Cunningham.

Serves As Repellent

Serving as a repellent, it will not kill the insect, but serves to drive it away, thus making a wholesale adaptation of the plan necessary for the community is to be relieved of the pest.

"To fight beetles, it is necessary to treat the soil in spray or dust trees wherever possible," Mrs. Crater said. "This can be done at regular intervals during most of the year for a moderate sum."

"The product used should be harmless to plants and beneficial to the soil," she continued, "and I have found a blend of salt and baking soda meets these requirements, nourishing and sweetening the soil."

"This should be sifted and mixed thoroughly. For small quantities, a covered flour sifter has been found practical. For best results to the soil, this should be dusted lightly during a heavy dew or light rain. Salt and baking soda may be used as a spray, the proportions being one teaspoon of each to two quarts of cool water. The amount may be varied, depending on the plants treated. There is no odor to attract beetles."

Proves More Effective
"This blend may be used as a dust on many plants, sometimes proving more effective in this form than in the spray, in the fight against Japanese beetles."

"In treating plants," she advised, "care must be taken not to burn them, therefore use only enough to be effective."

NEW LOCAL LAW HOLDS $10 FINE AS THREAT

John Pearce Cann, attorney for the body, Council stipulated penalties of a $10 fine for refusal or neglect, with an additional penalty of $1 for each day the nuisance is permitted to remain after the expiration of a ten-day written notice. Final action will be taken on the ordinance at the September session. At the suggestion of Councilman C. C. Hubert, it was decided to send all written notices concerning the ordinance direct to owners by registered mail.

Members of the body in attendance included: Mayor Frank Collins, Councilmen Hubert, George E. Ramsey, C. Emerson Johnson, George F. Ferguson, and Herman Wollaston. Secretary-Treasurer C. Vernon Steele and Town Engineer George C. Price were also in attendance.

Meet Under Handicap

With electric light service interrupted for more than an hour by a series of violent storms, forcing a candle and two flashlights into use, Council was further handicapped by the almost constant ringing of the office telephone, which did double duty in carrying inquiries from residents about lights and all police calls. The line used exclusively by the police department was rendered useless by the same storm that interrupted the electric service.

Candlelight Service

Mayor Collins and members of the Council of Newark resembled mourners around a bier when electric service was interrupted for more than an hour Monday night by a series of violent storms.

In order to continue the August session of the body, a lone candle, borrowed from Florio Nardo, neighboring shoemaker, was placed on the Council table. Two flashlights were later put to use in support of the flickering taper.

Lighting is said to have struck a Delaware Power and Light Company line in Marshallton causing the interruption to service here. Numerous telephone lines were also put out of commission by the storms.

University Of Delaware Allotted $297,000 By PWA

According to a despatch received this morning from Congressman William F. Allen, the Public Works Administration has allotted $297,000 to the University of Delaware.

If the building plan announced in June by Dr. Walter Hüllihen, president of the university, is followed, the appropriation will make up part of a fund necessary for the construction of a $410,000 administration-classroom-office building and a $270,000 addition to the Memorial Library.

Dr. Hüllihen has received no official notification of the allotment as yet.

Wants Parking Extended

No action was taken on a written request from T. M. Swan, doctor of chiropractic, 108 East Main Street, to have the present one-hour parking limit on Main Street extended from its present eastern limit at 90 East Main to Center Street.

Swan complained of cars owned by beer moguls and frequenters of early gardens making it impossible for his patients to find parking space.

Another parking suggestion was also tabled without action. Councilman Ramsey proposed that space be left in front of chain grocery stores on Main Street from eight until eleven o'clock in the morning for the unloading of trucks as a means of eliminating much of the double parking that is creating a traffic hazard at present.

New Truck Ordered

A tentative order was placed with the Fader Motor Company for the purchase of a Ford truck to be used by the street department. The Fader company's bid of $875.72, net, was low in the list of bids offered by five local concerns.

AN ORDINANCE CONCERNING VACANT LOTS OR OTHERWISE

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF NEWARK:

Section 1 That the owner, agent or tenant of any vacant lot within the Town limits who shall allow weeds or rubbish to collect thereon and shall refuse or neglect to remove the same within ten days after receiving written notice from the said Council of Newark, such owner, agent or tenant shall be subject to a penalty of TEN DOLLARS for such refusal or neglect, with an additional penalty of ONE DOLLAR ($1.00) for each day the nuisance is permitted to remain after the expiration of the notice.

Section 2. All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

(Proposed Ordinance which received its first and second readings at the August meeting of the Council of Newark. The third reading is scheduled for the September session.)

RUTH: ADVENTUROUS FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Ruth 1:6-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.—Ruth
1:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Girl Named
Ruth.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Ruth.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR
TOPIC—Ruth's Wise Choice.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT
TOPIC—An Adventurous Faith.

Out of the dark fastnesses of an underground dungeon into the brightness and warmth of God's sunshine—such is the transition we make when we turn from the moral and spiritual failures of Samson to consider the lovely story of Ruth. She lived in the midst of the travails and the sorrows of life, in fact we find her at the beginning of the book which bears her name, a widow who has lost all that the world would hold dear. Yet she, because of her purity of life and devotion to God rises higher and higher, while the one of whom we spoke last week, starting with every advantage, slipped lower and lower because of his sin.

Ruth was the great-grandmother of King David, and thus this gentle woman became one of the ancestors of Jesus. (See Ruth 4:22 with Luke 3:22). Many folk are greatly concerned about their ancestry—one could wish that more were concerned about living such lives and developing such characters as will make them good ancestors.

Teachers and classes will do well to read and study the entire book of Ruth—only about three pages long in most Bibles—and give attention to the full story of her life, especially the picture of the kinsman-redeemer, to be later fulfilled in the Lord Jesus Christ. We must confine our comments largely to the printed portion which reveals Ruth first as a loyal and thoughtful daughter-in-law, then as one whose love was not to be denied by sorrow or circumstance, and finally as one so bound to her mother-in-law in unity of spirit that she became one with her and her people.

I. Commendable Loyalty (vv. 6-10).

Tragic misfortune had visited Naomi, who with her husband and two sons had gone from Bethlehem to Moab in a time of famine. Not only had her husband died but also her two sons, who had married Gentile women, leaving three widows in one family to mourn together. Naomi craved the fellowship of her own people in her hour of trial and arose to return to her own land.

Her departure brought out in the two daughters-in-law the expression of kindness and loyalty which should exist in every family, but which is all too often lacking. Her own testimony concerning these girls of Moab is that they had dealt "kindly" with her and with the dead. That word speaks volumes. There is so little genuine kindness in the world. Both Orpah and Ruth went with her on the way—protesting their loyal purpose to go with her all the way. Thus far the two sisters were not differentiated—but the next incident reveals Ruth as the one who had an

II. Undeniable Love (vv. 11-14).

No one could for a moment condemn Orpah for yielding to her mother-in-law's entreaty that she return to her own people. She affectionately kisses Naomi and in tears turns away. "But Ruth clave unto her."

Such love cannot be denied. It is the most precious possession that a man can have, apart from his fellowship with God. The love of a devoted father or mother, of a noble helpmate, or of a little laddie or lassie, these are the things that really make life worth while, that stand out as an oasis in the desert of life, as a light in the darkness.

III. Inseparable Unity (vv. 15-18).

Literature knows no more beautiful gem than verses 16 and 17. It was the Great Commoner, Bryan, who said, "We cannot hope to contribute to literature a sentence so exquisite and thrilling as that into which Ruth poured the full measure of a noble heart, but we can imitate her devotion."

The story is told of a fine young Englishman who left his betrothed sweetheart to go to California during the great gold rush. He was going to make a fortune and then send for her. He sent her his first gold nugget. But alas, there were none to follow; poverty stricken, but ill. In noble sacrifice he decided to release her from her promise, and wrote to tell her so. She (and one could almost believe her name was Ruth) took the treasured nugget, had it made into a ring engraved as a gift from her to him, with the additional words "Ruth 1:16, 17." In due time it reached the young man with its tender and inspiring message—"Intreat me not to leave thee," and the assurance of her devotion until death.

EARLY ANCESTORS

Discussions concerning the evolution of man have awakened an increased interest in our early ancestors. The remains of several primitive specimens have been unearthed in comparatively recent years, and the search for additional types is going forward in many parts of the world.

What is believed to be the oldest remains of a man-like being so far brought to light are those of the Java man, discovered in 1891. This creature was ape-like, but he had greater brain capacity and was of more human development than any known ape. He is known to scientists as Pithecanthropus Erectus and lived about 500,000 years ago.

Next is the Heidelberg man, whose jaw was ape-like, but with truly human teeth, found in Germany in 1907, under 79 feet of sand, mingled with the remains of now extinct mammals of 250,000 or more years ago.

The third is the Piltown man, found in Sussex, England, in 1912, which also combines characteristics of both ape and man. This specimen probably lived 150,000 years ago.

Next in order is the Neanderthal race, represented by numerous remains including complete skeletons, discovered in various parts of Europe and Asia since 1856. These were more ape-like than any race of men existing today, but were nevertheless fairly passable human beings and lived about 50,000 to 100,000 years ago.

Finally, perhaps 50,000 or more years ago, there began to appear several races of true men, the Cro-Magnon, Grimaldi, Aurignacian and Brunne races, of whom many well preserved skeletons have been discovered during the last sixty years. The Cro-Magnons were perhaps the finest physical specimens who ever lived, the men ranging from five feet ten and a half inches to six feet four and a half inches in height.

BOOK SHELF

A university is a peculiar institution where a great many students learn more or less about a great many things; where scholars old and young study, teach, investigate and write about subjects old and young; and where, of course, university presses publish important scholarly books which deserve more attention than they frequently get.

A university, however, is something like a watch. You see the hands (students and faculty) go round, but you don't see all the inside workings. Even scholars need heat, light and shelter and every university has to supply these non-academic necessities. If you want to know what this part of the life of a modern university really means, Mr. Henry Lee Norris, director of buildings and grounds at Columbia, will tell you in the COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY QUARTERLY. Mr. Norris is head of a department which in the course of a year provides as much electric power as the municipal plant of the City of Herkimer, N. Y. He has to keep up buildings on Morningside Heights which have a total volume of 34,000,000 cubic feet. And in one twenty-four hour period back in the winter of 1934 it took 170 tons of coal to keep Columbia's students and teachers warm.

BOOK SHELF

In 1905 the Club for Colonial Reprints published a very limited edition of Ned Ward's Trip to New England (1699). George Parker Winship in the new issue of the Colophon (which we have just read from cover to cover) explains that a touch of New England interstate jealousy had something to do with this—Rhode Island, in effect, wanted to "see Massachusetts put back where she belonged." Mr. Winship does not have room to give evidence as to why Bostonians would be more or less outraged and so we think we should continue the story. We are able to do so because, a few years ago, we read a facsimile edition of FIVE TRAVEL SCRIPTS, one of which is the Trip to New England. We suspect that Bostonians frowned on such remarks as these by Mr. Ward:

"... In Boston, there are more Religious Zealots than Honest-men, more Parsons than Churches, and more Churches than Parishes. The Inhabitants seem very Religious, showing many outward and visible Signs of an inward and Spiritual Grace: But tho' they wear in their Faces the Innocence of Doves, you will find them in their Dealings, as Subtle as Serpents. Interest is their Faith, Money their God, and Large Possessions the only Heaven they covet. They are very busy in detecting one another's

"College Swing," the new Paramount musical comedy should take its place at the head of the class. A gay story, a comic cast headed by Gracie Allen, George Burns, Martha Raye and Bob Hope, and a lavish ensemble of sparkling new songs combine to make the film "dean's list" entertainment.

A cyclone hits the world of education when it becomes known that Gracie will inherit Alden College as soon as she passes her examinations, since this will make her the first member of her family to accomplish the feat for over two hundred years. One of the students, Bob Hope, sees his chance to make a fortune and sets out to tutor her in exchange for a share of the profits.

The most hilarious semester in the history of "liberal" education follows. Martha Raye joins the faculty, Gracie becomes "Dean of Men," while romance becomes the only required course, with Bob Hope at the head of the department. This is too much for the dignified trustees of the institution, who are headed by Horton. They expose the trickery used by Gracie in passing her examinations and take the college out of her hands again.

Eight new songs from the pens of some of Hollywood's best known composers intersperse the comedy of "College Swing." Among those numbers definitely headed for America's "preferred list" are, "I fall in Love With You Every Day," "Moments Like This" and "You're a Natural." Frank Loesser wrote most of the lyrics, while the tunes were contributed by Manning Sherwin, Burton Lane and Hoagy Carmichael. An ace cast of comedy favorites has been assembled for the production. In addition to such well known players as Ben Blue, Betty Grable, Jackie Coogan and John Payne.

Monday and Tuesday

The Theatre will have as its feature attraction, these two days "White Banners," based on the best-selling novel by Lloyd C. Douglas, who also authored those popular successes, "Magnificent Obsession" and "Green Light." "White Banners" is a picture with universal appeal. Laid in the 1920's, it tells the story of a typical small-town family, discouraged by depression. How they weather this and get a new start in life is a thrilling story that will go straight to the hearts of America.

Fay Bainter, noted stage actress, whose recent work in "Jezebel" was so highly acclaimed, has the central feminine role. Claude Rains has the principal male lead, and Kay Johnson, Bonita Granville, Jackie Cooper round out the cast of principals, with James Stephenson, Henry O'Neill, John Ridgely and J. Farrell McDonald in supporting roles. Edmund Goulding directed.

Wednesday and Thursday

Another double feature will be shown these two days.

A love masquerade with Maureen O'Sullivan and Dennis O'Keefe. Hollywood's newest romantic hero, as the maskers, forms a constant source of comedy, trials and tribulations in "Hold That Kiss," the laugh-filled drama of smart society. Mickey Rooney is third in the trio, providing comedy as the heroine's young brother.

Hero and heroine play a clerk and a shopgirl who mistake each other for figures in the social register. Both try to keep up the deception, and troubles and pitfalls keep them constantly in hot water. A dinner party in a borrowed apartment; the gift of a huge St. Bernard dog neither can afford to keep; a comical denouement in a fashionable gown shop mingle with intimate human touches in the modest homes of the principals and the central love story.

Players include George Barbier, Jessie Ralph, Fay Holden, Frank Albertson, Phillip Terry, Edward S. Brophy, Ruth Hussey, Charles Judels and Barnett Parker. "Buck," dog hero of "Call of the Wild," turns comedian to play "Blotto," the dog. Feature number two will be "The Battle of Broadway" starring Victor McLaglen, Brian Donlevy and Louise Kovick.

O. O. MCINTYRE "LIFE" CONCLUDED

PROBABLY no writing man in the history of the nation has had the affection and trust of his readers as did O. O. McIntyre. In the September issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Charles B. Driscoll, for many years intimate friend and advisor to the famous columnist, has concluded the life story of his friend.

The saga of Odd McIntyre is the fulfillment of the dreams of every boy in America with the writing urge; for the gentle columnist was one of the elect of the "ink-stained wretches." Driscoll, now carrying on for McIntyre, pays a singular tribute to the reticent man whose "Daily Letter" pleased his millions of readers.

"Out of this modern mine of inferiority and seeming frustration Odd McIntyre dug those fine insights that the customers liked so well," he says. "The stuff rang true and so the formula, perfectly compounded, was neither mysterious nor exotic. It was just Oscar Odd McIntyre."

The largest fish ever caught in Florida waters, and probably a world record, was a whale shark 38 feet long weighing 26,594 pounds.

Edwin Ross To Appear As Speaker Before Lions Club Of Newark Tuesday Evening

Brilliant Young Actor-Producer Arden Resident

When Edwin Ross appears as speaker before the Lions Club of Newark Tuesday evening, members of the service group will be meeting a young man, who at the age of twenty-one was the owner and manager of his own theatre, an almost unique accomplishment in show business.

Born in Philadelphia, October 11, 1910, Mr. Ross was taken to Arden at the tender age of six months, which proved to be a lucky break for his particular kind of talent. For Arden, founded by a man greatly interested in the arts, offered more in the line of all artistic opportunities than most places. At the age of four, Mr. Ross had made his first appearance on the stage of Arden's outdoor theatre as one of the elves in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Worked As Carpenter

Thereafter he frequently took part, with his sisters and brothers, in Arden productions in the Guild Hall and the outdoor theatre. He attended Wilmington High School, and upon leaving worked as a pattern maker and carpenter in Wilmington and Arden, thus developing the ability to design and build the sets which he now uses in his theatre.

In 1929 he joined Walter Hampden's company in New York to fill a role in "The Light of Asia," a play concerning the Gautama Buddha. After three weeks the play flopped.

For the next few weeks, the budding actor walked the streets—broke, discouraged, and not knowing where or when he would get his next job. Luckily he was reinstated almost immediately with the company to finish the season with a revival of "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Wedded Laura Barrett

During this engagement he met and became engaged to Laura Barrett, who was also playing with Mr. Hampden. They were married the next year.

For the next seven seasons Mr. Ross stayed with the Hampden company in New York and on tour, playing in "Bonds of Interest," "An Enemy of the People," "Capponacci," "Hamlet," "Richard III," "Macbeth," and "Richelleu." He met and became very friendly with Robert C. Schnitzer, who had belonged with Hampden even before Mr. Ross. Later he asked Mr. Schnitzer to come to Arden to play, and thus started the partnership which constitutes the Robin Hood management of the present.

Acquires Idle Barn

During the summer seasons, when there was little or no work in New York, Mr. Ross decided to organize a little theatre in Arden. He asked for the rental of the Guild Hall, but another Arden man also wanted it for the same purpose. The town elders decided to rent the hall to both jointly, and let them make their own arrangements for production. Then Mr. Ross began to look for some place which might be used for rehearsal.

Pleasant Employers

The history of Robin Hood Theatre is well-known, how it grew a bit larger each year, how one by one improvements were made, until today Mr. Ross and Mr. Schnitzer have one of the finest summer theatre groups. In addition they are reputedly pleasant to work for, preserving an informal friendly atmosphere in and around the theatre which endears them not only to their cast but also to patrons.

Personally, Mr. Ross not only acts, but directs, designs, and helps to build his sets, selects his plays and players, does the casting. This year his major roles have been that of the murderer in "Night Must Fall," Burleigh Sullivan in "The Milky Way," and Leo in "Design for Living." Endowed with an unusually brilliant and retentive mind, he has the answer for every problem about a summer playhouse, and has, in the Robin Hood Theatre, a business which shows all signs of repaying his labor and time, artistically as well as financially.

Mr. Ross comes to Newark in the role of speaker before the Lions Club as the guest of Daniel Stoll.

Another Smart Comedy On Stage At Robin Hood

Arden Company Presents "Strictly Dishonorable" As Opener In August

When an innocent young girl is lifted in an Italian speakeasy, the situation is "Strictly Dishonorable," the bill for the Robin Hood Theatre for the week of August 2-6. The Robin Hood players leave the staccato brilliance of "Design for Living," which closed last Saturday, for the voluble dialogue of Italian waiters, and give an easy lesson in three acts in what every young girl should know.

Mr. Ross comes to Newark in the role of speaker before the Lions Club as the guest of Daniel Stoll.

Founded Robin Hood Theatre At Twenty-One

For the Italian singer, Gus, and the good-natured old judge, who live in apartments over the speakeasy, the easy routine of their lives in upset when they suddenly find thrown on their mercy an attractive girl who doesn't dare return to her Mississippi home without first ensnaring a husband. For the girl herself, the appearance of the handsome Italian singer is the answer to a maiden's prayer.

Stars Vivian MacGill

Vivian MacGill is starred as Isabelle Parry, the naive southerner, in an appealing type of role which first won her acclaim in "Co-Respondent Unknown." Maurice Burke plays the Italian singer, so beloved by the fairer sex. Mortimer Weldon is the old judge who becomes the confidant of both the singer and the girl.

The boy who does the jilling is played by Edwin Ross, with Charles Mendick in the role of the speakeasy manager, and Francis Mann as his star waiter. Patrolman Mulligan, who maintains an all-night vigil for the imprisoned girl is played by Richard Bowler.

"Strictly Dishonorable," rife with smart, spicy scenes, is Robin Hood Theatre's most popular form of play, and presents Laura Barrett for the first time in the capacity of director.

Counahan

Local Star Excels In Prominent Role With Players At Robin Hood

Edith Counahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Counahan, 16 Kells Avenue, played the role of Grace in Noel Coward's smart comedy, "Design for Living," at the Robin Hood Theatre, Arden, last week.

A graduate of Newark High School and a sophomore at Women's College, University of Delaware, Miss Counahan is being currently introduced to the professional stage at Arden. Assisting backstage, she is also filling bit roles with the Robin Hood company.

Rewarded By Praises

Her characterization in the Coward production represented her most lengthy appearance in one show this year. She was rewarded by the plaudits of critics, fellow players,

Social Events Around Newark

Ninety-Seven On Monday

Richard G. Buckingham

Richard Gilpin Buckingham, of Union, celebrated his ninety-seventh birthday anniversary at his home with only members of his family present. He is Mill Creek Hundred's oldest resident and its only living Civil War veteran, having served as sergeant-major in Company E, the Fourth Regiment of Delaware.

For the past three years, failing health has prevented Mr. Buckingham from participating in political, civic and grange affairs in which he has always been active. He is a member of the Society of Friends at Mill Creek Meeting which is only opened once a year and which he always attends. He is a Republican.

His three children are: R. G. Buckingham, of Newark; Delworth M. Buckingham, of Hockessin, and Mrs. Mary B. Eastburn, of Union. He has three grandchildren.

Maryland Gladiolus Show Features New Varieties

The committee in charge of the fifth annual exhibition of the Maryland Gladiolus Society to be held in the auditorium of the Havre de Grace High School on August 13 and 14 has issued an open-house invitation to the public. Admission will be free.

In the exhibition there will be thousands of spikes in all types and colors to acquaint people with the beauty and perfection to which gladiolus can be grown.

The society exists and holds its annual show to popularize the gladiolus. It also conducts a trial garden at Edgewood, where new varieties are grown under normal conditions of culture to determine their adaptability to Maryland's soil and climatic conditions.

Five years ago the society held its first show with few flowers and few visitors. In 1937 there were many exhibitors and over 3,000 visitors. This year the flowers will fill a floor space 60 by 100 feet, and more than 5,000 visitors are expected.

Blind Girl And Dog Were Guests At College Hour

Hazel Hurst, 22-year-old blind American, who has appealed to King George VI and American Ambassador Joseph H. Kennedy to waive British animal quarantine restrictions which prevent her from taking her Alaskan dog guide into England, was a guest at a University of Delaware College Hour on November 30, 1937.

Refusing the offer of a British canine guide, Miss Hurst, who had planned a lecture tour, announced she would return home Friday if "Babe," her dog, was not allowed to land with her. Her lecture here was enjoyed by a large Mitchell Hall audience.

Girls, Girls, Take It Easy

By the knock-down, drag-'em-out fashion in which the local tennis tourney for femmes got under way last week—to a flying start, too, we might add—one would never even suppose that the seasonal combine of temperature and humidity was doing its stuff in near record-breaking style.

Played in deadly earnest and fore-keeping, the current round-robin affair has already seen Ann Williamson Chalmers, hard-hitting defending champion, routed on two occasions.

Mrs. Walter Wilson, a newcomer, pulled the trick last week and Mary Lou Gaffney, 1937 runner-up to Miss Chalmers, repeated the stunt shortly before the rain came tumbling down Monday night.

In defense of Miss Chalmers—without wishing to rob her conquerors of any deserved glory—it can be stated that she is playing "cold," without the training necessary for her particular type of game.

Has No Alibi

A champion to the core, Miss Chalmers isn't offering any alibi (and far be it from us to dig up any for her), but the fact remains, nevertheless, that she stepped direct from six trying weeks of summer school and, without any preliminary, took her lumps on the court like a man. Which is noted herein as a complimentary gesture.

Once she gets in stride, we rather imagine the slipping queen will cause a heap of we among other hopefuls in the participating group. Monday's downpour proved costly to Mrs. Wilson, who has completed her schedule with six wins and two defeats. Winner over both Miss Chalmers and Miss Gaffney, the diminutive New England matron also scored over Dorothy Holton, Myra Smith, Mrs. Louise Goddin, and Mrs. Fred Bellinger, the latter by default.

Mrs. Wilson's final match was scheduled with Mrs. Marvin Goodwin for Monday night, but rain intervened. Due to vacation arrangements, which had been completed prior to the announcement of the tourney, Mrs. Wilson left Newark Tuesday for the balance of the summer and was forced to forfeit to Mrs. Goodwin. The lone victory scored against her was turned in by Mary Lee Schuster, who has won four and lost one, as this is being typed on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bellinger, another newcomer who hails from Georgia, gave promise of going places in the affair, but suffered a knee injury, and was forced to withdraw after losing to Miss Gaffney.

It's still a long way to the conclusion and plenty of fireworks will be provided by the girls ere the final whistle toots.

Bill Wideman, deputy game warden, resides (between sorties of corralling stray canines and apprehending illegal fox hunters—Bill Morgan please note) on Prospect Avenue. Accustomed to managing teams of various kinds, Bill recently formed the Newark Wardens among baseball-minded youngsters of the neighborhood. He is assisted by Harold Sheaffer.

With the score standing 6-to-3 against his charges in a recent twilight game at Christiana, Wideman, after seeing his boys load the bases, received a sudden call to duty. Sheaffer took command, folded his arms (without being aware of consequences), and reposed comfortably on the bench.

One run was bunted home, another, another. The Newark youngsters kept it going. Christiana's pitcher, Bob Elliott, Jr., was frantic. Still the Wardens bunted and still the runs poured across the plate. Eventually the Newark lads had a lead of 21-to-6, with 18 straight runs bunted home.

Octavio (Stump) Cataldi, son of the voluble gatekeeper at Continental Field, growing tired of the proceedings, finally uttered this plea: "Gee, Mr. Sheaffer can't I hit one out?" "Certainly," said Sheaffer, "I'm not stopping you."

Swelling to almost the bursting point, young Cataldi fairly shouted: "Well, unfurl your $!*$!$! arms then. You're messin' up our sign!"

Brief Endings

When Melvin Howard (Harpo) Cage, Jacket utility man, fanned in the third inning at Continental Field Sunday it marked the sixth straight time at bat in Bi-State games that he looked at the third strike . . . Which should be some kind of a league record.

According to Rule 34 of the Bi-State code, a player to be eligible to compete in the post series and special series games must have played with the club of which he is a member in at least one-fourth of the scheduled games of the entire playing season . . . Which means that Vic Willis, Jr., must play in the post-season series . . . And to quote Mark Hellinger, "Don't say we didn't tell you!"

Flashes By Bill Fletcher

EVERYDAY IN EVERYWAY, WE CONTINUE TO GAIN MORE AND MORE confidence as the date of our forthcoming links match approaches.

Our opponent? None other than the ultra ultra top-notch of local pill-chasing specialists . . . Champion George Franklin Anderson.

Our ego was given more than a slight boost Monday morning when we learned Sir George had scrambled from these parts for Ocean City to participate in a tourney (claimed), but we know differently . . . he ran out on our match, slated to take place on Saturday morning at the crack of dawn.

And so we are issuing a public challenge to the champion of the Newark Country Club in order to pin him down to a tussle for which he has shown no special delight in bringing to a head.

Undoubtedly he's afraid of us . . . after all, what would his public think of him if he were squelched by a comparative novice of the fairways.

There ARE SEVERAL REASONS why we are confident we can pin back the ears of the repeating champ whom even the eminent Sanky Richards could not conquer. The first of the reasons why we'll be a good twenty-one shot to spill the dope is: The champ will be stale, whereas we are on edge for the battle, nerves keyed up to a fighting pitch.

Not having played golf in 22 years, you can easily understand why we haven't tired of the game, so this point should give us a favorable margin over the local title-holder, who goes out pin-chasing every day. (Odds, 25-1).

In the second place, we are secretly practicing for the event. Armed with a croquet mallet and a set of wickets, we have been rising early every morning for the past week in an effort to develop our putting eye for the challenge-match. Croquet, you know, is the grand-daddy of golf, so we're sort of building up to the game.

NOT ONLY DO WE PREPARE ourselves for putting by doing this, but we also get valuable practice in the art of getting up early. This should prove to be one of our most outstanding assets over the champion, who, in the wee' sma' hours (it's slated for about six o'clock) might stamp his toe or brush his teeth with sulphuric acid, thus forcing him to call off the engagement. (Odds, 30-1).

Another incident, which just has to be brought out at this point in order to put things on the level with gamblers who care to wager, is the fact that this corner won a lime soda from the champ last week in a putting duel. (This is one of the reasons why we think he ran out on us this week.)

We finished the contest just about dinner time, but we took a chance on spilling the near-repeat just for the satisfaction of guzzling a drink we had won from the pill-chasing artist. (Odds, 35-1).

MODESTLY, WE HAVE KEPT this up our sleeve for many days now, due to our fear of injuring the champ's reputation, but in all fairness to the public, we found ourselves practically obligated to tell about our victory. This should raise the odds in our favor to forty-to-one, don't you think?

There is only one thing about this game which bothers us daily, haunts us nightly and in general tends to make life miserable . . . the holes, large enough to the spectator's eye, seem to shrivel up to a microscopic size when you attempt to sink a ball.

We have equipped ourselves with a pair of glasses with magnifying lenses, however, in order to overcome this mental hazard. (Odds, 45-1). The champ has never thought about this . . . proving that he doesn't have the scientific, analytic mind necessary to defeat a Real opponent.

Crazy, did you say? Who's crazy? PERHAPS YOU THINK WE ARE too self-assured when we say that the champ has a tough battle on his hands, but haven't we given conclusive proof in the preceding paragraphs that he will know he's been in a golf match after the early-morning contest?

(We expect him to fall asleep at the fourth hole, giving us the opportunity to win. Please Turn To Page 7)

Fred Bellinger Blasts Way To Final

Hancock And Burke Star As Junior Legion Series Is Tied

PLACES BID FOR TITLE AS MOCK-MILLER FALL

Steve Bartoshesky, Defending Champion, To Meet Ned McCully For Other Final Berth; Mrs. Walter Wilson Sports Six Wins

By Ace Seeds

Fred Bellinger, packing a dynamite-laden forehand drive and a varied assortment of strokes, ploughed his way to the final round of the third annual Newark Tennis Tourney by hanging up two victories this week.

Although small of stature, the local ace passed the quarterfinals by notching up a 6-1, 7-5 win over Al Mock, University of Delaware star, and then entered the finals via a 6-1, 6-0 conquest over Bill Miller in the semi-final round.

Under Pressure

Under pressure in his match with the Blue Hen racketeer, Bellinger, after coping the first set, found himself trailing 4-1 in the second set. Turning it on, he ran up five straight games on Mock, who finally lost the duce set, 7-5.

Miller gained the semi-final round by staging a comeback against George Mix, who copped the first set, 6-1. After holding in check a desperate effort by his opponent to end the match in the second, Miller eked out a victory in the second set, 7-5, and then went on to gain his semi-final berth by copping the rubber chucker, 6-3.

Steve Bartoshesky, defending champion, moved up to the semifinals by turning back his teammate, Walt Mock, captain-elect of the Delaware team, 6-0, 6-1.

Defender In Form

The 1937 winner played brilliantly in registering the victory as he swept through Mock with the loss of only one game.

Bartoshesky's opponent in the semis will be Ned McCully, runner-up last year, who turned in a hard-earned victory over Chris Laskaris last week, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3. The match, much closer than the score indicates, was replete with numerous rallies and excellent shots.

The Mock brothers passed through the second round of the doubles tourney by annexing a 6-1, 6-3 win over Chris and Leo Laskaris.

Ned Cooch and Paul Lovett also teamed up to defeat Osborne Mackey and Carty Douglas in easy fashion, 6-1, 6-2. The winning team will meet the George Mix-Jack McDowell combination in the second round.

Mrs. Walter Wilson, women's tourney darkhorse, made the greatest advances this week as she bowled over five opponents, including the 1937 champion and runner-up. Her record, which shows six wins, is marred only by two defeats, one suffered at the hands of Miss Mary Lee Schuster and the other a default to Mrs. Connie Goodwin.

Mrs. Bellinger Defaults

Mrs. Marie Bellinger, given an outside chance to cop the C. H. Rutledge Trophy, was forced to default all except one of her matches, due to a knee injury. The lone engagement filled was a 6-3, 6-0 defeat at the hands of Miss Mary Lou Gaffney, 1937 finalist.

Miss Gaffney, who was defeated 6-4, 6-3, by Mrs. Wilson, turned the tables on the defending champion, Miss Ann Chalmers, by dealing out a 6-2, 6-3 drubbing, and has also conquered Miss Schuster, 7-5, 6-4. The lone entry to take Mrs. Wilson's place is Mrs. Louise Goddin.

Finals Saturday

According to the announcement made by George L. Mix, manager of the Newark Tennis Tourney, the final round of the men's affair will be held Saturday on the University of Delaware courts at five o'clock.

Steve Bartoshesky, defending champion, will meet Ned McCully in a semi-final match tonight at six o'clock for the right to oppose Fred Bellinger in the final.

Late results in the women's round robin tournament are as follows: Miss Mary Lee Schuster upset Miss Ann Chalmers, defending champion, 6-1, 7-5; and Miss Mary Gaffney defeated Miss Myra Smith, 6-2, 6-1; and Miss Dorothy Holton, 6-2, 8-6; Mrs. Connie Goodwin defeated Miss Smith, 6-4, 6-1; Miss Chalmers turned back Mrs. Louise Goddin, 6-2, 6-1; and Miss Gaffney won over Mrs. Goodwin.

In a second round doubles match, McCully and Bellinger emerged victorious over Bill Miller and Gilbert Chase, 6-0, 6-3.

IT'S OPEN SEASON, BOYS

Maryland Marlin

THE hum of the reel and the singing of taut lines is beginning to be heard all along the miles of open beach where Mother Nature has prepared her bountiful piscatorial feast.

Off the coast of Maryland, the Old Line state, sport fishermen will be matching their skill and strength against the tricky speed of the white marlin, sportiest fish in the ocean. Along the Jersey coast special preparations are being hurried for bluefin tuna fishing while Maine is looking forward to its biggest salt water fishing season.

In the July issue of Motor Boating, Earl Roman, noted authority on fishing, has written an interesting article on where they are and how to get them.

They are tall stories, these tales of fierce battles and long struggles with the briny tribe, but they are hard to disbelieve, for Mr. Roman has illustrated his article with pictures made on the scene.

Game At Frazier Field

Held to a 1-to-1 tie by the Alco Flashes in a game that was terminated by darkness two weeks ago, Ellis Cullen's Continental-Diamond Fibre Company array will battle the Wilmington Negro combine at Frazier Field Saturday afternoon. The contest gets under way at three o'clock, daylight time.

Winning eighteen in twenty-one starts for the year, the Flashes have been competing against such outstanding colored clubs as the Baltimore Black Sox, Philadelphia Stars, Cuban Giants, and Homestead Grays.

President's Cup Play Resumed At Country Club

Favorites Advance To Second Round; Fidance, 1937 Winner, Moves Up

Following a week's postponement due to the recent storms, play for the President's Cup was resumed at the Newark Country Club the past week-end. Favorites found little difficulty in advancing to the second round as Mike Fidance, 1937 winner of the event, chalked up a 4 and 3 victory over D. DiSabatino; George Anderson, club champion, defeated Ray Burnett, 3 and 2; and B. F. (Sanky) Richards, runner-up to Anderson, turned back Harry B. Williamson, 3 and 4.

Two Matches Unplayed

Only two matches were left unplayed in the initial pairings. Results of the first round were: B. F. Richards (5) defeated H. B. Williamson (7) 3 and 4; C. H. Hopkins (12) defeated C. O. Houghton (13) 9 and 7; Ben Davis, Sr. (14) defeated H. A. Larson (22) 2 and 1; J. P. Sinclair (12) defeated H. F. Richards (3) 3 and 2; G. L. Dutton, Jr. (5) defeated Dr. G. W. Rhodes (15) 3 and 1; T. S. Beck (13) defeated R. Stewart, Sr. (9) 3 and 2; G. F. Anderson (2) defeated R. L. Burnett (7) 3 and 2; R. H. Morris (11) defeated J. F. Anderson (11) 2 and 1; Del Stearns (5) defeated D. Tammany (11) 3 and 1; J. A. Glammato (10) defeated W. Bradford, Jr. (13) 1 up; M. L. Draper won from P. F. Plé, Jr. by default; Mike Fidance (10) defeated D. DiSabatino (19) 4 and 3; L. A. Stearns won from R. Stewart, Jr. by default; A. E. Benton (5) defeated H. B. McCauley (7) 2 and 1.

Trailing by a count of 2-to-1 with a third of the final inning in the records, the Jackets made the most of a golden opportunity to register the markers necessary for victory.

Dick Whiteford, who was a masterful chucker for eight and one-third innings, brought about his own downfall by issuing three passes, for only ones he handed out during the afternoon, then gave the Jackets the ball game with a costly error, which proved to be the lone official fielding miscue of the fracas.

Whiteman Hits Timely

Paul Whiteman, toiling on the mound for the local army, turned in his sixth Bi-State win of the campaign without a setback, but suffered a trying day in so doing. Touched for ten blows, including two run-producing extra-base smacks, and walking a pair, Whiteman was in difficulty in no less than six stanzas including the fifth and sixth, when the Bel Airians tallied their counters. He fanned seven against Whiteford's eight.

It was Paul's bat more than his pitching that kept the Jackets in the fight. He singled Sheets home with the initial run of the contest in the second, then drove Billy Barrow across the rubber with the dead-ending run by singling in the ninth. On top of that he turned in three assists, one of which started an important twin killing, and had a pair of outs at first base by racing across the diamond to take throws ahead of desperate Bel Air runners.

Score In Second

After Whiteford had opened the ball game by fanning Edmonson, Hill, and Jackson, Sheets opened the second stanza with a slashing single to left. He went to second on Barrow's bunt. Chalmers skied to Coale for the second out, but Whiteman bounced a Texas League single over Archer's head to admit Sheets. Although they placed runners on the cushions in the third, fourth, and fifth, the Jackets were stopped cold until the ninth as Whiteford retired eleven men in order from the fifth to his lefthand at the end.

Hogan Defeats Clyde Crowe To Tie For Second Place In Cue Tourney

By "Cue Keeley"

With Dick Tweed taking a rest following his upset defeat by Spike Daly two weeks ago, Jake Hogan and Ray Gregg grabbed the center of the stage by making important advances in the Class B pocket billiards tournament which is drawing to an end at Jimmy Martin's State parlor.

Hogan jolted Clyde Crowe for a 50-to-43 setback to go into a second-place deadlock with his victim, while Gregg, registering three wins during the week, jumped from the eighth slot into full possession of fourth place in the standings.

Gregg had a close call against Hughie Thomas, but managed to make off with a 50-to-49 verdict, after downing Vic Willis, Jr., and Reggie Conway, scratch entrants, 50-42 and 50-61, in turn. Gregg passed Stewart, Morrison, and Daly to grab fourth position one game back of Hogan and Crowe.

Two Double Winners

Bud Robinson and Rubie Heath were double winners during the week. Robinson bested Grif Moore, 50-40, and was given a win by forfeit over Ernie Reed. In his third match of the week, however, Robinson bowed to Heath, 65-45, while the latter gained a forfeited triumph over George Keeley.

Conway grabbed an even break to remain in the .500 class by routing Moore, 65-41. Reed forfeited to Jack Sanders to complete the card.

With only three more matches to play, Tweed's two-game margin over Crowe and Hogan practically clinches the title for the youthful star. Crowe, however, can make things interesting by defeating the leader in their match which will likely be played next week.

"DREAM HOUSES" WILL REMEDY THE DEPRESSION, SAYS NOTED EDITOR

"THERE are too many little dream houses in this land of ours," says William Frederick Bigelow, editor of Good Housekeeping in the June issue of the magazine.

"Their number has increased by two or three millions in the last half dozen years and there is no let-up in their building," he adds.

But these dream houses are only dream houses, Mr. Bigelow points out.

"The statistician will tell you how many houses short we are. Their figures will be startling, but they will be cold, impersonal figures; they will not tell how many times a dream house tumbled into ruins, became a heartbreak house instead of a home," he says.

The article states that the housing shortage is one of the most serious phases of the depression and that meeting this shortage would aid greatly in ending the slump in business.

But the cost of building stands in the way, Mr. Bigelow says. "We know that giving every bride a chance to have a home of her own would give millions a chance to become prosperous again. It is a challenge to the ingenuity of America."

"LIFE AFTER 40?"

"WHY do so many women seem to think that forty is synonymous with such dreary words as 'shelved' — 'divorce' and 'gigolo'?" Constance Foster asks in her article in the June issue of Good Housekeeping.

Foster, who "confesses" she is about to have a 40th birthday, says that all around her she sees women who regard forty as the deadline and are bewildered and at loose ends.

"Must the 40's be dangerous?", she asks. "Need I spend them playing bridge or wandering forlornly from beauty parlor to motion picture theatre?"

The writer points out that at 40 life expectancy of a woman is 32.15 years and that new fields have opened up for the woman of forty. There are millions of her in the nation for whom Miss Foster opens a new vista, "Life."

Mr. Crossan is well-known in this community where he has lived for years on a farm north of town, from which he retired about 18 months ago. Four children, William, Irving and Howard Crossan, survive.

Funeral services were held from the residence of his son, Interment in Red Clay Creek Cemetery.

Newark People In Storm

Prof. and Mrs. Harold Tiffany have returned from a vacation in Connecticut and Delaware Water Gap, Pa. Prof. and Mrs. Tiffany were staying at the Gap House last Friday when the terrific storm visited that locality. This hotel is situated on the highest point in the village, consequently was not affected by the rush of waters that inconvenienced the hotels farther down the mountain. The storm raged for five hours, from 1 to 6 p. m., during a part of which time it was as dark as night. Mrs. Tiffany in speaking of the storm today pronounced it the worst she had ever seen.

Home From Hospital

Richard Cuff, of the firm of Richards and Cuff, spent several days in Newark last week, after having been in Delaware Hospital for two months severely ill with typhoid fever. He left on Monday for his home, Sandy Springs, Md., where he will spend some time in recuperation before returning to Newark to take up his business. Mr. Cuff declares he is feeling fine and his many friends extend their felicitations on his recovery.

RIGHT OUT OF THE AIR

By R. F. SERVICE

Nan Grey, above, star of the Monday night NBC drama, "Those Who Love," hadn't had a vacation in three years until her recent flying trip to Houston, Texas, her home town. Returning to Hollywood by air, she commandeered the plane's stewardess and persuaded her to play the other characters so Nan could make up for a rehearsal she missed.

Dr. William L. Stidger's boontime inspirational talks over a New England network attracted such a response from listeners that the sponsor has extended the network. Dr. Stidger, one of Boston's prominent clergymen, is now heard over the NBC-Blue network Mondays through Fridays.

Russ Morgan, above, bandleader on "Johnny Presents," will soon complete 75 consecutive weeks on the program. Inasmuch as the series is heard twice weekly, the run is even more impressive. The reason for Morgan's continued popularity is that he will spend hours over a few bars of music to get the necessary effects which his arrangements call for.

Jack Fulton, romantic tenor of "Just Entertainment" over CBS, is one of the few network singers heard five times weekly. As a result, when he isn't on the air he is constantly rehearsing. His only relaxation is playing baseball.

Don Ross, above, "The Rhyming Minstrel," heard on a number of Mutual network stations, gets criticism from a music teacher... and has to pay attention to it. She happens to be his mother-in-law, Mrs. Frank Hetzler, who taught music at Christian College in Columbia, Mo. The two carry on quite a correspondence dealing with musical trends.

"For Men Only," NBC-Red network show, has probably brought more sport celebrities to its microphone than any similar series. Among the names on the program have been Benny Leonard, Donald Budge, Joe DiMaggio, Glenn Cunningham, Bill Terry, Larry McPhail and like sport personalities.

IT'S DADDY'S TURN

LUCIA MALLORY

One afternoon, just before time to close the library, I was startled to hear a little girl's laugh ring out in the quiet room. As I turned gravely in the direction of the sound, Harriet Bachellor clapped her hands over her mouth and smiled apologetically at me. She was sitting at the reading table with her father.

A few minutes later the two came to my desk to check out some books. "I'm sorry we made such a disturbance, Miss Mallory," the father said. "We were having such a good time that we forgot where we were!"

"I won't forget again," Harriet promised. "We found some funny books that Daddy read when he was a little boy."

"How is your mother, Harriet?" I asked.

"Mother's very well, Miss Mallory. She went down to the park this afternoon to play tennis with Dick. It was Daddy's turn to come to the library."

"Daddy's turn—" Harriet's words stayed with me long after the little girl and her father had left the room.

Her mother explained their plan to me when I met her at a club meeting a few evenings later.

"I've missed seeing you at the library lately," I had remarked.

"The children's room is always fascinating to me," Mrs. Bachellor answered, "but I'm giving Harriet's father a chance to become acquainted with his daughter."

Away From Home

"My husband's work takes him away from home a great deal," she went on in answer to my puzzled expression. "When Dick and Harriet were babies he always had a romp with them the minute he came home, and he still plays with little Ned, but for a long time he had no part in the older children's interests. He was almost a stranger to them!"

"One rainy afternoon when I was too busy to take Harriet to the library under protest. You know we live too far away for her to go alone."

"He seems to like to come now," I interposed.

"Oh yes, he and Harriet are great library pals and the experience has given him a new slant on her character. He's finding out that girls like stories of courage and adventure as well as boys."

"Reading together has led to other contacts, too. Harriet skips in to tell her father all about her school affairs now, just as she tells me."

"Out of that first visit to the library have come Richard's companionship with his little girl and my chance to do something I've been longing to do for months—play tennis with my son!"

Goes At Game

"It had been so long since I'd had a tennis racket in my hand that I thought I'd forgotten all the tennis I ever knew, but Dick has cured me of that feeling. He goes at the game so hard that I have to show him that those trophy cups and medals I've been treasuring all these years didn't come to me by chance!"

"When you helped your husband to become better acquainted with his daughter, you gave yourself an opportunity to chum with your son," I said, finishing the story for her.

"Yes," the radiant mother answered, "but you're giving me more credit than I deserve, Miss Mallory. The whole situation just sort of worked out well for us!"

Many family situations would work out better if every mother were as wise as Mrs. Bachellor was—letting Daddy take his turn at helping the children and sharing a few of their hours of work and play.

Time Out-- For Thought

Nietzsche, a German philosopher, is credited with advising man to live dangerously if he is to know life. Dangerous living means conducting oneself in such a manner that he or she is constantly on the verge of violating some natural law of right living. This border state of living takes its toll in later life in either deformity, insanity, or invalidism. No satiating pleasure is worth the payment of such a price. It is a fact, however, that many moderns have adopted a philosophy similar to Nietzsche's, who, incidentally, died insane. When nature demands her toll and they suffer incurable diseases and painful maladies, then suddenly they seek a miraculous cure by the very laws of nature they defied. Obviously this cannot be accomplished and they are obliged to pay their full penalty, which, though it is regrettable, is necessary to their understanding and growth.

Poor health may also result from heredity, ignorance and neglect. A chronic ailment that is hereditary cannot be cured as readily as desired. The petitioner must realize this. The Biblical proverb, "Visiting iniquity of the fathers upon the children even unto the third and fourth generation," still applies. On the other hand, no health authority or expert in therapeutics can re-

The Burden On Those Who Toil

By RAYMOND FITCAIRN

"Those who toil are the people who will have to foot the bill in the end, no matter on whom it first falls."

This statement is from a series of resolutions adopted some months ago by a group of home-owners who had met to urge balanced budgets and economy in government. Today it adds a significant note to the revised budget estimate recently published at Washington, prophesying a deficit of almost four billion dollars for the present fiscal year.

For, as the estimate shows, the federal government has not only been deep in the red since 1931, but threatens to go still deeper. And on those who toil—the worker who sees the costs of living rise while income sags, the housewife who tries to provide balanced meals on an unbalanced budget—must fall the burden of making up this deficit.

Obviously, as experience has proved, the method of easing their burden is not through greater debts and greater borrowings and greater rises in the cost of living which such programs entail.

Rather, as experience again has proved, it is through the encouragement of increased production, and the building up of confidence on which that production depends.

The epic of progress in America has been a history of confidence translated into action. It was on this framework, bolstered by the virtues of thrift, self-reliance and constructive labor, that we built the greatest, as well as the freest nation the world has ever known. It is on this framework that our progress will continue.

Plans to increase the burdens of deficit and debt now charged against America's workers do not point the clear path to future prosperity. They point, instead, the gloomy way to heavier loads on the shoulders of those who toil.

Wilmington Decorator Is Appointed For Convention

Announcement was made this morning by officials of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company of the appointment of H. H. White, Wilmington, as official decorator for the state firemen's convention to be held in Newark early in September.

In addition to decorating streets for the affair, Mr. White has been appointed to decorate homes and business establishments under a working agreement with the local fire company. He is the only official decorator to be named for the convention.

Mr. White was in charge of the decorations in Wilmington for the recent tercentenary celebration and comes to Newark with wide experience in the field.
